Dear Colleen,
We are pleased to know that Mennonite Church USA has received a grant to digitize the print files of Gospel Herald and The Mennonite.

You have our full permission to digitize all issues of The Mennonite and make them available for free, with full-text access.

Best wishes in this important endeavor.

Sincerely,

Extracts from a Letter

By James Liu, Native Mission Worker in China Field

This letter was written at Tungming and is dated Nov. 18.—"The Pannabeckers and Voths are at Kikungshan. Only Miss Fast is still at Tamingfu. Pray for her! For, almost everyday the Japanese airplanes come to Kaichow. Kaichow was bombed only once and Tamingfu several times. Many people were killed and many houses were destroyed. It was terrible! Fortunately, we church people and our houses did not get hurt. Praise the Lord! In case the war comes to the Yellow River, we have to move still southward. We don't know where we shall go. We believe God will lead us in His way. Pray for us, please! Many of our school boys and girls cannot go home, because their homes are north of Tamingfu. They stay with us, now. Their homes were destroyed by Japanese soldiers, so they are now homeless. Now, we are all refugees. Most of the students have spent all the money they had. And, of course, we cannot help them much. So they are very hard up to make a living. The territory south of the Yellow River is full of refugees. They are in great need. Many, many children cannot find their parents, so they become beggars. So help from any friend in America will be greatly appreciated. We don't know, how long the war will last, but we hope it will stop soon, so that we can go back to Kaichow. The war began July 7. All the places north of the Yellow River are in the war zone. We don't know how many people have been killed and how many homes were destroyed. Terrible."

THE CHRISTIAN'S WAY AT NEW YEAR

The old year is dead, the new year is born. Humbly, fearfully we sink on our knees, and slowly, in answer, comes back something of the old faith of our childhood, and we rejoice that we are granted one more New Year's day on which to begin again—not in our childish way, with utter disregard of the past, but trustingly, patiently, knowing that we must ever carry with us the past, and rejoicing that, with God's help, we may make the future better because of the past. Then, as we rise from our knees, we look bravely forward to the veiled figure that stands at our threshold. We know nothing of what it brings, we know only that is God's NEW YEAR. May He bless it to us all!—Golden Rule.

EDITORIALS

THE LORD SHALL PRESERVE THY GOING OUT AND THY COMING IN.—To our heathen ancestors the nights near the turn of the year brought gloomy, uncanny feelings. For they believed that there occurred at that time an illboding crack in the world, through which the forces of evil from the lower regions found entry to this earth, to carry on their unholy performance and to damn the future of unwary mortals. How unfortunate are we as Christions! For we know, Our times are in God's hands. It is said that the Jews when they made their pilgrimages to Jerusalem, for their annual festivals, they would, just as soon as they caught sight of the Holy City, begin to chant that wonderful one hundred twenty-first psalm, I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh help, etc. and keep on singing it until they entered the city. How fitting it would be for us Christians, in particular for the readers of THE MENNONITE, to learn this wonderful psalm, if we do not already know it, and prayerfully repeat it on the morning of each of the 365 days in this new year, before we go to our daily tasks!

A STRANGER AND A SOJOURNER.—I am a stranger and a sojourner, as all my fathers were. Ps. 39:13. The church bells are ringing. Another year, once young and fresh, has passed on. The flowers have faded, the trees have shed their leaves, the work is finished, and the time of grace in the year nineteen hundred thirty-seven is gone forever. What is left? Only what has been gathered and garnered for eternity. We have moved one step nearer to the goal of our life. Have we, at the same time, grown closer to our Saviour? Does the heavenly portal appear clearer and brighter before our eyes? Can we joyfully say or sing, "Nearer my God to Thee?" Pilgrims have their longed-for destination. Citizens are at home. The followers of Christ have both: the pilgrimage on this strange earth, so that they might become uprooted here, and the certificate of citizenship in the world above. We are on a pilgrimage to the heavenly home and rejoice in the expectation of the New Year above, where there will be no time, no strife, no sorrow, no separation. Looking backward we say: O Lord, forgive us! Looking forward, however: O Lord, help us succeed!—Translated from the German by the editor.

THE FAITHFUL SEVEN THOUSAND.—Even though we know that God is still very much alive, we Christians, perhaps even the best among us, sometimes get discouraged, when all seems to go wrong in this world, and He seems to be silent to all the wickedness that is being perpetrated. Nineteen hundred years ago the angelic chorus heralded peace on earth, but, alas, that peace appears to be farther away than ever. Wars, the worst imaginable, are raging and the nations are making all possible preparation to get at each others throats for a last death grip. So, when we vision what the world might be at this time and what it actually is, there comes over us a feeling akin to that experienced by the prophet Elijah, when he complained to God, The children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets; and I, I only, am left. But God had to tell him, Yet, I have left me seven thousand in Israel, the knees of all of whom have not yet bowed before Baal. I Kings 19:14-18. So, here, too, while America is steeped in sin and has many very wicked spots, we must not dispair, for there are evidences all about us that God has his seven thousand, yes, even many times seven thousand here, whom he may yet use to do great things, not only for our land but for the world. The movement among the Christian churches for a return to God and Christ is a step in the right direction, for as we draw nigh unto God he will draw nearer to us. May we all pray that the movement continue, with increased fervor and intensity. The Lord heareth the prayer of the righteous. Ps. 15:29. The effectual fervent prayer of the righteous availeth much. Jas. 5:16.

THE WATCHMAN-EXAMINER makes the following comment on the Breakdown of Treaties and The Outlook of Peace among nations: Such collective security can have only one foundation. That foundation is now a missing factor. It is the fact of righteousness. It includes the inviolable sanctity of treaties, the protected security of small nations and racial minorities, religious freedom, an international parliament of all participants, the settling of differences by judicial decision, and force that is limited but adequate to sustain the judicial structure. The spinal column, however, must be righteousness. Is there ethical force enough left in the nations to bring this about? If so, we may hope for peace. If not, then the world is moving on to Armageddon.

— PRAYER—Prayer, with our Lord, was a refuge from the storm; almost every word He uttered during that last tremendous scene was prayer; prayer the most earnest, the most urgent, repeated, continued, proceednig from the recesses of the soul, private, solitary; prayer for deliverance, prayer for strength; above everything prayer for resignation. — William Paley.

Call to Thanksgiving and Prayer

For China Missions by S. F. Pannabecker

Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things which thou knowest not. Jer. 33:3.

DID YOU KNOW?

That there were nearly 1000 inquirers who attended instruction classes during the spring of 1937.

That 160 of these inquirers were baptized last spring.

That we have 15 churches besides a number of preaching places.

That we have nearly 1500 baptized Christians.

That we have 130 workers giving full time to the spread of His message through evangelistic, educational or medical work.

That the hospital had over 400 inpatients in the last nine months.

That there are 2,230,000 people in our China field.

That last summer there were 35 Daily Vacation Bible Schools held, reaching approximately 1000 children.

Let us praise God for this!

PRAY

For the 800 inquirers who were not baptized.

For the 160 new "babes in Christ".

For the 15 Churches which are still weak and struggling.

For the nearly 1500 baptized Christians.

For the Chinese leaders that they might be courageous and calm in the face of anticipated persecution.

For the hundreds of children brought into touch with Christ through the Sunday Schools, Daily Vacation Bible School, Tent staff, etc.

For the schools; Bible School, Junior Middle School, School of Nursing and nine primary schools.

For the hospital.

For the eight missionaries and the children now on the field.

For the four missionaries temporarily detained in America.

For China, stricken by floods, earthquake and war, all in the same summer. (Nov. 1937)

Dear Friends in America:

I greet you with Isaiah 12:2-5. I am writing a short description of the warm welcome the Janjgir folks gave to the missionaries who arrived here on November 13. The entrance of the Compound was beautifully decorated with banana leaves, paper flags and chains, and on high was hung the word "WELCOME". Before sunset all the Christians, boys and girls stood on either side of the road to greet the missionaries. Candles were lit on the sides of the road and on Mrs. P. W. Penner's verandah. Rev. P. W. Penner brought them in his car, and as they entered the Compound the congregation marched along side of the car singing "Ah Man aur Munk aur Hath" (Now Thank We All Our God).

A short program then followed consisting of welcome songs and speeches by the Janjgir Church. Then the Bible students illustrated St. Paul's imprisonment and the Christian church at Colosse. Some fireworks were shown and then we thanked together our precious Lord for bringing the missionaries safely back to us again. After that big and little shook hands with them.

The next day, Sunday, Rev. Unruh preached a very impressive sermon on "The Christian being a new creation in Christ". Rev. P. W. Penner then blessed a child and four people were baptized. They had come four miles that morning to be baptized. The choir under Miss Nellie Penner's direction rendered a beautiful song based on John 14, in four parts.

We were all very happy that these four persons could receive baptism. In the districts the Caste System is a great hindrance in the way of inquirers. If any body is baptized, his relatives, high estate Hindus, his Landlord boycott him and try to give him lots of trouble. I think it is a little difficult to understand this in America, because there is no caste system there, but in Chattigareh it is a very difficult problem. But thank our Almighty God that the fields are ripe and so there is a great imperative need for more workers. Whenever we go to preach the people welcome us to hear the Gospel message and in some places they express their desire to become Christians, but they are afraid on account of Caste persecutions. I believe soon a mass movement will break out among the Satnamies and other lower caste people. The field is very extensive but the labourers are very few, who is going to harvest the crop and teach and look after the converts? Please, labourers are needed and fields require labourers. Please pray for us.

We feel in a new sense the love of God manifested in sending back old and new missionaries to this needy field. We express our heart-felt thanks to the Mission Board who was able to send them out where there is financial depression all around. May God bless our brethren and sisters in Christ in America who contribute to the mission work. We are also thankful for their fervent prayer on our behalf. Please put us daily before the glorious throne of our Mighty God.

Yours in the Master's Service,
M. R. Asna, Janjgir, C. P., India.

Next to a good memory for the good things in life the best blessing is a bad memory for the bad things.

HOME MISSIONS

From "Worker's Exchange" of the Pacific District

Greetings from the Portland Mission and its workers:

It has been two months since we started our work here . . . two months of blessing and of gratitude to God for such a privilege.

When we visited various churches of the conference we made a plea for earnest prayer in behalf of the Portland Mission, and the blessing that has attended the work at our little church assures us that our request was granted.

There is an unusual spirit of cooperation among the members. Everyone is doing his part in one way or another. Some are teachers in the Sunday School, some are musicians, others are contributing in a very real way to the improvment of the building. This willing service for the Lord naturally brings spiritual growth.

The attendance at the morning and evening services is greatly increased, and the little group which gathers for the mid-week Prayer and Bible Study Hour shows an interest that makes it a joy to teach them.

Enthusiastic as we are about the work, we must admit there are problems . . . problems peculiar to this place. A challenge is presented which we are accepting with the help of God and the belief that you will support us with your prayers.

Rev. and Mrs. Ed. Miller,
1113 N. E. Webster St., Portland, Oregon.

Home Mission Council Meeting

The Home Missions Council and the Council of Women for Home Missions, interdenominational organizations made up of secretaries and other representatives of the major national home mission and church extension boards, will hold joint annual meetings in New York, January 10, 11 and 12, at Marble Collegiate Church. Sunday, January 9, will be observed throughout Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens as Home Mission Day, the ministers in some of the churches arranging to have missionaries as speakers in their pulpits. Dr. E. Graham Wilson, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, is the chairman of the committee on Home Mission Sunday. The Greater New York Federation of Churches and the Church Federations of Brooklyn and Queens are cooperating with the Councils in the promotion of Home Mission Sunday.

A Young People's conference will be held in Riverside Church during the afternoon of Sunday, January 9, sponsored by the joint committee on young people's work of the two Councils.

Annual Budgets of Conference Boards

The Conference Constitution provides that the Executive Committee annually prepare and publish a budget. This matter has taken the form that each board does or does not set up its tentative budget and submits it to the conference secretary for publication. The following data has been submitted to date:

1. Foreign Mission: $85,000.00. We suppose it is not necessary to send you this itemized. This is about $1000.00 more than last year.—P. H. Richert, Board Secretary.

2. Home Missions:

Salaries for workers	$16,000.00
Board expenses	1,000.00
Building Fund	7,000.00
Loans to Churches	1,600.00
Repairs and Furnishings	800.00
Miscellaneous	600.00
Total	$27,000.00

These items vary a little every year, but what one item lacks is usually required by another. Building Fund needs much money, now, and loans are frequently requested. Board expenses may be less this year, also repairs, as buildings are all in good shape. —W. S. Gottshall, Board Secretary.

3. Publication: The chairman of this board, Bro. J. R. Thierstein, reports that this board desires $10,000.00 or more this year in order to realize a resolution of the conference to acquire our own printing plant. Two thousand dollars have been contributed now, and other larger gifts for this specific purpose will also be greatly appreciated. Solicitors are now about to visit the churches.

4. Education: The chairman of this board, Bro. Ed. G. Kaufman, reports a budget of $2,500.00. This board now supplies the manuscript for the English S. S. Quarterlies, among other things.

5. Relief: This board finds it difficult to set up any budget as catastrophies and needs cannot be known in advance. But all readers will know that every gift can find good use. This board is at present considering a suggestion that the churches be asked to contribute on an average of $1.00 per member to aid Canadian Mennonite invalids, disabled and needy, and to aid in liquidating transportation debts.

All kinds of requests for support, apart from regular conference activities, are being urged upon our members and churches. But let us loyally see to it that these do not detract from and cripple our own work which the Conference has officially endorsed and undertaken.

C. E. Krehbiel, Conference Secretary.

A Layman's Thought on Preaching

There is a difference between a great preacher and a successful preacher. There was once a good man of marked ability who had a productive ministry and built up a strong church. A discourse he preached one day on a matter of public interest attracted wide attention. Some praised, some criticised. He announced that he would carry on the discussion. Crowds came. For many weeks there was standing room only. But all this time members of the church were dropping out. Fathers and mothers of families found no atmosphere of worship, no spiritual food for daily life, no Gospel. People who came, tired with the cares of the world, got no nourishment for the soul. In short, as the greatness of the greacher began, his success began to dwindle. The sermon is the only systematic means whereby a minister can instruct his people in the length and breadth of the truth of God. The teaching function of the sermon is too often forgotten. People are densely ignorant concerning religious subjects which are among the most familiar possessions of even an ordinarily well-trained minister. Too often the minister begins beyond the place where even the average of his audience can pick up the thread. The layman does not want secular sermons, least of all "peptalks", but spiritual sermons on the Bible and about Christ in terms that he can grasp. In short, he wants greater authority in the pulpit, Scriptural authority, the "Thus saith the Lord"; and he wants Christianity made harder for the listener. The man in the pew of the average church gets off far too easily. He sometimes feels the preacher is afraid of him, afraid he will be offended, will not come back. Let the man of God who stands for God fear no such thing.—The Presbyterian.

A Word of Appreciation and A Plea

from the Editor

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and gratitude to our correspondents for the help and encouragement they have been to us in reporting, how the work of the Lord has been progressing in their church. And we herewith extend our URGENT PLEA to every church, pastor, church board, etc. to be sure to elect or appoint some person as reporter to THE MENNONITE for the year 1938 and to report that person's full address, with name of church, to us as early as possible. We wish to send these correspondents stamped envelopes and cards for their use. Address the editor: J. R. Thierstein (or THE MENNONITE) Bethel College, Kansas.

—Among the increasing number of music loving Mennonite communities is Mountain Lake, Minn. Their Community Chorus gave a highly appreciated Christmas concert, listened to by a capacity audience, and the city schools gave an equally well attended Christmas program.

Sermon Sketch

THE MODERN PREACHER

Outline of a Sermon by J. E. Hartzler

Two things are killing more preachers than anything else, namely (1) lack of study, and (2) pious loafing. Each one of these alone will kill a man beyond redemption as a preacher. Paul, in his advice to his disciples, recognized this fact (II Tim. 2:15).

ESSENTIAL QUALITIES

1. He Must Be a Man of God. Isa. 6:1-8. The modern preacher, like the prophet of old, must have the triple vision of God, sin and grace, and this in turn implies:

(1) Spiritual mindedness. I do not mean that one must be a monk or an ascetic. To be spiritually minded means the ability to give to the world "Things" as spiritual interpretation.

(2) Spiritual technique. The scientist has his technique in dealing with the physical world. The modern preacher must acquire a technique that will enable him to deal affectively and efficiently with the minds, the spirits and the souls of men.

(3) Interpretive insight. Houses, lands, wheels and wings are not the ultimate values or realities. Beyond this material world lies the world of spiritual and eternal values. And the preacher must properly relate these two worlds in the thinking of folks.

2. He Must Be a Student. I do not mean "midnight oil" necessarily. Midnight was made for sleep. I mean II Tim. 2:15. Anybody can today get more information in six months than Columbus could gather in a life time. To be a student implies:

(1) That one be in love with study. Just recently a preacher told me that he dislikes books and study, that he must simply drive himself to them. Frankly that man is on the wrong job. Books must be among a preacher's best friends.

(2) That one has a working knowledge of human nature. The preacher must deal with human nature constantly and, unless he is willing to spend time and energy on it, he would do better to choose another profession.

(3) That one be in love with personality. Creative personality is, after all, the ultimate goal of the Christian ministry. The restoration of the image of God in the soul is the aim of all preaching.

3. He Must Be a Man with a Message. The preacher must be a man who is shot through and through with the spirit and message of Christ. And this message must be:

(1) A product of vital relationship with God. The reading of books is a very good thing, but the vital message for the modern preacher can be had only through an experience with God.

(2) The result of an experimental acquaintance with Christ. In the early Church the world saw a difference when a man had been with Christ. The world has yet to see what God will do through a man who will give Jesus one hundred percent place in his life.

(3) One which is intellectually respectable. The truth in history, philosophy and science is never at variance with Gospel truth. If the preacher would have a hearing, he must present a message which is intellectually respectable.

4. He Must Be a Man of Good Judgement. Sincerity and honesty are sterling qualities, but they can not take the place of judgment. You require of your physician something more than sincerity and honesty, you require knowledge and good judgment. The preacher's good judgment must appear:

(1) In his conversation. It is a fine thing for a preacher to have and to exercise a keen sense of wit and humor. He must be able to reflect properly on the character or capabilities of others.

(2) In his remarks about others. When it once becomes known that the preacher engages in the common gossip of the community and is injudicious in his remarks about folks, generally, his influence is ended.

(3) In his pulpit utterances. Words in the pulpit must be well chosen. It is no place for irresponsible remarks, jesting, or professional joking. But a good story which illustrates a point is always in order.

(4) In his treatment of confidences. Many folks in the parish will have personal problems and troubles. That preacher is a traiter who fails to maintain strict confidence in such matters.

— PRAYER—Sometimes a fog will settle over a vessel's deck and yet leave the topmast clear. Then a sailor goes up aloft and gets a lookout which the helmsman on deck cannot get. So prayer sends the soul aloft; lifts it above the clouds in which our selfishness and egotism befog us, and gives us a chance to see which way to steer.—C. H. Spurgeon.

PREPARING FOR A LIFE OF SERVICE

Mark 1:1-13

Introduction

To get a correct view we should study the parallel passages in Matthew and Luke. John probably was in the wilderness about three years preparing for his work, before he began his actual ministry of our lesson. Likely he began at thirty, the age at which priests began their ministry.

Preparing the Way vs. 1-3

John was sent of God, a messenger to prepare the way for the coming of Jesus Christ, whom Mark announces as the Son of God. John's message to the people, is the beginning of the preaching of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. His coming, and the activity of John, the fore-runner, had been promised many years earlier by Isaiah and Malachi (vs. 2,3). Mark states here that he is relating the story of the Gospel of Jesus Christ from its beginning with John's preaching in the wilderness. John, in his humility, declared himself, only a voice, calling on people to prepare the way for Christ. We must prepare the way into our hearts before He can enter them. He will not go with us in the crooked paths.

John Preaching and Baptizing vs. 4-8

John did his great work away from the crowded centers of population (vs. 4,5). God called him and directly authorized him to baptize and "preach the baptism of repentance, for the remission of sins." Repentance and baptism were to result in the remission of sins committed. Repentance and forsaking sin are essential to remission, forgiveness of sins. "Believers were baptizing under John's ministry, not to save them from sin, but as a public declaration that they had turned from sin."—McLaughlin.

John's preaching was effective (v5) in drawing listeners and moving hearts to confession and making public acknowledgment in baptism. John, though doubtless conscious of his own God-given power, was humble and announced the coming of the much greater one than he (vs. 7,8). He revealed the spirit of the true messengers sent to prepare the way into peoples' hearts, for Christ. John baptized the people with water, by an act of his. Christ, he declares, shall by an act of His, baptize them with the Holy Ghost. Water baptism is but an emblem of that which we must receive from Christ. It leads to the baptism of the Holy Spirit.

Jesus' Baptism vs. 9-11

Jesus came to John to be baptized (v9), not in any sense whatever, as a candidate for the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins, but as He himself says (Matt. 3:15), "for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness". There was seen and heard a marvelous attestation to the fact that He is the Son of God. The dove, symbolizing the Holy Spirit, descended upon Him (v10). At the same time, God, in an audible voice, announced His delight in Jesus, His Son (v10). Here, by the voice and the descent of the Spirit, His mission was publicly accredited. In this incident, too, the trinity appears—the voice of the Father, the Son in person and the Holy Spirit in the form of the dove.

Jesus in the Wilderness vs. 12, 13

Matthew says, "Jesus was led of the Spirit into the wilderness". The same Spirit that descended upon Him, led Him into the wilderness, into retirement for free converse with God—further preparation for His work. Satan seized the opportunity to tempt Him with outward solicitations. Unusual evidences of God's favor are so frequently followed by unusual temptations. Meeting great temptations victoriously, makes strong Christians. Jesus, though tempted, was at peace, even with the wild beasts (v13). Satan did the tempting. Jesus did not walk into temptation. God's ministering angels were with Him.

Spiritual preparation is the first necessity for a life of highest service.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

January 16, 1938

BEGINNING A LIFE OF SERVICE

Mark 1:14-28

Introduction

Mark does not record the events in Jesus' ministry during the year elapsed between the time of our last lesson and this one. Jesus began His personal ministry, preaching that "the time is fulfilled", after John's imprisonment ended his preaching ministry. Jesus preached in the synagogues of Galilee for about a year before His baptism.

Jesus Preaching vs. 14, 15

Jesus came from Judea, where He had been preaching for a time, into Galilee, taking up the preaching message where John left off—"the Gospel of the kingdom of God". The time is now fulfilled for the coming of the long-time prophecied and promised Messiah (v15). The kingdom is now to be inaugurated.

Jesus began His gospel ministry, preaching repentance, the first step in becoming His follower. Repentance is primarily a change in mental attitude toward God, from disbelieving to believing and obeying Him. The mind, purpose, opinions changed, and in consequence a total change of actions and conduct results. There is real anguish of soul because of sin against God.

"Believe the gospel". Believing is an act of the will, voluntary, and entirely in our control. We can believe or refuse and are held responsible for our beliefs.

Jesus Calls four Disciples vs. 16-29

Simon and Andrew had met Jesus about a year before this (John 1:35-42). They had been baptized by John and returned to their fishing business. This was the second call—this time for training for their later life-work—"fishers of men.. (v17). Doubtless they had heard Jesus preaching and teaching. Their response was willing and prompt. James and John were partners of Peter (Luke 5:10) and disciples of John and had learned about Jesus. Complete faith led them to leave all and cast their lot unreservedly with Jesus. We may not let anything stand between us and our duty to Christ.

Jesus selected ordinary people, of ordinary ability and industry for His disciples—men who were industrious and at least of ordinary intelligence. These were to preach the kingdom of heaven.

Jesus' Teaching vs. 21-22

Jesus was chiefly a teacher and in His teaching came close to the people. The teaching ministry is much needed today. Jesus used the sabbath day opportunity in the synagogue. His teaching greatly impressed hearers (v22). It was so different. The scribes used the prophets as authority for their teaching. Jesus indicated that He had authority in himself for His teaching, declaring that He had come to fulfill what the prophets said.

Jesus' Healing vs. 23-28

Within the synagogue precincts, Jesus found an opportunity for a healing service, a man in dire need was there (vs 23,24). The evil spirit in him recognized Jesus and was much disturbed. Evil doers usually want to be left alone to follow their own way. The evil spirit was acting with and in the man. We are the medium through whom the spirit possessing us, acts. Jesus had come to destroy the works of the evil spirit and deliver the man from his power, and this evil spirit knew the mission of Jesus. Jesus rebuked the spirit (v25), even though he acknowledged His divinity. Christ disdains the insincere witness of those who are using this merely as a cloak to hide their real heart spirit. Jesus, by His right to command, released the man from the power of the evil one (v26). Satan however did not relinquish his power without a severe struggle. The grip of evil is broken with difficulty and only by the help of Christ.

Jesus came to destroy the works of the devil; to set man free from the power of evil.

— PRAYER—We kneel, how weak; we rise, how full of power!
Why, therefore, should we do ourselves this wrong,
Or others—that we are not always strong,
That we are ever overborne with care,
That we should ever weak or heartless be.
Anxious or troubled, when with us is prayer,
And joy and strength and courage are with Thee?
—Trench.

THE O.B.A. SPECIAL BIBLE COURSE

You have noticed in the December 14 issue of the Mennonite, pp. 8-9, that this Special Bible Course was to begin January3. But since the churches are observing Prayer Week the first week in January, ministers have suggested that we postpone the beginning of the course one week. It will, therefore, begin January 10, 1938, instead.

Rev. Sol. Mouttet and J. B. Frey will be the teachers the first week. Other teachers will be announced later.

Again we extend a cordial invitation to all who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity. Drop a card in the mail box and let Rev. August Schmidt, Meno, Oklahoma, know that you are planning to come. Pray that God may richly bless this undertaking and the O.B.A. Examine the program in the Mennonite.—J. B. Frey.

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH AND THE SOCIAL PROGRAM. The Christian Church has no right to lay down a social program—if she knows what true Christianity really is—because it is not her business to establish any kind of system. The Church's commission is to make disciples of Jesus by the word of God, and when she fulfills that commission she accomplishes more than she can do by any social program or any social and political enterprise. What the world needs is not first of all new systems, but new men and women. But this personalism must not be confounded with individualism. True faith is the very opposite of all individualism. For genuine faith means to be incorporated into the Body of Christ: a true disciple of Christ cannot possibly remain a private individual. The most personal kind of faith also involves the most universal responsibility.—Dr. Emil Bruner at the Oxford Conference.

If we had to write down everything we say before we say it, we should discover that much of it is not worth saying.

THE C.B.C. ROUND TABLE

December 10th a group of ministers and brethren from various congregations and branches assembled at Newton, Kansas, and decided to organize themselves into a CHRISTIAN BIBLE CONFERENCE ASSOCIATION.

The readers will, henceforth, have no difficulty in guessing that "C. B. C." stands for "Christian Bible Conferences", which are to be held annually in various centrally located communities.

To begin with we wish to inform all members of our various denominational branches and congregations that the Christian Bible Conference Association has been organized for the following purposes:

(1) To promote and to finance fundamental Christion Bible Conferences once a year in districts where our members live.

(2) To promote closer fellowship among Christians who seek to serve Christ more actively.

(3) To promote and to sponsor more spiritual life and activities in behalf of Christ within our churches.

(4) To assist with its activities the work of our ministers and church organizations.

Who is to become a member?

The C.B.C. Association is primarily a laymen's organization. Yet we look forward for the time when every one of our ministers will be an active member. This does not hinder us from urging first of all the laymen in our churches to join us for active work. We feel that we have many a brother who is aware of the fact that he owes the Lord a great debt, and that he can repay at least a fractional part of this debt by joining hands with brethren who have set out to become more active for

JESUS ONLY

For the above reasons we invite every Christian who happens to read these lines to communicate with us, and to write for more particulars about membership, aims and fields of activity of the C.B.C. Association. This invitation goes first of all to Christians of our own denominations, regardless of the denominational branch to which they may belong.

In order to avoid any misunderstanding we wish to announce here at least a few principles and aims of the C.B.C. Association:

The Promotion of Christian Bible Conferences

This is the chief aim of the organization. All of us know how helpful fundamentalist Bible Conferences can be for the spiritual life of our churches. Most everybody knows, also, what a blessing such universally known conferences as the "Keswick" conferences in England and here, or the Blankenburg Conferences in Germany, have been in the years since they were organized.

The conferences which are to be called by the C.B.C. Association will never deal with anything but fundamental Bible themes. At no time will any of these conferences concern itself with matters that belong before our established denominational church conferences or before individual church boards. Neither will the C.B.C. Association permit that any one of its members brings up for discussion any controversial doctrinal principle, such as have been accepted by one or the other denominational group. All that the C.B.C. Association is to accept for its conference programs is the discussion of the Word of God and its fundamental truths and teachings. Modernistic interpretations as well as promiscuous perversion of the Gospel into any sort of liberalistic Social Gospel will have no room at the C.B.C.

Why an Organization?

This is another question which we wish to clarify right now. We all know that conferences cost money. It is the expenses which have kept many of our churches from calling conferences of the proposed type in the past. Often enough, whenever the conferences were being held, the collections would come in small and slowly, an experience which has caused many a preacher to abstain from calling a conference a second time.

Another well known fact is that every church has a number of brethren and sisters who both long for such conferences and who would gladly contribute toward the finances safeguarding of same. If, now, such Christians organize themselves and join their resources, we will soon be able to have at least one Bible conference annually in every major district. Besides, we will be able to do much to bring more spiritual life and activities for the Lord into our churches. Just in what form such activities will have to express themselves only the future can reveal. This much is certain: it can never be activities which tend to trespass the limits set by the fundamental teachings of the Bible. Neither will it be activities which could, eventually, interfere with activities and prerogatives of our existing Conferences, churches and denominational organizations.

God willing, the first conference is to be held in Spring of 1938. Place and date will be announced at a later time. The C.B.C. Association will seek to invite outstanding men of God to serve on the programs of the conferences. Special lecture series for ministers and activities for our young people will be arranged in connection with the conferences.

In conclusion we wish to add that at the meeting in Newton, a C.B.C. Association committee of five brethren was appointed. They are Dr. J. V. Wiebe, M. D., Hillsboro, Kansas; H. H. Wiebe, B. E. Regier, Theo. Claassen and J. J. Kroeker, all of Newton and vicinity. This committee will enlarge itself by taking in other brethren from various districts. A regional committee is being formed at Berne, Indiana, and others will follow.

Lastly we wish to ask all those who care for the upbuilding and strengthening of the Church of Jesus Christ in our midst to remember this work and the committee in their prayers.

"But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us." II Cor. 4:7.

All inquiries about memberships and other details are to be addressed to the Christian Bible Conference Association, 305 West Fifth Street, Newton, Kansas. —J. J. Kroeker.

Stuffing the Cranium

The French call it "bourrage de cranes," literally, stuffing the cranium, which the soldiers in the trenches defined simply and eloquently as "mesonges," lies. The Americans call it propaganda which has been classically explained as "a longer way of spelling lies."

Never before has there been so much "stuffing of the cranium" and never before have people been so mistrustful of their news as today. Not that there are not plenty of simple souls who believe everything they read, or many fanatical partisans who accept everything as true if it agrees with their prejudices. Yet the fact remains that there is an extraordinary alertness and hesitation about all press reports and a disastrous loss of confidence by the press in general.

More than that. A systematic effort is being made in various countries to make widely known the propaganda work of the last war. The "Register and Tribune" of Des Moines, Iowa, recently honored itself and the entire press by publishing a series on World War propaganda. Other phases of news-juggling and falsification have been dealt with in a series of recent books, notably that of George Seldes on the "Freedom of the Press." And now that well-known French journal, "Crapouillot," has devoted an entire issue to propaganda, dealing with the World War period, the Ethiopian and Spanish wars, and similar matters.

The press, to be sure, works at such tremendous speed that errors are inevitable. But it is not honest and inadvertent mistakes with which we are dealing here. It is deliberate deception and gross fraud. In its more subtle phases this includes misinterpretation or complete suppression of vital news or relegation to an obscure spot on page 23. That is practiced every day in every country.

Frequently much bolder deception is resorted to. From the World War period there are many photographs which are deliberately falsified. In 1916, for instance, the Kaiser was depicted standing before a map and the picture was captioned: "The Kaiser is shown indicating the territories which he would add to his empire." In reality the picture was taken in 1914 while the Kaiser was examining the plans and maps of the new Niederfinow (?) Canal. Another photo, widely spread by use as a postcard, shows two horribly mutilated bodies surrounded by a curious and indignant crowd. The picture was said to represent the ravages committed by the German soldiery in Poland in 1915, but in reality it was a scene from the pogroms at Odessa in 1905. There are many such illustrations from various countries.

Unfortunately this deception is not dead and buried history. Everything is ready to repeat the "stuffing of the cranium," particularly in times of war. Last year, for instance, a new Handbook of Military Science was edited by Major General Franke of the German army which devotes entire sections to propaganda. Never has there been a more Machiavellian statement as to the need of deceiving the people. Even the most obvious untruthfulness is readily believed by the unsuspecting masses of the population," says this propaganda guide. But, it adds cautiously, "lies have short lives and their poisoned arrow may fall back on him who used it first."

"Stuffing the cranium," however, must not wait on war. It is far better if it "precedes military warfare and continues after the arms have been laid down." Moreover, if anyone harbors romantic ideas about secret spies and underground work, let him sit up and note this further statement: "To carry on propaganda . . . is, in the first place, the job of the Foreign Office. They must command the deepest phychological insight into the enemy and the neutral mind."

Among the purposes of propaganda this frank writer notes the following: "To disparage the enemy in the public opinion of the world; to incite the enemy people against their government; to convince the neutral powers of one's own love of peace and one's own righteousness, as well as of the breaking of peace and international law on the enemy's part; to strengthen one's own nation in their faith that they are fighting for a just cause." These goals cannot be achieved "without making use of the poets and thinkers and without exploiting to this end the national patrimony which has come down to them from the great national heroes in the realm of the spirit and mind."

There is one certain way of combating this propaganda and that is a determined war resistance. People who hate war will hardly be victims of the "bourrage de cranes."

ALTONA, MAN., CAN., DEC., 1937

Dear Readers of the Mennonite:

Nobody from here can be found in "Who's Who Among the Mennonites", and I am not at all sure that any of you care to know where, what and how Altona is. However one of the last cookies in our Cookie Jar, last summer, said: "Friendships are never established on a one-way road." So I reasoned that it might be my turn to say "Hello" to whoever may chance to think Altona-ward, occasionally.

I was much pleased to see the last issue of our paper that other readers of the "Mennonite" have missed the "cookies" also. To my understanding the "Mennonite" has gained greatly these last couple years, in integrity in every phase of its contents, and I am praying that it may continue to do so this coming new year.

Like some others, I had hoped and have expected that the first meeting of the General Conference in Canada would take place in Manitoba. In that case, those of you who would attend, could learn all you like to know about us. As it is, the thought came to me that possibly some of you might not mind planning your trip to the Conference at Saskatoon, Sask., next summer so that you can stop in this part of southern Manitoba for a day and night or longer. We would be glad to have you do so.

Looking at your map you will find Altona in the Red River Valley, eight miles north of our boundary line, and about 70 miles south of Winnipeg. More than 90 percent of its population of about 700 belong to either the Bergthal, Sommerfeld, Mennonite Brethren or Rudnerweide Church. Socially and economically we are quite cooperative-minded. Spiritually and mentally we are as flat as the prairie grainfields round about us, but I am afraid not as fertile. As congregations we are in the adolescent stage, and are expecting our older sister-churches "across the line" to give us a helping hand more than ever at this next General Conference.

So I am looking forward to that event as to something this is especially designed to keep our road of friendship warm, and to lead us all towards our common Master's fold.

With my heartiest good wishes to every one of you for the coming new year.—Helena H. Siemens.

Standards for the New Year

One of the basic principles of success in any undertaking is a clear, understandable, specific set of attainable goals. In Mennonite Churches everywhere, especially with reference to work in young people's organizations, this consciousness that we are working for something very definite, very specific, and very desirable is something which needs to be cultivated.

For instance, with reference to the spiritual lives of the individual members of your society: Do they keep the quiet hour daily, in some form or other? Especially the young married couples, do they receive any help in fusing their spiritual lives and habits? To what extent are your members present at the programs of your C. E.? Is the percentage encouraging or not? If not, why not? To what extent do your members become active members of the senior church, as evidenced by their actual attendance and participation? Do 80 per cent attend church services, say, three Sundays out of four regularly? Does your C. E. program committee have a definite plan for meetings, so many missionary programs in a year, and so on. Are your members active in winning new members for the church? Are they interested mainly in themselves, or do they go out of their way to give programs for less fortunate ones, shutins, etc. Do they give for missions and for educational work for future missionaries? Do they receive sufficient help in constructive, clean, wholesome recreational activities?

A lot of questions? Surely, but it is in the asking of questions, and in the answering of questions such as these that the work of a C. E. grows and becomes increasingly more effective in a church and in the lives of its members.

The formulation of these questions in a fine, workable and presentable chart has been done by a committee of the Eastern District Conference, of which John E. Fretz, 115 East 5th Street, Lansdale, Pennsylvania, is chairman. We have suggested to him that this chart, which was presented some time ago in these columns, be prepared in poster form, and made available at a nominal cost to all the churches in our conference. Why don't you write to him for copies of this chart? You should have more than one copy—Get a copy of this chart for each of your major committees.

For example, your committee which prepares the programs should know definitely the standards for instructional activities of your C. E. Your service committee should have a chart, and guide itself in standards of service for a C. E. group. Your Fellowship Committee should have one copy to guide itself definitely in its activities. In this way not only the committees but the work of the entire C. E. will be properly coordinated and integrated, and your group will join with other groups in a great crusade for the more effective working in Christ's Kingdom. Sooner or later the fine ideals which we always talk about must take on specific form and FUNCTION in the lives of individuals, in the work of the group, and the community in which we live. —B. B.

"Planning to Make Each Week Count"

Luke 6:27-31, 35-38

Young People's Topic for January 16, 1938

Meditation:

M., Jan. 10. Finding Spiritual Treasure. Matt. 6: 19-21
T., Jan. 11. Helping the Needy. James 1:27
W., Jan. 12. Planning Our Time. Eph. 5:16
T., Jan. 13. Planning Our Giving. I Cor. 16:1-3
F., Jan. 14. Planning to Win Souls. John 1:40-51
S., Jan. 15. Helping to Teach Others. II Tim. 2:15, 16

Suggested Hymns:

"One More Day's Work for Jesus"
"Rescue the Perishing"

Problems:

I. The Christian's Enemies:

Jesus commands us to love our enemies. But who are the Christian's enemies? Jesus mentions five classes of People who come under this classification. They are:

First, those that hate. According to John 15:25 hatred may sometimes be directed against an individual without cause. It was so directed against Christ. It is the world's natural attitude toward the Christian.

Second, those that curse. This refers to the use of vile language. Man even apply vile names to God. And even though it would sometimes seem easier to suffer physical violence than to be cursed, yet we may experience just that.

Third, those that abuse. Of course this refers to persecution but it also refers to any one who mistreats another in his daily life.

Fourth, those that smite. A blow on the cheek is not the only method of smiting. Men may be contemptuous without literally striking.

Fifth, those that wrongfully take things. This may come about through theft, robbery or even oppression. In Russia oppression has actually existed and probably still does, in that the Christians have been deprived of their property. But which is worse, literal, openhanded oppression or secret acquisition of wealth through underhanded business methods?

Thus we have listed a number of the Christian's enemies. Are we, even we who profess to be Christians, very sure that we do not participate in any of these activities which Christ assigns to the Christian's enemies? Let each one examine himself and make sure that he is not a Christian's enemy.

II. The Christian's Opportunities.

"Give to every man that asketh of Thee." If we have the necessary materials of physical life and see a neighbor in need, that is our opportunity to help. But some do not ask, they take, of you. In such a case we must "give the cloak also." That is our opportunity to make our adversary extremely conscious of what he is doing.

In this connection we have "The Golden Rule". This rule expresses the Christian's opportunity for setting the right example in conduct. We have opportunity to speak for Christ, but we also have opportunity to live what we preach, thus giving a practical demonstration of what we are. And it is not untrue that "what you do speaks so loudly that I can not hear what you say".

III. The Christian's Attitudes.

The noblest possible attitude is that of love. It is inclusive of all the others. The others are the outworking of love, so let us just briefly list them.

1. "Do good to them which hate you." In this case the treatment is the antedote. Hatred seeks to do harm, love seeks to do good.

2. "Bless them that curse you." In other words, speak words of kindness, in return for hard ones. Express a wish for the well-being of your adversary.

3. "Pray for them which despitefully use you." When we express that wish for the well-being of our adversary it must be a heartfelt wish, one so true that we can even pray for him.

4. "Lend" in order to help, regardless of what the prospects are of its being returned.

5. "Offer also the other cheek" and the fight will be over.

6. "Judge not . . . condemn not." Do not yield to wrong to be sure, but never condemn the man who does the wrong. Deal with him kindly and help him to see his wrong and thus lead him into the right way of life.

7. "Be merciful" and thereby portray the nature of our Heavenly Father, who is merciful.

8. "Forgive." Forgive and forget an injury done us. It is unchristian to bear a grudge and hope for retaliation.

9. "Give" of our substance as well as of our time, liberally and cheerfully.

These attitudes are impossible? Without the love of Christ they certainly are impossible. But in Christ we can do all things.

IV. The Christian's Rewards.

We are assured that there is a reward. A reward, not that we have earned even if our works will have been good. It is a great reward that will be fully realized only in Heaven. But even in this life there are rewards which we shall receive. They all come to us through the love of Christ. Among these rewards which we shall receive there are:

1. "We shall be the children of the Highest." Our deeds prove that we are God's children. It is, however, not our deeds that bring us these blessings, but rather the love of God toward us.

2. "We shall not be judged, nor condemned." We shall never be called into judgment for our wrong deeds. They were all judged in the person of Christ on the Cross. And now Christ "maketh intercession for us."

3. "We shall have forgiveness." Men shall forgive us, and so will God.

4. "We shall have returned to us far more than we gave." Maybe giving does look expensive. But we must sow wheat by the bushels if we want another crop. What we give we give to God and it is never wasted, and He can make our "little" great.

We can best make our lives count for God by deliberately planning to put them under His control.

We Need the Church

F., Jan. 21. Without It Man Becomes Degraded. Rom. 1:18-32
S., Jan. 22. To Hold Us True to Our Lord. I Peter 1:1-9

Suggested Hymns:

"The Church's One Foundation"
"One Holy Church of God Appears"

Problems:

It is not so much that we need the church, but, that we are the church because we are members of Christ's Body. It is a great privilege to be a part of it. Of course, by church we mean the great, universal church of Jesus Christ.

I. The Revelation of the Church.—The Old Testament has types, figures and foreshadowings of the church but there is no direct revelation of the coming of the church. The church has its beginning among men on the day of Pentecost. At that time the disciples preached and many were saved and added to the church, but even then the Christians remained as a sect of Judaism. The teachings that directly apply to the church, and its work today, are to be found in the church epistles.

II. The Range of the Church. Judaism was very narrow and exclusive. And it took a special revelation from God, to make Peter willing to go into the house of the Gentile, Cornelius. (Acts 10:15, 19, 20). But God wiped out these differences between Jew and Gentile peoples. Paul says, "That the Gentiles should be fellowheirs, and of the some Body, and partakers of His promise in Christ by the Gospel." Thus all believers, regardless of whether they are Jew or Gentile, are partakers of the same promises in Christ.

III. The Representation of the Church. God waited until Paul had been converted and to him, as His chosen instrument, He made known the truth concerning the church. Paul was God's chosen interpreter of the mystery concerning the church. But Paul understood its meaning and remained humble. And so it is with us. The greatness of God's grace, when properly received, will always humble us into the dust. Paul calls his ministry, the preaching of "the unsearchable riches of Christ". There are riches of grace and glory which the human mind can not fathom.

IV. The Resplendence of the Church. The church has several aspects in which the glory lies:

1. Its Universality: Paul's ministry was to make ALL men see the glorious plan of God. It is the glory of Christianity that all human differences fall away before it. It brings the message to all, and when there is faith in Christ, it unites all into one spiritual brotherhood.

2. Its Eternity: Men glory in things that have had a long existence, that have stood the test of time. The church existed in the mind of God from the beginning of the world. He then created only a material world, but He had planned a new, spiritual creation to be brought into existence by His Son Jesus Christ. So if it is a mark of distinction to belong to an order that has stood the test of time, certainly the Christian has that distinction in belonging to the church.

3. Its Manifestation: The church will be manifested in glory when Christ comes again (Col. 3:4), but even now, in its present existence, it is a clear manifestation to the Heavenly beings of the wisdom of God. They see the glory that awaits it in the end.

V. The Realization of the Church. The Church is founded upon Christ (I Cor. 3:11) and it is dependent upon Him. Christ is the governing head of the church. As a body depends upon the life in the head for its life, so the church depends upon Christ.

And so we as members of the church have access to Christ. We can draw nigh unto God, enter into His presence for fellowship and prayer. What a blessed privilege! What a wonderful creation is the church of Christ!

JUNIOR CORNER

Program Suggestions for January 23, 1938

GOD THE KNOWING ONE

"The eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding the evil and the good." Prov. 15:3.

Let this verse be before the group on blackboard or on poster. I have sometimes seen a wonderful verse of scripture put on the board in large, crude letters, letters that were hunch-backed and lame and falling. All such a verse says is: "I was done in a hurry. I wasn't given time nor thought nor love." How much more can a verse speak to the heart when it is put before us in the beauty due the things of God. If you, yourself, can not do this, some young person in the church will be glad to be the Junior "artist."

Opening Service of Worship

1. Call to quietness by prelude
2. In unison: "The Lord is in His holy temple"
3. Remain standing for the unison prayer, Ps. 19:14
4. Song in unison: "We praise Thee, O God, our Redeemer, Creator"
5. Scripture by a junior: Psalm 139:1-6
6. Sing in unison: "Dear Lord and Father of mankind", verses 1,2,4,5

Mission Minutes

Announcements

Study Period

1. Review of past weeks studies by lighting candles (see past issues) and introduction to theme of evening: Junior chairman
2. Bow heads in prayer singing one verse of "Wonderful Words of Life"
3. Repeat in unison verse of the month: Ps. 139:1,2
4. Learning from the Bible that God Knows All Things: Removing the top and bottom of a suitably sized box, coloring this red and covering two pieces of cardboard in black to replace bottom and top in such a way that the three sides protrude a Bible like book can be made. Into this put the following scripture verses. The chairman choses the first junior who steps to the front, out of this "Bible" he draws a verse, reads it and then choses another junior. Repeat this until all verses have been used. I. Sa. 2:3; I Sa. 16:17; Job 12:13; Job 28:10; Ps. 33:13; Prov. 15:11; Eze. 11:5; Matt. 6:8; Matt. 10:29,30; Heb. 4:14
5. Special music: "He Knows, My Father Knows"
6. God Knows Me: Talks by Juniors:
    a. God knows when I do right
    b. God knows when I sin. Acts 5:1-6
    c. God knows when I am sorry for my sin. Dan. 4:28-37
    d. God knows when I am in danger
    e. God knows when I am hungry
    f. God knows when I am weak and need help
    g. God knows when my heart is seeking Him
7. A story by leader: "God Knows"
8. Leader's prayer
9. Closing song: "I Need Thee Every Hour"

CORRESPONDENCE

BRUDERTHAL CHURCH, HILLSBORO, KS.

As we near the close of another year, the words of the Psalmist come to mind: "Bless the Lord, oh my soul, and forget not all his benefits." There have been many material as well as spiritual blessings for which to be thankful.

In later part of August we, as church, had a farewell for Elizabeth Goertz, who was to return to China. But on account of the war raging near the mission fields, the Mission Board thought it wise for her not to go. She is now in a hospital in Seattle, Wash., taking a post graduate course which will end Jan. 3, but anxiously waiting for the doors to open to China land, so that she may help where it is so badly needed.

Before Rev. John P. Sudermans left for their mission field in Arizona in the fall, the church arranged for services, morning and evening, led by Rev. Suderman, and also a common meal was partaken of in the church basement, where they could meet face to face with their many friends.—Rev. H. J. Kliewer from Newton gave us the Thanksgiving message, but due to bad roads, the church was not filled.

The grim reaper entered into our community this last year and has taken two of our dear mothers. Mrs. P. B. Funk died following a car accident. She was the mother of twelve children, four being at home, the husband and father having preceded her in death a number of years ago. On Dec. 16 Mrs. John W. Penner passed to her reward, at the Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas, after reaching the ripe age of 80 years.

The first week in January evangelistic meetings will be held in our church and in Johannestal alternately. Rev. S. M. Musselman of the sister church will lead the morning meetings and Prof. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College will lead the evening services.—Mrs. Jacob E. Rempel.

DEATHS

SUSANNA MOYER-FRETZ, widow of the late Abraham G. Fretz, died on October 29, 1937, aged 78 years, 10 months, and 6 days. The deceased was a daughter of Peter A. Moyer, for many years deacon of the Springfield congregation. Funeral was held on November 3, at Springfield church. Her pastor, A. M. Fretz, officiated.

MRS. EMMA H. LANDIS.—Emma H. Landis, daughter of Aaron and Sarah Hager Landis, was born February 24, 1857 in Haycock Township, Bucks County, Pennslyvania. On March 29, 1872, she was baptized upon her confession of faith in Jesus Christ and admitted into the Flatland Mennonite Church, where she retained her active membership until her end.

She was united in marriage to Daniel M. Landis on June 17, 1880, and for more than fifty years shared with him the tasks and joys of married life. This union was blest with two daughters, Mrs. Clarence E. Hunter, Montclair, N. J., Mrs. William H. Ort, Philadelphia, and a son, Harry Penrose, who died in infancy.

Mrs. Landis is survived by her two daughters, two grandchildren, Daniel Henry Ort and Mrs. Edwin M. Ross, both of Philadelphia, a sister, Mrs. Mary Fellman, and a brother, John H. Landis of Quakertown.

Her life and joy was in the work of the church. During the earlier years she and her husband were regular and faithful workers in the Flatland church. Later, when they moved to Philadelphia, she worked and worshipped in First Church. During the summers, while living in Perkasie Park, she lost few opportunities to attend worship somewhere.

After an illness of about five weeks, she was released from her suffering on the morning of December 9th. Age 80 years, 9 months and 15 days.—Text: John 16:33, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander.—Interment Trinity Lutheran Cemetery, Perkasie, Pa.

ELIZABETH PENNER, daughter of Wilhelm and Anna Ewert, was born August 4, 1857, near Thorn, West Prussia. There she attended school until fourteen and received a thorough elementary education. On May 17, 1871, she was baptized on her confession of faith by her father, Rev. Wilhelm Ewert. In the year 1874 she, together with her parents and the other children and friends, migrated to America and settled in Bruderthal, Marion county, Kansas. When this church was organized, she became a charter member and remained a faithful member in this fellowship to the end of her life. She was one of the persons privileged to be a participant both at the organization and at the fiftieth anniversary jubilee of the Bruderthal Church.

On February 18, 1878, she married John W. Penner. This union was blessed with nine children, four of whom have preceded her in death. By the grace of God the couple shared the blessings and adversities of married life for a period of nearly sixty years. The deceased was an ardent and devoted worker in the Sunday School, teaching a class for many years. Charitable activities and organizations had in her a warm friend, and she always had an encouraging word for the depressed and down-hearted.

Sister Penner had been seriously ill on several occasions, but she was always granted a return to health. During the last years of her life the heat of the summer seemed to intensify her suffering. But she bore it all uncomplainly, looking forward to the day of release, to be with her Lord. On Nov. 31, she was taken to the Bethel Hospital at Newton, where, in the morning of Dec. 16, she entered into heavenly rest.

She reached the age of 80 years, 4 months, 12 days. She is survived by her husband, 5 children, 27 grandchildren, 7 great grandchildren, 1 brother, 1 sister, and many relatives and friends to mourn her passing.

DR. H. A. IRONSIDE EVERY WEEK IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TIMES

One of the most sought-after Bible teachers in America, Dr. H. A. Ironside, pastor of Moody Church, Chicago, will write every week on the International Uniform Sunday School Lessons in The Sunday School Times (Philadelphia), beginning with the first lesson of January.

This greatly beloved and deservedly influential Bible teacher has had a remarkable preparation for his new "pulpit" in the TIMES, from which his teaching will now go every week into every state of the United States, every province of Canada, and more than one hundred foreign countries.

Harry Ironside was saved when he was a boy of fourteen; the next year he had become an officer in the Salvation Army and continued in that work for nearly six years. He resigned from the Army to take up independent evangelistic work and Bible teaching, and he has continued in this ever-widening ministry through the years since. When Dallas Theological Seminary was founded in 1924 by Dr. Lewis Sperry Chafer, Dr. Ironside became a non-resident faculty member and has continued as teacher of the English Bible, in addition to his large responsibilities elsewhere.

In 1930 he was called to be pastor of the great Moody Memorial Church at Chicago. The Church has a membership of nearly 4,000; he pereaches twice on Sundays to great congregations of over 3,000.

Out of Dr. Ironside's teaching ministry at Moody Church will come his matured lesson articles for The Sunday School Times. Every Friday night he teaches the Uniform Lessons to the teachers of his Sunday school; every Sunday morning he teaches the same lesson in the Pastor's Bible Class of men and woman.

Dr. Ironside came into fresh prominence recently when the American Tract Society announced the award to him of its prize of one thousand dollars for the best book on an essential evangelical doctrine. "Except Ye Repent" is the title of his prize-winning volume, reviewed in The Sunday School Times of August 14 as "simple, scholarly, yet convincingly spiritual."—Dr. Ironside is a man with a message from God, which he delivers in the power of God.

A CORRECTION

In the last number of THE MENNONITE, in making mention of the gift of Brother and Sister L. M. Ledig, Upland, Calif. for a printing plant, somehow the figure which was intended to be $1000.00 came out in the paper as $100.00. We are very sorry for this regretable error, and herewith repeat, the gift was $1000.

—The Worker's Exchange of the Pacific District gave the following needs as worthy of White Christmas gifts, or gifts in general: India-Birra flood damages, traveling expenses for missionaries, Canadian relief, street organ at Oraibi,Pacific District work, Portland Mission, Dallas pastor's salary, visitation and support of work at Deer Park and Newport, Wash.

—The Berne (Indiana) Witness on Oct. 22 brought an article under the caption, "Proposal to Move Mennonite Book Concern Studied." This was in connection with an offer of a store building and printshop at Newton, Kansas, which the Executive Committee of the General Conference was considering. The article briefly reviewed the history of the Concern and expressed regret that the Berne community might lose the store. While the editor has no authority to give out a definite statement, he feels that the dear people of Berne may be assured that, with their cooperation, ways can probably be found to leave the store there. For neither the Executive Committee nor the Board of Publication would willfully want to deprive the good people of that section of the splendid moral influence of a religious book-store in their midst.

—Tabor College, a Mennonite Institution, originally founded by a group of individuals, and then taken over by the Mennonite Brethren Conference, as a conference school, is to receive, annually, $10,000 from the conference constituency, which sum has been nicely forthcoming thus far. This year THE CHRISTIAN LEADER, a magazine for young people, reports that by December only about $1000.00 had come in. But, as previously, the amount will no doubt soon be realized. We mention this with the suggestion that our General Conference would do well to follow the example set by the M. B. Church and obligate itself for aid to its colleges in definite amounts each year.

—The Bluffton College Alumni on the East Coast held a meeting at the Grace Mennonite Church of Lansdale on Thanksgiving day. Sixty-eight alumni and former students, including President and Mrs. A. S. Rosenberger, and Professor Otto Holtkamp of Bluffton, took part in the gathering and entertainment, and appreciated the fine program that was given.

—Bethel College is making strong efforts to get the necessary cash for the erection of the first story of the Memorial Hall. Rev. P. H. Richert, long time director and also president of the school's directorate, is now making a tour of the churches soliciting ten dollar donations for the Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Kliewer Memorial Peace and Mission Chair, in return for which donors will get a copy of Dr. Kliewer's "Memoirs".

—Goshen College featured a Homecoming Banquet on November 25, which was representative of a Pilgrim Thanksgiving, with Professor Miller of Illinois State Normal University as Presiding Elder, Mr. William Brewster. Professor Samuel Yoder of Wheaton College, as Governor Bradford discussed "A True Relation of Things Remarkable in Goshen." Professor B. F. Hartzler, as Miles Standish sang, "Green Pastures", and Stanley Miller as Chief Massasoyte discussed "Arguments and Articles of Friendship." Marian Wisseman Gerber, as Tissuanta, sang "Morning." Mary Esch, as Squanto, discussed "Other Things of Import." President Yoder gave an impromptu talk after which everyone joined in singing the college song.—Weekly Review.

—The Sisters of the Bethel Deaconess Home and Hospital, Newton, Kansas, are giving the institution and the community a taste of a genuine Christmas and holiday atmosphere. On the lawn, in front of the Hospital, stands a large sphere of the earth, upon which the Christchild descends. Its head is brightly illuminated and its hands are extended in blessing the earth. The scene was suggested to Sister Frieda by a Christmas card from Germany. Hans Bartch, an artist drew the design, a Mr. Cecil McAllister executed it, and others effected the illumination on nearby trees and otherwise. The scene is beautiful to behold and very suggestive for serious meditation.

—Elder David Toews was brought to his home last week by Rev. Jacob Thiessen. His condition has improved to such an extent that the doctors could dismiss him. The state of his health is improving steadily, so that he can dictate letters to his secretary.—Der Bote, Dec. 15.—Rev. Toews had been in the city hospital at Saskatoon, Sask., for several weeks, a very sick man. Two rather dangerous operations were necessary. These with the aid of the many, many prayers that friends sent to the throne of God for the much needed patient's recovery, helped to bring it about that he is now getting well rapidly and can return to his arduous duties as chairman of the Canadian Colonization Board and other tasks. May God be praised for his help!

—More than 200 were in attendance at Berne, Ind., when the large choir, assisted by the Bluffton College orchestra, rendered the Messiah by Haendel. It was a thrilling scene, when the vast throng rose to their feet as the Hallelujah Chorus was sung. And it made us think of the wonderful time, when we shall be gathered there before Him whose birthday we honor, to join in the great Hallelujah and Amen choruses.—The Vine Press.

—One hundred-fifty voices, with orchestra and organ accompaniment sang Haendel's Messiah to an audience that overflowed the enlarged chapel at Bethel College, before Christmas.

—Salem Mennonite Church, Freeman, S. D.—From Weekly News Letter: How can we improve our meetings in the Church? There are many unused talents among us. How go about it to hitch them up? Various instruments are played quite well by many of our people. Duets, trios, quartets, men's groups, girl's groups and others could be used for the edification of all in the different types of services. We should have more musical numbers to the glory of Christ. For "worthy is the lamb that has been slain to receive power," etc., Rev. 5.—We have about 465 members and 150 children. There are so many talents and gifts among them that it takes a big bushel to hide them, as long as they are not fully used.

—First Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—Had a Mother and Daughter church banquet last night, Dec. 10, 177 present. High school boys served at tables. Mrs. Dr. S. K. Mosiman was the speaker.—What about your church paper? Have you paid your subscription? Twenty-six new subscribers were secured. This will surely be good news for the Board of Publication. The Busy Mothers class and others helped get subscriptions.

—First Mennonite Church, Reedley, Calif. gives evidence of being a very busy body. We pick the following from the program of Sunday, Dec. 19: German services at 9:00, Sunday school at 9:45, Worship at 11:00; Junior, Intermediate, and Adult C. E. at 7:00 p. m.; Evening Meditation: Presentation of "A Christmas Blessing, a Religious Drama for Christmas", followed by a brief meditation on the Meaning of the Lord's Supper, at 8 p. m. On Wednesday evening, prayer meeting; Thursday evening: Meeting of the Pioneers, of the Y. P. Choir, and of the Men's Chorus. Saturday at 10:00 a. m., Christmas Worship. Sunday at 10:45, Communion service.—Members of this congregation contributed $1,115.00 to Bethel College through the College Fellowship.

—Lorraine Avenue Menn. Church, Wichita, Kansas, Ed. D. Schmidt, the new pastor, reports an interesting Christmas program and the making of baskets for needy families. On Sunday before Christmas the pastor preached on the theme, "King of Kings and Lord of Lords."

—Brazil which recently experienced a coup d'etat, whereby Getulio Vargas became President-Dictator, more than any other country is trying to absorb all the people within her borders and to create a Brazilian population. Intermarriage is common and urged by the government. The 5,000,000 negroes in the country are growing whiter with each year; the 150,000 Japanese, 700,000 Germans, and 1,500,000 Italians are more and more becoming lost in the Brazilian population.

—Bethany Menn. Church, Freeman, S. D.—The series of meetings sponsored by the local Ministerial Association and F.T.C. ended Sunday evening, Dec. 19. Dr. Herrstrom of Akron, Ohio, delivered his series of prophetic lectures before record crowds in the college auditorium. The attendance the last evening was about 1200. The speaker also spoke before the student body at chapel during the week.—Late report: Rev. Jacob A. Thieszen of the Bethesda Church near Marion is very ill in the hospital with a ruptured appendix.—Harold Gross.

—First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, is quietly, without noice and publicity, going about a large undertaking. Something for which they have long felt the necessity has become a possibility and will soon be a reality—a NEW CHURCH HOME.—Worker's Exchange.

—THE HERALD, Mennonite Church, Upland, Calif. It Does not seem possible that another year has passed and New Year is here again! Many grown-ups feel that way. As for the children, it seems a very long time from one Christmas to the next. The older we get, the more rapidly time appears to fly. The seasons come and go—summer and winter, seedtime and harvest, youth and old age. Is it all vanity, an endless, purposeless round? Or is it all interesting and full of meaning, each season speaking of God's loving-kindness and each year adding to our spiritual stature. The answer depends on whether life is lived selfishly, without God, or lived with God and the purpose to know and to do His will.—Lester Hostetler.

—Second Menn. Church, Beatrice, Nebr.—The Christmas season was a blessed and very busy one. The organizations of the church did not forget the poor and needy. About thirty baskets and boxes were distributed. The Intermediate C̄. E. enjoyed distributing gifts to children of their own age. Members of the C. E. Mission Com. and S. S. Home Department again arranged for Christmas services in the County jail and the County poor farm. The inmates received small treats and Christian reading matter. The culmination of all these festal gatherings was the S. S. children's program Sunday evening, Dec. 26. Very faithful work is done by our S. S. officers and teachers.

—One of the churches in the Eastern Conference proposes to its members the following plan for giving, using $5.00 as a basis: $1.50 for local church; $1.20 for missions; $1.00 for Christian education (S. S., colleges, etc.); $.60 for conference work (Gen. Dist.); for charities (Red Cross, Chest.) $.40; for relief $.20; for special causes $.10.—This is an excellent division, mainly for the reason that these good people are planning to spend $3.50 for the good of NEIGHBORS in need, whom we are to love as ourselves, and only $1.50 on themselves. We had thought that a fifty-fifty division was pretty good, but this is so much better, and this church may be assured of God's blessings.—Editor.

Of Whom The World Was Not Worthy

Hebrews 11:38

God's greatest heroes are to men unknown,
They move as strangers on the earth, among,
And die by poet and by bard unsung,
Then go to heaven for a victor's crown.
No storied urn marks where their bodies lie,
No tow'ring obelisk preserves their fame;
They kept the faith, upheld God's holy name,
Then unto earth breathed out their last goodbye.
These heroes, now, above an arching blue,
Rank high among God's noblest and His best:
They fought their fight as men of matchless worth,
And but await in heaven's dazzling hue,
The moment when their names shall be confessed,
That they may reign with Christ on earth.

—Gems of Gold.

God give us heroes, faithful, true,
Who never serve for revenue,
Who stand prepared to do, or die,
Who never stop to question, "Why?"
Who gladly pay the fullest price,
And give their lives a sacrifice;
Whose faith surmounts each trying test,
Who always do their very best.

—Gems of Gold.

All is on His altar laid,
With no reservations made—All-in-all;
Gladly count I all but loss,
Gladly reckon it but dross,
Gladly take I up His cross—at his call.

THE CHURCH PAPER HELPING A PASTOR.—"From the midwest there comes to hand the order of a successful minister, requesting that again we send The Presbyterian to each member of his session for the year 1938, and advises that it is the Christmas gift of the pastor. We note from The Minutes that this church received over 300 on confession of faith in 1936-37, and that the membership is over 3300. Other pastors would find church life stimulated by the presence of The Presbyterian in the homes of their key families. Our congratulations to our friend and to his great church."—The Presbyterian.

Brother Pastor and Church Boards: Kindly read the above. Perhaps THE MENNONITE or DER BUNDESBOTE does not nearly measure up to The Presbyterian in value and stimulating influence. But, such as they are, don't you think you owe it to the families in your church to do what you possibly can to induce them to take and read one of our papers to get what stimulation they may provide?

BUDGETTED GIVING.—Most of our churches hold their annual business meeting around New Year's Day. Elections are held and budgets are set up, providing for the pastor's salary, for the needs of the Sunday school, for the upkeep of the church property, for a weekday or daily vacation Bible school, etc., items intended for the upbuilding of God's kingdom within the range of the local church, the church household, as we might call it. But this is only half of the budget to be set up, if we want to act true to Christ's teaching, to love our neighbor, "unsern Naechsten", as the German puts it, as ourselves, which means to be concerned about his welfare as well as we are about our own. But who is our neighbor, "Naechster?" Jesus answers this question very plainly in the parable of the good Samaritan. It is those in need, the wounded, the hungry, the thirsty, the sick, the naked, the imprisoned, the lost, for whom we are to provide in our mission, relief and charity work. And should the amount intended for these be any less than what we spend our own church household? No, if we truly mean to love our neighbor as ourselves, we should provide for this need a fifty-fifty basis, should we not? And if the church falls short in doing this, we must do it in a special personal or family budget. For the WORD says, Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of these least (those mentioned above), ye did it not unto me. It also behooves us to remember our church schools and publication work in budgeting our giving.

GOD-CONSCIENCE, BEFORE THE STATE.—In Old Testament times God claimed man as his own, for he had created him, sustained and protected him, and bound him to Himself by laws. In the New Testament dispensation Christ claims man as His possession, by virtue of the fact that he bought him with His vicarious atonement. But, alas, the world, even the Christian world, has been pitifully slow in accepting this truth, and has thus retarded man's quest for true and lasting happiness. The rise of democracy helped some to emancipate man from the stronghold of the State upon him. The principle that the State was for man and not man for the State was gaining ground. Now comes fascism, "purposing to remould not merely the form of human life, but its contents, man himself, his character, his faith" according to an Italian cyclopedia, as quoted in "The British Weekly". States, governments may do violence to man, his rights and the intent of His creator, and may contrive to enslave him in one way or another, but it is still true what "Religion in Life" says in the following statement, Since the valuation of every man as an image of God is a general Christian principle, every form of government has to be denied which disregards, by its very structure, this Christian valuation of man and treats him as a means for ends which are finally sub-personal, e. g. power, wealth, organization, etc. "Thou madest him (man) a little lower than the angels; thou crownest him with glory and honor, and didst set him over the works of thy hands." Heb. 2:7.

MAKING LIVES.—Recently the papers reported the passing of a man who had been a teacher by profession, and a staunch Christian at that. He had devoted a good many years to superintending town and rural schools. Having proven himself proficient in wisely handling boys and girls, he was called by the governor of his state to the superintendency of the State Orphans Home, a position requiring much grace, skill, and insight into human nature, and fraught with grave responsibilities. Our friend undertook the task, looking to God for help and guidance, and with the avowed purpose of trying his best to train the boys and girls in the art of Christian living. And success seemed to attend his efforts. However, as a result of a change in state administration this good man lost "his job," and temporarily went into the livery business. Asked by the writer, how he liked the change and how he was faring, he replied, "Business is good. I am making considerably more money than I did as a school man, but I would much prefer to return to the Home to make lives rather than money." This man was a true disciple of Christ. For, to what purpose did Christ come on earth than to make lives, regenerated lives. Would that all Christians, especially those that deal with children: parents, teachers, preachers, Sunday school workers, might follow suit, doing their best to make lives rather than money.

JONATHAN AND SUKHWARA

Dasharam (State of Ram) was born in Kirit. The mission opened a boys' school. Dasharam attended this in his early days. The school closed, but the Gospel stories created in Dasharam's mind a yearning to change his life. Some ten years passed. The Bible students camped there several weeks. Dasharam exchanged Hinduism for Christianity.

Dasharam's decision gained momentum; the parents and villagers became aware. The resentment began, attempts ensued to dislodge the lad's conception. These became vehement, delegations petitioned the missionaries to discourage the step of discarding Hinduism and caste.

When Dasharam knelt before a crowded church, receiving baptism, his father occupied the last pew, his piercing eyes burned with anger, sobbed loudly. His face in spite of his father's distress glowed with unspeakable joy, experiencing, "And in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth, saving he that receiveth it!" His name was changed to Jonathan.

He had barely left the church gate when his father and helpers dragged him through the dust, cursing, forced him to denounce what he had done. The subsequent persecutions crystallized his piety.

Jonathan passed the Birra school; married Sukhwara, a Christian farmer's daughter. Both entered and passed the three-year Bible School.

Jonathan's father died in the meanwhile; the mother moved to another distant village. Visiting her, she insisted on him staying several weeks, assuring him shelter and food. The yard was constantly thronged by villagers to hear his testimony.

The Kirit villagers seek opportunities to visit Jonathan's family, listening eagerly to the messages. Themselves testify, "We rejoice over his changed life!"

Friend, "When you passed into this blessed stage, did the love of Christ constrain irrevocably?"

A THIEF REFUNDS

Brother Wu was preaching in Ching Jien, when suddenly an inquirer arose and confessed that several years ago he and a friend, while returning from a certain market where they had sold some animals, stayed overnight in an inn, since they could not reach home that day any more. During the night he got up and emptied the contents of his friend's pocketbook into his own. No one had ever really suspected him of this deed. Now, however, conviction had come upon him. He confessed to the theft and was willing to meet the friend whom he had robbed, and ready to pay back the full amount, even including interest. Only that the officers of the church would intercede for him, so that restitution could be made without making a court case of it.

The friend was notified and asked to come to church. Brother Wu was sure to be present and assist in the matter, so that everything should lead to a just settlement. The friend arrived during the time that Brother Wu was preaching. After he had finished the sermon, he looked for the parties; but the deacon had already taken charge of the affair, had the men meet. When the inquirer handed his friend the whole amount plus interest, the latter accepted only the original amount refusing interest. Both went home happy, but the inquirer was most happy after confession and restitution.

THE UNSEEN PASSENGER

What burden of fears an uneasy conscience piles on its posessor! In St. Louis a policeman used nothing more deadly than a hard stare to stop an automobile thief. While directing traffic at a street intersection, officer Eldred Hinch, "for no particular reason," he said, glared hard at the driver of an approaching car. To his surprise the motorist pulled up alongside him and said, "Yep, I stole the car." At the station he said he came from Terre Haute. Seeing the keys in the ignition of a parked automobile there, he had suddenly decided "to take a ride." But he had a passenger with him on his ride that he had not reckoned on, his own uneasy conscience. If a policeman's eye can be so disconcerting, how will wrong-doers face the presence of the Lord, when "every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him" (Rev. 1:7)? What heart's ease in being able to say, with Paul, "Herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offense toward God, and toward men." (Acts 24:16)—The Evangelical-Messenger.

Well, well, lie it so, thou strongest thief of all; for thou hast stolen my will, and made it thine.—Tennyson.

Christian Education

A MENNONITE SEMINARY

Lester Hostetler, Member Board of Education

The need for a Mennonite Theological Seminary has long been felt. If our denomination is to have well trained ministers, teachers, missionaries, and other church leaders there should be a Mennonite School to provide for this training. To be sure there are plenty of other seminaries in the land, everyone of which would be glad to have some of our students. But they have no special interest in our church. They know our history only in a general way; they know very little of our church teachings or traditions, or polity. Furthermore, many of them are not sympathetic with the ideals of the small denominations. They believe that the best interests of the Kingdom of God would be served if the denominations would unite. They look upon small groups like the Mennonites as peculiar sects which are interesting but unimportant. They have no special interest in promoting their progress. In fact they frequently offer strong inducements to our best students to leave their own church and enter religious work in one of the larger denominations.

It has been felt that if all of our prospective candididates for church positions could be trained in an institution of our own it would tend to better acquaintance, better understanding, and greater unity. Under the present conditions, our young people attend many different schools scattered over wide sections of the country and representing still wider differences of view-point in theology and in church methods. So that we have brought into the stream of our life and thought, from the different schools, all manners of doctrines, many of them new and strange, some of them flatly opposed to our historic teachings and tradition — fundamentalism, modernism, millenialism, eternal security, for-ordination, militarism, socialism, facism, and some think, communism.

We are therefore not developing anything like a unified system of Mennonite faith and doctrine for our time. We are rather in the process of disintegration. The impact of the world upon our widely scattered communities under the leadership of men and women of all sorts of training is resulting in a diversifying rather than a solidifying process in our work. The best illustration of this is our impotency as a force for peace. We are one of the historic peace churches. But today we are not agreed on the question of world peace. We differ regarding its theological implications, the practical Bible teachings concerning it, and our duty as Christians in time of peace or war. In this respect both the Quaker and the Church of the Brethren surpass us. They have a more united testimony. It happens that they have their own training schools for their leaders. Is there a cause and effect relation here? I for one believe that there is.

What Makes The Home Happy?

There are many unhappy homes in our land. Here we shall note some of the causes of such unsatisfactory family life:

Misplaced authority. If the father is tyrannical or harsh, making every one bow to his will, whether he be right or wrong, or the mother takes the reins into her own hands and becomes the real head of the house, or one or all of the children rise up and rebel against the rules of home and take things into their own hands, the home is bound to be unhappy. In the normal home there is respect for law and order with the proper regard for parental authority. When for any reason this normal condition is disturbed unhappiness is the result. No home can be happy when any member gets out of his place and usurps authority over the rest.

Lack of self-control. Perhaps there is no more serious hindrance to home happiness than this. One parent or both allows the habit of "flying off the handle" to grow upon him till every mishap sets him on edge. They plead "nerves" when too often it is lack of self-command. They allow their feelings to rule them instead of mastering self. Every parent that displays a pettish, cranky, quarrelsome disposition before his children is as guilty of moral poisoning as he would be of physical poisoning if he fed the children mild doses of arsenic. Such parents teach their children how to be despotic, temperamental, restless, and unmanageable.

A lack of natural affection. No home can be truly happy without love. Natural affection is not always spontaneous, but there are few homes where it could not be cultivated. Natural affection grows on little thoughtful acts of kindness, gentle words, kind looks, helpful atmosphere, right motives, and such. Even a good case of natural affection can be killed by neglect and unkindness. It is not safe to wait long in starting the cultivation of natural affection.

A wrong estimate upon money. Money is an absolute necessity in every home. It is bound to fill a large place, for it is the medium by which all the comforts of life are obtained. But it is very easy to allow money a place in the home that it never should have. The man who makes his wife feel like a slave every time she has to approach him for money is dropping rocks into the machinery of home. Every wife who spends unwisely and unjustly of the hard-earned wages of her husband, is guilty of robbing the home of happiness. Children who are allowed to get and spend every penny they can without any thought of where or how it comes, are being permitted to build an obstruction to all future happiness. If people would have happy homes they must learn how to get and properly use money.

A lack of child-training. Children are home's greatest blessing, but that blessing can be turned to a curse if the children are not taught obedience. A child who is not trained to respect and obedience to the laws of home is robbed of its chief means of equilibrium, and is almost certain to upset family life sooner or later. There is nothing that will so completely rob a home of all peace and happiness as disobedient, rebellious children.

Disagreement on religion. Because every man and woman is human, the matter of religion is a critical one. What we believe or do not believe religiously goes deep into the heart, affecting the emotions. So a fruitful cause of unhappiness is friction in religion. Persons contemplating marriage should remember this. Where disagreement exists in a home, the least contention, coercion or "I am better than thou" attitude will stir up family strife. Agree if possible, and, if not, do not openly disagree.

There are other causes of unhappiness in home life, but practically every one has its origin in selfishness somewhere. A group of people can live together and be reasonably happy any time they will each give the others an equal chance with themselves. Our homes would be happier if we were always careful to be courteous one to another. Little words and acts of kindness cost nothing but a moment of thoughtfulness, and they reap a wonderful harvest of happiness and satisfaction. If the home is unhappy, right about face, and go in the direction of peace and hapiness. Do not wait till the others do, but lead the way.—Mable Hale, in Gospel Trumpet.

The O.B.A. Course at Meno, Okla.

Which starts January 10 and continues until Feb. 6, will be topped off by the Oklahoma Christian Worker's Bible Conference, beginning Feb. 7, closing on Sunday, Feb. 13. This Bible conference will be of great importance to preachers, and to what extent the church is fulfilling its mission.

We expect to have Dr. A. Warkentin of Bethel College as our main speaker, who will speak three times a day and once in the evening. The program will be as follows through the week:

FORENOON

8:45- 9:30—Rev. J. B. Frey
9:30- 9:45—Devotion
9:45-10:30—Dr. Warkentin
10:30-11:15—Rev. J. B. Frey
11:15-12:00—Dr. Warkentin

AFTERNOON and EVENING

1:45-2:30—Dr. Warkentin
2:30-3:15—J. B. Frey
7:30- —Dr. Warkentin

—J. W. Bergen

A Bible and a clean newspaper in every house, a good school in every district—all studied and appreciated as they merit—are the principal support of virtue, morality and civil liberty.—Franklin.

To Subscribers and Others

The 1938 Mennonite YEAR BOOK is now being delivered to those who are entitled to it. It is a 64 page book, 16 pages larger than usual, full of interesting information and with many illustrations pertaining to our conferences, also about other Mennonite bodies. Especially interesting are the articles concerning the next Conference session at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, with illustrations of the buildings, where the Conference will be held.

The book is given gratis to those who pay the regular subscription price, $1.50, with arrears, if any, a year ahead, that is, at least up to January 1939.

New subscribers that get THE MENNONITE at the special price of $1.00 for one year, may get the YEAR BOOK for 25 cents additional.

Almost anybody that sees this book will want to own a copy, for it is certainly worth the money. Singly they are 25 cents.

Send your advance subscription or order for the book to: MENNONITE BOOK CONCERN, BERNE, INDIANA.

Call for a Forum

A young minister in the Eastern Conference writes, "In an article in The Mennonite of Dec. 28, Brother John C. Kaufman, although expressing himself strongly along some lines relative to the pamphlet on "The Eternal Security Teaching, by John L. Stauffer, didn't definitely state whether he endorses the 'Once Saved Always Saved' doctrine or not. Maybe he would kindly point out just what position he holds relative to this matter. I believe it could be helpful to have a Forum discussion in the Mennonite on this subject for the purpose of enlightenment to the readers."

Note by the Editor: The Mennonite is open for expression on this subject, but only to articles that are concise and to the point. The space of a 16 page paper is too limited for long drawn out articles, the gist of which could often be given in half the space with more meaning.

DYING WORDS OF AN UNBELIEVER

If a man die, shall he live again?—Job 14:14. The dying words of the late Harriet Martineau were: "I have no reason to believe in another world. I have had enough of life in one, and can see no good reason why Harriet Mortineau should be perpetuated." What gloom and sadness! Now listen to St. Paul: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day." Who, in the light of such experiences, can refrain from exclaiming, "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his"?

MINISTERING TO PHYSICAL NEEDS

Mark 1:29-45

Busy Sabbath Day in Capernaum vs. 29-34

After the morning synagogue service of our last week's lesson, Jesus and the four disciples went to the hospitable home of Simon and Andrew, always open in welcome to Jesus. A Christian home is open to guests at all times. Paul urges that we practice Christian hospitality.

In this friendly home, Jesus found an opportunity to bestow his loving, healing touch. They tell him of the loved one, sick with a fever (v30). No prayer for her healing is uttered. Probably Jesus saw and heard the prayer in the solicitous words about the sick one. Perhaps, too, they felt that the mere mention of her illness was sufficient. If we have the right sort of faith, we will find peace and comfort in telling Him about our troubles. Jesus understood (v31). He came, with tender, loving hand he raised her up, by His supernatural power He healed her, instantly, completely. The touch and power of Christ can and will heal the sin-sick soul.

Many more were brought to Him for bodily and soul healing (vs 32-34) as His fame spread. No ailment or affliction was beyond His power to heal. The ills and afflictions of people were of real concern to Him. He was and is no respector of persons. He heals all who come in sincerity.

Jesus Praying vs. 35-37

Jesus, the Son of God, found it needful to go alone for prayer (v35). He who had shown his power over demons and disease, He who amazed the entire city—went early in the morning and prayed alone with the Father. How much greater must be our need for prayer. Prayer is God's way of bringing us into intimate fellowship with Him. Many sought Him, mostly for physical healing, probably (v37), while He was praying. People usually are much more concerned about physical than about spiritual healing.

Ministering in Galilee vs. 38-45

Jesus' mission primarily was to preach and teach, rather than to heal the sick (v38). He saw a golden opportunity for preaching—healing souls—in the towns throughout all Galilee (v39). Jesus sought frequently to seek those to whom He could preach the gospel of the kingdom. The sick, the afflicted came to Him—the gospel had to be taken to them. It is even so today. He went about among the people, many followed Him.

A leper came to Him (v40), his heart filled with faith in Jesus' power to cleanse him. Oh, that all believers had such abundant faith. Jesus moved with compassion for those unclean through the leprosy of sin. He alone can cure it.

Jesus, Creator with God of all things, has power over all disease, physical, mental and spiritual. His healings were instant, complete, permanent—perfect cures. So He can cure perfectly the sin-sick soul. They were works of mercy, love, grace.

Jesus touched the leper. He is willing to touch any sinner no matter how miserable.

The gift of salvation, cleansing from sin, ought to bring a joyous message (v45) from the lips of every one who experiences it.

No obstacle can be great enough to keep a needy one away from the healing Savior.

Sermon Sketch

A SERMON TO SEATS

Introduction—Tonight I wish to speak to the seats. We have special days set apart for old people, children, mothers, colleges, missionaries, etc., but none for the seats. I shall divide my talk into two parts.—Things praiseworthy and things blameworthy.

1. Praiseworthy Things (some things which cannot be said of all men). You are always present. No matter what the weather is. It is never too cold, warm, wet, or dry for you. No matter what is going on in the other churches you are always here. I can depend on you. You do not attend the theater, do not dance or play cards, do not go to Sunday baseball, or Sunday picnics, nor even go visiting.

You show by your presence that you are always on the side of righteousness and truth. You never miss preaching, prayer meeting, Sunday school, or the missionary meetings.

Your deportment is good. You never disturb the service by coming in late. You are always on time, especially you empty ones. We did not think of giving you a coat of oil last spring. Perhaps if you had a new dress you would come late so all could see it. You never look around when anyone comes in late. You never whisper or read books or papers to let the preacher know that you are not interested in what he has to say. You never find fault with the preacher nor his sermon. You are a peaceable set, you never quarrel among yourselves. You never get mad and stay away from church because you don't like each other. You are quiet, loving seats. I commend you for it. You are established, firm, stable. You are not like the moon which changes every quarter. You are not chasing after something new all the time. You are loyal. I can depend on you. Nevertheless I have some things against you.

2. Blameworthy Things. Some of you full seats are as guilty as the empty ones. The service is no help to you. The preacher's efforts are all a failure as far as you are concerned. You are no better now than you were a year ago. You have no feeling. You are not moved by anything the preacher says. You act like you listen but you don't. The message only goes to the surface. You are no help to the preacher in his work. You never invite anyone to church, visit the sick, nor speak to souls. When I put on a Sunday school rally, you never get stirred but sit and look like you wondered what it was all about.

You never pray. You are always at prayer meeting but you never take part. You never work around the altar and try to help souls get saved.

You never give anything. God loves a cheerful giver but you never give a cent. You are so tight you squeak. You would let the preacher starve. A preacher complained that his people would not support him except with wormy apples. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

You seats are not sociable. You never speak to each other nor to strangers. You never visit each other nor the new-comers. You are no inspiration to the preacher. You are so cold and stiff and formal that a preacher may study and be filled with the Spirit and preach with power but you would cool off the furnace of the three Hebrew children. You never say "Amen." You never get blest. You are dead. Your preacher may not be a spiritualist and believe in talking to the dead but he has a lot of it to do.

You empty seats do not help your pastor fill you. Rather you discourage those who do come. I heard some say they came to church but saw so many empty seats that they went out and would not come back. Your emptiness says, "stay away." When people see so many of you empty seats here, they lose confidence in your preacher and some get the idea there should be a change.

Your message to the world is no good. You empty seats speak louder than unbelief that religion is a failure. The world, Satan, and all unbelievers know you are here and they rejoice. I wish I might stop your mouths and fill every seat and thus cause the Church of Christ to triumph.

Now in conclusion, my dear seats, let me say to those of you who are always here but empty. I hope you will see your responsibility and try not only to be present but to be filled. To those who are always present and filled, don't get discouraged, but be faithful and some day those who sit in you will sit in the Church Triumphant where there will be no empty seats.—Author Unknown.—Selected from "Evangelical Visitor."

One World

J. J. Balzer

John 3:16, "For God so loved the world."
Matt. 13:38, "The field is the world."

Lovers of art have commented on the marked difference between the pictures of Watts and Turner. Watts looks in at things and portrays them close at hand, Turner looks out at things and sees them in a distance.

For the greater part of our existence we see life in the range of vision suggested by Watt's pictures. The world is close about us, and to very many it consists of the home in which they live, and the neighborhood. Sometimes we meet people who would not care to know anybody outside of their church relations. It is often a difficult task for such people to break the chains of their captivity and view things in the sense of Turner's distances into the picture. We must learn to step back and higher up, so that we see the world in its wonderful relationships.

To Christ the field of His vision was the World, "FOR GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD."

When a monk of a Carthensian monastary was asked, why the windows of the monastary faced inward on a courtyard, instead of outward upon the beautiful hills and mountains, he replied that he and his fellows had not come there to look upon the mountains. It is easy, to let all the windows of our life turn inward at our own affairs, our business, our successes, our own friendships, our pleasures. These fill the whole view. This state of preoccupation reduces our life to a very small and pithy compass. We must find a place for a new outlook, so that we may open windows in our blind walls and see the landscapes of the world.

By the devices of modern civilization the whole world has become one neighborhood; and I know my home and my life is set in a great net of relationships, that encircle the whole world, yea, the universe. A women's cooking, even for a day, includes articles which have grown in the ends of the earth. She uses coffee from Brazil, India or Java, tea from China, bananas from Mexico, Oranges from California or Palestine, etc. These new conditions and situations demand new studies.

The task of the Church and all Christian people is world conquest, and in order to conquer the world, we must first understand the world, the world of our own time. Have we ever made this our study? If not, we ought to.

1. By Conquest of Distances

The distances that once divided East and West have been conquered. The old sense of remoteness has given place to a new sense of nearness. East and West are now within speaking distance of each other. The world has contacted by the conquest of its distances.

For long ages this world was a growing thing. The boundaries which men had fixed, had to be shifted farther afield. They discovered new seas. There is that in man which makes him continually search for things which are out of his reach.

There came a period of Discoveries. New islands were chartered, new continents were found. Columbus discovered America, and soon they called it "the New World," because of its size. New passageways were made in the seas, the great Pacific Ocean was crossed, Australia, New Zealand and the isles of the South Sea were found. Africa was circumnavigated, and the earth was growing perplexingly big. Discoveries turned to the North and South, and new coastlines were revealed, new countries were added to the knowledge and possession of the world.

When the landmarks were finally fixed, discoveries turned in another direction. A new era of development set in; processes of expansion yielded place to devices of contraction. Distances were to be conquered by new inventions. Foot travel, ox cart, pack-mule, and camel gave way to steam engine, motor car, electricity, and airship.

John Corvino traveled from Europe to China in the thirteenth century, and his journey took three years. In the sixteenth century it took John Lambert two years. In the 19th century it took James Gilmore less than three months. Cross the English Channel from London, take a train at Hamburg, cross Germany, Poland, and Russia, and on by way of the Trans-Siberian Railway and after 7 days you are at the capitol of China, Peking. John Chinaman has become our neighbor. Are we a neighbor to him? When Missionary Henry Dirks, our first Mennonite Missionary from Russia, left Hamburg for the Island of Sumatra on a sailship, in 1869, it took just 100 days until he and his dear wife landed at Batavia.

2. By Rapid Communication

The correspondence, which Stanley in 1872 carried to Livingstone, when he went in search for the lost missionary and traveler, was actually two years old, before he reached him. Then the self-exiled man cried out: "Tell me the latest news of my home parish! Tell me how the world is getting on!" By wireless Livingstone's country is today within speaking distance of London.

The Cable-system has done much for the conquest of distance. England's King and America's President exchange greetings as if facing each other. Only a few years ago another cable was laid across the Atlantic, capable of transmitting 1200 messages at the same moment, 600 going west and 600 going east. The cable system links the continents together like the nervous system a living body. Every morning paper brings to us the news of yesterday from the ends of the earth.

And how wonderful the rapidity of communication! When the King of England opened the Wembly Exhibition a few years ago, a message was sent to the Empire: "I have this moment opened the British Empire Exhibition." This message traveled via Canada, to Australia, New Zealand, Fiji Isles, India, South Africa, Egypt, Malta, Gibraltar, and back to London, and at the close of 2 minutes and 20 seconds the messenger boy brought it back to the King, and he read it before more than 100,000 people.

Our Radio waves are making words and songs and music vocal over an area of 1,500,000 square miles. The German premier and their ambassador at Washington not only speak with each other but, by television, see one another face to face in a picture.

3. By Interdependence of Commerce and Industrial Products.

The unification of the world goes forward by commercial and industrial interdependence. No nation is self-sufficient. Each provides for the other's necessity. The products of one region are exchanged for the products of another. Every month is a harvest month in some part of the world.

The great fact is that the isolations are all past. American isolation only exists in some minds, as a prejudice and a fear. American capital and American interests are all over the earth, affecting everywhere industry, population, social conditions, and national attitudes.

When President Harding was conducting the tour that became so fatal to him, he preached in a speech at St. Louis, American isolation. At the close a bouquet was given to Mrs. Harding composed of flowers cut from plants that were imported from Brazil, Mexico, Cuba, China, Ceylon, and Guatmala. A whole League of Nations was bound up in that bouquet.

The American telephone is all democratic, but the material is chiefly international. It is produced from a slab of rubber, a bundle of vegetable and animal fibre and a curious medley of minerals brought from every corner of he earth. We must use Japanese silk, Indian mica, Russian platinum, Brazilian rubber, Egyptian cotton, and Irish flax.

4. By Cooperative Service.

The unification of the world goes forward by the cooperative service of all peoples. Hunger and thirst, sickness and disease acknowledge scarcely any boundaries. They are everywhere and no barrier can shut them out. Trouble travels on the wings of the wind. How often have we heard the expression from Belgium, Germany, Russia and the Near East: You Americans have saved the lives of our millions by providing food and clothing in after war years, especially 1921-1923, and even up to this day.

So medical research and discovery yield their advantage to the whole world. Cures for disease are no more the exclusive right of any institute or country.

World history tends to become one history by the co-operative elements of world service.

Education's Challenge to Youth

For the deepest need of our souls is to feel ourselves benefactors of mankind. Only as we identify ourselves with the most sublime interests of humanity do we find a thoroughly social, and therefore the most complete, self-realization. We function as satisfied ends only through asserting ourselves voluntarily as means. History's most constructive geniuses have been those great personalities, from Jeremiah to Lincoln, who, answering the call of God in their souls, gave themselves for the race. And they are but conspicuous types of undistinguished millions in whose breasts the same divine fire has burned. The universal and latent force of this instinct in human nature is beyond the dreams of contemporaneous theory. What marvels might be wrought in the plastic souls of our youths if we ourselves but had the vision of a great faith! The passing generation of psychologists expatiated on the idealism of adolescence, but our high schools have scarcely made a beginning in the art of cultivating and harnessing it to social uses. What altruistic aspirations to social service might be kindled in the souls of our youth were they never deformed by the hard, misshapen fingers of a sordid, unbelieving world. A teacher before a room full of youths is standing on holy ground, for he cannot tell at what unexpected spot the divine fire may flame forth, producing a hero, a martyr, or a prophetic genius—if only he knew how to touch their souls. Upon the generation of this social idealism the progress of society depends no less than upon scientific discovery. This is the leaven that keeps institutions from hardening into tyrannies. It is the ultimate objective of moral education.

Nevertheless, this is the new and characteristic temper of the age. It is the new religion! For in this new social hope concenter all contemporaneous thought and feeling. It is the democratic passion of the times. It is the religion of all scientists. Toward this polar star point all the great movements of the period. It is the new world view, by faith in which modern man is to save his soul. And yet it is not new at all; for what is it, indeed, but the philosophy of life expounded so long ago by him who called himself the Son of Man.*

C. E. Week Celerabation

January 30 to February 6, is C. E. Week. And C. E. Week is a celebration of the 57th anniversary of Christian Endeavor.

Fifty seven years ago on February second, Christian Endeavor was founded by Dr. and Mrs. Francis E. Clark, for the young people of the Williston Congregational Church at Portland, Maine. Because the plan worked it grew and within a short time six more societies were formed. After that the movement grew very rapidly until his death, in 1927, Dr. Clark was the world's greatest Christian youth leader and was called "Father Endeavor" Clark by millions who were Endeavorers.

Four million Endeavorers from the corners of the earth will join January 30 to February 6, in celebrating the 57th anniversary of the founding of the Christian Endeavor. One hundred denominations, about eighty thousand societies from every nation of earth will take a part in this great united movement of Christian youth.

Today (Jan. 30) is the first day of this special C. E. week. It is denominational day, therefore the topic, "The Church Needs Us".

Problems:

Who are the Members of the Church?

In the New Testament, the church is spoken of as the body (Eph. 1:22,23). A body speaks of life, unity, and purpose. The life of a body depends on its head. And Christ is the head of the church. Because He lives, the church lives also. It is Christ's own life that makes the church a living organism. As bodily members are directed from the head, so the church is under the direction of Christ.

In the church, the members of the body consist ot those individuals who believe and have been saved through faith in Christ.

These members are numerous. Even though many whose names are on the church rolls may not be members of the Body of Christ, it is still true that the church has many members. And God has set each one of us in his place in the church of Christ. But we belong together to the same church.

What is the Function of the Church?

The church exists for a purpose, and this purpose can be accomplished only through its members. The Lord has divided gifts and abilities among those who belong to the church of Christ according to the needs of the work. We as young people may, perhaps, see our ability in the way of carrying the message of His Truth to others. But whatever it is, let us find it, and serve with it.

Although the body has various parts (members) there is perfect harmony among them. They all belong to the body, and all work together for the good of the body. Thus it should be in the church of Christ. That is why it is so very important for us to find our proper places in the church. Paul says there should be no division in the body.

The Youny People in the Church—Their Walk:

There are five particulars in which young people should not only follow but set the example:

(1) In Word—That is in speech. Speech is a wonderful gift but it is so often misused. Let us be careful to use it properly.

(2) In Conversation—That is in conduct or behavior.

(3) In Charity. Jesus emphasized the need of love among His followers, and that still needs emphasis. It is one of the marks of a child of God to love our neighbor.

(4) In Faith. It is a real challenge to young people to believe all of the Word of God. But its truthfulness has been established by several thousand years of history, so it is a challenge, not impossible to face.

(5) In Purity. One of the great battle grounds for the present generation is to think clean, speak clean, and live clean. But if youth faces the battle and sets the example, God will be glorified, mankind will be helped, and the cause of Christ will be extended.

The Young People of the Church—Their Work.

For the Christian youth there is always enough to do. "Killing time" need never be the practice of a Christian.

Reading and meditation is a very important phase of a Christian's work. "Think on these Things" (Phil. 4:8) means that, having read we should "practice" or "give diligence". Do we give much thought to our Christian conduct? How much do we meditate on the teachings of the Bible?

Exhortation and teaching speak of public activity. To us it means to give personal words of instruction and bring Christ to our fellow men.

Where these things are done, there will be abundant blessing for the church and all its members. Such a church will also be a blessing to the community in which it serves.

Fourth Missionary Meeting

This is the last of the series of missionary meetings and should be made the high point for the Intermediates by providing opportunity for practical expression of missionary interest that has been aroused. If offering boxes have been kept during this month they should be brought in. An interesting project would be to start correspondence with some young people on the mission field. Missionaries would be glad to supply names of young native Christians or of the children of missionaries. Prayer lists should be given to those interested. A missionary play, with an offering for missions could be given before the church. The missionary map should be completed with blue streamers for loyalty, showing what we may give to missions.

Pre-Prayer Circle

There should be prayer for definite missionaries and their needs. The following poem can be used now or in the talk on prayer.

The Joy of Intercession

"The weary ones had rest, the sad had joy
That day, and wondered "How?"
A ploughman singing at his work had prayed
'Lord, help them now.'
Away in foreign lands they wondered "How"
Their simple words had power.
At home the Christians, two and three had met
To pray an hour.

Yes, we're always wondering, wondering "How,"
Because we do not see Someone, unknown perhaps, and far away
On bended knee." —Unknown.

Quiet Worship (After praise service of selected songs and announcements)

Sing: "Give of Your Best"

Scripture: Rom. 12:3-8; Heb. 13:16

Prayer chain (Explain that the leader will begin the chain of sentence prayers then call on someone else, who will continue the chain by doing the same.

Sing: "I Gave My Life for Thee", Stanzas 1 and 4

Discussing the Topic

1. Leader's remarks. Bring out the fact that our missionary gifts include more than money. Sometimes clothing and other articles are needed. Special gifts to missionaries bring encouragement. Letters and cards are a form of gift needed. Prayer is a gift that costs time and interest.

   "We give thee but thine own,
   Whate'er the gift may be;
   All that we have is Thine alone—
   A trust, O Lord, from thee."

   Life is a stewardship. To offer our life for His service is the greatest gift we can give.
2. Topics for Talks
   a. Our Missionary gift of money. How much should we give? What does it mean to "tithe"? Is that a good plan of giving? Why? What has your society given in the past and for what purpose? Your church? What are some ways for your society to get money to give to missions?
   b. Other missionary gifts. What other things do people give to missions? What things should go into a missionary box or barrel? See the "Missionary News and Notes" for other articles wanted. What do your mission societies send?
   c. Prayer for missions. Why do missionaries always ask for our prayers? What does praying for missionary work cost us? Why do people find it hard to pray much for missions? For what should we pray when we pray for missions?
   d. Giving ourselves to God. Should everyone who is a follower of Christ be willing to be a missionary? Why is giving ourselves greatest, yet the hardest gift to give? How do people get calls to be missionaries? How can we know whether God wants us in the mission field? Can we be just as much in His service in the home field? How?

Closing Moments

The leader lighting a candle that has been on the table during the meeting reads:

"The beauty of a candle touches me,
It is so softly gay,
So steadfast and so careless of itself,
Giving itself away."

"For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Sing: "Take My Life and Let It Be." Stanza one

Benediction

JUNIOR CORNER

TO THE LEADER

"Great is Thy faithfulness, O God my Father,
There is no shadow of turning with Thee;
Thou changest not, Thy compassions they fail not;
As Thou hast been Thou forever wilt be."

"Great is Thy faithfulness! Great is Thy faithfulness!
Morning by morning new mercies I see;
All I have needed Thy hand hath provided—
Great is Thy faithfulness, Lord, unto me!"

God's Faithfulness

Program Suggestion for January 30, 1938

Call to Quietness by hymn played softly

Opening service

1. Eight-minute song service
2. Scripture: Psalm 36:5-10
3. Prayer for blessing by a junior speaking the words of "Break Thou the Bread of Life"

Mission minutes

In these days of "war and rumors of war" the question, "Is Christ coming soon?" seems an ever present companion reminding us of the great commission which the heart of Christ left to the Church. As leaders of youth, a double responsibility is ours: we are not only burden bearers in this task but it is ours also to lead young lives to consecrate themselves unto it. Five minutes pass so quickly but if they come at each meeting bringing to the young minds and hearts the vital needs of our mission fields, bringing before them the joy of the fruitage and allowing them to be sharers in both, then we may hope that out of the sharer will grow a burden-bearer. The year is still before us, a new year it is. There will be a new spring, a new summer with spring in its flowering stage; there will be a new fall with the gathering in of fresh fruits, and then there will be the winter with another opportunity to worship the Savior once born in a manger bed. O if we could bring with us young hearts, rich fruitage to lay at His feet!

Announcements

Study period

1. Review topics studied and introduce the theme of the evening by allowing the chairman to light all five candles, repeating the thought of each candle:
   1. God the loving Father
   2. God the ever present one
   3. God the all powerful one

   4. God the all knowing one
   5. God the faithful one
2. Repeating of the verse of the month in charge of leader
3. Special music: "Great Is Thy Faithfulness"
4. God Is Faithful: Give the following verses to several juniors. Let them come one by one, put the reference on the board and read the scripture to the group. The board could be a snow scene with "Great Is Thy Faithfulness" printed as a heading. Verses: Ps. 36:5; Ps. 89:33; II Thess. 3:3, II Tim. 2:13; Heb. 10:23; I John 1:9; Isa. 11:5; Lam. 3:22,23
5. "Great Is Thy Faithfulness": Talks by juniors.
   a. God was faithful to Abraham: Gen. 28:15
   b. God was faithful to the children of Israel: Deut. 7:8,9
   c. God is faithful, He keeps every promise: Joshua 23:14; Ps. 105:8
   d. God is faithful in keeping those who love Him: I Sa. 12:22; I Ch. 28:20; Ps. 37:28; Ps. 121:3,4
   e. God is faithful in forgiving us: I John 1:9
6. Song in unison: "We Praise Thee, O God, Our Redeemer, Creator"
7. Heart-talks: "I have declared", "I will make known", "I will show forth". By guest speaker or leader using Ps. 40:10b; Ps. 89:1b; Ps. 92:2b
8. Leader's prayer
9. Rise to sing: "Praise God from whom all blessings flow"

Business Like Orderliness

Charlotte Young

Alan was three and a half, and a "big man" just like Daddy. His parents were very orderly, so Alan had learned quite early to put his things away. "What the kids say" was the only influence that rivalled his daddy's example. One of the neighbor boys, whose mother was always worn out because she had to "pick up" after the whole family, told Alan that only sissies put their things away. From that time on, he systematically avoided putting anything where it belonged. His mother soon discovered what had caused this transformation and talked it over with her husband. However, they did not let Alan know that they had noticed any change.

Now because Alan's father was a business man with a big office, his mind naturally formulated the plan given below. Had he been a farmer, a storekeeper or a carpenter, either he or his wife might have thought out some other plan that would have been equally effective, since order is necessary for success in any occupation. Happy indeed is the little boy or girl who, needing this lesson, has a parent who will think up a suitable play plan of orderliness that will fit into the child's experience.

One Saturday, Alan and his mother went in to the city to have lunch with daddy when he finished work at noon. To Alan's surprise, they did not wait in the downstairs reception room but went right on up to Daddy's office. Daddy and the other people in the office were busy closing things for the week end. Alan sat quietly with his mother and watched the file clerks putting things away in the files. He saw his daddy clean off his desk and put everything in its proper place in the drawers. He saw another man putting scraps of paper into his waste basket. Finally Daddy looked in a big book and said, "Well, everything's cleaned up for this week. We can go now."

This was an entirely new experience for Alan, so he could think and talk of nothing but Daddy's office. He was delighted when, after his nap, Daddy suggested that they play office. Very soon, Alan's room was transformed into a real office—at least in Alan's eyes. Little label cards were tied on the handles of the bureau drawers. On one was printed "play suits" and a picture of a play suit cut from an advertisement was pasted on. All of the hooks in the closet were labelled with both words and pictures, as also were the pegs on the shoe rack hanging inside the closet door. Then Daddy taught Alan how to file his clothes, what things to put into the waste basket and how to keep his office in good shape generally.

But the greatest thrill of all for Allen was the ledger Daddy had bought at the Ten Cent Store for him. On each page he had listed Alan's office duties. For instance: "Clothes put away," "Toys in their proper places." Of course, Alan couldn't read but he soon came to know exactly what each entry was. There were pictures there to help, and every evening after supper, Daddy would go to Alan's office to see if his book "balanced." When everything was in order, Dady signed the book "O. K.—D. J. B." with his black ink. But when something had been overlooked, he checked the neglected item with red and drew a red line at the bottom of the page. Alan has discovered that every good business man tries to keep out of the red. And nobody could possibly call a big business man with a real office a "sissy."

— Mennonite Church, Halstead, Kansas.—The Young People's Choir rendered a Christmas cantata before Christmas, the children's program and pageant was given Christmas eve, followed by a very impressive Christmas service and communion on Sunday morning, Dec. 26. In the afternoon, as a fitting climax, a musical vesper service was held in the Presbyterian church, given by the best musical talent in Halstead. May these Christmas holidays have been days of real consecration: "Though Christ a thousand times in Bethlehem be born, if He's not born in thee, thy soul is all forlorn."

ONE WORLD—J. J. Balzer (Concluded)

5. By Community of Race.

Community of race makes the whole world one. We may exclude the yellow race, but still John Chinaman and the skillful Japanese shall continue to live in America. In the mind of Christ the world is one, for He taught us that God made of one blood all nations. Not of one color but of one blood. That is the fundamental unity, ONE in the heart and purpose of God. In every man's heart there is an altar to the unknown God, and that Macedonian cry which St. Paul heard at Troas forced him to cross over to Europe, to bring that Gospel of God for all men to Greece and Rome, to make its way to the uttermost parts of the earth.

"The field is the world." For in religion all men are equal as all our pennies are equal, as they all bear the image of a King, or Premier, or President.

In the savage bosom the image may be defaced and obliterated, but the forfeited glory may be recovered. Our task as Chistians is distinctive and defined. "The field is the world." "For God so loved the world." Have we any reason to change our conception of the world? Have we any reason to ask the question: "But who is my neighbor? Are we to continue to preach isolation and national prejudice? It seems so little and so foolish to apply all kinds of means and make Americans out of foreigners or exclude them, if we do not follow those principles of our eternal father in whose heart and purpose there is but ONE WORLD.

CORRESPONDENCE

WHITEWATER, KANSAS

We all know how difficult it is to interest a Christian Endeavorer in Foreign and Home Missions. So, in order to have an active Christian Endeavor, the members should know who and where our missionaries are. A big map hanging in the church, where everyone sees it when coming into the church, showing who the missionaries are and where they are located, will interest every one. Missionary news can be posted on this map, also. Then when interest is aroused, a missionary committee plans different projects for each quarter and posts them. The projects may be such as Christmas gifts for the Indians in Oklahoma, relief in flood districts or whatever the committee feels should be supported. Our committee attached envelopes to the map where we can leave our gifts. There is good interest in these projects and the envelopes fill readily.

REEDLEY, CALIF., DEC. 28, 1937

A few more days and the year 1937 will be numbered with the things of the past. Before it comes to a close, I desire to comply with a resolution I made at the beginning of the year, i.e. that I would send in, during the year, four reports to THE MENNONITE; so I am sending hastily report number four, before the year closes.

Near the close of the year we inevitably look back over the year and think of some of the outstanding incidents that have happened. We have had eight funerals in our church, mostly aged people. I travelled one hundred miles to conduct funerals at other places. But we have also had seven weddings, a baptismal service, at which ten young people united with the church, and we have had ten other accessions to our church by letters.

The fourteen organizations of our church are functioning efficiently, each making its contribution to the spiritual growth of the congregation. It would lead too far to mention each one of them, and the work they are doing, but I must mention the splendid Christmas play, An Old Fashioned Christmas, put on by the "Worth While Circle," on Sunday evening, Dec. 19. I am certain the whole audience left the church that night with a better understanding of the meaning of Christmas. I must also mention the splendid musical program, given last Sunday evening by the Men's Chorus, assisted by the Junior Choir. The leader of the Men's Chorus is sick in bed, and I was afraid that because of his absence the program would not be as good as usual, but it exceeded my expectation. During the program nine ladies sang a kind of a Christmas cantata, as a triple trio, which was so beautiful that I doubt whether the Anthem of the Angels at Bethlehem, at the first Christmas, surpassed it.

At the annual meeting of the congregation we found that we have a financial deficit of $600 for this year, and immediate steps were taken to cancel this shortage before the close of the year. I am told that this effort will be crowned with success. The good Lord has given us an abundant harvest this year, but the prices are considerably lower than the preceding year. We expected a good price for raisins, as there was no surplus holdover from 1936; but they got into a controversy about the Prorate Marketing Method and, because of this strife, the farmers are getting $10 per ton less for their raisins.

Before I close, I must mention the delightful banquet and reunion we had in the basement of our church on Christmas evening, arranged and conducted by our Young People's Society. It was given as a reception to the alumni of the C. E. and the church who are living in other communities and had returned for the holidays. The seventy-six present represented four states, and with toasts and songs and addresses we had a most delightful time. It was suggested that we make this an annual event, and I think this suggestion will be carried out. Other churches might find such a meeting very profitable. Another innovation was that we had communion on Sunday, Dec. 26 in stead of in October, the usual time. We did this in order that those who came home for the holidays might participate with us. We had such a large attendance that many of the chairs in the S. S. rooms had to be brought into the auditorium. On this occasion Brother Langenwalter, our pastor, spoke in English and I spoke in German. It was another spiritual feast enjoyed by all. Sister Helen Fast has been elected as correspondent of THE MENNONITE to become my successor. Thus we shall have the infusion of younger blood into our correspondence and matters will be viewed from a different angle, and the reports, no doubt, will be more interesting. With best wishes for the new year, to the editor and all readers. —H. J. Krehbiel.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, COLFAX, WASH.

As we are on the threshold of a new year, it is well to pause, to count our blessings and consecrate ourselves to a more thankful living this coming year.

We had our Christmas program Christmas eve, a big crowd was present. Rev. Harley King and family are nicely settled in their new home, which is more convenient, as it is close to the church. On Sunday morning, Sept. 19, we enjoyed the rare treat of having our Senior Missionary to the Cheyenne Indians, Dr. Rodolphe Petter, of Lame Deer, Mont., with us. His very vivid picture of the progress of the mission work was a real inspiration to the large audience present. Sunday, Nov. 21, we had the pleasure of a visit by Rev. Menno Galle, from Odessa, Wash.; in the morning he gave us the message and in the afternoon the C. E. program, which was enjoyed very much. Thanksgiving services by Rev. H. King in the morning and a generous offering for foreign missions. Mission sale in the afternoon, lunch in basement.

Sunday, Nov. 28, the missionaries Rev. and Mrs. N. M. Cressman who have served their second term in Canbodia, French Indo-China, spent the day with us, while enroute through the States, to their home at Bethlehem, Pa. Bro. Cressman brought the message from the Word in the morning and together, as a family, they brought several selections of special music. both in English and in Canbodian. The evening's topic being of a missionary nature, it was more than a co-incidence to have missionaries present to give a missionary address. Thus we were made to wonder the more—what if there had been no missionaries.

Wishing you and all readers God's richest blessings and a happy new year.—Pauline Schrag, corr.

HANSTON, KANS., MENN. CHURCH

Christmas has come and gone again. We had a delightful Christmas time in our Church and homes. On Christmas morning we had the usual Christmas worship service. On Sunday morning we partook of the Holy Communion of the Lord and had a large attendance. On Sunday evening, December 26th, our choir of twenty-four voices sang the cantata, "The Song and the Star", before an audience that filled every available seat in the church, with some standing. The choir was directed by Miss Mabel Bechtel, who for the past two years was a member of the Bethel College A Cappella Chorus. Mrs. A. S. Bechtel, was the choir pianist.

We had a New Year's day service on New Year morning. This was followed by the yearly Church meeting. The reports of the Church and Mission treasurer, and also the treasurers of the different organizations, all showed that the finances of the Church are in a good condition and that even with the repeated poor crops and failures of the past number of years, all the reports indicate a healthy condition in the Church.

We are looking forward in our work, we are even thinking of Easter and the proper observance of that festive time of the Church year.—A. S. Bechtel.

DEATHS

RACHEL (REUSSER) KREHBIEL, our loving mother, was born March 28, 1875, and passed away at St. Anthony's Hospital, Thursday, Dec. 30, after a serious illness of eight weeks. All that loving hands could do to save her life was done, but in vain. God thought it best to call our dear mother to her home in glory.

On April 22, 1889, she was baptized by Elder Valentine Krehbiel and became a member of the Christian Mennonite Church near Moundridge, Kansas. —In 1911 she joined the First Mennonite Church of Geary, Okla., of which she remained a faithful member until death.—On Oct. 4, 1896, she was united in marriage with Peter P. Krehbiel. This union was blessed with five children: Erich P. Krehbiel of Newport, Wash.; Mrs. Susie Penner of Hillsboro, Kans.; Abraham V. Krehbiel of Geary, Okla.; Mrs. Ellen Greischar of Emporia, Kans.; Mrs. Irma Loganbill of Mission, Texas, all of whom were present except one son, Erich.—She reached the age of 62 years, 9 months and 2 days. She leaves to mourn her departure, her bereaved husband, sons, and daughters, three sons-in-law, two daughters-in-law, and 13 grandchildren, two sisters and four brothers and many friends.

The funeral was held at the Geary Mennonite Church on Sunday afternoon, January 2, 1938, the Reverend P. E. Frantz, pastor of the church, officiating.

ABRAHAM SCHMIDT, son of Jacob P. and Maria Friesen Schmidt, was born in McPherson county, Kansas, Nov. 5, 1897, and departed this life Dec. 19, 1937, at Walton, Kansas, making his age 40 years, 1 month, and 14 days. At the age of seven he lost his father. On Dec. 26, 1917, he was baptized, upon confession of his faith, by Elder P. H. Unruh, and united with the Alexanderwohl church, but later transferred his membership to the Tabor church. Aug. 13, 1925, he was united in marriage with Agnes Klassen. To this union were born three sons and one daughter. One son passed away before him. His greatest desire was to serve God and mankind as best he could, and he served the Tabor church in different capacities. He attended Los Angeles Bible Institute, taught for seven years in different districts of the community, and was a student at Bethel College, off and on, for several years, lacking but one year to complete his work for the Bachelor of Arts degree. He was enrolled when he became ill. In spite of the fact that it was hard to give up his life plans, he accepted his illness patiently and bravely. On Dec. 16 his condition became worse. Very peacefully and with a look of perfect contentment he passed away to his Heavenly Home, to be with the Lord. He lived in marriage a little more than twelve years. He leaves to mourn, his wife, two sons, one daughter, two brothers, three sisters, one half brother and sister, and many relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held on Dec. 22, 1937, in Bethel College Chapel, with Rev. P. H. Richert officiating and Rev. J. N. Smucker assisting. Music was furnished by quartets from the Bethel College and Alexanderwohl churches. Interment was made in Tabor church cemetery.—Dan. S. Thiessen, Church, Sec.

MRS. C. R. WIDMER, 70, a resident of Albany, Oregon, for the last 41 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. L. Burck, Albany, at noon Sunday, December 12, 1937. Death came very quietly and peaceably after a lingering illness of almost two years. It was with the greatest of joy that she looked forward to be with the Lord whom she loved so dearly. During the last weeks of her life her constant prayer had been "Come, Lord Jesus."

Mrs. Widmer was born at St. Louis, Alsace, France, December 25, 1866. She was united in holy matrimony to C. R. Widmer at Basel, Switzerland, on April 3, 1883. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Widmer came to America, locating first in Iowa, and residing there until 1896 when they came to Albany, where they have lived ever since.

The departed sister was a life member of the Mennonite church, and a charter member of the Grace Mennonite Church of Albany. It can truly be said of her that she loved her Lord with her whole heart, and served him faithfully until her departure. In sickness, as well as in health, her prayer was, "Not my will, but Thine."

Besides her husband, she is survived by eight children, forty granchildren, two great grandchildren, and three sisters and four brothers. The children are: Mrs. H. L. Burck, Mrs. George Kenagy, Mrs. Floyd Whitaker, Elmer and Ezra Widmer of Albany; Daniel Widmer of Sheridan, Rev. Herbert Widmer of Dallas, and Dr. J. N. Widmer of Corvallis, Oregon. The sisters are Mrs. Fannie Widmer and Mrs. Anna Gerig of Albany, and Mrs. Josephine Graber of Wayland, Iowa. The brothers are N. N. Roth of Albany, Ben, Joseph, and Peter Roth of Wayland, Iowa.

Funeral services were held from the Grace Mennonite Church, Tuesday, December 14, with her pastor, Rev. W. R. Augsburger, officiating, using the text Mrs. Widmer herself had chosen for the funeral service. II Timothy 4:6-8. "May we be able to have the same testimony, when our days on earth are over."

« « JOTTINGS » »

— Rev. E. S. Mullett, Napanee, Ind.—"Mrs. Edna Schrock was elected corresponding secretary of our church. She will respond with occasional news. I am enjoying THE MENNONITE . . . Will do all we can to increase its circulation."

— Dr. J. E. Hartzler who had to undergo an appendix operation at the Bethel Hospital, Newton, a few weeks ago, was dismissed last week, and he and Mrs. Hartzler left for their home in the East.

—Miss Loretta Lehman, well known missionary to India, was married to Rev. Robert M. Blackwood, D. D., of Pittsburgh, Pa., at Alexandria, Egypt, Dec. 9.—It was a sunset wedding, at "Fairhaven," a Presbyterian mission home, the ceremony being performed by Dr. Phillips, missionary in Alexandria. The couple planned to travel in Palestine, before returning to the United States, their future home.—Berne Witness.

—Freeman College has the good fortune to receive the profits from a gas station that loyal friends of the school built for it four years ago. The investment was $4000.00. This was paid off in two years, $768.00 turned over to the College, and there was a cash balance of $1400.00, with a book account amounting to $1400.00.—Freeman Courier.—Thus this station has become a good income producer for the school, and a great help in these trying years.

—Mennonite Church, Hutchinson, Kansas.—Before us lies a comprehensive and very interesting Pastor's Report to the congregation of this church, which shows good normal growth and activity. Of the items that may interest outsiders too, we mention the following: The pastor, Rev. C. H. Dirks, preached 92 sermons, conducted 38 of the 73 prayer meetings, made 229 visits (not counting short calls), traveled 13,000 miles (mostly during vacation), conducted a service at the County Home each fourth Sunday of the month, and ten radio services were conducted by the church. Their plans for the new year are: (1) A more consecrated and loyal membership (2) Two extended series of meetings a year—A Bible Conference in the spring—A Revival Campaign in the fall (3) An adequate financial program (4) A devoted choir at every service (5)At least 25 new members (6) The presence of at least 50% of the members at the midweek services (7) A membership speaking and acting encouragingly about the Church.

—Mennonite Church, Wadsworth, Ohio.—Rev. W. S. Shelly, pastor of this church, has recently issued a graph on the attendance in his church, with interesting observations, and an appeal for more regular attendance. We quote the following excerpt, which would appear to have meaning for other churches, "To those of you who are responsible for the drop (from a high mark on Oct. 3, '37), can we not appeal that you consider each Lord's Day equally important as far as your spiritual life is concerned? We are willing to admit that the church needs your faithful attendance, and we also believe you need to admit that you need the church."

—Missionary Paul Wenger, Korba via Champa, India, writes to Rev. M. J. Galle, Sec. of the Board of Publication, "I would like to congratulate the Board of Publications for the business methods you are adopting and for the improvements found in THE MENNONITE. It is more readable, interesting, instructive, and helpful. We wish your Board much success."

—First Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—Miss Catherine Niswander who a number of years faithfully served our mission at Portland, Oregon, is now visiting assistant to the pastor of this church, Rev. J. J. Plenert. Her address is 2011 North Seventh Street, Philadelphia. Brother Plenert writes: "Sister Niswander is doing fine work, just the type of work that the First Church needed. We have just closed a blessed year in our church. The Lord has been good to us. But there is one thing in which the First Church is falling short, and that is, not enough subscribers to our church papers. It seems very hard. But we will keep on in our efforts."

—Grace Mennonite Church, Lansdale, Pa.—Rev. Olin A. Krehbiel, pastor of this church, has sent us a beautiful Christmas folder, with scene of Christ's nativity which contains among other things, a letter of greetings to the church. We cull the following, "My family and I have enjoyed the nine months that we have spent in your midst and we look forward to greater spiritual service in the year to come, trusting that you will cooperate in making this possible . . . Our message to you who are faithful is to continue in the good work and be steadfast in fervor for the Lord. And we call the attention of you, who have been lax in the things of the spirit, to the fact that God has not been lax in protecting and sustaining you and extending unto you his infinite love."

—Thirty-fifth Anniversary, Mennonite Church, Upland, Calif.—"January 4 marks the 35th year since the First Church of Upland was organized, with eighteen members. Henry Rees and William Harms were the first Board of Deacons, with Rev. M. M. Horsch as chairman, and pastor of the church. The Record states that "the meetings of the Sunday school and church were held in the roomy Schmutz kitchen." The membership has since increased to over 300, with one of the most modern church plants in our denomination. We will celebrate this 35th anniversary in connection with our annual business meeting.—"The Hearld," L. Hostetler, Editor.

—First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Ida., Phil. A. Wedel, Pastor.—The cantata, "The Music of Christmas," was presented over Radio Station, KSEI, Sunday before Christmas at Pocotello, Idaho, and on Sunday following in the Mennonite church at Aberdeen, to a large and appreciative audience. The cantata of 60 members was directed by Gus Klempel.—The congregation is enlarging its church to a more spacious building. The weather has been very mild and favorable, permitting rapid progress of the work.—The annual meeting was held Dec. 27, with the election of officers and completion of further plans for the year. Mr. John H. Friesen is the newly elected Deacon, the other three are J. P. Wedel, Frank Wenger, and Rudolf Horsch.

—At Winnipeg the coldest day this winter was 45 below zero, a little farther north 70 below.

THE CHURCH PAPER.—The religious periodical commonly called "the church paper" fills a distinct place in the field of journalism. It is distinct from the newspaper or the secular magazine, and serves a different mission from that of the independent religious journal. Its function is to serve the membership of its particular denomination not primarily presenting the personal views of the editor or of a chosen group of writers, but as the voice of that church emphasizing its doctrines and its standards, assist in the promotion of its entire program, and inerpreting the message of the church in the light of current religious happenings.

The church paper fills an important place in the church. It is one of the most important factors in promoting unity of action throughout the church. It is informational, presenting current events in the general church world, emphasizing the program of the whole denomination, printing news of local churches, district activities, schools, missionary fields and evangelists. All church members should be consistent readers of their own denominational paper not only for the personal spiritual benefit obtained, but also to keep informed and intelligent concerning the activities of the church. All pastors should be active in promoting the church paper among the membership and friends of the church for it serves as an able assistant pastor in giving silent witness to the message of the church and in keeping the members interested in the whole church program. Folks intelligently informed on the church program are better members.

The distinct objective of this church paper is to emphasize the cardinal doctrines of Christianity, especially the distinguishing doctrine of our church, entire sanctification; to stress the standards of our church; to provide its readers with a variety of sane, spiritual articles, to encourage aggressive evangelistic activities at home and abroad; and to promote all of the departments of the church work.—Herald of Holiness.

THE ECONOMIC TRIANGLE—AND OTHERS. —So much is usually made of the doings of capital and labor that the patient consumer is usually all but overlooked. The general feeling is, that in the long run, it is the consumer who pays and pays. And that is that.

Even so, consumers have something in common with the worm, which will suffer much, but at long last has been known to execute a surprise turn. A recent market break in the price of butter was recorded as the sharpest pre-Christmas reduction that has ever occurred. And the cause? Consumer resistance to high prices.

Indeed, no matter what is offered or planned, it is the consumer who has the last word. It is he who decides what he wants, in what quantity, and at what price. Of course his decision is vitally affected by such extraneous factors as wages and size of bank roll. Even so, it is the consumer deciding when buyers strikes develop.

These triangle relations obtain in many other than economic fields. It is not just a question of what is created or offered for acceptance. The final judge is the public—or individuals in the mass. Does the proffered article or idea seem useful or helpful to the average man? The final test is really a matter of results or fruits as appraised by the third member in any of life's essential triangles.—Gospel Messenger.

GOD'S WILL BE DONE.—A great many Christians conceive of this as a matter of resignation. Where did we get this idea that God's will is something to which we must be resigned? Why haven't we known all along that it is something to strive for without ceasing? Surely if there is one thing in all this universe more glorious than anything else, it must be God's will for us. That glimpse you get of yourself now and then as the person you could be, if only you would be brought up to the highest expression of your possibilities, radiant, powerful, generous, contributing to your world something beneficial and inspiring—that, it seems, is a glimpse of God's will for you. Do you suppose that the Great Artist wants a lot of blundering humans as the "work of His hands"? Would you? No! He wants a beauty and power, joy and enduring light in every individual. In the beginning man was created complete, without shortcomings. With our free wills, we have gathered unto ourselves, in this long journey that is life, weakness, blind spots, willfulness, suffering, sickness, poverty. None of them is God's will for us. Surely we cannot believe that He who is behind the order of the stars and moon and sun, back of the perfection of seasons and night and day, and of the beauty of aspiration in the soul of man, would so will the lonely, seeking, troubled life of man. It simply doesn't make sense. But it does make sense, that with our free wills we must find our way until we once more contact the will of God and, by obeying it, and looking to Jesus for help, redeem ourselves from our mistakes.—Adapted from an Exchange.

A New Book on Peace and War Especially Valuable for Young People

The new book, entitled "War, Peace, Amity," by Rev. H. P. Krehbiel will be a great help to any one who wishes to study this problem.

As a member of the Peace Committee of the Western District Conference I am naturally very much interested in any such contribution to the fast growing peace literature of our day. So fast is this growth, that it is already a real task to select the few best books on the subject. This book, while one cannot endorse every single statement, is to be classed among the best, and we wish to recommend it to the younger generation, which will have to take a very personal stand in regard to participation in war, if it should break out today or tomorrow. A study of this book will help young men of military age to learn for themselves what they should do in case of war.

The book is a unique combination of a study of both, the history and the nature of peace and war on the one hand, and of the teachings of Christ and the Bible on the other hand. These two studies together are able to bring one to a real conviction, a conviction which enables not only to take a stand, if necessary, against the whole world for Christ and Christian peace, but which also helps to defend intelligently and convincingly such a stand. In this many of our young men were weak during the last war, when officers and others took them to task for their stand by subtle reasoning for war. Thus they often missed one of the best opportunities in history to teach Chrisian peace, besides living it.

One feels gratified that such an outstanding book on this subject is published by a member of our committee, and I wish for it the widest circulation both in our church and outside of it. Millions are now looking for just such a help in their study of the peace problem. The author's exceptional experience in peace work and his contacts with government officials and army officers, makes him well qualified to write this book. It is hoped that it will be used not only for private study, but also for class study in church and schools.—P. H. Richert.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

Paul Wenger

"With God all things are possible." "Is there anything too hard for the Lord?"

Often the request has come for accounts to be written relating the experiences of non-Christians being saved and brought into the Kingdom of God; of lives transformed by the power of God. Is it not possible that there are some among professing Christians who also are in need of this transforming power? And is the miracle not even greater when one who has long known the Word of God, but while nominally passing as a Christian, has fiercely and stubbornly rebelled against and resisted God, finally yields to His love and turns to God for forgiveness and cleansing. And for such how gracious the words of our God,—"I will heal their backsliding, I will love them freely."

It causes pain to go back in memory and review the doings of such an one, and we do it only to show what God hath wrought. This young man was an orphan, cared for from childhood by the mission, supported for years by kind friends at home, and educated in our own and other mission schools. He was given a special course in carpentry, and presented with a splendid set of tools by the mission. In spite of all this he gave himself into the power of Satan, and has been very hard of heart for years, and seemingly taking pride in his hardness, while things went from bad to worse.

The list of his mis-doings is long and grievous. He lost his job through dishonesty. He formed the habit of using narcotics and drink; in quarreling, fighting, disrespect and abuse there were no bounds; he beat his wife mercilessly; he hated missionaries shamelessly; he threatened to take life, and walked about armed with clubs or an axe for months, even taking weapons along to church. On several occasions he and others under his influence, went to church armed and definitely planning mischief; he illegally tried to sell land which was bought by the church and given to him to farm and to be paid for on long term payments; he sold all his carpentry tools, and even the cooking vessels of his home.

It would be too long a story to tell of all that took place in bringing about a change. Reasoning and pleading seemed futile; ex-communication from church seemingly did not help. But once in a time of feeling particularly burdened about him there came like a flash, with the first waking thought of the morning, the words, "J . . ., a new creature in Christ." It seemed prophetic, and yet how many times there came occasions to doubt and to feel that this had had no meaning and that it was impossible. Sometimes the question even came to mind, "Why does not God punish him for his great wickedness and make of him an example." But our gracious God had a better way of making him an example, if we would only have the patience to await His own time.

This definite promise was also given us and claimed in his behalf, "If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death." Once he seemed to be completely broken by the power of the Spirit and wept like a child on the shoulder of one whom he had despised, but because he failed (no doubt due to the influence of others) to go and make right wrongs which he had committed, he again slipped back to a certain extent, though there was nevertheless from that time a marked change, and fruits of repentance have not been entirly lacking.

Last Sunday, we had the great joy of seeing him humbly and gratefully being re-instated as a member in the church, and of hearing him testify that "the love of God is great."

May that love bind him ever more closely and possess him much more fully than he was possessed before by the spirit of evil and may those who have seen him dishonor his Lord, come to know that love through him. Again and again the temptation wants to come to fear that it will not last, but we put this thought from us. Is He who has wrought such a great change not able to keep? Reader will you not pray that this lost and re-claimed one may become a great power in the church and in the Kingdom of God?

BIBLE WEEK AT BLUFFTON COLLEGE

The annual Bible lectures at Bluffton College will be given this year by Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, pastor of the First Mennonite Church of Reedley, California. The lectures will be given from February 6 to 11, 1938.

A meeting is also being planned during the Bible lecture week for the ministers of the Middle District by the officers of the Conference.

Christian Education

DEAR FRIENDS OF CHRISTIAN EDUCATION:

The United States Government spent several million dollars in an attempt to save the life of one citizen lost in the South Seas. Whether you were in sympthy with such an expenditure or not, you will agree that it was a noble tribute to the value of one human life. Ninety thousand people paid one million dollars to see two men fight. Whether you were interested or not, this revealed the intense loyalty and interest of the boxing fans of America.

Today, as a testimony to the faith of our fathers and as a legacy for the uplift of posterity, we are offered the opportunity of making large, permanent investments in the Fiftieth Anniversary Memorial Fund of a college which for half a century has been a stronghold of Christian idealism. Bethel has outgrown its old dining hall and has never had a large auditorium. A new building is greatly needed. Isn't the value of one life adequately trained for sane Christian living and for service in this chaotic world greater than the total cost of the proposed Memorial Hall? I believe that it is. Do you?

Sincerely,
A friend of youth

P. S. Investments in the Fiftieth Anniversary Memorial Fund may be made for any of the following purposes:

1. To balance the current budget
2. To build the proposed Memorial Hall
3. To reduce indebtedness
4. To increase the Endowment Fund
5. To improve the plant and equipment

A NOBLE RESOLVE

I will not be swayed by envy when my rival's strength is shown;
I will not deny his merit, but I will try to prove my own;
I will try to see the beauty spread before me, rain or shine;
I will cease to preach your duty and be more concerned with mine.
I will try to find contentment in the paths that I must tread;
I will cease to have resentment when another gets ahead.

FOUR THINGS TO DO

Four things a man must learn to do
To think, without confusion, clearly;
If he would keep his record true:
To love his fellow-man sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in God and Heaven securely.
—Henry Van Dyke

WAR AND YOU

By S. C. Wittmer

The rapidly evolving political conditions through the world, and the attitude of the American government and other forms of government, in regards to threatening wars and war activities, are being seriously discussed by many people in the United States and elsewhere. There are peace loving people everywhere in the world who will make any sacrifice in their personal lives and positions to prevent war and bring peace not only to their own country, but among any and all peoples and nations of the world.

All sane and thinking people look upon war and the shedding of blood as not only a horrible catastrophe, a useless, senseless waste and destruction of property, and a retrogression of civilization, but as a fruitless method of attaining or acquiring anything. The inevitable result of all warfare is that even the victor is the loser. Looking at war cooly and unemotionally and free from any spiritual or mystical point of view, nothing is really attained that is constructive and beneficial by such wanton destruction of life and property. And the setback in the progress of the science, arts, culture, morals, and the ethics, is a horrible and terrible price to pay for supposed benefit that would accrue from any kind of war.

Yet, there is another angle to the entire matter and it is only fair as enlightened people and true citizens of our country to view the matter from both angles and both sides of the question.

Next to your duty to God and to your fellow man is your duty to your country, to the nation in which you are living, to the collective body of peoples who represent your fellow citizens. If you are living in a country and enjoying the benefits of its protection, the benefits of its development, and the blessings of the land, and the guidance of its officials, you are duty bound to repay your country or the land in which you live, and the government which protects you, by obeying its official decrees and participating in its official activities, whether you personally believe they are right or wrong.

The proper time to determine whether your country is right or wrong in its attitudes, in its principles, and its activities is when you are given an opportunity to express your opinion by vote, or when you assist in the making of its laws and in the creation of its fundamental constitutional laws and amendments. If you, through failure to vote, or an indifference in voting, are part of a nation whose majority of individual citizens approves of war and you elect officials and directors who approve of war, or who will institute war, then you are duty bound to comply with the conditions and accept the results of war.

Viewing it from the other angle, would it be fair for you to decide in the face of possible war that you are not a part of the majority, or part of the nation or country, because you have a different opinion regarding war and do not want to participate in war? Would it be fair for you to say that you are one with your country in all of its blessings, in all of its peaceful activities, and ready to accept everything that you approve of, but that when it comes to something you do not approve of, you will isolate yourselves and let the other citizens do what you are unwilling to do? In other words, is it fair for you to stay at home and remain in a peaceful, inactive, non-partisan attitude, and allow the other fellow to risk his life, to shed the blood of another, to participate in war, and to do the things that may bitterly arouse his antipathy, but to which he submits as a duty and obligation which he owes to his country?

Your individual responsibility is so closely connected with, and effects your country's conditions so much that you as a citizen have no right to support only the things that are pleasant and agreeable to you. The time for you to make a distinction between what you think is right and wrong, and to avoid having you and your children called into unpleasant or unfortunate duties is at the ballot box, or in the assistance of the formation of national and international movements that will do away with the wrong ideas, the errors of thought, the causes of war and the misunderstanding and disagreements.

As Christians, may we be serious in asking ourselves a few questions as Mennonites, both as individuals and a denomination—Are we doing our part in keeping our country out of war? Are we doing our part, as non-participants in any form of war, to keep our fellowmen from being forced to participate in war? Will the efforts we are putting forth for peace really warrant our exemption should America become engaged in another war?

Just how tolerant are we in co-operating with other organizations to bring about peace and maintain peace?

Our Master said, "Not everyone that saith, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom . . ." Also he said, "By their fruits shall ye know them." The time is here when church affiliation will no longer be recognized as a stamp that one is a Christian. It is also obvious that our cry, "We be Abraham's seed", "We are Mennonites, Noncombantants, etc." will hardly grant us an exemption on religious grounds from serving our country in time of war. Does it not bear reason that it demands more than claims, to show we are sincere, in the program of peace on earth, and to be worthy of exemption?

Again, are we tolerant enough to co-operate with other peace loving people and organizations or still, only, when they do it our way? If willing, right now you have an opportunity to express yourself against war. The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. are carrying on a campaign to keep America out of war. Many newspapers in the U. S. are having ballots printed in their paper so that you, a citizen, might have an opportunity to express yourself against war.

No nation is any stronger or any weaker than the opinions of its people. No nation can do anything except with the approval of the majority of its people. If all American citizens of British, Japanese, Chinese, Italian, Russian and German extraction determine unanimously that they do not want any more war, there would be no officials, dictators, or rulers who would dare to suggest starting a war or participating in a war. to suggest starting a war or participating in a war. The small minority that seem to want war constantly, and to benefit by war, or glorify war, would be afraid to make even the slightest suggestion of war in the future.

Is it not true that the fault does not lie with the government, the rulers, or with luck or chance? The fault is right with each one of us and if throughout the peaceful years we make no move and fail to use our mind power to direct and control the laws of our country to do away with war, then it is too late when our nations begin to plan war for us to crawl into convenient shells and raise the white flag and proclaim ourselves conscientious objectors, spiritual being, noncombatants, and everything else that the average individual deems himself when he refuses to participate in war. Instead of remaining silent objectors throughout the peaceful years and becoming conscientious objectors only when war is at hand, we should be conscientious and determined objectors from morning until night, and from one end of the year to the other, until war is so outlawed in the human consciousness and in the statutes and laws of every country, and in our plans and thoughts of the future, that the question of war will never arise and there will never be an occasion for men and women to decide among themselves, on which side they will be or what attitude they will take.

But first, we should prepare ourselves to understand how to bring about universal peace by creating universal love and toleration in our own heart. As true Christians we should pray, hope, and aspire for universal peace and universal brotherhood. Then we are ready to help spread it to the hearts of other human beings. This truly is Christian and a Christian's duty. But this duty should not supplant the other great duty—that of assisting in preventing war by exercising our privilege as a citizen and a voter, rather than by shirking our duty or modifying it in time of war.

OTHERS MAY, YOU CANNOT.—If God has called you to be really like Jesus, He will draw you into a life of crucifixion and humility, and put upon you such demands of obedience, that you will not be able to follow other people, or measure yourself by other Christians, and in many ways He will seem to let other good people do things which He will not let you do.

Sunday School Lesson

A. S. Bechtel

January 30, 1938

MINISTERING TO SPIRITUAL NEEDS

Mark 2:1-12

In this lesson our Lord is exercising His prerogative of divine forgiveness. The whole presentation of Christianity deals with forgiveness of sin. The Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sin.

Jesus Preaching to a Large Audience vs. 1, 2

Many heard of Jesus' return from his journey through Galilee, into Capernaum. His coming was welcome news to them. A good man's coming is always welcomed. Jesus preached the word to them. He took every possible opportunity to do this, speaking about the things of eternal value. He preached too, in a wise way, discussing that which best met the spiritual needs of His hearers. He knew needs and ministered to them.

Four Men Help a Friend in Need vs. 3-5

The sick came and some were brought to Jesus for healing. One especially helpless, was carried by four good friends who would not let any obstacle prevent their bringing him to Jesus. They had faith that he could help him. The one weak and helpless spiritually, should be helped along by one or more of the spiritually strong. It frequently requires the united efforts of strong Christians to lead another to Christ. Most people have to be brought to Christ, they are so palsied with sin.

Jesus saw the faith of the five men in the act and manner of bringing him. Effective prayer is faith expressed in words or deeds. Their faith was eloquent in action. The four brought the man into Jesus' presence, a true prayer of faith. Jesus saw the man's greatest need, saw him truly penitent and spoke the word of forgiveness. The man had expected only the lesser-physical healing. He received also the greater-spiritual healing. Christ knows our hearts and sees our faith.

Critical Scribes vs. 6-8

These Scribes tried hard to find some way to condemn Christ. He declared himself God in forgiving the man's sins. This was blasphemy according to the Mosaic law. They considered him merely as a good man. Jesus knew the thoughts, the reasonings of their hearts and faced them directly. He had nothing to fear from them. He gave full proof of His power to forgive sins.

The Divine Physician vs. 9-12

To convince them of His power to forgive sins, Jesus performs a visible miracle, healing the man's body. This which they could see, proved His invisible power over the sinful heart. Both, healing the body and healing the soul are God's work. At the word of Jesus, the man arose fully recovered from his helplessness (contrast verses 3 and 12). He returned to his home walking, strong and free in spirit, peace in his heart. This is a true picture of what spiritual salvation does for us. The spiritual healing is as complete as the physical. Such healing amazes people and glorifies God today.

Jesus forgives sin and saves FROM sin and cleanses from all unrighteousness.

Faith put into action brings results.

There is no joy equal to the full assurance of sins forgiven.

Jesus does more than claim to forgive sin.

Jesus sees beneath the surface and into our inner hearts.

HELD ANNUAL DINNER

With approximately 90 members and friends in attendance, the annual fellowship dinner of the Deep Run New Mennonite church was held in the fire hall at Dublin on Saturday evening. In spite of the inclemency of the weather, a learge proportion of the members of the congregation attended the event which was featured by the serving of a turkey dinner by the ladies' auxiliary of the Dublin Fire Company.

Following the dinner a brief program was presented under the direction of Theodore W. Moyer, Line Lexington, who served as master of ceremonies. With Millard Detweiler, of Doylestown, directing, several quartet numbers were rendered and William Frei, Kellers Church, was the director of a trio which rendered instrumental selections. Several humorous readings were also given by Mrs. Ely R. Fretz, Pleasant Valley.

The main speaker of the evening was the Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Quakertown, who gave an illustrated address on the life of Christ. Others who spoke briefly were Harvey D. Hunsberger, president of the board of trustees of the church; Ely R. Fretz, Pleasant Valley; Edwin T. Landes, Pipersville and Rev. Allen M. Fretz.

During a service held in the church at Deep Run, Sunday afternoon two recently elected deacons, Levi S. Moyer, Chalfont and Charles F. Wasser, Bedminster, were ordained by the pastor, the Rev. Allen M. Fretz, of Perkasie.

The ordination sermon was delivered by Rev. Olin A. Krehbiel, pastor of Grace Mennonite Church, Lansdale. Rev. Freeman H. Swartz, Norristown, a son of this congregation, pastor of Eden Mennonite Church, at Schwenksville, also took part in the service which was largely attended.

OTHERS MAY, YOU CANNOT.—Others may be allowed to succeed in making money, or may have a legacy left to them, but it is likely that God will keep you poor, because He wants you to have something for better than gold, namely a helpless dependence on Him, that He may have the privilege of supplying your needs day by day out of an unseen treasury.

CORRESPONDENCE

HOFFNUNGSFELD (HOPEFIELD) CHURCH, MOUNDRIDGE, KANSAS

Dear Readers: It is sometime since a correspondence from our church has appeared in your columns. We wish to say that our church is still on the map of Kansas and that since April, 1937, we again have a minister, so that the church activities can be carried on as usual. On November 8, our church had its annual business meeting, and plans were made for another year. Our Sunday school was also reorganized under the leadership of Bro. Peter B. Stucky. Our young people are actively engaged in Christian Endeavor work, and our sisters in the Women's Missionary society. Since our pastor is with us, we had an addition to our church of 26 members, 14 by baptism and 12 by letter. May God bless these souls in our midst. Our pastor and wife made a trip in November, north and east, to visit relatives and at the same time attend a business meeting at Bluffton, O. December 2, they returned safely home. Beginning Monday, January 10, our pastor is to begin a series of meetings at the Friedenstal church, Tampa, Kans., Rev. H. H. Schmidt, pastor. Our dear Lord has blessed us abnudantly in the last year, both temporally and spiritually. Do we render unto him in gratitude, in words and deeds? Health conditions are quite good. We had a scarlet fever scare, so that schools and churches were closed for a while, but as far as we know no deaths have resulted and no cases have appeared recently. The disease is, therefore, by the help of God, pretty well wiped out.—May God abundantly bless the editor as well as all the readers of the Mennonite this year, is our desire for all.—Corr.

BETHEL CHURCH, FORTUNA, MO.

Greetings to all readers: As we look over the year so shortly gone, we find many reasons for thankfulness and rejoice that the Lord lead us in his own way.

March 1, 1937, Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Unruh from Pennsylvania came to serve our congregation. Their zeal for the Lord and his work, together with their sincere interest in us, certainly makes us love and respect them. The latter part of May our pastor and wife, with several assistants, conducted a Daily Vacation Bible School for children of the church and community. The closing program was given June 4, and the number of verses and songs rendered by the pupils was proof that they had learned something worthwhile.

In October we had a Young Peoples' Conference, consisting of a series of sermons by Rev. Dan Unruh of Pandora, Ohio, and two ministers from nearby towns. The messages were very inspiring and practical, to the life of an everyday Christian.

This fall we had the privilege of having two of our former pastors in our midst. Rev. J. M. Regier and wife stopped here on their return from taking their daughter to nurses' school at St. Louis. Rev. Regier delivered a message the evening of Sept. 22. On Sunday, October 31, Rev. C. H. Dirks, who moved to Hutchinson, Kansas, a little over a year ago, gave the morning message. We enjoyed having these good friends with us and wish them success in their present fields.—Mr. Hiram Hilty also preached in our church one Sunday morning, during his summer vacation. Mr. Hilty is attending the Theological Seminary at Hartford, Conn., this winter.

The A Capella choirs of both Bluffton and Bethel colleges gave programs to appreciative audiences in our church the past year.

The crops, the past year, while still below normal, were much better than the previous year, for which we are indeed thankful.

We are sorry to report two accidental deaths during the past year. Carl Garber, son of Wm. Garber, while on the highway examining his truck, was instantly killed when struck by a passing car.—On December 8, Mr. Bauman, father of Mrs. C. H. Dirks, was fatally injured while loading wood in the timber. Such trials are inded hard to bear, and it is only through God's grace and the hope of meeting them again, that we are able to go on through the lonely days that follow.

On Christmas eve, one of our older members, Mr. D. W. Baumgartner passed on to his reward while a patient at the Boonville Hospital.

The pastor is conducting a class in catechism for young people who desire to join church in the near future.—Our choir under the direction of Rev. Unruh, rendered a Christmas cantata at the church, Dec. 19, and at Fortuna, Dec. 26. Four new members have been added to the church the past year.

The young people of the church went from house to house singing new year hymns on New Year's eve, which were enjoyed by all who heard them.—Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, MADRID, NEBR.

Greetings with Ps. 36:5. The past year has brought us joys and blessings for which we are thankful to the Lord; but it has also had its difficulties, griefs and sorrows which have a depressing effect upon us. However, we read in Deut. 31:8: "The Lord doth go before thee, He will be with thee;" and if that is the case we can face the future with courage and confidence, knowing that He will take care of us.

At our annual business meeting which was held January 5, 1938, it was felt that the report from our church, which appeared in the Dec. 28 issue of the Mennonite, leaves the readers in the dark as to the actual conditions existing in our church. It was therefore requested that a report should be sent in to clear up the matter. It is true that Rev. N. P. Jansen has resigned, but we believe it was uncalled for, as the minor differences existing between Rev. Jansen and Rev. Warkentin had been settled as it was announcd by Rev. Jansen before the congregation shortly before his resignation. On Aug. 9, 1937, a meeting of the congregation was called to consider what steps should be taken. Rev. P. R. Schroeder from Freeman, S. Dak., and Rev. J. F. Epp from Henderson, Nebr., were present, the former presiding over the meeting. The resignation of Rev. N. P. Jansen as leader and minister was accepted by a vote of 22 to 8. Regarding the leadership and ministry for the future two views became evident among the members of the congrgation. One was, to retain Rev. Warkentin as minister and leader, and the other was to get another man. It was decided to call another meeting which was held Aug. 23. At this time it was decided by a vote of 23 to 6 that Rev. Warkentin should be retained as minister and that the question about the leadership be postponed to some future time. At our annual business meeting, Jan. 5, 1938, the congregation decided almost unanimously that they wished that Rev. Warkentin shall serve as minister and leader until the church decides to put in another man. Rev. Warkentin takes the stand that he is willing to serve if it is the wish of the congregation, but he is also ready to step aside, just as soon as the congregation wishes and is able to get another man. It should be clearly understood though, that any such step to bring in another minister should be left in the hands of the Board of Trustees, upon the expressed wish of the congregation, and not undertaken by any individual member or members of the congregation.

Referring to the quotation given by Brother P. A. Regier in the Dec. 28 issue of the Mennonite, Rev. H. A. Fast speaks of the smaller churches in the conference which "have too often been left to shift for themselves in a discouragaing struggle that has maintained nothing more than a mere existence," we believe that this does not apply to our church here at Madrid. We have been a self-sustaining church ever since 1930, when our church was organized. We have been so favored, that we have not been without a minister at any time until now, and for almost four years we have had two ministers. The Word of God has faithfully been preached every Sunday and on special occasions, Christians have been edified and strengthened in their spiritual life. Souls have been saved to a newness of life and have been added to the church, and a good number of these are sincere and active workers in the church and Sunday school. Indeed the Lord has been gracious to us for which we are very thankful.

Furthermore, we can say that our present minister, Rev. J. R. Warkentin, preaches the true and sound Gospel and we feel that our greatest need is not another preacher, but that the Word of God as it is being preached be accepted and followed by the members of the congregation. We do not want to be understood, that we do not desire the visit of our ministering brethern in the conference. We extend a hearty invitation to Rev. H. A. Fast, our field secretary, and to other ministers of our conference to pay us a visit when the opportunity offers itself. We would also ask our Christian brethern for the earnest intercession before the throne of Grace in behalf of our congregation.—Albert Dalke, Church secretary.

HEREFORD MENNONITE CH., BALLY, PENN.

Dear Editor and Readers:

Dr. O. W. Berky, the physician in our congregation addressed a full house on Sunday morning, September 26 on "God As Revealed in Medicine." There was a forceful message and why not try it in your own church.—Our Annual Fall Preparatory Services were held on Saturday evening, October 2, at which time thirteen young people joined our church membership and one came in by letter. The Communion Services were held on Sunday morning October 3.—Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Suderman presented an illustrated lecture in our church on the American Indians on Friday evening, October 8. It is always a blessing to hear from and see our representatives on the mission field. —Miss Clarine Cofflin, a senior in the Hartford Seminary, preached a forceful sermon on Sunday morning, November 7, on "Defeating Defeat." This Sunday also marked the sixteenth year of service for our pastor, Dr. Elmer E. S. Johnson. May the Lord grant him many more years of usefulness in our midst!—Two services were held in our church on Thanksgiving Day. A morning worship service at 9:30 and in the evening the Ladies' Aid Society held its annual anniversary program. Rolland Johnson who with his wife and young son Waldo spent the summer touring Europe, and renewing acquaintances, was the speaker, giving a word picture of conditions in Europe, particularly in Germany.—The Primary Department rendered their Christmas program on Sunday morning, December 19th while the Intermediate and Senior Departments presented a pageant "The Enchanted Candle" on Christmas evening. The offering at both services was given over to missions.—On Saturday, September 18th, Edwin L. Stauffer, our oldest church member was borne to his last resting place, having reached the age of 84 years. Others of our parishoners are also confined to their homes and beds and we extend our best wishes for a complete and speedy recovery to our pastor's wife who was hit by an automobile while attending the funeral of a relative and will have to be confined to her bed and room for at least four weeks.—Mae Latshaw, Corr.

LORRAINE AVE. MENN. CH., WICHITA, KANS.

Last Sunday, Jan. 9, we had 105 at the morning worship. At C. E. we had 42 in the senior department, 18 in the intermediate department and 11 in the junior department. In our Sunday school we have classes for all ages. No person entering the doors shall be left friendless. No person seeking help shall go away without assistance. This is a school working on the basis that the Bible holds out to every person a solution to each problem—Christ the center of all teaching.—Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening, with a study of Acts.—Several sisters, and the husbands of some formed a helping circle and assisted the pastor in making out the annual report.—Our John Mueller deserves special mention. Shortly after the pastor arrived, he put in a concrete roof over the cave, a concrete floor in the garage and sanded the yard. We all join in saying, "Thank you."—Ed. D. Schmidt, pastor.—This is a mission church fostered by the Western District.

MENNONITE CHURCH, ALSEN, N. D.

Hearty greetings with Psalm 95:1-6. On the 10th of October we had our annual business meeting. A church board was elected, and a new social committee, because two of the sisters had moved to California. On the evening of October 17, Missionary Mrs. Beth Wisser from Africa was with us, related many things about her work there and showed pictures to illustrate it. Those showed us how dark it still is in heathen lands, in spite of much work being done. Since the G. D. Steinle family left, we had to hold election for a new member on the board and one on a Committee, November 21. The 12th of December we had election of S. S. teachers and reelected the same superintendent. So our work is again provided for another year. On December 17 was held, in our church, the funeral of Harry Willis, son of Brother and Sister Willis. For Christmas we had fine programs, from which we received many blessings. December 26, Rev. B. H. Fadeurech(?) preached for us in English. We have considerable winter here, now, cold and some snow.—Mrs. Jacob Kunkel, Corresp.

— Visit to Menn. Mission Church, Wichita, Kans. In the neat little brick church at Lorraine and Gilbert streets the little congregation feels very much at home. The appellation "Gemeindlein" hardly applies any more, for the congreation numbers between 60 and 70. But the attendance at Sunday school and worship is considerably larger. Last Sunday it must have been double. The congregation is growing and takes a lively interest in the work. The pastor and his wife are aggressive and center their interest and their activity upon the church. When the Western District built this church, it did so with the hope, that whenever the congregation should outgrow it, and need a larger church edifice, this house might be used as a parsonage. That was well calculated. For the prospects are such, that enlarged accommodations would before long appear to be necessary.—C. Frey, in Bethesda Herold.

C. E. Week Closes

Last Sunday (Jan. 30) we opened the celebration of C. E. Week. We saw then that C. E. Week always comes during the week that includes Feb. 2. It is, perhaps, the greatest event of the year for the C. E. organization.

C. E. Week is the time when we go back to first principles; the time when we think again of the things that made a C. E. organization necessary and desirable; the time when we consider and rejoice once more about the miracle that made an organization grow from a single society to a great army that encompasses the globe.

So this (Feb. 6) being the last day of this week for this year, do not fail to do as much as you can, to make this a big day for your organization.

Many, Yet One

(Christian Endeavor Day)

I Corinthians 12:12-27

Young People's Topic for Feb. 6., 1938

Meditations:

M., Jan. 31. One in Faith. Gal. 19,20
T., Feb. 1. One in Loyalty. Phil. 3:7-12
W., Feb. 2. One Brotherhood. Eph. 1:1-12
T., Feb. 3. One Vine, Many Branches. John 15:1-10
F., Feb. 4. Many Races, But All One in Christ. 3:9-14
S., Feb. 5. Many Races, One Destiny. Rev. 7:9-17

Suggested Hymns:

"I Would Be True"
"Stand up, Stand up For Jesus"

Problems:

There are many Protestant denominations and independent churches. And among these churches there are a number of outward differences. But at heart the true church of Christ is one and transcends denominational lines and other distinctions which man has made.

The topic before us calls special attention to this unity of the church. The Apostle Paul mentions three things in which the church is united: "One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism" (Eph. 4:5).

(1) It is one in the Lordship of Christ. That is, it accepts no one else as Lord. Any one who does not bow to the Lordship of Jesus Christ does not belong to the true church of Christ.

(2) It is one in the Faith. There is a unity of faith in things that are essential. And all of these things are found in and based upon the Word of God. So it really means faith in the Bible as the inspired and authoritative Word of God. He who does not believe the Bible does not belong to the true church of Christ.

(3) It is one in Baptism. This reference is to Spirit-baptism which everyone who belongs to the true church of Christ has experienced. So, these three things then, unite all believers. There are many yet one.

I. How is this Unity brought about?

As the churches require water baptism so the Lord requires Spirit-baptism in becoming members of the Body of Christ. St. Paul says that, "By one spirit are we all baptised into one body". So it is not anyone's joining that unites him to the church and to Christ, but the baptism of the Holy Spirit at the time of the new birth.

Thus the unity of the church as a body is obtained by the impartation of the Spirit, and maintained by the participation of the Spirit.

II. Why, then, so much Diversity?

The diversity indicated in verse thirteen, has to do with their origin. To this classification let us add what the same Apostle says at a different place in the Bible.

(1) Racial Diversity (I Cor. 12:13, Gal. 3:28, Col. 3:11). The earliest churches consisted only of Jews. But soon Gentiles were added to it and given the same privileges. Saved Jews stand on the same level with saved Gentiles.

(2) Religious Differences—"Circumcision nor Uncircumcision". This was the mark of distinction between the Jewish religion and that of Gentiles. But even this is wiped away when people are saved. Circumcision today saves no Jew, nor does uncircumcision condemn any Gentile.

(3) Cultural Differences—"Barbarian, Scythian". One may have all the academic degrees that a man can earn in a life time, or be illiterate, and yet be a Christian. Culture, or the lack of it, does not bar anyone from membership in the church.

(4) Economic, or Social Differences—"Bond nor Free".

Slavery was a common practice during New Testament days, but both slaves and masters were eligible for membership in the body of Christ. Onesimus was a slave of Philemon, but after his conversion Paul reminds Philemon that he is now "above a servant, a brother loved" (Phile. 1:16).

(5) Sexual differences (Gal. 3:28)

Some religious cults accept men only. To some extent the Jews had come under this influence. At least the woman was not considered the man's equal in spiritual value. In the church of Christ the woman stands on the same level with the man.

All of these diversities of origin are wiped out when we become united to Christ.

III. What do we mean by the activity of the church?

The figure of the body is very convenient here. Let us just look at a few of the individual members for illustration.

(1) The Feet. These are the members of the church that move about a good deal. They visit the sick and poor, and are constantly "running errands" for the Lord.

(2) The Hand. The hand refers to labor. We can minister to the sick, sew clothes for the poor, give money for the Lord's work, write Bible expositions, compose music, play the piano, organ, or other musical instruments, all in the service of the Lord.

(3) The Ear. We need to hear the voice of God's Word. And, since some hear better than others, we do well to heed what others have heard from the Word of God. Paul heard a cry one night, "come over and help us". Have you heard such a call?

(4) The Eye. We must see the truth of Gods' Word. Then, too, we should see opportunities for service. It may also be that we will be able to find future helpers and workers if we keep our eyes open.

So, whatever function the Lord has given us, let us perform it faithfully.

IV. How, Then, is Harmony Possible?

All of the members are necessary. Not all can run, not all can work, not all can hear, not all can see; but everyone of us can at least do some one thing, and all of these things will be done if each member operates properly.

Even the weak members have their place and serve their purposes by drawing out the patience, love, and unselfishness of the stronger members. Then, too, the weak members oftentimes are able to perform a service which a strong member could not do. For example, the toes that seem to be of very little importance, serve to help balance the entire body.

V. What is meant by the Sympathy of the Members?

There is a pronounced interdependence among the members of the Christian Church. As Paul states in Rom. 14:7, no one lives to himself and no one dies to himself. So the welfare of one is the welfare of the other; the shame of one is the shame of the other; and the glory of one is the glory of the other; they are united by a bond of mutual sympathy.

These things should be found in every local Christian church. If they are lacking in the church we attend, let us feel the responsibility of setting the right example. We are many members, yet one Body. It takes the many to make the one, and all must function and cooperate to make the Body efficient.

Announcements by president

Quiet Worship

Piano: "Jesus Calls Us" (Played softly)

Leader: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."

Sing: "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross"

Scripture reading: Acts 20:17-24

Prayer by two Intermediates, the leader closing.

Presenting the Topic

1. Leader's Introductory remarks
2. Bible light on the topic
3. Questions answered

Closing Consecration Service

For an effective consecration service cut a large 57 from white cardboard. Fasten braces on the back, so the letters will stand on the piano or a table. Have ten white candles in holders in front of the numbers. The superintendent should have charge of this part of the meeting and can continue somewhat as follows:

"For 57 years young people have been trying to live by the motto: 'For Christ and the Church'. We shall first hear what the Bible says about what it means to live 'For Christ and the Church'.

As each of the following verses is read one of the candles is lighted.

1. Eccl. 12:1
2. I Tim. 4:12
3. I Cor. 2:2
4. Phil. 2:5
5. John 1:40-41
6. I Cor. 3:9a
7. Phil. 3:13,14
8. Col. 1:10
9. I Cor. 15:58
10. Phil. 1:21

(These can be handed to different members all written out)

Tonight in renewing our covenant let us each one say what it means to us by using the words of our pledge 'Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength I promise Him that I will . . .' and then completing the sentence in our own words or some part of the pledge." (If the Intermediates are timid about expressing themselves, give them slips of paper with this much of the pledge typed on it and ask them to complete it.)

Closing prayer and song, "Living for Jesus"

For the Leader

Fifty-seven years ago a group of young people, most of them in the teen-age, met with their pastor, Rev. Francis E. Clark, and organized the first cociety of Christian Endeavor. Mrs. Clark says of this first society, "Christian Endeavor began simply as an effort to help a few young people in one church to be earnest, friendly, useful Christians in the service of God." The motto of Christian Endeavor through all these years has been "For Christ and the Church." The purpose of this meeting will be to understand better what it means to live for Christ and the Church for each one of us

Questions to Be Answered

Bible Topics

1. How did Paul live for Christ? Phil. 1:21-26
2. How can we work for Christ? I Cor. 15:58
3. Are people dying for Christ today? Where and why? Acts 12:1-5
4. Mention some of the ways in which we can serve the church. Rom. 14:13-23
5. Why should we love the church? Ps. 137:1-6

Discussion:

1. What values do young people get from the church?
2. Why should we want to live for Christ and the church?
3. Why does the church need young people? What are some things young people can do best?
4. What are the young people of your society now doing for the church? Make a list on the blackboard. Add others that you can do.
5. How can we be sure that what we do for the church will also be for Christ?

JUNIOR CORNER

THE LEADER'S PRAYER

Pass through me Thy living waters
Unto thirsty hearts that wait
Now, in tender youth, in spring time,
Lest, oh lest it be too late.

Pass through me Thy living waters,
Plant the Seed and let it grow
Unto Life so full, abundant,
That shall richest fruitage know.

Pass through me Thy living waters,
Lord, I would be used of Thee
That in lives, so young, so tender,
There may be Eternity.

"God So Loved"

Is our theme for February study which is often called "the month of love".

> "I know not why God's wondrous grace
> To me He hath made known,
> Nor why, unworthy, Christ in love
> Redeemed me for His own."

The mystery of divine love remains "the unsearchable love" unsolved; precious because it is unsolved. It is our privilege to anchor the soul of a child in this deep Haven of Love. Once anchored there, what can tear it away?

Outline for the Month

February 6: God's love keeps me
February 13: God's love teaches me
February 20: God's love forgives me
February 27: God's love saves me

Verse for the Month: "I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee." Jer. 31:3

Song for the Month: "O Love That Wilt Not Let Me Go." Verse 1, 2 and 4. This hymn is a bit "old" for Junior age but we can teach them to love it, nevertheless. It is a good treasure to stow away for the years to come.

Aim as stated in issue of December 14, 1937

GOD'S LOVE KEEPS ME

Cut two large hearts out of poster sheets. Let your "artist" decorate these putting into the one the verse of the month which represents the love of God for us, the second one leave blank. This shall represent our love unto God and shall represent our growing love. At each meeting a letter from the word LOVE is added.

Opening service:

1. Call to worship by prelude using "Come ye that love the Lord"
2. Sing in unison this hymn, Verses 1, 2.
3. Rise to sing: "The Lord is in His holy temple"
4. Speak in unison the opening prayer: Psalm 19:14
5. Hold high the heart with Jer. 31:3 and let the children read the same in unison
6. The meaning of verses 1, 2, 4, of "O Love that will not let me go": by leader
7. Sing this hymn in unison
8. Read again in unison Jer. 31:3
9. Leader's prayer

Mission Minutes

Announcements

Study Period:

1. Introducing the theme of the month by chairman using the blank heart which shall represent our love to God. Into this he pastes into the upper corner a gilded letter "L" (when the word is completed at the end of the month, it should stand diagonally). He announces that we learn to love God by learning of His love to us. Next to this letter paste a little pocket. Verses stating the love of God should be distributed to a group on tiny slips once folded and tied with a bit of color. The chairman now asks for these and the ones holding them step to the front, read their verses and drop it into the small pocket.
2. Announce: that each week through this month there will be a new pocket. Any one that can speak a verse by memory which has the word "Love" in it, may bring it on a tiny piece of paper, recite it and drop it into the pocket. Their names should be on the slips. At each meeting announce the one that has most slips in and the follower up.
3. Special music with theme of God's love that keeps
4. God's Love Keeps Me: talks by juniors
   a. God keeps me from the enemy. II Kings 7:1-7. Let this junior also give a list of the enemies that Juniors have and state how God helps us to conquer them and keeps us from yielding to temptation
   b. God keeps me from danger: Ps. 34:7; Ps. 91:11, 12. Acts 5:16-20; Matt. 2:7-12; Matt. 2:13.
   c. God keeps me from physical want: Acts 8:26-40, Luke 19:1-10
5. Sing in unison: "Under His Wings." Verses 1 and 3
6. Heart-talk: What If. Explain the suffering and death and want in this world. It is God's way of drawing us closer to Him. Tell how He is always near in every suffering. God has to send us difficulties to make us strong.
7. Sing in unison: Verse one of "Nearer My God to Thee"
8. Leader's closing prayer

DEATHS

DR. PETER D. BIXEL, the oldest of a family of eleven children of Abraham and Magdalene (Schumacher) Bixel, was born April 21, 1865, near Bluffton, Ohio. He departed this life on Sunday evening, Jan. 2, 1938 while responding to an emergency call for medical aid. He had attained the ripe age of 72 years, 8 months and 12 days. At an early age he was baptized by Elder John Moser, upon confession of faith in the Lord Jesus Christ as his Saviour, and was received into the membership of the Swiss Mennonite Church. To this confession, which was due in no small measure to the faithful training received from his devout Christian parents, Dr. Bixel remained loyal throughout the whole of his rich and eventful life.

On Dec. 19, 1889, he was united in marriage to Elizabeth, daughter of Christian and Magdalene (Lugibihl) Steiner. They were the first couple to be married in the newly built St. John Mennonite Church, a mile east of Pandora. To this union were born three children, Mrs. Francis Marshall of Bluffton; Dr. Munson R. of Bluffton; and Madeline, a teacher in high school. In later years, after Dr. and Mrs. Bixel had located in Pandora, they took Miss Lillian Galloway into their home for several years, and the latter's daughter, Mary Lou Rust, is now living in the home of her foster grandparents. Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Bixel lived in Bluffton where he was engaged in merchantile business, until he took up the study of medicine. He was graduated from the Eclectic Medical College of Cincinnati in 1901, and then received his license from the State Medical Board. In the winter of 1901, Dr. Bixel located in Pandora which has been the center of his medical practice to the time of his sudden death.

Dr. Bixel's sudden death was not altogether unexpected. For some time the doctor realized that he had a heart affection, but he did not allow this to deter him in the slightest degree from what he conceived to be his line of duty, namely, giving himself unstintedly to the alleviation of human suffering. There can be no doubt but that Dr. Bixel's stout adherence to his maxim of "others first" hastened his departure from this life. It is because of this devotion to duty, too, that Dr. Bixel has so many friends and loyal admirers in this community.

Dr. Bixel's public service was not entirely confined to the practice of medicine. At the time of his death he was a member of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Pandora; a member of the County Board of Health; Chairman of the Medical Staff of the Bluffton Community Hospital; Chairman of the Putnam County Republican Central Committee; a member of the State and National Eclectic Medical Association; a member of the Ohio State and National Medical Association. Several years ago Dr.

Bixel served Putnam County as coroner for several terms and was a member of the Riley Township Board of Education for several years.

Dr. and Mrs. Bixel united with the Grace Mennonite Church at the time of its organization and remained faithful members ever since. The Doctor leaves behind to mourn his departure, his loving wife, the children named above, four grandchildren, five brothers, Dr. David C. of Bluffton, Noah of Pandora, Prof. John of Tacoma, Wash., Samuel S. of Bluffton, Menno of West Liberty, one sister, Mrs. Peter C. Steiner of Pandora and an innumerable host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted at the Grace Mennonite Church on the afternoon of Jan. 5th by his pastor, Rev. E. Whitmer, assisted by President A. S. Rosenberger of Bluffton College, and Rev. Armin C. Steiner. This was the largest funeral held in this community for many years.

ANDREAS RUDIGER, son of David and Elizabeth (Jantz) Rudiger, was born May 14, 1853, at Karlswalde, Poland, Russia. He was baptized upon his confession of faith in Christ Jesus by elder Tobias Unruh and became a member of the local Mennonite church. In the year 1874 the family joined the great immigration to America and came to Great Bend, Kansas. He homesteaded a farm near Kinsley, Kansas, but later came to McPherson county.

On March 5, 1885, he united in holy matrimony with Anna (Richert) Unruh, a widow with four children: Mrs. Elizabeth Schultz, Mrs. Susie Schultz and J. J. Unruh of Pawnee Rock, Kansas, and C. J. Unruh of Livingston, Calif. To this union eight children were born, one of whom died in infancy: Mrs. Lena Heer, Green; Mrs. Carrie Nickel, Hesston; Obed Rudiger, Greensburg; Frank A. Rudiger, Mrs. Anna Koehn, Miss Mary Rudiger, and Joe Rudiger, Galva, Kansas. The couple shared joy and sorrow for 48 years, until death called mother home, March 5, 1933. The rest of his life father remained on a farm near Moundridge, with Mary and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Koehn, having lived there altogether 54 years.

Father Rudiger enjoyed good health, until one of his eyes began to cause him great pain. An operation was performed which gave him relief. Other complications set in, however, until, on December 23, 1937, he was called home, having been sick 4 weeks, the last 16 days at Bethel Hospital. His age was 84 years, 7 months, and 9 days.

The deceased had the blessed assurance of his salvation through Jesus Christ and wished to be with Him rather than to recover. He remained a true member of the Emmanuel Church near Galva, Kansas, since the time it was organized.—He leaves to mourn 11 childern, 50 grandchildren, 30 great grandchildren, one brother Carl Rudiger of Pawnee Rock, Kansas, and a host of friends and relatives. Funeral services were held at the home and the church, Tuesday, Dec. 28, in charge of Rev. J. J. Ratzlaff, his pastor, assisted by Rev. E. J. Neuenschwander.

MOTHER MATILDA WARKENTIN, NEE HINZ, was born in the village of Paulsheim, South Russia on Oct. 11, 1868. When a child of 6 years she came to America with her parents. She spent the greater part of her childhood in Moundridge, with her sister, where she attended the school and learned the English language. She often said that the first English song she learned was, "Jewels, Precious Jewels."

In 1888, Nov. 4, she was baptized by Rev. Dietrich Gaeddert and, herewith, united with the Hoffnungsau church, whose faithful member she remained to the end. On August 29, 1892, she united in holy matrimony with Abraham Warkentin. They were permitted to share the joys and hardships of life for a little more than 15 years, father passing away in March 1, 1908. Thus she lived in her widowhood for almost 30 years. Nine children were born to them, who are all living and mourning her departure. Her life was not all sunshine and roses. She had the burden of rearing her large family all by herself. Yet, she never complained. When the children were grown up and the days began to look brighter, she began to suffer from arteriosclerosis (hardening of arteries). This set in about 16 years ago, and she has suffered much, yet patiently. Even in her suffering she was a ray of sunshine in the home and still enjoyed life. Last spring it was found that a complication of diseases had set in, also Tacoma of the right eye, which caused blindness to the same. On October 24 she was taken to the Bethesda Hospital in Goessel, Kansas, where the best of medical aid and nurses' care gave her temporary relief. On Sunday morning, Dec. 12, she quietly passed on to be forever with her Lord and Savior. During her stay in the hospital, she enjoyed sacred songs such as these, especially: "There Is Nothing between My Soul and My Savior," "What Would You Give in Exchange for Your Soul," "You've God to Go through the Lonesome Valley." She gave us the assurance that all was well between herself and her Savior and that she was glad to enter into His rest, should she be called.

She leaves to mourn her death, 5 sons and 4 daughters-in-law; 4 daughters and 3 sons-in-law; 17 grandchildren and 1 grandson-in-law; also 3 brothers, Julius, George and Henry Hinz, all of Oklahoma. Besides these, many other relatives and many friends.

She reached the age of 69 years, 2 months and 1 day.

At the funeral service in the Hoffungsau Church, Rev. A. J. Dyck preached in English, and Rev. C. Vogt, Hillsboro, in German. Interment in church cemetery.

« « JOTTINGS » »

O.B.A., MENO, OKLAHOMA

The speakers for the second week of the Special Bible Course, Jan. 17-23 are Rev. H. U. Schmidt, Meno, and Rev. J. W. Bergen, Goltry.—For the third week, Jan. 24-30, Rev. P. H. Richert, Goessel, Kans., and Rev. . B. Frey.—Those for the fourth week will be announced later.

— First Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—At the annual business meeting the pastor's term of service was extended for three years. May our working together prove a blessing to the church, as well as the Kingdom of God. Let us pray for each other, as we continue this work.—The church council is making preparation for the annual soliciation for the church budget.

— Mennonite Church, Shafter, Calif.—There have been united with this church, on Nov. 7, 1937, and Jan. 2, 1938, a total of 23 members. Rev. Gustav Frey had the pleasure of baptizing five of them, while eighteen were received by letter. Our annual meeting resolved that we make this a singing church. So in addition to our regular young people's choir we have also organized a men's chorus.—This congregation has just recently moved into an up-to-date, new brick church.

— First Mennonite Church, Allentown, Pa.—Rev. H. N. Nyce, the pastor, reports that he enjoyed a visit to Bluffton College recently, and that he is thoroughly convinced "that the college merits our moral, financial and prayerful report.—The pastor declined a call from the Immanuel Mennonite Church of Los Angeles, Calif.

— Menn. Church, Hutchinson, Kans.—Rev. C. H. Dirks addressed the student body of Bresee College, January 6, on the subject, "The World's Challenge to the Christian Life." After the message a young student came forward and confessed Christ as his Savior and Lord.—Regarding the 13,000 miles traveled by Rev. Dirks, reported last week, it should be stated that more than half of this mileage was for pastoral calls.

—Bethel Mennonite Church, Perkasie, Pa.—In the reorganization of our Sunday school the old officers, with C. F. Myers as superintendent, were retained. The S. S. Christmas program consisted of carols, Scripture passages, and recitations. On Jan. 2, attendance award cards were made the first time to sixteen. F. E. Landis.

NOT GROWING OLD

They say that I am growing old,
I've heard them tell it times untold,
In language plain and bold—
But I'm NOT growing old.

This frail old shell in which I dwell
Is growing old, I know full well—
But I am not the shell.

What if my hair is turning grey?
Grey hairs are honorable, they say.
What if my eyesight's growing dim?
I can still see to follow Him
Who sacrificed His life for me
Upon the Cross of Calvary.

What should I care if Time's old plow
Has left its furrows on my brow?
Another house, not made with hand,
Awaits me in the Glory Land.
What tho' I falter in my walk?
What tho' my tongue refuse to talk?
I still can tread the Narrow Way,
I still can watch, and praise and pray.

My hearing may not be as keen
As in the past it may have been,
Still, I can hear my Savior say
In whispers soft, "This is the way."

The outward man, do what I can
To lengthen out his life's short span,
Shall perish, and return to dust,
As everything in nature must.
The inward man, the Scriptures say,
Is growing stronger every day.
Then how can I be growing old
When safe within my Savior's fold?

Ere long my soul shall fly away,
And leave this tenement of clay.
This robe of flesh I'll drop and rise
To seize the "everlasting prize"—
I'll meet you on the Streets of Gold,
And prove that I'm not growing old.

EDITORIALS

A REMINDER.—This item is written by the editor as such, not as a member of a board.

The General Conference is, what it is, because of the interest that has been developed, through the years, in the work of missions, relief and other kinds of Samaritan service. God has so blessed us that the sums we have been able to lay on His altar have reached up into the million column. Praised be His name! And how He has blessed us in return, to prove the truth of His word, Eccl. 11, 1, "Cast thy bread upon the waters; for thou shalt find it after many days." Only we didn't have to wait many days. His blessings are ours, now, spiritually and otherwise. Many churches and individuals have also given more or less liberally toward the support of our schools which, too, have been a definite help to us and the work of the Kingdom.

There is, however, one branch of conference activities, that has served the others as a handmaid, quietly, modestly, without any definite financial help from the churches, except once. This is the work of publication. Recently conditions arose which made the Conference feel that this branch should be given a new lease of life and enlarged opportunities for serving its parent and the churches, in the upbuilding of God's Kingdom among us. The result was that the Board of Publication was given certain directions by conference resolutions as follows: Bluffton, 1933, "The Conference gives the Board of Publication permission to purchase and operate a printing plant, after the indebtedness of the Board has been met, and if the Board then sees it feasible to make such a purchase and engage in printing." Also, "Resolved, that the Board be allowed to send a man into the field to collect money (to satisfy the creditors) and if possible create a fund for the purpose of buying a printing plant."

The invention of printing added a new element of power to the race. From that hour, in a very special sense, the brain and not the arm, the thinker and not the soldier, books and not kings, weapons forged in the mind, were to supplant the sword.—Whipple.

The Board of Publication has sent a brother into the Western district to solicit gifts for the purpose of acquiring a printing plant, and another one is scheduled to work in the Northern district. The sum needed is not large and, when distributed among the five districts, should not prove a burden to the constituency. The Board prefers to link up with an existing printing plant under Mennonite control, if this can be done in the interest of the Conference. It also prefers to leave the Conference bookstore at its present location.

TOO MANY LEARNED FOLKS?—There is a growing opinion that too many students are attending college. Statistics prove that the attendance at higher insitutions of learning has, in many countries, doubled and trebled, or even become six-fold. From a study of the situation which has been made the conclusion has been drawn that the sorry plight of the unemployed college graduates is a principal cause of the social unrest in Europe. Youths who have discovered that their education avails them little or nothing have turned to revolutionary activities to secure the realization of their blasted hopes. Germany has tried to remedy the situation by forcibly reducing the number of students entering her high schools. But it is doubtful if any country has the right to deprive any capable person of a higher education. The fundamental difficulty in this problem lies in the fact that we do not educate young people primarily for service to their fellowmen. Figures are paraded before them to show that a high school graduate is due to draw a salary approaching $2,000.00 and a college graduate $3000-$4000. High salaries, white collar jobs, fat positions are held out to them as the objectives, instead of service in any capacity, be it ever so lowly. For, an educated person, with Christ in his heart and life, can dignify any kind of work, be it ever so commonplace. What is needed among these folks is persons like Moses and the Apostle Paul, both of whom were highly educated men, and the world is still feeding on the blessings that they have brought to it. Let us thank God for our own Christian colleges where the ideal of service is constantly kept before the students. Not all will yield to it, but many have done so and many more will do it.

WHAT ARE GOD'S CHALLENGES? Will a man rob God? Ye have robbed me. But ye say, wherein have we robbed thee. In tithes and offerings. Ye are cursed with a curse; for ye have robbed me, even this whole nation.—Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse that there may be meat in my house and PROVE ME HEREWITH saith the Lord of Hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven and pour you out a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it. And I will rebuke the devourer for your sakes and he shall not destroy the fruits of the ground. Neither shall your vine cast her fruit before the time in the field, saith the Lord of Hosts.—And all nations shall call you blessed for ye shall be a delightsome land, saith the Lord of Hosts.—Mal. 3:8-12.

Dharmuh

Greetings from the 18-year old cripple and brother in Christ. When six years old he lost the use of his legs. With two pieces of wood in his hands he hops about. He entered our mission school, finished the fourth grade. As he was very bright and enjoyed the Bible stories, we asked his father to attend the Birra school. Being scared Dharmuh would become a Christian, he would not consent.

Years elapsed until last year this cripple said repeatedly, "I must openly accept the Lord Jesus, may my father and brother disown me, or whatever they do, I must become a true Christian." After baptism his father exclaimed, 'If you will come near my home, I shall beat you." Dharmuh stayed away, begged to let him learn sewing in Birra. He was sent, with his meagre knowledge he kept on writing to his brother, beseeching him, "Please accept this Saviour, He is my all in all, I am very happy." After one year his older brother offered to get him 25 miles on the bicycle, took him for two days to his non-Christian relatives for testimony, again to his home, where he sat close to his father's side and witnessed. Late, before returning to school, he came to say good-bye, his face glowing with joy and assurance, "Jesus is going to draw my father, brother and families soon." The brother is near the Kingdom. Please pray for them.

Let us tell you, dear friends, we could hardly sleep that night for joy. Pray for him daily that he may become a great preacher to lead many souls to Christ. Even our old evangelist came and begged, "Please may we take him to the village for witnessing." By now he is striving to earn his own support sewing for others.

Again we notice what power the Gospel has. What an example this crippled brother is to us all!—P. W. Penner.

STIR UP ONE ANOTHER.—Not in the sense in which we usually use this expression, but "to love and good deeds" as Moffatt translates it. That is a part of the purpose of this little paper. Anything that is reported in the way of achievement in a church is not done in the spirit of, "We are doing more than you," but rather, "We are doing all we can to make the work of our church as effective as possible for His glory, not ours." Progress in the work anywhere is cause for common rejoicing. Sharing it with the church family of the Pacific District in this way does "stir us up to love and good deeds."—E. R. in "Workers Exchange."

GOD'S RICHES AND CHALLENGES.—HOW RICH IS GOD?—The money belongs to Him: The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of Hosts.—Hag. 2:8.

The beast, cattle, etc. are His: For every beast of the forest is mine, and the cattle upon a thousand hills. I know all the fowls of the mountains, and the wild beasts of the forests are mine. If I were hungry, I would not tell thee, for the world is mine and the fullness thereof.—Ps. 50:11-12.

The whole world is his: The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein.—Ps. 24:1.

Riches and honor come from the Lord to His own: Both riches and honor come from thee, thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all.—But who am I, and what is my people, that we should be able to offer so willingly after this sort? For all things come from thee, and of thine own we have given thee.—I Chron. 29:12ff.

Why Go to Church

"Come, see a man, which told me all things that ever I did." These words were uttered by a woman who came in personal contact with Jesus, the Son of God. We are living in a day when people need that personal contact with the Man, Christ Jesus, who has proved Himself a friend to all in need in former days and who is the solution of all our problems today.

The Church invites all Christians to assemble regularly each Lord's Day for the strengthening of Faith and to enjoy the fellowship of like minded people.

The Church urges all young people to come within its sacred walls, that youth may receive courage to face the problems of the future and the guidance and companionship of the Friend of young people.

The Church welcomes the man who is struggling with himself, whether he be rich or poor, whether he be a laborer, business man or professional man, whether he be educated or unlearned, to come into the Church and come in contact with Him who knows all about your struggles. He is waiting, ready to help. The Psalmist said, "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord." In these days when men's hearts fail because of fear, we should be glad to say, "I am glad that I may go into the house of the Lord." Let us rejoice in this great privilege and GO TO CHURCH EVERY SUNDAY. —Howard G. Nyce.

Prayer Upon Entering the Church

Open mine eyes that I may see
Glimpses of truth Thou hast for me;
Place in my hand the wonderful key
That shall unclasp and set me free.
Silently now, I wait for Thee,
Ready, my God, Thy will to see.

Christian Education

II. A MENNONITE SEMINARY

Lester Hostetler, Member Board of Education

NOTE: Rev. Hostetler invites discussion of this subject in the Mennonite. The editor will be glad to give space for a FORUM for articles that talk to the point.

In a previous article I wrote of the need for a training school for our candidates for the ministry, the mission field, and Christian work generally. Now I wish to point out some of the difficulties in the way of establishing such a school. They are many and obvious.

There is the financial problem. It requires money to run any kind of a school. Underpaid teachers will finally lose heart and quit. There is enough money in the church to support our colleges adequately and to establish a Seminary in addition. But money cannot be confiscated by church authorities. It has to be wooed and won from people who have it and can be persuaded that it is better to invest it in Mennonite Schools than to keep it for themselves or their children, or to invest it in stock certificates or in the enlargement of their own business. Many of the theological seminaries are heavily endowed. They have fine buildings, unlimited library facilities, employ highly trained and experienced teachers, and offer attractive scholarships to prospective students. Can we compete with them?

There is the problem of our denomination being comparatively small and at the same time widely scattered, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and into the Canada. If a Seminary is located at one point, will it be attended by students from all over the church, or will it become sectional in its appeal and interests?

There is the problem of an adequate set-up in equipment and faculty so as to attract our best students. A Seminary with inadequate standards which will attract only students who find it impossible to enter other schools would become a serious obstacle to progress. For, our workers would then be drawn from second-rate students trained in a second-rate school. A Mennonite Seminary must be good enough to hold the respect of our college graduates and make them want to attend it in preference to the large institutions already in existence. We can appeal to denominational loyalty; but that is not enough. The school must be a good one.

There is the problem of securing the united support of the constituency. Our church life and organization has strongly tended towards individualism. We are at one in fundamentals but we differ from each other in some of our ways, and scripture interpretations, and tastes. A Seminary will have a tendency to bring our differences to a focus. Its president and faculty will be carefully watched and, probably, severely criticised. Probably I am exaggerating. But I find a good deal of intolerance in my own heart and I do not know how to avoid it. When I hear for instance, that the editor of the Defender Magazine is invited to speak in some of our Mennonite churches, I am inclined to criticize and want to do something about it. For I have read his literature and heartily dislike what he says and the spirit in which he says it. But I remember that each church is entitled to have what they believe to be good, and since I am not asked to pay the bill, I go my way satisfied. But a Seminary is different from the individual church. Many will offer to play the tune. And all will feel they are paying the piper. It is good and pleasant for brethren to dwell together in unity. I will not say that it is impossible for 150 Mennonite churches, with four hundred years of traditions tending to individualism, to unite in the support of a Seminary. But it seems to me to be one of the problems from which we dare not, ostrich-like, hide our eyes.

Report of Second Regional Peace Conference

Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa.

(Unfortunately this report appears later than we intended to bring it.)

The Peace Conference was especially planned for the leaders of churches. The morning session was spent in discussing the spiritual aspect of peace. We need more and greater faith, a faith that believes God is able and will deal with the world situation of today. We should think of Christ as the Prince of Peace, and the Gospel the Message of Peace. We should see peace as the heart and essence of Christ's teaching and life.

The afternoon session was devoted to the economic view of life. We ought to be well informed on world affairs. We should be able to distinguish between propaganda and true facts. The President should enforce the neutrality act by declaring our country neutral. Even as a neutral nation we may participate in world affairs. The tariff question is closely related to our peace. Since legislation is so important, we as Christian citizens should not forget our duties at the polls. We should also let our Congressmen know that we are opposed to appropriating so much for the army and navy. At the present time our country is spending more on armaments than at any other time since the World War.

In the evening, Rev. J. J. Plenert of Philadelphia spoke of his experiences at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. In all his trials he had "the peace of God that passeth all understanding." He suggested that in times of peace, young people obtain all the information they can concerning non-resistance, and that they speak to their ministers concerning it. But, above all, they should have a deep conviction of their own. If the young people are sincere in their convictions, they will not be punished for the stand they take; but they will have to pay the price for "the peace that passeth all understanding."

Resolutions

1. We recommend that we follow Christ, the Prince of Peace, in our convictions, actions and reactions, in our private life, as well as in the exercise of our citizenship.

2. We recommend that each congregation, through their own local committee, draw up a message to be transmitted to their Congressman, asking him to use his influence to invoke the neutrality act already passed.

3. We recommend that Armistice Day be used, annually, as the day for our regional peace conference, and that in the future plans be made well in advance, so as to bring together the Brethren Church, The American (Old) Mennonite Conference, the Friends, as well as our Eastern District Conference.

4. In order to show our willingness to help those in need, we recommend that we give practical evidence of our concern, by gathering clothing and funds for our impoverished brethren in Canada, and give similar support to the Spanish Children Feeding Mission.

NOTE WELL: Used clothing for the brethren in Canada may be sent to Rev. David Toews, Rosthern, Saskatchewan, Canada.

Funds for Spain should be sent to Committee on Spain, American Friends Committee, 20 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, Pa. New clothing can be sent to above address to Storeroom, 1515 Cherry Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Signed, A. J. Neuenschwander,
Robert Stauffer, Mary E. Hunsberger.

HOW TO KILL YOUR CHURCH

Don't come.

If you do, come late.

When you come, come with a grouch.

At every service ask yourself, "What do I get out of this?"

Never accept office. It is better to stay outside and criticise.

Visit other churches about half of the time to show your pastor that you are not tied down to him. There is nothing like independence.

Let the pastor earn his money.

Sit pretty well back and never sing; if you have to sing, sing out of tune and behind everybody else.

Never pay in advance, especially for religion. Wait until you get your money's worth, and then wait a bit longer.

If your church unfortunately happens to be harmonious, call it apathy or indifference or lack of zeal, or anything under the sun except what it is.—"Farm and Home"

FORUM

"ONCE SAVED, ALWAYS SAVED"

P. H. Richert

The last number of the "Mennonite" calls for a forum on this question. But it is to be brief.

When one looks hastily at some scripture passages used for this doctrine, it is not surprising to find a number of Bible students, who accept it. But here, as in many other cases, it is necessary to sum up all that the scriptures teach on security, before one can get to the bottom of the subject. This problem of security is almost as deep and difficult as that of the doctrine of "predestination", and "election", or "calling". If we understand this calling, we can also understand eternal security.

Let us briefly look at God's calling as Paul explains it in Romans 8:28. Paul says, "Who are the called according to his purpose?" This his purpose is the whole secret, because it shows that this calling is according to a plan, and not arbitrarily made. What is this purpose, or plan? Ephesians 3:11 gives the answer: "According to the eternal purpose, which he purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord". That is the whole secret in a nutshell, and this purpose in Christ is so abundantly explained in the scriptures, that we all can know it; it is this, that all who believe in Christ, the Son of God, have life, John 5:24, (provided it is a living faith, i.e. a faith active in love. Gal. 5:6)

Some take John 5:24 as an absolute statement, and find eternal and unconditional security in it. But how about John 3:36—"He that believeth not the Son, shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him." These two passages sound rather absolute, especially the last one, as if there were no hope for the unbelievers, who have once taken a stand against Christ. But no one would want to uphold such an interpretation in the face of experience and the total teachings of the scriptures. Just so the first passage is not absolute, except according to the eternal purpose in Christ, i.e. as long as one remains a believer. So we have every reason to pray for the unbelievers, that they may become believers, and for the believers that they may remain believers, lest they fall away.

That a falling away is possible, is seen in Hebrew 6:6—"if they shall fall away, to renew them again to repentance". It is sometimes said that these are only "tasters" and not really renewed people. But if that were true, the apostle could not speak of renewing them "again". This word "again" shows, that they were renewed once before.

This passage evidently speaks of those who, after having received the Holy Ghost, "crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to open shame", thereby, no doubt, committing the sin against the Holy Spirit, that it is their own deliberate doing in the full light of the Holy Spirit.

(This passage does, of course, not deny the possibility of renewing again those who do not fall from the same height of spiritual life to the same depth as those in Hebrew 6:6. Millions who had fallen away have been renewed again.)

In conclusion I wish to quote I Peter 1:10, "Brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure". Objectively the election is eternally secure, but subjectively it depends on our remaining in Christ. God does not take away our free will to remain or not to remain in Christ, but he makes it hard by his love and even chastisement, etc., to give up Christ. No outside power, not even the devil, can "pluck" the saved out of Christ's hand. What more do we want? John 10:28. That is enough eternal security for all who want to remain in Christ. Those who do not want to remain in him, certainly would not care for a security to which they do not consent.

A Word to Pastors and Church Boards

In the January 4 issue of THE MENNONITE we made an URGENT APPEAL to every church, pastor and church board to be so kind as to elect or appoint a person as correspondent to this paper, for 1938, and to report the person's full address to us as early as possible.

To date the following churches have reported:

First Church, Napanee, Ind., Miss Edna Schrock

First Church, Reedley, California, Miss Helen Fast

First Church, Halstead, Kans., Miss Katie Schmidt

First or Mission Church, Lima, O., Mrs. R. E. Bixel, 434 Marian Ave.

First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, Mrs. Gertrude Crippin

First Church, Pandoa, Ohio, Mrs. S. W. Steiner

First Church, Pratum, Oreg, Mrs. J. L. Merryman

Herford Church, Bally, Pa., Miss Mae Latshaw

First Church, Hutchinson, Kansas, C. C. Epp

Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas, Albert Gaeddert

Mennonite Church, Pulaski, Iowa, W. W. Miller

Bethany Menn. Church, Freeman, S. D., Ted Kleinsasser

Hebron Church, Buhler, Kansas, Mrs. T. A. van der Smissen.

Mennonite Church, Butterfield, Minn., Mrs. R. E. Casey.

First Church, Berne, Ind., Miss Martha Gilliom.

This makes fifteen churches out of 158. Will not the remaining 143 also kindly take steps to select a person who will write about the doings in their congregations? We should like to chronicle a correspondent for every church within the next three or four weeks.

CHALLENGING THE SOCIAL ORDER

Mark 2:13-22

Introduction

Jesus' healing miracles amazed the people. They "glorified God," they flocked around Him, "all the multitude" (v 13). Jesus went again to the seaside where all could see and hear Him. Rich and poor, scribes and Pharisees, publicans and sinners, came to Him. Jesus "taught them." He was a great teacher rather than preacher and miracle worker.

Levi (Matthew) called vs. 14, 15

Levi, the son of Alphaeus, (v14) called Matthew, a Jew, was a tax collector for the Roman government. On this account he was hated, even as publicans were. Jesus called him to follow Him. He arose at once, left his profitable business and followed Him. No doubt Jesus knew him before this time. Levi lived in Capernaum where Jesus had been preaching, teaching and healing for some time. No doubt he had heard Him preach and had witnessed His miracles. He probably believed that Jesus was the Messiah and so was prepared in heart for Jesus' call to him.

Jesus did not call sinners who did not believe in Him to be His followers. Jesus invited Levi into the inner circle of his friendship. To this He invites each one of us. Levi invited many of his publican friends (v15) to meet Jesus and His disciples at a feast prepared in His honor. He wanted them to know Him. They all sat together in friendly informality. Jesus sets no limit to his friendships. He used every opportunity to teach religious truths.

Self-righteous Critics vs. 16, 17

The critical scribes and Pharisees—not invited to the feast—yet they came, they saw Jesus eat (v16), they were watching Him to find some fault in Him. We, too. are under observation continually. They lacked courage to speak their criticisms direct to Jesus. But He heard all (v17). He indicated that He was among these publicans as a physician among the sick. He came to call sinners—not self-righteous Jews—to repentance. The sinner has need of the healing power of Jesus. Jesus associated with sinners, but always in such a way as to help them, to save them from the continued power of sin.

Question of Fasting vs 18-22

Jesus and His disciples did not practice the Pharisees' rule to fast two days each week. These critics asked "why"? They questioned Christ's right to disregard the customs of their religion (18). Jesus indicates clearly (vs 19, 20) that there is a proper time to fast—when the heart calls for it. While He, the bridegroom is here, is a time of rejoicing, not of humiliation and repentance. But the days are coming when fasting will be the desire of the heart. Religious observances are of value to us in so far as they give expression to our inner heart feelings.

In verses 21 and 22, Jesus utters an important fundamental truth—He has come to establish a new Gospel dispensation, not to patch up an old one. He came to instil a new life into religious beliefs and practices. The new spirit of His gospel does not fit into the old forms of worship and ceremony. He came to be the Mediator of a new covenant. They must change their ways of thinking in religion, changing it from being so largely form and ritual, to being essentially a new manner of life. It means a new heart life through spiritual regeneration, a "new creature in Christ."

Levi was ideal in his response to Jesus' call.

We are workers together with Christ to establish the new social order that He ordained.

Sermon Sketch

WHO ARE THE BLESSED?

Rev. J. Clair Peters

The first Beatitude reads, "Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." I would read it this way—extremely happy are the self-renounced for Christ's sake, for they are in possession of the heavenly kingdom.

In the first chapter of the Sermon on the Mount we find more than twenty-five marks of Christian perfection. Jesus concludes the chapter with, "Be ye therefore perfect even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." In this great statement of Christian perfection is Jesus tantalizing us with an utter impossibility? How absurd to even think of such a thing. But let us leave off the "buts" and face this great statement. Did he mean it or did he not?

The first statement in this great sermon is, "Blessed are the poor in spirit." Not the haughty, not the highminded, not the conceited, not the self-centered, not the self-imposing, nor the little big "I am." Not even any other of the unnameable imps of hell, but, the poor spirited, self-renounced, non-parading, unassuming, crucified, Christ-centered soul. He is extremely happy. This is the greatest blessing of all blessings. Why? It puts us exactly where God wants us to be and we are now fit for the Master's use; and the only kind of a person he can greatly use. He that is in love with God with all his heart and is guided by supreme wisdom is the only one that can be happy even in a lion's den or bowery, telling the blessed story.

So many people are sticklers on the point that the kingdom of God is within us, but in word and deed utterly deny it. Apparently Christ is not the personal King enthroned in their heart. Selfishness, jealousy, bigotry, and self-aggrandizement is their motivating force. While Jesus says it must be supreme love for God.

It is an utter impossibility to fully reach any other point in the whole Sermon on the Mount as applies to personal conduct until we get this first Beatitude lived out. With this first one fully accepted and realized in one's life, we can reach the next and the next, and so on until we come to the "Be ye therefore perfect." Jesus began at the heart and put first things first. Our more modern friends would say begin with society, but Jesus begins with the individual and the results will be good society. It is high time professors of the Christian religion begin to live and embody their religion and not embalm it.

A heart that has renounced self for Christ has permitted Christ to set up his throne in his heart, and if Christ is personally enthroned then the kingdom of heaven is his because he has accepted heaven's King. If Jesus is the supreme ruler in any heart then the only conclusion is the perfect. The more than twenty-five marks of Christian perfection lived out can only produce the perfect. Omit the first and all the rest are impossible. To keep these sayings of Christ, as an external command, will produce a perfect Pharisee, but to accept and live them will produce the perfect Christian lover. Without the first lived out, Christians become living truth-perverts. The Sermon on the Mount must be lived and embraced by godly Christians or it is killed and disgraced by godless Christians.—Dillsberg, Pa.

A Trip to the Pacific Coast

Having been privileged to make a tour to the Pacific coast last summer, I should like to give a brief account of some of the many interesting things we saw and were impressed with, for the benefit of our friends. Mrs. Neufeld, our daughter Esther, her husband Louis Johnson, and myself, left Medford, Okla., on the morning of Oct. 12, per auto, with the best wishes of our neighbors, for Shafter, Calif., where my wife and I each have a brother and other relatives and friends. The weather was ideal. But we had not gone many hours, when it began to drizzle and then to rain, which delayed our speed. Our first scenic stop was at the Grand Canyon, Arizona, Dec. 15, one of nature's greatest wonders. The Grand Canyon bids you come, all you people of the earth, to witness God's boldest and most flaming signature across the earth's face. Saturday, the 16th, we arrived at our destination, thankful for the safe journey. We found Shafter to be a very busy place, gathering in the different crops, such as grapes, cotton, maize, etc. The people of the Mennonite church were finishing their new church which was to be dedicated October 24. The next week we made a trip to Reedley, about ninety miles northeast, to visit relatives and friends, all one-time Oklahoma citizens. They were also very busy gathering in their crops. Yet, they all gave us a warm welcome and treated us with warm hospitality, for which we are very grateful. Some of the homes visited were those of Ben Fast, P. E. Reimer and J. D. Enns, who made a tour with us to different points of interest. We visited the pack sheds at Reedley, where a long line of women and girls were packing fancy table grapes. We also visited the graveyards there, where uncle and aunt P. P. Reimer, Rev. Gaede and others are at rest. East of Reedley, around Smith Mountain, we saw large orange groves. We spent an evening and a night at the Fast home, where all of the Fast boys, Miss Kathryn a sister of the Fasts, and P. E. Reimers gathered. Friday, the 22nd, we went back to Shafter to attend the dedication of the new church on Sunday. It was a great event and a blessing to all present. Our prayer is, that it may continue to be such for the community. The next week we went, together with brother Jake and wife, to San Francisco, viewed and rode on the new Frisco, Oakland and Golden Gate bridges, which are marvelous structures of steel. Our Creator has gifted man to do wondrous things on this earth. There we saw the mighty ocean for the first time. How awe strikes us and how we feel the littleness of our insignificant self, when we see with what mighty hand such a body of water is controlled, and realize who is the maker of all. We cannot express our thankfulness that we human beings are acquainted and can have daily contact with such a creator. We read in Psalm 16:1-6, in God's creation his glory is seen. It being Navy Day, a number of battleships were in the Bay. One afternoon we went on board the battleship San Francisco, named after the city. A mighty bulk of floating steel, with all the latest equipment, manned by about 550 men and officers. The question arises, what is that for? Just to destroy human lives? Let us pray and strive more earnestly for peace in our hearts, with our fellow men, and with all nations. In the Relica Art Museum we saw a clock from the 17th century still running. There we had our first deep sea fish, rock cods, for supper.—To be concluded.

CORRESPONDENCE

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, PANDORA, OHIO

A Prince of Peace contest was held in November. Each of the six contestants received a prize of one dollar from the local church, and the winner, Eula Locher, received a bronze medal from the State organization.

The teachers of the primary classes of the Sunday school entertained their pupils and the mothers at a Sunday afternoon meeting. The Intermediate C. E. presented a play, "Fine Gold" at a Sunday evening church service.—The Women's Missionary Society had three visiting speakers recently, Miss Elizabeth Voth, a city missionary in New York City, Miss Etta Davis, missionary under appointment to China, and Miss Matilda Basinger, who had recently made a trip to Russia.

Miss Edna Amstutz, and Rev. Walter Schurtz, both missionaries on furlough from Africa, the latter about to return there, recently spoke of this work in our church, illustrating it with pictures.—Other Sunday evening services were conducted by Dr. Arnold Schultz Bluffton College, and by the Bluffton College Gospel Team.—Prof. E. J. Hirschler of Bluffton College addressed the Sunday School Worker's meeting at the beginning of the new Sunday school year in Ootcber. Winford Suter is the newly elected superintendent of the Sunday school. The church cooperated with the other churches of the town in a public reception to the public school teachers at the school building in the fall.

Thanksgiving marked a time of great praise and thanksgiving, as evidenced by the large offering for missions, received through the annual mission morning worship. Christmas was celebrated in an especial way by a Christmas morning worship and an evening program by the children of the Sunday school.

Handel's Messiah was rendered the day after Christmas by the church choir. Florence Stuckey was the conductress. Soloists were: Mildred Hilty and Edith Steiner, soprano; Hilda Amstutz, alto; Gordon Hilty, tenor, and Reno Hilty, bass.

Two deaths occurred: John Schutz, 75, Oct. 12th, and Dr. P. D. Bixel, 72, Jan. 2nd.

Jan. 1st, was held the annual business meeting of the church. New officers were elected and new plans were made for the new year.—Mrs. S. W. S., Corresp.

IMMANUEL MENN. CHURCH, PRATUM, ORE.

The holiday has again brought us many rich and inspiring services, and gave us great reason to thank our heavenly Father for His great love to-usward, which He manifested by sending His only begotten Son into the world.

Our Christmas celebration began on Dec. 19. "Why our Lord took on a Human Body" was the theme for the pastor's sermon in the morning worship hour. In order to be our Redeemer Christ must needs be our kinsman, therefore, He became one of us by taking upon Himself a human body, that through His death we might be reconciled to God. Special Christmas topics were discussed in the various departments of the C. E. at the 7 o'clock hour and the senior choir rendered their song service during the 8 o'clock hour. The pastor gave a short message on "The Mission of Christ into the World," based on Jno. 16:28.

According to our custom the Sunday school program was given on Christmas eve. The Sunday school choir furnished the music. This service always draws a capacity crowd and brings many expressions of appreciation.—A sermon in the German language by our pastor in the Brudertaler church, at Dallas on Christmas morning, was enjoyed by a large audience.

About thirty of the young people went out caroling to a number of non-church going homes and presented them with especially prepared Christmas greetings, which contained an invitation to our services. They also distributed gifts to a number of needy people. We are praying that this service may be the means of causing the people to realize their need of God in their lives, and that they might open their hearts to their Savior.

On New Year's eve we enjoyed a fellowship service which was very helpful. The attendance was rather small, on account of the funeral of our beloved sister, Mrs. Wm. Roth, Sr., in the afternoon. But those who were able to be present were greatly blessed.

The annual business meeting of the congregation convened on Jan. 4, with a good attendance, and a fine spirit prevailed. The congregation voted that our pastor, J. M. Franz, continue with us for another term of three years. The Lord has given us a good year, but we realize very keenly that where God works the devil is exceedingly busy. In the name of our God we are going forward and claiming victory, through Jesus Christ our Lord.—Mrs. Jno. L. Merryman, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, PULASKI, IOWA.

We have just finished a very favorable year, one of the best growing seasons that we have enjoyed for some time. Thus far we have had a beautiful winter with very little snow, but with the least amount of soil moisture that I can remember for this time of the year. This community is grateful to the long and faithful service of our Brother W. W. Miller, for the time and energy which he has given to this community, during his long pastorate here. He has been chosen correspondent and you will probably hear from us more often through this column.

We observed the event of the Christmas season on the eve of Dec. 24. Through the undaunted efforts of the program committee and the willingness of the Sunday school we enjoyed a nice program of special songs by the choir and the very necessary part provided by the little folks. Probably one of the most cheerful memories of the Yule season that we carried into the New Year was the presence of the young folks that had returned, and others living here that were still sufficiently interested in calling it Home.—Harlan Widmer.

How odd—we rush our heads off to save time, and then do not know what to do with the time we have saved.

A Test of Religious Thinking

by Hilda Wiebe, Meno, Oklahoma

The alert individual is constantly striving to understand the motives and attitudes of his fellow human beings. Whence come these attitudes, upon which all actions depend, and how can they be deciphered? A comparatively recent contribution of the social sciences offers a partial solution to this question, in the form of a testing program. There is scarcely a conceivable situation for which such a measuring device is lacking. In the religious realm tests of Biblical knowledge have long been available, but tests of religious attitudes are practically new. Perhaps a more thorough study of attitudes in this field would be well worthwhile. It is evident that Biblical knowledge does not necessarily go hand in hand with a wholesome philosophy of life. The scoffer who quotes scripture as his weapon, and the saint whose actual Biblical knowledge is meager are familiar characters. Those who have caught the spirit of Christ and are following in his footsteps are governed, not by a cold abstraction of facts, but rather, by commendable religious attitudes.

It was the writer's privilege to measure concrete results on a number of religious attitudes of children, through the administration of a test designed expressly for that purpose. The test was given to twenty boys and girls from a Mennonite Church Sunday School, and to twenty boys and girls from a Christian Church Sunday School. Since the groups evidenced practically no difference in the nature of the answers given, they will be combined and considered as one group.

These forty boys and girls ranged from 11 to 15 years of age. In the main, merely the questions and the responses made will be quoted, leaving the reader to draw his own conclusions. In enumerating the outcome of the test, it is hoped that interesting light will be reflected upon the fundamental religious ideas of this particular adolescent group.

PART I. Ideas of God and Religious Education

Question I, "Do you think God made the whole world, all the stars, animals and people?" met with unanimous approval. All forty pupils answered "yes." The second question, "Do you think God's power in the world works to make things better and happier," yielded one negative answer. It would be interesting to know what thought prompted such a response. Did the pupil simply misunderstand the question? Had sickness or death in the family made him loose faith in God? Or had he been taught to think of God as a ruling tyrant without whom we would have much more freedom and pleasure? Do not all people at some time or other fail to act as though they really believed that God's power in the world works for good?

"Do you think God takes care of everybody at night so that nothing can happen to him?" This question prompted three pupils to say "no." May not they have thought more deeply than those who answered "yes"? Will any harm befall a Christian? All evidence points to the fact that he is subject to material and physical difficulties. The child of God possesses a beautiful peace of mind which makes all things easier to bear, but he is not exempt from misfortunes.

That there were no atheists in the group was proved by the fact that the question "Do you think God is only imagination? was answered one hundred per cent "no".

A division of opinions manifested itself in the following questions, in which about half of the answers were "yes" and half were "no".

"Do you think God is in heaven sitting on a golden throne?"

"Do you think God shows himself in everything that is beautiful?"

"Do you think the main thing God does is to watch every thing we do night or day?"

"Do you think God punishes everyone who is bad?"

It is interesting to note the characteristics these boys and girls attributed to God. Most of them agreed that God is like "a mother who sat up all night to take care of her little boy", or "like a great wise man who knew the answers to all the questions in the world." The majority did not consider God "like a king who loves to have everyone bow before him and praise him", nor "like a policeman who takes care of the good children, but scolds the bad ones". Half of the responses likened Him unto a "rich man who owned everything in the town and could make a person move out of his house, or give him a castle if he wanted to". Half of the group denied God this attribute.

Pray that success may not come any sooner than you can endure it.

How may we learn about God? The ten suggested ways were ranked in the following order.

1. By studying the Bible
2. By saying a blessing before meals
3. By enjoying birds and flowers
4. By getting to know many kinds of people
5. By dreams
6. By studying science
7. By studying history
8. By studying stars
9. By thunder, lightning, and earthquakes
10. By studying newspapers and current events

A CHRISTIAN LOOKS AT HIS COUNTRY

Amos 5:12-15; 21-24; Luke 4:16-21

Young People's Topic for February 13, 1938

Meditations:

M., Feb. 7. A Christian Looks at Law and Lawlessness. Rom. 13:1-8
T., Feb. 8. Look at Misused Power. Prov. 30:14
W., Feb. 9. Look at Godlessness. Isa. 1:1-6
T., Feb. 10. Look at Christian Activity. Acts 2:14, 15, 37, 47.
F., Feb. 11. Bribery Common. Isa. 1:23; 5:23
S., Feb. 12. What God Might See. Gen. 6:12

Suggested Hymns:

"My Country 'Tis of Thee," "Rise Up, O Men of God."

Problems:

The topic for today and the one for next Sunday are related in that they have the common subject of "The Individual and the State." It is the purpose of this series of two topics to magnify the Christian's conception of his obligations to his nation, and to help each individual to discover methods of making America more Christian.

In doing this the Christian has a unique point of view and we want to visualize, in this topic, our present day America. And in this view we want to see both the pagan and discouraging elements as well as the Christian and encouraging factors that make the national life of the United States.

I. The Pagan or Dark Side of the Picture:

Five elements sum up the picture of this side. And they are:

1st. Political corruption: For years corrupt political leaders have winked at crime and "practical politics" have allowed criminals to mulct untold millions from the public.

2nd, Crime: Crime increases at a horrifying rate. Everyday sees about thirty murders in the U. S. That is about as many as England sees in a year. Our prisons and jails get a half million new inmates in a year, many of which are soon released through a careless or openly crooked parole system.

3rd, Disease: Medical schools limit their enrollments to keep down the number of doctors, although millions of people suffer from lack of proper physical care. There are more patients in our hospitals for the insane than in all our colleges and universities. And of our two million feeble minded only 10% receive competent care.

4th, Poverty: The worst feature about poverty is that it exists in the presence of abundance.

5th, Child labor: Political complications, in which our law making bodies abound, have checked all proposed child labor laws. Although there is scarcely any child labor among our large corporations and industries, the National Child Labor Committee reported an increase of 48% in child labor the first six months of 1936.

How strangely familiar this picture looks with the picture that Amos draws of Israel in His day. Amos says, "They afflict the Just, they take a bribe, and they turn aside the poor in the gate from their right." Two pictures so appallingly similar. Could it be that the warning of Amos is applicable today also, when he says, "Seek God, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the Lord God of host will be gracious with you, as ye have spoken."

II. The Bright Side of the Picture:

There are encouraging spots to hearten the citizen who looks for an America of high ideals and noble action. They are three.

1st, The Church: Through the ages the church has endeavored to keep the power of righteousness apace with the forces of evil and today it is the leading agency for a more Christian America. Today the church is growing in numbers and it stands against the national wrongs that are afflicting our nation's good health. And it is the task of the church to keep turning men's minds and hearts to God's will and purpose. And if the church does not do this, no other organization wil . . . Not even the two groups listed following this.

2nd, The Public Schools: The building of good character is the task and purpose of our vast system of education. But is it Christian character?

3rd, Cultural Agencies: A far flung array of women's clubs, men's forums, adult schools, and public discussion help to stay the onslaught of destructive forces. Then, too, the art museums, public libraries, civic orchestras all do their bit, but the greatest of these forces pulling for the right is the church. And it should certainly not be neglected.

Let us return then, for a summary of what is necessary, to the mighty prophet, Amos, and here him as he pleads, "But let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Using Opportunites Well

Intermediate C. E. Topic, February 13, 1938

For Daily Study

Feb. 7. Self-education. Ps. 119:97-104
Feb. 8. Samuel's opportunity. 1 Sam. 3:1-8
Feb. 9. David's chance to make good. 1 Sam. 17:20-27
Feb. 10. Defending the weak. Acts 5:34-42
Feb. 11. Peter's big day. Matt. 4:18-22
Feb. 12. A man that missed his chance. Matt. 19:16-22
Feb. 13. Topic—Lincoln: Making the most of opportunities. Prov. 20:11-13; John 20:20-28

Lincoln, an example

Since the qualities we find in Lincoln are to illustrate the topic, you might hang a large picture of Lincoln in the front of the assembly room. The incidents of his life can be presented in one of two ways: have someone give a review from one of his biographies, or have a number of members give a series of incidents from his life that illustrate the topic. A good biography can be secured in any library if asked for in time.

Pre-prayer

Read Mark 13:33 and speak of how prayer helps us to make the most of our opportunities by putting first things first.

Suggested Hymns

"Work For the Night Is Coming," "Stepping in the Light," "Give of Your Best."

Quiet Worship (Announce your topic)

Sing: "Take Time To Be Holy"

Leader: "The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth; for the Father seeketh such to worship him."

Sing: "Jesus Calls Us"

Scripture Lesson: Prov. 20:11-13

Reading. "Be strong!
We are not here to play, to dream, to drift.
We have hard work to do and loads to lift;
Shun not the struggle; face it; 'tis God's gift."

Sentence prayers. (Encourage all to take part)

Special Music: "Just for Today"

Discussing the Topic

1. The Leader's part. Speak from experience on how often we must say to ourselves, "If I had only done this or that." We have many regrets because we did not get that lesson, say that kind word, speak for Christ." The opportunities of today are ours. We must learn to use them.

2. Bible Illustrations. (Tell in your own words)
   a. How did Samuel's opportunity come? 1 Sam. 3:1-8
   b. How did David prepare to meet his opportunity? 1 Sam. 17:20-27, 50
   c. How did Gamaliel defend the weak? Acts 5:34-42
   d. Why did the rich young man miss his chance? Matt. 19:16-22
   e. How did Andrew use his opportunity? John 1:40-42

3. Lincoln An Example. One review of his life, with special mention of how he used his opportunities, or a series of incidents told by different ones.

Closing Poem:

"The greatest opportunity
That God has ever given me
Was not when that suggestion came
To show an easy road to fame;
Was not the day when fortune smiled
And claimed me for a time, her child;
Nor yet the chance that I might hold
To turn some talent into gold:
The greatest one of all, I say,
Is now and always here-to-day.

Today my opportunity
Is just as great as I can see;
It is my privilege to live,
To learn, to earn, receive, and give,
To do the little task assigned
And smile the while, nor leave behind
Regrets or flaws in what I build,
But do the work as God has willed
And see in the small part I play
My opportunity to-day.
—Ozora S. Davis.

Song: "I Would Be True." Benediction.

Lincoln

His Honesty. When Abraham Lincoln was in the grocery business in his young manhood, he once discovered that he had taken six and a quarter cents too much from a customer. That evening after his store was closed, he walked three miles to return the money. This and similar instances of his unusual respect for the rights of others won him the title "Honest Abe."

His Knowledge of the Bible. As a boy the Bible was the only book he possessed and he read it until the spirit of its simple dignity passed into his own words and the people wondered at the marvelous clearness and simplicity of his speech. One who heard him said he quoted scripture like a preacher.

On Prayer. I have ben driven many times to my knees, by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom, and that of all about me seemed insufficient for that day. Abraham Lincoln.

Making the Most of Opportunities. Lincoln witnesses the auctioning of slaves in one of the southern cities. His heart was rent with pain as he watched husband being separated from wife, children torn from their parents. "If I ever have the opportunity I shall strike this curse and strike it hard." His opportunity came. He signed his name to the Proclamation which set all the slaves forever free.

JUNIOR CORNER

Error: The Junior talks in last issue's suggestions should have read:

a. God keeps me from the enemy
b. God keeps me from danger
c. God keeps me from physical want
d. God keeps me from spiritual want

February theme: God So Loved". (See past issue for outline)

Program Suggestions for February 13, 1938

God's Love Teaches Me

There is a beautiful picture among the Standard picture rolls which shows the young child, Timothy, leaning on the knee of his mother, listening intently as she reads to him out of the scroll, the words of which were stored away in his heart as a rich treasure to be used in his life. This would be a lovely addition to set near the two hearts. A lighted candle on either side of the picture would be still more impressive. On the blackboard your "artist" could put the challenging verses: Isa. 48:17 and 18. Should you want to make little pin-ons, a lovely verse for these could be the first part of the above scripture: "I am Jehovah thy God, who teacheth thee." These pin-ons could be in the shape of a double heart, opening as a book. On the outside could be the thought: "God's love for me". One the inner side, the suggested verse.

Opening service

1. Song service in charge of a junior asking the group for "the song I love because it tells me of God's love for me"
2. Praising God for His love: Responsive reading, Psalm 34:1-10
3. Thanking God for His love; sentence prayers by juniors, leader closing Mission minutes: Have you read Miss Fast's letter in the last Mission News and Notes? Our mission fields in war-torn China are such an opportunity to teach our Juniors that we can fight the enemy of the Church by prayer. Could you make this: "Prayer minutes for Miss Fast"?

Announcements

Study Period

1. The Growing Love. Chairman introduces topic for the evening by stating the truth: Our love grows by learning to know God's love. Let him then add the letter "O" and the second "pocket" giving opportunity to speak the memorized verses on love and drop the same into the pocket. (See last issue for details)
2. Special music to supplement theme of evening
3. Petitions and answers: by juniors rising in their seats and reading their verses from the Bible. These to be dealt out before the meeting
   a. Petition one: "Teach me Thy way, O Jehovah, my God." Psalm 27:11
   Answer: "I will teach thee in the way which thou shalt go." Psalm 32:8
   b. Petition two: "Blessed art Thou, O Jehovah; Teach me Thy statutes." Psalm 119:12
   Answer: "What man is he that feareth Jehovah? Him shall He instruct." Ps. 25:12 "Blessed is the man whom Thou teachest out of thy law." Ps. 94:12
   c. Petition three: "Guide me in Thy truth and teach me; for Thou art the God of my salvation." Ps. 25:5
   Answer: "Good and upright is Jehovah; He will instruct sinners in the way. The meek will He guide." Ps. 25:8,9
4. My God Teaches Me. Talks by juniors. Supply each speaker with a picture out of the Standard picture roll if these are used in your Sunday School
   a. God teaches me His law. Stories of God's teaching of the law to the children of Israel can be used; also the great missionaries of the New Testament teaching the Word of God. Also Jesus, the greatest Teacher
   b. God teaches me obedience to His law. I Chron. 10:1-14; I Kings 11:26-38
   c. God teaches me that I am a sinner. Rom. 3:23; Rom. 5:12; I John 1:10
   d. God teaches me that Jesus is my Saviour. Luke 19:10; Acts 4:12; Octs 16:31
   e. God teaches me that there are two roads. I must choose one of these: Matt. 7:13,14; John 3:36; John 14:6
   f. God teaches me that I need a Guide. John 14:6; Use the story of the wilderness; the need of a guide. Ps. 32:8; Ps. 48:14
5. Leader's minutes. Briefly review and summarize the junior talks then lead in a prayer of thanksgiving for such great love

6. Repeat in unison verse of the month
7. Sing in unison: "O Love That Wilt Not Let Me Go"
8. Closing prayer

DEATHS

MRS. ADELE ROTH, the daughter of Samuel and Elisabeth Griessen, was born in Switzerland, March 19, 1865, and died very unexpectedly in her home at Salem on Tuesday, December 28, at 5 P. M., at the age of 72 years.

Fifty-one years ago she accepted the Christian faith and was baptized by Rev. Christian Rich and united with the Swiss Mennonite Church near Whitewater, Kansas. In the year 1890, she united with the Emmanuel Mennonite Church at Pratum, where she has been a very faithful member and a spiritual mother to many, till she was called to her rest. She was a charter member of the Women's Missionary Society and regularly attended and supported this cause.

She was married to William Roth and the couple had the privilege of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary last spring.

She is survived by her husband, five daughters, Mrs. Elvin Herr of Silverton, Mrs. Ed. Leisy of Portland, Mrs. Homer Leisy of Salem; four sons, William A., John, Henry, and Ernest all of Salem; one sister Mrs. Emil Couran of Woodburn, and 29 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

Funeral was held December 31, at the Emmanuel Mennonite Church, Pratum, Oregon. Her pastor J. M. Franz officiated. Interment at Pratum Cemetery. —Sent in by J. M. Franz.

DANIEL WEBSTER BAUMGARTNER, son of John B. and Kathrine Gerber Baumgartner, was born in Wayne county, Ohio, June 30, 1866, and departed this world at the St. Joseph Hospital, Boonville, Mo., on Christmas Eve, December 24, 1937, while a group of children were singing Christmas carols just outside his door.

At the time of death he had reached the age of 71 years, five months and 24 days.

Left an orphan at the age of 6 years, Daniel was reared to manhood by his uncle Jacob Baumgartner in the Sonnenberg community, near Dalton, Ohio. He united with the Sonnenberg Mennonite church on April 13, 1886, later transferred to the Salem Mennonite church near Dalton. In 1891 he joined the Bethel church of Fortuna, Mo., and remained a faithful member until his death.

He was united in the marriage bond with Carolina Basinger, September 24, 1891, and established his home on the farm, where he has resided for the past 64 years. To this happy union were born 6 children, one of which preceeded him in death in infancy. Those living to mourn his death, are his faithful wife, Carolina; four sons Wade T. and Oliver E. of Versailles, Roy A. of Bristol, Ind., and Neal W. at home; one daughter, Mrs. Earl Eschbacher of Versailles; seven grandchildren; two sisters, Sarah Baumgartner and Mrs. Elias Basinger of Dalton, Ohio, and besides a sorrowing host of relatives and friends.

The service was held at the home Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock and 2:30 at the church. Music was furnished by the Bethel choir and the sermon preached by Jacob Unruh, his pastor.

J. E. BERGTHOLD, son of Christian and Barbara Bergthold, was born in 1871, at Nakomis, Ill., and later moved with his parents to Halstead, Kansas. He was baptized by Rev. Christian Krehbiel in 1887. Mr. Bergthold later became a leader in the fruit and nursery industry of Auburn and New Castle, Calif. He was 66 years old at the time of his death. His wife and six children survive. Mrs. Susie Mierau of Newton and Miss Anna Bergthold of Halstead, Kansas, both deceased, were sisters.

A "Political Church" of National Socialism

In a solemn proclamation, Reich Propaganda Minister, Dr. Goebells, consecrated recently in Bad Segeberg, in the presence of some 20,000 people, a great northern frontier festival ground which it has taken three years to build and which is among the most beautiful in the new Germany. In the course of his speech, Dr. Goebbels compared the great National Socialist message which, in essential points, always contained the same train of thought, with the message of the churches, who still preached today what their founder had said two thousand years ago. National Socialism acted on the same principle, according to which great ideological conceptions have been carried into history. That is why, he said, it rallies the nation more and more around it and preaches more and more the ideal through which it has become great, so that the coming generation for tens and hundreds of years will be National Socialist. Dr. Goebbels touched on the relations of the new State to the Church. "We are doing no harm to the churches, on the contrary, we are relieving them of work which they had to take care of alone. If the churches complain that they no longer have a right relationship to the nation, this is the reply: they cannot have any right relationship with the nation, because they no longer understand how to speak to the nation in the right way. A nation that has been through four years of war and fifteen of Marxism no longer understands theological hairsplitting. It wants a Christianity of fact, and sees it much more vitally embodied in such activities as the winter relief work than in the theological dispute of the so-called confessional front. The meaning of the festival meetings was finally explained by Dr. Goebbels as follows: 'We come here in order to talk with the nation. We feel we have the political cure of the nation's soul and believe that it must be our task to diminish and prevent those cares with which the souls of our nation are burdened. That I regard as the noblest task of this festival place which we are dedicating today. Here the nation will seek and find elevation and edification. This place should be a political church in which for decades and centuries men will be drawn to true National Socialism."—I.C.P.I.S.

An American Wedding In Egypt

A quiet and impressive wedding took place at Alexandria, Egypt, December 9th, 1937, between Rev. Robert M. Blackwood, D.D., Secretary of the Sabbath Observance Association of Western Pennsylvania and Miss Loretta Lehman, of Berne, Indiana, and a missionary in the Central Provinces of India since 1921, under the American Board of the Mennonite General Conference. The bridegroom met the bride coming from India at Alexandria, Egypt.

The wedding took place at sundown at Fairhaven, a Missionary Rest Home, interdenominational, Ramleh, a suburb of Alexandria. The superintendent of this delightful Home, entering enthusiastically into the spirit of the occasion, had beautifully decorated the spacious drawing room and had invited a few friends, including the Rev. David Mitchell, pastor of the Scottish Church of Alexandria.

By previous arrangement the American Consul General was present as a witness, so that he could issue the legal certificate of certification of marriage which he did the day following.

A most appropriate and beautiful ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. E. Philips, Ph.D., D.D. of the United Presbyterian Mission of Alexandria. In their own chosen words the bridegroom and bride pledged their vows the one to the other, and kneeling for the closing prayer received the blessing. The hour closed with an informal reception.

Dr. and Mrs. Blackwood are now touring Palestine and Egypt and plan to visit Europe also. In order to reemphasize in their work the vital importance of the Christian Sabbath to our American Institutions, they aim on this trip to study conditions and gather data relative to Sabbath observance in various countries.

(As perhaps most of the mission friends know, Sister Lehman has resigned, and the Board has accepted the resignation with regrets. P. H. R., Sec.)

—Yesterday (Jan. 12) it was fifty years since that worst blizzard swept over this part of the country. 128 persons froze to death in this state. Near here five school children, three Kaufman's, one Albrecht and one Graber froze to death.—Freeman, S. D. Courier.

—First Church, Berne, Indiana.—The two-weeks union evangelistic meetings, conducted by Dr. Oswald J. Smith, Toronto, Canada, closed last night (Sunday, Jan. 16). Every seat in the largest Mennonite Church in the country, seating 2000, was occupied. The address was on "Heaven, its Inhabitants and their Occupation." Five characteristics were pointed out: 1. A man called to his heavenly home will begin there where he left off here in his earthly home, but unhindered in his progress. 2. There will be ceaseless activity and work, all serving Him day and night without tiring our bodies and spirits. 3. Heaven will be a place of perfect happiness and satisfaction physically, mentally, and spiritually. 4. There we will yearn no more to have our dreams and aspirations come true. They will be eternally satisfied in the presence of God. 5. There will be reunion and recognition. Numerous scripture passages were cited to prove that.—Berne Witness.

Rev. Howard G. Nyce, pastor of the Allentown and Upper Milford churches, Pa., writes, "There will be no church bulletins from here for a few weeks, as I am nursing a fractured rib, received in an automobile accident, while returning from a Home Mission Committee meeting at Souderton, Dec. 30. My car was hauled to a junk dealer, so you can see I have been very fortunate. Although handicapped, I have taken charge of my services since."

—First Mennonite Church, Lima, Ohio.—Rev. J. J. Esau addressed the Lima Ministerial Association, January 3, and also spoke before the W.C.T.U., January 11, on the radio.—Mrs. R. E. Bixel, 434 Marian Ave., Lima, Ohio, was elected church correspondent for our church.

—Bluffton College.—The refinancing program having provided a way for caring for the debts of the institution, the Board of Trustees is seriously considering the launching of a campaign of getting an endowment of $500,000, over a period of years.—Six Bluffton College seniors were selected to be listed in the national publication, "Who's Who in the American Colleges and Universities," for the school year 1937-38.—Prof. J. P. Klassen of the art department was given recognition by the Ohio Education Conference for his work in art medallions. By using scraps of metal and glass and a rudimentary apparatus, he has been able to produce some outstanding pieces of an art comparatively unknown.

—Bethel College had its annual fellowship meeting Sunday, June 16. Delegates and fellowship officers from Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas were present. To acquaint these with the many phases of work that is carried on at the school, nineteen students gave talks of one minute and twenty-three seconds on topics like: Enrollment, the business office, the dairy farm, the printshop, cooperative boarding, the fiftieth anniversary. Then a number of fellowship leaders discussed plans and methods of the 1938 fellowship campaign in short talks. In closing remarks Pres. Ed. G. Kaufman asserted that the most needed objective in all fellowship activities was to seek the Kingdom of God. The 1937 fellowship efforts resulted in gifts to the school, amounting to over $27,000.00. Forty-two church fellowships took a more or less active part in it.

—Rev. Lester Hostetler of the Upland, California, Church is preaching a series of sermons on doctrinal subjects, such as God, Revelation, Creation, Sin of Man, the Grace of God, Jesus, Faith and Repentance, the Holy Spirit. He says, "Christianity is a way of life but it is also a way of faith and a way of thinking. As our thinking, so is our life. Therefore the need of meditation on such vital subjects."

—First Church at Bluffton, Ohio, enjoyed "open house" at the parsonage, Sunday, Jan. 23. The invitation said, "Now that we are acquainted, this invitation means a friendship made dear by two years of working together."

—The Swiss Mennonite Church near Whitewater, Kansas, is having a series of evangelistic meetings during the week of Jan. 16-22, with Rev. P. R. Schroeder as speaker and instructor.

—Mennonite Church, Pulaski, Iowa.—Rev. W. W. Miller has been chosen to act as church correspondent and to look after subscriptions and renewals to the Mennonite.

—A gift of 150 psychology and education books was recently presented to Freeman College, Freeman, S. D. by Dr. J. R. Thierstein of Bethel College. Dr. Thierstein was formerly principal of the school.—Weekly Review.

—Hoffnungsau Church, Inman. — Albert Gaeddert gave a wonderful sermon in our church the first Sunday in the New Year.—Mr. Gaeddert is engaged in high school work, but his church has elected him to be assistant minister. He is also to serve as correspondent.

—The Mennonite Messenger, Sugar Creek, Ohio.—"The point at which we show how little our religion means to us, lies at how lightly we take our responsibility of attending Sunday school, church, C. E. or choir practice. We owe these things, not to the pastor, but to ourselves and God. No one has ever given too much money to the church and God. All of us give far too little of our time and income to this side of life.

—Brother Harold Gross who is serving his home congregation, the Bethany Church of Freeman, So. Dak., as acting pastor, and is also instructor in Freeman College, was ordained to the Gospel ministry, Sunday, Jan. 15. Prof. D. S. Wipf preached the sermon and Rev. P. R. Schroeder administered the ordination.

—Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—On Dec. 11 occured the death of Fred Lehman, 66, due to an accidental fall. Funeral was on Dec. 14. He leaves behind his wife, five sons and one daughter, with families, to mourn his early departure. His first wife and two children preceded him in death. Rev. P. A. Kliewer officiated.—Our Christmas programs were a great success. The white gifts were sent to missions and charities. Our church helped the Mission Church in Lima in the distribution of gifts.—Corr.

—Brother and Mrs. A. A. Penner of Mt. Lake, Minn., after visiting their children in and near Newton, Kans., have continued their trip to sunny California, to spend some time there.—Mr. Penner is a brother of Missionary P. A. Penner.

—Dr. H. E. Wood, South African astronomer, reports that on Oct. 30 last, the earth barely missed colliding with a baby planet "Reinmuth 1937." For several days he says, the world was threatened with the worst disaster, until the planet shot past the earth, missing it by the astronomically small distance of 400,000 miles.

GOD KNOWS OUR NEEDS.—Your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him. Matt. 6:5-8. Our problem is not so much to inform God of our needs as to believe in him and relate ourselves to him in such a way that he can do for us what he sees best. It is hard for us to comprehend the love and goodness of God. We are prone to put on him the responsibility for our failures. We suffer and say, God so wills. We fail in our plans, and are inclined to feel hurt, because it seems that God has not seen us through. But when we honestly explore our inner attitudes, we will find the cause within ourselves. God does his part.—We had better not prescribe to God what we want him to do, but subscribe to the plans he has for us.—Mostly from The Gospel Messenger.

PREACHING MISSION.—The Report of the National Preaching Mission for 1937 is before us. It contains interesting comments from cities where it has been held. Albany, N. Y.: "It has been by far the most outstanding step toward building the Kingdom of God which has ever been experienced here." Richmond, Va.: "The Ministerial Union express prayerful appreciation and complete satisfaction for the Mission." Wichita, Kans.: "People are saying, this was the greatest religious awakening since Billy Sunday twenty-six years ago." Yet, the report admits that the attendance in 1937 was only sixty per cent of that of the previous year, and the population of the Mission cities only twenty-two percent of the cities visited the year before. Unfavorable weather is given as a reason for this falling off. What we saw and heard of the Mission made a good impression on us. But may it not be that there are other and weightier reasons for the decline? Too much machinery, for instance, and not enough fervent prayer on the part of the Christian forces? Of the great awakening on the day of Pentecost we read, They were all with one accord (purpose) in one place, PRAYING, no doubt, for a great outpouring of the Spirit. Then, too, is there not danger in evangelistic campaigns like this, that Christ is not exalted above all. Salvation, in the last analysis, is ONLY in and through Christ, as Peter brought it out so strongly in his great sermon on that pentecostal day.

REAL CHRISTIANITY IS LIVED. — The best way to make men see the power of Christianity is to live it out. The heathens marvelled at the wonderful life the early Christians lived, though these did not make any show of it. It was a life of faith, love, kindliness, forebearance. That is what is needed today to convince people of its regenerating influence. Here is an interesting testimony of a converted Hindu, R. C. Das: "Here in Benares we meet daily a Hinduism which is real, sincere, living, and orthodox, not the type represented by the modern English-educated Indian who has hardly any touch with the inner springs of Hinduism. My conviction, especially after six years of experience in Benares, is that such vital and virile Hinduism can be successfully met, not by any human ingenuity or missionary diplomacy, not by any easy liberalism, not by the fanatical zeal of an ultra-protestant sect, nor by the extreme conservatism of the narrow-minded. Only living Christianity of the apostolic type can be a match against the active idolatry, priestcraft and caste of Hinduism."—World Dominion.

NOT PLAYING TRUE.—Those who must furnish the blood or bear the burden imposed by war should, whenever possible, be consulted before this supreme sacrifice is required of them. This clause formed part of the Democratic Party platform in 1924. The present Secretary of State was chairman of the National Committee, the present Postmaster General chairman of the Platform Committee. These men and other leaders in the present National Administration, including the President, as well as many members of the present Congress supported this clause. So, what would be more natural than that they give to the people the privilege of voting their mind on the question of whether or not this country should, in the future, enter into war? At this time of international unrest, wars, and rumors of war, with the probability that we may be enmeshed in an armed conflict any time, what would have been fairer and more just for this Democratic Administration than to provide a means, whereby the people of the land might speak their mind for or against entry into war? The amendment to the Constitution proposed by Representative Ludlow, providing for a nation-wide referendum before a declaration of war, except in case of invasion or internal rebellion was in the line with the above party pledge. The churches and Christian people of the land, women's organizations, the Young Democratic Club of America, and many other units of citizens asked the passage of this referendum. But the day the House was to vote on this resolution, "the Administration brought up its heaviest guns in opposition. Secretary Hull once more said, the measures would handicap the government in foreign affairs. President Roosevelt sent to Speaker Bankhead a letter condemning it as impracticable in its application with our representative form of government." In the face of facts, such as these, one naturally asks, do we still have a government of the people, by the people, for the people? Are we not drifting in the direction of Germany and Italy? What difference does it make whether one man, so to say, or a group of men take away the right from a people, to make laws intended to protect their lives and property.

It's Getting Better

"It's always getting to be a little better with us each year," is the way one of our Christian women expressed herself in regard to the Christmas celebration among the Indians. She had reference to a camp located near her home. "We do not have any dances any more, and in the evenings we come together for a little while for some games, then we go home. It's getting a little better each year with us, we are doing more and more like Christians ought to do."

It is to be noticed that here and there individual Christians feel an inner urge, because of the present conditions, to assume personal responsibility. Since the time when these people became wards of the government, there has never been a time when the doors were thrown open as wide for them to enjoy carnal pleasures as that is the case at the present time. The only limit seemingly being their ability to raise the necessary means for such enjoyment. It cannot help but to become apparent to certain individuals among them, that the whole tribe will become diseased and go down in deterioration unless there arises an inner motive to resist these destructive forces. The ability to resist these forces is very feeble, indeed, both mentally and especially physically. About two years ago the Indians in this district were visited by severe attacks of the flu. At the time the government physician said that, as a result of that flu epidemic, there would be many more tubercular cases among these people. His prediction has come true. These people, being so weakened physically, become an easy prey to the malady. Just recently we lost two of our members because of tuberculosis; and we have quite a number of others who are in various stages of this dread disease. It is a poor, devastated, weakened and sinking people! If children of God do not take pity on them and intercede for their eternal welfare, who will do it?

It is gratifying under such conditions to hear an expression as the one quoted above. It indicates that there is life and that there is growth; that the kingdom of God has entered into a heart here and there. At times it does not become apparent that the Godly seed has taken root in a heart before the inexorable reaper swings his scythe. Only recently we had to commit to the dust one of their respected men, who some time ago expressed a desire to become a Christain. When he was to be more fully instructed for the sacred rite, he asked for more time for further consideration. Quite recently he became ill and was taken to a hospital. While there, he made a definite decision to take the step as soon as he would get back home. He communicated his decision to others at the hospital, and when he came home he did the same to his relatives. But, even before we had an opportunity to see him after his return, he became very ill again, suddenly, and died quite abruptly.

The Lord only knows into how many hearts the good seed has fallen and taken root. That is unknown to us at present, but the day of the Lord will reveal it. To us it is encouraging to hear these words from the mouth of one of our Christians: "It's always getting to be a little better with us each year . . . for we are doing more and more as Christians ought to do." G. A. Linscheid

A Beautiful Incident of Real Faith

Recently on of our Chinese Pastors told the following story, a wonderful story to us who have been long in China and are well acquainted with the non-Christian Chinese mind:—

A Christian woman in his congregation was childless. She prayed earnestly for a son. God answered her prayers and gave her a little boy. She came to church and publicly expressed her deep gratitude to God for giving her this dear child, and, in token of her gratitude, she presented a gift to God's Church of $5.00.

Some months later she brought the child to the church for baptism, and, in token of her joy in being privileged to present this child to God and make covenant with God for him, she contributed for the cause of the Gospel $10.00.

After a couple of years, this precious child sickened—and died! She came to church with a gift of $20.00 to show her gratitude for the privilege of having had this child and the joy of the knowledge that he belonged to God and was now safe in Heaven with the Savior, where she would some day see him again in perfect happiness.

Relief Notes

(Compiled by O. O. Miller and A. Warkentin)

Previous notes gave details of the size and sending of the 1937 spring shipment of clothing to Paraguay. That this gift to our Paraguayan brotherhood was received and highly appreciated is attested to by the numerous "Thank Yous" (official and unofficial), received by the Mennonite Central Committee Secretary during the past few months. Colony leader Jacob Siemens advised that the clothing arrived in good condition—none damaged or stolen in transit, which he intimated was unusual—and informed us of the plan of distribution. Then in successive mails came the word of appreciation from the Colony as a whole—from the "Schulz" of each village—and further letters from individual families and school children. Two samples of these letters follow:

Letter No. 1. Dear Uncle Miller: First a hearty-thank you for the nice clothes which we reecived as a gift from you. Everybody in Rosenort was very glad for the valuable gift. I received two dresses and a pair of stockings. Each scholar received a dress or a blouse. I have four brothers and sisters. They also received worth while gifts. A hearty thank-you for the clothing. Your Tina Klassen."

Letter No. 2. "To the Mennonite Central Committee: Three Mennonites of Colony Fernheim, Village Gnadenhein, herewith want to express their deep and heartfelt thanks for all the gifts and help that we have received from the dear Brethren of the Mennonite Central Committee and from the churches of North America, from the time of our coming to Paraguay until now, and especially at this time we want to acknowledge the shipment of clothing received by us recently. With this letter we want to once again express our appreciation for this continuous help and to wish you God's blessing. Greetings in the name of the village group at Gnadenhein.—Peter Klassen—'Schulz,' "

With the October monthly financial report from Bro. Dueck of the Colony Cooperative comes the encouraging word of bountiful rains early in the season, and every able bodied person busy plowing and planting. The 1937 harvest had been a good one—especially cotton—and the cash income to the colonists far beyond any previous harvests. As a result all of the debts contracted by the colony to carry through the previous two drouth years could be liquidated—the annual Argentine flour purchase for the coming year made—seed and better farm equipment for the coming season provided—besides which substantial payments have come to the Mennonite Central Committee Treaurer in the United States towards land purchase and on debts. With this 1937 harvest record and promising 1938 outlook, leader Dueck exclaims, "What a surprising change, these past twelve months have witnessed."

Anyone interested in further sharing in this loan —in a reasonably safe 5% investment—with funds which would be available by or before April 1, 1938, can get full details from Secretary-Treasurer, Orie O. Miller, Akron, Pennsylvania.

No clear report has yet come of developments in the new colony "Friesland," east of the Paraguay river, composed of about 140 families who left the main Chaco group last August. This "Chaco" group remains at 284 families.

The first meeting of the Mennonite Central Committee since its incorporation was held in Philadelphia, on Dec. 30, 1937. The Committee consists of nine members, eight of whom are appointees of the five Relief Organizations of as many Mennonite groups, who cooperate in the service assigned to the Committee.

At this meeting:

1. The former officials were all reelected, P. C. Hiebert, Chairman, Maxwell H. Kratz, Vice Chairman, Orie O. Miller, Secretary-Treasurer, H. S. Bender, Assistant Secretary.

2. It was decided and planned to publish in pamphlet form a Resume of Committee policy and program as same has developed to date and to include in the pamphlet copy of the Charter and by laws governing the incorporated Committee.

3. Final procedure for taking over Corporation Paraguay or its assets (which include 330,000 acres of Paraguayan lands on which the 284 family colony lives) was approved. This transfer is to take place on April 1, 1938, at which time the final payment of $12,500.00 on this purchase is to be made.

This purchase, as previously advised, is being financed in large part by means of a special Mennonite Central Committee (5% interest-bearing) loan, the details and terms of which were approved by all the Co-operating organizations.

Attention Subscribers

PLEASE NOTE THAT REMITTANCES FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE MENNONITE SHOULD BE SENT TO THE MENNONITE BOOK CONCERN, BERNE, INDIANA. By sending your subscription to the editor of the paper or some other address you simply cause extra work for everybody. All checks and money orders should be made payable in advance until the end of December 1938. If yours expires before that date, please remit in full now or as soon as possible.

One thing a Christian cannot afford to do, simply stop the paper, without paying arrears.

DHANSIR (Rich Head).

Some twenty-years ago Ramji suffered on his death bed. Strenuous efforts were made in asking him to accept Christ. Dhansir, the mother, resented, started screaming angrily, distracting his thoughts from the appeal. She urged him to firmly retain his ancient faith in Ram and other incarnates of Hinduism. Soon death claimed Ramji apparently unchanged.

Untiringly the Gospel was communicated to Dhansir and her household. More than a decade nothing visible developed. Perseverance won. Finally Ramji's two sons gave hope. This hope materialized, they said, "We perceive that outside of Christ lies no Hope, and so shall depend upon Him for salvation." Their wives, mother and Dhansir yielded not. The sons received baptism. Their wives were lured away, the relatives prevented their return.

Later the sons' mother Dia said, "Folks tell me that Christianity degrades, but my sons prove the contrary, I shall accept Christ!" She did it. Dhansir remained unmoved. Suddenly something marvellous happened undoubtedly in answer to persistent prayer by Dia's family and the Church. An unprecedented change occurred. Dhansir exclaimed decidedly, "I shall enter Christ's fold unhesitatingly!" That salubrious Sunday morning after receiving baptism with several others Dhansir's face radiated with unspeakable joy. That of Stephen could hardly have been brighter! She testified glowingly, "I have at different occaions encountered many joys in my life, but what I experienced to-day surpasses everything that occurred previously." Subsequently she has expressed regretfully, 'Oh, if only my family members who died aforetime would have heeded the call!" She adds longingly her wish that the relatives, and friends, and neighbours would accept Christ. The old blind grandmother treasures the heavenly fellowship. We hear in spirit softly, "Dhansir hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her!"

Western District Mennonite Song Festival

When the Mennonites came to this country some sixty years ago, the congregational singing was of the one part type, with "Vorsaenger" as leaders. Choirs were unknown. Today these churches have splendid choirs of young people that thoroughly enjoy rendering special music before their congregations, Sunday after Sunday, and on festival days. They have competent leaders who know what type of music is a distinct aid to the spiritual life of the church and its members, and so choir and leader are rendering a very definite service in the upbuilding of God's kingdom.

What has largely brought about these wonderful and thoroughly beneficent changes? Our colleges, specifically their music departments! All through the years they have put forth every effort to teach the students music and its appreciation. These students would go back to their churches and spread their appreciation and enthusiasm for better singing, and some of them gathered the young people about them for practice, became choir leaders, and helped train the group for service in the church. Thus our churches have ben wonderfully helped and blessed, through the slow but persistent effort of the schools, in the work of musical training and education.

A few years ago some of the choir leaders conceived the idea. that another means of fostering interest in music, in our churches, would be an annual music festival, where the various choirs might join in one great musical feast, for the entertainment of our people, and the glory of God.

This festival was started in 1930, and for a few years it was held at one of the churches. To accommodate the large crowds, a large tent was put up near the church, and the program given in it at well as the church. Then, to accommodate still larger gatherings, Bethel College built a "bowl," an amphi-theater in the grove on the Kidron creek. Now, since 1934, when the weather is fair the festival is held there, when rainy, in Lindley Hall, at Newton.

THIS YEAR THE FESTIVAL WILL BE HELD ON SUNDAY, JUNE 5.

The Committee of leaders is working out a program intended to be better than any previous one. Following are some of the benefits accruing from these song festivals:

1. They develop love for good music, chorals, hymns, etc.
2. They encourage cooperation.
3. They give young folks something worthwhile to work for.
4. They foster fellowship and unity.

It is the earnest desire of the leaders and directors of the different churches to build a still larger and more meaningful festival, with more preparation in song, and to develop a more worshipful atmosphere. —Paul Baumgartner.

FORUM

The editor and. with him, many of the readers greatly appreciated Brother P. H. Richert's elucidating article on "ONCE SAVED, ALWAYS SAVED," in the last number of THE MENNONITE, and he has our sincere thanks for his service. To show what our kin, the Old Mennonites, think of this doctrine, we publish, with omission of less important Bible passages, the following article, taken from "Christian Doctrine," supplement to their weekly, GOSPEL HERALD.—Editor.

ETERNAL SECURITY CONDITIONED

(by Abram B. Thomas)

It is true that "once saved, always saved," provided we are centered in Christ, remain steadfast in the faith until death, and walk in the fear of God, all the days of our life, here upon earth. Then nothing can separate up from Christ. Rom. 8:35-39.

Scripture teaches us plainly, in both the Old and New Testaments, that there is danger of falling away; and if such a one will not repent and confess his sin, he will be lost, according to Scripture. Let it be remembered as we read in God's Word in reference to this subject, it refers to believers, both in the Old and New Testaments. Some say it has reference only to believers in the Church age; that we cannot refer to the Old Testament believers. But we cannot separate the two. Following we give references and let God speak.

"Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book" (Ex. 32:33).

"When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die thereby" (Ezek. 33:18).

"But he that endureth to the end shall be saved" (Matt. 10:22).

"And because iniquity shall abound the love of many shall wax cold. But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved" (Matt. 24:12, 13).

"For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting . . . for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not" (Gal. 6:8, 9).

"If ye continue in the faith grounded and settled, and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel, which ye have heard" (Col. 1:23).

"Holding faith, and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck" (I Tim. 1:19).

"Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils" (I Tim. 4:1).

"If we deny him, he also will deny us" (II Tim. 2:12).

"Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip . . . How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation" (Heb. 2:1, 2).

"If we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end" (Heb. 3:6).

"Let us therefore fear, lest a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it" (Heb. 4:1).

"For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame" (Heb. 5:4-6).

"For if we sin wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins, but a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries." (Heb. 10:26).

"Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God" (II Jno. 9).

"Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall" (I Cor. 10:12).—New Danville, Pa.

CONSERVING THE SABBATH FOR THE MAN

Mark 2:23-36

Introduction

In the wheatfield and in the synagogue, the Pharisees accused Jesus and His disciples of violating the Sabbath Law. It is very difficult to do things right for a religious bigot. God intended the Sabbath to be a day sacred to Himself and for man's benefit. "The Pharisees robbed the day of both joy and worship by their absurd ideas of what constituted labor." No one spends the Lord's day well who does not regularly meet with others in a service of praise and prayer. It is a day for worship and for rest. Rest however, does not mean to do nothing. It should be a day for meditation, thought about things out of the week-day routine.

Pharisees find Fault vs 23, 24

The critical Pharisees seem to have followed Jesus and His disciples on this sabbath day with watchful eyes, ready to find fault. They at once take Jesus to task for not forbidding His disciples to pluck a few heads of ripe wheat and rub out the grains and eat them. This, to them, was violating the Sabbath-day—was not lawful. They thought Jesus was negligent in Sabbath keeping.

Jesus defends the Disciples vs. 25-28

Jesus at once refers them to Samuel 21:1-6, to what David did (25, 26), whose act was justified by their rabbis on the ground that David was the Lord's anointed. David had "need." He and those with him were "an hungered." He did much more than pluck a few heads of wheat and eat the grains. The law of human needs is greater than man's Sabbath regulations.

Jesus tells clearly (v 27) that the welfare of man is of more importance than the welfare of the Sabbath. God intended it as a day set aside for man's good-spiritual, mental and physical. The day is given to be so used that the entire person shall be better because of it; that we may have a clearer sense of God's goodness and of our duty.

Man is not lord of the Sabbath. It will benefit him only when properly used. God ordained it for man's benefit. The Pharisees so hedged it about with extreme regulations that they made men serve the Sabbath. Jesus proclaimed Himself both Messiah and Lord of the Sabbath (v28), greatly shocking the Pharisees.

Jesus heals a Man on the Sabbath vs 1-6

Jesus went to worship service regularly on the Sabbath (v1). This should be a regular custom in every home. Again the Pharisees watched Him (v2) to see if He would heal the needy man who had come to God's house. They had no feeling of sympathy for him, but had a malicious hatred for Jesus. Strict Sabbath-keeping, they held to be more important than healing the man. Today often there is greater concern for keeping certain doctrines and customs in the Church, than there is for showing mercy to and helping the weak and erring.

Righteous anger and sincere grief filled Jesus' heart (v5). He healed the man's hand. The man had to exercise his faith. The Pharisees revealed their hardness of heart (v6). They were ready to destroy Jesus, because he disregarded their traditions. These they considered more sacred than His life, an awful indictment of their hearts.

The Christian observes Sunday as the Lord's day, not by any legal compulsion, but because he wants to do so. He observes it not as a task, but as a glorious day, a day of gracious Christian privilege, a day devoted to Christian fellowship and mutual helpfulness.

It is much more important to keep the Lord's day in the right spirit than to observe it in the letter only.

CORRESPONDENCE

MENN. CH., WISNER, NEBR., JAN. 18, 1938

Greetings to the readers: Time is past due for a report from our small congregation here. Speaking of small congregations, I am reminded of an editorial by our Ex-editor, Dr. Grubb, where he emphasized the important part that the small groups of our faithful believers have throughout the length and breadth of this country in strengthening the constituency of our Conference.

Yes, we can report that our group is very faithful in attending and supporting the cause of the church. As most of you know our church is usually without a minister, so we again called Brother Erland Waltner who kindly consented to serve us during his vacation time. How much we appreciated his coming and how much we needed the encouragement and spiritual guidance he gave us, he can hardly realize. He has certainly found his way into the hearts of our people here. We sincerely hope that, at the close of his seminary course in spring, the Lord will lead him in such a way, that he may have a worthy charge in one of our Conference churches, which he would so abley fill.

During the summer our Northern District Conference committee expressed themselves willing to help us support a minister here.

So we called Brother and Sister Victor Sawatzky from Northwestern Biblical Seminary, early in September, whom our church accepted. Later, on October 24, his father Rev. J. F. Sawatzky from Bloomfield, Montana, was called to ordain his son into the service of a minister of the Gospel. It was a very impressive service. Brother Sawatzky based his sermon on Titus 2:12-15. Following the ordination we also partook of the Lord's Supper. Father Sawatzky also spoke in the evening; it was indeed a blessed day for our church.

Brother Victor is working very faithfully in our church and his services are very much appreciated. We as a church feel as though we are not worthy of the help which the Conference is giving us, and herewith gratefully acknowledge their help.

This past year we enjoyed a fair crop, small grain was quite good, corn about half a crop, hay short. How thankful we are for the many blessings the Lord does ever send us.—So far the winter has been rather mild, indeed very pleasant, with practically no snow. —Had nice rains in the fall but it's very dry now and we are in need of moisture.

Wishing the editor and all readers a blessed New Year.—Henry Boehr.

BETHEL CHURCH, PERKASIE, PA.

On Thursday evening, Jan. 13, the Bethel Mennonite C. E. met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Swartz to hold its annual business meeting. After introduction with song and prayer, the reading of minutes, reports of officers and committees, the following officers were chosen for the year 1938: Pres. Lawrence Myers; Vice Pres. Stanley K. Swartz; Sec., Mrs. Stanley Swartz; Treas. Wm. F. Myers.

The president appointed the personel of the following committees: Prayer Meeting, Look-out, Missionary and Social. During the round-table conference which followed, the work of the C. E. and the church was discussed and constructive criticisms were offered.

1. Our people should read the Mennonite and thus become better acquainted with the principles, leaders, sister congregations, and conference activities of the Mennonites.
2. Leaders should make more definite plans for their meeting and not be absent without good reason.
3. Exchange visits with other C. E. societies of our Conference.
4. A social or visiting meeting should be held once or twice a year.
5. Ushers should meet strangers at the door and, after welcoming them, seat them.
6. Have more singing and music in our services.

We feel that if we accomplish these aims, something helpful will have been done. Not that this is all that should be done, but our growth should be like that of the mighty oak, "Little by little."

In closing we desire to express a few words in approval of the material for C. E. meetings. The Intermediate and Junior is especially good and more regularly found in The Mennonite.—I. E. H.

APOSTOLIC MENN. CH., TRENTON, OHIO

The Apostolic Mennonite Church of Trenton, Ohio, held its annual Congregational Meeting, Sunday, January 9, 1938. The Sunday School met at the regular time followed with the morning services, at which time Rev. Amstutz chose for his subject "Living Close to God," giving us an inspiring message showing the Church an avenue to finding God.

All members and friends of the Congregation were given an invitation to partake of a covered dish dinner in the basement of our church, where a delightful social period followed.—Promptly at 1:30 P.M. we gathered in the church auditorium for the Business Session, which was opened by all singing "Faith of Our Fathers."—Reports of the various organizations were then read and accepted, followed with remarks by the old and new officers. All reports were very encouraging.—A short memorial service was held in memory of our departed members.—Rev. Amstutz gave a resume of the activities of the Church during the past year showing that seven were received through baptism, and three by letter.

Prof. Berkey of Bluffton College addressed us at our annual Out-door Service held in the grove of Eugene Schlonaker near Hamilton.—Dr. and Mrs. Rice of Allahabad, India, were with us on Sunday September 26th, telling us about their work in India, under the Presbyterian Mission Board. Mrs. E. Compton, mother of Mrs. Rice, was also present. After the service many relatives and friends of the Rice and Compton families journeyed to Hamilton, Ohio, to the home of P. B. and Elisa Holly, where a covered dish dinner was enjoyed; also celebrating Miss Elisa Holly's 88th birthday.

We are very happy to report that we have installed an Orgatron in our Church, which adds much to our service.—All of us have much to be thankful for during the past year, and we hope for greater and better things in the year 1938. May the spirit of peace and good-will go with us throughout the year. —Lydia A. Augspurger, Correspondent.

SALEM MENNONITE CH., DALTON, OHIO

The past year, studded with many spiritual blessings, should be an incentive to greater effort for the advancement of God's work in this year. Not only to be grateful for past favors, but in the thought of the gift of God himself, should our gratefulness manifest itself by ordering our lives according to his will.

With other churches of this community, we are grateful, that efforts made, were crowned last fall, in that the sale of beer was prohibited in this township. Although this decision caused some disturbance, it will eventually become satisfactory to all, when the advantages of its absence will be realized.

Business meeting and reorganization of the church took place on Dec. 20, and reorganization of the Sunday School and C. E. took place a little earlier.

Handel's Messiah was given to a large and appreciative audience by the Community Chorus, at our church, on Christmas evening. Our Sunday evening monthly "Hymn Sing," draws a number of music lovers to the meetings.

On Jan. 9, our pastor, Rev. A. R. Keiser, preached at the Federated church at Bath, O., and in his absence, Hiram Sommer gave a message for us.—The Women's Missionary Sewing Society are entering this year's work with renewed zeal, to be mindful of unfortunate ones far or near.—Special music offerings given by various groups or individuals at the Sunday morning church services are helpful. A chorus of older people is occasionally called on, to sing some German hymns. One of our school teachers, with a Harmonica Chorus of pupils, has favored the church on several occasions, by singing and playing hymns.

We desire prayerfully that this year's work of the church be of greater achievement for God and His cause.—Mrs. L. E. Amstutz, Corr.

MENNO MENN. CHURCH, LIND, WASH.

As no correspondence has been submitted from our church for some time, I shall endeavor to relate a few facts.

Turning back to the Christmas season, we had the usual Christmas Day morning service. One the evening of the twenty-fifth, the annual program was given by the Sunday school. The cantata "Chimes of the Holy Night," under direction of Rev. M. J. Galle, was rendered December 26 in the evening, by a choir of twenty-five voices. All these services served to renew the full meaning of Christmas in the hearts of the listeners as well as the participants.

On December 15, we had the privilege of attending the Golden Wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dyck, senior members of our church and, on the same day, the Silver Wedding celebration of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Claassen of the sister church, near Colfax. Services at the church consisted of talks by Rev. Harley King and Rev. P. R. Aschlieman, both of Colfax; and Rev. M. J. Galle; and poems fitting the occasion spoken by the grandchildren. Reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Schrag, children of Mr. and Mrs. Dyck, with many relatives and friends attending.

For the past two years the Christian Endeavor organizations of our church and that of the First Mennonite Church near Colfax, have been giving exchange programs. This year, in October, the sister organization rendered their program in our church in the afternoon, bringing with them their pastor who served us in our morning worship. In November, the return program by our society was given, at which time we also attended their Sunday school and morning services, the message being given by Rev. M. J. Galle. A great deal of inspiration was obtained by all through this exchange. Similar programs with other churches have been considered.

On January 12, Missionary Brown was in our midst familiarizing us with our China mission field and work, by his interesting talk and slides. We are hoping the conditions in China will soon clear up for the missionaries to continue their work there.

An almost complete change of officers was made in all organizations in elections for the coming year. With God's help and our confidence and support, we know their work will be a success.—Othielia Franz, Correspondent.

MENN. CHURCH, PRETTY PRARIE, KANSAS

We have entered the year 1938. All church affairs were shaped at the annual business meeting: Preaching service, three Sundays German each month, one English; week evenings, Bible study class, prayer meeting, choir practic, Sunday school teachers' meeting. Rev. Tschetter is doing good work, his sermons are positive, delivered in proof and power of the Spirit. We hope this heart warning will go on. Many leaders of churches are feeling the need of a genuine revival of religion. There are thousands of people throughout our land that feel a sense of emptiness, a kind of heart hunger, who would like to see a great spiritual awakening, a conviction of sin, that would cry for forgiveness. We have seen swimming pool and bathing beach display immodesty, our nostrils are being filled with cigarette smoke. Vulgar magazines with worse covers, liquor advertisements, bold manifestations of indifference and godlessness abound everywhere. We would like to see the altars of the churches of this nation, regardless of denomination, filled with weeping penitents. Many thoughtful people believe that we have had so much divorce, prostitution, greed for money, vulgar pleasure, prize fights, Sunday desecration, a rushing on, as if there were no God or judgment. that we believe, penitential tears, a deep sorrow for sin, would be in order. The churches should have a real heart warning. If the altar is properly prepared, will not God give the fire? I wonder, if the more serious-minded Christians are not at fault?—We are enjoying wonderful weather, but moisture is badly needed.—Rev. Theodore Epp will conduct a series of meetings for about two weeks, at our church, beginning January 23. We are hoping and praying for a real revival.—J. A. Stucky, correspondent.

A Request

Does your church belong to the Mennonite Conference? To all ministers or leaders of General Conference Churches there were sent several months ago Questionnaires, requesting historic and other information concerning their respective churches. This information together with a picture of the church, (a picture not a cut) is desired for insertion in volume II of the History of the General Conference, bringing the history up to date. (Note: A good Kodak snapshot will do for the pictures sent.)

A goodly number have already sent in their reports of their churches, but . . . many have not. The intention is to have a complete list of all Conference Churches appear in Volume II.

The work on this volume is progressing rapidly. Part One of the book is already in the printer's hands and is set up in type. The whole book, which will likely contain more than 400 pages, is to be ready for the printer by the end of next March.

The filled in Questionnaire is therefore needed early in February in order that matter may be gotten ready so as to include the respective churches in the book. My request therefore is, that if the filled Questionnaire has not yet been sent, then to please send it to the undersigned very soon.

If you did not receive a blank Questionnaire, please let me know at once by postcard, and the questionnaire will be forwarded to you immediately. Thank you for your cooperation.—H. P. Krehbiel, Newton, Kansas.

—Practically all correspondents comment on the beautiful weather we are having this winter. Even with the jar from a cold spell we can thank God for his kindness in helping the poor with less suffering through the winter so far.

—The Executive Committee of the General Conference seized the opportunity of the presence of its chairman, Dr. P. R. Schroeder in Newton, Kans., where he had conducted a series of meetings in the Swiss Church and held a meeting in the home of the Conference Secretary, Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, in Newton.

—Another Guardian of The Faith Gone.— Bro. P. B. Amstutz of Bluffton, Ohio, we were only just informed, passed away on Jan. 16 last, aged 92 years. This good brother was a genuine Mennonite who loved his church and the brethren as not many do. An ex-student of the Wadsworth school, well posted in the Bible and well informed in secular things, he was so interesting that an hour or two spent with him passed rapidly. He warmed up especially when he recounted his observations and experiences of a trip to the Holy Land. A liberal giver to the Lord's cause, the Lord blessed him and his, so that he could give more. He was a good writer, contributing to the church papers, also publishing articles in leaflet or pamphlet form, and, best of all, he is the author of a well illustrated book, "Geschichtliche Ereignisse der Mennoniten Ansiedlung in Allen und Putnam County, Ohio.

—Interesting Observations.—With the goodly number of Sunday church programs, so kindly sent us by thoughtful pastors, for material for the JOTTINGS, there are also financial reports. Some of the things which one cannot help but notice is the great difference in pastor's salaries, which range from a few hundred to $2300 for the year. With the last figure there goes also the use of a parsonage. As for the amounts given for needs outside the church, foreign missions almost invariably gets the largest share as would seem proper. Home missions is rather weak with some churches, and relief, education and publication, generally speaking, seem to be considerably neglected. There are churches that provide around $400.00 for music: organist, leader, etc., others are silent on that point. There are budgets running as high as $6,000.00. The best thing we notice is that none of the churches reporting so far closed the year in the "red."

Test of Religious Thinking

by Miss Hilda Wiebe

PART 2. Ideas of Jesus

	Yes	No
"Does Jesus mean just the same as God?"	18	22
"Was Jesus a Jew?"	40	0
"Where there many people who didn't like Jesus?"	38	2
"Did Jesus always do what that church wanted him to do?"	21	19

In connection with the last item, the question arises as to whether actual knowledge of the facts was lacking or whether the boys and girls were so accustomed to consider the teachings of the church and the teachings of Jesus synonymously that they failed to think of them independently in this case.

"Will Jesus let any harm come to a child who trusts in him?" Again two independent thinkers said "yes." How wholesome it is for a Christian to know that he must face hardships and thus be prepared for them when they come.

"Can Jesus do any kind of wonderful miracle which you could think of?" Four pupils believed Jesus cannot.

Part 3. Ideas of Prayer

This division of the questionnaire describes a group of children who are asked to bow in silent prayer. It relates what each child thought or did. The boys and girls were asked to select which was the best prayer. The statements are here ranked in the order of frequency as given by the boys and girls.

1st Choice. One child said, "Father, please help my mother to get well again."

2nd Choice. One child said, "Father, I know I was cross today when mother asked me to stay home with baby. I'll try to say 'yes' right away next time."

3rd Choice. One child closed his eyes and imagined he saw God far off in the sky.

4th Choice. One child bowed his head, closed his eyes and was very quiet.

5th Choice. One child tried to decide whether he should use the money he was saving for roller skates, or buy his sister a birthday present with it.

6th Choice. One child said, "I wish I had a radio set. Dear God, please make my father buy me a radio set!"

7th Choice. One child said, "Jimmie was mean to me today. Please God punish him."

Part 4. Ideas of other Religions

"Can a person who does not believe in God lead a good life?" Twelve of the boys and girls believed he could, twenty-eight believed he could not. Perhaps this question depends upon the interpretation of the term "good life."

A number of the questions brought forth a division of opinions.

"Would it be a good thing to have Mohammedans, Hindus, Buddhists, and other groups send missionaries to tell us their ideas?"

"Are there more Christians on earth than there are believers of any other religions?"

"Is any religion which may exist in a country as good for those people as any other would be?"

"Have all Christians through the ages held practically the same beliefs?"

"If we believe in the truth of all that science discovers, does it make it hard or impossible to be really religious?"

It is significant that thirty-eight of these forty children believed that "Christians sometimes have wrong ideas of religion which should be changed."

Part 5. Ideas of Life Purpose

As God looks at the life of a boy or girl, what matters most to him. The five alternatives were ranked in the following way.

	First choice	Last choice
1. How hard a person tries to live a good life.	25	2
2. How regularly the person says prayers	11	2
3. Whether the person swears or smokes, or does not do either.	2	7
4. How good a family the person comes from.	1	20
5. How much happiness or sorrow he brings to others and himself.	0	7

If you could have your life turn out any way you now choose what would you choose to do or be?

	First choice	Last choice
1. One who knows the Bible by heart	12	1
2. One who has a happy home with children	8	5
3. One who is always growing and learning

better and more satisfying ways of doing things	7	1
4. One who is as important as the Senator or President of the country	2	1
5. One who enjoys life, always has a good time	4	8
6. One who is as rich as Rockefellor or Ford	1	7
7. One who can paint or draw or sing so that many enjoy it	1	1
9. One who always does what ever anyone else asks him to do	0	3
9. One who is famous like a movie star	0	13
10. One who is as wise as the most learned scholar	0	0

"These Things Shall be a Loftier Race"

"Our civilization cannot survive materially unless it be redeemed spiritually." Woodrow Wilson.

Problems:

This is the second of two sessions having the common theme of "The Individual and the State." Under the topic of "A Christian Looks at His Country", we listed a few of the ailments of our country. Under today's topic we give our chief attention to possible cures for our national ailments.

When we look at the current trend of affairs, everything is confusing and apparently at cross-purposes. But this does not excuse us from the necessity of planning and praying so that God's Will can prevail.

The second part of our scripture passage is taken from that wonderful chapter, the eleventh chapter of Isaiah. Without a question this chapter speaks of the Kingdom Age which is still future. In that particular respect it does not serve our purpose in this topic. But it does show us the blessings which will be Israel's as well as all the nations of the world when once they do submit to "God's Will".

So, with such blessings in view it certainly does behoove us to do the utmost in our power to make our country more Christian.

What, then, can we do?

1. Develop our own lives as citizens. Each individual can face his own life and find its strong points without pride. And just so can we find and see our weakness without defeat. By reading biographies of great men, by observing others and speaking with them about the essentials in victorious living, we can find the secret of the "shared life" and pass on to others our testimony concerning Jesus Christ. And enlist others for the Christian way of life.

2. Face the economic order. Even in the church we can not get away from economics. What happens to people in everyday life affects what happens to them in the church. Therefore we should do what we can to help establish and maintain a Christian economic order.

3. Face our social wrongs. The economic problem is basic in most of our social questions of today. But there are other problems such as, crime, poverty, political corruption, disease and child labor. Then, how does our own community stand? In how many cases is liquor sold to minors? Are Christians outspoken against it? Does gambling flourish? Are Christians crusading against it?

How can this society aid and support high-minded public officials who need the help of Christians and others committed to good government?

Dr. Harry Thomas Stock says that there are two ways to make America more Christian.

First, to make more Christians.

Second, for all Christians to become more thoroughly Christian.

Wise men have their afterthoughts first.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

DOING THE JOB WELL

Intermediate C. E. Topic, Feb. 20, 1938

For Daily Study

Feb. 14. The hard worker. Eccl. 9:10
Feb. 15. "Well done, good and faithful." Matt. 25:14-21
Feb. 16. Looking on his finished word. 2 Chron. 6:1-3, 40-42
Feb. 17. Work put to the test. 1 Cor. 3:9-19
Feb. 18. Good work under the difficulties. Neh. 4:1-6
Feb. 19. Perfect worker, perfect work. John 17:1-4
Feb. 20. Washington: Doing the job well. Prov. 18:6; Matt. 25:14-21

Washington, an Example

The character of Washington is to furnish an illustration of the topic of this evening. Be sure that your Intermediates have access to the story of the life of Washington. A good picture of Washington hung in the room will make the discussion more impressive.

Suggested Worship Service

Sing: "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name" (Standing) "To the Work", "True-Hearted, Whole-Hearted" Society Announcements
Leader: Announce the topic: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."
Sing: "Give of Your Best" Stanzas 1 and 2
Scripture Reading: Prov. 18:9; Matt. 25:14-21
Sentence prayers, closing with song, "Spirit of the Living God"

Presenting the Topic

1. Leader's talk. Show how doing a job well or poorly may lead to our success or failure. Use your Scripture lesson to show what the Bible says about it in Prov. 18:9 and Matt. 25:14-21.
2. High points in Washington's life, by an Intermediate to whom it has been assigned well in advance
3. Special incidents in his life
4. Poem: "Give the Best"
5. Questions and discussion

Closing Moments

Short talk: "Jesus finished the work He came to do, regardless of the cost. He told his disciples a number of times that He would have to suffer and die. They tried to persuade Him not to do it. But when the time came, He turned His face 'steadfastly toward Jerusalem'. Nothing could turn Him back from fulfilling the purpose for which He had come, to save the world from sin. He finished what He had begun and did it perfectly, not counting the cost." "Let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith." Heb. 12:1,2

Sing: "Give of Your Best" Stanza 3
Benediction

POEM

There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave,
There are souls that are pure and true;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.
Give love, and love to your life will flow,
A strength in your utmost need;
Have faith, and a score of hearts will show
Their faith in your word and deed.
For life is the mirror of king and slave;
'Tis just what we are and do.
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

—Madeline Bridges.

Washington, An Example

Care in Little Things. Once when Washington was riding with a party of men, in crossing a rock fence the horse of the last man kicked off several stones. "Better replace those," suggested the general. "Oh, someone will do that!" was the careless reply. When the party disbanded, Washington turned his horse and rode back the way they had come; dismounting he carefully replaced the loose stones. "Oh, general! You are too big to be doing that!" chattered a friend who had come along. "No," said the general, "I am just the right size."

Refusing Kingship. When the army would have made Washington king, he refused so indignantly, that a second request would have been an insult. He considered being a citizen in a free country a greater privilege than being a king, to serve greater than being served.

Call to Prayer. The first thing Washington did on becoming President was to call on Congress to assemble themselves for public thanksgiving, to thank God for the Providence which had unmistakably guided them in all those great events which helped to build this country.

For Discussion:

1. What keeps people from doing a job well?
2. Is doing your work well a habit? Do people who do one thing well usually do everything that way? Why?
3. How true is the proverb, "Anything that is worth doing is worth doing well?"
4. Which of these do you consider necessary to doing your job well: perseverance, thoroughness, interest, knowledge? Show why.

JUNIOR CORNER

"Forgive the sins I have confessed to Thee;
Forgive the secret sins I do not see;
O guide me, love me, and my keeper be,
Dear Lord, Amen."

GOD'S LOVE FORGIVES ME

Program Suggestions for February 20, 1938

Opening service:

1. Call to quietness by hymn played softly
2. Hymn in union: "There Shall Be Showers of Blessing"
3. Leader's prayer
4. Group in unison: "The Lord Is in His Holy Temple"
5. Story by leader. In the January 18 issue of the Mennonite, under Foreign Missions, Missionary Wenger writes of the experiences of one whom God's great love lead to repentance. This story would not only prepare the hearts for the study of the evening, but would stimulate interest in our mission work, showing the power of God in the hearts of men across the seas

6. Special music: "I've Wandered Far Away from God, Now I'm Coming Home"

1. Adding the letter "V" to LOVE: in charge of Junior chairman. (See January 18 issue). Fill pocket number III. Announce leaders in contest. There is one more opportunity at the next meeting. Tell the Juniors this. Only verses that are spoken by memory should be accepted
2. Two important words. What do they mean? In charge of leader. The words are: Repentance and Forgiveness. Have these words on flash-cards and hold them, in turn, before the graup, asking them to give the meaning of the two words. Pick the first word up again and conduct a brief Sword Drill. That is, give a reference that gives a call to repentance, and eight that give the promise of God's forgiveness. (Note the proper way to "do" the Sword Drill is:
   1. Let the Juniors stand on even sides
   2. Say: "Attention!" which means that Bibles are in right hand with right hand on back of Bibles, arms down at side.
   3. Say: "Draw Swords!" which means Bibles are drawn from right side and layed on palm of left hand now in position at waist
   4. Speak the reference. No move is made except the move of the mind to remember reference
   5. Pause
   6. Say: "Charge!" which means that the reference may be looked for.

   Points: the first finder raises hand. The leader marks "10" on the board. Second finder receives five points, third receives three, fourth receives one. "Attention!" is again called and the above is resumed.)

Holding the two flash-cards before the children,

3. Sing in unison: "O Love That Wilt Not Let Me Go"
4. A question: "When does God forgive me?" Answered in minute talks by Juniors using these references
   a. First Junior: When we forgive others. Matt. 6:14,15 and Genesis 50:17-21. Joseph forgives
   b. Second: When we confess our sins. I John 1:9
   c. Third: When we turn from our wicked way. II Chron. 7:14
   d. Fourth: When we accept Jesus whose blood washes our sins away. I Johns 1:7b; Acts 16:31
5. Poem by a Junior

   To wash away my sin;
   However great my trespass,
   "Today Thy mercy calls me
   Whate'er I may have been;
   However long from mercy
   I may have turned away,
   Thy blood, O Christ, can cleanse me,
   And make me white today.

   Today the gate is open,
   And all who enter in Shall find a Father's welcome,
   And pardon for their sin;
   The past shall be forgotten,
   A present joy be given,
   A future grace be promised—
   A glorious crown in heaven."

6. Another question: "How God helps me that He might forgive me?" Answered by juniors
   a. He helps me to see my sin. I Sam. 15:1-24. Let this junior tell the story and then state the truth that in the Old Testament God spoke directly to the people or He sent an angel or a prophet, in the New Testament, in the time which we live now, God speaks to us through the Holy Spirit. John 16:8a (American Revised)
   b. He punishes me that I might repent. The story of the Book of Jonah. Chapters 1, 2 and 3. The punishment of Jonah and Nineveh toward repentance
   c. He sends hardships that I might repent. Amos chapter 4. The five warnings "Yet have ye not returned unto me, saith Jehovah"
   d. He showed His love by sending Jesus that I might repent. Since this subject is to be studied in detail at the following meeting, let this Junior state the truth and ask all to join in repeating together John 3:16
7. Leader's brief review of the two questions studied. State the truths again and then allow the group to state them. Let them repeat the truths learned twice. Then, pointnig to the verse of the month say, "What a wonderful God we have!" and lead the group in repeating this verse (Jer. 31:3)
8. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving
9. Prayer in unison while singing verse one and two of "Just As I Am"
10. Benediction

— Grace Menn. Church, Lansdale, Pa.—Having been recently appointed church correspondent of our church, I would be pleased if you would send me a list of members who are now on our mailing list for the Mennonite. This will greatly help me in the campaign to get the paper into the homes of the people here. Should you have other information, I shall be glad to receive it.—Sincerely, Miss Mildred Fretz.—Thank you very much Miss Fretz. You are starting out well. Your requests will have our immediate attention.—Editor.

DEATHS

FATHER HERMAN JANZEN, was born November 28, 1852, at Augustwalde, West Prussia, Germany. He received a thorough elementary education as well as a definite religious training. At the age of fourteen he was baptized upon his confession of faith in Jesus Christ as his Savior and united with the local Mennonite church.—Upon the introduction of compulsory military training the Janzen family left their native land and emigrated to the United States, arriving in Peabody, Kansas, on June 20, 1880.

On the 28th of April, 1881, he was united in marriage to Anna Entz and took up residence on the farm which remained his home until death.

When the Zion Mennonite Church was organized he was one of the charter members. Father was also interested in various other phases of Christian work and contributed generously to their support.—In the spring of 1871 they opened their heart and home to two homeless children, who enjoyed the privileges of their Christian home. Of these, Anna went to be with her Lord in the year 1920.

On November 13, 1898 it pleased God to call unto Himself his dear helpmate. In the following year he found another companion in the person of Agathe Regier, with whom he shared the joys and burdens of life for a span of 38 years. To this union there were born three sons, one of whom died in infancy. The Lord also entrusted to them the care of two needy girls to whom they gave the opportunity to enjoy a Christian home and education. Although never very strong physically, Father enjoyed comparatively good health in recent years, until he contracted pneumonia, on January 7, the complications of which resulted in his death on January 12.

He is survived by his wife and children, one sister, 11 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and a host of relatives and friends.—Funeral services were held on Sunday, January 16. A short service at the home was conducted by Rev. J. E. Entz of the First Mennonite church of Newton and a musical selection rendered by the Gospel Heralders Male Quartette.—At the services at the Zion Mennonite church words of comfort were spoken by Rev. J. N. Smucker of Bethel College and by Rev. H. J. Dyck, the local pastor. An octet consisting of business men from the city of Peabody sang, "The Old Rugged Cross" and the choir of the local church sang, "Oh Listen to Our Wondrous Story," and "Heaven is My Home." The closing prayer was spoken by Rev. A. A. Schmidt of the Missionary church of Elbing. Interment in the Zion Church Cemetery.

At this hour of sorrow we are more than ever impressed by his strong faith in God, his life of prayer, and the sterling qualities of his character.

MARIE KROEKER, daughter of David and Helen von Riesen, was born at Palschau, West Prussia, Germany, May 15, 1862. She came to America in August, 1876 with her parents, two brothers and one sister, all of whom preceded her in death. After coming to Halstead she was baptized by Rev. Christian Krehbiel and received into the membership of the Mennonite church, and remained a loyal member until her death.

September 11, 1881, she was united in marriage to Frank Kroeker, also of West Prussia, Germany. To this union five children were born, two of whom died in infancy. In August, 1921, the husband and father passed on. The other children, Helen Kroeker Wiebe, born February 8, 1884, at Halstead, passed on September 9, 1933, at Santa Ana, Calif. David J. Kroeker, born at Halstead, May 30, 1885, passed on in Los Angeles, November 5, 1923. Linda Kroeker, born in Newton, Kans., now lives in Santa Ana, Calif., with two grandchildren of the deceased, G. Curt Wiebe and Helen Marie Wiebe; these together with Ralph and Ruth Kroeker of Newton, survive. Hers was a life of untiring service for her loved ones. We cherish fond memories of her.

REV. A. A. WIEBE, was born in the village of Marienthal, South Russia, on September 26, 1861.

At the age of 14 years he emigrated to America with his parents and two sisters. They arrived in Mountain Lake, Minn., on August 4, 1875. Almost immediately his parents purchased a farm in the Delft vicinity, where he as a youth, assisted them with farming.

In the year 1882, he was baptized in the Bergfelder church by Elder Aaron Wall, upon confession of faith, and accepted as a member of the congregation, which membership he retained until his end.

In November 27, 1883, he was united in marriage with Sara Unruh, a union in which he shared joys and sorrows for 54 years, 1 month and 8 days. This union was blessed with 13 children, of which 3 sons and 1 daughter have preceded him in death. Forty-seven grandchildren, 4 of whom have passed to the Great Beyond, and 3 great grandchildren survive, besides his wife and 9 children.

He answered the Lord's call to become a minister of the gospel of the Bergfelder church, in the year 1900. On December 28 of the same year, he was ordained by Elder Heinrich Quiring, which station he held to his end. December 29, 1937, when an attack of pneumonia set in, and after a seven-day siege of serious illness, he was called to his Maker, January 5.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at Delft Bergfelder church. The Rev. H. H. Quiring was in charge of the services, with the assistance of the Reverends D. P. Eitzen, and William H. Schobert of Delft. Music was furnished by the church choir. Interment was made at the Delft cemetery.

(concluded)

The next stop was at Denair, where more Oklahomans were visited, namely G. B. Doerksen and his six boys, with families, and one daughter at home. Everybody was enjoying the weather and all were busy with walnut and bean harvest, also some grapes. After an overnight stay there, we proceded to Fresno, stopping at the park, where the Oklahoma Californians meet once a year. It is a very nice park with a zoo.

On Nov. 1, with brother Jake and Mrs. C. J. Neuman, sister-in-law, we left for Los Angeles. There we visited the City Hall, a huge building, 470 feet long, 270 feet wide, 464 feet high. From its tower you can view a very large part of the city, some sight! Then to Lincoln Park, with hundreds of animals and birds, all very interesting. The next stop was at Long Beach, where we stayed in an apartment, within one block from the Beach.

Next morning we boarded the steamship Avalon, at Wilmington, for a two-hour, ten minute ride to Cataline Island, 27 miles from the mainland. The Island is owned by a Chicago capitalist, Mr. Wrigley, chewing-gum man. It is 22 miles long and from one-fourth to 7 miles wide, and very mountainous; but it has been made into a beautiful and delightful playground. It is famous for the variety, size and remarkable catches of game fish, the Tuna. Back at Long Beach, we ordered a big fish supper.

The following morning we went to the Shipyard passenger depot, where one of The Dollar Line Steamships, President Polk, was at dock, loading and unloading freight. It was a combination passenger and freight ship, over 500 feet long. We were privileged to go on board and see the inside of the ship. It had circled the globe forty-two times, and was getting ready to leave again.

The next stop in Los Angeles was at Rev. and Mrs. Albert Jantzen's who are, at present, serving the Emmanuel Mennonite Church. They have a nice church and parsonage.

As Sunday was nearing, with another important event at the Shafter Church, we wended our way back there. And what a beautiful day! Such as they are very frequent at Shafter. In the Sunday morning services five young people were baptized and, with eight others, added to the Church. We witnessed tears of joy for such fruits. In the afternoon communion services were held. In the evening a well-attended and interesting C. E. program was rendered.

The next week our thoughts began to wander back to Oklahoma. The time for parting from relatives and friends was at hand, which is never a pleasant experience, but still a blessing, when all concerned live a Christian life and know that our Redeemer lives, which means, that if we should not meet again here, we have the blessed hope to be reunited in eternity. So, with the best wishes of our dear ones, we left for Oklahoma, Nov. 9, just four weeks after we had left home. On the way we stopped at Boulder Dam, the world's most impressive engineering sight. The last turn-in was with Fred Schultzes, at Ringwood, Oklahoma, arriving at Medford at about 4 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 13.

We had a wonderful trip, traveled altogether about 5000 miles, and neither had nor saw an accident, for which we thank our heavenly Father, who has so wonderfully protected us and kept us on this journey. Praise His Holy Name! We also want to thank all our California friends for what they have done for us. May the Lord bless their further efforts, especially in their church work.—A pilgrim on the Highway to Heaven, Peter Neufeld and family.

—Bluffton College.—Plans are under way for the marriage course which is to be offered at Bluffton College during the second semester of the present school year.—Bluffton College is a pioneer among schools which are offering this particular course, planned to aid young people in understanding the problems of marriage. The course is open to juniors and seniors and is addressed by prominent authorities on various aspects of the subject, selected by a joint faculty-student committtee.—The whole course of the lectures is on a very high plane and has been considered by students of previous years as very helpful and informational.

—Bethany Church, Freeman, S. D.—Recently we announced the Bethany correspondents to THE MENNONITE and BUNDESBOTE: Ted Kleinsasser and J. C. Neufeld, resp. We are convinced that every Mennonite HOME should have at least one of its Church's own papers paying it a visit weekly. We have two mightily respectable Mennonite mouth-pieces in the afore-mentioned publications.—Harold Gross, pastor, in Sunday Bulletin.

Old subscribers who pay the paper to January 1939 or beyond, get the Yearbook as a premium. New subscribers may get THE MENNONITE for one year, with the Yearbook, for $1.25 Anybody may order the Yearbook singly, for 25 cents. Every Mennonite family interested in the doings and set-up of our Conference should have a copy of this Yearbook.

HERE IS A SUMMARY OF THE CONTENTS OF THE BOOK:

A Calendar, Prayer of Consecration, Special Days in 1938, Sunday School Lesson Topics for 1938, the Conference Year by President P. R. Schroeder, Our Mission Work by P. H. Richert, Home Mission Stations and Workers by W. S. Gottshall, A Retrospect by the Missionaries P. J. Wiens, Historical Sketches: The Flatland Meeting House, illustrated; Swiss Mennonite Church Centennary with illustration; Historical Sketch of the Bethesda Church, Henderson, also Commemoration of the Coming of the Russian Mennonites, there, with illustrations; Fiftieth Anniversay of the Christian Endeavor Society, Bally, Pa. with Bus History and illustration; a chapter on Our Schools and Educational Institutions, with illustration; the Work of Publication, an article on The Peace Committee Goes Forward; an article on Our Young Peoples' Work. In Memoriam with obituaries of prominent departed brethren, with photos; Short biographies of several prominent octogenarians still living, with photographs; a chapter on old and new churches, with illustration; an interesting and important article by Rev. David Toews, on the General Conference Meeting Place 1938, with illustrations of the government buildings at Saskatoon, where the Conference will convene. (This article alone is worth the price of the Yearbook, when purchased separately, 25 cents). Several pages on General Conference Organization, with boards, committees, etc. of General Conference and District conferences; same of other Mennonite conferences; lists of ministers, statistical tables from our churches, which are very valuable for purposes of comparison.

— Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa., Church Bulletin.—We are looking forward to a big day in our Church when on January 20th, Rev. and Mrs. Samuel T. Moyer will arrive in New York, after an absence of seven years, as missionaries in India. Rev. and Mrs. Moyer will be with us on the Sunday after their arrival. We want to give the Moyers a real welcome and show them how glad we are to have them back home with us again after their long hard service as soldiers for Christ. As their ship, "The Bremen" docks in New York Harbor, they will be looking to see the faces of their friends from Rev. Moyer's Home Church, the Zion Mennonite Congregation. We do not want to disappoint them. We hope that as many as possible will plan to meet them. More details of making the trip to New York will be given a little later.

— First Mennonite Church, Lehigh, Kans.—The first week in January special meetings were held, beginning at 7:30 each evening, with Bible study and preaching services, in which Rev. E. J. Neuenschwander of McPherson brought us the message. — Two ladies' Sunday school classes surprised Mrs. Rev. Janzen on her birthday, January 12, at her home. She is Sunday school teacher of the younger ladies' class.—A catechism class has been started. The young folks show much interest in the study. There were twenty at the start, January 16. More have joined since.

— Missionary P. W. Penner, India, has very kindly sent us a neat folder, with pictures and short stories of three of their native workers, Dharmuh, Jonathan and Sukwhara, and Dhansir, which we found so good that we are now bringing them in THE MENENONITE. We are sure our readers appreciate this.

— Letters from Other Missionaries.—At the turn of the year we received the Pannabecker Perennial Epistle, with Christmas and New Year greetings, with a silhouette of the two families, also a printed letter of greetings from the William C. Voth family, with a fine photo of themselves and a good looking young Chinawoman, once diseased and now symptom-free. We truly appreciate these tokens of friendship from our workers in heathen lands. And we may be able to bring bits from their stories, in due time; but the secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions is so faithful and diligent in supplying us with missionary material that we find it not so easy to do this.

THAT IS WAR

Reprinted by special permission from GEMS FROM POETS' PENS, Mason Publishing Company, Los Angeles, California

The causeless carnage,
The unnecessary penury of peoples,
The tears of mothers and sweethearts,
The misplaced emphasis on glory,
The sin-stained, red running rivers,
The decline of principalities and empires,
The acres and acres of buried human bones—
That is war!

The welter of sweat,
The thwarted dreams of wistful youths,
The curses, the hatred, the animality,
The tumult, the smoke, and the frenzy,
The destruction of the finer sensibilities of mind,
The making men brutal and pugnacious, callous and heartless,
The methodical building and painstaking training of future criminals—
That is war!

The stench of corpses,
Wild, open gashes with oozing blood,
The soul-piercing moans and groans of anguish and agony,
Skeletons zigzagging between barbed fences,
The beheading of the aged and the halving of innocent babes,
Mere shadows of men with lungs blasted out wheezing and groping in the dark,
The young and virile fiber of a country massacred for the pride of princes—
That is war!

The utter disregard of human rights,
The emblazonment of atrocity as heroism,
The men made blind, or limbless,—the maimed, the crippled, the torn, the mutilated,—
The ruin and desolation, the houseless cities and the gullied fields,
The enthronement of rogues in monarchies and of Shylocks and munitions-makers in democracies,
The devilish array of implements for shredding muscle and sinew and for snapping nerves and brain,
The most realistic anticipation for the suicidal extinction of the human race—
That is war!

THE WAR DANGERS ARE COMING CLOSER TO OUR MISSIONARIES

The following telegram just arrived from Secretary of State Hull:

THE REV. P. H. RICHERT

GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE BOARD FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS IN NORTH AMERICA:

TELEGRAM FROM CONSUL GENERAL HANKOW STATES: FOLLOWING LEFT AT TEN A.M. FEBRUARY FIRST BY TRAIN FOR CANTON: MISS AGANETHA FAST, MRS. CHARLES L. PANNABECKER, MRS. SAMUEL F. PANNABECKER AND RICHARD ROBERT AND ALICE PANNABECKER, MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM C. VOTH AND STANLEY LEONARD LAURA AND HELEN VOTH.

CORDELL HULL, SECY OF STATE

From the above it can be seen that the two brothers Pannabecker have not gone along to Canton at the Coast, and no doubt are still at Kikungshan, which is much closer to our field.

In the last report from them they say, that they are not at all planning to come home to America in spite of the Board's permission to do so, as soon as they deem it advisable. Their families and the Voths will no doubt remain at Canton as long as possible, and await developments to show the way, whether to come home, or not.

The Lord may continue to protect them, be our prayer.—P. H. Richert, Secr.

THE EYE OF FAITH.—Whom having not seen, ye love. I Peter, 1:8. The eye of faith can perceive things that the bodily eye cannot grasp. We call up a friend over the phone and say, "I am so happy to see you," and we really sense his presence, though he may be miles away. Thus with the eye of faith we sense God's presence. We know when He is near. If we would only come to realize it fully, that God, our Christ, is everywhere, not as some immaterial, all-pervading unreality, but as a reality, a personality, ready to be and go with us anywhere. And, this being the case, what cause have we to fear. And, what is more, He has promised us the Comforter who would abide with us forever, to give us power, guidance, light, victory. How fortunate we Christians are!

DO WE LOVE IT? Any task, any piece of work which in one way or another benefits others and contributes to their welfare is honorable and worth doing well, no matter how lowly or humble it may be. In this great camp or world we live in, there are countless tasks to be done and being done, but how? Half the people do them grudgingly, complainingly, repugnantly. They are slaves to their work instead of conquerors, with the ambition to make it count. Those of us who have had opportunity to read the article, WILL THE PUBLIC BE DAMNED AGAIN? in the January Reader's Rigest, probably realize, as never before, the harm that is being bred by unionism, in cultivating the spirit, I don't care, how I do my work, I get paid anyway. Unions, if they must exist, have the right to demand and work for better living conditions for laborers. But they are going positively too far in inculcating into their members the notion of getting all they can for doing as little as possible. How different the Christian view on this point!, which holds that one should do as much good as he can as well as he can, and that it behooves us to learn to love all work that is necessary. Here lies the difference in the motive for work of the Christian and the man of the world. Jesus worked incessantly, for the love he found in his work. He did it out of love for the Father and fallen man. So, when we are called upon to do tasks which we may not like, we should, with prayer in our hearts, go at them with courage, determination and perseverance, and it will not be long until the work will grip us and we will find satisfaction in its performance. With Christ in and for us, we can come to love any work.

YOUTH ON THE MARCH. An item from "PROGRESS": "The editor was in New York over Thanksgiving reconnoitering. Friday morning at 10 he dropped into the liquor department of one of New York's most famous stores. It was crowded with "Christmas" shoppers. There were four cashiers in glass cages receiving the cash for the dolled-up bottles of booze with gold-crowned caps. Eighteen immaculate bar-maids in white, and half a dozen young men in full-dress black, substituted for the old time barkeep with white apron over his bay-window front. Three quarters of the "customers" were women, and many of them youth on the march. Where were they headed FOR? 'At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.' "

THE CHRISTIAN IS TRANSFORMED.—A Christian has not been reformed, he has been transformed. But how many church members are brought by the pulpit clearly to realize this fact? In Religion in Education the Dean of Exeter brings out this truth, when he speaks of the viscious moral environment out of which the early gentiles came: "They climbed out of the abyss in which they had lived. They found out that their natures could be utterly transformed. They learned not only to think of, but to use, the body as a temple of the Holy Ghost. The sort of victory that was won by some thousands of people in Corinth and Ephesus between the years A.D. 50 and A.D. 60, i. e. the period of Pauline influence in those places, was the greatest ethical victory in the history of the world.—The Presbyterian.

LET THE CHURCH BE THE CHURCH

The message of the Oxford Conference is summarized frequently in the demand that the Church shall "be the Church." This is a way of asserting that it should separate itself from the unchristian aspects of the world in which it finds itself. Nothing was made clearer in the deliberations of the Conference than the extent of the Church's own involvement in the evils of an unredeemd society. If there is to be effectual repentance the churches must share it. If the churches were composed only of saintly persons who in their own lives had renounced all unchristian practices the matter would be simple. Indeed, some of the Oxford statements, as well as some of the declarations of church bodies in America, intimate that the Church should purge its membership and become a fellowship of militant Christians intent upon demonstrating fully in their own lives the ethical principles of Jesus.—Federal Council Bulletin.

Christian Education

SUBJECTIVES OF CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

Ed. G. Kaufman

"Our civilization cannot survive materially unless it be redeemed spiritually," said Woodrow Wilson during his latter days.

"Here is a truth which educators must bear in mind. Repeatedly, we hear and read of the 'objectives' of education. The impression is received—and too often the results indicate—that the purpose of education is to achieve something outside of the student. In attempting this is where the school, the college, and the university fail. If education means anything at all, it signifies a change taking place in the life of the individual. Various theories have been put forth and stressed at different periods in the History of Education. Generally, education is defined as the development of the powers and talents of the student.

"But Christian Education must mean more than the mere development of powers, physical and mental; more than adaptation to conditions and environment; more than the expression of inherent desires and interests. Christian Education is a transforming power of the purpose, the motive, the attitude and the conduct of the individual. Here is educational evangelism.

"This is what St. Paul had in mind when he wrote, 'Be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God.' The goal of Christian Education is set forth beautifully in the letter to the Colossians, 'We train every one and teach every one in all wisdom in order to set every one before God mature in Christ'.

"To effect transformations and development in the lives of students is the God-given task and responsibility of Christian Higher education. There can be no other. If students leaving the campus are not better, morally and spiritually, than when they entered, the colleges have failed. If students do not take as much, nay more, interest in the church and its activities after they return home from church colleges than before they left home, those colleges did not achieve the purpose for which the Church founded them. We do not believe the churches in America have spent more than five hundred million dollars in property and equipment and more than five hundred million dollars in endowments merely to develop the intellects of students. Such development can and will be effected by the State with no cost to the Church. The Church is in the 'big business' of higher education in order that it can be assured that the leadership of the ages will be transformed and not only informed.

"The age is calling aloud for this type of leadership. We are in the midst of the fulfillment of the prophecy uttered five years ago by Philip Gibbs: 'The next ten years will be a long fight between the new liberties and the need of discipline; between moral anarchy and Christian ethics; between the old traditions of law and order and this new paganism which is invading modern thought; between intellectual bolshevism and the old values of life; between absolute materialism and some spiritual values'. Transformed purposes, transformed attitudes, transformed conduct are the solution of our problems.

"The 'objectives' of Christian Education must be subjectives."—Christian Education, June, 1935.

What Are Our Vital Needs?

Gustav Frey, Shafter, Calif.

Many questions have been asked by members of our churches. These questions have been answered directly and indirectly. Many answers I have enjoyed, others had to be passed up. An open discussion would very likely change many of the answers given. This goes to show, that different experiences help us to get a better knowledge of our current church problems.

I deem a Seminary for our churches as necessary, as our colleges. The reason for this is, that our ministers of the gospel differ as much on some basic principles, as they differ with some other denominations. The consequences of these wide differences are even fatal, as we lose many members through our differences. We may not mean bad, and our spirit of independence may have an honest motive, but, after all, we might be wrong. I do not mean to say, that we should all think alike, but we should all have and know our basic principles on which we stand, and from which we start.

This could be well taken care of by a Mennonite Seminary Training. If the colleges boast on these Mennonite principles, how much more reason would there be for a Seminary to stand on our own principles. If we intend to cater to the outside of our Mennonite faith for students, as we do in our colleges, we had better leave our Seminary question untouched.

Another very vital question, and in my mind, one of the most important questions, that is hardly ever touched upon in our conference discussions and our church papers, is the question, of what becomes of our people, who have to leave a Mennonite settlement in order to make a living. As our people are an agricultural people, what do we do, as a conference, to help them get a home, and thus stay within our fold. Jesus teaches us, that a good shepherd leaves the ninety-nine in the wilderness and goes after the one, outside. We as a conference, do a lot of Foreign Mission work and then lose our own. The well-to-do stay home and the poorer class of our fold has to go out and take care of themselves.

Some of the most religious people are the poorer people in the church, and they have to shift for themselves. The conference does not seem to have any obligations towards her own poorer members, financially. I think, that as a Mennonite Conference, we are making a very serious blunder, in not having any means by which we help our young prospective farmers get a start. I feel that this is one very important obligation and duty towards our own flock. I think also, that this is possible, in that we establish a fund and, through it, make loans to such prospective farmers, so that they may be in position to pay for such a farm, and not lose it to some mortgage company and, finally, break up our new settlement. This would establish confidence and responsibility towards our conference and not hate. As it now is, nobody cares for them.

I write this as it has long been on my heart, to speak for this evergrowing group of unfortunate Mennonites. If I have spoken too plain, I hope, it can be forgiven. Otherwise, I invite others to speak their thoughts also.

DR. DANIEL A. POLING has called our attention anew to the failure of ethics to supply the world's moral and religious needs. In these few words he summarizes their insufficiency as a vital and regenerating force:

"Ethics are good, but they are not enough. The Orient has been immersed in ethics for five millenniums, but these have achieved little more than a callous disregard for individual life and a stoical silence in the presence of human suffering."

Mixed Marriages

Rev. Albert Claassen

(Read before a Ministerial Association which requests its publication).

Marriage, the family and the home are institutions which come to us from the hand of God. The design and purpose thereof are embodied in the human soul and reflected in the believer's most blessed and intimate relationship with God and our Saviour. For the welfare of the human race God has laid down in our very nature and in the Scriptures the laws and records by which these institutions are governed and safeguarded.

We have come in our day of increased knowledge and multiplied contacts to regard and accept mixed marriages as something unavoidable or even desirable. A recent news item from a South American country relates how the government thereof has taken steps providing for its heterogeneous population of races and nationalities to be united into one race and nation, through mixed marriages. We have in our country the sad observation of the general consequence when atheism and judaism, catholicism and cults present no barrier in the choice of a mate to a Christian. Is this the cause for the highest divorce rate among civilized nations? For the break-down of the sanctity of the marriage bond, the irreligion of the home and the increase of blasphemous godlessness? A brief survey of Scripture and present day conditions should speak a word of divine authority for Christians in this matter.

The first record of mixed marriages the Holy Spirit records for us in Genesis 6. The result thereof, as pointed out by the divine author, was a rapidly progressing godless civilization which culminated in the Flood, from which only Noah and his family were saved by an obedient faith in God and his Word. Abraham and his wife were divinely called out of Ur, in the Chaldees, to be a stranger and a sojourner in a foreign land. The evident purpose of this was that they should not be mixed with the idolatrous trend of their own people. The marriage of Isaac and Jacob, doubtless guarded by divine commandment, are evidences of God's view upon mixed marriages. Israel's abode in Egypt as a slave-nation for four centuries provided a barrier against mixed marriages for the people of God. During the exodus of Israel and the years in the wilderness God's comment reveals that it was the "mixed multitude" which caused Moses and Israel the trials and temptations leading to repeated reproofs and threats of extermination of God's people.

More clearly does God speak in the law and ordinances of Israel on this matter. Following the exile Ezra and Nehemiah demand that Israel separate themselves from their idolatrous wives, a measure that calls forth in our day much unwarranted criticism. With a few notable exceptions God, throughout the entire O. T. period, declares himself in consistent opposition to a marriage of believers and unbelievers, Jews and Gentiles.

With the coming of Jesus we receive from Him a renewed declaration of God's basic law of marriage. Matt. 19:3-9. One man, one woman, joined after God's ordinance in marriage, become one flesh, inseparable for life by human authority, except for fornication, in which event remarriage is declared by Christ adultery.

The preaching of the Gospel resulted frequently in saving entire households. To such as in their saved condition now found themselves enmeshed by many contradictory obligations and insoluble problems, the word of God speaks a word of liberating authority. The regulations, found largely in the letters to the Corinthians, give to the believer the right to let the unbelieving member of a marriage bondage depart, 1 Cor. 7:10-16. But the believer is warned not to enter into a marriage relationship with an unbeliever. The N. T. teaching on this matter is possibly summed up in this sentence, "Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers." 2 Cor. 6:14.

In this our day of widening horizons, rapid transportation, close contacts, making possible and inviting friendships between men and women of faiths and principles, widely differing or lacking, we come to feel that the home circles of friendships become too circumscribed and the counsels of Scripture too narrow and antiquated. Still there is heard a voice from the distant past saying, "this is the way, walk ye therein."

Experience and observation of present day marital and family conditions likewise add their counsel in harmony with that of the Scriptures that the mixed marriages are largely the vulnerable spot in the stability of these Godgiven institutions for the welfare of the race. It is God's design that the marriage bond should be sacred and bind for life hearts of lovers who have found their common foundation in the experience of salvation through faith in Christ. That out of the union of such the new generation should be brought forth in the atmosphere of love, growing out of faith built upon God and faithfulness to Him and his Word.

Mixed marriages ignore part or all of this divine purpose. They procede merely upon the basis of the natural resources which fail because of human sinfulness. There is no common ground for the covering of sin, and sin unforgiven separates. Thus a believer joined to an unbeliever finds his bond of natural love broken and the two have no common ground on which this can be mended.

Dr. Walter Maier in his recent book, "For Better, Not for Worse," lets twelve pastors of long experience tell their observations on this question. Each of them testifies that broken marriage ties which had resulted in their congregations, were almost without exception found in such families where either the husband or the wife were members of a different denomination. If a marital union between members of evangelical churches thus acted as jeapardizing the peace and happiness of Christian families, how much greater is the risk between (believers) a faithful child of God from a Protestant denomination and a Catholic, Jew, unbeliever or member of some cult.

If people of differing denominations, who contemplate marriage, would unitedly go to the Lord in prayer before their wedding day, to seek God's guidance and grace to have this matter settled and become members of the same congregation, they would not only prevent much danger to their mutual understanding but secure God's blessing upon their union. God cannot bless those who contrary to His counsels will enter upon the dangerous venture of a mixed marriage. But blessed are all they that walk in His ways.

Notice of Foreign Mission Board

The Board of Foreign Missions intends to meet, D. V., on Feb. 15, 1938, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in Newton, Kansas.

On account of war conditions in China, and a flood in India, some difficult questions are up for decision, and we will need the support of our mission friends in intercessory prayers. We take this opportunity to express our hearty thanks to them for the support in the past year financially, and no doubt also spiritually. The fact that, in spite of the disturbed conditions in China, 160 could be baptized on our field in 1937, should encourage us all to keep up this support and even increase it.

We hope that the five missionaries, who were prevented last fall from going to China, may soon find the doors open again in that country, so that we can send them.

In the name of the Board,

Sermon Sketch

THE CHALLENGE

G. F. Owen

His mother made him a little coat, and brought it to him from year to year (I Samuel 2:19).

Hannah of Ramah set for herself a task which annually she would accomplish in behalf of her little preacher boy who ministered before the Lord in the tabernacle at Shiloh. The new coat was necessary every year, for the lad was growing. To Hannah, every year presented a challenge to accomplish a task larger than that of the previous year. Just so, 1938 presents a challenge to every consecrated individual throughout the Church of Christ.

I. We Are Challenged by Time

Never resting time will swiftly glide by like an all-embracing ocean tide bearing us on, day by day, nearer the beginning of that eternal morning where the shadow on the dial, the running of the sand in the hour glass, the striking of the clock, day and night, weeks and months, years and eons will have been left behind as outmoded measures used on life's brief voyage. Silent time, on its ceaseless mission of healing, will roll onward, dissolving many a delusion, unmasking many a falsehood, and bringing to light the glorious truth that makes men free.

With the passing of the months we will become better "rooted and grounded" in divine things, or partially uprooted. One year from now we will have gone farther along the road of God's choice, or of our own deliberate choosing—will have pursued the goal set by ourselves, or that set for us by our Maker.

II. We Will Be Challenged by Our Sorrows

Many will meet with what they hoped they would not meet, while others will continue to live with sorrows which have often threatened to hush life's sweetest song birds. Some will sit down with memories of loved ones absent in a better land, others will sit down to sorrow over loved ones whose waywardness is bringing them to ruin. Never shall the writer forget the tears of a railway conductor whose form shook with emotion while he listened to the song, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" then arising to go for his train, he said, "I have a boy that is somewhere in the world today, and I wonder where."

Every soul has its secret sorrow. And who knows what sorrow may slumber in the background of some seeming sweetness that may be offered during the year. But when sorrow comes unsent for, may we all come forth better souls.

I walked a mile with sorrow
And ne'er a word said she;
But, oh, the things I learned from her
When sorrow walked with me.

III. We Will Be Challenged by Our Joys

In what will we find our joy? In right or in wrong? In the world-wide spread of superficialities such as cheap fiction, screaming radios and worldly parties; or will we experience those deep, satisfactory surges of peace and joy in the Holy Spirit? The realm in which we seek our enjoyment will indicate our character here and our destiny yonder, unless our recreational bill of fare undergoes a change. Ample allowance will need to be made for wholesome recreation, yet in this present play-day age we will all need to make good use of our God-given power of discrimination. And, in the "upward pull" which comes from prayer, godly living, and sacrificial service will we find our blessings which make the soul rich and "addeth no sorrow." In this connection Helen M. Wilson's "The Kite String" is exceedingly significant.

IV. We Will Be Challenged by Our Fellowships

Our companions will at time be pushed on us—by necessity of our profession, trade or daily task—but those we choose will help fashion our character and shape our destiny; send us to heaven or to hell. Some are so liberal in what they allow that we will do well to choose our companions from among the most spiritual individuals of our acquaintances. Superior to all other fellowships will be that which we are all privileged to enjoy with our Lord.

"And Thou, O Lord, by whom are seen
Thy creatures as they be,
Forgive me if too close I lean
My human heart on Thee."

V. We will Be Challenged by Our Opportunities

Opportunities will be presented to be and to do for God and our fellowmen. Those who move forward to be aggressively active will doubtless be imbued with the ideal of self-expression or with the ideal to express God. To mortify self and honor the Holy Spirit will be worthy of the best efforts of the best among us. Our work need not be divided into sacred and secular, for all we do may become sacred if we live henceforth to God, and do all we do to His glory.

Our opportunities, both to be and to do, will throw out a tremendous challenge throughout the year. And our backsets should only increase our appreciation of our mission and urge us to accept the challenge. For so long as humanity around us continues to be enamored of the world, wrapped in materialism, and given to soiled politics and thoughts of war, the holiness people will have ample opportunity to stand out in bold relief, and that by sheer contrast. Our very welfare and existence as a movement is bound up with the quality of holiness that exists in any given place at any given time.—Herald of Holiness.

—Rev. J. H. Janzen, Waterloo, Ont. sends us an article on "Problems in Education" which we shall endeavor to bring in the next Mennonite. Bro. Janzen is as busy as ever in the field to which he has just returned.

CHOOSING COMPANIONS IN SERVICE

Mark 3:7-19, 31-35

The Increasing Multitudes vs. 7-12

When the enemies of Jesus, the Pharisees, began plotting his death (v6), He did not remain to contend for His rights but withdrew (v7) with the disciples to the more quiet sea-side beyond the city limits. Jesus was not a coward, but He loved peaceful ways of carrying on His work. Increasing multitudes followed Him, coming from near and far (vs7,8), having heard what "great things He did". Probably many came to bring their sick to be healed; many others to be helped; many others to hear Him and many out of curiosity. All probably felt confident that their motive for coming would be rewarded. Many had faith that their touching Him would bring healing (v10),

Jesus had now reached the height of His popularity with the people. The whole land was proclaiming His praises, while the religious leaders were scheming for His destruction. With the masses, even with the sinners of His day, He was popular. Those who should have honored Him the most, denounced Him as a hypocrite, a deceiver, a blasphemer—hated Him. The masses heard His words, saw the good deeds, praised Him. Jesus was popular with the children. They loved Him.

Jesus Chooses Twelve vs. 13-19

Luke says (6:12) Jesus spent a night in prayer, then went "up into a mountain" (v13) and there called those He chose, to himself. Jesus felt the need to withdraw from the multitudes time and again. This was a most weighty matter, the choosing of the Twelve from the many followers. These He wished to prepare (vs14,15), have them with Him continually to teach them, send them forth later to preach, and give special powers to heal and cast out devils, which power was their credential of authority as His representatives. These miracles would help to command people's attention to the gospel they were to preach. These chosen ones were men of at least average ability or they would not have followed Him. God is calling men today to become great leaders in His work.

Jesus called many to be followers, but only twelve to become apostles whom He prepared for special work. Training is still essential for the best service. These twelve, carefully chosen, were ordained by Him after a probationary period of instruction and testing. After the selecting of the twelve, they and Jesus returned and "went into a house" (v19), probably Peter's. A large crowd came together (read vs. 20-30) and crowded about the house. Much excitement prevailed. A report was circulated, no doubt by His enemies, that He was "beside Himself" through overmuch effort put forth in ministering to the multitudes.

True Brethren of Jesus vs. 31-35

Members of Jesus' family (v31), acting on the reports circulated by His enemies, came to the house and sent word to Him, asking Him to come out, no doubt intending to take Him home with them, believing He needed rest and quiet (vs21-22). When informed of their presence, Jesus asked the striking question of verse 33, and looked on His disciples sitting about Him, perhaps to see the effect on them. Jesus is indicating in verse 34 that those united to Him spiritually, are as close to Him in His affections and love as earthly parents, brothers and sisters. He says further (v35) that all who will do God's will are as close to Him as any one can be by blood kinship. Any one who truly wills to do God's will is accepted by Him. When we sincerely will to do God's will, then we really serve Him in the whole heart.

The will of God is comprehended within two commandments, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy mind", and the second, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself". Keeping these faithfully we shall spiritually be near of kin to Christ. Jesus here takes the intimate kinship of the flesh to symbolize the even more intimate relationship of the Spirit.

THE ETERNAL SECURITY DOCTRINE

Following a review by John C. Kaufman, of John L. Stauffer's booklet, "THE ETERNAL SECURITY TEACHING", THE MENNONITE has allotted some space for the discussion of this doctrine. Feeling that the author of the booklet is entitled to a word, preferably the last one, on this topic, we bring below a letter by Brother Stauffer in reply to Kaufman's "Meditation".

He writes, "I am sending you a copy of a later booklet than the one reviewed by Rev. Kaufman. It is called Salvation, Security, and Warnings. I shall be glad to mail a copy to anyone, if they send 10 cents in stamps to cover cost and mailing."

Editor of THE MENNONITE:

My attention has been called to an article in your paper by John C. Kaufman under date of December 28th on "Meditation on THE ETERNAL SECURITY TEACHING." It appears that the reviewer of this pamphlet has unwittingly swallowed the Calvinistic bait and tackle used by the Fundamentalist School of Bible teachers such as Scofield, Chafer, et al, although he disclaims any such gullibility. With the young minister in the Eastern Conference who writes on January 11th, I feel that it would be interesting to have Pastor Kaufman commit himself on the eternal-security doctrine of these teachers, if our inference is not correct. In the light of Jude 3, he should be willing to contend for Bible truth as well as to oppose error.

A minister who is true to the Biblical principles and the historic faith of the Mennonite Church cannot condone Scofield's rejection of the non-swearing of oaths, of the non-resistance of evil, of the literal observance of feetwashing, nor can he subscribe to his postponement theory which relegates the Sermon on the Mount to a future age. The writer did not call Scofield and Chafer heretics in his pamphlet; that is a word supplied by the reviewer.

Will Pastor Kaufman call Scofield a heretic because of his rejection of the Biblical teachings of our Lord as enumerated above, and will he join with the writer in rejecting Scofield where he rejects the plain teachings of Scripture as believed by the Mennonite church, eternal security included?

On the other hand, if Pastor Kaufman is 100 per cent with Scofield and Chafer as his letter implies, then he cannot be in harmony with the historic faith of the Mennonite Church. The writer is a Mennonite minister and a fundamentalist, but he can go with the Fundamentalists in general only as far as they agree with the Word of God. The "world renown" Mr. Kaufman ascribes to such teachers is no guarantee of orthodoxy. If apostles or angels from heaven would teach contrary to the Word of God, they could no more be defended in their errors than can Drs. Scofield and Chafer in their promotion of the fifth point of Calvinism, commonly called eternal security, or "once saved, always saved."

The Biblical references that Pastor Kaufman has not found in the booklet that he reviewed, are found in a later pamphlet which is being sent to him.

Yours in defense of the truth and in exposure of error,
John L. Stauffer,
Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 27, 1938

"IT'S NO SIN".—Smoking's All Right, Says First Lady.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt does not regard smoking as a "sin", she said today at the woman's luncheon here. A woman had written her, Mrs. Roosevelt revealed, taking her to task, because she permitted her children to smoke in her presence. Mrs. Roosevelt said she was opposed to such restrictions, because they created an "atmosphere of fear" in the home. "Anything that anyone does immoderately is a menace to health and character," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "but I do not feel that smoking is a sin."—(Reprint from International News Service Dispatch, Oct. 18)

Yet went they on still to sin against Him. To rebel against the Most High in the desert. And they tempted God in their heart, by asking food according to their desire.

DEATHS

PETER A. GRABER, son of P. A. and Katie Graber, was born February 5, 1857, in Wolinien Horodisht, Russia. In 1873, in the village of Futter, Russia, he was baptized upon confession of his faith, by Rev. John Schrag.

During the emigration of 1874, he came, with his parents, to America, where they first settled at Bluffton, Ohio. In 1878 he homesteaded in South Dakota. On October 23, 1880, he was married to Miss Frances Albrecht. This union was blessed with the following children: Carrie (Mrs. Joe N. Waltner), Ben P., Elizabeth (Mrs. Jake Soft), Lea (Mrs. Ben Wedel, deceased), and John A.

In the spring of 1885 the family moved to Pretty Prairie, where he spent the rest of his days.—In 1892 the Lord saw fit to take his wife from him. In the same year he was married to Mrs. Mary Graber. To this union were born three children, Ed P., Anna (Mrs. Dan Ratzlaff), and one which died in infancy.

Mr. Graber was very active and instrumental in organizing and promoting the Mennonite church at this place. On November 1, 1887, he was elected deacon of the church, ordained by Rev. Jacob Stucky, and in this capacity he served his Master and the church until 1917, a period of thirty years, when he handed in his resignation.

About four years ago he became aware of the fact that he was afflicted with an internal cancer which caused him continuous suffering. Though he proved to be a patient sufferer, he often wished that he might soon meet his Redeemer. On January 16, 1938, at the age of nearly 81 years, the Lord saw fit to bring his days to a close.

He leaves to mourn his departure six children, two step-children, two brothers, four sisters, twenty-nine grandchildren, twenty-three great grandchildren, and many friends and relatives.

Christian Attitude

Romans 15:1-3

"We then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves. Let everyone of us please his neighbor for his good to edification. For even Christ pleased not himself; but as it is written: The reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me."

I should like to substitute the word "young" for "strong." We then that are young ought to bear the infirmities of them that are weak. Today everyone is looking to the young people to make a better world. In the countries of Europe Youth is organized to build the army, to carry on business, Law and education; and in our country we should organize Youth to put Christian ideals into practice. Youth is often compared to the morning of the day, or the springtime of the year. When we are young we have courage and fresh strength, we have a clear vision, and we are still innocent of the disappointments ahead. We read of our Lord's youth that he gained in wisdom, stature and favor with God and men. We have him for our example and it is very necessary that we build our lives on this one foundation. "Other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid which is Jesus Christ." Jesus sowed no wild oats. He kept himself without sin. Sin makes wounds, and wounds leave scars. Do we want them in our heart and life, or are we better off if we keep a clean bill of health?

We are apt to make excuses in our Christian life. We say we could accomplish more if we had this or that. If I had more time, if I had more talents, if I had had better chances. . . . The way to overcome this evil is to snatch every opportunity that comes. Be prepared for it ahead of time. You may be asked to serve on a committee, to substitute for someone, to lead a song service, to talk to someone unsaved. Do it; don't refuse. Be willing to help out. Don't think any task so small that you despise it. Have enough love and respect for the one who asks you to comply with his request. Don't envy the one who has more talent than you. More talent means more responsibility.

In Greenland, where fishing is the main industry, there is a man who devotes himself to his fishing equipment. Indeed, he has acquired so many extras in tools and instruments that he build himself a separate house to keep them in, and he has everything in perfect order. But he has no time for fishing. His friend who has nothing but a rod and reel, catches more fish than he does. So let us not handicap ourselves with excuses, and wishing for the advantages that others have.

Let us do what we can to make our programs attractive. More than that, let us make Jesus seem desirable to others. We are studying the Gospel of John now, and in our class we try to find a new portrait of our Lord in each chapter. At the wedding feast we see the social Christ, at Jacob's well we see the seeking Savior, in the conversation with Nicodemus we see the Divine Teacher, at Bethesda we see the Great Physician, in chapter 8 we see the Light of the World, and so we shall find it through all the 21 chapters. Jesus is so up-to-date that in all our present-day problems he can tell us what to do. He can help us to practice the Christian attitude all the time if we keep close to Him.

In Vienna there is a rose garden that grows roses for the market. It lies in a valley, and the perfume of the roses is so rich and heavy that if we descend into this garden for just a few minutes, people can smell it on us all day that we have been there. If you read the morning paper people find it out from your conversation; if you are a friend of the movies, folks can soon tell it, if you love books and music, the fact is quickly discovered. Do they take knowledge of you, that you have been with Jesus-—Contributed.

WHY DOES OUR CHURCH MAINTAIN COLLEGES?

Proverbs 2:1-11

Young People's Topic for February 27

Meditations:

Feb. 21. To Educate the Ministry. Eph. 4:11-16
Feb. 22. To Carry on Home Training. 2 Tim. 1:1-10
Feb. 23 To Instruct in the Truth. Jude 1-11
Feb. 24. Paul the Professor. Acts 19:9
Feb. 25. Jesus the Teacher. Matt. 5:1-10
Feb. 26. A College for Teachers. 2 Chron. 34:15-22

Suggested Hymns:

"Jesus Calls Us", "Holy Spirit, Truth Divine"

Problems:

Christian education needs no eloquent words in argument to support its value. Christian education simply speaks for itself and is its own testimony as to its value. Those two great men, Moses of the Old Testament and Paul of the New Testament have made wonderful contributions to the world. So great are their contributions that among all the contributions that the men of God have made, the contribution of Moses and Paul are the greatest. Their very lives stand today as a living testimony to the value of education when it is properly used. Therefore we say Christian education, since educated individuals of the non-christian type have often times misused their training and have made of themselves hindrances rather than contributors to the cause of humanity.

The last several years have shown a large increase in the enrollments of non-church related educational institutions. The church should well take alarm at that flow of students to non-church schools. By that we do not mean to cast any slurs on state schools. They have their correct and honorable place. But every Christian young person should give first consideration to the church school and attend his church's college.

Why Maintain a Church College?

All of the early colleges and institutions of higher learning, that were established in this country in the colonial and early years of the United States were established by churches with the purposes of maintaining Christian wisdom among the people. Today that is still the purpose of the church-related colleges. We of the Mennonite Church have our own Bethel College. Bethel, too, aligns herself with other church-related colleges in that she wants to give to youth a Christian education in which the individual finds the "Good Life". Dr. Kurtz, in one of his lectures given during the Bible Week at Bethel College, pointed out that all the students of the United States are divided about half and half between the church colleges and the state colleges, but out in the positions of responsibility, where real reliable men and women are needed, nearly three fourths of them are men and women trained in a church college. They have been in an environment of honesty and high ideals and under instructors who are Christians, from whose lives radiates a spirit which only a man of God can give.

Why go to a Church College?

To the strongly ambitious student only the church colleges makes a strong appeal. The church colleges have limited enrollments and that is a distinct advantage. The student is not lost in the mass. His chief membership is in the college itself. The small church-related college is an educational unity within which is acquaintanceship, inclusive fellowship and general participation.

There is a great advantage in the fact that the church-related college is free to set up its own standards for admission. These standards are more and more taking into account personality, character, as well as scholastic ability. In a thus selected student body it is possible to have higher educational standards, richer social life and a finer college spirit. Thirdly, and this is important, the Christian college maintains a respect for faith and ideals. It is not a blaster of faith, nor is it a preserver of faith. But it is a developer of faith. Religion is consistently given genuine respect and solicitious nurture:

In short, the Christian colleges are interested in teaching young men and women how to be Christian, and thus to maintain the kind of a life which helps keep them Christian.

OVERCOMING OBSTACLES

Intermediate C. E. Topic, February 27, 1938

For Daily Study

Feb. 21. Jesus disappointed. Matt. 24:37-39
Feb. 22. Elijah cast down. 1 Kings 19:1-10
Feb. 23. Strength from the word. Ps. 91:1-15
Feb. 24. Trust the Shepherd. Ps. 23:1-6
Feb. 25. Job kept his faith. Job. 42:1-6; 10-12
Feb. 26. The reward of victory. Rev. 3:20-22
Feb. 27. Topic—Overcoming disappointments and difficulties.. Ps. 43; Josh. 1:9

A Hurdle Race

Disappointments and difficulties we meet are like hurdles placed in our way. If we would win in the race of life, we must overcome them. It will add interest and make more impressive the obstacles in life, if you draw a series of hurdles on the blackboard. Label them with the disappointments you expect to discuss in the meeting. Assign a specific way to meet each of these obstacles to some member for a talk. Before each talk is given, let the members suggest ways of meeting the particular disappointment, until they suggest the one you have chosen. The talk is then given and the hurdle erased. Then you proceed to the second one and so on.

Praise In Song

"Be Not Dismayed", "What a Friend We Have" "I Know He Cares"

Society announcements by president

Quiet Worship

Announcement of topic

Call to worship: "Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord, thy God, is with thee whithersoever thou goest."

Sing: "He Leadeth Me" Stanza 1-3

Scripture reading: Ps. 43

Prayer (Ask three members before the meeting to lead)

Sing: "I Need Jesus"

Discussing the Topic

1. The Leader's part. Speak of disappointments coming to all. Compare them to hurdles placed on the race track. The successful runner is the one who leaps over them. He may not succeed the first time but he doesn't give up. So it is with our difficulties. The important thing is what we do with them or what they do to us. Jesus met the greatest disappointments of all, yet He was victorious. We have Jesus' example to follow and God's promises to guide us.
2. Leaping the Hurdles (add others)
   a. Hard studies. How can we win by working? Luke 9:51
   b. Home problems. How can we win by serving? Mark 10:43,44
   c. Financial disappointments. How does doing right help us? Matt. 6:33
   d. Changed plans. What does it mean to "make the best of it?" Rom. 8:28
   e. Sickness. What laws of health do we need to observe? Elijah's example. 1 Kings 19:1-10
   f. Being misunderstood. How does prayer help us when we are misunderstood?

(Let the Intermediates name some of the difficulties and disappointments that come through each of the above "hurdles", before they try to give the answer)

Closing Moments

TRAMPLED GRASS

A man! a blade of grass can be
A lesson both to you and me.

We trample on it day by day
As o'er life's path we wend our way.
It bends beneath our feet, 'tis true,
But rises up again, anew.

Thus often through the course of life
We meet with sorrow and with care,
Till God, we think, has given us
More than a human soul can bear.

But as the trampled grass rebounds
And points again to God on high,
So we shall rise above our cares
And find that joy indeed is nigh.

—Buechel.

Song: "Just When I Need Him"

Benediction verse. Ps. 19:14

"The fashion of this world passeth away."
"And now abideth faith, hope and love."

THE LEADER'S MEDITATION

And the things of this earth
Shall grow strangely dim
In the light of His glory and grace."

GOD'S LOVE SAVES ME

Program Suggestion for February 27, 1938

Little remembrances could be prepared and distributed to the Juniors at the close of leader's talk. These could be in the form of a cross, cut double with a fold. On the outer side could be: "Jesus said, I am the Way." On the inner side: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." These could be out of bright red construction paper, the printing in black India ink and the fold tied with a small white ribbon. This would give the three colors: black, red and white. The meaning of these colors: "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin." Tell the Juniors this. If these crosses are made beautiful, the children could be asked to hang them in their rooms that they may be constant reminders of God's saving love. Then, too,

Here Is a Thought for Easter

How often our mission station workers must wish for little nuggets of truth that they may leave in the hands of the one just visited. Would crosses, as mentioned above, bring Easter joy to our mission workers and their charges? The crosses that you give out this Sunday, could be the Junior's sample. Each Junior could be asked to make one such cross for each meeting in March. If you have four meetings, then you would prepare four Easter boxes, one to be filled at each meeting during March. It would be best to carry these four boxes to each of your meetings. The ones already filled would bring satisfaction and eagerness to fill the ones still empty. The sending off could be done at a Come-Who-Will-Help meeting. One Junior could be made responsible to provide the wrapping paper, another the string, others could be asked to write the letters to the missionaries, others could put the address on the parcels and whoever has no opportunity to do a specific part, let these provide information regarding the mission workers or stations you have chosen. To these could be given the Mission Minute period during March.

Further suggestions for February 27

Opening Service

1. Rejoicing through song in the love of God that saves. Five-minute song service
2. Rejoicing through scripture in the love of God that saves
   a. Let chairman read John 3:14-15
   b. Group in unison John 3:16
   c. Chairman—John 3:17 and 18
   d. Group in unison John 3:35 and 36
3. Rejoicing through prayer (by leader)

Mission Minutes

Study Period. Aim, to teach, in a simple way, the great truths concerning salvation. This should be the leader's privilege and opportunity. You will need a good blackboard, gold and black and red chalk and a ruler. When you have finished your talk, the outline of it will be like the scheme given below:

Explanation:

1. The square and all in the square which represents God as well as that above the square—in gold
2. The cross and all in it in bright red
3. The little verse beneath also in gold but cover this until the heart representing the sinner has changed
4. This "heart" or square is first drawn on the blackboard in gold with nothing more in it except JESUS printed across. Over this is pasted a white square of paper. Into this, with the help of the group, are printed in black chalk, the "sins that fill the heart which needs a Savior
5. When you come to the place where the heart is willing to accept Jesus (Acts 31:16) then, What Happens? The miracle of the change takes place. Tear away the sheet with the black "heart", thus revealing the heart made glorious through the entrance of Jesus
6. Leave with the Juniors the question: "Has Jesus come into YOUR heart?"

Closing prayer: "Come into my heart, Lord Jesus"

—Dr. D. W. Kurtz's Bible Lectures at Bethel College surely furnished mountain-top experiences for the large audiences that heard him daily. He is a man of God, with the Divine Spirit working in and through him. All his lectures center in Christ, the Savior of men, as the only source of a true life and remedy for the ills of the world.

CORRESPONDENCE

BETHEL CHURCH, MOUNTAIN LAKE, MINN.

We are thankful that Christians everywhere realize the importance of prayer and arrange for a week of meditation and prayer at the beginning of the new year. All meetings in our church were well attended. Especially in times of uncertainty, such as we are living in at the present time, there is nothing so comforting as the assurance of a Heavenly Father who hears when His children call.

A Bible class for young people, conducted by Rev. John Bartel, has been started and it is encouraging to note the interest they take. More than fifty were present at their last meeting.

On January 16 Mr. Cor. Wall, of the Mennonite Brethren church and principal of our German Bible School, occupied the pulpit in the absence of our pastor. There is usually a good attendance at the morning services. Miss Aganetha Fast, who for months has been the only one of our missionaries at the station Taming, has safely arrived at Kikungshan, and is now re-united with her other co-workers. The journey of 500 miles was a dangerous one, but the Lord's protecting hand covered her. Frequently, when planes were sighted the train would stop and all passengers would scatter. There was danger that the train would be bombed.—May the new year, which has a fair start, find us faithful in the place where He has put us.—Corr.

COLFAX, WASHINGTON

My very dear Brother in Christ Jesus:

Our friendship, although many years old, has not died. O, the beautiful days and weeks we spent in the dear Halstead Seminary! Although our noble teachers or professors have passed into the Great Beyond, some years ago, where they enjoy their merited reward, we are still here—I, as pastor emeritus, after serving a congregation for forty-four years. You are still in the harness—doing work that is a blessing to thousands. May the Lord continue to bless you and make you a blessing to many hungry souls. As for myself, although retired from active service, I am still willing to work for my Master and Lord.

A few days ago, January 15, I was called into the beautiful home of a very dear friend, to join, in marriage, his beloved daughter to a dear friend, a grandson of my dear uncle Philip Roulet of Pulaski, Iowa, for many years the pastor of that church. The couple were Miss Marie Louise Hickman and Mr. Justin Roulet, adopted son of Mrs. F. A. Nauert. The vows were taken before the fireplace, which was banked on each side with baskets of beautiful flowers. Mrs. Rupert Aeschliman played, "Indian Love Call" and "Mendelsohn's Wedding March", Melvine Ensley sang, "I Love You Truly."—Out of town guests included L. S. Roulet, father of the bridegroom, of Nampa, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Macy, sister and brother-in-law of the bridegroom, of Granger, Washington. Only immediate relatives were present.

Both bride and groom are graduates of the higher colleges of the state of Washington. May the good Lord continue to bless them.—P. R. Aeschliman.

HEBRON MENN. CHURCH, BUHLER, KANSAS

On December 29, we had our yearly meeting. The entire day was given to Christian fellowship and planning for the welfare of the church. The ladies prepared a fine dinner for all present. Dr. A. M. Lohrentz, McPherson, Kansas was elected deacon. He accepted his office at the installation service, January 23. May we all remember our duties one toward another!

The church basement is under repair. More class rooms are planned. Our Sunday School has been well attended this winter. However, there are still a number of people who should attend more regularly.

Our mid-week Bible classes are progressing nicely. We have three classes; one in English, one in German, and a Junior Bible class. Twenty-three children are enrolled in the Junior Bible class.

Frieda Wall and Frank Toews were united in marriage by Rev. T. A. van der Smissen, Jan. 25. Mr. Toews prepared a nice little cottage for his bride. Their address is Moundridge, Kansas.—Mrs. T. A. van der Smissen.

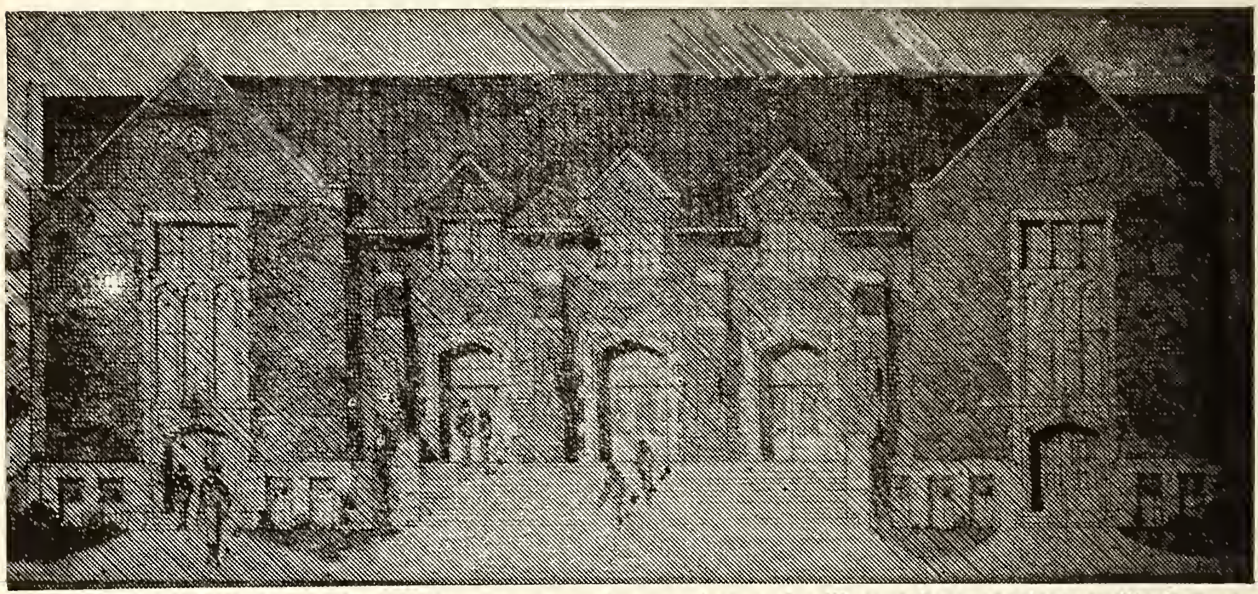
« « JOTTINGS » »

—Rev. N. B. Grubb of Philadelphia, nestor among our veteran ministers writes, "I have just recovered from a serious siege of illness which kept me upstairs for thirteen weeks. The main trouble was SHINGLES, and of the worst kind. I am almost blind, not able to read much—just a little at a time. But what can you expect of a man almost eighty-eight. For over a year I have not been out to walk farther than across the street. Only out when some friend comes with his auto to take me."

Brethren, those of you who know this dear old brother, let's scatter some flowers on his path by writing or sending him tokens of our affection and appreciation.

—Mennonite Church, Geary, Okla.—The Adult Bible Class entertained the adult class of Mr. Emil Lehman in the church basement the evening of Feb. 1. After a program consisting of short talks, singing of old German hymns, and playing of interesting contests a tasty lunch was served on small tables to all present. The evening was so enjoyable that the guests hope before long to return the favor and play host to the Adult Bible Class.

PROPOSED MEMORIAL HALL AT BETHEL COLLEGE



The Memorial Hall shown above will measure 150 by 100 feet and will contain a spacious auditorium, a dining room seating 1000 persons, a social and reading room, a college bookstore, and a post-office. It is to be a memorial to Mennonite pioneers.

—Rev. M. Horsch, pastor, Second Church, Beatrice, Nebr. in a personal letter says, among other things, "Today, I wish I were at Bethel to witness the ground breaking ceremony. How one wishes to do more for our schools. Speaking about Bethel and her great mission to our people, a good brother said last Sunday, I wonder if God has not reserved the finding of oil on Mennonite farms in Kansas for just such a time as this? Will those or do those who receive such fine incomes from these oil wells see this point? O, how we wish they would! It would redound to their own blessing, that of the school, and other Kingdom enterprises."

—Berne, Indiana.—Mrs. Maria Habegger, intimately known as 's Habegger Mammie, celebrated her ninetieth birthday on Saturday, Jan. 29. Born, Jan. 29, 1848, in the Bernese Jura, Switzerland, she was married to David Habegger in 1874, and in 1884 they came to America, settling on a farm near Berne. She is a highly revered grandmother, and her winsome character has made her popular with old and young in the Berne Community. A large gathering of children and relatives joined in the congratulatory festival.—Berne Witness.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—On Sunday, Jan. 30, Rev. Carl Landes delivered an address on "Peace Churches Face a Tremendous Responsibility."—In the next MENNONITE we expect to bring peace articles worked out by Bro. Landes. We are glad that he is stirring up our people to more definite action for the sake of peace.—Editor.

—Bethel College—The Memorial Hall.—On Tuesday, Feb. 1, took place the exercises signifying the beginning of the erection of Bethel's Memorial Hall. Due to disagreeable weather the program, with the exception of the ground breaking ceremony, was held in the chapel, with President E. G. Kaufman as chairman. After reading of Scriptures by Rev. B. W. Harder and prayer by Rev. Arnold Funk, secretary of the College Board of Directors, the following persons gave two-minute addresses: Rev. P. K. Regier, president of the College directorate; Prof. P. J. Wedel, nestor of the College faculty; Karl Baehr, chairman of the Student Council; Mr. Leonard Nelson, president of the Newton Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz, secretary of the Alumni Association; Rev. Logan Martin, representing the Newton Ministerial Association; Sister Frieda Kaufman of the Bethel Deaconess Hospital; Rev. P. P. Wedel, president of the Western District Conference; Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, sec. of the Gen. Conference; and P. H. Richert, sec. Bd. of Foreign Missions. Following this, Dr. D. W. Kurtz, Bible Week lecturer, gave a splendid address upon the place and need of the Christian College.—On the ground where the building is to be erected, there were prayers by Pres. Kaufman and Rev. Franz Albrecht, a short address by Mr. Guy Hawk and the digging of the first spade full of dirt by him. At appropriate places the A Capella Choir and College band furnished music.

—Freeman Junior College.—The college is giving extension programs of a religious nature in churches and other places in the environs of Freeman.

—Pictures Wanted!—One of the exhibits at the General Conference in Canada this summer will be of the Young People's work. For this purpose the Y. P. Committee is asking for Retreat and Convention pictures, programs, posters, anything that represents the work of our young people in the Pacific District Conference. If you have any such contributions to make, please send it at once to Emma Ruth, 1049 West Ave., Reedley, Calif. These can be returned to you if you wish and so specify.—Worker's Exchange.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—Mrs. Elizabeth Bolton and Missionary Catherine Niswander joined our church last Sunday.—The Committee appointed to raise $520.00 for the Home for the Aged has made a good start.—The newly elected officers are: A. B. Martin, deacon; Harry Solliday, Walter Nace and Ralph Kratz, trustees; I. Hunsberger and Mrs. Nace K. Kulp, custodians.—Brother I. W. Gross, who had served as deacon 21 years, declined to continue in service, and was honored with the office of Deacon Emeritus.

—Aberdeen, Idaho.—Rev. P. A. Wedel and family had somewhat of a scare the other day, when a flue fire broke out between the walls of their home. Fortunately, however, men working on the Mennonite Church nearby were able to extinguish the fire before serious damage was done.

So Great Faith
An Easter Drama
by Martha Bayly
THE STOCKTON PRESS
516 N. CHARLES ST.
BALTIMORE, MD.

In an interesting and dramatic way this one act religious drama tells the story of the Centurion who sent for Jesus to heal a well-beloved servant. The author imagines the influence that Christ's death and resurrection had upon this Centurion of whom Jesus said, "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel."

One simple setting is all that is required and no curtain is needed. There are three female, four male characters, one of whom has a non-speaking part, and a few lines assigned to a voice.

This play, in two scenes, with a suitable worship program prepared by the minister or a member of the group, will provide an hour's service.

Dr. J. W. Kliewer and Dr. S. M. Grubb Gone Home

The entire General Conference is saddened by the passing from this life of two of its valuable sons, Dr. J. W. Kliewer, of Newton, Kansas, and Dr. S. M. Grubb, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Dr. J. W. Kliewer, Mennonite leader, college president, long-time chairman of the Board of Foreign Missions, and beloved pastor of three churches, passed away early Tuesday morning, Feb. 8, in the Home for the Aged, Newton, Kansas, at the age of 68 years and 8 months. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Bethel College Chapel, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and acquaintances, preceded by a memorial service, principally for students, in the forenoon. Life seemed lonely to Brother Kliewer since the passing of Mrs. Kliewer, Jan. 2, 1935. He leaves two sons, Karl Kliewer and wife of Hutchinson, Kansas; Paul Kliewer and wife of Wichita, Kansas, and one daughter, Ruth, Mrs. H. S. Liebenberg and husband of Wilmington, Calif., also one brother and three sisters. A full obituary will follow later.

Philadelphia, Pa., via Air Mail, 8 p. m., Feb. 7—Newton, Kans. 4 p. m., Feb. 8:

"Rev. Silas M. Grubb, D.D., pastor of the Second Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, passed away suddenly on Sunday morning, February 6th at the age of 64 years, 4 months and 5 days.

He is survived by his wife, a son, a daughter-in-law, a grandson, his aged father, Rev. N. B. Grubb, a brother, Rev. W. H. Grubb of Dwight, Ill. and his sorrowing congregation where he ministered for thirty-nine years.

Funeral services on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, to be conducted by Rev. John J. Plenert, assisted by Rev. Freeman Swartz.

Honorary pallbearers—Irvin H. Mack, Maxwell H. Kratz, Dr. Charles Fulmer, Richard Cross, Walter M. Landis and William H. Shelly.

M. F. Shelly, for Rev. N. B. Grubb.

Dr. Grubb is well known in Mennonite circles as the genial editor of THE MENNONITE for twenty-five years, with the unique opportunity of speaking and influencing for good hundreds of our readers fifty times each year. He had been ailing for some time, but seemed to be improved of late. His good father, Rev. N. B. Grubb, who is 88 years old, would have been glad to go in the place of his son. But God's ways are not our ways.

SERVICE

*by Elizabeth Lingenfelder

My heart seems much lighter
And my view is brighter
At the close of each and every day.
As I travel on my homeward way,
To know I was of service here
And brought to others love and cheer.

That is the purpose of each life
To render service where there is strife
To look about and see the need
And quickly do a noble deed.
Kind words, smiles, the clasp of hand,
Are of no cost, yet at our command.

So let us try so to daily live
And freely of ourselves to others give
That at the end of our lives' way
We in our heart and mind can say
We love you all and wish no man ill
And so our Father's wish fulfill.

* We welcome Mrs. Elizabeth Lingenfelder of Hanston, Kans., as a member in our group of Mennonite poets.

EDITORIALS

FIT TO DO BIG THINGS.—He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much; and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much. Luke 16:10. Joseph was faithful in doing the menial duties of a slave and servant and God made him ruler over Egypt. Moses faithfully watched over the flocks of his father-in-law for forty years, and God made him the deliverer and lawgiver of his people. David, the shepherd lad, though he was brave enough to cope with a lion and a bear, was looked down upon and almost despised by his big brothers; but God used him to route the Philistines and then made him king of his chosen people. Daniel and his three companions, Hannaniah, Mishael, and Azariah obeyed their God in what some might look upon as little things, kept their faith in spite of the lions' den and the fiery oven, and then were elevated to positions of power and influence in the land of their heathen conquerors. The steward who proved faithful and wise had the promise of his Lord to be made ruler of his household. Luke 12:42-44. It still pays, even in this twentieth century, to be faithful in little things. But it seems that fewer young people are conscious of this truth than used to be the case.

THE TRUE GENTLEMAN.—It is almost a definition of a gentleman to say that he is one who never inflicts pain. He carefully avoids whatever may cause a jar or a jolt in the mind of those with whom he is cast—all clashing of opinion or collision of feeling, all restraint or suspicion or gloom or resentment; his great concern being to make every one at ease and at home. He is tender to the bashful, gentle toward the distant, and merciful toward the absurd. He recollects to whom he is speaking; he guards against unreasonable allusions on topics which may irritate; he is seldom prominent in conversation, and never wearisome. He makes light of favors when he does them, and seems to be receiving when he is conferring. He never speaks of himself except when compelled, never defends himself by a mere retort; he has no care for slander or gossip, is scrupulous in imputing motives to those who interfere with him, and interprets everything for the best. He is never mean or little in his disputes, never takes unfair advantages, never mistakes personalities or sharp sayings for arguments, or insinuates evil, which he dare not say out. He observes the maxim of the ancient sage, "that we should ever conduct ourselves toward our enemy as if he were one day to be our friend." He has too much good sense to be affronted at insults. He is too well employed to remember injuries, and too indolent to bear malice. He is patient, forbearing and resigned; he submits to pain because it is inevitable, to bereavement because it is irreparable, and to death because it is his destiny.—Cardinal Newman.

HOW MAINTAIN MENTAL HEALTH.—How can the modern man maintain mental balance and health amidst the helter-skelter of the world he lives in. That is a problem, as many will admit. But what is the normal state of the human mind? One may be said to be in sound mental health when, in his daily contacts with men and affairs, his capacities of knowing, feeling and willing function with the proper balance; or, in other words, when he is able to control his feelings, to manage advantageously his impulses, moods and passions, and has the will to say the judicially decisive word in his dealings with others. Illusions, mental wanderings, inability to concentrate and to remember, a combative or destructive spirit, untidiness and disorderliness are said to be signs of failing mental health. When such signs appear, or before, what can be done to restore soundness of mind? Generally speaking and looked at from the human point of view, keeping busy at some worthwhile task during waking hours, with, perhaps, a changeful avocation for leisure hours, is likely to be an effective preventive of mental ill-health. From the spiritual side, intimate contact with God, acceptance of his plan of salvation, resulting in a change of heart and a new life in Christ.

HUMILITY COMPATIBLE WITH CLEANLINESS.—Some time ago we read a story of a preacher, the gist of which was, an able preacher makes his people ashamed of himself because of his slovenly and untidy appearance. May we interpolate here, that the same would really hold true of any professional individual. The German says, Man muss standesgemaess leben, which means, a person should live, dress and keep himself as is becoming his station in life. The Frenchman says, noblesse oblige, which means, nobility or rank imposes obligation. The dignity that becomes a messenger of the gospel can hardly be manifested without befitting dress and bearing. A slovenly appearance discounts a clergyman's work, handicaps his influence, and lessens the power of his appeal. Soiled linen, spotted, unshapen clothes are not marks of an ambassador of Christ. God created man in his own image, he is the crown of creation or, as Isaiah puts it, Is. 43:7, I (God) have created him for my glory. How can anyone, who, in a special way, represents God among men, honor or glorify Him by a slovenly exterior? Unfortunately there are many ministers who have so little income that they cannot afford to dress as well as they would like to, but they can manage to be clean and neat. Neatness and cleanliness in person and dress cover many defects.

May others see the Lord in me,
In tone of voice, in look of eyes,
In dress, in walk, in laugh or sigh,
May I His life examplify—all faithfully.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

Dear Christian Friends:

In the Missionary number of the Mennonite, several articles appeared which were written by our Indian Christians. These articles, besides furnishing us with much good information and inspiration, also reminded us that we were indebted to our paper and readers.

First, you will likely be interested in our report relative to our journey from home to Champa. We left Lamar, Colorado, several weeks previous to the sailing date and visited a number of relatives and friends enroute to New York City. November 11, we embarked on the S. S. Hamburg at New York for Southampton, England. All went well across the Atlantic, but due to a choppy sea, our boat arrived at port several hours late. This made a problem for us. We did not know whether time would permit us to go to London to board the next boat (the Corfu), as had been outlined in sailing orders. Upon inquiry, we found that we could embark at Southampton, thus giving us ample time, with no inconvenience except a little arranging with the P. & O. officials in Southampton. The Corfu arrived at port about 10 a.m. Saturday, November 20, and was due to leave at 4:00 in the afternoon, giving us nearly two days in Southampton.

A detailed account of the trip would not be in order at this time, so we shall only relate a few incidents in which we trust you will be interested. Our voyage for the most part was uneventful. There were, of course, some unpleasant incidents which one usually expects when travelling any distance.

We arrived at Bombay, December 9, on scheduled time, and were met upon arrival by Mr. Moffatt, the Inter-Mission representative, and an American Express agent. These men helped us through customs at Bombay, and at about 6:30 p.m. Mr. Moffatt took us to his home, where we lodged for the night. Needless to say, the services of these men were greatly appreciated. We left Bombay at about 6:00 o'clock on Friday evening for Champa and, although this was a mail train and not supposed to stop at Champa, we finally pervailed upon the train-guard to stop. This got us there about three hours earlier than we had expected.

Miss Augusta Schmidt and Miss Helen Nickel met us at Bilaspur, where they had been waiting for us most of the day. A little farther on we met Rev. P. W. Penner and wife and Miss Burkhalter. Then in a short while we reached our destination, where we were met by the Baumans and Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Penner. We were indeed thankful to God for bringing us safely to Champa.

The greetings which we received from our Christian co-workers and later from the Indian Christians in the Churches have indeed created a profound impression on our hearts and minds and gave us very favorable first impressions of India.

We are thankful and happy for this opportunity of serving our Christ in India and we would ask you to remember us in our language-study so that we might quickly acquire the tool which is so important for the work here.

With prayers for and greetings to all the churches in the homeland, Johanna and Edgar Frank

Notice of Missionaries Visiting Churches

The two missionaries, H. J. Brown and S. T. Moyer, are expected to attend the Board meeting next week, part of the time, and this makes it possible for them to visit some of the Kansas Churches while they are here for a few weeks.

They cannot both visit all churches, so their visits are as much as possible so arranged that all who are anxious to hear both can do so by attending the neighboring church to hear the one that does not come to your church.

On Wednesday, Feb. 16th, a mass meeting is planned in the First Menn. Church, Newton, where both missionaries will speak, and the Board also can attend.

Feb. 16.	First Church, Newton, both	7:30 P.M.
Feb. 17.	Gnadenberg, Moyer	7:30 P.M.
Feb. 17.	Elbing, Brown	7:30 P.M.

If the brethren can stay longer than till February 27th, the program will be extended later.

P. H. Richert, Secr.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—A reception for Missionary S. T. Moyer was held in our church. After a short program of welcome, the Moyers were taken to the church basement, where they were presented with a "pound shower" gifts. Refreshments were served.

Christian Education

A CAMPUS AT PRAYER

Ed. G. Kaufman

These are days when the tide of popular opinion is running hard and strong against the chapel practice. In our Mennonite colleges we still have compulsory chapel. We believe that chapel service has within its range of possibilities the fostering of certain values which no institution can afford to neglect.

The first of these is some appreciation of the great passages in the English Bible. Among young Americans in general the ignorance of the Bible is appalling, and the absolute lack of any feeling for the dignity and beauty and power of the Scriptures is both amazing and pitiful.

The second value which we would mention is the fostering of some balance in our lives, as between the material and the spiritual.

The third value is that of building a sense of the corporate unity of the college on its more serious side. The college comes together en masse in the stadium to watch the games. We crowd the Hall for a dramatic performance or a concert. When we leave the college we carry with us memories of many experiences. But our college heritage is not complete and our measure of the college spirit is poor indeed if there is not now and then a memory that touches a deeper place in our hearts, and puts the college close to the very finest that we know. A Christian college is more than a playing field. It is more than the classroom and the stage and a walk in the moonlight. The college is a combination of all of these, plus an intangible lifted light of the spirit of Christ which transcends them all. It is in the perpetuation of this spirit that the chapel can make its biggest contribution to the life of the college. But chapel is not all. There are other times and places of prayer on the campus of a Christian college.

"Are you ever gloomy over the future of young people, of your young people, of the Church, or the Nation? Visit a Campus at Prayer. You will come away with your faith strengthened. "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

One evening a week on the campus is a time of Prayer. The evening begins with a selection of a hymn played on the Chimes by one of the young men of the College. The notes of "Sweet Hour of Prayer" and other well known tunes spread a benediction not only over the Campus at Prayer, but over the community as a whole.

In one corner of the campus the Student Christian Movement holds its meeting. In another corner of the campus the Student Volunteer groups holds its meeting. Both students and faculty are invited to these meetings. Various topics are discussed and then a season of prayer carries the praise, repentance, problems and requests of the campus to God.

Once every so often the Faculty has its own Prayer Service. A few verses of Scripture are read and these Faculty members, the leaders and inspirers of youth, take the problems of the Campus and College to God. One cannot help believing that the work of these individuals and this institution will prosper through the grace and power of God.

"Naturally, every student and every faculty member does not attend these meetings. Some never attend, some attend occasionally, some regularly. However, no Church with which I am acquainted has as large a proportion of its membership attending the weekly Prayer Meeting as join in this Hour of Prayer on the Campus.

"Any institution which fosters Prayer has Faith. This faith is the substance of things hoped for: hoped for by the parents who entrust their young people to this institution, hoped for by the Church which supports this institution, hoped for by those who are building their lives into this institution. This faith is also the evidence of things not seen. It is evidence that these happy, fun-loving, red-blooded young men and young women have their more serious, solemn and sacred moments; that the faculty is taking its position of leadership seriously; and that the College is maintaining an atmosphere in which students can 'increase in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man'."—Christian Education, April, 1937.

Problems of Education

Jacob H. Janzen

In THE MENNONITE of January 25, on page 2, appears an article under the heading, TOO MANY LEARNED FOLKS? The question mark indicates that the writer doubts whether our difficulties in life originate really from having too many learned people among us. Further he points out that there can hardly be too many of them, if the learning afforded them, points in the right direction: Service rather than money making.

This is a thought that echoes from my own heart. There is, of course, a difference between what we call learning and what we call education. And I would say that we need good education rather than high learning. But, nevertheless, high learning will alway be a good asset for a well educated man or woman to achieve.

If I am not mistaken, the English word learning has its equivalent in the German word Gelehrsamkeit, while the word education means Bildung. The first implies that somebody acquires by learning something that he did not possess before and that might or might not affect his growing up into a perfect character. The second implies that the person in question is influenced, by teaching, to the good, and all that he learns will necessarily help him grow up into a good, well balanced character.

A highly educated man can still be a great fool or a low character. There are many highly learned men among gangsters of our blessed country. But a well educated man or woman will always be a noble character, and will never be found among criminals or people of low standing. There are well educated people without much learning, but high learning will always make the efforts of a well educated person much more effective. High learning, combined with good education, is a great blessing to mankind. But the same high learning, even though it be in theology, can also be a dangerous weapon in the hands of a person with criminal leanings.

Therefore I am in favor of our denominational Christian institutions. There is a tendency to discredit them, but we cannot, as yet, dispense with them, because they are institutions of education rather than abstract learning. Their main concern is the spiritual growth of their students and the building of a good, well-balanced character in them.

Much of our present day learning is perverse, creating in the minds of the students the opinion that their learning entitles them to some especially elaborate position, and that they are now too good to do the chores in the barn yard or to do housework of any kind. Real education, instead, would be to them a means to understand, to appreciate, and to enjoy life, in all of its aspects, more fully. Why should not a young man be well educated and go back to his field and to his chores in the barn yard, and enjoy a farmer's life twice as much as an uneducated man ever could do it? Or why should not a well educated girl go back to her housework, get married and become the mother of a happy family? Any highly learned lady who deems herself too good to bother with children, is one of the greatest fools the world has ever seen, because she deprives herself of the greatest blessings and joys that God has bestowed upon woman—motherhood. We need well educated mothers.

We certainly do not need schools that teach our children away from life, but we need schools that inculcate in them a fuller and deeper appreciation of life, to make them both prosperous and happy. The world of today needs such schools, and without them it will sink deeper and deeper into dispair as time goes on.

Folks, stick to your Christian educational institutions and make them a real success! Thereby you will help solve the problem of social life. Select for your teachers well built and well-balanced characters, with high learning, who are able to teach your children and to help you bring them up to be real MEN and WOMEN themselves.

We brought nothing into the world, and we will take nothing out but our character.

From "The Mennonite Peace Society Bulletin"

Bluffton, Ohio, February, 1938

As war clouds darken, as incident upon incident seems to point toward armed hostilities between leading world powers, Peace Churches ought to face again the message of Acts 5. "We ought to obey God rather than men—If this work or this counsel be of men it will come to nought; but if it be of God ye cannot overthrow it". Jesus assures us that PEACE "is of God", so "Ye CANNOT OVERTHROW IT". That means that there is no question concerning the TRIUMPH of PEACE; the only question is, "WHAT PART WILL WE HAVE IN THAT TRIUMPH? To me that means, (1) Do ALL in my power to preserve PEACE: give TIME, MONEY, ENERGY, NOW. (2) If, in spite of our efforts war comes, "WE OUGHT TO OBEY GOD RATHER THAN MEN", and take the consequences. We urge our members, our pastors, our Church officials, our YOUTH to study carefully the paper "TRIUMPHANT PEACE", by Russell A. Lantz. Let us face honestly the PRICE of PEACE. ". . . let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me".

AN OPEN LETTER TO MY GOVERNMENT

(President, Vice President, Senators, Congressman)

Sirs: The defeat of the Ludlow Amendment, and the passage of the huge naval appropriation bill, plus numerous other policies, make it increasingly clear that the officials of the government, in league with big business and munitions firms are preparing to wage another war on foreign soil. I am a native born citizen. I love the U.S. above any nation of the world. I cherish Her Religious freedom, Her high degree of Democracy, the great opportunities, open to both men and women. And I am willing to defend them with my life, but war will destroy rather than defend them.

In 1917 I was eager to enlist to help "end war" and to "make the world safe for democracy". But I was too young. That desire to enlist was against the doctrine of The Mennonite Church, of which I was then, and am now, a member. At the age of 21 I enlisted in the army and spent two years in the 31st Infantry in Manila, P.I.

In those two years I learned the "theory of war" in "sham battles". But those sham battles were enough to turn me against war FOREVER. In addition to the experiences of those two years, I have before me the contents of letters and diary memoranda exchanged between Washington, D.C. and the American Embassy in London, 1916-17. Thus far I have found NOT ONE WORD about "ending war" or "making the world safe for Democracy". But I do find words like "European markets", "We shall reap the PROFITS", "It is not improbable that the only way of maintaining our PREEMINENT TRADE POSITION and averting a PANIC is by declaring war on Germany."

In addition to the above, I have also the reports of the Munitions Investigation, which clearly reveal the NATURE of war, how munitions makers, big business and unpatriotic, corrupt government officials join hands in an "international understanding", which lead to war.

Modern war DESTROYS both conqueror and vanquished; it defends NOTHING and NO ONE. Therefore I feel it my Christian and my Patriotic duty to inform you NOW, that, in case the President and Congress feel it necessary to declare war, I CANNOT ACCEPT ANY SERVICE which would support the war.

I am giving my full time, my energies, my money NOW, to build a peace-minded Mennonite Church, and a peace-minded nation. I am attempting to fulfill my Religious and Patriotic duties, in supporting positive policies, which will advance peace.

I deeply regret the administration pressure which defeated the Ludlow Amendment. It raises a serious question in my mind: "Has our country been already secretly promised to join in a foreign war, 'If we are needed,' as Colonel House had permission to promise the U.S. to the Allies eary in 1916, six months before the people reelected a president because 'he kept us out of war'?" Mr. President, has the U.S. been promised to wage a foreign war?

If those of us who are trying to preserve peace fail, and war should be declared (or waged undeclared), YOU CANNOT COUNT ON ME. You CAN count on me for any constructive service, which will build PEACE.

Sincerely, Carl J. Landes, Bluffton, Ohio.

What Does this Mean?

What does it all mean? Is not the present race for "Preparedness" among nations a repetition of what happened before the World War? As then the nations make war virtually inevitable by their inordinate race for arms, and our country is getting into the thick of it too. "Figures tell their own story. The makings of war, the equipment, the men, are far greater today than they were in 1913. In that year, with six million men in military service, the world was spending 2½ billion dollars on arms. In 1937, according to the League of Nations, with 8½ million men in service, the world was spending 12 billion dollars on arms. And now, in 1938, the figures grow worse. To the many billions being spent elsewhere, the United States is getting ready to add another billion. The race is on in earnest. Where it will all end, what it all means, are questions that only brooding imaginations can enjoy."—Pathfinder.

MEASURING A MAN'S WORTH

Mark 5:1-17

Introduction

Jesus and the Twelve crossed to the east side of the sea of Galilee during the night. While He was asleep in the boat, a storm, so common there, swept with sudden fury on the sea. The greatly alarmed disciples appealed, in their terror, to the Master. He rose up, rebuked first the weak-faithed disciples, then the storm with His quiet. "Peace, be still", and a great calm quieted the sea and the disciples. When they landed, they witnessed another storm, far more terrible than that on the sea—a storm of human fury, madness and degradation—a demon-possessed man. Mark paints this scene of the terrifying forces of evil in words expressing vividness, terror, majesty, and power. He also inspires us by his vision of the omnipotent power of Christ.

The Demon-possessed Man vs. 1-6

This man, under the control of the spirit of Satan, was an outcast from society. No provision was made for the care of such unfortunate ones. They must shift for themselves (v3). This evidently (vs4,5) was an instance of extreme severity of demon control. He was a raving man, nevertheless he was a needy soul. From his hillside abode, he saw Jesus and the disciples coming out of the ship. He hurried to Him (v6) fell down, worshipped Him. He could worship Him after Jesus had broken the demon's power (v8). Satan will not permit any one in his control, to worship Jesus. The man's first need was cleansing from the demon spirit so that the Holy Spirit could enter into him.

The Demon Appeals to Jesus vs. 7-12

In answer to Jesus' command (v8) the demon cried out loudly, using the man's voice. (Matt. 8:28). He declared that he and Jesus had no interests in common, and also recognized Him as Son of God. He appeals that he be not sent into torment, not be hindered from going about. In answer to Jesus' question (v9), the demon said that he was but one of many. Then as spokesman for all (v10) he pleads that their condition be not changed for the worse. (Luke, "Do not command us to go into the abyss"). Even demons do not wish their condition to be made worse. They proposed to Jesus (vs11,12) that He give them permission, send them into a herd of swine feeding near by. The owners were probably Jews and swine were "unclean" to them.

The Man's Mind is Healed vs. 13-17

Jesus consented to the demon's proposal with results disastrous to the swine (v13). He let them do as they wished and the terrified swine rushed to their destruction. Jesus was concerned, above all, in the man's cleansing. He was worth more than the swine. They were lost, but the man was saved. Christianity puts the highest value on a human soul. A person is of more value than property. Jesus wished to teach this central lesson with this dramatic miracle.

The reports spread rapidly (v14) and many came to see what was done to the swine. They found (v15) that which they had hardly expected—the demon-possessed man sitting in peace, quietly resting, in his right mind—a living witness to Jesus' power over Satan himself. Jesus alone can bring peace into a soul. The people bade Jesus to leave their coasts (v17). They feared much and valued their swine of greater worth than the healing of the man. We need to guard today lest we count herds, crops, dividends, comforts of more real concern than the souls of men, of our growing youths. Jesus considers a man of great value, not so much perhaps because of what he is, but because of what he may be, can be, when yielded to Him. Man's worth, greatness is all the gift of God. A man's value depends upon his relationship with God. Each one is worth saving at all cost. The redemption of the man was worth all it cost. The ultimate value in this world today, is the human soul.

A Practical, Working, Conference

The Third Quarterly Conference of the Eastern District, met in Bethany, Quakertown, February 3rd afternoon and evening. The 'practical workings' idea thread was woven through the entire conference, from earnest Devotional Services to ways and means of bringing together the Conference finances.

Walter H. Temple and Earl K. Kremer, railroad men presented two itineraries to and from the General Conference, to be held in Saskatoon, this summer. The trip from the East is to Chicago and thence northwest. It is hoped that many from the Middle District and Western District can join the party in Chicago. Convenient stop-overs have been arranged for Chicago and Winnipeg to visit the Missions and also the Girls Home. The arrival in Saskatoon is such that the Girls Home there can be visited before the opening of Conference. One plan is to return immediately by the same route. Another plan is to go on to Lake Louise and Banff in the beautiful Canadian Rockies with a stop off at Swift Current, the newly opened Mennonite District to our General Conference Home Mission Board. Attractive rates were also announced.

Rev. W. S. Gottshall, read a paper covering the early history of the Eastern District Conference. Some facts were disclosed that had hitherto never been published. Needless to say the audience listened intently to the paper.

In the Evening session Rev. Bohn spoke to a full house on the theme: "Practical suggestions for our young people who are in the draft age." We hope and pray that war might never come, but it is well that Christians face their task carefully and, according to Scripture, plan for their stand.

Sincerely,
A. J. Neuenschwander, Conf. Secy.

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, NEWTON, KANSAS

Dear Editor and Readers of the Mennonite:

Our yearly meeting was held January 1, at 5 p.m., and was better attended than ever before. The meeting was carried through according to the program. The reports of the different parts of the churchwork were very interesting and encouraging. At about 8 o'clock the ladies served coffee cake and cookies. The new budget is about the same as last year. We adjourned about 10 o'clock.

Our Pastor, Bro. J. E. Entz, gave an abbreviated report of the condition of the congregation. We now have 530 communicant members. The increase this year was 59 new members, 27 by baptism. The decrease was 15, leaving a net gain of 44 members. About $2600 was paid off on the church debt, leaving a debt of $1700. On September 1, our congregation will have existed for 60 years. The greatest increase was in the last 5 years.

The order and nature of our church activities, on Sundays and through the week, is as follows: Sunday school at 9:30 a. m., the number of teachers is 28, the number of pupils 574. Since the Sunday school building has not yet been built, we have most of the Sunday school classes in the basement, heavy curtains divide the classes. Since attendance is increasing, we have not room enough. Brother J. Entz has a large catechumenal class during the Sunday school period, which he teaches in the Chapel of the Deaconess Home. The church service begins at 10:45. We generally have an English and a German sermon. On Sunday afternoon some members of the C. E. society go to the poor farm, to hold devotion there. Another committee goes to the jail, some evenings, and holds service there. At 7 o'clock, Sunday, the Sunbeam Juniors meet, led by Mrs. Rev. J. E. Entz, their membership is 55. At the same time, on alternate Sundays, the Junior Young People's C. E. meets. It has 80 members and is very active. At 8 o'clock there is alternately Senior C. E. or preaching service, generally conducted by Dr. A. Warkentin.

On Wednesday evenings, at 7:15, there is, usually, the Young People's Bible Class, led by S. S. Superintendent Theodore Claassen, at 8 o'clock is practice of the Young People's choir, with about 50 members. The directress is Mrs. Ferd. Voth. On Thursday evening is practice for the Senior choir, 30 members, its director is Prof. W. H. Hohman of Bethel College. On Friday evenings, at 7:30, is usually Bible class, led by Dr. Warkentin, mostly in German. At 8:15 is Teacher's meeting, in English. It is taught by Brother Warkentin and others. On Thursday afternoon is held the meeting of the Senior Mission Society, 15 members. Once a month, on Thursday evening, is the meeting of the Mission Study Circle, which has about 70 members.

On Sunday, Jan. 2, Rev. C. E. Krehbiel preached on Josh. 3:1-5. Instead of preaching first an English and then a German sermon, he alternated between English and German, a few minutes at a time, thus making it interesting.

On Monday, January 3, was the Silver wedding of Brother and Sister B. C. Regier. It was celebrated in our church. Many friends and relatives attended. It was followed by a supper and a program in the basement. That week being the week of prayer, we had prayer meeting on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Sunday, January 9, in the evening after Y.P.C.E., Rev. Smucker of the Bethel College congregation preached on "Our Father". On Wednesday evening, Jan. 12, Dr. May, president of the Kansas City Bible School, spoke to the Young People's Bible class on the Bible, the book.

Sunday, Jan. 23, Dr. H. A. Fast, Field Secretary of the General Conference, spoke in the forenoon, very interestingly on the historical and spiritual development of the General Conference. He continued his talks in the evening, and on Monday and Tuesday evenings, on the educational phase of the Conference, Home, Schools, Y. P. Societies, Teacher training, colleges and seminary, the development and present status of our Foreign Mission, Home Mission, Relief, and Publication, in a very instructive and edifying way.

With fraternal greeting to the readers, the old ex-editor, C. van der Smissen

MENNONITE CHURCH, BUTTERFIELD, MINN.

Dear editor and friends in Christian fellowship:

Greetings in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ with I Peter 5:7, "Casting all your care upon Him; for He careth for you". Our heavenly Father is interested in each minute detail of our lives. Nothing is too small nor too great to take to the Lord in prayer. So in this new year let us cast all our care upon Him.

A report from our congregation is due and I shall put it off no longer. I am happy to say that our attendance in church and Sunday School has been very good. Our young people meet every Thursday evening. They are enthusiastic about the work and the meetings are very well attended. The Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. Herbert Linscheid has made a very valuable addition to the church service.

We have recently closed a very successful series of evangelistic meetings, led by Rev. Albert Schultz of Frazier, Montana. The Word of God preached and taught in its purity, has not lost its power in our day. Many a heart was refreshed and determined anew to walk more faithfully with the Lord.

On November 28, Rev. L. Linscheid resigned the pastorate of our church, due to ill health. Services have been held regularly by visiting ministers from Mt. Lake and vicinity. As yet, no regular minister has been secured. We trust the Lord will send one soon and will also restore Rev. Linscheid to good health that he may go on with his chosen work. With best wishes to the editor and readers of the Mennonite.

SECOND MENN. CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBR.

Last Sunday evening we enjoyed a Mission Program given by the Senior C. E., with Rev. M. Horsch as leader. We heard about our Montana Mission Station, where Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph Petter, Rev. and Mrs. Habegger, Mrs. Waldo Petter, and Miss Gibbs and some native helpers are bringing the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ to the Cheyenne Indians. Since Dr. Rud. Petter has accomplished the translation of the word of God, some of the Cheyennes are reading the gospel and spreading the good news to their Indian friends. How thankful to God we should feel, that native helpers themselves are bringing the gospel to others, only by the grace of God.

When difficulties and tribulations arrive, threatening to hold back the progress of the spread of the word to the Indians, God will help that His work will not suffer. It is our privilege to pray to Him more earnestly for the upbuilding of His Kingdom among the Indians in Montana, and naturally also for the Mission work in all the world.

The speakers specialized the testimonies of the different native helpers. It is like a most famous physician said, "I dress the wound—God cures it." And so it is with the work of the missionaries, they bring the gospel, but God works repentance and faith.

Connected with the station of Lame Deer, where Dr. and Mrs. Rud. Petter live with their dear Indians, are three native helpers, Ernest King, Frank Littlewolf, and Milton Whiteman, who preach regularly every Sunday. Isn't this wonderful? Just think what Jesus can do, when we listen to His voice!

It was touching when we heard of the testimony of Milton Whiteman, how humbly he thanked God for saving him by His mighty hand, for he had been a great sinner. We Christians have a great responsibility to pray to God that such saved ones may stand firmly on the word of God, to serve Him, who gave His life for the world. They have to face temptations, but our daily prayers and God's grace will help wonderfully.

In love, John Wiebe.

Friendship

by Henry M. Harder
Butterfield, Minnesota

Seldom do we realize the value of true friendship. Anyone walking through life without friends is indeed to be pitied. Not only become our burdens lighter and our sorrows fewer when shared with friends but we receive new courage and hope to go on in our life's work and become more able to understand others.

I always love to think of the true and genuine friendship of David and Jonathan, I Sam. 18:1; 19: 2 Sam. 1:26, and finally climaxed in faithfulness on the part of David toward Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan, as recorded in 2 Sam. 9. Here we have the story of the heir presumptive and the new king anointed. There seems every reason, especially on the part of Jonathan, to hate David; but instead, he loved him as his own heart and proved the greatest friend David ever had.

There are certain requisites for true friendship. We shall note a few: To have friends one must be a friend. King Solomon wisely expressed this in Prov. 18, 24 when he said, "A man that hath friends must be friendly:" and the result, "and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother."

No one will be a friend unless he loves. To the extent he loves will his friendship endure. Jesus says according to John 15,13 "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

In our S. S. lesson of Jan. 30, we studied of four men who carried their palsied friend to the rooftops and lowered him at the feet of the greatest of all friends—Jesus. It was a difficult task but their love and sympathy for their friend urged them on and all five were richly rewarded.

How cold and feelingless this world of ours would seem if we had no friends! Often we are lonely, in trouble, and in need and we go to those in whom we trust, and we are well repaid. However, let us make it our aim and earnest desire to help others more than we expect our friends to help us and we will never be without a friend. But above all, let us not forget the greatest of all friends, the Friend we have in Jesus.

ABOUT HENRY HARDER

A young man, but an all-around citizen in his community and a fine citizen of the Kingdom of God. Very active in church work in the First Mennonite Church at Mountain Lake, Minnesota. Definitely interested in community projects, especially those relating to rural life.

He is a former student of one of our Mennonite Colleges, and a graduate of the University of Minnesota. One of those chaps that lots of people say don't exist: A man who takes his college and university training right back to the farm and the community and church and makes it count with telling strokes.

While our thoughts yet linger with friendship, let us meditate upon the following lines:

"Our strong band can ne'er be broken,
It can never die;
For surpassing wealth unspoken,
Sealed in friendship's tie.

Mem'ry's leaflets close shall twine
Around our hearts for aye,
And waft us back o'er life's broad track
To pleasures long gone by.

Youthful life is swiftly passing,
Soon its sands are run;
But while we live we'll ever cherish
Friendships now begun.

When we sing our live's last measure,
Sweetest then shall be Strains recalling ev'ry treasure
Of fond memory.

Friendship, loyal, firm and true
Deep graven on each heart,
Shall be found unwav'ring true,
When we from life shall part."

The World of Jesus' Day Compared with Ours

Matt. 23:1-7, 23-26, 37; 11:20-24

Young People's Topic for March 6, 1938

Meditations:

M., Feb. 28. In Jesus' Day—Slavery. Phil. 1:8-19
T., Mar. 1. In Jesus' Day—No Hospitals. Matt. 8:14-17
W., Mar. 2. In Jesus' Day—War a Profession. Acts 10:1-8

Suggested Hymns:

"Stand up, stand up for Jesus"
"Take my life and let it be"

Problems:

The world in which Jesus lived.

The world in the time of Jesus' life on earth was very limited. Only the lands which surround the Mediterranean Sea were known to civilization in which Christ lived. The means of travel and communication were so primitive that in that little world, small as it was, it was harder to get around, and more difficult to know the world than it is for us today to know our world.

There were only a few million people in that world of Jesus' day. But even so the distinctions between race and class were sharper and deeper than we find them at present.

Jesus found the world to be burdened with a heavy load of sin and slavery when He came into it. The very economic order of that day was based upon enforced human slavery.

In His wanderings among the cities of Palestine, Jesus found himself face to face with war, paganism, cruelty, oppression, tyranny, immorality, disease, igorance, illiteracy, superstition and poverty. In the face of all these Jesus came forth from His carpenter shop and set up a program so vast as to be adequate for the whole world, so durable as to be eternal and so detailed as to touch every human being individually.

The World in which we live.

In the material world there has been a great deal of progress since the time Jesus lived on earth. There has also been added a vast amount of intellectual enlightenment since Jesus' day. But in the moral and spiritual realms, we must admit, our civilization has not kept pace. We are highly developed materially but our moral and spiritual assets are very meager.

We saw how utterly deficient was the condition of the world in Jesus' day, but today we are just as deficient if not more so. To be sure we do not have slavery as it was practiced in Jesus' time but the labor directors and organizers have ways of enslaving the workers. Our cities are dotted with hospitals yet disease runs amuck. After 1900 years of Christian heritage the world fought the greatest war the world has ever known and today mankind trembles lest the war fuse again be lighted. If the lid were to be lifted we would see that immorality is rampaging the globe. There is still tyranny and cruelty in many places where men think they have a chance to get by with it. And inspite of poor-housing and government welfare agencies, there are still hundreds who are left to suffer and die uncared for.

Obnoxious as ever it may be, we are forced to come face to face with the fact that spiritually we are far from the goal and the ideal set by Jesus.

Are we going to do something about it and make our contribution to, and take, our stand for Christ?

Or will Jesus have to say of the world today, like He said of the Jerusalem, of His day, "How often would I have gathered thy children together . . . . and ye would not?"

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Jesus in the Temple

Intermediate C. E. Topic, March 6, 1938

Topics for the Month

March 6: Jesus in the Temple
March 13: Jesus in Decision
March 20: Jesus in Service
March 27. Jesus Giving Himself

Advance Preparation

If possible get a picture of "Jesus in the Temple at Twelve." If a large one is not available, cut one from a Scripture text calendar. Hang it in a prominent place in the room, and focus a special light on it. Arrange the chairs in a semi-circle, so that the group is close together.

Pre-Prayer Circle

Read Isa. 56:6,7 and show how God's house has always been a house of prayer for all who love the Lord. Thank God for the church. Pray for the pastor and the officers of the church. Pray for a greater love for the House of God.

Songs of Praise

1. "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken" (Stand)
2. "I Love To Tell the Story" Stanzas 1-3

Annoucements. President takes charge

Quiet Worship

(Announce the topic or have it printed on the blackboard)

Instrumental: "Holy, Holy, Holy" (played through reverently)

Reading: Ps. 122 (Group in unison)

Response: Ps. 100:4,5, by leader

Song: "More About Jesus"

Scripture reading: Luke 2:41-51 (by one who reads well)

Sentence prayers. (Make suggestions for prayer before calling for sentence prayers. See Pre-prayer circle.) Leader closes.

Studying the Topic

1. For the Leader. The lesson story has already been read in the worship period. Remind the group that it is the only story recorded about Jesus from the time He was an infant until He was baptized, when he was probably thirty years of age. Someone has compared this story to a morning star that sheds its light into the night that is gone, and proclaims at the same time the coming. It helps us to understand his miraculous birth better and also his coming life of ministry.
2. Short talks
   - a. The Passover Feast
   - b. The Journey from Nazareth to Jerusalem
   - c. Picture interpretation by the story
3. Questions to answer
   - a. How did Jesus show that He was different than the ordinary boy of twelve?
   - b. In what ways can we imitate Jesus example?
   - c. How can we develop a love for the House of God, the Church?

Closing Consecration

Ask each Intermediate to come prepared to give one of the sayings of Jesus. Let the leader begin, giving his verse holding an open Bible. He passes the Bible on, each one stands in turn, holding the open Bible and repeating his verse.

Song: "More Love to Thee"

Benediction.

The Passover Feast

The passover was kept in commemoration of the time when the first born of the children of Israel were spared by the angel of death in Egypt. See Bible Dictionary. The law required that all men of the tribes of Israel must go to Jerusalem to worship in the temple in observance of this event. This was not required of the women, though it was customary for them to accompany their husbands whenever possible. A Jewish boy became a "son of the law" at the age of twelve. For ten years after their return to Nazareth, Joseph and Mary had been making this annual visit to Jerusalem alone. We can imagine with what anticipation Jesus looked forward to the day when he would be permitted to go along. No doubt he had been told the stories of God's gracious leading of his people many times and had learned all the Psalms that would be used at the celebration. He had heard his parents relate their experience on these journeys but now he was to experience all these things for himself.

The Journey

Have someone study and report on the distance from Nazareth to Jerusalem; the mode of travel; the possible route taken; the time required; and something of the country passed through on the way.

JUNIOR CORNER

GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD

Program theme for March

General Outline

March 6: Go Ye
March 13: Into All the World
March 20: And Preach the Gospel
March 27: Unto Every Creature

General Aim: A study of Old Testament messengers to man; a study of New Testament messengers to man. A study of Christ's command to the Church and of the mission work which the Church is doing in answer to this command.

Song for the month: Loyalty to Christ. Verses 1,2,4

Verse for the month: "Sing unto Jehovah all the earth. Show forth his salvation from day to day." Psalm 96:1.2

Housecleaning

When the week for this program comes, it will be housecleaning time. The rooms will moan and groan as they are put through the process of renewal. Spring will be on the way! And when the hyacinth and the jonquil come forth as bits of brightness in the outer frills of the home's new gown, then the rooms, within, must also be a breath of spring. March is a very practical month. Could we make this true also in our Endeavor work? Perhaps our minds, too, and the minds of the children need freshing up. Cobwebs might have found their way into some remote corner. Perhaps up in the "attic" there are trunks, trunks that were filled a long time ago. We have forgotten what was in them. Wouldn't it be interesting to sit down and review the memory of it all? It is always interesting to rummage through an attic. We might also find new things of value to add to our store of keepsakes. Shall we try a housecleaning?

When Shall We Do It?

It could be done in the four-fifteen-minute opening service periods, one at each meeting. The rooms of our mind (if you wish to use this picture) would then be four in number:

Opening service March 6: Room I Our Conference
Opening service March 13: Room II Our Publications
Opening service March 20. Room III Our Home Missions
Opening service March 27: Room IV Our Foreign Missions

How Shall We Do It?

On the upper half of a large poster sheet, you could draw the outline of a simple home, calling this: The House of my Mind. On the lower half could be the sketch of the four rooms. These should allow enough space for the clear printing of the name of each room into the room, itself. The names would be those suggested above.

This series of studies would, of necessity, be in charge of an adult, not a Junior. (The mission-minutes would then fall away) Perhaps you could find, in your church, four experienced teachers of children to whom you could assign these periods. I would suggest to make these four, fifteen-minute periods, strictly FACT-TEACHING periods, periods of drill. There should not be too many facts. Only as many as the Junior mind can comfortably store away. Room I, III and IV should certainly have a map. It can also be used in Room II, showing where the publications are printed, the home of the editors, the home of our Book Concern, etc.

Suggestive facts for Room I: March 6

1. The name of our conference
2. The president, secretary, and treasurer of the conference. (Show their resident places on map)
3. The division of the conference by districts
4. President of your District Conference
5. The chief activities of the conference (General Conference)
6. The place and date of its next session

Suggestions for Study Period, March 6

1. Hymn in unison: Loyalty to Christ
2. Introducing topic for the evening by using Mark 16:15 with additional thoughts that will lead the minds back to the Old Testament when God also "So loved the world" sending His messengers again and again unto the people
3. "Go Ye", minute talks by juniors
    a. God said to Abraham: "Go and be a blessing"
    b. God said to Moses: "Go bring forth my people out of Egypt"
    c. God said to Balaam: "Go speak my word"
    d. God said to Gideon: "Go save Israel"
    e. God said to Samuel: "Go anoint Saul king for I have looked upon my people, their cry is come unto me"
    f. God said to Isaiah: "Go and tell this people"
4. Special music: "I'll go where you want me to go"
5. Heart-talk: "God So Loved the World". Picture God's love in Old Testament times. How through His messengers He wanted to save the people, He wanted to keep them in the right road that would lead back to Him. He so loved that, in the fulness of time, He sent His own Son. The judges, kings, and prophets could not do what Jesus does for us if we trust Him. He leads us Home indeed.
6. Repeat in unison the verse of the month
7. Closing Meditation hymn. "'Tis so sweet to trust in Jesus" Change the chorus to:

   Jesus, Jesus, do I trust Him?
   Have I proved Him o'er and o'er?
   Jesus, Jesus, precious Jesus!
   O for grace to trust Him more.
8. Closing prayer.

Note: Remember the mission boxes. See past issue.

Lincoln against Liquor

Here is an incident which shows clearly how President Lincoln regarded the use of intoxicating liquors, and how the father's influence was respected by his son. Children of today will do well to follow Tad's example.

One afternoon while Tad was waiting for the President, to attend a public gathering, he heard his father talking in low tones to a sobbing mother who had come to implore the President to save her son's life.

"He used to be the best boy," the poor mother pleaded. "till he got to drinking."

The President had to tell the mother that he could not interfere in the case. After she had gone out, sobbing and broken-hearted, President Lincoln bowed his head upon the great table and wept in despair. It was sometime before he was able to control his emotions. At last he sat erect, clasped his great hands, and repeated those words of Shakespeare:

"O God that men should put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains!"

In deep emotion he appealed to his son:

"Taddy, promise me that you will never drink. Don't you see how that poor mother was suffering?" Tad nodded.

"I want you to promise me that you will never drink. I won't ask you to sign a pledge, but to give me your word of honor," said the President.

Tad put his little hand in father's hand and said, "Papa I won't ever drink anything but cold water."

"From this time forth and forevermore," added Mr. Lincoln

"Forever!" Tad added.

"Now," said Mr. Lincoln, "instead of the written pledge, let us say the 'Mizpah' (Genesis 31:49). Now you repeat this after me, Taddie, "The Lord watch between me and thee, while we are absent one from another.' "

Tad repeated the words, stumbling only once—instead of absent he said abthunt, for he had a defect of speech and could not pronounce the "s."

Years later, after the world had wept because of the death of the martyr President, Mr. Lincoln's widow, with Tad as her constant companion, was travelling in Europe, seeking health. For a time, she was stopping in Frankfort, Germany, while Tad went to school. In the study of German, Tad had set himself to master his vocal defect. By daily practice he had learned to sound the "s", by oft repeating to himself the pledge he had made with his father. "The Lord watch—between me and thee, while we are absent one from another."

While they lived in Frankfort, the water of the city became impure. Mrs. Lincoln pleaded with Tad to drink a little wine for the sake of his health, but he refused. Without giving his real reason, he told his mother that he would either drink water or die of thirst. At last, Mrs. Lincoln decided to return to America, to keep her son from imperiling his life. But on reaching Chicago, he became ill of typhoid fever. He seemed to be unconscious for hours at a time, and then he repeated in a low, solemn voice, " 'The Lord watch—between me and thee—while we are abthunt—no, while we are absent one from another.' "

Another day passed when he seemed too weak to speak, but he was heard to whisper, " 'While we are absent one from another.' " Then he stopped, and seemed to be listening. At last his wan face was lighted by a celestial smile, and he went on faintly, but quite distinctly, "No—not absent—but here!—present! Papa!" Then he assumed the confidential tone he had used when his father's ear was close to his moving lips, and said, "Papa, 'I have fought a good fight—I have kept the faith.' "—and Tad was gone from this wicked world.—Selected.

DEATHS

ARTHUR REX NEBEL, our "Jimmie," son of Dan and Alice (Roth) Nebel was born near Noble, Iowa, on November 25, 1925, and reared in the same place. In the fall of last year he moved, with his parents, to Iowa City, where he made his home until the time of his departure.

While living in the Noble community, he attended the Eicher grade school and was enrolled in the Eicher Emmanuel Mennonite Church School. Here he took an active part in class work and in the various programs, given by the members of the church school. We remember him especially in these programs, because of his beautiful clear voice which he used willingly to bring to us the message in song.

He was an active youngster with a very pleasing personality, through which he endeared himself to those who learned to know him. He will be missed by his commrades and friends, and will live on in the memory of many.

Arthur passed away on Saturday, January 29, 1938, at Wellman, Iowa, having reached the age of 12 years, two months and four days. His peaceful sleep came as a result of an accident due to the icy conditions of the roads. He leaves to mourn his departure, his father and mother; two sisters and four brothers.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon February 1. Following a short service in the home of his uncle Sam Nebel, the pastor Delbert E. Welty spoke words of comfort in the Eicher Emmanuel Mennonite church based on the text, "He shall feed his flock like a Shepherd; he shall gather the lambs with his arms and carry them in his bosom . . ." Isa. 40:11. The Reverend Simon Gingerich of the Sugar Creek church assisted him. Interment Eicher cemetery.

PETER B. AMSTUTZ, youngest and last surviving child of John and Verena Lehman Amstutz, was born in Wayne County, Ohio, Jan. 6, 1846, and died at his home at Bluffton, Ohio, Jan. 16, 1938, at the age of 92 years, 10 days. He maintained his health and active life until 85 years of age, when he became confined to his home for a year. Later, he again enjoyed quite an abundant life for a few more years.

On November 10, 1870, he united in marriage with Elizabeth Luginbill who proceeded him in death, Oct. 28, 1873. Ten years later he united with Leah Gerber who passed away May 13, 1824.

Children surviving are: Amos of Silverton, Oregon, Mrs. C. C. Hofstettler, Olive, Lydia, and Edwin, all of Bluffton, Ohio. Also nine grandchildren and eleven great grandchildren.

At an early age he united with the first Mennonite church organized in his community. Later, as the church grew, he became affiliated with the Ebenezer church of which he remained a faithful and active member until the last few years of his life. He served his church in the capacity of chorister, correspondent to church papers, trustee, deacon and Sunday school teacher until the age of 85 years. He was faithful in visiting the sick and aged of his church and community. This he considered a Christian duty as well as a privilege.

In his youth he was one of the few who attended the first Mennonite institution of higher learning, located at Wadsworth, Ohio.—He served two years as public school teacher, but later devoted his life to farming and the manufactoring of lumber and wooden tools.

He was a man with a great zeal for missions and religious enterprises. This he expressed in educating one of our present native Hindu ministers of the India mission, and also provided for a gift of $600.00 after his death, for the General Conference, to be used for the support of India missions.—Because of his love for his Master he took great pleasure and interest in touring the Holy Land in 1914.

Thus ended the life of a faithful and earnest Christian man of whom it may well be said, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." Rev. 14:13.

MARIANNE PAULS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cor. Pauls, was born Jan. 14, 1935, in McPherson County, Kansas. In her short life she brought joy and sunshine into her home. She was a healthy child and enjoyed playing with her brother and sister.

She had just begun to show interest in Sunday school and attended for the first time after New Year, at Groveland, Kansas. But her stay here was suddenly broken off. Why she so often sang, "Jesus loves me, this I know," even when she played, her loved ones could not understand. She believed that Jesus loved her. And we know that she is now safe in the arms of Him who called her.

In January she took sick with the disease often known as "Trenchmouth." Then she contracted a cold which developed into "croup" and later into 'bronchial pneumonia." She was taken to the hospital in McPherson, where she passed away at midnight last Thursday, at the age of 3 years and 10 days. She leaves to mourn her parents, a brother Lester Dale, a sister Dona Lou, a grandmother, Mrs. Klaas Dyck, and the grandparents Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Pauls.—Rev. A. J. Dyck, assisted by Reverends C. H. Voth, A. M. Gaeddert and Rev. Kaiser, had charge of the funeral at the Hoffnungsau Church.

"Sweetly chimed the Bells of Heaven
As this little one fell asleep
And the Savior gently whispered
This little one I wish to keep.

I'll transplant her in my garden
With the other blossoms fair
Then with sweet and lasting fragrance
She will never wither there."

AMANDA EBY LEAMAN, daughter of Tobias and Susannah Eby, was born at Creston, Wayne County, Ohio, January 10, 1876, and died at Grant Hospital, Chicago, January 15, 1938, after a brief illness due to carcinoma. She received her education in the public schools at Bluffton, Ohio, and at the Normal School, Ada, Ohio, now Ohio Northern University, and then taught in public schools for several years.

She united with the Zion Mennonite church, Bluffton, Ohio, in her youth and was a conscientious church worker until her death. In 1899 she was appointed to missionary service in the Home Mission, Chicago, by the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities. She was united in marriage with Rev. A. H. Leaman, June 22, 1902, who was then Superintendent of the Home Mission and, together, they continued in missionary service there until 1920. In the summer of 1924 they moved to their present home at 4216 Greenview Ave.

She leaves her husband, three daughters, Anna Miriam Leaman, Eunice Leaman Kimball, and Gladys Lucile Leaman, one son, Cleland Eby Leaman, one grandson, Paul Elmer Kimball, all of Chicago. Three brothers, Dr. H. W. Eby, Goshen, Indiana, H. L. Eby, Associate Prof. of Education at the University of California, Los Angeles, S. L. Eby, Professor of Education at the University of Cincinnati. Two sisters, Emma Eby Hershey, Chicago, and Dr. Ida L. Eby, Plymouth, Indiana.

She was a devoted wife, mother and loving sister, and an inspiration to the many lives she touched through her many years of Christian service. She lived a full, abundant and overcoming life, was calm, serene and gentle at all times, and submissive to her Master's will until the end.

Funeral services were held at the chapel, 716 N. State St., Chicago, Tuesday, January 18 at 2:00 P.M. The services were conducted by the Rev. A. C. Good, Sterling, Illinois. She was laid to rest in Irving Park Boulevard Cemetery, Chicago.

JACOB J. SCHMIDT was born December 25, 1873, in the village of Alexanderwohl, South Russia. His parents were Jacob E. Schmidt and Helena, nee Schroeder. When he was 6 months old, his parents joined the great Mennonite exodus to America and settled in McPherson Co., Kansas. Here he spent his life. He was baptized upon the confession of his faith by Elder Jacob Buller, May 14, 1894, and joined the Alexanderwohl Church. To him it was a pleasure to take part in the activities of the church.

On October 16, 1898, he was united in marriage with Lizzie Enns. He lived in the state of matrimony 39 years. Four children were born to the couple, three sons and one daughter. Later on in 1919, a foster daughter was taken into their home. Not having been well for sometime, he entered the Bethesda Hospital at Goessel, Kansas, Nov. 4, 1937, and the next day he submitted to an operation which was successful, but it was found that his trouble was more serious than expected, it was abdominal cancer. On last New Year's day he was moved from his home to that of his children, Menno Schmidts, in Newton, to be near the doctor who gave him treatments. Many prayers were offered for his recovery. The will of God was different. When the pains increased and his desire to go home to be with the Lord was deeply felt, we prayed that the Lord should fulfill his longing. The Lord took him home in the early morning of February 4, 1938, at the age of 64 years, 1 month and 9 days.

During the trying days of sickness he was quiet and resigned to bear whatever the Lord let come upon him. He gave a clear testimony of his hope to eventually receive the crown of life. We keenly feel his departure but we are comforted to know that he has entered the promised rest.—He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, Mrs. Lizzie Schmidt, four children: Mr. and Mrs. Menno Schmidt, Jacob Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Voth, and the adopted daughter, Mrs. and Mr. Arthur Buller, and 8 grandchildren; also one brother and three sisters, and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral service: German sermon by Rev. C. C. Wedel, Job 14:14; English sermon by Rev. P. H. Unruh, Eccl. 9:10 and 2 Cor. 5:8. Service at the grave by Rev. J. J. Bannman.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—D. D. Eitzen, 175 Chrystal St., Newton Centre, Mass.—The special interest I have the privilege of persuing (Seelsorge) is growing ever larger for me. Was interested to read that the Lutheran Conference is making an "Interne year" for seminary graduates compulsory for ministers in their churches. We are all four well and happy in the Lord. Ps. 37:3-5.

—From the Grace Church Messenger, Lansdale, Pa.—Of the Budget adopted by the Eastern District for the Home for the Aged at Frederick, $5000, our quota is $253.50.—Mildred Fretz, our church correspondent will take subscriptions to The Mennonite. The paper should be in every home.—The next Brotherhood meeting has been scheduled for Washington's Birthday when Mr. Edgar Williams is to be the guest speaker. His subject is to be, "George Washington."

—West Zion Church, Moundridge, Kansas.—The Ladies' Choir, directed by Mrs. W. J. Rupp, broadcasts from station KWBG, Hutchinson, Kans. from 12:30 to 1:00, Sunday, Feb. 13; the Men's Chorus, directed by Prof. H. J. Block of the local high school, from the same station and time, March 6, 1938.

—Immanuel Church, Pratum, Oregon.—During the past year 21 members were received into the church by baptism and 12 by letter, making a total of 33. Homer Leisy serves again as Sunday school superintendent.

—Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebr.—We are expecting Rev. P. P. Wedel in our church, Feb. 27 to March 4, for a series of meetings. The Bible school taught by Ted Schmidt will have its closing program Feb. 13. It was conducted for four months.—A.W.F.

—Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Goshen, Ind.—A special meeting was called for Tuesday, January 18, for the purpose of acting on the request of Bethel College that this church release Rev. A. E. Kreider from his agreement with us, in order that he may continue as professor of Bible at the college.—It is reported that the release has been granted and that Prof. Kreider will continue at Bethel.

—Mountain Lake, Minn. may witness several golden weddings during the year, if the favored couples live long enough to celebrate them, which we hope they will. They and the dates on which they were married fifty years ago are: Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Dyck, April 10; Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich Warkentin, May 24; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Voth, June 26; Mr. and Mrs. Abr. C. Dick, July 4; Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Balzer, Dec. 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hiebert, Dec. 30.

—Salem Church, Freeman, S. Dak.—Brother J. D. Unruh has been elected deacon of the church, to succeed Bro. Joe J. Preheim, who filled the office faithfully for a number of years. "The fellowship of prayer into which Bro. Preheim entered with the other deacons in their meetings has been divinely blessed in the progress of the congregation."—Mo. News Letter.

—First Menn. Church, Madrid, Nebr.—We have had the rare privilege of having Miss Cornelia Unruh, missionary from Africa, sister to Mrs. John Warkentin, wife of our minister, in our midst. In three meetings she showed us in words and pictures of her work of soul winning among the heathen of dark Africa. May the Lord bless her work that many more souls may be won for Christ.—P.A.R.

—Bethany Church, Freeman, S. Dak.—The catechism class has grown to unexpected proportions. The individuals composing it have shown an interest and willingness which we pray may continue to increase and act as a spiritual spark to set aflame the rest of the Church Spirit.

—Rev. J. J. Plenert, Philadelphia, has these words of encouragement for their newly elected deacon, A. B. Martin, "Go make thy garden fair as thou canst. Thou workest never alone; perhaps he whose plot is next to thine will see it and mend his own," with John 15:16 as a commission.—In his church it has been voted that the trustees of the church are to serve also as ushers.

—A Living Memorial to Susan B. Anthony.—In connection with the 118th anniversary of this distinguished woman, the Susan B. Anthony Committee of California announces the dedication of A Living Memorial to her, the "Emancipater of Women," on June 26, 1938.—A California Big Tree in Sequoia National Park has been set aside by the Department of the Interior. The tree is 262 feet high, averages 20 feet in diameter, and its estimated age is 3000 years. Other trees in this park have been dedicated to Washington Lincoln and Jefferson.

—New Bibles were purchased and put in the pews of the Upland, Calif. church, intended to be used for responsive scripture reading, for Bible study, for C. E. programs, or for worshippers who desire to use them during the services. They were purchased with the money from birthday offerings.—(A good idea! Editor.)

—Deer Creek Menn. Church, Okla.—On the first Sunday of every month our Sunday school presents a mission program, consisting of such numbers as a mission song, a poem, a mission story or talk. A different family is made responsible for each program. Thirteen young people, four girls and nine boys are receiving catechetical instruction.

—"Church Visitor", Inman Menn. Church.—From pastor's report to annual meeting:: As pastor I would like to express my personal thanks to all the many loyal willing workers and members of the church. The contributions of the choirs and other organizations of the church program are greatly appreciated. Our services are largely attended and together we have had many feasts of blessings. May God give us more of his spirit to enable us to serve Him even better the coming year.

—Average Length of Life Extended.—Since 1900 the average length of life in the U. S. has increased by eleven years for white men and twelve years for white women, according to statistics made public by the Census Bureau. In 1900 the men had an expectancy of 48 years and the women of 51 years. By 1930 the average for men had reached 59 years and for women 63, and the figures would probably be slightly higher today.—Will we, with more years to live, make more worthwhile contributions to life than those of earlier times who lived less time, but perhaps lived for more?

—"When the citizens in a democracy relinquish their right to question what the leaders do, they are encouraging dictatorship. Particularly, when what the leaders do, discriminates against 125,000,000 citizens to protect some 3000 American business men who took a chance for the sake of profits when they went to China."—Peace Action.

Never to Fall

Never to fall means never to rise,
Never to see the deep blue skies
That smile overhead, and seem to cheer
The heart that is prone to despair and fear.

Never to fall means never to grow,
Never to see a twilight and know
Day has been filled with beautiful things,—
Failure, compassion, and comfortings.

Never to fall means never to see
The dawn emerging to make you free:
Free from your greeds, and your prides, and disdain—
Knowing, in part, THE GREAT MISSION OF PAIN.

EDITORIALS

THE PREACHING MISSION AGAIN.—Apropos of what was said in a recent editorial on this subject, we give here a few extracts from an article in the Sunday School Times, entitled, Is the National Preaching Mission Sound? as representing a different view. The "Times" says, "The National Preaching Mission is a logical expression of the Modernistic and Liberal positions of the National Council, and while there are a few conservative and evangelistic speakers in the Preaching Mission, there are other well known modernists, such as Dr. Kleihauer, a Hollywood pastor, whose published views express deep admiration for Voltaire, Pains, and Ingersoll, whom he describes as having made "valuable contributions to true religion" and being entitled to "assured positions" in the celestial world. Following are also statements said to have been made at one of the meetings in Wichita, "If we clean up the world and follow the example of Jesus, the next generation will not be born in sin. I believe God is working on the side of every honest man. I believe he is working with the police department and fire department. I believe God gets grease on his hands, and sweats.—Jesus went to all social functions of his day, and he was the "life of his party". So he would be today, if he were here."—Sunday School Times, Feb. 5, 1938.

LITTLE FOXES SPOIL THE VINES.—One sin leads to another. The start is usually made in a small way. Through repetition the urge grows until it controls the doer. Sinning is like any other habit formation. It grows and continues to grow until it cannot be shaken off. When that point is reached, it may tend to wreck the life of the perpetrator, unless he can be led to accept salvation, provided by the redemptive love of our Savior. However, with a great many people sin never leads to a serious overt act. It's the little sins or little foxes that do the harm and rob them of the peace and joy of life. A single drop of poison may be as deadly as a big dose. A tiny disease germ may cause a dangerous infection. Leprosy begins with a tiny red spot on the skin, but it grows until the whole body is one loathsome sore. "The little foxes" are the sins that are done almost unawares by the individual and are so common that they are unobserved by the majority of people. They are the sins which are the boast of the flesh, which the Christian needs to shun or put off, with the grace and help of God. "Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin." Rom. 6:6.

JESUS THE WONDERFUL.—In John 6:64b we read: For Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not, and who should betray him. This passage suggests three things. Above all it shows the omniscience of Jesus. He sees the hidden thoughts of the Pharisees and the faith of the carriers of the paralytic, but also the hidden unbelief of Judas. Mere men err in their judgment concerning the belief or disbelief of others. Jesus never errs, he will even take due notice of the dimly burning wick. His judgment is norm in all things. The passage also reveals the patience of Jesus, by virtue of which he does not hastily unmask his future betrayer, but tolerates him for three long years. However, he puts his finger upon the sore spot on more than one occasion, in an effort to rescue even a lost soul. O that we might appreciate the patience of our Savior and not forgo our salvation by resisting his wooing. Lastly, the verse throws light on the real cause of Judas' betrayal. It is unbelief. Is not this the source of our sinful behavior?

OUR CHRISTIANS AND LEADERS FACE THE PRESENT CRISES

Aganetha Fast, Kikungshan, Honan, Jan. 8, 1938

Rumors of the cruelty of war and the enemy were running wild. By October 10, the first enemy plane made its appearance over the city of Taming and dropped bombs north of the North Suburbs, just while we were having Sunday school. After that they made their appearance almost daily, either singly or in a group of three to seven. The residents were pouring out of the city every day, when planes were about due to come, though each cluster of homes had its dugout. Our leaders, too, were beginning to consider it seriously whether to leave or not, and soon one after another left, first taking their family, then coming back for a few hours, or a day, just to leave again, and finally they all stayed away, except one. Mr. Li Bright Light seriously considered the wisdom of leaving. God's will, he thought, had to be sought in this matter. But just how was one to know, when God spoke to the heart or when it was the wishful hope of the heart. One day he told me, how hard it was for him to see his four year old son tremblingly encircle his legs whenever a plane came, just screaming and begging: "Daddy, daddy, let us also flee the danger." He said I am willing to stay. I hate to leave the Church, but what about my children. I cannot bear to see them get so terrified, and with this he broke down.

One day the family was gone. It came as a great surprise to all. He had always been so faithful. Whenever the planes came over the city while he was leading a meeting, he kept on reading the scripture and would show no excitement. On Wednesday noon he was back in the city. He conducted the prayer-meeting. Then he told me that he had left before he knew it and that he felt he had gone against God's will and leading. I asked him, why he thought so. Well, he and his wife had definitely prayed on Sunday evening that if God wanted them also to leave, He should grant that their son, who had a high fever, might be free from it. The fever was very high the next morning. That settled the question for them. However, at about nine o'clock a.m. one other worker had come back from a nearby refuge and had told them that he could secure a cheap conveyance for them both, and so, before he knew, he and his family, with the other family, were on the way. "But," said he, "my conscience bothered me so for having started out. My son has a temperature of 105 and I cannot get any medicine for him."—I bought some medicine for him here, and am praying that God will forgive me for not having waited on Him. Until the city was taken, he came back to Taming every Sunday, a distance of eighteen miles, to conduct the S. S. of which he was superintendent. His son got well.

Mr. Loa is gatekeeper at the church compound. His wife had a baby boy this fall. They also have a son, who is a student, and students are in great danger in this war. I asked him: "Aren't you going to leave with your family? No, some body must stay at the church, and I feel God can protect us here as well as any where else. I and my family are willing to trust God. Throughout all the bombing over the city, he never once left his post at the gate. And when after two days of a severe air raid and a day of serious fighting, the city was taken, he was the first one to walk through the city streets over to the east end, to see if I was safe. His dear wife, though practically illiterate, proved a true mother to the refugees, a real spiritual mother, who prayed with them and taught them many precious promises which had been of a great blessing to her. Mrs. Hsu, another laywoman, is doing the same in the South Suburbs for the refugee women there, even began to teach them Christmas songs and verses.

Then there is old Mr. Li An T'ing, who is over 70 years old and is not in the work any more, on account of his health. He gets a sort of a pension and helps out here and there. He has a big open sore right over his stomach. All doctors having fled and the druggists too, there was nobody to look after his sore, but he was about his business. When, on November 12, the Japanese had taken over the city, he with Carpenter Chang were the first ones to enter the south gate, where the Japanese guards stood armed to their teeth. They were concerned to know, how the Christians in the church compound had fared and how I had fared.

Since then these two men entered the gates almost daily to bring cheer and comfort to the few in the city. Mr. Chang felt led to watch one of the deserted Mission compounds during the day. To stay all alone in that stretch of four courts was not as easy as it might look, it required real heroism, for daily soldiers scaled the walls to break into rooms and loot. Mr. Li herocially led the Sunday meetings and the Wednesday prayer-meetings, and helped those who definitely wanted to take a stand for the Lord. Both of these men have a very pleasant personality. Their faces always radiate a cheery smile, which did much to give them the respect and appreciation of the Japanese guards and soldiers as well as officials. Mr. Li would take oportunity to offer them tracts and preach to them either by writing or by word, as they were able to accept it, for some could speak Chinese, others could read it. He would even shake hands with them, for didn't Christ say "Love your enemies."

How grateful these dear folks were for the love and care of God, who had so marvelously kept them from all harm throughout this tribulation. I am so glad for this special favor of God's grace and care over them, which has given them this new experience.

Christian Education

REGAINING CHRISTIAN EDUCATION CONSCIENCE

Ed. G. Kaufman

"THE CHURCH has a right to speak in the realms of education. Her Founder is admitted to be the world's greatest teacher. Throughout her history, the Church has been called the mother of schools. She need not apologize for her educational activities.

"The world crisis is not primarily financial, but moral and spiritual. If it were financial only, the bankers would have solved it long ago. The results are so devastating because it is fundamentally a spiritual breakdown. A new leadership with a Christian motivation must assume control. What a man believes does determine what he does. The value of the trained mind and Christian heart in government, business, industry, society, and religion has been acknowledged. The Church has the responsibility of producing this leadership.

"By our separation of Church and State, state universities, colleges, and normal schools are legally restrained from teaching Christianity. Students are young, inexperienced, away from home, and making life decisions. Some professors shake the faith of students by agnosticism and skepticism. Students become the leaders of the state, the school, and the church. They must be Christ's men and women. They need Christ and the Church.

"The Church College believes in a personal God, a divine Christ, an immortal soul, and an imperative duty. It believes that any course of study is defective which fails to give place to the truths of Christianity. Its faculty is composed of scholarly Christian men and women. Its students are taught to live economically, to think clearly, and to act nobly. Its product is the well-trained, cultured Christian man and woman. A Church must educate its pastors and leaders according to its own spirit and philosophy.—Christian Education, April, 1937.

"Recently the president of the Southern Baptist Education Association said, 'We must rebuild a Christian educational conscience'. He was going to the heart of the matter. Without a Christian educational conscience it is not possible for Christian colleges to thrive.

"It has been shown beyond question that the Christian college is the source of our Christian leadership. It has been shown from history that the Christian college has been the source of leadership for three hundred years not only in the field of home and foreign missionary enterprises but in the professional fields of education, statesmanship, medicine and law. Great leaders in business, many of them, have derived their desire to promote and to lead the way in giving of their means from association with Christian teachers in Christian colleges.

"The best education does not omit the education of the spirit. The best spirit is actuated by the best conscience. The best conscience is a Christian conscience. If there is a big lag just now in the Christian conscience, it is time to strengthen the Christian colleges, for in them lies the hope to rebuild a Christian conscience among the people as a whole. Nobody expects the Christian conscience to be strengthened in a non-Christian college. There may be few if any anti-Christian colleges in the United States. Public opinion has scarcely gone to such a low plane in matters spiritual as to demand or even permit anti-Christian colleges to function. But positive, aggressive, constructive Christian principles are not the central issue in non-Christian schools. Christian colleges accepted the responsibility not only for seeking out and developing Christian leaders but far more: they advocate a Christian attitude, a Christian code of morals, a Christian view of life as a whole. Christian college administrators and professors believe that Christian character is the only safe basis for an enlightened civilization and they are willing and are ready to cooperate with leaders in all walks of life in rebuilding a Christian educational conscience.

NOTICE

TO CHURCHES OF THE WESTERN DISTRICT

Since it is a standing rule of the Western District Conference to have the Conference minutes printed in pamphlet form to make these proceedings accessible to its whole constituency, it is evident that the expense of printing will have to be borne by the churches. The protocolls are out and, by this time, in your hands. However, one thing is still lacking, the money to pay the bill for printing the minutes. The officers of the conference therefore kindly request that each church of our conference remember our treasury as soon as possible, in order that our treasurer may be able to pay the printer as well as to settle for other items that may come up. Please send all collections for conference purposes to P. W. Bartsch, Newton, Kansas, Treasurer of the Western District Conference.

—From "The Friendly Church that Helps", First Church, Philadelphia.—It does our heart and soul good to hear from Wilhelmina Kuyf, and to know her great spirit with which she faces the present conditions, the cheer and courage she brings to us. Will you bring her cheer by remembering her birthday on March 27, with a card? Address Y.W.C.A., 18 Hsi Tang Tzu Huting, Peiping, China.

DOCTRINAL--DEVOTIONAL

EVENTS OF DIVINE AGES

We read in Daniel 9:24 "Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people, and upon thy city to finish the transgression and to make an end of sins, etc." Seventy weeks, i.e. seventy week years, is the duration to the fulfillment of this prophecy, or seventy times seven years. Seven years according to the law was whole. The seventh year constituted the Sabbath year. After seventy years Israel would be permitted to return from captivity. This was literally fulfilled. After seventy week years, less one week year or seven years, leaves 483 years, equals the time when Christ the Savior would appear. This time was fulfilled at the birth of Christ. The seventy week years were reckoned from the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem. "After three score and two weeks the Messiah shall be cut off." Sixty nine of the seventy week years or 483 years came to an end when the Jews rejected and crucified Christ, the King of the Jews. "And shall confirm the covenant of many for one week, he shall cause the sacrifice, the oblation to cease."

The first coming of Christ was at his birth. Israel rejected him and will not see him again, until he comes again, in glory with the saints to earth. The resurrection of Christ was followed by his ascension. "And when he spoke these things while they beheld him, he was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their sight." "But, this same Jesus, in like manner will come again, as ye have seen him go into heaven."

The descent of the Holy Spirit was on Pentecost. The church age begins with this event, in the year A.D. 33, and has continued to the present time. It will come to a close when the Lord returns, and takes the church, his bride, unto himself, to meet the Lord in the air. Then the first resurrection will take place and the living believers will be changed and caught up together. But the fullness of the Gentiles, must first come.

"Blindness in part is happening to Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles be in." "God at first did visit the Gentiles to take out a people," (His Church) "for his name." So the church has received instructions to preach the gospel to all the nations, until his coming.

The second coming of Christ is another event order at the close of this dispensation. The descent of the Lord is the initial stage. "The Lord himself shall descend from heaven and the dead in Christ shall rise first, and we (all believers) that are alive shall be changed." In a moment in the twinkling of an eye, at the first trump, for the trumpets shall sound and the dead shall be raised, incorruptible, and caught up in the cloud to meet the Lord in the air." At first He remains in the air, and secondly, He comes to earth with his saints. When Christ, who is our life comes, then shall ye also appear with Him in glory.

No one knows when He will come again, not even the angels, but only God. We are told to watch, for He will come at a time when ye think not. As a thief in the night. The whole world will be at its daily occupation. Then shall two be in the field, the one shall be taken and the other left. Two women shall be grinding at a mill, the one shall be taken and the other shall be left. His coming will solve the problem of universal reign of righteousness and social security on earth.

The beheaded souls for the witness of Jesus Christ and for the word of God, lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years.

Israel shall be gathered from among the nations. I will take the children from among the nations, whither they be gone, and I will bring them into their land:

Israel shall be cleansed from all filthiness and receive a new heart. For they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest of them, saith the Lord: and I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.

Israel shall go forth and preach the glory of Jehovah to all nations, and I shall send them unto nations that have not heard my fame, neither seen my glory, and they shall proclaim my glory among the Gentiles.

It cannot be determined just in what order the events will take place. The anti-Christ will appear on the scene. This lawless one will be at the head and will rule during part of the great tribulation. He will not acknowledge God and do away with Godliness. He is not Satan, but a tool in his hand. Satan is back of him and gives him power. Anti-Christ, the false prophet and the Satan are a powerful ungodly trinity. The dragon gave power to the beast. Who is able to make war with him? Unto him was given a mouth speaking great things, and blasphemies and power was given him to continue forty-two months, or three and one-half years. It was given him to make war with the saints.

The tribulation, Daniel 9:27, seventh week of seven years, is still to be fulfilled after the church is caught up into the air, and then God will deal with Israel. All Israel shall be saved; as it is written. There shall come out a Zion the Deliverer, and shall turn away the ungodliness of Jacob. Then I shall take away their sins. The Gospel shall be preached in all the world and then shall the end come.

The great tribulation will take place during the seven year period. For then shall come the great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world of this time, no nor never shall be. During this time the anti-Christ will be revealed. Then shall the wicked be revealed whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth and shall be destroyed with the righteousness of his coming.

(To be concluded)

"FINIS"

On the Eternal Security Discussion

With a final word from a few brethren, we shall close the discussion on this subject in THE MENNONITE, as it has gone beyond the limits of a FORUM and would get us no farther.

A Word by Rev. W. S. Gottshall

I am grieved and I can not but let it be known to the General Conference Committee on Doctrine and Conduct and those who are bound to discuss the "Eternal Security" Doctrine in the Mennonite, that to take a stand on a Doctrine that has been discussed back and forth by Calvinists and Armeniens for centuries without a final solution or agreement, is uncalled for and should never again be taken up. I know what I believe and I do not try to compel others to agree with me, if the subject is of a nature like this one that great Bible scholars clash. If it is the idea that all Mennonites must agree with the Committee, then the discussion will never end, for there are many which are on both sides, and they will likely stay there. If it is a purely Mennonite Doctrine like Non-Resistance or the taking of Oaths, then it can be taken up in our papers, but as an old man and a Mennonite for 57 years and Minister for 53 years, I would like to give a warning note to the men who feel inclined to take a public stand on controversial subjects. Such discussions do not edify.

A Paragraph from Rev. P. A. Kliewer

I have read with interest the open Forum on: ONCE SAVED ALWAYS SAVED. Just wish to say that I am glad to believe I Peter 1:3-5 and many other precious promises, as to the assurance of the Believer.—That I KNOW WHOM I have believed and I am persuaded that HE IS ABLE to keep that which I HAVE committed unto HIM.—That I am sealed by the Holy Spirit unto that day, etc. That I John 3:1-4 is an absolute statement. We can take Him by His Word.—That since I have the assurance of Salvation, it is no longer fear of Hell prompting me to YIELD all to the indwelling Holy Spirit.—That I hate sin more than I ever did before and have much greater joy in the service of my Lord and Saviour.—That I can say with John: "I shall see Him and SHALL be like Him."—Read also Rom. 8:29: The believer who, as in John 5:24, is predestinated to be conformed into His image.—Now we see Him, the believer, in II Cor. 3:18 and Heb. 11:1-2, also Titus 2:11-14.—His life that now is a proof, or evidence that He has passed from death unto life, and that He is looking with joy and anticipation for Jesus to come soon. Also I John 2:28, with I Thes. 2:19-20, that at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ we may have a Crown of Rejoicing, many souls having been brought into the saving knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Notes from a Letter by Rev. J. B. Epp

I, too, would like to say something on this matter, but I refrain from it at this time, because this discussion is becoming a controversy. There is a differ- between a Forum and an Controversy. Brother P. H. Richert, in his contribution a few weeks ago, remained nicely within the limits of a Forum.

Brother Kaufman apparently felt somewhat warm when he wrote his criticisms. And now comes Brother Stauffer with such remarks as "swallowed", "gullability", etc., and not once addressing Brother Kaufman as "brother" and accusing him of "not contending for Bible truth". Tell me, brethren and readers, why can not we discuss a matter quietly as becomes brethren, we, who are "the People of Peace and Brotherly Love?" If we can not conduct a Forum properly, of whom else can we expect this? Merely secular newspapers do better than we. I have several important and vital matters that should be discussed in our conference or in our papers, but I am afraid to ask for it for the reasons stated above.

I do not think that I fully agree with either one of the brethren. Brother K. has not fully committed himself on the subject. Both of them seem to be somewhat extreme.

THE SUPREMACY OF CHRISTIANITY

Several types of thought, perhaps better, lack of thought, present themselves for supremacy in the area of religion. Judaism has no Christ, no vision. Mohamadanism has no cross, no mission. Humanism has no altar, no anchor, and Communism has no goal and no motive. Interesting enough in Christianity we have everything lacking in the others. Christianity is supreme in its origin, in its content, in its virtues, and in its philosophy of life. Christianity is the "victory" that overcomes the world.

Faith came singing into my room
And other guests took flight;
Fear and Anxiety, Grief and Gloom
Sped out into the night.
I wondered that such peace could be;
But faith said gently, "Don't you see,
They can not live with me?"

SERVING WITH WHAT WE HAVE

Mark 6:1-13

Introduction

While Jesus was becoming highly popular with the masses through working miracles and his marvelous preaching and teaching, He was planning to visit his home town of Nazareth once again. His growing fame had reached there and many doubtless, eagerly awaited His coming. He must have longed for the opportunity to use His power to help the friends of His youth.

Jesus' Home Town Reception vs. 1-6

Immediately after restoring Jairus' daughter to life (chap. 5), Jesus and the twelve came to Nazareth to revisit the familiar scenes and bring joy and healing, to teach the people. As was His custom, He went to the synagogue on the sabbath day and the opportunity was given to Him to speak, to teach those assembled (v2). Astonishment filled many. The eyes and ears of all were upon Him. No man had been heard to speak like He spoke. He had left Nazareth as the carpenter, son of Mary. He returned as the spiritually anointed Son of God, teacher, miracle-worker. His wisdom was beyond their understanding. They acknowledged that He wrought mighty works—they were self-evident—but they refused to acknowledge His claim that His power was from God. Many hard problems are solved for us when we believe God and His Word. The people thought of Him as they had known Him (v3) and held a feeling of opposition toward Him and his claims for Himself. The propaganda being spread from Jerusalem against Jesus, seeking his destruction, had doubtless reached Nazareth before this time, so that the town was unfriendly toward Him. Because of this, His service for them was very much limited (v5). They placed barriers in His way. Nazareth missed her great opportunity. We limit Jesus in helping us when in our weak confidence in Him, we fail to co-operate with Him. We may easily miss the blessings awaiting us.

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve vs. 7-13

These men had now been in training, they had watched Him and listened to Him. Now they needed some practical experience and in this way the work could be much enlarged. They are now apostles and must take responsibility. Jesus realized the value of companionship (v7) and gave them power to contend against, to overcome evil in every form—the great central object of Christ's mission. They were to devote themselves entirely to their appointed mission (v8), were to depend upon God to open the people's hearts for their support. It was only right that they who received the blessings through them, should give that others might also hear the Gospel. The people to whom they preached were expected to provide all their living.

The supreme emphasis of the Gospel is upon the eternal values. This is in CONTRAST WITH the much-heralded "social gospel" of our day but NOT at all in CONFLICT WITH it. Jesus' program of His day had much to do with the world's afflicted, needy, poor, oppressed and suffering. Jesus made human relief an important feature of the true gospel. The central theme was repentance and better living.

The Twelve were not to seek selfishly for the best places (v10). They who refused to receive them and their message, were held responsible (v11). The apostles fulfilled their mission when they offered the Gospel to them. To hear the Word of God, the truth and reject it, is the most serious of all responsibilities. We are held responsible for the way we use the light that is given to us to be used in His service.

CORRESPONDENCE

EBENEZER CHURCH, NEAR BLUFFTON, O.

On Dec. 29, Harold Burkholder from Moody Institute brought the message, while other students on holiday vacation gave interesting testimonies.—New Year, as usual, was welcomed in by the serenaders, singing and making melody unto the Lord.—Our annual business meeting, with Waldo Hostetler as chairman and Daniel Basinger as secretary, was held Jan. 1. The various business transactions closed in a very pleasing way. Brother P. A. Kliewer is to continue his faithful service. In 1937 there were 5 deaths, 13 births, 5 marriages in our church. The catechism class numbers 25; the ladies' missionary society about 50.—Jan. 2, two young brethren of our church, Victor Augsburger, and Brother Lendalyn Amstutz spoke to us on I John 2:12-17 and Psalms 24, respectively, and on Jan. 23, Brother William Augsburger of Albany, Oregon, on the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem, Nehemiah, assisted by Victor, his brother. We praise God for these three brethren as they "make known to the sons of men His mighty acts." Psa. 145:12.—On Jan. 9, we were favored by an inspiring sermon rendered by Rev. Kenneth Neuenschwander who made a short visit with home folks. His charge is at Wayland, Iowa.

Brother Peter B. Amstutz, 92, fell asleep Jan. 16. —funeral and burial at Ebenezer Church. Rev. H. T. Unruh of First Mennonite Church, Bluffton, assisted our pastor in conducting the services. Brother Amstutz will be missed as a pioneer who contributed largely toward good causes. "With long life will I satisfy him, and show him my salvation," Psa. 91:16.

Our pastor engaged in a real spiritual awakening near Continental, Ohio, in three weeks of active revival meetings. Twenty young people accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Savior. Our prayers were with him.

Mrs. Benjamin Keener, 90, is recuperating from pneumonia; Mrs. Alex Steiner, in the 80's, is slowly amending from a distressing fall. The condition of our patient Fannie Amstutz varies. Bluffton Hospital is giving her good service.—Mrs. Gideon Lehman.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, NAPPANEE, IND.

The Rev. E. S. Mullett has returned home from the St. Joseph Hospital, Mishawaka, Ind., after a major operation. During his three weeks absence the Rev. David Metzler, retired minister of the church of the Brethren, Nappanee, and Rev. W. W. Oesch, Bristol, Ind., preached for us at the morning worship services.

At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Sewing Circle, the entire day was spent in making bedding for the Spanish Relief.

The following is some membership data for the year 1937, compiled by Rev. Mullett: Members for the year 1937: 161. Of this number there are 22 who are non-resident and 23 who do not attend regularly or not at all, leaving a total of 116 active members who are a substantial asset to the church.—Members gained by letter, 3; by baptism 1.—Members lost by letter, 4. No deaths during the year.—Six of the young people were married during the year.—There were 8 birth in the year.—There are 16 married women in the church whose husbands do not belong to this church—There are 8 children who would be old enough to become Christians and join the church. —Edna Schrock, Corr.

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, ALBANY, OREGON

Greetings to all readers: Time is past due for a report from our small congregation in the extreme west. We have finished a very favorable year with both material and spiritual blessings. Thus far we have had no snow, but plenty of rain.

Our annual business meeting was held in December. Practically the same officers were elected for another year. Our pastor, Rev. W. R. Augsburger, has again consented to take charge for another year. His able ministry has been greatly appreciated in the past three years, in so much that the congregation cast a unanimous vote for his continued service.

On the afternoon of January 4, we had the privilege of having Missionary H. J. Brown in our midst. He gave us some very interesting information on the work in our China Mission field, also presenting the great need for more missionaries and Bible workers there. We always appreciate such visits.

Our pastor and his wife have been visiting relatives and friends in Ohio and Michigan for the past three weeks. We are looking forward to their return in the coming week. May their vacation prove to be a real blessing as well as a physical refreshment for them.

During our pastor's absence the services have been in charge of various workers. Mr. Homer Leisy from our sister church at Pratum gave us, with the help of his charts, two very interesting and timely messages. His family rendered several musical selections.

The Women's Missionary Sewing Society are entering this year with renewed zeal, looking forward to a year of service to the needy ones, both near and far.

Correspondent.

OTHERS MAY, YOU CANNOT.—A Moravian Missionary went to preach the Gospel to the slaves in the West Indies. Failing to reach them as a free man, he became a slave himself, and went with them to their toils in the fields and into all their hardships and sufferings, thus getting close to them. Then they listened to him. This illustrates Christ consecension to save the world. We could not understand God in His invisible glory; and Immanuel came and in His human form lived out the Divine life, showing us God's grace and His love for sinners.

DEATHS

HERMAN WILL, son of John and Helen Will, was born February 18, 1909, at Halstead, Kansas, and departed this earthly life on February 7, 1938, at 2 a. m., having attained the age of 28 years, 11 months and 20 days.

He grew into manhood on the farm northwest of Halstead and was graduated from the Halstead high school in 1928. He was baptized upon the confession of faith by Rev. H. T. Unruh and accepted into membership of the Halstead Mennonite church, where he remained a loyal member until his death. After having spent a semester at Bethel college, he accepted work with the King Construction company. He made good progress in his work until he was halted by ill health in September, 1934. He was taken to the Halstead hospital where he submitted to a number of operations. The best of medicine and surgery could not, however, bring healing. Though at times he rallied, he sooner or later suffered a set-back. On May 20, 1937, he was dismissed from the hospital and cared for in the home.

He leaves to mourn his early departure his parents; four sisters, Mrs. Walter Bockhaus, Mrs. Karl Schroeder, Louise Will, all of Halstead, and Mrs. Oliver Keller of Harper, Kansas; four brothers, John Will, Henry Will and Frank Will, all of Halstead, and Otto Will of Hutchinson; three uncles, Frank Penner of Halstead, John Mierau of California, Will Mierau of Wichita; and thirteen nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held from the Mennonite church at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, the Rev. David C. Wedel preaching the funeral sermon.

JOHN W. KLIEWER, SON OF JOHN P. AND AGANETHA FOTH KLIEWER, was born in the German Mennonite community Michalin, in the Kiev region of Russian Poland, June 8, 1869. In the year 1874, his parents with their entire family joined other Mennonite families and migrated from Poland to Kansas, locating about 10 miles east of Newton. Here amid pioneer conditions and struggles, young John grew up and attended rural public schools and the Newton city schools.

As a young man he accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as his Saviour and united with the Mennonite church, in which church he was active for about 50 years. For several years he attended the Mennnonite Seminary in Halstead, graduating in 1890. During the Nineties he taught in rural schools, in the Halstead city schools, and one year in Bethel Academy. He also studied at the newly founded Bethel College, and later at Garrett Biblical Institute in Evanston, Illinois, where he graduate in 1901.

Then for two years he was pastor in Wadsworth, Ohio, and for eight years in Berne, Indiana. During this time he established his own home, being united in marriage with Emma Ruth of Halstead, in 1902. While attending the Mennonite General Conference in 1908, he was elected a member of the Foreign Mission Board, and continued as such for 27 years, most of the time serving as President of this board.

In 1911, Rev. Kliewer became president of Bethel College, and a year later also pastor of the Bethel College Church. He served in this double capacity until 1920, when he resigned as president of the college and was granted a leave of absence by the church. For a year he traveled, visiting Mennonite missions in China and India, and Mennonite churches in Europe.

Upon his return from this World Tour, he resumed his work as pastor of the Bethel College Church, but not for long. In 1925 the Board of Directors asked him to again become president of Bethel College. He accepted this call reluctantly, because he preferred preaching to college administrative work, and because he believed that the College Board should seek a younger man. Nevertheless, he faithfully directed the college administration for seven trying years, from 1925 to 1932, when he resigned as president. He was chosen pastor by the College church, and for a few months preached with joy and power until October 1932, when he suffered a stroke. He recovered sufficiently to again take up his preaching duties, but never regained his former vigorous health. Early in 1935, his beloved wife passed away and a few months later he gave up his pastoral duties. During the last few years he lived in retirement, writing his Memoirs. After this was completed he felt that his work was done and expectantly looked forward to the time when he would be called home. This call came Feb. 9, 1938, at which time he had reached the age of 68 years, 8 months and 1 day.

He is survived by his children, Ruth and husband, Dr. H. S. Liebenberg of Wilmington, California; Karl and wife of Hutchinson, and Paul and wife of Wichita. One brother and three sisters also survive: Rev. H. J. Kliewer of Newton, Mrs. Mary Schmidt of Newton, Mrs. Agnes Ewert of Drake, Sask., and Mrs. J. H. Harms of Cordell, Oklahoma. Besides these are many friends, colleagues, ex-students, and others, who feel that his passing is their loss. His unselfish devotion to the cause of Christ and the Church has been a source of inspiration to many, who today thank God for the life which has just come to a close.

Funeral services at the Home, College chapel and cemetery were in charge of his pastor, Rev. J. N. Smucker, assisted by Dr. E. G. Kaufman, P. H. Richert, J. F. Moyer, and Rev. Hartman of the Evangelical church.

REV. SILAS M. GRUBB, D. D.—Notes from Sunday Morning Service Bulletin, Second Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa.

We would not have you ignorant brethren, concerning them that fall asleep. I Thess. 4:13.—Weeping may come to lodge at eventide, but joy cometh in the morning. Psalm 30:5.

It was a saddened congregation gathered for our services last Sunday. While we realized Rev. Grubb's condition of health, his passing last Sunday morning came as a severe shock.

Since his ordination he has been pastor of our congregation, a period of thirty-nine years.

There are many in our number who have been in close fellowship with him since childhood. These, and those who have joined our congregation in more recent years, have learned to love him, and will sadly miss him.

In the great number who paid their last respects to Rev. Grubb were many who have not been to our services for years. Some have become interested elsewhere, having located a distance from our church and others just put off attending, but it was evident they held a place in their hearts for our Pastor.

Rev. Grubb had prepared sermon notes last Saturday, on "Show us the Father, John 14." The scripture read by Wm. H. Shelly for our service of prayer last Sunday morning, after the death of Rev. Grubb, was John 14.—This same scripture was also selected by the young man, Mr. Charles Harman, who brought the message at the evening service in observation of C. E. Day.

It was a coincidence and seems providential that both should unknowingly have chosen the same scripture that Rev. Grubb had intended to use for the morning service.

Words are inadequate to express our sympathy to Mrs. Grubb, Robert and Rev. N. B. Grubb. Let us remember them in prayer.

"Oh, may we join the choir invisible
Of those immortal dead who live again
In lives made better by their presence."

MARY KREHBIEL NEE DESTER, daughter of John and Katharine Rupp Dester, was born Nov. 14, 1856, in Lee County, Iowa. Later with her parents she moved to Washington County, Iowa, and in 1886 with her mother, sisters and one brother to Halstead, Kansas, and in the same year to the community south of Moundridge, Kansas, where she had her home the rest of her life.

She was baptized on Oct. 2, 1870, by John Rupp, united with the Mennonite Church and in 1886 transferred her membership to the First Mennonite Church of Christian, Moundridge, Kansas, where she remained a faithful member till death.

On May 16, 1886, she was married to Rev. Valentine Krehbiel, then pastor of the First Mennonite Church of Christian, and took upon herself the responsibility of mothering the children of Rev. Krehbiel's former marriage. To them she showed motherly love and reared them as her own. Her devotion to her husband, sharing with him the trials and duties of a pastor's life, also deserves mention. In Christian faith her life was lived quietly and unassumingly, as she bore the duties in love towards others. Their union was blessed with five daughters and three sons. One of the daughters, Mrs. Edw. J. Graber, passed away on May 30, 1926.

After the death of her husband on July 21, 1902, mother Krehbiel continued to live at her home and with her children near Moundridge, but the last few years spent most of her time with her children at Deer Creek, Oklahoma. There she took sick and peacefully passed away on Feb. 8, 1938, at the age of 81 years, 2 months and 25 days. She is survived by five sons, five daughters, a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren, one sister and many other relatives and friends.

After a brief funeral service at Deer Creek the body was taken to Moundridge, where services were held at the First Mennonite Church of Christian with the pastor Rev. P. P. Wedel in charge, assisted by Rev. C. E. Krehbiel.

EMMA H. LANDIS, left here on December 9, 1937. This being my last aunt and always members of the same church, I thought much over it and her life. How true she was! She was clean of speech. Neither filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor jesting was found in her. Eph. 5:4.

She was trained from a child in the way she should go, and after she was baptized and had confessed faith in Jesus Christ, she lived close to her Savior, grew in grace and in the knowledge of her Lord and Savior, 2 Peter 3:18.

She set the example for us to talk just what one meant. I never heard her saying anything that she did not mean. This to me is a Christ-like example.

She was quiet, unassuming, a model worshiper, and a good listener, in church as well as during general conversation, until something was said, with which she did not agree, then she was brave enough to give her opinion. When people near and dear to her were on the wrong track, she possessed courage to plead with them and to help them on the right way.

The family moved from Quakertown to Philadelphia in 1905. Prior to that they were active workers in the Flatland church. Her husband, the late Daniel M. Landis, was superintendent of Flatland Sunday school twenty years, while Mrs. Landis had charge of the primary department. In Philadelphia they worshiped in the First Church and helped there, but they remained members at Flatland to their end. They always knew what needed to be done and always supported the work prayerfully and financially. We miss them, but hope God may put it in the hearts of those here now to carry on.

Rev. Andrew J. Neuenschwander, our pastor in his closing prayer, at our annual business meeting remembered Mrs. Landis with these words, "One was removed, who was many years deeply interested in the work of our church, we hope some will arise to take up the duties so dear to her heart."

Yes, there are many good church workers, yet we are often astonished, and perhaps astonish others with our speech and actions. We, as workers in God's vineyard should, like she, watch our tongue, that unruly little evil, and try to be clean in speech, say only such things that we mean, that will help others live a life of trustworthiness.

May I place this wreath in her honor: TRUSTWORTHINESS, a Tribute in Memory of My Aunt. —Flora L. Fellman.

America--The Beautiful

It is New Year's evening—1938. I had been invited with others of the community to a sing song, so called. We sang several selections accompanied by two small horns and a piano. Also a solo was sung very beautifully, "In the secret of his presence." A Mr. Li, who had just returned from America and was visiting up at Kikung was asked to give his impressions of America. He got up by saying, that his impressions of America were very good.

A synopsis of his talk was something like this: The Chinese word for America is "Mei Kuo", the beautiful, the good country. He said that's what he found it to be. When he approached the harbor of San Francisco, he enjoyed seeing a very beautiful harbor. Then travelling through the country by rail, he saw how beautiful America was. Further, he found a very beautiful civilization, every thing so highly developed and so modern. Then he found a wonderfully organized government. But, best of all, he found a very wonderful and beautiful Christianity. And that's what made America as beautiful as it was. Take Christianity out of America and it would go bankrupt. He travelled through and stopped for shorter and longer periods, in twenty six states and never once had he been rudely spoken too. In New York and Chicago and other places as well. That the Christians had treated him with so much kindness, was perhaps not surprising, for so many were or became his friends, but, to find what one might think to be non-Christians and perfect stranger so kind, was what surprised him so. Christianity, Christ, was the most beautiful thing America had. Some had asked him, why have you come to U. S. A. to study Christianity, why do you not study your own beautiful religion, Confucianism and Taoism? He had answered them: Christianity has brought me Christ, salvation, and hope, and love, and power to cope with sin. Christianity saved me from sin. Confucianism and Taoism never did that for me. Christianity has given you your loving God, my God, our God, a Wonderful God.

I wonder if we fully appreciate what Christianity, what Christ has done for our country and still does. Take out of the U. S. what Christianity has given to her, and I am afraid, nobody would want to live there, not even non-Christians. What can our young folks in the colleges and the churches do to make the U. S. A. as beautiful as this our Chinese friend pictures her to be?

What Christ Does for Individuals

Luke 19:10; Matt. 11:28-30; Luke 7:41-48

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC FOR MARCH 13, 1938

Meditations:

M., Mar. 7. Saves from Spiritual Death. John 3:16-21
T., Mar. 8. Changes Our Thinking. Rom. 12:1,2
W., Mar. 9. Christ Transforms Our Life. Titus 2:1-14.
T., Mar. 10. Christ Gives Us Spiritual Strength. Phil. 4:13
F., Mar. 11. Christ Cleanses from Sin. I John 1:1-10
S., Mar. 12. Christ Promises a High Destiny. John 17:24

Suggested Hymns:

"Jesus Calls Us", "Jesus I My Cross have Taken"

Problems:

Christ is tremendously interested in the individual human being. Those of Christ's followers who remained faithful to the end were people who came into personal contact with Him. We find that each of the disciples was called individually. To be sure, Christ can deal with any number of persons, no matter how many they may be, but He deals with each one as an individual.

How does Christ meet Individual needs?

1. Christ Seeks:

Christ is come and no man needs to remain lost, because through the gospel the individual learns to know God as Heavenly Father, and to come into intimate communion with Him. And through such communion the individual comes in touch with divine resources of spiritual energy and power.

Having made this fellowship with God possible, Christ seeks men. "All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way" (Is. 53:6). That is why individuals are lost. Our own way leads away from God. Thus Christ has to go in search of His straying sheep.

Once He finds the individual who has gone his own way, Christ is always ready and willing to save him from his enslavement to those things that are temporal and material, which he has found by going his own way.

2. Christ Invites:

Not only does Christ seek but He also invites individuals to come to him. He in no way tries to force a decision for Him, but He makes it thoroughly understood that He warmly invites men. He invites those who labor and are heavy laden. In other words, Christ makes it possible for an individual to subdue and overcome his worst impulses and to fulfill the highest and best possibilities that are within him. The yoke of Christ is our tool by means of which we have power to overcome and to transform our sorrows, calamities, disappointments, disasters, and the like into spiritual victories.

3. Christ Forgives:

Just as Christ forgave the woman (the story of which is given in Luke 7:44-48) so will He forgive all individuals. But just as that woman had a change of heart so must every other individual undergo a change of heart in order to receive Christ's forgiveness. Once this woman had loved her many sins, but now she was filled with love to Christ. Faith in Christ was what prompted this particular act of this woman. And so it is with us. Through love of and faith in Christ we are enabled to achieve a sense of divine forgiveness for our sins and shortcomings. Our goal of personality development will become superior to any other goal that we otherwise would have had. And the forgiveness which we receive from Christ will even put into our hearts a desire to help our fellow men, even sacrificially.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Jesus in Decision

Intermediate C. E. Topic, March 13, 1938

Daily Study

Mar. 7. Jesus weighed carefully His objective and how to reach it. Luke 4:2
Mar. 8. Jesus decided to live as a man and not as a wonder-worker. Phil. 2:6-8
Mar. 9. Jesus decided to use spiritual power, not politics and force. Luke 4:5-7
Mar. 10. Jesus decided against advancing His kingdom by signs and wonders. Luke 4:9-12; Matt. 16:1-12
Mar. 12. Jesus sought God's will only. Heb. 10:7
Mar. 13. Topic—Jesus: His day of decision. Luke 4:1-13

Picture of Christ

A picture of the head of Christ or Christ in Gethsemane hung in a prominent place in the room can add a great deal to the spirit of the meeting. Have a special light to focus on it during the worship service. If you cannot have a picture for each of the series on Jesus, leave the best one up.

Suggested Songs

"Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus", "Who Is On The Lord's Side", "The Solid Rock"

Announcements. Let committee chairmen make their own announcements

Quiet Worship

Theme song: "Tell Me The Story of Jesus" or "More About Jesus"
Opening prayer, by the superintendent
Leader reads: Luke 4:1,2a, with comments. See leader's talk
Three Decisions of Jesus, by three Intermediates:

1. Why did Jesus refuse to satisfy his physical hunger? Luke 4:2b-4
2. Why did Jesus refuse the kind of power Satan offered to him? Luke 4:5-8
3. Why did Jesus refuse to promote His kingdom by signs and wonders? Luke 4:9-12

Song: "Majestic Sweetness"
Sentence prayers, closing with "Into My Heart"

Questions to Answer

1. What decisions in life do you consider most important? (These might be listed on the blackboard) Why?
2. Why is it difficult for some people to "make up their minds?"
3. What should be our first thought as Christians in making important decisions? How does prayer help us make right decisions?
4. How can we be guided to make right decisions? In what ways can we follow Jesus' example? How does knowing the Bible help us?
5. Why is it important to act immediately once we have made our decision? What are the dangers of hesitating?

Closing Moments

"To every man there openeth
A Way, and Ways, and a Way.
And the High Soul climbs the High Way,
And the Low Soul gropes the Low;
And in between on the misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro.
But to every man there openeth
A High Way and a Low,
And every man decideth
The Way his soul shall go."—Oxenham

Sing: "I Need Thee every Hour"
Benediction

Thoughts for the Leader

We must make many decisions every day. Not all decisions are of equal importance. Give examples. The decisions Jesus had to make were greater than any ever faced by man. On His decisions depended our revelation of God and the salvation of the world from sin.

Jesus took time to make His decisions. He was forty days in the wilderness. He did not try to make them alone. He prayed to the Father. He knew the Scriptures and was guided by them.

Decision Through Prayer

Have someone read the article "Patient Patriot" in the December number of Christian Herald and tell how the mother of Madam Chiang reached her decisions through prayer.

JUNIOR CORNER

LEADER'S MEDITATION

"I have only just a minute,
Just sixty seconds in it;
Just a tiny little minute
But eternity is in it."

Say not ye, there are yet four months, and then cometh the harvest? Behold, I say unto you, lift your eyes, and look on the fields, that they are white already unto harvest. He that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal; that he that soweth and he that reapeth may rejoice together.—Jesus.

Go Ye into All the World

Suggestions for March 13, 1938

Opening service (Thought of last issue continued)

1. Song service
2. Scripture: Phil. 4:8 and I John 2:15,16,17—by a junior
3. Prayer by leader
4. Room II: Our publications. Teach these facts:
    1. The various publications by name
    2. The editor of each
    3. The name of our Book Concern and its address

    Room I should be reviewed before the entrance into Room II

Study period: For aim see last issue.

1. Special music by junior voice: Bring Them In
2. The command of Jesus: a junior telling content of Matthew 28:16-20
3. Jesus promises a great gift that will give power to carry out this command: a junior reading Acts 1:8 and telling the story of the coming of the Spirit of Acts 2
4. Searching our hearts in prayer; sing in unison: "Holy Ghost with light divine, shine upon this heart of mine", verses 1,2,4
5. Spirit filled messengers of the New Testament that answered the command of Jesus: told by junior
    a. The Spirit-filled messenger, Peter: let a junior select and tell three stories of Peter
    b. The Spirit filled messenger, Stephen: Acts 6 and 7
    c. The Spirit filled messenger, Philip: Acts 6:5, 8:1-8, 26-40
    d. The Spirit filled messenger, Paul: Let the junior select three stories and tell these
6. Sing in unison: Loyalty to Christ
7. Other Spirit filled messengers of the New Testament: by leader. Put on the board the ones already discussed. Then quote references, one by one, in which other messengers of God to the world are mentioned. Let the juniors find the name of this messenger. The one that finds it first, is allowed to give it and the leader adds the name to the list on the board. When your list is complete lead the children into deep gratefulness to God for these who were obedient to God's call. Leave the thought with them: "What if all these should have failed God? Let us make use of our time to learn of God and of Jesus, that we, too, can lead others to the Saviour"
8. Repeat in unison verse of the month
9. Sing in unison: Take My Life. Verses 1 and 3
10. Leader's prayer

A LEADER WRITES sharing a good plan:

"As one of the three leaders in the Junior Endeavor work of our church, I want to pass on the thought of each one of us having a helper.

"We leaders are responsible to see that our group is supplied with a leader when the night of the meeting comes. It happened, one evening, that our Sunbeam leader wanted to attend the funeral of her uncle. What should she do with her Junior work? This led us to the thought of drawing in a helper for each group, that we would not have to give up all conflicting occasions.

"Two of our leaders have tried the plan and like it very much. The helpers that each one of us has chosen is a young member of our church of high school age. We have tried to chose the ones who we believed capable of leadership in future years. We hope that the position as a helper will interest them in the work and will also give them preparation for it when they are asked to become a leader. We find our plan of having young helpers, very successful and beneficial."—Helen Regier, First Menn. Church, Newton, Kansas

— PRAYER—More things are wrought by prayer
Than this world dreams of. Wherefore let thy voice
Rise like a fountain for me night and day.
For what are men better than sheep or goats
That nourish a blind life within the brain,
If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer
Both for themselves and those who call them friend?
—Tennyson.

—A WORD OF PRAISE FOR THE BOOK "WHO'S WHO AMONG THE MENNONITES."—Dr. Archer Taylor, Head of the German Department of the University of Chicago, writes of Who's Who Among the Mennonites: "Your book Who's Who appears to a very useful and important work."—This book can now be had for $1.50, either from the Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Indiana, or from its author, Dr. A. Warkentin, Bethel College, Kansas.

—Our "KINDERBOTE and JUNIOR MESSENGER", our Conference paper for children, published biweekly, is still holding its own pretty well. Since our conference is bilingual and since we are not quite strong enough to have a paper in English and one in German, we should be tolerant and willing enough in our churches to use the paper, even if not all children can read the entire paper, as a great many more of the grown-ups do. A year ago the officers of the Bethel College Sunday school, very few of whose children read German, were prevailed upon to try the paper for a year. Now the little paper has become so popular with the children that the order has been increased to 60 copies, and a good many of the children are wishing that the paper might come every week. Samples may be had in goodly numbers. Sunday school boards would do well to look into this matter and make at least a trial.

—From J. C. Kaufman, Newport, Wash.—We are having blessed meetings here at Newport. Our service has developed to the point where an ordination into the ministry and eldership is to be performed, for which purpose we seemingly were called here, and the church has asked us to announce this in our church papers.—See Announcement on another page.

—Alberta Community Church, Portland, Ore.—From this church have come a couple of lovely, artistic Sunday Service programs, which we appreciate highly. If we had more space, we would quote a whole page of one of the papers. As it is, let this suffice: "There are some fragrant trees which bathe with perfume the axe that gashes them. So should it be with Christ's people. Instead of resentment and injury for injury, we should show sweet, tender love to those who harm us."—From J. R. Miller's "Come Ye Apart".

—Salem-Zion Church, Marion, S. D.—Missionary H. J. Brown gave illustrated lectures which were well attended. Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brown has come from New York to meet her folks for the first time, since they have returned from China. Missionaries Brown and Rev. A. P. Waltner left for Newton, Kans., Feb. 14, to attend a meeting of the Foreign Mission Board.—Our church has voted, by ballot, that Rev. Claassen serve us another three year term.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The First Mennonite Church of Newport, Wash. wishes to announce that Bro. P. D. Unruh is to be ordained as minister and elder of the church on Sunday, Feb. 27, at 10:00 a. m.

We, the First Mennonite Church of Newport, Wash. herewith extend a hearty invitation to all who may be interested, to come and worship with us on that day. Furthermore, we solicit the intercessory prayers of all the General Conference churches.

—Dr. J. E. Hartzler, Hartford, Conn.—"Recovery from opeartion is just about 100%. Am feeling fine and am back on my job at Hartford. Have fine student body, among them eight Mennonites, all doing fine. I will try and make good my promise to you some months ago and get a number of sermonettes to you for publication.—It may interest you to know that the Faculty of Hartford Seminary has recently voted to offer two new courses next year, particularly for Mennonite students; one in Mennonite Church History, and one in Mennonite Doctrine and Polity. Dr. Johnson will offer the first, and I the second. Our Mennonite students are greatly pleased with the arrangement."

—From Bally Church, Pa., (Mae Latshaw).—On Friday evening, Feb. 4, about 150 Christian Endeavorers of the Perkiomen Valley C. E. Union held a fellowship banquet at the Palm Schwenkfelder Church. Dr. E. E. S. Johnson, pastor of the Hereford Menn. Church, brought the challenging message on "Christ for the Crisis." He closed with a plea for all young people to follow and live the principles of Christ. This year marks the 50th anniversary of C. E. work for the state of Pennsylvania, but the 51st anniversary for the Hereford Church. We, too, held special services on C. E. Day.

—From THE MESSENGER, Clinton, Okla.—On Jan. 9 the last services were held in the old Arapaho church. The next Sunday, Jan. 16, the first sermon was held in the remodeled dwelling house. The lower rooms in the dwelling house were so changed that it is now a very attractive meeting place. We trust that the Arapahoes will show their appreciation of this change by attending in large numbers every Sunday.

—Important Judgment on Church Colleges.—1. The church college of today takes a more healthy interest in the religious life of the students than was done twenty-five years ago. 2. While the college student is not doing what might be done in developing a religious program on the campus, the failure in this respect is no greater than the situation existing in the churches. 3. The church college is making a distinctive contribution to a Christian culture and citizenship by developing Christian teachers for the public schools.—The Nat'l Conf. of Church-Related Colleges, Washington, D. C. April 1937.

"SO GREAT FAITH"

By Martha Bayly

A Religious Drama for Holy Week and General Occasions. - - - Price, 90c copy; $3.00 dozen.

In an interesting and dramatic way this one act religious drama tells the story of the Centurion who sent for Jesus to heal a well-beloved servant. The author imagines the influence that Christ's death and resurrection had upon this Centurion of whom Jesus said, "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel."

One simple setting is all that is required and no curtain is needed. There are three female, four male characters, one of whom has a non-speaking part, and a few lines assigned to a voice.

This play, in two scenes, with a suitable worship program prepared by the minister or a member of the group, will provide an hour's service.

Next Conference Session, Saskatoon Sask. July 31 to August 6, 1938

Information regarding arrangements for reception of our visitors that have been made or are in process.

1. INFORMATION COMMITTEE

Those who wish information regarding connections in Canada for Saskatoon will kindly write either to Rev. Benjamin Ewert, Moxam Court, Ste. 17, 286 River Avenue, Winnipeg, Man., or to Rev. Jacob Gerbrandt, Drake, Sask.

2 REGISTRATION COMMITTEE

This Committee will be in the basement of the Mennonite Church on the afternoon Saturday the 30th of July, on Fourth Avenue near the Fire Hall.

3. RECEPTION COMMITTEE

The Committee will be at the above named church with cars in order to bring guests to their quarters, or direct them to their places of residence. We will also have a person at this place to direct those who wish to go to friends somewhere in the country.

4. ACCOMMODATIONS, LODGING, BOARD

At the exhibition park meals can be had at the following prices: breakfast, 15c; dinner, 25c; supper 25c. Those who prefer to eat in the city will have the chance in restaurants and hotels at comparatively low prices.

In order that our visitors may get an impression as to prices in the hotels, we would announce the following special rates as they were given to us:

Bessborough Hotel

Single room, with bath, per day	$2.50
Double room, with bath, per person per day	$2.00
Room for group of three persons, per day, per person	$1.50
Room for group of four persons, per day, per person	$1.25

Meals may be had at 25c and up.

This hotel particularly offers all the comforts that may be had in any first class hotel.

King George Hotel

Inside room, without bath, single, $1.00; double $1.50
Outside room, without bath, single $1.50; double $2.00
Inside room with bath, single $2.00; double $3.00
Outside room, with bath, single $2.50; double $3.50
Corner room, with bath, single $3.50; double $4.00
Meals from 25c to 55c

Flanagan Hotel

Second floor (Inside), single $1.25; double $1.75
Second floor (Outside), single $1.50; double $2.00
First floor, single $1.75; double $2.25
With private bath, single $2.25; double $2.75

Western Hotel

Outside room, with private bath, single $2.00; double $3.00
Outside room, first floor, single $1.50; double $2.50
Outside room, second floor, single $1.25; double $2.00
Inside room, second floor, single $1.00; double $1.50

There are also rooms for 3 and 4 persons at 75c, $1.00 and $1.25 per person.

In all hotels mentioned, except the Flanagan Hotel, meals are being served. We have also inquired as to the rates in three other hotels, and reasonable rates have been given. We shall also inquire at the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A.

I may say that we have asked for accommodation only in such hotels that we can conscientiously recommend as to conveniences and reputation.

We shall also make inquiries in private homes. We assume that many who have friends in Saskatoon will find accommodation with them.

Those who do not wish to have any expenses as to sleeping accommodation, may find accommodation, somewhat less confortable, at the Exhibition Park. In this case quilts and pillows should be brought along.

5. OTHER INFORMATION

For the meetings we will provide songs and music, and if choirs in the United States are willing to sing at the Conference, the opportunity will be gladly given.

With regard to connections from the boundary to Saskatoon, would you please write to Rev. B. Ewert, Winnipeg, or Rev. Jacob Gerbrandt, Drake, Sask., or to the management of the C.P.R. or C.N.R. in Winnipeg or Saskatoon.

If any further information is wanted with regard to accommodation in Saskatoon, please write to Rev. J. J. Thiessen, 337 5th Ave. N., Saskatoon, Sask., or to the Chairman of the Committee.

We give this preliminary information, because some of our prospective guests may want it.

We ask those who wish to attend the Conference to please let us know, what accomodations they desire.

The General Committee,
J. J. Thiessen, Sec., David Toews, Chairman

Brotherhood Topic for March

SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE

Prepared by C. Henry Smith, Bluffton College

AIM:—To make us conscious of, and put us on our guard against the threatened dangers to our religious liberty in this nationalistic age.—Scripture: Matthew 5.

TOPICS FOR DISCUSSION:

I. What was the relation of the Apostolic church to the State?

The church was a voluntary organization of men and women convicted of sin, regenerate of heart, baptized upon confession of faith, taught to be obedient to the ruling authorities when this obedience did not conflict with their religious faith, but otherwise there was no connection organically with the political organization known as the state. Jesus taught his Kingdom was not of this world, though the Jews had expected otherwise.

II. How did the Church and State become united?

Christianity spread throughout the Roman empire for several hundred years, and by the beginning of the fourth century about one out of every twenty of the inhabitants of Rome were of the Christian faith. The emporer had become a nominal Christian, perhaps for political rather than personal reasons, and first tolerated the Christian faith together with other pagan religions, but soon made Christianity the state religion. With this beginning at the top, the faith soon spread, though in a much diluted form, throughout the empire, and through missionaries to the northern pagan world.

III. What were the evil results for the Church of this union?

Everybody became a member of the church, children and adults, saint and sinner, through compulsion, baptized in infancy, without his consent. The church became another great organization in many ways finally competing with the state. Every individual was born into two great organizations—the church and the state. Disloyalty to either was heresy or treason, both punishable by death. The door was thrown wide open to the introduction of all sorts of pagan philosophies and unchristian practices. Religious faith as in the beginning was no longer based on personal faith. The church, too, became a fighting church. Up to this time Christians did not go to war. After this organized Christianity became the source of many of the wars.

IV. How did the Reformation affect this union?

It had no effect. Both Luther and Calvin and the other reformers needed the strong arm of the state to establish their religious reforms. They merely brought about certain much needed reforms in the Catholic Church and scrapped much of the machinery of salvation of the old church, but they maintained two of the most glaring evils of the old order—union of state and church, and the practice of war.

V. Who were the Anabaptists and Mennonites?

The Anabaptists were a radical wing of the Zwinglian and Lutheran movements in the early days of the Reformation who believed in a complete return without the aid of the state to the early Apostolic pattern, namely a voluntary church, based on true repentance, and made up of believers only with a social program based on the Sermon of the Mount, including Love rather than compulsion as a guiding force in human relations—among other things unconditional opposition to war, and complete religious toleration. After Menno Simon joined the Anabaptists they finally came to be known as Mennonites.

VI. Is religious liberty threatened today?

Yes. We have retrograded one hundred years since the World War in this respect. Twenty nations today are under the control of dictators committed to the ideal of the totalitarian state which implies that the state and not the church or the individual conscience must be the object of one's highest loyalty. In Russia the state is attempting to completely stamp out not only the organized church but all religious impulses, and is making a fairly good job of it. In Germany the church, and religion as well, is making a strenuous fight for its independent existance. In Rome there is no fight because the Church has practically surrendered to the will of the state. How about the United States? We are wont to boast "It can't happen here". Can't it? About two years ago the United States Supreme Court in one of its famous four to five decisions, passing upon the well known McIntosh case, declared that the State must be supreme and that if one's individual conscience conflicted with the demands of the State, conscience must give away. Theoretically this places the United States in line with the totalitarian state on the question of religious liberty. Practically, it has not yet done so, but we need to be sensitive to all infringements upon the rights of conscience. A Mennonite today who does not believe in war and is honest enough to say so finds it practically impossible to become a United States citizen through naturalization.

VII. Are Mennonites today in danger of losing their peace principles.

Yes, due to:

1. Ignorance of Mennonite history and the peace testimony in times of peace and war of our forefathers.

2. Lack of interest and carelessness in upholding peace doctrines.

3. Educating our young people in State universities and colleges where the ROTC exists. Military training in times of peace leaves no logical excuse for refusal to enter military training in times of war. This is the easiest way to wean young Mennonites away from their peace traditions.

4. Education of some of our ministers in short cut Militant Bible Schools that do not believe in the peace tradition. Such ministers are never strong peace advocates and consequently not good Mennonites.

5. Intermarriage with life partners from other than peace churches.

VIII. How can we preserve our traditional religious principles against the rising tide of nationalism?

1. Train our young people in our own or other colleges where our principles are upheld. We can make of the future generation exactly what we want them to be through education in the home, the school, the pulpit and the press. Education is still a moulding process. Russia is making her children atheists. Italy is making them soldiers, and Germany seemingly is trying to make her nationals strong Germans. We can keep our young people Mennonites only through education using that term in its broadest sense.

2. Establish a seminary for the training of our own ministers. The pulpit must join the school in teaching the Mennonite principles.

3. The church papers, the Sunday School lesson helps, and all the publication efforts of the church must me directed toward the same end.

4. The General Conference should employ a full time peace secretary, as the Dunkards and Quakers are doing to promote the peace cause throughout the church.

A MORNING PRAYER

He that hath My commandments and keepeth them, loveth Me.—John 14:21.

Most gracious God Almighty, all wise, all loving Heavenly Father, we rejoice that Thou hast called us to be Thy children.

We confess before Thee, that we are indeed like little children, with all their weakness and imperfections, but without their humility, purity, teachableness and trustfulness. Cleanse us from our sins. Grant us joy and peace in believing in Thee. May we have the love that believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

In our home, in our daily work and recreations, and in all our relations to others, make us strong and steadfast to do the right and shun the wrong. Bless us, that we may become a blessing to others.

Remember, we beseech Thee, all classes and conditions of men—the sick, the sorrowful, the poor and needy, the widows and orphans, the little children with their sweet faith and childlike joys, the young and vigorous, bearing the responsibilities of life.

Bless the missionaries at home and abroad. Be pleased to make Thyself known in the labors of the faithful pastors and teachers, and let Thy truth and righteousness govern the nations of the earth, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.—Rufus W. Miller, D.D., Philadelphia, Pa.

Christian Education

THE OBLIGATION OF THE CHURCH COLLEGE

Ed. G. Kaufman

"In the October, 1935, issue of The Christian Review is an article by this title from the pen of a 'Pastor of a College Church', who contends that the obligation is to the past, the present, and the future. 'No institution can be separated from its past',—its founders, its alumni, the history and principles of the denomination. In the present, the institution is obligated to the student body—the curriculum, the amount and quality of work to be required, intellectual 'growing-pains', and the production and development of Christian character; the homes from which the students come; and the home churches. 'Central, of course, in the obligation of the church college to its students, is the production and development of Christian character. Students who have not begun the Christian life are to be won for it. Those who are already Christians are to be more fully established and developed in Christian thought and life. If these things are not done by the denominational school there can scarcely be found any justification for its continuance.'

"In fulfilling its obligation to the future, the church college must pioneer. 'The last word in education along any particular line has not yet been spoken. As things stand today the Christian college has scarcely begun to speak. It is easily possible to conceive that the most important and impressive developments in the educational field in the next twenty-five to fifty years may come from the distinctively Christian colleges. If these developments are to come, however, these institutions must become courageous enough to throw off the shackles of secular school influence and begin to pioneer in their own instinctive lines.' The following are not exhaustive but are presented as possibilities:

"1. Revolutionary changes in curricula and technique so as to provide greater freedom and discipline for the individual student.

2. Closer contact for the student with community life and less centering of interest on campus life.

3. Direct and continued effort to develop enthusiasm and skill in Christian work.

4. Limitation of the student body, probably in three directions—as to (a) total registration, (b) percentage of non-Christians, (c) quality of Christian character.

"The Christian college is on the battle front. As movements of air flow down from the mountains to affect the climate of the valleys where people do their daily work and live their daily lives, so the currents of thought prevailing in higher education gradually penetrate the thinking and believing of all the levels of any generation. What is thought and taught in the colleges and universities today becomes the notions and ideas of tomorrow or the day after tomorrow. The climate of our own day was determined by movements of thought in higher schools a decade or more ago.

"It is in her colleges that the Church meets these new ideas and philosophies of life. If the Church cannot stem the materialism of today's thinking and the paganization of today's morals in her colleges, the effects will soon be evident in the parish work of the Christian pastor. When the front line trenches have been lost, the battle comes closer home. The Christian college is the front line, defending a coming generation from unbelief, and all the strange foes of the modern world. To lose on this front means a defeat of untold dimension to the Church of Christ."—Church-of-the-Air, Columbia National Broadcast, May 2, 1937.

To Churches of the General Conference

In order that the churches and Sunday schools may gauge the distribution of their contributions toward the various causes more nearly proportionately we give the following facts:

The General Conference has assigned to the Board of Education a heavy schedule of work which calls for a budget of $1900 per year, this amounts to a little over $158 per month. To date we have received since January 1, 1938, $94.55 from four churches and five Sunday schools. It is evident that if the churches really want this work done, they must not forget to send in their contributions regularly, and perhaps figure their allowance for this cause a little more liberally. It is but fair to state that many churches and Sunday schools give liberally and regularly, but many others seem to have overlooked this item in making up their budget. D. H. Richert, Treas.

—Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio.—For the annual Pre-Easter Services this church has invited Rev. J. N. Smucker of the Bethel College Church to give a series of messages which will be based on the fundamentals of Christian faith as expressed in the Apostles' Creed. Services begin Sunday, March 20 and end Sunday, March 27. With the central idea BELIEVE these are the themes: I Believe, God, The Father Almighty, Jesus Christ His Son, Our Lord, The Holy Spirit, The Church, Communion of Saints, Forgiveness of Sins, Resurrection and Life Eternal.—The speaker has been giving these sermons in his church, and we can assure the Grace Church that there are rich blessing in store for them.

—Menn. Church, Burrton, Kans.—We are sorry that in our last list of correspondents the name and address of Mrs. Otto Regier, correspondent of the Burrton church, was inadvertently omitted.

A Pastor's Chat

Lester Hostetler

REGARDING WORSHIP

I wish to discuss in this "Chat" a very solemn subject—the worship of God.

The worship of God is one of the special functions of the church. There are other organizations that include worship in their program, as for example the Lodges, or the Service Clubs, and sometimes, political organizations. They may make use of prayers, hymns and scripture. But the object of the organization is something else. The church, alone, specializes in worship.

The desire to worship should be our main reason for coming to church. When in the House of God we should never forget that the building with all of its furnishings is dedicated to the worship of Almighty God. The church is not a play-house, not a theater, not a concert hall, and above all, not a market-place. It is the place where we are brought into a realization that God is present in human life. It is the House of God.

To get the most out of a church service, it is necessary to fix one's mind on the Eternal. Anything seen or heard which does not help to concentrate on God is a hindrance to worship. Anything that brings one closer to God has a place in the church. The soft strains of organ music, beautiful harmony, dignified melodies, turn the mind heavenward. The singing of a good hymn directs one's thoughts to God; trivial tunes sung to commonplace words, do not. For this reason only the very best in music should be used in a church service. Tunes or words which are unworthy of the presence of God are out of place.

Choir music has only one purpose and that is to aid in worship. The choir does not sing in order to exhibit its skill or to entertain, but to praise God and sing of His wonder and love. There is some advantage in having the choir seated so they do not face the congregation directly. It enables the worshipper to concentrate on the music and removes personal elements which sometimes distract attention, such as the facial expressions of some singers, the clothes they wear, or the part of the hair.

Sometimes the question is asked why the pulpit was placed to one side and the Communion table located in the center of the chancel so as to be the focus of attention. The answer is that the worship of God, not the sermon, is of first importance in the church. The preaching of the Word has a great place in the church but it is subordinate to the church's main purpose of worship. The communion table symbolizes the meeting of God and man, and so it stands, rightly I think, in the center.

It is obvious that the purpose of the church service is defeated to some extent if people enter the church in an irreverent mood, indulge in whispering, and make unnecessary noise. It destroys the atmosphere of worship. It is far better, instead, to come into the church quietly and reverently as is becoming in the presence of the Most High, with a prayer for yourself, for those who minister, and for all who have come to worship.

It is our custom to refrain from making announcements from the pulpit. We print them in the church bulletin and pass them out. Announcements seldom contribute anything to a service of worship and almost always detract.

Now a closing word. A church is not the most exciting place to go to. It is not as entertaining, not as colorful, not as interesting as the "movie". But the church is a good place to go to. If it fulfills its function, it will help you feel the presence of God. Your problems look different when you see them in the light of God. Your life will never be the same after a genuine experience of worship. It will never be what it can be or should be without the fellowship of worship.

Pray for the church service, not that it may be exciting or interesting, but that it may be the means of bringing all the people into the presence of the Eternal God.

Wang's Hope for China

The Chinese Ambassador in Washington, C. T. Wang, says in an interview in The Christian Herald: "I am trying to be a Christian who works at it. I have a pew in my church at home, and I sit in it regularly. I take time to talk over my political moves and statecraft with Jesus Christ. I think that needs to be done in China and in America and in diplomatic circles around the world. We all need to listen for the Voice. I have been playing the royal game of statecraft now for a good many years as foreign minister, prime minister, and minister of this or that, not one of which is as important as being a good minister of Jesus Christ.

"I am proud of the fact that Christ is gaining the heart and sympathy of China. Believe me, that is happening. His footsteps become clear and clearer in the good earth of China with every passing hour.

"Once we looked at the handful of Christians on the one hand and the massed millions of China on the other and said, 'You better go home and forget it.' But the handful stayed. The story of their staying is an epic which makes the defense of modern Madrid a sham battle."

"Today the handful is Winning."—Sunday School Times, Copyrighted 1937, used by permission.

MENN. CHURCH, MEDFORD, OKLA., FEB. 17

On Sunday, Jan. 23, Rev. C. Frey, Newton, Kans., preached in the morning. He also spoke to the C. E. in the evening, and at another service on Monday. On Jan. 30 Bro. P. H. Richert, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, spoke in the morning and afternoon, in the interests of mission and of Bethel College. Thanks, brethren, come again. Last Sunday, Feb. 13, Missionary P. J. Wiens, from Birra, India, spoke in the morning and afternoon, and again on Feb. 15, this time especially of the lepers. He also showed a few pieces of fine needle work that Hindu women had made. When we hear and read of the mission work, we praise God; for the Gospel of Christ is the power unto Salvation, to them that believe on Him as their Savior, be it in Christian or heathen land.

All ministers travelling through Medford, please stop and bring us the message of Christ. We live in town. Today, the fourth day, we have rain, so we have much moisture for our wheat fields.

With much interest I read in the Bethel College Bulletin, Jan. 27: Peace Course given in Bethel College. This course should be taken by every student to help formulate the conviction, what a Christian's stand should be, especially for our young men, as war clouds are getting darker. I am praying for much success for this course, and may we in all of our churches preach on the peace question and of Christ as the Prince of Peace.—In His Name, John Lichti

A TIMELY QUESTION

M. Horsch

This we find in St. Mark 1:24: "What have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth?" It was the custom of our Lord and Savior to attend regularly and faithfully the services and meetings in the synagogues, or Jewish Churches. May we follow this blessed example. This is pleasing to Him and of great spiritual value and benefit to us. We cannot grow spiritually without faithfully and regularly going to church on Sunday.

In the story, out of which our text is taken, we find Christ our Lord in the synagogue of Capernaum. He taught and the people were astonished at His teaching for He taught with divine authority.

Now it happened that in the audience was a poor, demon possessed man. He responded to the words of Christ in an extraordinary way. With a loud voice he cried out: "Let us alone, what have we to do with thee, Jesus of Nazareth?" Our Lord, so full of love for poor, fallen man, had great compassion with this poor sufferer. He commanded the unclean spirit and this spirit cried out and came out of the poor man.

"Let us alone!" This is the cry of poor, Satan deluded souls today. "Let us alone! Why do you interfere with my business dealings?" So say many people in the world.

Others say: "Let me alone! Why do you interfere in weather conditions and hinder my prospects of a good crop?" Still others say: "Let me alone in my sinful pleasures, drinking, gambling, my unclean life! I will work out my own destiny, why should you interfere?" Perhaps not in so many words, but in their attitude towards our Lord and Savior and in their daily life many people cry out, let me alone.

This is rebellion against our God and Father in heaven. This course, if persisted in, leads to final and eternal doom. Those who know Him as their reconciled Father through Christ Jesus our Lord, endeavor to lead an honest, clean and upright Christian life. Yes, they delight to do His will. They know He must correct them and through life's hard experiences prepare them for faithful service here and for their home in heaven.

Now we turn to the question of our text: "What have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth?" Yes, we have a great deal to do with Him, our Lord and Savior. Sometimes a season of sickness and suffering comes upon us. We wonder why? It sets us to thinking. We do not understand it, but we know, He uses His blessed hand in it all. He uses this time of suffering as a means of grace to train and purify us, to make us fit for His service and His kingdom. "What have we to do with thee?" He has a great deal to do with us. He takes us, poor and needy as we are and lost in sin, and transforms us into children of God. He took Simon, the crude fisherman, and made out of him Peter, the great apostle. He will take any Christ-hater today and transform him into a Christ-lover. This He does to all, who surrender their lives to Him. Countless lives have been made over by Him. He keeps us as in the hollow of His hand and gives us peace in our hearts. This is His peace that passes our understanding and we may enjoy it, no matter what our experiences may be.

Do we need Christ our Lord? We need Him every step of the way, yes every moment of our lives. We cannot, we do not want to live without Him.

I walk with the King. Hallelujah!
I walk with the King, praise His name!
No longer I roam,
My soul faces home,
I walk and talk with the King.

FEEDING THE HUNGRY

Mark 6:30-44

Report of the Apostles vs. 30-32

Jesus had sent out the twelve (6:13) on a teaching and healing mission. Now they return and report (v30) on that which they did and the results. All Christians are ministers, witnesses of Jesus and accountable to Him for their stewardship, of what they have accomplished in life's mission. Christ showed his concern for them in verse 31, calling them aside for a needed rest. The thronging multitudes permitted no opportunity for it. God's servants need physical relaxation and rest. This is a real part of God's program for His people. His workers, too, derive much benefit from quietly sharing their experiences with each other.

Jesus' concern for the people vs. 33-37

There was no escaping the eager multitude (v33). They reached the opposite shore ahead of the boat. When Jesus saw their eagerness and understood their soul condition, His compassion for their spiritual welfare welled up within Him (v34). He willingly changed His plan for a quiet, restful day with the apostles, for the people's sake. They needed Him. They had no spiritual guide or shepherd. He supplied their lack in ministering to this mixed multitude—some doubtless pilgrims on their way to the Passover feast—some probably seeking bodily healing—some serious sinners seeking help—some anxious to hear His words—some idly curious. The multitude was a cross-section of humanity in any nation, then and now. Jesus did not call these people "goats" and does not call the non-Christians of today "goats". To Him they are shepherdless sheep, the "other sheep", the lost sheep. Christ's compassion does not depend on the worthiness of the people. He sees the heart condition, the hunger there, the desires, the need of each one.

The people remained to hear, oblivious of the rapid approach of evening and the need of securing food (v35). The twelve suggested (v36) that which seemed to them—and to us—the logical, reasonable thing to do. The people must look after their needs for food, it is not Jesus' nor the disciples' responsibility. Jesus probably greatly surprised them by His suggestion (v37). He would have them feel responsibility, even in such an unusual case.

Jesus Feeds the Multitude vs. 38-44

Jesus put the disciples to the test and in answer to their question showed them that they were to take stock of what they had on hand and start with that (v38). We should frequently take account of our resources. Christ will help us use them. Jesus began where the disciples could not go any further, with the little fully given into His hands. All needed to be done orderly to facilitate the easy distribution of the food. "Order is heaven's first law." God is orderly in all His ways. All our work in daily life, all our efforts in God's work should be well planned and orderly.

Jesus took the little that was given to Him—how meager it must have seemed—and after blessing it (v41), gave to the disciples to be distributed to the people. The Lord is still using willing workers to help Him meet the needs of men. Christ's disciples need to be good distributors of the blessings He gives to them. It is wonderful what He can do through willing helpers. He can multiply abundantly the little talents that we can give to Him.

In His hands the little became abundantly ample to fully satisfy the needs of all (v42). It was a simple faith in Him that moved the owner of the loaves and fishes to give them to Jesus. How his heart must have throbbed with joy as he saw what Jesus could do with the small gift. There is never any scarcity at the Lord's table. Christ was concerned that there should not be any waste (43). Wilful waste of good food is sinful. Destroying God's blessings is sin.

WORK AND PLAY

A prominent German manufacturer, Karl Metz, once passed a place known as "Karthaus" with an acquaintance of his. Stopping in front of the old building, which had been a cloister, he asked his companion, "Do you know why this cloister has fallen to ruin?" The man gave several possible reasons, without getting anywhere near the answer his questioner had in mind. Getting impatient, Mr. Metz finally burst out, "I will tell you briefly: In the cloisters there came a time when they only prayed and ceased to work. The factories will fare no better, for there they work but do not pray."

Events of Divine Ages

by J. J. Friesen—(Concluded)

In the second stage of Christ's coming again, he will appear with his saints on earth to set up his earthly kingdom, at the close of the great tribulation.

This period of time is called the millenium for its duration will be a thousand years. He will reign in peace and righteousness in partnership with the saints, in this kingdom. They shall live and reign for one thousand years. And they (the nations) shall beat their swords into plow shares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.

Previous to this time Satan will be bound. I saw an angel come from heaven, having the key to the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand, and he laid hold of Satan and bound him a thousand years. And cast him into the bottomless pit and shut him up and set a seal upon him, that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years be fulfilled and after that he must be loosed for a little season.

The Bible also speaks of different judgments, that will take place, before the end of the ages, and the world at large comes to a close in this dispensation.

Three major resurrections will take place before the main world order comes to an end.

Of one of these, we read, has already taken place when Christ arose, "And the graves were opened and many bodies of the saints, which slept, arose and came out of the graves after the resurrection of Christ and went into the city and appeared unto many." But every man in his own order; Christ, the firstfruits and afterwards they that are Christ's at his coming.

Then the great harvest of the first resurrection of His believers for the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God and dead in Christ shall rise first; then we that are alive shall be caught up together with them in the cloud to meet the Lord in the air.

Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection, on such the second death hath no power.

They are judged, as to their reward before the judgment seat of Christ, that everyone may receive, according to what he has done, whether it be good or evil. Now if any man build on this foundation, gold, silver, precious stone, wood, hay, or stubble, every man's work will be made manifest, for the day shall declare it because it shall be revealed by fire, and the fire shall try every man's work of what it is. If any man's work abide which he hath built thereon, he shall receive a reward. If any man's work be burned, he shall suffer loss, but he himself shall be saved, yet so as by fire. They do it to obtain a corruptible crown, but we are incorruptible.

A crown of righteousness shall be given to all that love his appearance. A crown of rejoicing will be given his believers at his coming. A crown of glory that fadeth not away ye shall receive when the chief shepherd will appear. Only the believers are in this judgment.

Another judgment, that of the nations will take place. Only the living nations are judged, and no resurrection takes place.

When the son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory; and before him shall be gathered all the nations, and he shall separate them, one from another, as the shepherd divideth the sheep from the goats. The sheep on the right and the goats on the left hand. To the sheep he says, "Come ye blessed of my father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

To those on the left hand he says, "Depart from me ye cursed into the everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels. The nations on the right enter and inherit the millenial kingdom and those on the left shall pass into everlasting punishment.

The second resurrection will take place one thousand years after the first. But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand were finished. And shall come forth they that have done good unto the resurrection (first) of life and they that have done evil to the resurrection, (second) of damnation. And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life and some to shame and everlasting contempt.

Another judgment will take place before the great White Throne. This will take place after the second resurrection.

Apparently Satan is done away before this judgment takes place. When a thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison and shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four corners of the earth. Finally he is cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet are and shall be tormented day and night forever and ever.

All the dead in the second resurrection are judged before the White Throne. And I saw a great white throne and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away and there was found no place for them. No believer will come into this judgment.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my word and believeth on him that sent me hath everlasting life, and shall not come into damnation.

And I saw the dead, small and great standing before God and the books were opened, and another book was opened, which is the book of life, and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works. And the sea and hell gave up the dead and they were judged every man according to their works. And hell and earth were cast into the lake of fire and whosoever was not found in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire. And I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and earth were passed away and there was no sea.

Home Mission Board Meeting

Since two of our Board members live in Quakertown, Pa., it is most economical for our Board to meet at that place. This meeting will be held March 16-17. If any of the co-workers or other friends have any special reports or requests to present, send them to our secretary Rev. W. S. Gottshall before our meeting.

We desire that you remember this work, and especially this Board meeting in your prayers.—J. M. Regier, Pres. of the Board.

Our Historians

—Dr. C. Henry Smith of Bluffton College is writing a new history of the Mennonites, to be entitled THE STORY OF THE MENNONITES. The opus will be larger than his first history of our people, and he thinks there may be enough material for a two volume edition. His first book was considered so valuable and was so well liked that the edition was soon sold out. Magnanimous as Dr. Smith is, he is offering the right of publication and sale of this book to our Board of Publication. Again and again things come up that should convince the members of the General Conference of the need of our own printing plant. Our Publication Board has been making efforts to effect a merger with Mennonite printing plants at Newton, whereby the Conference might eventually become a controlling factor in a printing establishment, but so far with little headway.

—Rev. H. P. Krehbiel, another Mennonite historian of note is writing his second volume of HISTORY OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE. He wrote the first volume forty or more years ago. This will be another valuable addition to Mennonite historical literature. Rev. Krehbiel expects to finish this book within a few months. He is also the author of a book entitled WAR—PEACE—AMNITY, which is very valuable to our people and should be widely studied by Y. P. societies, and other church groups. It is on sale at the Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Ind.

—Rev. J. J. Balzer, Mountain Lake has just sent us number three of the four units of a treatise on The Word of God. The four parts are: One World, One Kingdom, One Gospel, One Imperative or Commission. The first one appeared in the Mennonite of January 11, this year. The rest will follow as soon as space permits. He reports cold weather with snow, and a good deal of fog. On Feb. 18 he preached the funeral sermon for Brother Jacob Epp, at the M. B. Church, on the subject "Death and Resurrection" and "Where Will I Spend the Future?"

Finding God

by J. S. Schultz, Dean of Bluffton College

Everyone that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened, (Matt. 7:8) says Christ in the greatest sermon ever directed to man. Seek and ye shall find. Even in the Old Testament, in Proverbs, God invited men to set out on a search. Those that seek me early, shall find me, (Prov. 8:17) and again, Whoso findeth me findeth life (Prov. 8:35). We are not unmindful of the fact that we, the creation of the great God, are being sought, sought ceaselessly by Him who gave His very Son for our redemption. Jesus' search goes on continuously without bounds or end, yet so many of us or our friends are still separated from Him. There remains but one explanation for this estrangement—those who are not His have not Him because they have not sought. Seek and you shall find.

There are different ways of finding and a variety of ways of seeking, but this one condition remains unalterable: to make sure of finding, one must seek. There must be a willingness, an openness in man to want to find.

In actual experience, how do we find God? What are the channels through which we come to him? Through parents or friends, teachers or ministers; through the study of the Bible or through prayer, in the quiet lonely chamber, or while at worship with many others; through the call of the shouting evangelist or the pleading of the still small voice; by accepting joyfully the loving call of the Lord or after a desperate struggle with blackest sin; as a result of our own quiet search or after repeated urgent invitations from some other child of Christ.

Let Scripture bring us typical illustrations of ways by which the human soul finds its maker and Savior. "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." (Prov. 22:6). That is one way of finding God. Our parents taught us, when we were yet too young to understand deep spiritual truth. We could sense the warm love of mother or the protection of the strong yet tender arms of father—if God is like that, we could believe in Him and give our hearts to Him, especially on their invitation. A mother's love and a father's care, their life, their consistent example, and also their kindly work of invitation and their intercessory prayers: all these together have led many a son and daughter home to God. There comes a blessing to parents and children, where the latter can pattern their lives after those of their elders. That is the picture Jeremiah must have had in mind, when he said: "Thus saith the Lord, stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls." Many of us who came by that road have difficulty in stating the day and hour when we found Christ, but we are sure He is ours and we His; we have found Him and He us.

Contrast with that another way of finding God. Many are the Jobs today who, like he of old, cry out: "O that I knew where I might find Him! that I might come even to His presence!" (Job 23:3). And this in answer to a seeming rebuke from God on high: "Canst thou, by searching, find out God? Canst thou find out the Almighty unto perfection?" O the depth of the struggle such a forsaken soul must experience. When the blackness of night surrounds us, when alone and lost on our way, how we shudder; what pangs we suffer, when a true friend deserts us, and that perhaps without cause—how keen the pangs and heartaches; how infinitely greater the burden weighing down the soul, when God is gone! Almost unbearable is the thought when God seems to withdraw from our presence, who have known Him and lost awhile. But that soul which has just come to the realization that a life without God is unendurable, starts out on a search and then can't find Him. Feature yourself or your son or daughter in that experience, Canst thou find out God? O that I knew where I might find Him! All nature about is desolate; nobody cares, even friends have turned their backs; God himself appears to be beyond reach. But even to him the seemingly distant God says: he that seeketh findeth. To this desolate seeker the bleakest cloud breaks; light shines, God becomes visible, nay flashes into sight. And what a find. No words can better describe that meeting of a lost soul and his Creator than those of the prodigal. That find began when the son came "to himself". Then he thought out the whole explanation he was going to make to the father, but that speech was barely begun, when the father, coming out to meet him, interrupted with hurried orders to his servants. The son had but to begin his search for the father and the father did the rest. Preparations could hardly be made fast enough; with great rejoicing he announced to the household: "This my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found." (Luke 15:24). In like manner the sinner finds God, but God also finds the sinner.

Viewed in another way, there are the Greeks who said: "We want to see Jesus" (John 12:21), and those of the marriage feast who were found in the highways and were urged to come. (Matt. 22:9). How do we set out to find God? Either we want to; we feel a longing within ourselves and so start out on a search; or, we roam about in a careless, indifferent, irresponsible manner on the highways of life, until some good angel of the Lord, likely in human flesh, searches those places and, finding us, brings us to the king, the King Eternal. The important feature of the event is that we come. On the other hand, we note in both of these events there are those who help to make it possible for the seekers to find the Savior. The Greeks told Philip; Philip told Andrew; and the two told Jesus. In the other incident the king sent his servants into the partings of the highways. It is most important that we find God, but, in order that all may find, many of us who have found Him will have the opportunity to serve as intermediaries for others. There are possible Greeks of today in Lima, in other parts of Allen County, in any neighborhood, who come with that same request to you or to me: We would see Jesus. Let us acquaint ourselves so well with the way that we can make it clear and attractive to those about us.

Then there are those on the partings of the highways who need to be sought and found, even after we have been refused by those who count it more important to look after their farms and their merchandise; nay, even after we have been treated shamefully by some. After such experiences we are quite apt to lose heart and perhaps excuse ourselves from further efforts, because, as a missionary said lately, such don't find God because they don't want to, but it behooves us to go right on inviting or urging; if some refuse, there are still many more on the highways whom we should lead to come and find the joy of Christian living. Some come, because they want; others come only after much bidding and urging.

Thus far we have talked of finding God through the teaching of our parents, finding Him in the storms of life as sin tries to shackle our very soul; finding God as it applied to those who had never accepted Him before; finding Him because we want to, or finding Him because we are urged by others. But this finding is a lifelong process. Paul writes to the Romans (11:33): "O the depth of riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out!" To the Corinthians (3:18), he speaks of being transformed into the same image from glory to glory. Christ himself sets the high goal for us to be perfect, even as He is perfect. Seek and ye shall find. He reveals himself to us, as we continue to seek and in the measure we are willing to receive. What a different man the Peter was to whom Christ said, "Feed my lambs", or even the Peter who later said: "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons," from that earlier Peter who, at his denial, said to the maid, "I never knew him"—transformed from glory to glory. Brother, sister of the radio audience: are you and we still at the same stage of Christian nurture that we were when we first found Him and He found us? Are we still fed with milk or can we take meat? (I Cor. 3:2) Is our testimony limited to our first finding the Savior or have we risen from glory to glory. Does every evil report about our neighbor find listening ears and willing tongues, to pass it on with added color, or have we mastered that organ to issue only true and helpful reports? Can we rejoice with the winner or him who succeeds, even when we lose or fail? Can we truly love God when pain, grief or hardship comes into our life, or do we only have faith in a God, when material success surrounds us? Do we find rest for our souls through the God who lightens our yoke and who is meek and lowly of heart (Matt. 11:29)? Are we still seeking the fullness of Christ by our own broad road, or have we fully discovered that the narrow gate and the straightened way lead to real life (Matt. 7:14)? What an adventure, what a challenge, what joy in first finding God; but what riches in a continued search into greater depths and rising to greater heights, even though His judgments are unsearchable and His ways past finding out.

Christ Meeting the World's Needs

Acts 8:9-13; I John 4:7-21

Young People's Topic for March 20, 1938

Meditations:

M., Mar. 14. Need of Salvation. Acts 4:12
T., Mar. 15. Need of Healing. I John 9:1-7
W., Mar. 16. Need of Spiritual Enlightenment. John 8:12,32
T., Mar. 17. Need of Encouragement. John 14:1-3
F., Mar. 18. Need of Knowing God. John 14:1-12
S., Mar. 19. Need of Spiritual Teaching. Luke 6:20-30.

Suggested Hymns:

"All Hail the Power of Jesus Name"
"Jesus the Very Thought of Thee"

Problems:

The scripture passage (I John 4:7-21) given for this topic is very appropriate. In it we can point to four big thoughts which have a direct bearing on the topic. They are as follows:

I. Results of God's Love. What are they? (vss. 7-10)

In verses 7-9 we are told that we have life as a result of God's love. "Every one that loveth is born of God."

Another result, as is seen in verse 10, is that we have propitiation. This speaks of the work of reconciliation which Christ accomplished on the cross. Propitiation is a translation of the Old Testament word "atonement". Atonement comes from a Hebrew word which means "to cover over". Christ's death on the cross was sufficient to completely cover sin.

II. God's Love in Us. What does it accomplish in us? (vss. 11-13)

Through God's love in us we become possessed of the Divine "Ought". "We ought also to love one another." Of course such love is divine and spiritual and must come from God, and it is our duty to let Him fill us with His love.

Through God's love in us we receive the Divine Abode. That is, God lives in us. His presence in us is made known by our love.

Through God's love in us we receive the Divine Spirit. This is a twofold habitation—we in Him and He in us. The Holy Spirit in us is the new nature He has given us. So in order to live this love-life we must let the Holy Spirit control our life. Then we will show forth the presence of God in us.

III. Perfect Love. How is God's love made perfect in us? (vss. 14-17)

First God's love is made in us by God's sending the Saviour. And He, the Saviour, is able to save the last human being on earth. The price is paid and is sufficient. Christ is the Saviour of all men potentially, but only the Saviour of those who believe on Him actually.

Secondly, God's love is made perfect in us in indwelling the believers. God's love makes possible Christ's indwelling, and our confession reveals His presence in us.

Thirdly, God's love is made perfect in us in giving us boldness. We were with Him on the cross, and we shall be with Him on the throne. And it is all because of God's perfect love.

IV. Made Perfect in Love. What will the acceptance of God's perfect love do for us? (Vss. 18-21)

1. In our own lives? It means to open ourselves to an appreciation of the love of God. Then we are made perfect in love.

2. In our relation to others? After we have seen God's love to us and have accepted it, love to others will flow from our lives as a natural consequence.

Thus far we have seen how God's love through Christ meets and provides for the needs of each individual person in the world. So, briefly now, let us just list a few of the ways in which Christ meets the needs of the world in general. This would certainly include the following:

1. Missionaries of Christ are bringing the Gospel of Salvation to the world in response to our Lord's command and in answer to the world's need.

2. Wherever the gospel of Christ has come into the hearts of men social evils are being combatted. Among them are paganism, superstition, fear, polygamy, illiteracy, child marriage, intemperance, and moral degradations in many forms.

3. Christ is the Great Physician and today a worldwide health program has been instituted. Plagues have been brought under control.

4. The nations have need of each other. And missions make it possible for all lands to make their characteristic contributions to the welfare of humanity. Thus is it possible for each nation to contribute something of value to all the rest of the nations.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Jesus in Service

Intermediate C. E. Topic, March 20, 1938

For Daily Study

Mar. 14. Getting ready to go. Matt. 4:17-22
Mar. 15. Healer of disease. Matt. 4:23-25
Mar. 16. Serving human need. Matt. 8:1-4
Mar. 17. Healing at a distance. Matt. 8:5-13
Mar. 18. Presenting the law of the kingdom. Matt. 5:1-12
Mar. 19. Service to the end. Luke 23:27-43
Mar. 20. Topic—Jesus: His day of service. Luke 4:31-41

Pre-Prayer Circle

Read Luke 9:23,24 and explain its meaning before calling for sentence prayers. Pray for eyes to see the opportunities to serve Christ as individuals, as a society. Pray for consecrated hands and hearts.

Suggested Songs

"Work for the Night is Coming", "Bringing in the Sheaves", "Where Cross the Crowded Ways"

Announcements. Coming events, society business, missionary news. Have something of interest to tell your society. It will show you are alive.

Quiet Worship

Announce your topic. (Make all necessary explanations at this time so no further announcement will be necessary during the worship period.)
Piano: (softly) "More About Jesus"
Scripture Reading: Luke 4:31-41
Sing: "Jesus Calls Us", stanza one
Leader: Jesus said, "Whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister; and whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all."
Sing: "Jesus Calls Us", stanza two Prayer, by the four committee chairmen, the president closing
Special music

Presenting the Topic

Leader's Remarks
Three Short Talks: "Lessons from Jesus". Show why we need these lessons.

1. Seeking Opportunities for Service. Mark 1:38,39
2. Humility in Service. John 13:13-17
3. Unselfishness in Service. Mark 6:31-34

Discussion Questions:

1. Why do some people see more opportunities to serve than others? How can we become sensitive to the needs of others?

2. How do self interest and procrastination interfere with our service?

3. Why must our abilities be consecrated before they can be of service to Christ? What other motives do people have for serving?

Opportunities for Service through our Society

(Let the four committee chairmen present the opportunities of their departments, and if possible suggest some definite service project.) 1. Lookout; 2. Prayer Meeting (Program); 3. Missionary. 4. Social.

Closing Moments

A POEM

"The place where thou wouldst have us serve,
The work that we should do
To build the kingdom of thy Son
Bring clearly to our view;
Then may our inmost spirit, Lord,
Respond unto thy will,
And as we walk where thou dost guide,
O be thou with us still.
The life and powers thou gavest us,
We dedicate today;
The gift we on the altar place,
Accept, O Lord, we pray."—Jacob A. Cole

Song: "O Jesus, I Have Promised" Stanza one.
Benediction

FOR THE LEADER

In the Japanese language, we are told there is no word that expresses the idea of service. To serve is a Christian idea. Christ is the greatest servant that ever lived. Phil. 2:6-8. From him we can learn the true meaning of service.

God has need of our service.

"Christ has no hands but our hands .
To do His work today."

A small boy was whistling gayly, while he hoed corn on a hot July morning. Someone passing by called to him and wanted to know how he could hoe corn and whistle on a day like that. "Well, sir," replied the boy, "I don't know, unless it is because I feel somehow that I am doing something that even the Almighty couldn't do if I wasn't here to help him." To forget self and serve Christ puts a song in our hearts.

Sensitive to Needs

It is said that while the "Titanic", the great ship that struck an iceberg, was sending out SOS calls frantically, the "California", another ship nearby, rested idly, waiting for daylight before proceeding through the dangerous waters. The ship had only one wireless operator, and he had gone to sleep for the night. Is this a picture of our indifference to the needs of those about us?

JUNIOR CORNER

Dear Leader of the Western District:

We are "laborers together with Christ" and for Christ and yet we are as a broken chair,—you in your small corner and I in mine.

It is with hesitancy that I have accepted to be sponsor of our Junior work within the Western District. I do not know, as yet, what this means nor all that it may involve, but my prayer is that our mighty Lord may make us vessels of His Grace and Life and that He might unite us as leaders of Youth. United, we could share one another's problems; united, we could draw courage one from the other and uphold one another in prayer.

It was my hope that through this page of the Mennonite, we could clasp hands one with another, but I feel, when my hand reaches out for the clasp, yours is not there. It is a strange, empty feeling.

How can we learn to know each other? Could it be at our next annual meeting of the Endeavor Convention which convenes July 30, 1938? You will remember that our Junior Endeavorers were taken into the Convention at the last meeting. Would it be better if, instead of arranging for a Junior Convention meeting, co-jointly with the Seniors, (but in another room) we arrange a Junior-Leader Convention in which we can become acquainted, discuss our problems and make plans for the future?

What do you think of this? What special phases of the work would you like to have discussed? What are your problems?

I am very anxious to hear from you and wish you God's rich and full and never ceasing blessing upon your life and work.

Sincerely yours,
Joanna S. Andres,
700 East 5th, Newton, Kansas

Go Ye into All the World and Preach the Gospel

Program Suggestions for March 20, 1938

Opening service: For complete suggestions see February 15 issue

1. Song service of mission hymns: in charge of junior chorister
2. Scripture: Rev. 7:9-17
3. Prayer by leader

4. Room III: Our Home Missions. Facts to be drilled:
   a. Where they are (with maps)
   b. The Workers
   (Have you read the report of Mrs. Rev. Suderman in the last Junior Messenger pages? She tells of mission scrap-books which her group is making. How helpful it would be for each Junior Endeavorer to have his scrap book! One for Home Missions and one for Foreign Missions. Miss F. Luella Krehbiel, Clay Center, New York, can supply you with missionary materials needed.)
5. Special music. Mission theme

Study Period. Aim as per February 15 issue

1. Christ's command to do home mission work: by a Junior using Acts 1:8
2. Current events on our home mission fields. Supply your groups with clippings from your publications and let them report on these
3. Repeat in unison verse of the month
4. Sing in unison: "Loyalty to Christ. Verses 1,2,4

Moments of prayer. Out of the Juniors' reports, discuss with the group what specific missionaries or needs they wish to remember in prayer. Write these on the board. After the prayer moments, divide these prayer objects among the group asking them to pray for the same until the following meeting. There are prayer needs in February News and Notes. You could also assign these

Offering: If you are following the suggestion of mission boxes for Easter (see issue February 8), then the offering and the giving of the crosses could be brought forward at the same time

Closing prayer of Thanksgiving for the showers of blessing.

Closing song in unison: "Lord, I hear of Showers of Blessing," verses 1, 2, and 3

QUILT PATCHES! MAY BASKETS!

Can the Juniors do anything about it? Wouldn't they enjoy having a quilt patch offering? Mrs. Rudolphe Petter writes in Missionary News and Notes: "Indian women clamber for them and I have received but few." "They need not be cut," she adds. How long would it take your Juniors to fill a half bushel basket? Why not challenge them to it? Why not have this for a May basket project?

— Zion Menn. Church, Donnellson, Iowa.—On January 10th our congregation held their annual meeting with a good attendance. Rev. Adolph Friesen was unanimously elected to serve our congregation as Pastor for 1938. Hugo Lowenberg was elected to the office of Deacon and Carl Hilty Trustee, for a term of three years.—A. D. Krebill.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, HUTCHINSON, KANS.

Dear Editor and Readers:

Our church had its annual meeting, Dec. 29, 1937. Encouraging reports of the various fields of our church work were given.

Sec. J. K. Froese's report showed much constructive activity of church and church board work. In a comparatively new and struggling church like ours, composed of a membership, formerly of varied Mennonite shades, this complexity logically presents problems for constructive assimilation. Considering this, we are thankful for a membership prompted by the Christion spirit of good will toward a healthy solution of cooperative assimilation of the influx of Mennonites of various shades the respective churches and members, and the Kingdom of Heaven on earth.

Treasurer J. M. Ediger's report showed a financially struggling church. Work to be done. And how to do it?

Our pastor Rev. C. H. Dirk's report was quite encouraging. The services, Sunday morning and evening and midweek Bible study and prayer, were well attended; homes of members and friends, visited; the sick, comforted; Mrs. D. H. Kasper had finished her life's course, leaving behind a loving husband, a little son, parents, brothers, sisters and many friends, to mourn her departure. We received four new members by baptism, six by church letter. While Rev. and Mrs. Dirks were on their vacation, in his old home with his aged mother in the State of Washington, neighbor ministers preached to us. Our summer union meetings on the lawn of the Church of the Brethren on Sunday evenings were appreciated and well attended. We are looking forward to a week of pre-Easter services by Dr. A. Warkentin, Bethel College, in our church.

J. K. Froese was elected deacon to assist C. C. Epp; L. F. Gaeddert chosen trustee to assist J. U. Schmidt and J. M. Ediger; junior midweek Bible superintendent, Mrs. J. M. Ediger, and Mrs. P. E. Griffeth, assistant; C. C. Epp, correspondent. And now: "Go make thy garden fair as thou canst. Thou workest never alone; perhaps he whose plot is next to thine will see it and mend his own."

A furnace was recently installed in our parsonage. Arrangements were also made to put a new roof on our church.

Our Sunday school under the superintendency of Marvin Kroeker is doing well. Our C. E. gives very interesting programs. Our Ladies' Faithful Workers group are an inspiration in their loyalty. Thursday afternoons and evenings the Mennonite working girls in Hutchinson meet in our church basement for recreation, social and spiritual contact, under the sponsorship of Mrs. C. H. Dirks. We hope this social cooperation will react blessings in their later life.

With greetings to all, C. C. Epp, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBR.

Rev. H. Fast of Jansen, Nebr., visited with us Feb. 13. He preached the morning sermon in the German and English language. For his topic he used the Twenty-third Psalm and the first verse. His main thought was to accept the Lord as our Shepherd, our Saviour, and Redeemer. In the evening the Jansen Bible School rendered a program. Rev. Fast, together with Miss Fast and Miss Gage, are in charge of the school. The program consisted of mission study, personal experience, Bible study, and music. They had a class of fifteen students, taking part in a 3 year course.

We have had warm weather up until a few days ago. Then the weather changed and we had very nice snow with sleet, so that the snow did not drift, but made a nice blanket on the fields. Along with the snow we have had zero weather. We are very thankful for the moisture.

Hoping this will not be lost as the correspondence I sent you on Dec. 1, 1937—Waldo Penner, Corr.

DEATHS

WILLIAM D. FAST, son of William and Mary Fast, was born October 4, 1851, in Wolla Wozinska, New Russia. and died Feb. 5, 1938. He was baptized upon the confession of faith in the Lord Jesus Christ on June 20, 1867, and received into the fellowship of the Mennonite Church.

He emigrated to America May 20, 1874, with a colony lead by the late Reverend William Ewert, and located in the vicinity of Summerfield, Ill. Late in 1874 he came to Hillsboro, Kansas. From there he moved to Harvey County, and later to Moundridge, where he has lived for the past 18 years.

Feb. 12, 1884, he was united in marriage with Minnie Miller. He was privileged to live in this marriage nearly 54 years. On Feb. 12, 1934, the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. To this union were born eleven children, all of whom survive, except one daughter Elizabeth, who died on October 28, 1900. In view of the large family, it is remarkable that no death occurred within the immediate family circle for nearly 38 years.

Father was the last of a family of seven children, two step-brothers, John and Frank Ewert, two sisters who died in infancy, and two other sisters, Mrs. Mary Dahlem and Mrs. Anna Dettweiler. He reached the ripe old age of 86 years, 4 months and 1 day. He was a faithful member of the West Zion Church and was anxious and prepared to go to his Heavenly Home.

He leaves to mourn his departure his bereaved widow; ten children, Mary Schmidt of Exeter, Calif., Lydia, Anna Vogt, and Will of Moundridge, Albert of Cord, Ark., Lena Galle of Woodlake, Calif., Emma Jones and Edwin of Newton, Kans., Alice Ransom of Iola, Kans., and Florence Dirks of Ames, Iowa; six sons-in-law, Menno Schmidt, Wesley Vogt, George Jones, Hugo Galle, W. A. Ransom and I. T. Dirks; two daughters-in-law, Mrs. Carrie Fast and Mrs. Mary Fast; twenty-four grandchildren, five brothers-in-law, and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 8, at the West Zion Church. Rev. P. K. Regier officiated and was assisted by Rev. Herbert Miller of Deer Creek, Okla., a nephew of the family.

DAVID D. UNRUH died at his home in Reedley, Calif., on Feb. 14th, aged 76 years, 6 months and 8 days. He was born in Russian Poland in 1861. In 1874 he came, with his parents, to America and they made their home near Hillsboro, Kans. Here he was received by baptism into the Mennonite Church.

In the year 1890 he was united in marriage with Katherine Buller, and the Lord blessed their union with 3 children. His wife died in 1894. A year later he married Helene Koehn. This union was blessed with 6 children.

In the year 1927 he came to California and made his home with his children. About two months ago he was afflicted with an abnormal growth in his lungs. He bore his suffering patiently, in resignation to the will of God. He leaves his 9 children and 3 grandchildren to mourn his death.

Funeral services were held in the First Mennonite Church on Feb. 16, at which Bro. H. J. Krehbiel spoke words of comfort and hope on the text Ps. 90:12.

DR. E. A. BENTZINGER. — January 3, 1938, there died in an Omaha hospital, Dr. E. A. Bentzinger, the oldest son of Henry and Katy (nee Rings) Bentzinger, and grandson of Henry Ellenberger, the first pastor of the Zion Mennonite Church of Donnellson, Iowa. Born on a farm near Donnellson, he spent his childhood and youth in that community. He received his religious instruction from Rev. Chr. Schowalter, was baptized and became a member of Zion Mennonite Church, to which his parents belonged. Later he attended Howe's Academy and Iowa Wesleyan College at Mount Pleasant, Iowa. Had there been an opening for him in a Mennonite church at that time, he would likely have remained with our denomination. But as it was, he joined the Methodist Church and first served a number of small Methodist churches. However, it was not long until his ability as a pastor, as a builder and organizer was recognized by his conference, and so he was asked to serve some of the larger churches of his district. For a number of years he was Superintendent of the Burlington District. At the time of his death he was pastor of the First Methodist Church of Shenandoah, Iowa. He was 61 years old at his death.—P. P. Hilty.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hanston, Kansas writes, among other things, "I noticed the 'Jotting' about the KINDERBOTE—JUNIOR MESSENGER. I should like to interest our families in this publication. Will you kindly send me samples." What other ministers in whose church the paper is not read will follow Brother Bechtel's good example. Continuing he says, "This part of the country has had some moisture recently—sleet, rain and snow—probably about four inches. This will help some to relieve the dust situation. We hope that the drought is broken at last. I notice your nice list of correspondents in the last Mennonite. This should mean much of interesting news from the different churches. That's fine!"

—From Monthly News Letter, Salem Menn. Church, Freeman, S. D.—The Song Book Committee is still at work. The Pastor spent an inspiring week in the Swiss Church near Whitewater, Kans. Bro. Theo. Roth, the pastor, is an all-around farmer. He runs a house-to-house dairy route in Whitewater, with the help of his boys. He is a member of the Whitewater School Board.—Sermon subject next Sunday, "Fair and Foul Weather."

—From Bulletin, First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—Sunday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p. m., the Swiss Men's Chorus of this community gave a sacred concert. The silver offering went for the benefit of the Bluffton Community Hospital.—Yes, our General Conference deeply feels the passing of two of our men of influence and ability in rendering service in His work. They will continue to live long in the memories of those who had close contacts with them.

—Bulletin of Germantown Menn. Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—This is from the oldest Mennonite church in America, in the nature of an annual report. It is a small church, with some thirty members. Rev. Howard T. Landes, 6813 Clearview St., Germantown, Pennsylvania, is the faithful pastor. He reports the passing of the 95 years old sister, Mrs. Mary Grossman. He urges: "Let us carry with us, in the coming year, the scripture passage given in Acts 5:24; 'Daily in every house they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ.'" The receipts from all sources were $981.49, the expenditures, $928.74.

—A Telling Answer.—When Mr. Beecher was asked how it was that his church was such a success, he replied, "Why, I preach on Sunday, and then I have four hundred and fifty members who go out on Monday and preach the same gospel all the week." In this same way, by the life he leads, every follower of Christ may proclaim the Lord.—The Vine Press.

—Eicher Mennonite Church, Wayland, Ia.—Rev. Delbert E. Welty reports Miss Mary Rich, Crawfordsville, Iowa, as their correspondent.

—From "The Herald" of the Upland Mennonite Church.—The Young People have just finished a five weeks study of Mennonite History, based on the book, MENNO SIMONS, by C. H. Smith.—Our membership, according to the Pastor's report is 334. During the year there were 23 gains and 6 losses, leaving a net gain of 17. The total includes non-residents and non-active members, approximately 80 in all. Be sure to read Rev. Hostetler's splendid article, A Pastor's Chat, in this issue.—Editor.

—From Bulletin, Mennonite Church at Hutchinson, Kans.—The Bible Class in Prophecy is growing. There were 28 present in the Senior department and about the same number in the Junior department. God's Word appeals to the heart.—A service will be conducted at the County Home next Sunday at 2:30.

—Menn. Church, Aberdeen, Idaho.—We are happy that the new addition to our church building is ready for use. It now has a comfortable seating capacity for five hundred.—The combined choirs are practising "Bright Easter Morn", by E. K. Heyer, under the direction of Gus Klempel, with Mary E. Giesbrecht at the piano.—Reporter.

—First Church, Nappanee, Ind.—Rev. Carl J. Landes, Sec. of Menn. Peace Society, was with us Feb. 20 and 21. Subjects of his addresses: "Our Responsibility" and "Where Ought Mennonites to Stand?" He also conducted a round table discussion on the question of war and peace. His messages were challenges to us Mennonites to take a definite part in showing the world the way of peace.—Corresp. Sec.

—From The Mennonite Peace Society of Bluffton, Ohio, we have a copy of an appeal addressed to the Chairman and Members of the House Naval Affairs Committee at Washington, which our readers will appreciate reading, but for which we can hardly spare the space this time.

—"Messenger", Second Church, Philadelphia.—Miss Catherine Niswander, assistant to Rev. J. J. Plenert of the First Church brought us comforting words and an inspiring message last Sunday. Next Sunday, Feb. 27, Rev. I. I. Friesen will supply the pulpit.—Rev. D. D. Eitzen, chairman of the Y. P. Committee of the General Conference will address the Young People's Rally at the Zion Church, Souderton, at 2:30, on Sunday, March 13.

—The Bethany Messenger, Freeman, S. D.—"Funds are being collected in the different districts of the General Conference toward the establishment of a Conference printing plant to be placed at a central location. Might we not consider this project seriously, for it is an important factor in the security of our interesting and sacred tradition as Mennonites."

—Prayer changes things, even our prejudices. Even an ordinary man may give God his best.—People who always follow the largest crown never become great. Adventures of faith may be undertaken without leaving home.—C. H. Dirks.

AND WHOSE SHALL THOSE THINGS BE THAT THOU HAST PROVIDED? Luke 10:20.—Lately our attention has repeatedly been called to the fact, that the time may be very near, even in this "free" land of ours, when some one else will control the possessions which we call "our own". The attempt will be, to control also our time, our thoughts, our person, our beliefs, and what not, so that we become a mere "number". That is the strong tendency in the world today, and so it is predicted in the Word of God. Knowing this, that soon we may not be free to contribute to all the good causes that we now do—sometimes so very meagerly—should we not give very much more liberally to missions, relief, and other charities? not only the Tenth of our present income, which is a good rule for ordinary times. A good brother, who knows, once told us that if all our church members would give the Tenth, we could do ten times as much missionary and all other conference work as we are doing now. And what could we do if we would give in view of the above conditions! Let at least those who see "things coming" act accordingly. What remorse, what wailing there will be, when we will see our possessions fully controlled by the iron hand of an un-Christian government! We need only remember Russia. But other lands are following. In Germany very little may be sent out of the land for missions and the like. Yes, whose shall those things be that you have provided? For whom did I save them? See the wide open doors in most heathen lands! Let us have ears to hear the calls from everywhere. Let us act, ere it is too late. Oh, the heart-breaking remorse: "O, if I had . . . in time . . . ."—J. B. Epp.

HELPING OUR BROTHER.—One of the outstanding things in the life of Jesus was his desire and willingness to help others. He did not think of self, but rather did what he could to improve the conditions of those with whom he came in contact. He relieved the pain and discomfort of those physically handicapped. Likewise He relieved those who were distressed of mind. Not only did he hold to this in the House of Worship but whenever and wherever he found a need. We as Christians, profess to be His followers, taking our example from what he did. But do we make a real effort to help those who are in need, either physically or mentally? Are we willing to sit down and talk over the thing that is causing some one mental distress? Are we in such a hurry that we cannot pause to help carry someone's load? Sometimes, I fear, we are too busy worrying about ourselves to even think of others, let alone help them. One reason, I think, that a lot of people are not in church today is that, while we have preached Jesus, we have not been careful in our living to show Him to other people in our actions, by not considering the value of the human life and soul. Jesus was never too busy to assist those needing help. Therefore, dare we ever think that we are too busy to help some one along the highway of life?—Walter H. Temple.

TARDINESS AT CHURCH.—Some people who are punctual in being at their place of business or work on week days, apparently find it difficult to be at church in time on Sunday. This is often due to late hours out on Saturday night for amusement, visiting, or otherwise, which has become a custom with large numbers of Christian people in America. Others reason that, since Sunday is intended principally as a day of rest, they must look, first of all, to their bodily comfort. People of these groups naturally extend the period of sleep farther into Sunday and are apt to be late to church. And, Sunday being sort of a feast day, with guests for dinner, the women folks work hard in preparing for it, are tired, try to get strength for the new day and are hardly apt to be ready for a timely start to church. These are practices that lead us away from the simple life for which our forebears and even our parents were known. We older folks will remember that getting to church late Sundays was once much less common than now, and that in spite of the fact that many families had to drive several miles in horse-drawn vehicles. On Saturday evening family worship was held at a timely hour and in some homes extended to include a brief study of the Sunday school lesson. Then all would retire at a seasonable hour, to rise refreshed at a set time, to do the necessary work, and then be off to church early enough to be able to greet friends before service began. —What is the harm in coming to church late? First of all, it causes distraction from the spirit of worship and meditation that should prevail in the church. It also shows a lack of proper regard for the feelings of other people who are being disturbed. It is discouraging to the minister, for might there not be a lack of interest in things spiritual behind tardiness? It is robbing God of part of the time that belongs to him in worship, not only of the late comers but the entire congregation.

If thou turn away from—doing thy pleasure on MY HOLY DAY and call the Sabbath a delight, and the holy of Jehovah honorable, and thou shalt honor it, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words, then shalt thou delight thyself in Jehovah; and I will make thee to ride upon the high places of the earth, etc.—Is. 58:13.

Announcement

In accordance with an agreement reached by the inviting church and the officers of the conference, the Fiftieth Session of the Middle District Conference is to be held at the Trenton, Ohio, Mennonite Church, beginning Thursday evening, June 16, 1938, and ending on Sunday, June 19.

The above dates were also agreed to by the Ministers present at the Ministers' Meeting held at Bluffton College, in connection with the Bible Lectures a few weeks ago.

E. J. Hirschler, Chm. Middle Dist. Conf.

Announcement and Invitation

The Lord willing, our church is to be dedicated on Sunday afternoon, March 20th, beginning at 1:45 P. M.

We herewith extend a hearty invitation to participate in giving thanks to God for the 30 years of blessings in the new church, the building of which the Lord has prospered to its completion, for which we also wish to give thanks.

There is also to be an evening program, chiefly for the young people.

For the basement we will install a loud speaker, so that all will be able to hear.

The Women's society wishes to have it announced that they will be ready to serve coffee and hot water to all who do not have to go home for supper, but will bring their evening lunch along. Cups will also be provided.

Thus a few hours of fellowship will be possible, which also has its place and value on such occasions.

In the name of the Tabor church,
P. H. Richert, Elder.

—Bethel College.—Work on the new Memorial Hall is being pushed as rapidly as weather conditions permit. Excavation is completed and construction of the foundation is about to take on form.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

"THE LORD'S DOING."

It may be of interest to readers of "The Mennonite," if I share some of the encouraging reports we get from time to time from our Chinese coworkers as they come in from the country and tell us about the things that are surely "the Lord's doing" and "marvellous in our eyes." Such reports have been coming in from Nanlo, 15 miles southeast of Taming, where our Mission has a church with about 45 baptized Christians, a large number of enquirers, and a Boys' Day School. Two evangelists, two Biblewomen and a teacher have been in charge of the work there. Last spring the Mission tent had a successful series of meetings in the villages southeast of Nanlo and this spring we were privileged to see some of the fruit gathered in. Praise His Name!

March 16 to 26 a station class was held with some 40 enrolled. April 18 the Layman's Bible School of one month opened with 17 enrolled. Mr. Brown was asked to hold special meetings for three days, which were very much appreciated. May 16, on Pentecost Sunday, nine were baptized and received into the church, and communion was partaken of by 38 people.

Mrs. Li Yin Hsuan, a young evangelistic worker, one of our own Bible School graduates who went there for these classes, told of the working of God's Spirit in the lives of the women. During the Instruction class there were three in particular who were troubled about past sins. She noticed their unhappiness and invited them, one after the other to come to her room upstairs and spend the night with her. Speaking informally to them she led them to unburden their hearts to her. Finally their sin and bondage was seen in the light of Christ's redeeming love and was unburdened at the foot of the cross.

After the three days of special meetings, at which Brother Brown dwelt on the disobedience of Man of God in I Kings 13, the listeners were again urged to confess any sins that they had not cleared out of their lives. At that time seven more confessed. These had really repented last year, at the time of the tent meetings, but we find that the first time the idea of sin is so vague and the convert's conception of the love of God in Christ still so inadequate, that first confessions usually do not go very deep.

Mrs. Ch'eng's story will illustrate this point. She had a misunderstanding with her husband who runs a small food shop. A neighbor Christian invited her to the special meetings. When she saw other women kneeling in prayer and confessing their sins, she was very ill at ease and went from the chapel to the gateroom, from the women's room out into the yard again, very much perturbed. When asked, what the matter was, she said, everywhere people were after her to confess her sins, in the chapel the preaching was to her, outdoors the "tall person" (Biblewoman Mrs. Li) was after her to confess her sins. The evangelist explained to her that this was the Spirit of God working in her heart. She said it made her afraid and she would go home. But later she went upstairs and confessed some lesser sins such as bad temper, quarreling with her husband, etc. The next day she was back but still troubled and tried to avoid the Bible woman. The third day, very miserable, she went to her and was ready for real "deep sharing". She told of how she was a "very bad person", how she had had her mind made up to take her husband's life, how her temper and hate gained entire control of her sometimes. Thus realizing the very dangerous condition of this woman's soul, Li Yin Hsuan talked long and earnestly with her, prayed with her, and implored God's Spirit to come upon her and cleanse her through the Blood. Peace came and after that the woman came every day fairly clinging to the Biblewoman for her life, as it were. She bought books and tried to learn to read Scripture verses and memorize them. At times her old temper gains control, or her husband, still an unconverted man, starts a quarrel. Then she comes to the chapel for help.

How much love and patience is needed on the part of evangelistic workers, readers will appreciate. When people see the Biblewoman walk on the street with such a woman they say, "Can such a one be changed? Does the Jesus church want people like she?" To which we answer, "Yes, because, 'God is not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance'. II Peter 3:9."—Matilda K. Voth.

Christian Education

EDUCATION IN THE LIGHT OF THE BIBLE

A. S. Rosenberger

Any educational program set up by the Christian church should certainly conform to the spirit and light of the Bible. Our Christian colleges today want to be Biblical in their interpretation of life and their approach to its truths.

Education is a function of the Christian church. The earliest educational institutions in this country were founded by the church, primarily for the training of ministers. Many of these institutions have departed from this ideal and from their church affiliations, but there still exist a vast number of denominational schools which are affiliated with church groups. Every loyal Mennonite will want to see our own school offer to the church and young people a thoroughly Christian program of preparation for life. Some time ago it occurred to the writer to seek some passages which might indicate the light of the Bible on the educational process. The Bible is not a textbook on education, but it does contain sound educational principles and emphasizes the value of teaching.

(1) In Deuteronomy 6:1-9 we have a remarkable passage emphasizing the duty of the elders to impart proper instruction to their children. It is the sacred duty of every generation to impart its heritage and understanding of truth to the next.

One of our college professors is responsible for the statement that through our educational process we can make of our young people whatever we want them to be.

This idea seems to be in agreement with Moses as indicated in his vigorous words of responsibility to the fathers of Israel.

Modern education today makes use of the approach through the eyes as well as the ears, in other words uses sight as well as hearing. Visual education is one of the newest things in the field of education. Have we ever noticed how modern Moses was in his day in emphasizing the way in which the great commandments of Israel were to be kept vividly before the children that "they were to be bound for a sign upon the hand to be as frontlets between the eyes and to be written upon the doorposts of the house, and upon the gates"?

It is Biblical therefore to provide for young people the best possible training and preparation for life.

This discussion will be continued further in this column in succeeding issues.

Statement to the Naval Affairs Committee

By the Executive Committee of the Mennonite Peace Society, Bluffton, Ohio

Mr. Chairman and Members of The House Naval Affairs Committee:

Upon consideration of the issues involved in the supplementary naval program, now before your committee, we feel obligated to make our position clear. This naval expansion is in serious conflict with our fundamental religious convictions and the philosophy of peace, as held by members of The Mennonite Peace Society, whom we represent.

We have a genuine respect for those who sincerely believe that armaments "stabilize for peace"; but we cannot share these convictions. We believe that armaments never make for peace, but always make for war.

We cherish the high degree of religious freedom and democracy which Americans enjoy. We favor all genuine efforts to protect these high ideals. We commend the administration's Reciprocal Trade Agreements as a genuine policy to relieve the terrific international economic tension. We urge Congress and the President to go even further in extending a genuine hand of Friendship and Understandig to all the nations of the world. Such policies would indeed help "defend" our priceless heritage and preserve the peace of the world.

But we seriously question the supplementary naval program. We are convinced that this program will not preserve peace, but lead to war, which can be only disastrous to both conqueror and vanquished.

We oppose this naval program in particular and all war in general for several definite reasons:

(1) Because this type of "defense" violates all that is sacred to us in our Religious Faith. Granted for the moment (which we do not grant in fact) that war does "defend", we would still find it necessary to oppose it with our very lives, because we follow One who said, "He that saveth his life shall lose it-- as you would have others do unto you, do ye even so to them—Love your enemies, bless them which curse you and pray for them which despitefully use you . . . ." etc.

We deeply regret Japanese invasion in China. We regret all injustice between nations and individuals. But the U. S. is not free from guilt for what is happening in the Far East; and even though if we as a nation were guiltless, bombs, gas and tanks can never bring justice to any people.

This is not a time for dealing out "vengeance" upon nations who are only too well copying our own imperialism, but rather a time for humble repentance on our part, and a time for extending a hand of Friendship and Understanding to nations which may have some reasons for not trusting us too much.

We oppose this gigantic naval supplement because it violates our Religious Faith in God and in Man.

(2) Again, we oppose this naval program, because we have a conviction that modern war never protects nor defends, but destroys. History bears out the fact that "they that take the sword shall perish by the sword." We respect those who would themselves, and who would send their sons into the trenches, sincerely, to defend our country. But we feel that they are sadly mistaken, in that they are actually taking the first step toward destroying the very ideals they seek to defend.

Since this is our fundamental conviction, we must raise our voices in protest against the administration's plans to supplement the navy.

(3) Again, we oppose this program because we feel that the main purposes underlying its proposal are not for "preservation of peace," but for the defense of markets, commerce and investments on foreign soil and in foreign waters.

We have many young people who would gladly lay down their lives in some positive, unselfish sacrifice, which would guarantee the blessings of democracy and religious freedom to future generations. But the spirit of hatred, falsehood, murder, which accompany the battlefield, denies that spirit of unselfish, Christ-like service to Humanity.

Our young people frankly tell us that they do not propose to be fooled as their fathers were. They are familiar with the secret letters which were exchanged between Washington D. C. and our American Embassy in London in 1916 and 1917. They are aware that early in 1916 Colonel House had already promised the U. S. to the Allies, "if we were needed"—six months before we re-elected a president "because he kept us out of war."

They are also familiar with the letter of Ambassador Page on March 5, 1917, in which he forgot to mention that the U. S. was to enter the war to "end war" or "make the world safe for democracy"; but he did mention "trade," "profits," "preeminent trade position," "averting a panic in the United States," etc.

Our young people say that they are not interested in defending our "markets," "trade," "investments"; and we support them in their convictions with our own.

(4) Finally, we must oppose this naval program because we feel that the consequences of this back-breaking tax burden will spell economic disaster in the last analysis. This protection of our foreign dollars may be sound economy for the favored few whose dollars are protected, at the taxpayer's expense; but it means final bankruptcy for the common people. Which means that, in the end, it will also spell ruination for those who now profit by this uncivilized economic and military warfare.

The Mennonites whom we represent are among the most law-abiding groups of people in the United States. We endorse every positive effort to build Goodwill, Understanding, Peace. But we are unalterablely opposed to war as a method and all policies which lead to war.

We believe that the nations must now find a non-violent technique for settling conflicts or suffer serious losses in democracy and freedom;

We believe that the United States is in a unique position to lead in the search for this better way;

We believe that the naval expansion planned will be a definite hinderance in meeting this responsibility and opportunity for world leadership in the building of genuine peace;

Therefore, humbly, but firmly, we urge congress to reject this naval expansion program which your committee is considering.

Respectfully,

(Signed) S. K. Mosiman, President

Carl Landes, Executive Secretary; Helen I. Dieler, Recording Secretary; Harry Yoder, Vice President, per the Secretary; Delvin Kirchhofer, Treasurer.

ONE KINGDOM

Daniel 7:13, 14; Luke 13:29; Rev. 7:9, 10

J. J. Balzer

The great hour of testing had arrived for God's chosen people, Israel. The dispensation of the law for this people was fast coming to its close. A hermit from the wilderness broke in upon the preoccupation of the city of Jerusalem with the startling announcement: "The Kingdom of God is at hand." John the Baptist anticipated, as others had done, that this Kingdom would come by methods of swift reform and harsh enforcements.

"The ax is laid to the root of the tree; His fan is in His hands; He shall separate the grain from the chaff." Thus he saw the King in action. He foresaw stern treatment of wrong and sweeping changes in every department of life.

The judgment of wickedness was imminent. Society would be sifted out; evil was marked for destruction.

Not long had he to wait for the arrival of the King. He came to him for baptism, and he saw the Holy Ghost visibly coming down from heaven to anoint Him. He heard the declaration of the Father: "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

Jesus, the King, stepped upon the plain and began His work in much the same way as John had, by the proclamation, "The Kingdom of God is at hand." But soon John became disappointed. The methods of Jesus disappointed him so utterly that he feared he had been too precipitate. "Art thou He that should come," he inquired from his prison, "or look we for another?"

What was the real meaning of that wonderful proclamation, "The Kingdom of God is at hand?" It was this: The history of the world should become "One History"; the history of righteousness as the history of God.

"Down they come, Down they come!" said Arnold reviving the succession of the fallen empires, "and all for the lack of righteousness." Evil in its nature is decay, corruption, death. The one permanent force in the world is righteousness. There is an old proverb that upholds the truth: "One unrighteous penny devours 99 righteous." It is the crowning characteristic and attribute of the Kingdom of God.

For long generations the hopes of Israel had been sustained by the vision of Messiah's Kingdom. Prophets and Psalmists saw afar the golden age of glory; it was the subject of the shepherd's meditation while he tended his flocks; men around the campfires at night discussed the prophetic visions of the seers. Through national captivity and calamity, through individual disasters and failures, this hope was kept alive in the breasts of men. The darker the period, the brighter shone the vision of the future day, when the reign of Messiah would be established in the history and experience of Israel and righteousness would prevail in the earth, and all Kings would worship Him and all nations serve Him.

Jesus made it clear, quite clear in His ministry, that the Kingdom of God was not to come by political organization, military revolution, or public demonstration. It was to come by slow process of growth and unobstructive development. But the ultimate triumph was assured: "They shall come from the East and the West, from the North and the South and shall sit down in the Kingdom of God." This great vision was communicated in response to a question of apprehension and timid faith—"Are there few that be saved?" The enterprise of Jesus was not to end in a feeble and narrow creation, but in a triumph of unlimited dimensions.

When He went out one day and called two men to follow Him, the history of the Kingdom made a definite beginning. Next day the two became four; in a short time the four became twelve, and, following the specific numerical increase, the twelve became seventy. At the close of His earthly ministry there were 120 assembled in an upper room and 500 on a mount in Galilee. On the day of Pentecost 3000 were added to the Church. Then figures and statistics were dropped, and the next reference to numbers is expressed in the book of Acts as, great multitudes were added to the Church or, and daily were added to the Church those that believed. And the book of Revelation proves the insufficiency of arithmetical estimates, when it says, "A great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations and kindreds, and people and tongues, stood before the Throne and before the Lamb."

We remember Daniel Webster's vision of the arriving multitudes, coming to settle and cultivate the uninhabited wastes of American bush and prairie. John Bright's forecast carries the ideal stage farther: "It may be but a vision but I will cherish it. I see one vast federation stretch from the frozen North to the glowing South, and from the wild waves of the Atlantic to the calm waters of the Pacific. I see one people and one language, one law and one faith over all the continent, the home of freedom and the refuge of the oppressed of every race and clime."

But, however remote it may appear, the vision of Jesus Christ is infinitely larger than any that ever dawned upon the imagination of man. His kingdom owns no qualification of race, and no frontier or boundary of administration. Christ is in all lands and among all peoples, setting "whosoever will" free from sin, and enabling them to do the will of God as subjects of His Kingdom.

I. The Character of the Kingdom

Now let us look at some of the signs of this Kingdom of Christ, and consider first the character of it. The Kingdom derives its character from the King. He is the first essential of the Kingdom. He is to inaugurate the reign of God in the hearts and lives of men. "The Kingdom of God is at hand"—because the King has come. His word has gone forth; His Spirit is at work; He summons men to repentance. Jesus does not suit His words to the hopes and ambitions of men. The Kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness, joy, and peace; not physical comfort and temporal security, but moral rectitude and spiritual purity. Jesus ordered His own life on that daring scale, though it cost Him hunger and left Him homeless. There are some things more necessary than daily bread. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and all else will follow." Every social justice and economic advantage follow inevitably when all men do the will of God.

The prophetic visions of the Kingdom in the Old Testament often assumed a temporal form with all the temporal blessings indulged in peace, prosperity and security. But there was always an undertone of deeper things connected with it. "The man who would ascend unto the hill of God should have clean hands and a pure heart, and a humble spirit, and undefiled lips; he should do justly and love mercy and walk humbly with God."

The task of the Church is to conquer the whole of man's life and the uttermost parts of the earth. Christ gained His Kingdom by dying for it. His death emphasizes the nature of the Kingdom. He Himself gives the qualifying character to all believing men. By His life and by His passion He has the right to urge the practice of righteousness at any cost.The loss of an eye or the loss of a limb—a maimed body—is better than a tarnished name or a defiled spirit.

II. The Unity of the Kingdom

The Kingdom derives its unity from the King. The dream of a unified empire or a unified world has inspired the imagination of all ages. Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, Alexander of Macedonia, Caesar of Rome, Napoleon of France, Charlemagne of Germany, England and Spain used all their moral and temporal forces to bring about the union of the world. They all failed. For the unification of the world is not to be attained by the triumph of one race and the extermination of the rest.

Neither can commerce unite the race; despite the absolute interdependence of all peoples, and the inevitable loss of supplies, war has crashed in upon all schemes of international association.

Culture has failed to refine the ambitions of men beyond the savagery of war. Education without godliness only increases the ingenuity and inventions of evil.

We begin at the wrong end when we assert that, "when there is one science, one commerce, one civilization, one culture, then one morality will assert itself, and one faith will find a congenial environment. Must not faith, must not true Christianity prepare for all good? Is not godliness the indispensable condition of all the rest? Indeed, and the prophet Isaiah and Micah forsee and foretell a time and condition of of righteousness at the time of the second coming of the Messiah of Israel our precious Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ who shall then bring about those conditions of not only a united nation but a universal union of the Kingdom of the world. How wonderful and how blessed are these promises; "But in the last days it shall come to pass that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and the people shall flow into it. And many nations shall come and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord and to the house of the God of Jacob, and He will teach us His ways, and we will walk in His paths; for the law shall go forth of Zion and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem. And He will judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore. But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his figtree, and none shall make them afraid; for the mouth of the Lord has spoken it." (Isaiah 2 and Micah 5).

And the apostle St. John is with the prophets of old and sees the fulfillment of this order of conditions as shown him in the vision: "A great multitude, that no man could number, of all kindreds, and peoples and tongues stood before the Throne and the Lamb."

So Christ will finally break down all barriers, and all walls of division. The confusion of tongues at Babel and the separation of nations of 4000 years ago shall be restored back again to that state of union which once existed before that confusion.

In the fellowship of Jesus Christ every dividing influence and every distinctive passion dies. The Kingdom finds its unity in the King.

III. The Continuity of the Kingdom

The Kingdom of God extends over all ages. The faithful of all generations are in its membership: "Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets and saints in the Kingdom of God." The wide sweep of Christ's thoughts and purpose may be beyond our understanding, but every heart throbs before the picture of the magnitude of His Kingdom. "Friends, we are treading where the saints have trod."

The Kingdom unites its subjects by community of service: "Other men labored, and we are entered into their labors." Their work is completed at our hands. They without us shall not be made perfect. All lands and all climes, all ages and all races have their gifts to bring into the Kingdom.

When we give the Gospel to another tribe of people, we are getting as well as giving, we are increasing the common good of the world and of the Church, we are increasing the fullness of the revelation of Christ, we are learning to comprehend with all saints, "What is the breadth and length and depth and height of the Love that is in Christ Jesus." Every contribution on my part enriches the store of all the rest.

IV. The Universality of the Kingdom

The Kingdom extends to all races and nations. Jesus swept the whole world within the range of His vision. "They shall come from the north and from the south, from the east and from the west and sit down in the Kingdom of God."

An extraordinary variety of peoples was represented in the multitude that were assembled at Jerusalem, when Peter preached his Penticostal sermon. It was one of the first efforts of broadcasting, and it was singularily successful. The Epistles of Paul cover a wide field of culture and nationality and reveal the great object of God: the extensive distribution of Christian influence and experience. He established a correspondence with people in widely scattered districts and remote cities. John's vision on Patmos has the support of apostolic precedent. He saw a multitude of all nations, kindreds, peoples and tongues before the throne, forming one company, in one attitude and in one dress.

Down in Holland at The Hague stands the Peace Temple, which must deeply impress everyone who sees it or reads about it. It is a wonderful symbolic structure. The entrance gates are the gifts of Germany. The terraced steps are the gifts of Norway and Sweden. The great clock in the tower represents Switzerland. From Japan came rich tapestries. From Turkey the finest carpets. France sent beautiful pictures. England gave stained glass-windows. Spain carved inkstands. A statue of Christ came from Argentine. There are many other things from other lands, but what it suggests to us is this: A day shall come when all nations represented in that structure shall join hands and become the habitation of God, and the voice of Revelation, chapter 7, shall ring through this universe: "Behold the tabernacle of God is with men, and He will dwell with them, and they shall be His people, and God Himself shall be with them and be their God."

Once they were fallen men, marred by sin and iniquity—yes, dead in sin and trespasses; but the Gospel of Christ came to them, and a wonderful change was brought about. Their hearts were transformed; their sins, forgiven; they were justified by faith and now stand before the Throne of God—glorified.

And there were great voices in heaven, saying, "The Kingdoms of the world are become the Kingdoms of the Lord and of His Christ, and He shall reign forever and ever."

Are you, dear reader, longing for this change? For nearly 6000 years this poor world and all creatures have been in bondage of sin and human government, enslaved and taxed for many ungodly purposes. Are you willing to help promote this marvelous and glorious change? May God help us all. Amen.

SERMON SKETCH

Notes for the last Sermon prepared by Rev. Silas M. Grubb, Feb. 5, 1938, just as they were found on his study table by the family.

SHOW US THE FATHER, John 14:8

I. There is something within the soul that hungers for God.

The Buddist, gazing over the sea, hoping to lose himself in Nervanna. The Pilgrim to Mecca, going over hot sands, hoping to be closer to Alla by having been in Mecca.

Those who erected the altar "To the Unknown God" wanted to come closer to the Almighty than by just visiting temples and looking upon statues.

I have great respect for the Monk or Nun who wants to get away from the world, by entering a convent, in order to lead a holier life—but the battle only begins there, for they carry within them the world, the flesh, and the devil.

I have looked upon some pictures of strange idols—the bloody stone of the Mejichus, the elephant-headed images of India, the whiskey barrel with crude wooden image of a man seated on it of the New Hebredees, black nail-covered image from Congo-Africa.

It is with pity that we look upon such things, remembering that they sought God and this was the only thing they found.

II. The Various definitions of Religion.

1. Some call it a clever invention of priests to get power.

2. Some would say that, in the presence of the strange and mysterious, men are afraid.

3. Others would find it in the meaning of the word "that which binds us to God".

Truly we are religious and reach after God.

III. Sometimes people have a misconception of God.

1. Like a clock-maker who winds up the machine and goes away.

2. A pantheistic idea—God everything and everything God.

3. God just a beginning—a first cause.

4. God who may be bought with gifts: The gold is mine, silver is mine, cattle on a thousand hills.

IV. To know God rightly is to know Jesus.

1. The whole Bible an unfolding of God through Jesus in the story of redemption.

2. Jesus came to reveal God as a God of love. (a) He showed him as a God who desired Holiness. (b) He exemplified God as one who would have us serve.

V. How we may know God.

1. God may be known as the Creator—that is only a matter of reason.

2. God may be known as a Ruler—that is a matter of observation—nations who abandon God are abandoned by Him.

3. God may be known as a Judge—there can be no love in creeping tremblingly into his presence.

4. God is OUR FATHER—a most intimate relation. He loves to give good gifts. We love to be near Him. (a) We need God as a FATHER. We need forgiveness. We need patience.

VI. Conclusion

1. To seek to know God is our life's first business.
2. To know God is to be brave in the face of trouble.
3. To know God is to know peace.
4. To know God is to love God's children.

KEEPING THE BODY STRONG

Mark 6:53-56; Judges 13:12-14; I Cor. 3:16, 17; Rom. 12:1, 2.

Since the unfortunate repeal of our 18th amendment has opened the flood-gates for the free flow of intoxicating drink to do its hellish work on our boys and girls, fathers and mothers, we have been able to see, in some measure, the extent of the calamity. It is becoming increasingly evident that our nation has been scandalously duped. How gullible the majority were. Not one of the promises of the repealists has come true. Today many newspapers and magazines carry attractive but misleading advertisements to lead people to believe that the use of liquors and tobacco is helpful in various ways.

Many Seek Bodily Healing vs. 53-56

After feeding the 5,000, Jesus asked the disciples to cross to the west side of the sea of Galilee (v53). A storm arose during the night, Jesus, walking on the waters, came to them and quieted the storm. As soon as they came out of the ship, they were recognized (v54) and word was spread quickly that He had come. The needy and helpless were brought to Him for help. He is the infallible helper and healer today. The people had faith in Him (v56), and as many as touched Him "were made whole". They who were sick were not "whole" bodily, not sound. Contact with Jesus made them whole. One can not touch Jesus and remain the same as before.

God's Message to Mothers vs. 12-14

Manoah and his wife were awaiting the coming of the promised son (vs3,5). He, as a wise father, inquires of the angel of the Lord, how they shall direct the child's life (v12). Childhood and parenthood are both greatly blessed when parents ask God to direct them. The angel states clearly that certain things must be observed by fathers and mothers before the child's birth (vs4,7,14). Mothers need to guard their bodily health well, so the child may have a healthy body. Pure motherhood is necessary for strong children. Injuring the body with strong drink, tobacco and harmful eating is also injuring the child physically and morally. Children are affected very noticeably by what parents do—God's law of heredity. The drinking—even very moderately—the smoking mother is sowing the seed of deadly poison in the very life-blood of her child.

Our Body—a Temple of God vs. 16, 17

Paul says our human body is God's temple in which His Spirit dwells while we live (v16). It behooves us to keep these bodies prayerfully clean, inwardly as well as outwardly, so that they be indeed a fit dwelling place for His Spirit. God dwells among men in human beings. This temple of our body, we can easily defile by that which we take into it—strong drink, tobacco, injurious eating. God holds each one responsible for the proper use of the body entrusted to him (v17). God can not permit any indulgence which defiles and weakens the body to go unpunished. He wants it to be kept holy.

Life, a Living Sacrifice. vs. 1, 2

Paul beseeches each Christian—he is writing to such—to yield fully all of his faculties of mind and body to God—"a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to Him." Through the body all the evil in sinful hearts reveals itself. So also the new life, acceptable to God, shines forth through the body. It is only reasonable that we should so wholly consecrate our bodily faculties to His service (v1). In this service we must not conform to the customs of the world when they are unchristian and ungodly. The Christian's life is controlled by an inner motive, by a new life within, renewing his mind and heart—a spiritual transformation. A changed, spiritually renewed, mind will reveal itself in a changed person. Then the body, God's temple, will be guarded against defilement.

— A Laudable Service.— Brother Willie Voran, a missionary-minded member of the Garden Mennonite Church near Halstead, Kans., recently completed a house-to-house canvass of his congregation, for subscriptions, new and renewal, to our church papers, with these results: With a membership of 40 families, 7 of them take the "Bundesbote," 23 "the Mennonite," 3 both papers, and 7 neither. Based on subscriptions, the church thus has a 82.5 percent, based on the number of subscribers a 90 per cent record, while 17.5 percent of its families are not subscribing. It would appear, therefore, that the Garden Church probably surpasses the other churches in the General Conference in subscriptions to our church periodicals. We heartily thank Brother Voran, an intelligent, progressive young farmer, for his unselfish, worthwhile service. If every other churches in our Conference could find a sister or brother who would emulate, in his or her congregation, the example set before them by this good brother, it would not be long until the subscriptions could be doubled.

The Young People's Department of the Church

At the request of the editor of the "Vine-Press", I am contributing a few thoughts relative to that part of the Christian Endeavor pledge which reads: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength I promise to support my own church in every way possible, especially by attending the regular Sunday and mid-week services, and to take part in the meetings."

Our young people have publicly declared their allegiance to Christ at the time of their baptism, and have confirmed their promise when they signed the Christian Endeavor pledge. Their primary loyalty is to their Lord Jesus Christ, who has redeemed them by His sacrificial death on Calvary; it find its natural expression in a fervent love for Him, an implicit obedience to His commandments, and a deep and lasting devotion to the cause of His kingdom.

But Christ has committed His work on earth to the church which he has established and cherished as His own bride. Therefore, all loyal Endeavorers will place their talents, time and material substance at the service of the church to which they belong.

They will accept the whole program of the church in it's systematic efforts for the up-building of His kingdom at home and abroad. They will assist in the great task committed to the church by her Master, that of preaching the gospel to all nations: in their own community and nation they will endeavor to bring all areas of life, whether social, industrial or national, into harmony with His teachings and example.

The Christian Endeavor society was founded as the Young Peoples' Department of the church and aims to train them to serve their church more devotedly and more efficiently. This objective of the Society takes for granted a regular attendance at the worship services of the church. However, this attendance is but one of the many ways in which young people may express their loyalty to their Master, but certainly it is one which they will eagerly welcome, because it offers them their finest opportunity of worshipping God in the company of the saints who love His name, and strengthens them for the tasks of the Christian life. The special Endeavor meetings were never intended to replace the regular church service; indeed, they should cultivate a keener appreciation of them. The Endeavor Society was intended to offer young people additional avenues for the practical expression of the Christian life in terms of service to Christ and His church. May God grant our Young People much joy in His glad service.

Adjustment

By Della Adams Leitner

Akin and yet apart! We find
  This circumstance in life;
But it is here that souls can prove
  Their triumph over strife.
For in adjustment strength is gained,
  And patience and control;
Forgiveness also peace restores
  And fortifies the soul.

Each one within the secret place
  The closet of his mind,
May dwell secure and undisturbed,
  And true contentment find.
In strength there gained he meets each day,
  Its problems and its cares;
And lives with others, though apart,
  For power divine he shares.

It is not enough that we are Endeavorers. We must be Christian Endeavorers if we would help.

Portland Has Annual Meeting

What would you think of a hunter shooting aimlessly up into the air. We would all say that it was a waste of time, energy, and ammunition. Yet that is the trouble with many churches today. They have nothing to aim at.

At the annual meeting of the Portland Mission when the officers for 1938 were elected and a general reorganization took place, it was decided not to waste, but to have something definite to aim at. So a FIVE-YEAR-PLAN was presented in which the following points are targets:

a. An increase in membership

1938 - - - - - -	add 6
1939 - - - - - -	add 8
1940 - - - - - -	add 10
1941 - - - - - -	add 12
1942 - - - - - -	add 14

b. A larger and more efficient S. S.

(1) A meeting once a month for teachers. (Teacher Training)

(2) Individual attention to pupils by teachers. (A card to them when they miss. Visit each on birthday with inexpensive gift.)

(3) Better adaptable S. S. material and better teaching.

(4) A S. S. on a more than paying basis.

c. A more active, attractive, well worked out Christian Endeavor

d. A constant striving for a purer richer, deeper spiritual life within the church.

(1) Regular communion.

(2) Intelligent, helpful, spirit-filled evangelistic services once a year.

(3) A deeper interest and better attendance at the mid-week Prayer and Bible study hour.

e. A two-thirds self-supporting church by 1942. From a budget of $300 in 1938 to $1000 in 1942.

GREAT TASKS TO BE ACCOMPLISHED IN OUR WORLD

Luke 4:18, 19; Mark 2:17; Eph. 2:9-11.

Young People's Topic for March 27, 1938

Meditations:

M., Mar. 21. The Advent of Peace. Luke 2:8-14.
T., Mar. 22. The Balance of Labor and Capital. Jas. 5:1-9.
W., Mar. 23. Better Churches. Heb. 10:19-25.
T., Mar. 24. More Consecrated Persons. Jas. 1:22-27.
F., Mar. 25. The Practice of Christian Love. I Cor. 13:1-13.
S., Mar. 26. Extension of Christian Benefactions. Gal. 6:8-10.

Suggested Hymns:

"O Master let My Walk with Thee"
"I Need Thee Every Hour"

Problems:

This meeting should serve to clearly present the challenge of the big things that are waiting to be done in this world. To be sure this day in which we are living is over crowded with chaos, confusion and dread of what might happen next. But this very condition of unstability holds for us the challenge to live courageously and do everything that we possibly can to meet and overcome the situation. One of the greatest minds of today has said that he believes we are still on the rim of our most important discoveries. He thinks we are only on the fringe of man's great contributions to the welfare and happiness of all.

Let us look now at our topic, or lesson, which is ours for today. It divides very nicely into two parts, the first being the example of Christ showing how He faced His challenge and second is the challenge as it comes to us today.

Christ Meeting His Challenge

Christ faced three big tasks which He had to accomplish during His Ministry and they were:

1. Fulfillment:

"This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears" (Luke 4:21). That was His great purpose in coming into this world. The course of His life and ministry are clearly marked out in the Old Testament.

The passage which Jesus read gave an outline of what His first coming was to accomplish. And we can be assured that no prophecy was spoken in vain. Whatsoever God had planned for Christ's advent was fulfilled in every detail.

II. Forgiveness: (Mark 2:17)

A part of Christ's program was to bring forgiveness of sin, to be based upon His death on the cross.

The matter of forgiveness has two sides: the one is Christ's side, and the other is ours. Paul describes it when he says, "In Whom (Christ) we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of sins" (Eph. 1:7). It took the shedding of His blood to make forgiveness possible. And we, like Levi, must arise and follow Him. When we turn to follow Him, is when we obtain forgiveness.

III. Fellowship: (Mark 2:15-17)

The barrier of sin must first be removed, and then we will have the Lord's presence in our hearts. Men may claim to be Christians, and yet they cannot walk with Christ unless their sins are forgiven. "Can two walk together, except they be forgiven?" (Amos 3:3).

Just as Levi's friends, who were also in Levi's house when Christ was there, were brought into the presence of Jesus through Levi's fellowship with Jesus, so can such a blessing to others come through our fellowship with Jesus.

So, then we see that Christ does His part. Now let us see what is ours to do.

IV. Faith: (Eph. 2:8, 9)

It is only through faith that we can work the works of God. "This is the work of God that ye believe on Him whom He hath sent" (John 6:2, 29). So the acceptable work on our part is faith in Christ. That is what we must do: believe.

V. Fruitfulness: (Eph. 2:10)

Our task as Christians is to do good works. God has saved us for the purpose of good works—works of purity, mercy, helpfulness, kindness, selfforgetfulness. And we have very definite realms in which we can apply these works. Among them are:

1. Peace: One of today's greatest tasks is the establishment of world peace. Should Christians be silent just now concerning peace?

2. Economics: Another great problem of today is to find our way out of our economic confusion. What planks would be included in an economic program supported by Christian youth?

3. Race prejudice: In some nations the attack upon the Jews is so brutal as to make one shudder. What can Christians do to avoid such an attack on Jews in our country? Or what can Christians do to bring about better feelings between Jews and Gentiles, Negroes and Whites, Asiatics and Occidentals?

4. Liquor: Vast sums of money, that should be used to buy bread and other necessaries of life, are spent every day for liquor. Auto accidents, due to liquor, take their daily toll of hundreds. Is it possible to build a "liquorless America"? How is it to be done?

5. Evangelism and Missions: Two thirds of all Americans are not reached by the church. The evangelization of the world is Christian youth's greatest task. How can a spiritual reawakening be brought about that would cause Christ to become Lord and Saviour of individuals and also of social and economic movements within our national life?

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

JESUS GIVING HIMSELF

For Daily Study

Mar. 21. Self-giving through Love. Gal. 2:17-21.
Mar. 22. Christ gave His Strength. Mark 5:25-34.
Mar. 23. Abraham forsook All. Heb. 11:8-10.
Mar. 24. Christ calls for Sacrifice. Luke 9:51-62
Mar. 25. The Reward of Sacrifice. Matt. 19:27-30.
Mar. 26. The Supreme Sacrifice. John 18:28-37; 19:17-19.
Mar. 27. Topic—Jesus: His Day of Self-giving. Luke 23:33-49.

Something Different

Try telling the story of how Christ gave himself in song, beginning with His birth and ending with His ascension. It is something more effective to sing the message of Christ than to tell it. The Intermediates will find it interesting to look for appropriate songs. This should be carefully planned from beginning to end. Scripture can be interspersed, as well as some talks. Let your music chairman with a committee take charge of the planning.

Presenting the Topic

1. Jesus as Friend
    a. Jesus was a friend to all who needed Him. He was known to others as "a friend of publicans and sinners." His friendship depended only on the willingness of one to receive Him.

    Jesus called His disciples friends. John 15:15. They were not servants, but friends and with them He shared His deepest thoughts. It is through Him that we know God as Father and can come to Him.

    If we wish to help someone, we must first be their friend. Romans 5:8. John says, "We love Him because He first loved us."
    b. Song, "I've Found a Friend"
    c. How does Jesus give Himself to us as friend today?
2. Jesus as Example
    a. Jesus is the only teacher who lived perfectly what He taught. He showed us how to work; how to serve; how to love not only our friends, but our enemies. "I have given you an example, that ye also should do as I have done to you." John 13:15. We learn much more quickly by example than by precept.
    b. Song, "I Would Be Like Jesus"
    c. How can we follow Jesus as example today?
3. Jesus as Saviour
    a. Romans 3:23, "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God."
        1. Jesus gave Himself to save us from the penalty of sin, which is separation from God. 1 Peter 3:18. Our sins are remembered no more against us and we have peace with God.
        2. Jesus gave Himself to save us from the power of sin. 1 John 1:9. If we confess our sins, God for Christ's sake forgives us our sins and cleanses us from all unrighteousness. Heb. 12:1, 2. "Let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us . . . looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith." It is through faith in Him that we are saved from sin.
    b. Song, "I Gave My Life For Thee"
    c. What do we mean when we say "Christ suffered for our sins?" Do people who sin suffer today?
4. Jesus as Lord and Master
    a. Christ is the Head of the church, which is His body. If we belong to His true church, we are as a member of His body. He is our Lord and Master, and we must obey Him. An arm or a foot, or any member of the body over which a person has no control is of no use to him. Jesus said. "Why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" They are empty words unless we seek with all our hearts to do His will. Then He gives Himself to us as our Guide.
    b. Song, "Take My Life"
    c. How does Jesus guide us today? How can we know what He would have us do?

Closing Moments

A young Filipino school teacher was teaching a Sunday school class in his native land, in the days when the Bible was first given to the people. It was a big success, for a large crowd of students from the high school came to hear their teacher explain the book which for centuries had been shrouded in mystery.

But one day a letter came from the superintendent of schools: "Objection has been raised to your teaching religion, and we are obliged to request you to desist." Juan Abellera went pale and stared at the shadow on the floor. He remembered how his father had said, "Every youth walks toward a cross. Most men run away when they see their cross, but some walk straight on to Calvary, saving others and forgetting themselves."

That night was the most terrible in his life. The next day he sent in his resignation to the Bureau of Education. The superintendent hurried over to plead with him to reconsider. "Young man," he said, "have you lost your mind?" You are receiving the highest salary paid to any Filipino teacher in the Islands. Next year your promotion is certain. Don't you see how much it is to your interest to stay?"

"Perhaps it is to my interest—but how about the interest of my people? You can find plenty of teachers eager to take my place. But I am the only teacher in this province ready to teach these students about Christ. I am going into the ministry. My selfish ambitions—yes, they are shattered. But any man who considers himself above his country is a coward."

Juan gave up his teaching and a salary of one hundred pesos a month to preach for thirty pesos. Over the Ilocos country he passed a thousand times, capturing hearts with his message of love, until at last all the province was dotted with young churches. —Adapted from "Seven Thousand Emeralds" by Frank C. JUNIOR CORNER

The life of Christ upon the earth was a life of prayer. His three years' walk to the Cross was a walk of unceasing prayer. The death on the Cross, came after the death upon self in the Garden of Gethsemane. Christ built the Kingdom by prayer, and it is God's plan that the building of the Kingdom shall continue through prayer. And we, through whom Christ would continue His building, are so wrapped up in the search of materials new and fresh, that we often find no time to "turn on" the current of power than can come alone through prayer.

May I point you again to a book that will challenge us to seek a deeper prayer life. It is: Prayer, by O. Hallesby, Augsburg Press. He calls it: "A word to souls fainting in prayer."

Is our work lacking power?
Perhaps the current is not on.

Prayer is like a seed that brings forth fruit in its season

"GO YE INTO ALL THE WORLD AND PREACH THE GOSPEL TO EVERY CREATURE"

Program Suggestion for March 27, 1938

Call to service by prelude

Opening service

1. Song in unison: "Work, for the Night Is Coming"
2. Responsive reading: Psalm 115:1-9
3. Leader's prayer
4. Room IV: Our Foreign Mission Work. (See issue February 15). Facts to be drilled:
   (a) Location of our stations
   (b) Our mission workers
5. Sing in unison the song of the month

Announcements. If you have followed the suggestions for the Easter box, your box will now be ready for wrapping. (See issue February 8). If mailed soon after this meeting, it will reach the station in time that plans can be made for the distribution of its contents. Since the Easter-box project is now completed, the new project could be presented. Did you find it in the last issue?

Have you read Mrs. Cline's suggestion in Missionary News and Notes? In almost every report from our mission stations is included the phrase: "Pray for us." Do we really? Can even Juniors become Prayer Partners? Perhaps through us, as leaders, Christ can mold them so.

Study period. Aim as stated in months outline.

1. Sing in unison: "The Light of the World Is Jesus."
2. How Far Has the Darkness Changed to Light? Let one of your young people of the church give a very simple survey of world missions, showing the territories still untouched by the Gospel in dark shading.
3. How Far Is The Light of Jesus to Spread? Answered by a Junior, Mark 16:15 and Matt. 24:14
4. Sing in unison: "The Whole Wide World for Jesus." Verse one.
5. Trying to Obey the Command of Jesus. Current events on our foreign fields retold by juniors
6. Speak in unison verse of the month
7. Special music: "For You I Am Praying." Verses 1 and 2
8. Prayer-minutes for our foreign fields
9. Closing song: Verse 3 and 4 of "Take My Life, and Let It Be"
10. Parting prayer

Letter to Western District C. E. Societies

Dear Christian Endeavor Workers:

Greetings to you all! How has the work been progressing since we last met in our convention? No doubt you have worked out many a plan for more worthwhile programs, or ideas for greater service. Why not let other societies profit by your plans and discoveries. Send your suggestions to the respective secretaries.

Let us start with the youngest members of our group, THE JUNIORS. At the last meeting it was decided that these should be incorporated into the Convention. Junior Sponsors, what do you think the nature of the Junior work of this organization should be? Mrs. Joanna Andres, Newton, secretary of this division, welcomes suggestions, both for the regular programs held in the individual churches and for a Convention of Juniors being planned for a year from next summer.

To get a panoramic view of the work of our societies let us briefly consider the resolutions passed by the convention.

The first resolution stated "that we would support financially and morally the Kansas Institute of International Relations." The work of the peace division looms large in the face of present international chaos. What can we do to uphold the fundamental Mennonite ideas of peace? Can we expect to reap where we do not sow? Have our members had an opportunity to understand the intricacies of international peace problems? Are we thoroughly grounded in the depth of meaning involved in taking a definite stand for peace? Among our members there are those who have tasted some of the dregs of this conviction in being denied U. S. citizenship. Plans for an oratory contest are under way. For information concerning the contest including our Peace Mission, and Retreat projects, write William E. Juhnke, McPherson, Kansas. Be sure your society is represented.

The second resolution deals with support of the Young People's Retreat. Those who attended the retreat in previous years need no invitation, but to the rest we would like to say, "taste and see." This combination Bible study-vacation will leave you with never-to-be-forgotten memories. Plan now to attend.

It was also resolved that the convention will undertake the responsibility of sending one missionary into the foreign field. The names of Rev. and Mrs. Albert L. Jantzen were given us for this project, but since the war has prohibited their going, would it not be well to put our money into the common treasury? But let that not deter us from giving freely for this great work. How can we be God's stewards unless we spread his gospel?

Lastly, it was resolved that there be a renewed emphasis on a program of evangelization within our societies. How many of our members observe Quiet Hour? Do we have an average attendance of at least fifty per cent of the members at the regular meetings? Does every member of the society attend worship services of the church at last once per Sunday?

Let us bend our efforts towards the peace problem. the retreat, missions, and evangelization.

Hilda Wiebe, Secretary-treasurer.

CORRESPONDENCE

JOHANNESTAL CHURCH, HILLSBORO, KANS.

This winter the grim reaper has taken away two of our dear mothers: Mrs. Peter Harms from the Silverfield community, leaving her husband, three daughters, and one foster son. On Feb. 6, Mrs. Reinhard Guhr, aged 47 years, 7 months, 10 days, passed away after a brief illness in the Goessel Hospital, leaving her husband, one daughter, and three sons.

The Ladies' Aid Society again had a mission sale on December 12, 1937. Refreshments were served after the sale. The total receipts from the sale were $196.36. Twenty Juniors took part in the quarter fund, contributing $15.00.

The General Conference Field Secretary, Rev. H. A. Fast, was here Sunday and Monday, Feb. 13 and 14. He gave three very interesting talks on our conference activities. After these talks by Brother Fast one feels especially grateful for our Mennonite heritage.

On January 23 Missionary P. J. Wiens visited our church, reporting on the work in India, and on Feb. 20 Missionary S. T. Moyer was here, also in the interest of the India missions.

The financial canvass for the church budget for 1938 has just been completed. The results were very gratifying. The voluntary pledge method has been used the last two years with good results.

MENNONITE CHURCH, PULASKI, IOWA

Greetings to the Readers of The Mennonite, our church paper:

I read it with interest, and so do our people. One of our members said recently, that he reads it from start to finish. I wish it were possible to place it in every Mennonite home in the General Conference. I think it to be our Christian duty to be subscribers: 1st, because it is a religious paper.—2nd, because it is our church paper.—3rd, because it is one way of keeping our church alive to the "Faith once delivered to the saints.—4th, because it is a home and foreign mission project.—5th, because it is an interesting information bureau relative to much of our church news, at home and abroad. Let's pray for its success, for prayer changes things. I want to say also that so far as I know, the Mennonite Sunday School Quarterlies are quite satisfactory in every way, and we consider them a very helpful asset to Mennonitism.

May success attend the labors and the laborers of this timely contribution. I just wanted to say this little word of Pulaski news to let you know that we are still on the map and are deeply interested in every phase of General Conference work. You will hear from us later, a bit at a time.—W. W. Miller, correspondent.

FAMILY CHRONICLE

MARRIAGES

PENNER-WIEBE—Louie A. Penner married to Gertrude Wiebe by Rev. Frank Albrecht, in the First Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebraska, on December 31, 1937.

CLAASSEN-EPP—Arnold C. Claassen married to Ida Epp by the bride's father, Rev. J. B. Epp of Beatrice, Nebraska, in the Emmaus Mennonite Church, Whitewater, Kansas, on January 28, 1938.

DEATHS

EDWARD H. LINSCHEID, SON OF JOHN P. AND KATHERINE LINSCHEID, was forty-two years of age last March 26. His sudden unexpected death was a shock to all who knew him familiarly as "Eddie." He passed away quietly at his home on Sunday, February 20, at 1:30 p. m.

Practically his entire life was spent in the Arlington, Kansas, community. His education in the local schools was supplemented by further study at the Reno County High School, Bethel Academy, Kansas State College, at Manhattan, and at Charles City, Iowa. His interest in education, secular and religious, continued through life. The high Christian ideals of Bethel College claimed his unwavering devotion.

On June 7, 1908, Edward was baptized upon confession of faith, by the late Rev. John P. Miller of Hanston, and became a member of the church whose spiritual growth he continually strove to foster.

He was married August 12, 1919, to Selma Riesen who was his devoted companion and constant helpmate for nearly nineteen years. The home which they established had an open door for all who came.

Eddie was glad to serve, whenever called, in the home, the church, the neighborhood. For many years he was entrusted with positions of responsibility in the church and on the Reno County Council of Religious Education. He looked upon these tasks as opportunities to share with others life's deeper meanings.

Immediate members of the family who feel most deeply his sudden passing are: his wife; her aged mother, Mrs. Riesen; two sisters, Elizabeth of Boulder, Colo., and Emma of Sylvia, Kansas; and three brothers, John E. of Bethel College, Kansas, Alfred G. of Cleveland, Ohio, and Peter R. of Attica, Kansas.

Services were held at the Arlington Mennonite Church Wednesday, February 23, at 2:00 p.m., conducted by Rev. J. N. Smucker and Rev. George Kopper. Dean P. S. Goertz conducted a short service at the home. Internment was at the Mennonite cemetery.

REV. SILAS M. GRUBB was born October 1, 1873, in the Frederick community, Pennsylvania. As a young child he came with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. N. B. Grubb, to the city of Philadelphia, where he grew up and spent his life. He received his training in the city schools, at Ursinus and Temple College, and Reformed Episcopal Seminary.

He was baptised upon the confession of his faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, April 8, 1887, by his father, and joined the First Mennonite Church, Philadelphia.

He was licensed as an evangelist by the Eastern District Conference. While pursuing his studies at the Reformed Episcopal Seminary, he supplied the pulpit in the Old Germantown Mennonite Church. He was ordained to the ministry on May 26, 1897. After completing his seminary courses he accepted the call to the pastorate of the Second Mennonite Church of Philadelphia upon its organization in 1899. January 4, 1907, he was ordained to the office of elder by request of his church. He remained a faithful and, in fact, the only pastor the congregation has had since its organization thirty-nine years ago. During these years the Second Mennonite Church has grown to an independent congregation with a membership of 200. These and many others have learned to know and love him through all these years and will sadly miss him.

For twenty-five years he has proven a faithful and efficient editor of our church paper, THE MENNONITE. During this time the paper has grown in its appearance and circulation. Through this medium Rev. Grubb has made many friends. It was partially through this contact, and by the aid of his father who in has many travels had collected many valuable documents, that there is in Dr. Grubb's study a large collection of historical value that some day will be in the possession of some of our college libraries.

Dr. Grubb had been failing in his health for the last several years, yet he fought bravely to regain his full strength. Saturday, Feb. 5th, Rev. and Mrs. Grubb had been out for dinner with some old friends. Upon coming home he said to Mrs. Grubb, "I enjoyed the fellowship so much, I really should go out more. I think it would do me good." Early Sunday morning he took critically ill and passed to his eternal reward, rather suddenly, Sunday, Feb. 6th, at 9:15 a.m. He reached the age of 64 years, 4 months and 5 days.

He is survived by his wife, who has stood by him and faithfully served with him, a son Robert, a daughter-in-law, a grandson, his father, Rev. N. B. Grubb, one brother Rev. W. H. Grubb of Dwight, Ill., many relatives and friends, and a sorrowing congregation.

Dr. Grubb had arranged the order of his funeral service several years ago and it was carried out as arranged. The services were held Thursday, Feb. 10, at two o'clock. That he was a beloved pastor and friend was indicated by the large audience at the service. Nearly every minister of our Eastern District Conference was there to pay tribute to his service and express their sympathy to the family and the congregation. The services were conducted by Rev. J. J. Plenert, assisted by Rev. Freeman Swartz.

TILGHMAN MEYERS, the oldest member of the time honored Springfield Mennonite Church, living with a neighbor's family, named Leight, in Leightsville, Pa., died January 25, 1938, aged 83 years, 7 months, 30 days. Services and interment on the 29th, at Springfield, by Pastor A. M. Fretz.

AIM AT SIMPLER LIVING

In the November issue of the Messenger we wrote concerning the Mennonite Peace principle, and now this month in which that great commoner Abraham Lincoln was born, I think it fitting to write concerning another Mennonite tenent, namely the simple life. This is one phase of our heritage that should be excavated from the rubbish heap where it seems to have been covered up. By this I do not mean that we have lost it all together, but in our day of rapid communication and transportation, where we rub elbows with the people of the world, should we continue to mention this doctrine so seldom there is danger that we will lose this testimony just like our brethren in Europe have lost their peace testimony.

Now someone may point out that we have no very rich men among the Mennonites and ask if that is not an indication that we are still holding true to the faith of our fathers? True, rich men are hard to find in our churches, for very often when they come into money, they leave us. But one doesn't have to be rich to abandon the simple life, for installment plans have increased the temptations of common folk to live beyond their means. One must keep up with the Jones', you know.

What is meant by the simple life anyway? Does it mean going back to the log house with candle light and the horse and buggy? No, but it does mean not having so many wants for ourselves that God has to be content with the crumbs that fall from the table. Simple living is the opposite from riotous living where one squanders away his substance. One of the G-men making an address in Philadelphia the other day stated that there are three times as many bankers in prison as bank robbers. I wonder if the reason for this is not because they wanted to live beyond their means?—Rev. Olin Krehbiel, in "The Grace Church Messenger".

THOUGHTS ON COMMUNION

Renewed Allegiance

Roman soldiers were required as far as possible to return to Rome once a year and there to renew their pledge of allegiance to their emperor and supreme commander. So Christians should come often to the table of their Lord renewing their vows of loyalty and obedience to him.—J. A. Beeke.

Who May Partake?

How much unworthiness in those disciples! Sceptical Thomas; Peter, rash and weak; John with his passion; and all of them with a spot of cowardice in their hearts which was so soon to blacken in the fierce light which beat upon them! But the Master, looking beyond their faults and regarding the bright possibilities of each, invited them to this closest fellowship. "And they all drank of it." So let it be now. If Christ received only perfect ones at his table, he would sit there all alone; but he receives sincere souls, whatever may be their faults. In need of comfort, of faith, of purity, and peace, of all that Christ can give so richly and waits to give freely, let us not refuse the Master's welcome.—D. L. Watkinson.

The Form Without the Spirit

In our communion we are to be watchful that we worship not in form alone without the spirit. In an old church at Valsbol the men for centuries followed the practice, when returning from the sacrement, of standing on a particular spot and bowing in a certain direction. When asked why they did it, they did not seem to know. But later, when one of the walls was cleaned, a picture of the Virgin Mary was discovered. It had been covered with whitewash centuries before, and worshippers continued to bow toward it long after they had forgotten it was there. Let us not take communion out of habit but with a true spirit of worship. —Taken from Sunday Program of Alberta Community Church, Portland, Ore.—Edmund Miller, pastor.

HOME MISSION OF THE WESTERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE

Receipts—February, 1938

A friend, $20; Johannestal C. E., Ervin Penner, $5; Herold, J. A. Harms, $7.09; Bergtal, Pawnee Rock, H. C. Schultz, $11.84; Montezuma, H. J. D. Friesen, $2.77; Kidron, F. W. Koehn, $5.35; Sewing Society, Buhler, Mrs. G. B. Entz, $29.67; Hebron, C. Plett, $16.69; Emmanuel, Fred C. Wedel, $11.

Gratefully acknowledged,

H. J. Dyck, Treas., Elbing, Kansas.

—We have received Yearbooks from these churches: Grace Church, Pandora; Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio; South Church, Buhler, Kans.; First Church, Berne, Indiana. We appreciate these books. They contain many items of interest.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Rev. N. B. Grubb, Philadelphia, Pa. sends us through the kindness of his successor, Rev. J. J. Plenert, the "In Memoriam" of his son Silas M. Grubb, also the sketch for his last sermon as found on his desk by his family. We are bringing both in this number. Of father Grubb, Bro. Plenert writes: Though he cannot attend the services, he has been a great help and encouragement to us since we came to the First Church here, for his thoughts and prayers have been with us. Though he had already lost a younger son, Wallace, less than a year ago, he bears up pretty well. Only his eyes trouble him, so that he is almost blind. The ministers of the conference who know him could cheer him by writing occasionally.

—The Spring Rally of the Eastern District Young People's Union will be held on Sunday afternoon, March 13th, at the Southerton Church. Rev. D. D. Eitzen and Miss Catherine Niswander will be the speakers. Don't miss this meeting.—N. A. Geissinger.

—Rev. David A. Schulty, Friedensberg Church, Avon, S. D., reports their correspondents for our church papers and says, "God's richest blessings in your very important work as editor. We have had a mild winter, although there has been a cold snap now and then but nothing like last year. La Grippe, with a siege of serious coughs, has been prevalent here, but is nearly over now."

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hanston, Kans.—Referring once more to the Seminary question, I was much interested in Hostetler's last article. I think it is a very good and timely. He mentions things that certainly must be very well considered before another attempt is made to open the Seminary. I fear it may be a good while before we can open up and support properly or help support properly a really full-fledged Seminary that can look other seminaries into the face without making any apology. It will cost money and much of it and will require very able men who will be paid well enough so they can give themselves to the work. I hope it can be done.

I have received some quite complimentary letters about the Year Book, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Am glad that people appreciate it.

Building Men for God. Psa. 8.

Permit me to make three assumptions, namely, that the origin of Man is in God; that by nature he is free; and that his destiny is immortality. The purpose of Christianity, the task of the Church, has always been to build men for God. According to the ancient Greeks the essential virtues of a man were temperance, courage and wisdom. According to Jesus the measure of a man is in the depth of his convictions, the height of his ideals, the breadth of his sympathies, and the length of his activity. This means that the spirit of Jesus, the motive of Jesus, and His goal are the areas in which ideal manhood and womanhood are made.—J. E. Hartzler.

The Trinity of Christian Experience, Mt. 5:39-41

There are three great experiences in the Christian faith, that of suffering, of sacrifice, and of service. Jesus demonstrated these experiences not only in his life but in his teaching concerning the second cheek, the second coat, and the second mile. The second cheek represents suffering; the second coat, sacrifice, and the second mile, service. Men begin to be Christians on the second cheek, in the second coat, and on the second mile. Jesus died on the second cheek, in the second coat, and on the second mile.—J. E. Hartzler.

MISSION THOUGHTS

"Occupy Till I Come." - Luke 19:12

To every creature and to earth's remotest bound,
Go with the gospel story; let its message sound!
We have not long to labor—just today;
So, let us hasten and be on our way!"

What shall we say to the Lord, when we meet Him, if we have not fulfilled His last command? His word was, "Go!" "Every creature" was to be the scope of our preaching. "All the world" was to be our geographical boundries. It is a solemn fact that so many of our own day have not yet heard the good news from the "far country." Let us up and away to publish abroad the word of life and light.

The work at home drags apace. Few are being saved. "Gospel hardened, money enthralled, pleasure bent, the people hellward press their way." Not so on the farflung mission fields. Over there many are hearing of Christ for the first time. They have not rejected the Spirit's call; therefore they are open and ready to accept God's gift of grace.

Let us not neglect the work at home. It is our duty first to look after the welfare and salvation of those of our own household. At the same time let us strain ourselves to place our gifts and service in those places where the gospel can accomplish most in its saving ministry.

FOREIGN MISSION

REPORT OF THE FOREIGN MISSION BOARD MEETING

Newton, Kansas, Feb. 15-17, 1938

At 1:30 P.M. Brother P. P. Wedel, the President of the Board, opened the meeting. He read Psa. 116, making a few remarks about how it fitted some of the mission experiences on our fields. Then followed a brief season of prayer.

Present were P. P. Wedel, M. Horsch, A. P. Waltner, A. E. Kreider, H. G. Nyce, P. H. Richert, H. A. Fast (Field Secretary), and the officers of the Women's Mission Societies, Mrs. R. A. Goerz, Mrs. Frieda Regier Entz, and Mrs. J. E. Kaufman, part of the time also the missionaries S. T. Moyer from India and H. J. Brown, and A. Ewert from China.

In view of the passing to his reward of Brother J. W. Kliewer, for 25 years president of our Board, the following resolution was passed: 1. Resolved, that we note with sorrow the recent death of Bro. J. W. Kliewer. We remember with joy and gratitude the long and faithful service which the Lord permitted him to give to his cause, especially the mission cause, as member and president of the Board. May his influence live on in the Board, and outside of it, as an inspiration to a fuller consecration to the Lord's work. May the Lord comfort the bereaved family and us all.

The first report read was, as usual, that of the treasurer J. E. Regier. The following is a brief resume of the same:

Receipts:

15. Resolved, to allow for Karl $25.00 a month (Bro. Suderman is to help repairing at Tuba, etc.)

16. Resolved, to accept Brother Suderman's report and approve of his recommendations, with the understanding, that further correspondence with him be carried on concerning the temporary helper.

CHINA

17. Resolved, to wire Secretary of State Cordell Hull about the advisability of sending missionaries to North China, now, via Tientsin. (The following telegram from Washington arrived two days later: "In view disturbed situation Department not issuing passports for travel to or in China under ordinary circumstances. Bona fide doctors and nurses and persons with urgent business accepted. Department will interpose no objections to return to Peiping of missionaries whose presence is urgently needed. Disapproves any interior travel. Disapproves women and children proceeding to China. R. B. Shipkey, Chief Passport Division.")

18. Resolved, to accept the China budget of Mex. 40,000.00.

19. Resolved, to allow the requested buildings for China, costing Mex. 7,150,00.

20. Resolved, to send to our Emergency Relief Board the request from China, for Mex. 2000.00 flood and war relief.

21. Resolved, to accept the China Conference report, except those parts otherwise acted upon, and resolution 17, which needs special action.

22. Resolved, to make plans for sending to China the new workers, Bro. and Sister Albert Jantzen and Sister Etta R. Davis, this coming summer.

23. Resolved, to return Sister Elizabeth Goertz to China as soon as the State Department gives its consent.

24. Resolved, to ask Brother and Sister Brown to return to China this coming fall.

INDIA

25. Resolved, to allow the budget for India of Rs. 43,478.00 (Gold 16,595.00).

26. Resolved, concerning the request from India for two new couples this year, the Board goes on record that we are planning to comply with their request.

27. Resolved, to accept Sister Clara Kuehney's resignation with regret. We express our thanks and appreciation for her service of two long terms.

28. Resolved, to endorse the decision of the Workers' Conference in India to accept the kind offer of the Baptist Mission, to assume responsibility for its work and territory in Phuljar Zemindary.

29. Resolved, to accept the Workers' Conference report from India.

GENERAL RESOLUTIONS

30. Resolved, that the President of the Board appoint a member of the Board to gather information relative to the advisability of establishing mission homes for retired and furloughed missionaries.

31. Resolved, to urge our missionaries in America to encourage those native helpers that can already read English, to learn also to read the Bible in their own language, and to help them as much as they can.

32. Resolved, to ask Brother S. T. Moyer for India and H. J. Brown for China to prepare some mission exhibit of their respective fields for the next General Conference.

33. Resolved, to recommend to the next General Conference that as long as our pension fund is not sufficient, we pay the retired missionaries, according to the pension plan, from the General Treasury.

34. Resolved, to thank all mission friends for their generous and loyal support of the work. We wish to mention by name the Women's Mission Societies, the Young Peoples' Organizations, the special supporters, the Sunday schools, and last, but not least, the churches. The income increased, and we believe that also the prayers increased, because they usually go together. And we need both, especially in view of the war and flood sufferers. The budget for this year is a few thousand dollars larger than that of last year, namely $89,000.00. If war conditions permit, we plan to send nine new workers out this coming year, and return three, making 12 in all.

35. Resolved, to thank the Lord who permitted to return to India last year six furlough missionaries, and two new ones, and who protected wonderfully in China, so far both the workers and the property. May he continue his almighty protection, is our prayer.

36. Resolved, to thank the Kansas State Bank officials for the kind permission to use their fine session room.

37. Resolved, to adjourn.

Closing prayer by the secretary.

ARIZONA

Hotevilla, Ariz., Feb. 22, 1938

Dear Friends:

Matt. 25:14. "For the kingdom of heaven is as a man traveling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods."

Yes, dear friends, we are so glad that it is the Lord's goods that we are working with here, and that we try to cause others to see that they have need of. Oh, that we may be found faithful in the delivery of this, the Lord's goods, his gospel of salvation, and you, dear friends at home, may he also give you grace to be faithful in delivering your share of it, while it is yet day. For the night cometh, when no man can work, and we see it coming fast enough here. From the exterior, the heathendom of the white people who are supposed to be fathers and leaders of a benighted people, yet who are, as the Lord hath spoken, blind leaders of the blind, and both are nearing the ditch! And from the innerside of the people, the love of the old way and the lust of the flesh.

Just now they are so busy preparing for one ceremonial feast after another, and the men, when they are not knitting or weaving, are practicing to dance at night in their underground places of idol worship. For they worship the one that is from below.

The outside onlooker and tourist says, "Why bother such a contented happy people?" But Jesus says (John 14:6), "I am the way, the truth, the life, no man cometh to the Father but by me." And these people are not in that way. That wish may appear from the outside as gaiety and pleasure, in only Satan's mantle under which are covered loneliness, heartaches, and disease. Little children are kept out of schools to stay nights in the dusty, overheated, underground places, and many come away with disease as the outcome. Young girls become the prey of these people's great sin, fornication. Households are broken up because of the sin of adultry at these ceremonials, and all in the name of their religion which, so their government heads and others tell them, is just as good as that which the missionaries try to put over to them. Friends, will you pray for our Indian Administration first, then for the Indians and us, your missionaries, that we may be faithful as long as the Lord wants us here.

Sincerely, Mary Schirmer.

MONTANA

A GOOD TESTIMONY FOR JAMES

Sent in by Mrs. B. K. Petter

Lame Deer, Mont., Jan. 21, 1938.

Dear Bro. Richert:

I submit the following for the church papers. It comes from the pen of the biology teacher in Forsyth who writes about one of her pupils, who is a young man of our congregation here at Lame Deer:

"I do want to tell you how much I enjoyed meeting you and Reverend Petter at your service last Sunday. You mentioned wishing you had pencil and paper to take down what I said about James. Thus I thought I would repeat what I said, and make a written statement, for you to use, if you wish.

"Today we had a test in biology and James did very good work. In fact he ranked much higher than one of the seniors (white boy), who is about to graduate. I have enjoyed having him in my classes so much, for he is always so thoughtful and courteous and considerate. While he thinks slowly, and hesitates to recite in class, I think it is because he is afraid of making a mistake. He never attempts to bluff or guess, he either says it, or does not. But he is the soul of honesty and never makes the least attempt to cheat in examinations or class. I mention this, because there are not too many people who can be trusted in this matter. It seems one of the temptations young people in school fall before easily. That is why I admire James so much for being perfectly honest.

"He never seems to waste a minute of time in study period or class, although he sometimes dreams a little until I start him off. Perhaps he is thinking it out, for he does his work in his word-book in a very accurate manner. He is a splendid drawer and his powers of observation in biology are very keen and accurate. If he looks at an insect, he sees all the details in their proper relationship. I have had only a few who noticed things as well as he does . . . one of them is taking his medical course now.

"I admire him for abstaining from tobacco. I am probably narrow-minded, but I do hate the weed in all its forms, and the temptation to use it is so great in these days, that I know a young person who keeps from it, is fighting a real battle against public usage, if not appetite.

"Sometimes I wish he were faster about his work, but again I wonder what rushing about has procurred for our race. A lot of nervous trouble and heart attacks, perhaps.

"I suppose his grasp of white man's education would not fit him to cope in keen competition with very intelligent whites, but it certainly will fit him to be of great use among his own people. His good qualities, courtesy and kindliness ought to carry a long ways in making him a success.

"Your encouragement has meant a great deal to him, and he does feel that he should make good for your sake. White children as well as Indians go through a period of let-down on school work, unless they are very unusual. I think that James has just about gone through it, as he feels more like studying and less discouraged, if he does not meet his expectations.

"It really has been a privilege to have him in class, for I feel I have learned something about at least one of the Indians, as well as gained a friend among people of a number of different races, and I do prize them very much. A splendid fellow of the yellow race is spreading the gospel in Korea, and it always makes me happy to hear from him. He and another friend of his race have brought a depth of Christian experience into his work, that I am afraid we white people seldom attain. They know the meaning of real consecration, holding against temptation and service in a real and practical way."

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE NORTHERN CHEYENNES OF S. E. MONTANA

By Alfred Habegger, Missionary

The Tongue River Indian Reservation was set aside for the Northern Cheyenne Indians in the year 1884.

In 1900 the Reservation was enlarged, and a large number of Cheyennes who had been living on the White River, in the Sioux country, were moved to the Tongue River Indian Reservation. A small number of Cheyennes live in the Sioux country even today, but have intermarried, and live as a part of the Sioux nation.

The Cheyennes were given rations by the U. S. Government, and were under military supervision until 1898, when the troops were withdrawn, and only Indian policemen were used to maintain order. The Government fed the Indians, but at the same time tried to teach them self-support, and induce them to farm, and raise live stock. Live cattle were issued to the Indians, and from this beginning some few acquired a nice herd of cattle, while others soon had none left.

There are five bands of Indians among the North Cheyennes. The Black Lodge band, live mostly on the Lame Deer creek near the agency; the Scabby band on the Upper Tongue River near Birney, Mont.; the Shy band, living lower down on the Tongue River near Ashland, Mont.; the Ree band living in the Rosebud valley and the Muddy Creek valley. The White River band lives farther up the Rosebud Valley near Busby. Although these bands have intermarried very much they are still recognized by the Government in that three committeemen from each band make up the Tribal Council, that meets every month to discuss Tribal matters.

In the year 1924 the Congress of the U. S. passed a law making all Indians citizens of the United States, and since then they have had the right to vote. The land, forests, coal and possible mineral or oil deposits, are held by the tribe in common, except the land that is allotted in severalty, under the Act of Congress of 1926. Although the allottment of land was completed only about 9 years ago, yet by this time there are many so-called dead allottments, for many of the older people who received land have passed away. Quite a bit of the land has been rented by white cattlemen and ranchers, while many allottments lie idle, and very little farming has been done the last few years.

The only ones that receive rations now are dependents, widows, orphans, aged Indians, and such unfortunates as blind, and invalids. Able-bodied Indians have been given work on CCC crews, and WPA projects.

The Government built a large hospital at Lame Deer in 1930, where sick Indians get free care. Trained nurses and a physician are gradually taking over the work of the Indian medicine-men and medicine-women. Yet, there are still many Indians who do not want to go to the hospital when they are sick, because they prefer the old Indian way of caring for the sick, and they would rather be sick at home than away from home.

The U. S. Government has offered free education to the Cheyennes, through various types of schools. At Busby there is a Boarding School, where needy children are fed and clothed, besides being taught free of charge. Such parents who can afford to do so are required to provide some of the clothing for their own children while at the Boarding school. Other children attend school as do public school pupils, but they get a free meal at noon at the school.

At Lame Deer a public school is available for the Indian children. The U. S. Government pays a certain amount per day to the school district for each day the child is in school, and also pays for the noon-day meals of the Indian school children. At Birney, there is a Government Day school, the teachers being Civil Service employees, as are also those at the Boarding School at Busby. The pupils also get their meals at the Day school, as well as free instruction. At Ashland there is a Catholic Mission School where most of the children stay as Boarding School pupils, but some attend as day school pupils. This school gets $125.00 annually from the Government for each 70 pupils enrolled as Boarding School pupils. The Indians have to petition for this money to be paid to the Catholic Mission every 4 years. Without this money the school would doubtless cease to exist and the Federal Government would take steps to provide schools for that district under Government control instead of Catholic control.

In every district there are children who do not attend school, simply because they do not want to go to school, and nobody makes them go to school. Very few children finish the eighth grade. To have a good education has not yet become a popular thing with the Cheyennes. Most of them get married rather young, and that terminates their education abruptly.

With regard to marriage, there is much to be desired. Many illegitimate children are born, and the legal end of marriage is almost always a matter that follows weeks and months behind the living together of the contracting parties. Most of the young couples live with the bride's folks indefinitely, as they are unable to make a living and too ignorant and incompetent to care for their little ones, until they have had some experience.

The Indian dances are still a very popular past-time, especially during the winter months. These coming usually on Friday and Saturday evenings and continuing late into the mornings, cut drastically into Sunday school and church attendance, despite all that we do to discourage professing Christians and their families to stay away from them. During the summer months the Rodeos and Fairs, draw nearly all the Indians to the large cities and towns, where they get paid for dancing and taking part in parades in Indian costumes. Just yesterday an Indian told me that he had a communication from Cheyenne, Wyo., several hundred miles from here, asking how much the Indians would ask to come to Cheyenne for their Rodeo there next summer.

The above things are facts we face in our work. Much more could be said but the article would be too long. We beseech you, brethren, to pray for the Christians and the Missionaries that the work may bear fruit, such that will not wither under the temptations these Indians face continually.

Your co-worker in His Kingdom among the Cheyennes,
A. Habegger.

OKLAHOMA

Canton, Oklahoma., March 1, 1938

"No man putteth new wine intto old bottles." We were reminded of this saying of the Lord in connection with the new meeting place which we now have for our Arapahoes. Not only has the attendance increased very appreciably, but a deeper interest in the Word is noticeable. The wish has since been expressed to meet from time to time on weekday evenings for Bible study. Among the attendants now there are such who had not been coming before this. In the discussion of the Sunday school lesson there are such who will take part in the discussion and ask questions which lead to further thoughts. Even the sister who looks after the sweeping of the church does her sweeping, etc. more promptly and with a joy that is quite apparent. Her husband, who used to come to church with his wife only from time to time, has now been present regularly, since we meet in the new place. It does make quite a difference, whether we have to meet in a delapidated and unfriendly place for worship or in one that is inviting. Until the change was made we were at a very decided disadvantage in regard to a meeting place. The Latter Day Saints (Mormons) have recently dedicated a new church building in the town of Canton and were making every effort to attract the Indians. They had succeeded in just about persuading one Indian family to join with them.

It, of course, remains to be seen whether this new impetus will be lasting or not, nevertheless it remains a fact that we must have new bottles for new wine, if we wish to avoid loss.

We feel a painful need of the deep intercession of all our mission-friends that there may a new Spirit not only enter into the hearts of this people, but have His continued sway there. G. A. Linscheid

CHINA

EVANGELISTIC COMMITTEE REPORT OF 1937

To the 21st Annual Workers' Conference

Furloughs Our field in China, already undermanned, was still further depleted in numbers when the Brown and Ewert families went to America for much needed furloughs last spring. The ones remaining on the field all felt the need of a rest when summer came, so they betook themselves to Kikungshan, where there would be opportunity for relaxation as well as fellowship with many other missionaries. Miss Kuyf, who has been in the Language School in Peiping the last year, spent the summer at Peitaiho, and according to present reports is still there. Due to the Sino-Japanese war which began in July, the women and children were asked by the consul to remain at the mountain resort. The men returned to their stations, the middle of August, and Miss Fast the first part of September. The men spent several weeks at their stations, then returned to Kikungshan, with winter clothing for their families. After this conference they hope to return to our field.

The situation in China at present is such that no one can predict when the end of the war will be. We can only hope it will be soon, so that we may return to our work as soon as possible. We have passed through many trying times this summer and fall, because of the repeated advices from the consul that we should all withdraw from China. After much prayer and deliberation we felt it more important to remain in China and thus keep in close touch with our work, even though we may not be able to always remain right on the field. What influence the Japanese will have upon our work, in case they gain control of North China, remains to be seen.

Instruction Classes and Baptisms In regard to the evangelistic work in our field during the past year, there is much of interest to report. The doors have never been so wide open, the calls from the country places never so many and so insistent. The instruction classes have never been so large, nor have there ever been so many baptisms as during the past year. Truly the Holy Spirit is working in the hearts of people and moving them to turn to the Living God.

In the Taming district, instruction classes were held at all outstations last spring; in the fall of 1936 at all stations except P'ien Ts'un. The spring class was the best held there for some time. Good interest was shown at Shwangtsing, Kao Ts'un, Nanlo, Fengku, and Lung Wang Miao. The enrollment at the various places averaged from thirty to sixty. From these classes thirty were accepted for baptism. Two were taken in by letter which makes a total of 32.

In the Kai Chow district 291 attended regularly for two weeks during the spring, of which 73 were accepted for baptism. A new preaching place was opened at Pei Chao, where 13 were baptized. The meeting place is provided for by a church member. The whole group seems greatly interested and promises a living, growing church. Every effort is being made to have these new churches provide their own meeting places, which will insure more lasting success.

Forward steps have been taken at Chang Yuan, with the opening of four preaching places in the last couple years. The increase in the number of inquirers and baptisms is appreciable. Instruction classes were held at five different places in the country, with an enrollment of 120, of which 25 were baptized. In the city 297 were enrolled in a class which lasted for four weeks, this being a Short Term Bible School and Instruction class combined. Of this number 42 were baptized , making a total of 67 in this district. Thus the total number of inquirers during the spring of 1937 reached nearly 1000, with the number of baptisms reaching a total of 160.

Tent Work There are two large tents in use in our field. These touch places which often would not be reached in any other way. A great deal of follow-up work was done this year in the Kai Chow district, so that preaching places were opened in seven villages. There are not sufficient workers available to hold regular services in all of these places, but several series of meetings have been held in each place. Prospects are that in each of these places a church will later be organized. A nurse accompanies the tent to help the sick who come daily for medical attention.

The tent at the north was near Hsue Pu Tsi during November and December; during Chinese New Year at Yen P'ar for two weks. In the early spring it was at Taming, for five weeks, and in the Feng Ku district the latter part of April and May. The attendance at all these places was very good. At Taming it was especially noticeable that the interest and results were better than in previous years. As a result of the work of the tent group, 50 persons expressed their desire to study the Christian religion. This fall neither of the tents have been set up, due to the heavy floods all over our field. Workers go out where they can in small groups.

Women's Work Two Biblewomen at Tsing Feng have done fairly well with regular canvassing of villages around Tsing Feng. They make it a point to always look up new inquirers and any who miss church services. They sometimes go out separately, or a volunteer worker goes with each one, thus reaching more places. The same type of work was aimed at Lung Wang Miao, but, due to family responsibilities, they could not give the work their undivided attention. Here, however, there was the largest instruction class held for some years, and the women did good work in that. From Nanlo one Biblewoman returned to her home at Chinese New Year, so Li Yun Hsuan was sent there temporarily, to help with the Instruction class and Laymen's Bible School. She did very good work particularly in leading, personally, women to Christ, praying with them, etc. She reports that 30 women with whom she dealt were led to Christ during the year. At Taming two health nurses worked with the Biblewomen in the city, suburb, and country, going to country places as far out as 12 miles on bicycles, provided for our Biblewomen by Missionary societies in the homeland.

In the Kai Chow district Mrs. Brown has been visiting the outstations a great deal. Here she renders much aid in interesting the women and children in Christ, as well as giving relief to the poor. She has enlarged the work of teaching the women to read. Reading classes have been opened in the country churches, and in some villages, where there are Christian groups. Since a good deal of Christian doctrine is taught in those classes, this work not only enables them to make use of the written page, but it also establishes them in the faith.

Most of the Biblewomen engaged in the work are graduates of the Kai Chow Bible School. This school is meeting a great need—the furnishing of trained workers for our mission work. There are a number of Biblewomen, recent graduates of the school, who go from market town to village, staying in one place usually from one to two months. They not only preach, but also hold reading classes.

In Chang Yuan two young women spend the mornings in house to house visitation, both in the city and the country, while in the afternoons they conduct a reading class in the city. One of these women, Ch'ang Jei Te, is especially good in doing personal work. She has the tact and ability, as well as the power of the Holy Spirit, to meet the need of the seeking one, no matter what her station in life may be. She makes it a point to look up or inquire about absent members.

Home Study Course At Chang Yuan the Home Study Course is used with splendid results. Upon completion of the study of several books (most of the pupils are illiterate when they begin) an examination is given. If they pass, Mr. Ewert gives each one a Bible. Then Bible classes are opened for these new recruits, so that they may become familiar with the Book of Books. While visiting Chang Yuan in the spring, we were greatly impressed by the fact that a large percentage of the church members owned and used Bibles. During a service the Bibles were used freely and familiarly. Many were marked with a red pencil showing that certain passages were precious to them.

Mrs. Voth has used this Course not only with illiterates, but also with her Biblewomen who are not graduates of the Bible School. She writes thus: "The Home Study Bible Course continues to be a medium of bringing to Biblewomen and lay Christians a knowledge and appreciation of the Bible. Evangelists at outstations were asked to help in the teaching and examinations of local pupils." Since February, Mrs. Voth personally gave ten examinations and taught classes of women twice a week, until the beginning of the Laymen's School. During the year 1936, a total of 40 examinations were given. The second class, receiving the first certificate or diploma, was "graduated" on July 4th. This is given on completion of two years of work.

At Kai Chow examinations were given to twelve who had studied the gospel of Matthew under the leadership of Mr. Chang, the head teacher of our Bible School. These were all wives of our leaders or personal servants. Reading classes have been conducted both in Kai Chow City and in the East Suburb, for several years, especially for illiterates, and the Home Study Course outline was followed.

Women's Auxiliaries During 1936 Women's Auxiliaries or Missionary Societies were organized in six churches or centers. These continued until the flood interferred with meetings. Once a month meetings were held, at which chapters from a book which the women were reading were discussed or reviewed, songs were sung and Scripture memorized. Offerings were taken each month, and special thank offerings were sometimes given. At the Shao Chuar-Anchuar Auxiliary as much as 60c was given at one meeting. At the Nanlo Auxiliary straw was braided and made into straw hats during the time the Short Term Bible School was in session. The Taming Women's Auxiliary, after completing the dolls which Mrs. Ewert took to the U. S., appliqued pillow covers and a child's bed spread. The most gratifying result of these societies was the spirit of unity in and helpfulness to the church which they brought about. At Tsing Feng the money contributed was used to go out and spread the gospel. The Taming Auxiliary contributed from their treasury to help the Nanlo Society get started on their hat project. So far this work has been sponsored by Mrs. Voth in the north end of our field, but we hope in time it will spread all over the field.

Short Term Bible Schools At our last conference a new method of helping our laymen was inaugurated. Bible instruction was to be given them for one month. These schools were to be opened in as many places as possible. Only four were held, at Taming, Nanlo, Tung Ming and Chang Yuan. Those attending were mostly earnest Christians. However, there were also inquirers who wanted to know more about The Way. The results were good, so it is hoped that in the future more schools can be opened with more attending.

Daily Vacation Bible Schools In the Taming area 20 schools were opened, about two-thirds of the teachers being volunteer workers. These workers were given ten days of training at Taming by Li Ching Hsien who has been in charge of these schools the past few years. Six in the country and one in the city were to be opened in the Chang Yuan area during the month of August, but, due to the floods and the war, no report has been received from there as to the results. The East Suburb church sponsors about eight each year which are held during the month of July, all the teachers being volunteer workers, except for a little help with board, for two or three. There was also one held in Kai Chow City which is normally very large. This work is excellent both for the teachers and the pupils.

Special Meetings Rev. Wang Hsun Ch'en of the China Mennonite Mission (Bartel Mission) and Mr. Liu Ming Hsun of our mission held series in many of our churches during the past year with good success. The power of the Holy Spirit has been manifest in the meetings. Many souls have been reborn, Christians have confessed sins and some have made restitution for things which they had taken.

Special meetings conducted by Rev. Brown were held at Nanlo, and at Lung Wang Miao by Mr. Wu T'ung Hsin and Li Ching Hsien. Rev. Wang of the China Inland Mission of Kaifeng spent a week at Taming, giving very helpful messages. These meetings help to establish the Christians as well as to interest non-Christians.

Has our evangelistic work progressed this year? Judging by the number of new converts—160—it has. There is a tremendous challenge there—to propeerly nourish these newborn babes in Christ. What can we do for them?

There are eight hundred inquirers who attended the instruction classes this last spring, but were not accepted for baptism. How can they be helped to truly find Christ?

There are churches partly independent, and others entirely dependent upon funds from the West, some are growing, others are weak. A few have been just recently organized. How can we help them grow?

Our church leaders need constant help and encouragement. Are we doing our share to help them?

Perhaps the biggest question which faces us now is this—what plans can we make in view of the present situation?

May the loving Father bestow upon us His love and wisdom, as we try to solve the many problems which will arise!

INDIA

WAS IT YOU?

Who supported Philip in India at the Mauhadih (Birra) Boys' School? You, who did send the means to prepare this young life ought to have the joy of knowing a bit of his life history.

But among the readers of this there are many YOUS—many such that have supported a Musanand, Joseph, Simon, Rachel, Dukhni, Dhobni, etc. There are many of them in our missionfield in India who, like Philip, owe their chance of going to school and be fitted for life's work, next to God, to some mission friend in America. Many of these are like Philip in happy consecrated work for the Master.

His name was not always Philip. No, he was one of the many unfortunate children of India, that are given an ugly name, so that evil spirits may not want to come to the child with sickness, accident, or death. Evil spirits are like some of us human beings, they admire a beautiful child and like a pretty name. Evil spirits brought death to child No. 1 and No. 2 of the family. They shall not take No. 3. Black bangles are put on the new little one's arm and it is given an ugly name. What evil spirit will want such a child! The fond parents' hearts are confronted. Was it thus in the home of Tuno in Sukhri? It must have been, for they gave their new little one the name Saito, meaning Shaitan-devil in English.

Little Saito's parents had left their home circles in Orissa where the English Baptists work. They and others came to Devri Zamindari in the Central Provinces, where land was cheap, because it was jungle and had to be cleared. Saito's parents settled down in Sukhri and his father became the village Kotwal. The duty of a Kotwal is to report to the government the births and deaths of the village and other special occurrences like thefts, riots, etc. Thus little Saito's father was a well respected man of the village, even though he belonged to the low Gara caste.

When Saito was only a very little boy, may be 5 years old, his parents made marriage arrangements for him with Hathau and his wife of the near by village Chandan. Their little daughter, Dhobni, became the bride of little Saito. The ceremonies at this engagement were in accordance with their caste customs and idol worship. Little did they dream, that these two little ones would have a beautiful Christian wedding in the lovely church of the Mauhadih mission station some years later. God wanted these young lives for his service and did lead in a wonderful way.

Saito's father had become a Christian and had been baptized when he was still in Orissa. He longed to have his wife and children, relatives and caste people learn to know about the Jesus religion. God took care of this longing. He sent missionaries to that village. They sent Isa Das and Mathurabai, their best evangelist and Biblewoman, to Sukhri to instruct and teach all such that wanted to know about the true God and salvation from sin in Jesus. After some time the missionaries had the joy of baptizing many in that region. Saito's mother and relatives and those of his little bride were among the baptized ones. It was a happy singing crowd that received the missionary and his family at the edge of the village in January 1918. What fun and joy it had been to make garlands by stringing green leaves and getting it all ready for their coming. Saito and other children eagerly came to the meetings to learn songs and Bible verses, and to look at Bible pictures. How interesting it was to help the missionaries' children gather jungle palms and build a playhut or to follow up with them, for a little distance, the track of the tiger or panther whose roar had frightened even the cattle the evening before!

Saito's heart must have been strangely stirred those 3 weeks that the missionaries were in his village. Then they had to leave for home. After some hours the family noticed one of the young Christian boys walking in front of the buffalo cart. It was Saito, and his friend Kaibal was with him. The cartdriver had expressed the need of someone to walk before the cart, and these were his volunteers. They were urged to go back home. No, this they were not willing to do, and happily they led the buffalos through the jungle and fields on the 40 mile journey for 3 days.

After reaching the mission station they stoutly declared that they were going to stay and go to school. After a few weeks all other Christian boys were brought by the evangelist, and thus began the schooling of the children of the many new Christians. One after the other of them found Jesus as their personal Savior and then were baptized. Many of them changed their names at the time of baptism. Thus Saito, the devil, became Philip, and Dhobni (meaning washerwoman) his young bride, became Elizabeth. She developed into a most beautiful and sweet young woman. Philip became the missionaries' and teachers' right hand. He was always eager to help, polite and dependable. When cholera took one of the boys away suddenly, Philip took the lead in quieting and reassuring the others. When the big flu epidemic turned the boys' rooms into a hospital, Philip again could be depended on for help. During the two months of vacation from school, Philip and all these other young folks became a great stimulus to the Christian community in their jungle-homes. At the mission stations in the boys' and girls' homes they had learned to pray before eating, to begin and end the day with reading God's work and prayer, to spend the Sunday in going to church and Sunday school and reading God's word. Now, during vacation time, they had so many chances to tell their parents and homefolks about all this, and to help them to do likewise.

Years passed by quickly, and before long Philip had finished the school at Mauhadih. Soon after that his wedding took place. That was a very happy occasion for all. Then he and his young wife were sent to the American Mennonite Mission to attend Bibleschool. After finishing their studies there, they came to their home surroundings and have been working ever since as teacher, preacher, evangelist, and Biblewoman. They have kept humble, and God is using them to bring many into the fold of Christ. Who was it that supported them? Has it paid? God grant Philip and Elizabeth many more years of faithful service. Who will uphold them and all other such workers in prayer?—A. H. Wiens.

At the last session of the conference, held at Sugar Creek, Ohio, a motion was passed that a levy of one cent per member be made upon the churches for the payment of conference expenses.

As there is need for this money now, to pay outstanding bills, the Executive Committee requests the various churches to send in their contributions now, to Mr. Eli Luginbill, Berne, Ind., who is the treasurer of the Conference.

HOME MISSION

NEWS FROM THE FIELD

W. S. Gottshall, Sec.

FROM THE MISSION STATIONS IN THE U. S.

Our Home Mission workers have sent in very interesting and encouraging reports for the last Quarter of 1937. For several who have just last year taken up the work it was their first report. They give evidence of good work and they have taken up the work with a will and ambition that will, no doubt, bring success.

ALTOONA, PA. Brother and Sister Emerson Slotterback, 2204 11th Ave., write that they are busy and enjoying the work very much, conscious of the presence of the Lord and His blessing. The Sunday School is increasing, the highest attendance was 78, the first Sunday in the New Year they had 74. A lovely Spirit prevailed at the election of the Sunday School officers and they hope to work together, faithfully, during the year. The services are fairly well attended. On January 2 there were 62 present. The Junior C. E. is growing, there were 31 present the first Sunday of this year. Senior C. E. is attended by 17-25. Wednesday evening Prayer meeting and Bible study is attended by 9-17. They seem to be economical housekeepers in Church affairs, having a good balance in the treasury on Jan. 1, 1938. The Christmas Program, on Dec. 24, brought out the real message of Christ's birth, was enjoyed by a good crowd on an icy night. They had Watchnight services with 34 present. They received quite a bit of clothing, and some money, which made it possible for some to come to Sunday school who could not come otherwise, and some can dress warmer. They do much visitation and see the needs in the homes, where the father has only part time work and, where in some cases, the children are neglected on account of drunkenness. They seek the Lord's guidance to avoid jealousy and covet our prayers that they may show no partiality. Letters written by individual members are speaking in very lofty terms of the good work done at the Mission.

PORTLAND, OREGON.—Brother and sister Edmund Miller are stationed there since fall, and favorable reports reach the Board from there. They have a pretty full program, with Church School at 10 a. m., followed by Worship at 11 a. m., and C. E. followed by a sermonette at 7 p. m. Wednesday evening Prayer meeting and Bible study. The first Thursday evening of the month the Ladies have their Missionary meeting, and the first Friday evening of the month they have Teacher's meeting. They announce their meetings on an artistically prepared sheet which, we are informed, is the work of Mrs. Miller. They are much encouraged in the work and say that the Lord is blessing them in a wonderful way. The Church school enrollment is 77, the attendance is from 45-50, and at the worship service from 40-45. They had a daily vacation Bible School. Recent accessions to the membership of the church were six, making now a total of 30. They receive donations and financial support from the Pacific District Conference and have kept good house, with a balance of $40.20 in the church treasury. A deficit in the Sunday school treasury of $45 was wiped out by special offering, so they could begin the New Year with a clean slate. Their address is 1113 N. E. Webster St.

SMITH CORNER, PA.—P. O. is East Freedom, Pa.—This place is holding up very well, and any one acquainted with the Mission and its environments is delighted with the improvements. John S. Raugh is the active worker there and he writes that the attendance the last Quarter was not quite so good, owing to weather and road conditions. They have the enviable reputation of retaining almost every one who attends Sunday school also remains for services. The results of the special services last fall were two confessions, both were baptized and received in the fellowship of the church, and three were reclaimed. The Young People are active as usual, helping with whatever is needed and they have. The best attended service is Sunday night, with about 50 persons present, and the Wednesday evening prayer and Bible study has an attendance of from 25-30. This all is in contrast to some of the large churches who have no Wednesday evening prayer meeting or Bible study, and many no Sunday evening service. The Men's organization is still active and helps to do many things. They raised money to paint the church and the home, but are not quite finished. Their year closed with a nice balance in the treasury.

MECHANICS GROVE, Quarryville, Pa. — This congregation under the leadership of Brother and Mrs. Sylvan Lehman has become a well established church. It has a nice church building, with a steeple and bell, and the members are contributing liberally to the needs of the congregation. Their contributions for the year were over eight hundred dollars for all purposes. Many repairs were necessary and in this the help of the Board was needed. All finances are in good condition. They have planned to pave some of the soft parking space in their large church lot. The Eastern District Conference held a very well attended and profitable Quarterly Conference here in October. The regular services and prayer meeting and Bible study are continued, and the necessary officers were elected at the passing of the old year, and they report, so far as can be seen, there is harmony and cooperation in the work of the church. They close their report by saying that they appreciate more than words can tell, the help of the Board.

CHICAGO.—Brother A. H. Leaman, 189 W. Madison St., writes: I am glad to say that we are making progress slowly. Our attendance at the Sunday morning services just about fills the church. The Sunday school runs from about one hundred to one hundred and twenty. We have about twenty-five applicants for church membership which we hope to receive into the church in the spring. We had our annual congregational meeting on the last day of 1938. As it was our first one, we got along fairly well. There seems to be a very fine spirit of cooperation in the church at the present time. On the whole we feel much encouraged and we believe the Lord is blessing us. If our present work continues as it has been, I fear that our church may be too small for our Sunday morning service.—Brother Leaman has the sympathy of all for the recent loss of his wife.

SISTER CATHERINE NISWANDER IN PHILADELPHIA.—She arrived on Nov. 2 to take up the work in the First Mennonite Church. Her first work was to look up the members who absent themselves from the services. All but one expressed the desire that their name be retained on the church roll, even thought they did not attend servies.—They have been encouraged to attend as regularly as possible for their own spiritual welfare, and the blessing they may be to others. All but the one referred to, confessed their neglect and desire to attend again, and the one not coming, on account of her children attending another Sunday school lamented her laxity in tears. She was urged to go where her children go.—A group of children attend her Bible class and they have twined themselves around her heart and she has learned to love them. She asks for the prayers of our people, so that she may have wisdom to deal with people that many may be won to Christ. Her address is: Catherine Niswander, 2011 N. 7th St., Philadelpha, Pa.

FROM CANADA

During the past few months a large number of reports were sent in from the workers in Canada, from the Itinerant Ministers and Girls' Homes, we cannot give them all in full.

In the winter the itinerant ministers have to put in their time. All reports tell of great activity in visiting big and little groups, which are scattered throughout the country, and which were served with Communion and Baptismal and Harvest Thanksgiving and Missionary services and personal work, and in several places they held Bible discussions. From Manitoba it was reported that the good harvest helped many financially and they are very thankful.

ELDER FRANZ ENNS could not travel much, because of the sickness of his wife, and he writes that if she does not soon get well, he does not know how soon he can take up the work again. (It would be nice to remember them in your prayers, Sec.) After New Year the work was given over to four ministers of his congregation. All are grateful to the Board and the supporters of Home Missions, and especially to the Lord, for the untiring support of the work.

Reports were received from JOHANN BUECKERT, GRETNA, MANITOBA; JACOB J. NICKEL, LANGHAM, SASK., and JOHANN REGIER, LAIRD, SASK. The following letter of thanks from the Wymark congregation was received:

Wymark, Sask., Dec. 8, 1937.

Home Mission Board of The General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America,
Dear Brethren in Christ:

I am instructed to write this note on behalf of all Mennonites in the vicinity of Wymark, for the purpose of expressing our deep and heartfelt appreciation and thanks to God and the Home Mission Board for making it possible for us to get a comfortable spiritual home. The need for this has been keenly felt for many years.

Our prayer is that God may bless the members of the Home Mission Board for all their efforts on our behalf. May Jesus make us worthy members of His bride, the true church of Christ. May this church stand through the years as a beacon-light, pointing sinners to Christ, and may its members constantly prove faithful in their duty of lifting high the banner of the Cross. Yours in Christ, V. E. Nickel.

The church was brought in from the country and partly fixed up. It needs siding and paint very badly. It was the property of the Old Colonier who moved to Mexico.

BROTHER N. W. BAHNMANN reported that he could not do so much work because of sickness, and had to spend some time with his family in British Columbia. An important event was the dedication of the Church in Swift Current and the opening of the Bible school, with two teachers and 25 students. They also express their gratitude that such was made possible through the help of the Conference. In July three pairs of teachers were sent out to conduct Bible schools for children at five localities, where large groups of children received Bible instruction free of charge. These five in the Swift Current District have organized sewing societies and worked energetically along. The report says that this Swift Current District is by far the largest and most promising field for Home Mission in Canada, a field ripe for harvest.

GIRLS' HOME, WINNIPEG.—This year there are not quite a hundred names on the Home list. Most of them attend the Bible hour punctually. On Dec. 23 they had in the Home, a very happy Christmas service. While the Christmas tree was burning they had singing and an address by the minister. Many presents were distributed. They had nuts, sweets and cakes and apples, and all were strengthened and went home with glad hearts. Mrs. Frieda Entz from Newton sent them $30 as a Christmas present. The receipts cover the outlay. Brother J. H. Enns writes that the Bible School is better attended in winter than in summer because the girls are not then driving out with their employers. They are going through the Gospel of Luke, Acts of the Apostles, and the Pauline Epistles, and in addition read edifying books. (Is that not too much? Sec.) For the Feast of celebrating Christ's birth, they are happy to commit poems, songs and dialogues, and they deliver them seriously. Around Winnipeg, there are a number of groups without a minister and they take up much of our time, every Sunday is engaged. They receive the Word gladly and ask us to come again. There is much opportunity to visit the sick in the Hospitals and to encourage the despondent. In the winter we have the Bible school and the evening school. Friends of our young people have bought a suitable house and put it at the disposal of our young people of both sexes, where they can meet under good Christian influences.

SASKATOON, SASK.—The congregation and Sunday school have spared no pains to prepare a service and happy occasion for celebrating the birth of Christ in the church, and especially in the hospital for the sick, and the children. Mother prepared a Christmas dinner in the basement of the church for the 75 girls who are guests at the Home. In a gleeful spirit the meal was consumed, and around the Christmas tree they gathered to listen to the songs and speeches. This was followed by the distribution of presents among the guests and the readings of 110 Christmas greetings which had been received. Friday they celebrated the occasion in the family. Services were held in the church on Christmas and Sunday morning, and Young Peoples' meeting in the evening. The services on the last night of the Year and also on Sunday morning and evening were devoted to a solemn consecration to the Lord for the coming year. With sincere thanks to the Board and all who help to support the work of Home Missions, they subscribe themselves as J. J. and Catherine Thiessen, 337 5th Ave., N., Saskatoon, Sask.

Sunday School Lesson

CORRECTING WRONG IDEAS OF RELIGION

Mark 7:1-13

This lesson raises the question: What parts of our religious practice today may be classed as traditions or forms which substitute man's rules and interpretations for the basic doctrines of God? So far as practices are similar to those in Jesus' day, we should apply His direct teachings to them.

Traditions of the Jews vs. 1-5

At the height of Jesus' popularity, the opposition also was appearing and developing. Hearing reports of His great work, Pharisees and scribes came from Jerusalem to watch with inimical eyes, ready to condemn. They saw some of His disciples disregard the superstitious rite of ceremonial washing which the Pharisees had imposed upon the people (vs2-4). Jewish traditions required extremely careful ceremonial washing before eating. These traditions were interpretations of the O. T. Law, given by rabbis in past centuries, and were held as more sacred than God's written law. They were quick to challenge Jesus about this serious breach (v5). One feels that there is only too much of this same spirit in the Church of today. Is God served truly by the mere keeping of man's rules and customs?

Tradition Exalted Above God's Word vs. 6-13

Jesus meets their challenge with the Word of God (v6, Is. 29:9-16), the very best way possible to meet any religious challenge. Hypocrites, He called them, their worship was more pretext, lip service, not at all from the heart. They failed to recognize Him as Son of God. Is our worship always from the heart? Does it regularly spring from true love? What do we think about when in God's house? We can worship with the lips but only when the heart is in tune with God. When we lose God out of our heart, we begin to find substitutes—customs and traditions, perhaps. It may be forms and ceremonies. We may even magnify distinguishing doctrines to the degree where we worship them above some vital gospel truths.

In God's sight, worship by observing only commandments of men, is vain (v7). In verses 9 to 12, Jesus gives a definite illustration of their practice of holding tradition above God's Word. His Word is definite and explicit (v10), but they made an easy way of escaping it (v11). They deliberately set aside one of the most sacred of the ten commandments by their traditional practices which made a man's vow of greater weight than God's Word (v12). The result of their emphasis on tradition was that in acual practice, God's Word was nullified whenever there was a difference between it and their traditions (v13).

Jesus condemned the Pharisees severely for replacing God's Word with human authority. This authority they treated with life and death seriousness. Their practical religion left God pretty much out of consideration. They became slaves of notions and ceremonies and worshippers of traditions, consecrated to a legalistic system instead of to God. They put light emphasis on fundamentals and placed life and death importance on more trifling things. To neglect the requirements of traditions, was to these formalists, the most serious of sins.

Christians of today need to guard diligently against the subtle inroads of this same spirit. There can readily be an over-emphasis on outward regulation in various ways, including the type of house of worship, manner of worship-service, posture in prayer, method of observing the sacraments and ordinances of the Church. Such must not become a substitute for the true worship of God.

God looks upon the heart, not upon the outer man. Formalism may destroy the true worship spirit.

Western District Christian Endeavor Convention

The Young People of the Western District are sponsoring a Peace-Missions-Retreat Oratory as part of their program for the present Convention year. They inform us that it is not so much a contest as a program of "genuine Christian education in all of the three main fields of their C. E. work."

They have a rather unique idea in permitting entrants to write a little talk of their own on Peace, Missions, or on their Retreat which has become an important part of their Convention activities.

The president of their convention, Rev. Walter Dyck, of Burrton, Kansas, has written a letter to the various ministers of the district in which he solicited the faithful support of the pastors of the various congregations. Many have expressed eagerness to support the new venture.

Rules, suggestions for writing orations and collecting material, entry blanks and judging blanks are being mailed to the C. E. groups. It is hoped to have the plan well under way soon so that the best talks can be given at the annual C. E. Convention in August.

CENTRAL IDEAS IN JESUS' TEACHING

Matt. 5:43-48; 6:336 28:18-20; Luke 6:31

Young People's Topic for April 3, 1938

Meditations:

M., Mar. 28. The Fatherhood of God. Matt. 6:1-4
T., Mar. 29. God's Loving Care. Matt. 10:28-31
W., Mar. 30. The Need of Prayer. Mark 9:17-29
T., Mar. 31. God's Kingdom Within. Luke 17:20, 21
F., Apr. 1. The Need of Faith in God. Luke 12:22-24
S., Apr. 2. The Difficult Way. Matt. 7:12-20

Suggested Hymns:

"I Would be True", "Take My Life and Let It Be"

Problems:

The heart of all of Jesus' teachings is briefly but thoroughly expressed in Jesus' words recorded in John 3:16. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

Some one has said that this verse gives us the triple-span bridge of salvation. The first span is the "Love-of-God" span (God so loved the world). The second is the "Death-of-Christ" span (That He gave His only begotten Son). And the third is the "Faith-of-man" span (That whosoever believeth in Him should not perish). Each span is important and must be in place before we can gain salvation.

I. About Our Relation to God:

The principle thing in this life is to be right with God. Our natural inclination is to make sure we have all we need for this life and then, if some one can help us in it, we may give some thought to our spiritual welfare. But the Lord's instructions are just the opposite. He does not ask us to do without the necessary material things, but we should not make them supreme. Let us learn to put first things first, and thus prove the promise of God that He will take care of our other needs.

II. About Our Relation to the Law: (Matt. 5:43-48)

Jesus here teaches whom we should love. It is natural to love a friend and a lover, but what Jesus demands goes far beyond that. We should love even our enemies. It is the only way for the true Christian to behave; and it is possible only if we have the love of God in us by the Holy Spirit. (Rom. 5:5)

Such conduct however will not make us children of God. For it would be impossible for one who is not a child of God to behave in this way. What Jesus means to say is, that such behavior will be a testimony of the fact that we have become the children of God.

III. About Our Relation to all Men: (Luke 6:31)

The words of Jesus are positive. He does not merely tell us what not to do, but what we should do. But even so, these particular words (Luke 6:31) do not constitute the way of salvation for us, and were not intended as such. There are those who claim that this is all the Gospel they want, or need. They are greatly mistaken. These are not instructions to tell us how to be saved. They are just another way of telling us that we should love our neighbors as well and as much as we love ourselves. (Mark 12:31)

IV. About Our Relation to the World: (Matt. 28:18-20)

Here are given four duties and one promise.

1. "Go ye". The command to go comes from the resurrected Christ, to whom has been given all authority in Heaven and on earth. He gives it because He is deeply interested in the spiritual welfare of all nations in the world. To those of us who live today, He says, "Go ye".

2. "Make disciples of all the nations". Evangelization comes first. After the Gospel has once been received civilization and education will follow naturally. Disciples are made when men and women are led to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ for their soul's salvation.

3. "Baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." Baptism is simply the outward seal and attestation of an inward experience.

4. "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." When discipleship has been definitely established, then teaching is in order. Jesus says, "Learn of Me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls" (Matt. 11:29).

5. "And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world (age)." Jesus who commanded with authority also promises us to accompany us as we obey. He does not expect us to do it alone, nor in our own strength, but He has promised to supply all that we need until this age of grace comes to an end. How better can we observe consecration meeting than by yielding a full obedience to our Lord's commands?

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

WE NEED CHRIST

Intermediate C. E. Topic, April 3, 1938.

Topics for the Month

Apr. 3. We need Christ
Apr. 10. "Follow Me"
Apr. 17. The undefeated Christ
Apr. 24. Next steps as a Christian

For Daily Study

Mar. 28. We need Christ for abundant life. John 10:10, 11.
Mar. 29. For a perfect example. 1 Pet. 2:21-25
Mar. 30. For redemption from sin. Col. 1:9-15.

Praise in Song

1. "What a Wonderful Savior," 2. "Just When I Need Him," 3. "Take the Name of Jesus."

Announcements: Have them early so as not to disturb the meeting after the discussion of the topic has started.

Quiet Worship (Announce the topic)

Song: "I Need Jesus"
Leader: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."
Solo: "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say"
Scripture reading: John 4:7-15
Poem:

"Christ is a path, if any be misled;
He is a robe, if any naked be;
If any chance to hunger, he is bread;
If any be a bondman, he is free;
If any be but weak, how strong is he!
To dead men life he is, to sick men health;
To blind men sight, and to the needy wealth;
A pleasure without loss, a treasure without stealth."
Giles Fletcher, in TODAY

Song: "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross"
Sentence prayers. Let the prayers express our need of Christ. Close with "Into My Heart"

Presenting The Topic

1. Select some of the best Bible readings and hand them out in advance for topics. Ask them to give an explanation of the passage, or make questions out of the topics, for example, "What is the abundant life that Christ offers to us?"
2. Discussion. Do all people feel a need of Christ? Why not? How can we help those who do not know Him to realize their need?

Consecration Service

A consecration meeting is of little value if it does not draw us nearer to Christ, make us more conscious of what He has done for us, and more eager to do His will. Symbols are sometimes a great help in realizing this purpose. We know Christ as Savior, Master, Guide, and Friend. He is all of these to us, yet at certain times He may mean more to us in one way than in another. Hang a reproduction of one of the famous paintings of Christ in a convenient place. In front of it set four white candles in candle holders. At the base of each one place a card with one of the following names printed on it: Savior, Master, Guide, Friend.

For the consecration service ask each one in turn to light a small candle at the large one that seems best to express what Christ means to him. While he holds the burning candle let him tell why in his own words, or give a fitting Bible verse. After all have taken part, close with "Jesus Is All the World To Me."

The superintendent should have charge of this part of the meeting, making the necessary explanation and reminding the Intermediates of some of the things that were said about "Christ Giving Himself" last Sunday. An announcement about the plan of the consecration meeting on the preceding Sunday, or at the beginning of the meeting may help to make it more successful.

JUNIOR CORNER

"That He Gave"

Suggestive theme for April. General Outline:

April 3: God GIVES Salvation
April 10: God GIVES the Spirit
April 17: God GIVES the Power to Work
April 24: God GIVES the Work

Aim: A study of the truth that all Kingdom building is done not by man but through him.

Verse for April: Without me ye can do nothing. John 15:5

Song for April:

"There is a green hill for away
Without a city wall,
Where the dear Lord was crucified,
Who died to save us all.

He died that we might be forgiven,
He died to make us good,
That we might go at last to heaven,
Saved by His precious blood.

O dearly, dearly has He loved.
And we must love Him, too;
And trust in His redeeming blood,
And try His works to do."

Special Sundays in April with Thoughts to be Woven into the Programs

April 3: Passion Sunday: the suffering Christ
April 10: Palm Sunday: the victorious Christ
April 17: Easter Sunday: the risen Christ
April 24: (No special Sunday): the commanding Christ

Silent Heart-Talks

Easter is such a rich season. It is spring and there is the waving of palms; there is a rugged cross, upon a hill, illumined with love; there is the joy of an open grave. Can you bring these near to the children?

1. Palm leaves: any greenhouse can furnish you with a few leaves that resemble the palm leaf if the true ones cannot be found.

2. A Cross: Last Christmas the Kress stores had many of them; small twenty-five cent crosses electrically wired for any standard socket. If you cannot find one now and failed to buy one then, a cross can still be made with the aid of a box and tissue.

3. A large picture of the open grave with the living Christ can be found in the Standard S. S. picture roll.

4. Also a picture of the commanding Christ.

Suggestions for April 3. Use the Cross

1. Opening service with thought of the suffering Christ in song and scripture and with the leader's prayer of thanksgiving for the God who gave His Son even unto death and for the Christ who was obedient even unto the death of the Cross.
2. Mission-minutes: remembering Mrs. Petter in her work and the Quilt-Patch-May-Basket project to help her in the work.
3. Study period: A study of the suffering of Jesus in the Passion-Week. These can be talks or scripture retold by juniors. There is beautiful music set to song that portraits the suffering Christ. The climax of the program comes in its conclusion which should bring the thought: All this was endured that we might HAVE Salvation. This truth can be taught: first, by allowing your juniors to read verses that state salvation to be a gift; second, by a heart-talk.

WANTED

Pictures of the Conference Churches and also the Questionnaires Not Yet Sent In.

There are one hundred sixty-nine (169) churches listed as members of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America. As stated before, the intention is to place a picture of the present church building of each of these member churches, together with the respective statistics, into Volume II of the History of the General Conference, now in preparation. Of the total number (169) ninty-three (93) churches have reported. Many have not reported thus far. All the matter for the book is to be assembled and ready for the printer in a few months. So the Questionnaires, filled in, are urgently needed at once. Very likely many have the matter about collected and ready for completing the Questionnaire. Please complete the same and send it on at once.

Please also include a picture of your church with the same. A kodak picture is preferred. Do not send a cut. Surely some one among you has a kodak. Get him to take a snapshot of the church.

If no picture was enclosed with the Questionnaire already sent, please send a kodak picture of your church now.

Your cooperation toward achieving a complete and liberally illustrated second volume of the Conference History is most cordially invited by Your Co-worker, H. P. Krehbiel, Newton, Kans.

Home Mission (Concluded)

VANCOUVER, B. C.—There was very much work to be done in this new field to fix up the Home, so that the girls might be pleased and feel at home. Many positions were secured for the girls and the congregation in Vancouver organized, and visitation work done. Brother J. B. Wiens writes: "I have the impression that a wide field is opening here in which a blessed and successful work can be done. We constantly hear of families who have arrived lately or who are expected to arrive soon. We see new faces in almost every service. With joy I can testify to the fact that there is a spiritual hunger and thirst here and that the Word of God is gladly received." The address is: 6460 George St., Vancouver, B. C.

Calvary's Hill

From the Mount of Transfiguration, Jesus set his face steadfastly to go to Jerusalem. He saw, before him, the Cross of Calvary and knew that there he must present, to God, the loving sacrifice of self. God had planned it so.

Satan also saw the Cross. To make an end of the Son of God,—what a victory for him! He believed the time at hand and sharpened the "sword" of his friends in whom he had instilled a deep jealousy and hatred for the Christ. To see the Son of the Most High in the cruel, shameful death of the Cross,—what a satisfaction! What an hour of victory! Satan had planned it so.

The forces stood on Calvary Hill. The battle hour drew near. A strange confession took place. In the cry of death, God was the Victor. Satan retreated in shame. Had he realized that he was fighting himself? Did he not know that this death on the Cross, which he believed would be his greatest victory in the battle against God, became God's greatest victory over him? Did he not know that out of this death would be born the Church of God upon the earth? Did he not know that Calvary's Hill would be the sacred spot and the Cross the holy shrine for a ceaseless pilgrimage of human hearts through the ages to come? Did he not know, he who sought to add sin to sin, that here the sins of the world would be taken away? That this was the magnet which, forever, would snatch hearts away from him and bring them into the Kingdom as children of God? Ah, Satan, thou art the cunning one. Didst thou not know?

When the stone was rolled away, when the power of the Risen One became manifest,—then Satan knew. Since that day the Cross, which he, himself, erected, became his chief enemy. Since that day he has never departed from Calvary's Hill. It is there that the human soul meets its tempter in his strength. Since that day he has guarded the sacred spot with a jealous eye, lest souls draw near to it.

A mightier watchman guards the Cross. On Calvary's Hill and round about the mightier forces of our God protect the way that leads the sinner there. Again and again Satan suffers defeat as the power of the Cross makes itself manifest in the giving of birth to the children of God. The One whom he nailed to the Cross has taken command of the battle on Calvary's Hill.—Joanna S. Andres.

The Season of Lent

This word (German "Lenz" means spring, "lententide" (Anglo-Saxon) springtime. In the Christian church it has come to mean the Spring Fast. Since our Savior practiced fasting, on occasions, and suggests it to his followers, Luke 5:35, "But the days will come, when the Bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast," it seemed appropriate to his followers that the recurrence of the time leading up to His suffering and crucifixion, or the time before Easter, should be observed as a period of prayer, penitence and inward cleansing.

Little note of fasting was taken by the writers of the first centuries. Justin Martyr reports that fasting and prayer were made a prominent feature at Ephesus in the administration of baptism. In the second century it had become usual to fast before Easter, in commemoration of Christ's suffering, though it was not a single fast, but rather a series of solemnities, begun on the afternoon of the day on which they commemorated the crucifixion, and was continued until Easter morning, lasting altogether about forty hours. At the end of the fourth century Epiphanus observes, "In the whole Christian Church the following fast-days throughout the year are observed: On Wednesdays and Fridays we fast until the ninth hour.

In due time, however, fasting, which was intended to be a time of practicing abstinence, penitence and contrition of heart, had sadly deteriorated. Chrysostom writes of it, "Therefore our forefathers, considering the mischief from such careless practices, appointed forty days for fasting and prayer, and hearing sermons, and for holy assemblies; that all men in these days, being carefully purified by prayer, and almsdeeds, and fasting and watching, and tears, and confession of sins, and other like exercises, might come, according to their capacity, with a pure conscience to the holy table." The forty days, no doubt, were suggested by our Savior's long fast during his temptation. The Lent rule for fasting varied greatly. It was usual, to abstain from food until evening. The food was to be of the simplest kind, animal food, wine and cheese being forbidden.

All this time fasting had been largely voluntary. But about the sixth century the Church decreed that any one, who neglected the stated times of abstinence, should be treated as an offender against the Church

Law, the use of flesh being particularly punishable, even to the point of depriving the offender of his teeth. On certain days of the Lent Season only bread, water, and salt were permitted.

In the English Church Lent was observed as early as 800 A. D. There, the Lenten fast does not include all the days between Ash-Wednesday and Easter. Sundays are excluded, because the Lord's Day is always held as a festival. The principal days of Lent are, Ash-Wednesday and Passion Week, particularly Thursday and Friday. In America, the Catholics and Lutherans adhere pretty well to the old practice. In many Protestant churches pre-Easter services of an evangelistic nature are being held, which practice needs to be encouraged. For we need to be drawn near to God and our Savior who suffered so much for our sake, before he rose triumphantly from the grave.—T.

Children's Work The Kindergarten or Religious School for small children, in the South Suburb at Taming, continued throughout the year. Several children were "promoted" from it to the Mission Primary School. The enrollment was 25, the average attendance 17. In this school many children from Mohammedan and non-Christian homes first come into contact with the gospel. It is regrettable to report that the teacher of this school passed on to the Beyond this summer. Children's classes were held in connection with station classes, where the children were taught to sing, to memorize Bible verses, and to read a little. At Kai Chow the teaching staff of the Neighborhood Sunday school entered upon a new venture during the summer of 1936. Every Sunday afternoon they went out in three groups to three different villages, to conduct Sunday schools on the street. These proved to be quite successful, for there was an average attendance of thirty. As a result the children of two of these villages began attending the regular Sunday school in the East Suburb, and real interest in the gospel was awakened in one village. This work continued throughout the year with the help of several Bible School students.

Chinese New Year For one week 130 volunteers went out on the streets of Chang Yuan and in surrounding villages to sing, preach, testify, give out tracts and sell gospels. They divided into four groups, meeting in the church for a season of prayer and then going out. The very fact that so many went out, was a witness for Christ, and people could not help but realize that there was a Christian church in the city.

The Lord moved the hearts of 72 to volunteer to go out preaching from Taming. From Kai Chow East Suburb about 70 went out each day, some on bicycles, others on foot. In the city of Kai Chow there was emphasis on street preaching in the city itself, while a few went out to nearby villages. In this way thousands of people were reached either by song or testimony, or by the printed page.

This voluntary preaching and testifying needs to be emphasized more than it is, for it is a splendid way to help the Christians to grow.

Plan of Operation of the Speaker's Bureau of the Western District Conference Peace Committee

In compliance with repeated requests for speakers on the subject of Christian Peace, this committee has prepared the following list of available speakers:

Bender, H. S., Goshen, Indiana
Dyck, Walter H., Burrton, Kansas
Erb, Paul, Hesston, Kansas
Harshbarger, E. L., Bethel College, Kansas
Hershberger, Guy F., Goshen, Indiana
Kaufman, E. G., Bethel College, Kansas
Krehbiel, H. P., Newton, Kansas
Kreider, A. E., Bethel College, Kansas
Regier, J. M., Bethel College, Kansas
Regier, P. K., Moundridge, Kansas
Rich, Willis E., Bethel College, Kansas
Richert, D. H., Bethel College, Kansas
Richert, P. H., Goessel, Kansas
Rosenberger, A. S., Bluffton, Ohio
Smith, C. Henry, Bluffton, Ohio
Smucker, J. N., Bethel College, Kansas
Wedel, P. P., Moundridge, Kansas

It is recommended that arrangements for these meetings be made through the secretary of the Peace Committee, as to the preferred speaker, number of addresses desired, and preferable date.

The above speakers agree to render their services gratis. It is requested, however, that offerings be lifted and sent to the Peace Committee treasurer, Mr. C. C. Epp, 530 East 1st Street, Hutchinson, Kansas.

These contrbutions are to be used toward reimbursing the speakers for their expenses, for literature, postage, etc.

The committee will also be pleased to consider the wish of churches that call for a speaker not on the committee's list, and invites that requests from the churches be sent to the secretary of the committee.

The Western District Peace Committee,
P. H. Richert, Pres., Walter H. Dyck, Sec.

Note: Other speakers may be added later.

Christian Education

EDUCATION IN THE LIGHT OF THE BIBLE

Week before last we presented the teaching of the Bible, emphasizing the sacred duty of every generation to impart its heritage and understanding of truth to the next. This week we present again some suggestions of the Bible concerning education.

(2) In Acts 7:22 we read that "Moses was instructed in all the wisdom of the Egyptians and he was mighty in his words and works".

In this resume of Israel's history we may interpret the statement regarding the instruction that Moses received as merely matter of fact. Or we may see some connection between it and the latter part of the verse which states that "he was mighty in his words and works." On the basis of the results of modern education, we have a right to conclude that Moses was more efficient in his work because of this training.

It is surprising to know what subjects were open to Moses in that ancient age in his university education. The following were among the subjects taught: "reading and writing hieroglyphics; the decimal and duodecimal scales in arithmetic, geometry, and trigonometry; astronomy; painting; architecture, including the use of the wedge, lever and inclined plane; dentistry; anatomy; chemistry; and a knowledge of metals, copper, iron, and bronze; likewise music and other accompaniments of the Egyptian religion."

Our modern colleges teach many subjects which may be labeled as secular and not directly related to religion but which are useful for life. Some of these can be taught with a Christian interpretation, although others like mathematics do not lend themselves so readily to any such interpretation, though even in the latter the teacher can show and live the spirit of Christianity.

Our colleges, in conformity with modern education, are teaching many subjects today which are very practical for life, such as home economics, agriculture, industrial arts, and other vocational subjects. Special mention might be made of the marriage courses which are at present being given in many colleges. Cultural subjects also serve the enrichment of life.

(3) Proverbs 2:7 states that He (Jehovah) "layeth up sound wisdom for the upright." This phrase of "sound wisdom" may be very suggestive to educators. Undoubtedly the word "sound" is used in its sense of "founded in truth, or correct in views or process of thought."

Education in the spirit of the Bible would emphasize the duty of distinguishing between truth and false learning. This we have a right to expect from instructors in our Christian institutions.

As an example of this, we may refer to the behavioristic school of psychologists who hold strictly to a cause and effect explanation of human conduct. This interpretation, fortunately diminishing today, leaves no room for man as a free, moral agent. A teaching like this while it may have some aspects of truth is not in harmony with Christian truth.

Educators should not leave their students ignorant of various theories and interpretations, but need to point out and emphasize those which are "sound", and in accordance with a Christian understanding of truth based on the Bible.

LET US PRAY

FOR CHINA - AND JAPAN

A heart-breaking struggle is on in the Far East. In both countries involved our Church has a large investment of life and property, and a sincere and profound interest.

Let us Pray for our missionaries in Japan. Some are in imminent peril. Some are in isolation and bewilderment. All are faced by unexpected problems and difficulties. Let us pray for their safety, their guidance, their success in representing the Lord Christ even in what seems impossible situations.

Let us Pray for our fellow-Christians in China and Japan. Many of them have been led to the Savior by the missionaries whom we have sent to them. They are the children of the Church. They are confronted by possible suffering and by temptations subtle and powerful. Let us pray that they may be led and strengthened by the Holy Spirit in bearing their witness to Christ, in finding the right course for them as Christians to pursue, and in being faithful to the end.

Let us Pray for the rulers, the leaders, and the people of Japan and China. If ever men needed to be taught of God what pathway to follow, it is now. War, whatever its outcome, will not assure the peace and the progress of the Orient. Only as China and Japan attain some common standing-ground of genuine goodwill, of mutual respect and mutual helpfulness, will there be any solution of the problem of the Far East. Let us pray in deep humility and after self-examination for these lands, that they may come, albeit through bitter experience, to that better understanding which will prepare the way for a glorious future—a Golden Age of freedom and justice and peace, which is none other than the Kingdom of God.

—Pres. A. S. Rosenberger, Bluffton College writes: The annual meting of the Board of Trustees of the College will take place Friday, March 25. At this meeting plans will be considered for the raising of needed endowment.—Teachers planning to prepare for elementary school work must enrol for a four-year course beginning next fall according to a recent ruling of the Ohio State Department of Education. Bluffton has not been training elementary teachers. But F. H. McNutt, director of the Division of Higher Education, has authorized Bluffton to offer the first two years and further indicated that it was in the realm of possibility that the school would be permitted to offer the complete four year course.

SERVING OTHER RACES

Mark 7:24-27

Gentile Mother's Faith Answered vs. 24-30

Jesus' severe criticism of the Jewish leaders (vs 6-13) greatly angered them and their opposition increased greatly. He deemed it necessary to leave Galilee for a time and go farther north (v24), outside the Jewish jurisdiction. He and the disciples needed rest. He desired to be alone with them for a while. Even to this distant place, His reputation had preceded Him. People sought Him. Jesus' presence can not be hid. His glory and saving power will shine out and the needy will gather about Him.

Among those coming to Him was a mother, a Greek, heathen by religion (vs25,26) and outside of the covenant promises and blessings, who pleaded earnestly for her afflicted daughter (cf. also Matt. 15:22). Jesus seemed unsympathetic to her at first, saying (v27) that His mission was first of all to the Jews (children), the Gospel "to the Jews first", then to others. The children's bread should not be given to the little dogs. Jews regarded the Gentiles as dogs. It does not seem likely at all that Jesus intended to refuse the prayer of this alien mother if she would show true faith in her heart. Her answer (v28) revealed her great faith that surely some of the crumbs would be permitted to her and her daughter, even though of a heathen race. She was seemingly fully conscious of Jesus' authority and readily agreed to His estimate of her. She appealed to His mercy.

Jesus responded to her faith in Him as Helper, Savior of all. He granted her petition (v29), giving her not merely a crumb, but a whole loaf, even all her desire. Faith in the heart of a Gentile, a heathen outcast, is just as sublime in the Lord's eyes as faith in the heart of a cultured and refined Christian. By faith are we saved and made partakers of the promises. On coming to her home, the mother found her prayer answered (v30). Prevailing faith is often found where the least expected.

Jesus Heals Deaf Ears vs. 31-37

Jesus and the disciples soon left Tyre and Sidon (v31) and made a circuit southeast through Caesarea Philippi, Decapolis on the east side of the Sea of Galilee and the Jordan. This too was largely a Gentile, Greek population. Here too His fame had spread and a needy one was brought to Him (v32). Jesus healed him (vs33-35). He touched the ears and tongue of the man, prepared his faith for the miracle, and spoke the word, and the healing was complete. Jesus sighed. He saw the world of people, His own in particular, spiritually in the condition in which this man was physically. Oh, the great multitude who need to come to the Christ and receive the healing touch. Prayer opens the way.

Jesus wished that this miracle should not be published as it would probably increase the opposition to Him. However they could not refrain from telling about such wonderful things. Jesus indicated clearly that salvation is not for the Jews only. The disciples needed to learn this and be prepared to minister to all nations and races.

When faith becomes active it finds a way to express itself.

Service beyond the border enlarges one's horizon and makes the heart more tender and less selfish.

SERMON SKETCH

ATTITUDES IN PSALMS THAT BLESS LIFE

A Calm Confidence in God and the Faithful Performance of Duty

A. J. Neuenschwander

Psalm 37:1-8:

Long ago as well as today, the apparent success of the evil-doer, caused great concern. The Psalmist was familiar with such who were pompous and pretentious, but he was not mislead or blinded because of their momentary success. He looked to the far end.

It is remarkable how easily one is led astray by the tinsel and show of things.

The Psalmist, however, looked deeper than things. He anticipates help from a completely different sort.

Today when work may be slack, and income meager, let us not forget the Psalmist's source of hope and strength.

1. Trust in the Lord.—Many people trust in their own strength, or ability, or schemes. These may and often do fail. Confide in Him. Feel confident that He rules and guides.

The Psalmist adds, singularly, and do good. The surest way of overcoming a chafing mind, is to keep it occupied with doing good for the Lord's sake. Result: Thou shalt dwell in the land and thou shalt be fed—fed on his faithfulness.

2. Delight thyself in the Lord.—Seek to find your happiness in the Lord. Many, yes, most people have three life ambitions: (a) To have something (b)To do something (c) To be somebody. Fine as these goals are in themselves, they are bound to lead to disappointment, unless motivated by a deep delight in the Lord.

The divine promise—and he shall give thee the desire of thine heart. Does this go too far? Indeed not, if the condition is met; namely, if the ambition to have something, to do something or to be somebody, is controlled by a delight in the Lord.

3. Commit thy way unto the Lord.—Commit is to give over to. This is asking a lot. Yet, we are committing things to others constantly.

Your good gold watch may stop. Do you attempt to repair it? Hardly, you commit it to the watchmaker. Your new auto refuses to go. Some try to fix it, but ultimately commit it to the mechanic. Your darling child takes violently ill. The Doctor comes, examines the child and gravely shakes his head. The Hospital is advised. You bundle up your darling, take him to the hospital, and commit him to a Doctor whom you may not know. Why not, then, commit your way, your life unto the Lord? He will bring forth success where you or I would bring forth failure. Personally I can testify to this truth.

4. Lastly, Rest in the Lord, wait patiently for him.—Let us stop our fussing and fretting. The Lord is more concerned for the well-being of his own, than you or I can be. He sees the end from the beginning. He will bring it to pass. How much better to wait in full confidence than to try to do it ourselves.

In conclusion: — Trust - delight - commit - rest, in the Lord and your life will be blest.

THE NEED OF THIS AGE

The primary need of the age in which we are living (are we living or merely existing?) is for a SENSITIVE and WIDE-AWAKE Christian Church. As soon as it again catches the Spirit of its Founder, it will begin to practice a bit of social Gospel and drive out a few demons and thieves. How can the Church live in the midst of such corruption as exists today and sit quietly by, untouched by it all? We live in a Democracy where we have the privilege of voting and petitioning out of existence such practices as harm our men, women and children. And don't think we do not have such in Freeman, S. Dak.! Where is our conscience?

According to Dr. Herman Weber of the Christian Herald, the Church seems to be doing quite well as far as membership is concerned. "More than 30,000,000 people attend churches and synagogues in America every Sunday. Church membership is growing at the rate of three-quarters of a million persons per year. In the last 75 years church buildings have increased seven-fold. Debts on Church buildings amount to only 11 per cent of their value. From 1800 to 1934, U. S. population increased 22-fold, while Church population increased 80-fold." Well and good! But let us ask, "What is wrong with our Spiritual life. Surely, with such an attendance the Church should accomplish more in the way of social and spiritual regeneration.—Rev. Harold Gross in Bethany Messenger.

— Miss Mae Latshaw, Barto, Pa.—Today, March 13, we had a Young People's Rally at Soudertown, with Miss Catherine Niswander and Rev. D. D. Eitzen as our speakers. It was a glorious session.

CORRESPONDENCE

ALBERTA COMM. CHURCH, PORTLAND, ORE.

On Friday, March 11, the Women's Missionary Society celebrated its ninth anniversary with a "potluck" supper to which members and friends of the church were invited. A most interesting program followed, based, of course, on a missionary theme. It consisted of selections by the orchestra, singing of choruses by the group, a vocal solo by William Bartel, a playlet, "Tela's Tenth" dealing with missionary giving, 800 feet of moving pictures on mission work in the Orient and, by request, 200 feet of moving pictures showing the wedding of Rev. and Mrs. Miller who were married just before coming to take up the work at Portland. We often read of Jesus' gathering with his disciples and friends around the table. Such contacts often brought great blessing. These little gatherings from time to time can be a blessing also, because of the fellowship and good-will they bring among Christians and those they are trying to reach.

On Sunday evening, March 13, it was our great privilege to have with us Mr. and Mrs. Homer Leisy and daughters, Leona and Dorothy, and Homer Welty from the Pratum, Oregon, church. The service was an inspiring one. Mr. Leisy has a unique presentation of the gospel message which is really soul stirring. Combined with his ability as a speaker is his artistic talent which he utilizes by a series of pictures and cartoons, illustrating the main points of his message. This method is very effective and he is used greatly of God in bringing the gospel to needy souls. We are planning to have him soon for evangelistic meetings. His daughters and Mr. Welty rendered several fine musical selections consisting of solos, duets, and a trio. We appreciate the work they are doing and pray that God may continue to bless them in it.

Rev. S. S. Baumgartner has gone east to attend the Home Mission Board meeting. Such a faithful worker is greatly missed from our church, but we wish him a safe and pleasant journey and a good time renewing his acquaintance with old friends back east.

For the past three weeks we have been enjoying the stay of Mrs. J. C. Jantz in Portland. She has been visiting her new grand-daughter, Gladys Aileen, who arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Wiens in February.

Rev. and Mrs. Miller have moved to a new home at 5520 N. E. 22nd Ave. This brings them near the church and within the circle of the membership.—Christine O. Miller, Corr.

HEBRON CHURCH, BUHLER, KANSAS

February 6, the Buhler H. S. "a cappella choir" of about 40 voices, under the direction of their instructor, Mr. Herzig, sang several numbers at the morning worship of the Hebron Church. This service that the high school has been rendering to the churches of the community is much appreciated.—February 25, Missionary Brown from China gave a very inspirational address. Due to sickness and bad roads the meeting was poorly attended, but those present received a blessing.—February 27, Missionary Enns from the Belgian Congo showed pictures at the Senior and Junior C. E. meeting. The children enjoyed the pictures of Africa very much, but they say they are glad that they do not have to eat "snake steaks", as the people of Africa do.—Correspondent.

ST. JOHN CHURCH, PANDORA, OHIO

"The Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad." Psa. 126:3.

Rev. A. H. Leaman of Chicago and Prof. Arnold Schultz of Bluffton College gave us inspiring messages during our evangelistic campaign in January.

Our Young People's Bible class, taught by the pastor, Rev. D. J. Unruh, meets each Tuesday evening and our Prayer Meeting is held each Thursday evening. Special music at our morning worship services is in charge of the Ladies Chorus, Men's Chorus, Mixed Choir and Intermediate C. E., each group serving once a month.—Each month our pastor, assisted by various Sunday School classes or church organizations, conducts Sunday afternoon service at the Putnam County and Hancock County Infirmaries.

Recently, a teacher of one of our primary S. S. classes presented each of her pupils with some narcisses bulbs, which they were to plant and care for and return to the Sunday morning service, when in bloom. During the past few Sundays we have enjoyed these flowers and it is a real joy to see the smiling faces of these little ones, as they bring their contributions to their Lord and the Church.—Each Sunday morning, preceding the sermon, our pastor gives a brief Children's Talk, which is enjoyed by each child.

Rev. H. A. Fast, Field Secretary, held three evening meetings at our church, giving us inspiring and encouraging information on the work the General Conference is doing.

We were glad to have Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Moyer, missionaries to India, speak to us concerning their work on the field.

On Mar. 3, our Missionary Society joined the ladies of all the churches in Pandora, in a service, observing the World Day of Prayer. Mrs. Clayton Steiner and the Misses Elizabeth and Minnie Hilty, missionaries to South America and China, respectively, were the speakers.—The church councils and wives of the St. John, Grace, First Church and Ebenezer, the latter two of Bluffton, recently enjoyed their annual fellowship pot luck supper at the Grace church. Next year the Ebenezer church will be host to the group.—Mrs. Clarence Schneck, Corr.

MENN. MISSION CHURCH, WICHITA, KANS.

A review of the activities of this church at Lorraine and Gilbert streets, Wichita, Kansas, during February: 1729 people were contacted through all meetings that were held. The pastor, Edward D. Schmidt, made seventy-one pastoral calls at a total of 800 car mileage. Seven new members united with the church, seventy took part in the communion services Feb. 6. In spite of the almost impassible streets and highways, due to a heavy snowfall, we had an attendance of forty-eight in Sunday School and ninety-six in church service on Feb. 20. Those in attendance came distances varying from six blocks to fifteen miles from the church. On Feb. 27 we had an all day attendance of 301. The average attendance during the month was as follows: Sunday school 83, worship hour 78, evening worship 62, Prayer meetings 35, Intermediate C. E. 35, Junior C. E. 10.—Thirty-seven young people motored to Buhler on Feb. 13, to render a C. E. program at the South Church there.—The Bethel C. Volunteer Band gave an enjoyable program the night of Feb. 27.—The Friendship Circle, composed of ladies interested in missions, has made eight comforters. Their attendance varied from 16 to 25. About fifty families of needy folks in Wichita were taken care of.—The Health Guild held its meetings every Monday night at 7:30. Seventy-six treatments have been given during the month.—We also enjoyed a visit from Missionary Brown of China.—Mrs. Ben. Frey, Corr.

EBENEZER CHURCH, NEAR BLUFFTON, OHIO

On Feb. 6, at a special C. E. meeting, Rev. William Augsburger was the speaker and his wife favored us with a solo.—On Feb. 13, our pastor Rev. Kliewer preached, by request, on the book of Jude, the outstanding feature being, Apostacy of today. He invites more requests, also announced that he contemplates visiting his laity, beginning the third week in February. After C. E. in the evening, an illustrated talk of much interest was given by Rev. R. F. Larson, on "Kentucky Mountain Mission Work." Mrs. Larson and her mother, Mrs. P. A. Kliewer, sang a duet. —On Feb. 20 we had infant consecration service, though, because of severe weather, only two infants were entered. However, great things were accomplished by Samuel, who alone was dedicated to the Lord at that time. "I will give him to the Lord all the days of his life." I Sam. 1:11.—On Feb. 27 the morning services were conducted by Rev. Henry Fast, General Conference Field Secretary. He illustrated his subject, the Conference activities, with a tree and its branches, also a "widening stream" of work in the service of the Master. The evening services were omitted, to hear the Swiss Men's Chorus give their sacred concert for the benefit of the Bluffton Community Hospital.—Bro. Fast continued his informative talks on Monday to Wednesday, and warmed our hearts for the work of the Kingdom.—Correspondent.

MENNONITE CHURCH, LIMA, OHIO

Greetings to friends and readers of The Mennonite. We had a very fine Bible Conference in our church Feb. 20 to Feb. 27. Dr. A. Schultz, Bible teacher of Bluffton College, gave us very inspiring messages in four services. On Wednesday evening he showed a series of pictures of Palestine that were exceptionally good. Dr. Wertheimer of Ada, Ohio, a converted Hebrew who has been giving Bible lectures for many years, was with us for four services ending Sunday evening, Feb. 27. His knowledge of the Word of God and his outstanding way of presenting it to us was a great blessing to all who attended. We are looking forward for his return in the future. We are looking ahead, now, to the Easter season.

We are in need of two Sunday School teachers for the children. Will you pray that the Lord may see fit to supply this need? We are glad that we can put our trust in Him.—Mrs. R. E. Bixel, correspondent.

SWISS CHURCH, ALSEN, N. D., 3-7-38

Dear Editor and Readers: God's blessing for a greeting. Winter is almost passed. It was not as cold as last winter and often before. God be praised! Feb. 6 the temperature was six degrees warm, but on the 12th and 13th cold and snow, and temperature below zero. This afternoon it is eight degrees cold. In the church things go along as usual, only Mrs. D. H. Schmidt is sick and the Joseph Wipfs have gone west, where his mother and brother are. Wishing God's richest blessing and wellbeing, your correspondent.

MENNONITE CHURCH, HILLSBORO, KANSAS

Greetings to all readers: Several Sundays ago Missionary H. J. Brown was with us. He gave a very timely and inspirational sermon. In Dec. the Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Wiens were in our church. Mrs. Wiens spoke to the ladies in the afternoon. Prayer week was observed during the first week of January. Different members of the church served with themes.

Christian Endeavor meets on the first and third Sunday of the month. The committee works hard to make the programs instructive as well as interesting. Our Sunday school work is going along very nicely. Prof. Herbert Wiebe is the superintendent.

Last fall a father and son supper was held in the church basement. The mother and daughter evening is planned for this month. Sometime in April the sewing circles will hold a bazaar.

Special meetings for the passion week have been arranged for. The guest speaker will be Rev. P. R. Schroeder. May the Lord bless the speaker, as well as the hearers.—Corr.

Unless the American people respond to the appeal for relief for China, some 20,000,000 people may die of starvation, and disease in that great country.

DEATHS

HELENA RATZLAFF, NEE SCHMIDT, was born September 26, 1853, in the village of Franztal, Southern Russia. Her father died when she was only nine years of age, but she received a Christian-minded stepfather in Heinrich Schulz, in whose home she grew to womanhood. In her youth she accepted Jesus Christ as her personal Savior and on Pentecost Day, 1871, was baptized upon the confession of her faith and united with the Rudnerweide Mennonite Church.

On May 1, 1873, she was united into the bonds of holy matrimony with Abraham Ratzlaff, with whom she was permitted to share the joys and hardships of life for almost 65 years. To this union ten children were born, five sons and five daughters; two sons and one daughter died in their infancy, and one daughter. at the age of eleven.

When in 1874 the emigration from Russia to America set in, Mr. and Mrs. Ratzlaff also joined and landed on a farm in Harvey County, Kansas. On October 3 of said year, they set foot upon the soil which has served them as a home for more than fifty years. Here the departed went through the hardships of the pioneer days of Kansas, later receiving the blessings of her labor and having a beautiful home. When the Hoffnungsau Church in Kansas was organized in 1876, both Mr. and Mrs. Ratzlaff joined it, and she remained a faithful member to the day of her departure.

As the wife of a minister and elder, and mother in her home, she experienced many joys, but also many hardships. She has helped to bear many of the burdens of the church, has labored and prayed for it. Her labors and prayers will now have their blessed reward. She was a true wife, a loving and caring mother. We wish her well in the presence of Christ her Savior after a long and weary life, for she left us the definite assurance that Christ was her personal Savior, and that through Grace He had accepted her as His child.

For several years she had been afflicted with heart weakness, which became more serious in the last year, and she had the aid and care of a physician. About New Year she got so that the doctor's aid could give but temporary relief. On Sunday she suffered a severe attack of heart weakness and bronchial trouble. She was rushed to the Bethel Hospital late in the evening, but about 4:30 A. M. she quietly passed from us. She will be greatly missed, especially by her bereaved husband. But God's ways are best, and we submit to His will.

She leaves to mourn her departure her husband, Abraham Ratzlaff; three sons: Henry of Newton, Kansas; Abraham and John of Moundridge, and their wives and daughters-in-law; three daughters: Marie, Mrs. J. P. Becker of Buhler, Kansas; Helen, Mrs.

J. H. Epp, and her husband of Hillsboro, Kansas; and Anna, Mrs. G. B. Gaeddert, and her husband of Buhler, Kansas. Also 18 grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren; two sisters: Mrs. Heinrich Pauls of Inman, Kansas; and Mrs. Peter Flaming, of Buhler, Kansas; and a large number of relatives and friends.

She reached the age of 85 years, 4 months, and 25 days. She had a desire to depart and be with Christ forever, where she will now see Him face to face.—

DIETRICH K. FRIESEN was born Feb. 26, 1894, in Hamilton County, Nebr. May 23, 1915, he was baptized upon the confession of his faith by elder H. H. Epp, and accepted into the Bethesda church. On June 15, 1916, he was united in marriage to Anna Siebert. This union was blessed with four children. He lived a quiet life, was always industrious, trying to make the best possible of life. He always seemed to be in the best of health, seldom complaining about any ailments. The day before his passing away, he was at his work as usual, also during the evening nothing unusual was noticeable. About 2:30 at night his dear wife noticed that he was breathing heavily, and, upon inquiry if he was not feeling well, he gave no answer. Within a few minutes he had passed away. Too suddenly, we say, he was taken from our midst, but we wish to say with the saint of old, "just and true are thy ways thou king of saints." The good Lord saw fit to take him in this manner, and we only pray that his will be done. He is not coming back to us, but we will follow him. He passed away on Feb. 26, 1938, at 2:30 a. m., the date of his 44th birthday. He leaves to mourn his departure, his wife, two sons, two daughters, an aged mother, father-in-law, and monther-in-law, five brothers, Klaas K., George K., John K., Frank K., and Isaac K., four sisters, Mrs. Peter D. Friesen, Mrs. John P. Siebert, Mrs. Bernhard G. Friesen, and Mrs. Ernest Epp. Also many relatives and friends.

JOHN A. SOMMER, son of Jacob and Marian Amstutz Sommer, was born near Pandora, Ohio, on July 28, 1878, and died at his home in Pandora, Ohio, March 7, 1938, having attained the age of 59 years, 7 months and 9 days. On Dec. 13, 1900, he united in marriage with Mary Hilty. One son, Dwight J., survives and is a teacher of music in a neighboring high school. His wife, one sister and four brothers also survive. In early life he operated a threshing outfit and later operated a garage. He was a skilled mechanic and continued in active business until a few years ago, when increasing ill health made it necessary for him to retire. While in failing health, he was able to be about until a week before his death, when he was confined to his home. A very large congregation gathered at the Grace Church on the afternoon of March 9th for the funeral service, conducted by Rev. Paul E. Whitmer, the pastor of the church.

MAGDALENA MILLER, NEE KINTZI was born in Austria, Jan. 31, 1862. She came to this country in 1882 and lived for a time in Mankato. In 1890 the family moved to Butterfield, where they have lived ever since. She passed away on Feb. 5 of this year, a victim of cancer. Mrs. Miller was a member of the Butterfield Mennonite Church and the Mission society. She leaves five children: Mrs. Katie Kiel, Lizzie, Susie, Jacob, and John. She also leaves one brother, John Kintzi of Butterfield, and three sisters: Mrs. John Deutschman of Glasgow, Montana, Mrs. Jacob Rupp of Westbrook, Minn., and Mrs. Paul Cornils of Evansville, Ind. There are also four grandchildren and eight great grandchildren. Mrs. Miller was a faithful Christian, attending services regularly as long as her health permitted. Her devotion to her Saviour is a witness to Gods' power to sustain in every circumstance. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her and an inspiration always to all who were fortunate enough to be her friend. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the home and at the Mennonite Church. Rev. P. J. Friesen and Rev. John Bartel officiated. Music was rendered by a quartet composed of Herbert Linscheid, Albert Linscheid, Mrs. Gust Miller, and Mrs. Jac. Stoesz.

EMMA S. HEIST, NEE HETRICK, wife of Charles M. Heist, passed away at her home in Spinnerstown Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 16, 1938, at the age of 70 years. She is survived by her husband, an adopted daughter, Mrs. Tilden Moose, of Quakertown, R. D., one sister Mrs. Emma Hillegass, of Spinnerstown. Funeral services were held from the C. R. Strunk Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon with continued services in the East Swamp Mennonite Church. Rev. W. S. Gottschall officiated, and was assisted by Rev. Hertzog of Allentown. Interment in Trinity Reformed Cemetery, Spinnerstown.

WILLIAM "BILLY" AWCKLAND, son of John and Phoebe, (nee Hanns) Awckland, of Quakertown, R. D., died at 2:30 o'clock, Sunday, Feb. 20, 1938, in the Grandview hospital, Sellersville, after a short illness of pneumonia. He was 2 years, 4 months and 18 days old. Surviving are the parents, a sister, Lucy, three brothers, John Jr., George and David, all at home, and the paternal grandparents.

The funeral was held Wednesday, with short services at the home of the parents, along the Milford Square pike, at 2 o'clock, and continued services in the East Swamp Mennonite Church. Interment in adjoining cemetery. Rev. W. S. Gottschall officiated.

Helps to Oratory Contestants

The Western District Oratory announced through this column in the last edition is well under way. It is a Peace-Missions-Retreat affair in which the contestants write their own talks and select their own topics. The following has been taken from a circular to the different C. E. groups of the district entitled: How to Collect Material for an Oration:

"a. Check present and past editions of our Mennonite periodicals such as The Mennonite, Herold, Bundesbote and Mennonite Weekly Review.

"b. Consult Current History, Times, Foreign Affairs or other secular magazines on current affairs.

"c. Use the Bethel library for material; have some of your friends check out material for you. Write to Eldon Graber or Karl Baehr at Bethel College, Kansas. They are on the debate teams and will be glad to give you some very good 'tips'.

"d. Read Missionary Notes in our papers. Refer to the Foreign Missions and the Home Missions report of the last Western District Conference Bulletin, or the last bulletin of the General Conference meeting at Upland, California, 1935. Write to Missionary August Ewert, Bethel College, Kansas, our C. E. chairman of missions.

"e. Speak to persons who have attended several retreats. Get the impressions of retreat leaders. Write to "Bennie" Bargen, editor of the Young People's section in The Mennonite, for ideas. (Wherever possible it is always better to see these people.)"

It is encouraging to see the young people take a hand like this, and it should promote more interest in our Mennonite publications.

Young People Meet

Eighty young men and women of the Eastern District Conference attended a Fellowship Meeting and Banquet in the Grace Mennonite Church, Lansdale, Pa., held on Saturday evening, March 12th. John Fretz, the Eastern Representative of the Young People's Committee was the toastmaster. He very ably kept the interest of the group keen during the meal and for the program following. Of course, Walter H. Temple added a great deal of fun and comments to the whole evening of cheer and fellowship.

A Girl's Trio from East Swamp sang a selection and John Boehr sang the solo "Hold Thou My Hand." These selections together with chorus singing by the group furnished the music.

The treat of the affair was the presence of Rev. D. D. Eitzen, President of the Young People's Committee of the General Conference. He spoke under what difficulty the Young People's Committee of General Conference is working. A friendship with Jesus is a transforming friendship and does make a difference in the lives of men. I have yet to find a better proof than a good, true to form Mennonite Youth, impressed by the motto on the Youth Page, "A United Mennonite Youth in Christ."

A great challenging task before our Mennonite Young People is to get all districts together and in that way mean something to one another, organize them and do things. Shall this young People's organization be something that runs by itself or shall it be a part of the Conference. There are two possibilities: (1) That the president of this Young People's organization be an official member of the General Conference Board of Education so that they are tied in with it and that the Young People's Organization be considered by any other Board, and (2) that the Young People's Chairman be a member of the General Conference Board.

He closed by urging the Young People with a vision and vital Christian relationship with God to give a fine representation at the General Conference in Saskatoon, and so help put this Young People's Program in effect and begin to do things united rather than divided.—Mae Latshaw.

Change in Terminology

At the International Field Secretaries' meeting held in Chicago in December, a most important recommendation was made to the Trustees of the International Society of Christian Endeavor, which has to do with the change of the name INTERMEDIATE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR to HIGH SCHOOL CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR, following the terminology used in the public schools. In communities where there are both Junior and Senior High Schools the societies of those age groups would bear those names respectively.

This change in terminology is a decided advantage since the name Intermediate as used in our Sunday Schools refers to a younger age group. For that reason it is confusing and not as acceptable to those of the regular High School age (13-18). The name High School Society has been in use in many places for some time, and those who have found any difficulty in using the name Intermediate will welcome this official change.

NOTE: The editors of the Youth Section are curious, indeed, to know what the reaction of leaders of young people is to the above suggestion. Will you write us, please?

CROWN HIM OR CRUCIFY HIM

Matt. 21:1-11; 27:11-23.

(Palm Sunday)

Young People's Topic for April 10, 1938

Meditations:

M., Apr. 4. Crucify Him by Crucifying His Members. Acts 9:1-5.
T., Apr. 5. Crown Him by Following Him. I Peter 2:21-25.
W., Apr. 6. Crucify Him by Dishonoring Him. Heb. 6:1-6.
T., Apr. 7. Crown Him by Accepting Him. Rev. 3:20-22.
F., Apr. 8. Crown Him by Obeying His Words. John 14:23,24.
S., Apr. 9. Crown Him by Loving Him. John 12:1-11.

Suggested Hymns:

"Crown Him With Many Crowns"
"In the Cross of Christ I Glory"

Problems:

Whether we admit it or not, it remains a fact that we are taking a stand either for or against Christ. Pilate asked the greatest question of all time when he said, "What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ"? It is great because it is unavoidable. Various answers have been given. Some, like Judas, sell Him. Some, like Pilate, refuse to give Him His rightful place. Some, like Felix, postpone a decision. Others, like Agrippa, simply neglect to take any stand. Where do we stand on this Palm Sunday evening? Do we crown, or do we crucify Him?

Outwardly Palm Sunday appeared to be triumphal, but from what followed, we know what it really was. That is why we speak of the tragedies of Palm Sunday this time. It was a fourfold tragedy.

I. The Tragedy Concerning the Disciples:

The disciples were unable to understand the entire transaction on this first day of the week when Jesus rode into Jerusalem. They looked for the glorious coming of His kingdom and were planning to occupy prominent places in it. So they thought that their ambition was about to be realized.

These disciples are like so many of the Christians of today, who dream of the world-wide conquest by the church and are not aware of the spiritual coldness in many churches.

II. The Tragedy Concerning Jerusalem:

Jerusalem had been visited by Jesus a number of times during His public ministry. Several miracles had been performed there. It had not been left without a witness concerning Christ. Apparently it had accepted His testimony and was throwing wide its gates for Him to enter. But in less than a week it flung Him outside of its walls as too vile a thing to abide within.

III. The Tragedy Concerning the Multitude:

Apparently the multitude composed of very enthusiastic supporters of Jesus who were really receiving Him. They gave Him a remarkable outward demonstration of affection. It seems as if everybodv did something to give an expression of welcome.

This was on Sunday. On Friday, Jesus was again surrounded by a multitude. This time they also raised a cry concerning Him, but it was "Let Him be crucified!" The multitude had now also turned against Him.

IV. The Tragedy Concerning Jesus Himself.

Christ or Barabbas—that was the alternative offered to the mob. They chose Barabbas, the notorious criminal. They rejected Christ. It was a blind and stupid choice, to say the least.

But the world today is faced with a similar alternative. It is for us to decide what we shall do with Christ. What is our choice going to be? To choose Christ is to reconstruct the world's life upon the sure foundation of His teachings and that is to choose peace and harmony and abundant life for all the world.

Let us choose Christ and His way—choose Him as the Lord of our lives and His way as the way for us to follow.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

"FOLLOW ME"

Intermediate C. E. Topic, April 10, 1938

For Daily Study

Apr. 4. Follow Christ's purity. 1 John 3:1-3.
Apr. 5. Follow His self-control. John 18:28-40.
Apr. 6. Faithful unto death. Rev. 2:8-10.
Apr. 7. The cost of following Him. Luke 14:25-35.
Apr. 8. Following the lighted path. John 8:12.
Apr. 9. Following the Shepherd. John 10:34-38

Pre-Prayer Circle

Read Rev. 3:20. Christ is seeking us to be His followers today. Pray that our hearts may be open to Him. Pray that someone might decide to become His follower. Pray that each one may understand better what it means to follow Jesus.

Praise in Song

Let the leader and pianist select a number of familiar songs which speak of "Following" and lead the group in singing these from memory, going from one to another without a break. The group will follow as they recognize the song. Announcements.

Suggested Worship Service

Piano (softly): "Jesus Calls Us"
Blackboard talk. (See below)
Sing: "Jesus Calls Us", stanzas 1 and 4
Scripture reading: Mark 8:34-38
Leader:

> "The Master said, 'come, follow'—
> That was all.
> Earth's joys grew dim,
> My soul went after Him;
> I rose and followed—
> That was all.
> Will you not follow if you hear His call?"
> —Selected.

Sing: "Where He Leads Me" (Stanza and refrain without books)
Sentence prayers

Topic Discussion

1. What is the cost of following Christ? Luke 14:25-35. What does this mean to you as a follower?

2. Why must "followers" be "doers" of the Word? Matt. 7:24-29.

3. What are some things in which we must follow Christ? (a) In His purity. 1 John 3:1-3. Why does purity begin in the heart? Matt. 5:8. (b) In His self-control. John 18:28-40. How did Jesus show self-control and Peter a lack of it? Matt. 5:21,22. (c) In loving His enemies. Luke 23:44; Matt. 5:44. How can we follow Jesus in loving our enemies as individuals? As nations? (d) In sincerity. Matt. 6:5,6; 16-18. Why does sincerity count for so much? (c) In going the "extra mile." Matt. 5:38-42. Is this a good business policy? What effect does it have?

Closing Story

What It Cost Miguel to Follow Christ

Miguel was a handsome boy of Spanish and Filipino parentage, who came from one of the richest families in Manila. His parents sent him to the Union schools because they wanted him to get over his wild ways and develop a manly character. But Miguel changed more than his parents desired, for during his senior year he decided to become a member of the Evangelical church. When he told his father, he went white with rage at the idea. He led his son into a private office, showed him the deeds to dozens of properties, worth a million pesos, and said, "These are all yours, for you are my oldest son. But if you become a Protestant I will disinherit you and disown you as my son."

"But," said Miguel, "will you not let me follow my conscience?"

"No," roared the angry father. "Out to the garage with you until you come to your senses!"

Miguel ate and slept in the garage for a week. Then his father called him to the house and said, "Now I guess you have gotten over this crazy idea. Have you —what?"

"Father," answered Miguel, "I must follow Christ at all cost. And this is what Jesus says," pulling a little Testament from his pocket: " 'He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me.' "

The father pointed to the door. As he walked out into the rain, the cross seemed more than he could bear. The son of a millionaire began washing dishes, sweeping floors and cutting grass for a living, but his face was alight with happiness. If you should take his Testament in your hand it would of itself fall open at the page where this verse is marked: "Everyone that hath left houses . . or father . . or lands for my name's sake, shall receive a hundredfold in their life." What have you left to follow Him? — Adapted from "Seven Thousand Emeralds"

Closing Song: "O, Jesus I Have Promised"
Benediction:

> "Let me live this whole week through,
> Asking what would Jesus do."

Blackboard Talk

With a cardboard pattern of a small shoe sole make prints on the blackboard, beginning at the lower left-hand corner and going toward the center. At the center show them going in two directions toward the border. At the end of the steps leading upward draw a cross. At the end of the one going downward draw a world.

In childhood our steps are guided by our parents. But the time comes when we must choose for ourselves if we will follow Christ and His call or our selfish interests and the world.

Back of the cross write light, peace, joy, hope, etc. Back of the world write sin, misery, darkness, etc. Speak of the contrast, depending on whom we follow.

JUNIOR CORNER

"Ride on! ride on in majesty!
Hark! all the tribes "Hosanna" cry;
O Saviour meek, pursue Thy road
With palms and scattered garments stowed.

Ride on! ride on in majesty!
In lowly pomps ride on to die!
O Christ, Thy triumphs now begin
O'er captive death and conquered sin."

Suggestions for April 10, 1938

Setting: Palm leaves and candles. Into this setting, the picture of Christ's entry into Jerusalem amid shouts of "Hosanna!"

Call to Service: Piano prelude

Opening Service: The Triumphant Christ

1. Leader's voice: "Hosanna! Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord, even the King of Israel." John 12:13.
2. Response by group: Sing "Praise Him! Praise Him!"
3. Leader's voice: "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold thy king cometh unto thee; he is just, and having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, even upon a colt." Zech. 9:9.
4. Group response: Sing "Praise Ye the Lord, the Almighty" verses 1 and 4
5. Leader's voice: "And he shall speak peace unto the nations: and his dominion shall be from sea to sea, and from the River to the ends of the earth." Zech. 9:10b
6. Group response: Sing verse 4 of "Come, Thou Almighty King"
7. Scripture reading in unison: Matt. 21:8, 9, 10
8. Leader's prayer

Mission Minutes: Announcements concerning project for May Day. (See past issues)

Study Period: Aim: To teach the truth that God works through the Spirit and through the Spirit we glorify Him.

1. Ride On! Let a junior read the lines of the song printed above.

2. Questions and Answers: Deal out questions to several juniors and the answers to these questions to an equal number of juniors. When the chairman announces this subject, let these juniors take their stand, before the group, on opposite sides. When question number one has been asked and answered, these two juniors take their seats, etc. till all questions have been answered. Question I: How can I best praise God? Answer: When I have the Spirit of God. Let this junior then read the praise of Zacharias after the Spirit had come upon him. Luke 1:67-69. Question II: From where does the Spirit come? Answer: The Spirit comes from God. Read Joel 2:27 and 28. Question III: How do I receive the Spirit? Answer: God gives it as a gift. Luke 11:13. Question IV: When do I receive the Holy Spirit? Answer: Acts 2:38; Acts 16:31. Question V: What is the Holy Spirit? Answer: The Holy Spirit is a Person.

3. Special music: "I Need to Be Filled"

4. Learning to Know the Holy Spirit: This could be a blackboard study. One junior takes his place in front of the group, another one at the board. The first junior reads the passage in which a name of the Holy Spirit is given. He asks the group for the name, the name having been given, the second junior writes it on the board. This is repeated until all names have been found. References that state names for the Spirit:

a. The Holy Spirit. Luke 11:13
b. The Spirit of Grace. Heb. 10:29
c. The Spirit of Truth. John 14:17
d. The Spirit of Life. Rom. 8:2
e. The Spirit of Wisdom and Knowledge. Isa. 11:2
f. The Spirit of Promise. Eph. 1:13
g. The Spirit of Glory. I Pet. 4:14
h. The Spirit of God. I Cor. 3:16
i. The Spirit of Christ. Rom. 8:9
j. The Spirit of Comfort. John 14:16

5. Hymn read as a poem by a junior

> "Gracious Spirit, dwell with me;
> I myself would gracious be;
> And with words that help and heal
> Would Thy life in mine reveal;
> And with actions bold and meek
> Would for Christ my Saviour speak.
> Truthful Spirit, dwell with me;
> I myself would truthful be;
> And with wisdom kind and clear
> Let Thy life in mine appear."

6. What the Spirit can do for me: Minute talks by juniors, stating what the Spirit does for us and then reading the verse assigned to them.

a. Causes us to understand God's laws and to obey them. Ezek. 36:27
b. Reveals to us the things of God. Luke 2:25-27
c. Teaches us. John 14:26
d. Makes us remember the words of God. John 14:26
e. Leads us to tell others about Jesus. John 15:26
f. Gives us the right words to speak. Luke 12:12
g. Fills our heart with the love of God. Rom. 5:5
h. Comforts us. John 14:16
i. Gives us the assurance that we are a child of God or tells us that we are not yet his child. I John 3:24

7. Looking to the Cross. Brief heart talk by leader. Turn the eyes of the children upon Jesus. Through belief on Him alone can the Spirit come within to do all these wondrous things in us and through us.

8. Closing meditation song: "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

9. Hold before the children the card bearing the motto for this month and let them repeat it in unison: "WITHOUT ME YE CAN DO NOTHING."

10. Closing prayer.

—Dr. A. C. Gaebelein, Christian leader and author of numerous religious works, on a visit in Germany, wrote to a friend in America some weeks ago: "We do not cease wondering at the wonderful conditions and enthusiasm of the people of Germany. A new Germany has arisen, and I am sorry to say that much of what we read in our American newspapers is nothing but slander. There is no question in my mind that Hitler is an instrument of God to save Germany and Europe from the Red Beast."

—Rev. P. P. Wedel of the Church of Christian, Moundridge, Kansas kindly sends us the full program of services for the pre-Easter season. The following are the interesting themes of his sermons: Sunday, March 6, Clothed with Humility; Sunday, March 13, Shall Christians Fast; Sunday, March 20, Tragedies of Life; Sunday, March 27, Living Spirits in the Mouths of False Prophets; Sunday, April 3, Christ's Last Journey to Jerusalem; Sunday, April 10, Enter, O Master Divine; Good Friday, Wounded, Bruised, Chastized; Easter Sunday, Hallelujah, Christ Arose!

—Rev. S. P. Preheim of Freeman, S. D. who has been soliciting funds for a conference printing plant in the Northern District, at the request of the Board of Publication, has been handicapped a great deal, first by snow, cold weather, and now by muddy roads, the very things that that section has been wishing for. But he has done quite well, just the same. He writes he likes the work, is kindly received by the brethren, and he is confident that he is helping a good cause.

—Rev. P. R. Aeschliman, pastor emeritus of the Mennonite Church at Colfax, Washington, was reported to be seriously ill with pneumonia nearly a month ago. But his successor Rev. Harley King later wrote us that he had considerably improved and would soon be able to leave the hospital for his home. We hope he is continuing to recover as rapidly as his rather advanced age permits. Rev. Aeschliman is widely known in our Conference. He has worked heroically to found and organize the Pacific District Conference. May God protect and keep him!—Quite a large number of the members of this church went to Newport to witness the ordination of Rev. P. D. Unruh as minister. They report a very impressive service.—Corr.

—Pratum, Oregon.—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hofstetter celebrated their silver wedding recently. A group of relatives and friends gathered at their home, immediately after the morning worship hour. A pot luck dinner was served, followed by a program, consisting of songs, readings, and devotions conducted by the pastor, J. M. Franz. All join in wishing the dear couple God's richest blessings and many more years together in the service of the Lord.—Corr.

—East Northfield, Mass., Mrs. Philip Porter: I am still very much a Mennonite, even though I cannot attend any of the Mennonite churches, and I like to keep track of what's going on. There is excellent reading in the paper. If only all Protestant denominations were doing as much to keep us from getting into war, as the Mennonites and Quakers do.—This letter is from a daughter of Rev. A. S. Shelly, known to many of our older readers. He was one of the pioneer leaders of our General Conference.—Editor.

—CORRECTIONS: In MENNONITE No. 8, Feb. 22, '38, Pacific District Treasurer's report, after Menno S. S., Menno, Wash., the donation of $22.21 should be added.—In MENNONITE No. 10, March 8, '38, correspondence from Johannestal, Hillsboro, Kansas, 2nd par. read: "Twenty Juniors took part in the quarter fund, contributing $51.50," in place of $15.00. In the same MENNONITE, under Jottings, read: Rev. David A. Schultz, instead of "Schulty".

—Rev. J. C. Kaufman, Moundridge, Kansas. March 10: Wish to inform you that we have just returned from our visit in the west. We enjoyed real blessings with the brethren and sisters there. May God bless the work! We had an enjoyable trip, and good health and were happy in the Lord. It is possible that we will shortly go to Medford, Oklahoma.

—Pres. A. S. Rosenberger and Field Secretary G. T. Soldner, of Bluffton College, visited Bethel recently. They had come out this way to investigate some of the colleges that furnish different kinds of work for students, to enable them to work their way through college. Bethel College, for instance, operates a printship, a bookbindry, a dairy farm, a photographic engraving shop; Hesston College a broom factory, and Tabor College an overall factory.

—Rev. John Lichti, Medford, Okla.: I have something upon my heart. When I hear the many sermons over the radio, by representatives of other denominations, I feel that we should also have a Mennonite Hour, to tell the world of the peace teachings of Jesus our Savior, and our adherence to this doctrine, something so much needed in this world torn by war and preparations for war.—My health is better, God be praised!

—Zion Menn. Church, Souderton, Pa.—Beginning with Sunday evening, March 6, the Pastor will begin a series of sermons for the Lenten season. The series will have the following themes: March 6, "The Secret of the Cross"; March 13, "The Cross in the Consciousness of Jesus"; March 20, "The Cross and Prayer"; March 27, the Bluffton College Gospel Team will have the service; April 3, "The Cross and the Love of God"; April 10,"The Cross and Daily Life". There will also be musical selections by the choir and other special numbers. The purpose of these meetings before Easter is to enable us to revive those things which matter most, to differentiate between the wheat and the tares. It is a time for spiritual house-cleaning, the setting in order of the household of the Christian.—Rev. Ernest Bohn, Pastor.

—From Menno Mennonite Church, Wash.—Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Kaufman on their way through here from Newport visited the church near Lind, Friday to Sunday, Feb. 18-20. Rev. Kaufman conducted two services and spoke at the C. E. meeting. This visit was greatly appreciated, since the church has no pastor now.—O. Franz.

—Rev. A. W. Friesen, Henderson, Nebr. writes: Last week was a busy one. Two funerals and the services led by Rev. P. P. Wedel made things crowded. The meetings were well attended. The main topic was, Seeing Jesus. For Bible discussion in the forenoon I Thess. was discussed. The second of this month I intend to be in Mountain Lake in the interest of the Northern Conference program. The Reverends Schroeder and John Bartel are the other members of the committee. The conference will be held at Mt. Lake, in the First Mennonite Church, sometime in June.

—Rev. H. N. Harder, Mission Church, Enid, Okla. writes: Last week I completed for the Home Mission Board of the Western District the purchase of three lots for a new church. The lots are located on corner of Adams and York streets. We believe they are very suitably located and trust the building of this church can be begun. It is my conviction that if we had a more suitable place of worship, the work would progress better.

—First Church, Wadsworth, O.: The pastor is preaching a series of I Believe sermons, based on the Apostle's Creed: March 6, I Believe; March 13, In God the Father Almighty; March 20, In Jesus Christ His Son Our Lord; March 27, In the Holy Spirit; April 3, In the Church; April 10, In the Communion of Saints; April 12, In the Forgiveness of Sins; April 15, In a Crucified, Dead and Buried Lord; April 17, Easter, In Life Everlasting.

The Meaning of the Cross

By Will H. Houghton

The Cross is at the very center of the Christian religion. It is no more possible to think of Christianity without the Cross than to think of the sky without the sun. The church which ignores or denies the Cross may be moral and ethical in its outlook, but it cannot be called Christian. It would be well for the whole church today to stand quietly and reverently where it can get a fresh glimpse of Calvary. We need to study again the meaning of the Cross.

The story of the death of Christ is startling to the casual reader and increasingly full of meaning to those who follow on to know. Every character in the story lives—the jealous priest, the cowardly Pilate, the indifferent solidiers, the unthinking multitude, the sad-hearted women, and the criminals on the neighboring crosses.

Almost every possible human emotion was pictured in the scene—envy, malice, scorn, mockery, sympathy, love, faith, they were all there. The religious hated him, the soldiers scoffed at him, the priests railed upon him, the women wept for him, and a criminal believed in him.

Books and more books have been written on the Cross, but no one life is long enough or deep enough to fully take in its significance. The Old Testament prophet tried to interpret it as he said, "The Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all" (Isaiah 53). There stands Isaiah, years before the event, with index finger pointing toward the Cross. Years after the event of the Cross we find another of God's messengers, the Apostle Paul, with index finger pointing back to say, "For he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in him" (2 Cor. 5:21).

The Cross means the death of the Savior. Before Christ was born the promise was given, "Thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins" (Matt. 1:21). His life did not save them. Only in his death could he be the Savior of mankind.

The Cross means the death of a sufferer. Christ suffered loneliness. There are several kinds of loneliness possible, and Jesus suffered them all. There is a loneliness of isolation. He said, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head" (Matt. 8:20). He seemed cut off from the rest of men—even in his life. He suffered the loneliness of shame. What must it have meant to the sensitive Son of God to be stripped and beaten and spit upon and exposed on the Cross!

The writers in both Testaments link us to the cross of Christ in a special way. It is not that they see on the Cross someone whom we may imitate or emulate It is that they see in Christ's death values in which we are actually to partake. "Christ died for the ungodly," (Romans 5:6) said Paul. "Who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree," (I Peter 2:24) said Peter. "Because he laid down his life for us," (I John 3:16) said John. All of these are but repeating what Jesus said in Matt. 20:28, "Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Redemption through the Cross is the motive running all through the Bible symphony until it reaches the grand chorus, "Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood."

The scene of the Cross had special meaning to one man that day. In the story as John gives it we have the mere fact that when he was crucified there were "two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst" (John 19:18). The Synoptic writers add further information, and Luke tells us how finally one of the thieves cried, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." And Jesus said unto him, "Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:42, 43). What is the use of one dying man asking another dying man to remember him later? That malefactor was convinced that there was something different about the death of this Man.

Rev. Paul Aeschliman Gone Home

Again the General Conference is saddened by the loss of another one of its valuable workers and leaders, our genial Brother P. R. Aeschliman, pastor emeritus of the Mennonite Church of Colfax, Wash. He finally succumbed to that disease from which aged people not often recover—pneumonia. He passed away to be with His Savior whom he dearly loved and loyally served on Saturday morning, March 19. Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon, at the church which he had served for over forty years. May God comfort his family and congregation!

He identified his lot with that of Jesus, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom," and the dying Lord turned to open his arms and his kingdom to a poor but believing thief.

This dying thief could say as did Paul, "He loved me, and gave himself for me" (Gal. 2:20). It is evident the Cross means identification, not imitation. The Cross means more than self-denial. It means death. The Christian is to live as if he had actually died with Christ on the Cross.

There are three things the Christian sees in the crucifixion of Christ. Each has its exhortation and its practical application.

The Christian sees the death of a substitute. He was sinless. I was sinful—yet he died that I might live. My hands had performed deeds of evil, but his hands were held to the tree. My feet had gone into forbidden paths, but through his feet the spikes were driven. My mind was impure, but on his pure brow the crown of thorns was pressed. My heart was a fountain of corruption, but his side was pierced. Mine was the sin. His was the suffering. He took my place.

The exhortation is to gratitude. To say with one of old, "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift" (2 Cor. 9:15), and having recognized that he died my death, it is now for me to live his life.

The Christian also sees the death of the sinner. Paul said, "I am crucified with Christ" (Gal. 2:20). How important to notice "with." He did not say, "I am trying to be crucified like Christ."

This leads to the third thing the Christian sees in the death of Christ—the putting away of sin. Shallow conceptions of the Cross are largely responsible for unnoticed sins in the lives of Christians. We cannot condone wrongdoing in our own lives when we see that the Cross was planted to do away with our sins. The Christian is to view the Cross as the means of deliverance from sin.—New Century Leader.

—Rev. J. J. Balzer, Mt. Lake, Minn., who favors the editor with very interesting and meaningful letters from time to time, writes among other things that he wants the conference printing press to take shape as soon as possible, because Ausbreitung is our principal duty as Christians. And the Christian press is the greatest missionary power extant. He says our conference has been walking on stilts in the field of publication, and that not even on our own. He refers to the rapidly growing Adventist church, scarcely as old as ours, which has 69 publishing houses that disseminate literature in 360 languages. He thinks we are too subjective, each one centered in himself, instead of being objective in what we believe and think and do. O that we had more objective Christianity!

—What gunpowder did for war, the printing-press has done for the mind; and the statesman is no longer clad in the steel of special education, but every reading man is his judge.—Wendell Phillips.

Christian Education

EDUCATION IN THE LIGHT OF THE BIBLE

A. S. Rosenberger

Continuing our search for passages which throw light on education according to the Bible, we present several more such passages.

(4) In John 8:32 we have the words of Jesus "ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

The attitude of our Christian colleges today is to seek the truth. It is the great opportunity of our Christian colleges that they are free to seek the truth in the spirit of Christian discipleship. Our public, state-supported institutions must necessarily limit their program so as not to offend any particular group of people. At the recent Administrators Conference in Atlantic City a warning was sounded against the teaching of religion in public schools and state universities. While not necessarily made from an anti-religious viewpoint, the statement emphasized the principle of complete separation of schools and colleges.

While our state schools do make a most important contribution in strictly scientific subjects, they are nevertheless restricted in seeking the truth in the social and religious phases of life. Here is the great opportunity for students in our Christian schools to seek and "know the truth". With this preparation our young people can go out to furnish Christian leadership in the needy world of today which needs a message of truth and Christian authority.

(5) Any number of passages might be referred to further which indicate that in the spirit of the Bible all education should be God-directed, Christ-centered, with an acceptance of the Bible as the rule of life.

Let us refer to Proverbs 1:7, "the fear of Jehovah is the beginning of knowledge." Also John 14:6, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life. No man cometh unto the Father but by me." Also II Timothy 2:15, 16, "from a babe thou hast known the sacred writings which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. Every scripture inspired by God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction, that the man of God may be kept furnished completely unto every good work." Such passages as these set a standard for a Christian teacher.

As our Christian colleges and schools continue to serve today in this light of Holy Scripture, they are in a position to render to our churches and young people an invaluable contribution.

That there should no man die ignorant who had capacity for knowledge, this I call a tragedy, were it to happen more than twenty times in a minute, as by some computations it does.—Carlyle.

Minutes of the Forty-Ninth Session of the Middle District Conference

Held at the Union Church in Sugar Creek, Ohio
August 12-15, 1937

The opening session was held Thursday evening, Aug. 12th with Rev. Adolph Friesen of Donnellson, Iowa, presiding. Rev. A. R. Keiser of Dalton, Ohio, president of the Middle District Conference, delivered the conference sermon.

The conference proper opened Friday forenoon at 9 o'clock. Rev. Arnold Schultz led the devotionals. Delegate's certificates were received by the officers. The minutes of the forty-eighth session held at Fortuna, Missouri, on August 27-30, 1936, were read and approved.

The chairman then appointed the following committees:

Nominating Committee: H. T. Unruh, P. A. Kliewer, and J. E. Amstutz; Complimentary Votes and Telegrams: C. H. Suckau, Jacob Unruh, and Irwin Bauman; Resolutions Committee: Adolph Friesen, D. J. Unruh, and Kenneth Neuenschwander; Auditing Committee: D. W. Bixler, Eugene Raber; Tellers: Erwin Graber, Weldon Basinger, Lavera Lehman, Nora Badertscher, Esther Amstutz, and Anna Ruth Mullett.

Following this, the First Mennonite Church of Chicago was voted in as a member church and P. P. Sprunger approved as its delegate. Complimentary votes were given Dr. I. W. Bowman, Pres. A. S. Rosenberger, Rev. Grover Soldner, Lester Hostetler, and Miss Inda Sprunger. Dr. A. C. Schultz and Dr. Calvert N. Ellis were welcomed as guests and accorded the privilege of participation in the discussion.

Then the first reading of the proposed constitution for the Middle District Conference was made by Rev. P. E. Whitmer.

It was moved and seconded, that the revised constitution be discussed at this Friday morning session but that the permanent changes be deferred until the Saturday morning session. Motion was adopted.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON SESSION

1:30-1:45 Devotional service by Dr. Arnold Schultz
1:45-2:45 Business session

The following report of the Educational Committee was read by its secretary-treasurer, Edison Sprunger:

REPORT OF THE EDUCATIONAL COMMITTEE

(Abbreviated)

The conference report in THE MENNONITE of October 13, 1936, quotes, "Since the Educational Committee reported a fund of about $300.00 on hand and the Women's Missionary societies had a program of visitation for a field secretary planned, the conference requested that $200.00 be made available for this work." Based on this the committee resolved, that the appointed field secretary, Miss Inda Sprunger initiate the project of visitation work. That she should then be paid, upon presentation of itemized statements of expenses, up to the sum of $200.00.

Report blanks were again sent to the Sunday schools of the district. Fourteen of the nineteen churches: Trenton, Fortuna, Noble, Berne, Bluffton, Chicago, Lima, Napanee, Summerfield, Sugar Creek, Wadsworth, Salem (Dalton), St. John, and Donnellson reported. In connection with that part of the standard that reads, "The average not less than 70 per cent of the total enrollment," there arises the difficulty, how many times may a scholar miss and still be counted a member. Probably the conference could adopt some rule in the matter.

To the resolution of the last conference, "That we endorse the action of the General Conference on the Christian S. S. Quarterly and respectfully urge its adoption by the Sunday schools of the Middle District," the following have reported its adoption: Berne, Bluffton, Dalton, Fortuna, Lima, Noble, St. John, Summerfield, and Wadsworth. Though sending out of S. S. standards may seem unnecessary to some, they serve as an incentive for the improvement of the Sunday school, and pastors and S. S. officers will do well to study them with a view toward improvements.

The committee commends the Sunday school work of the newly organized church at Lima, where a good foundation is laid for the future. We encourage the work of the workers there and commit them to the grace of God for inspiration and strength.

For the program Sunday afternoon, Rev. D. J. Unruh, member of the General Conference Board of Education and in charge of S. S. work, has been asked to give the address.

August 11, 1937 Committee as above

It was also resolved, that Miss Inda Sprunger's work be continued for another year. Motion carried.

It was further resolved, that a plan be worked out and presented as to how to remunerate Miss Sprunger and that the committee report upon same at Saturday's session. Carried.

Rev. A. R. Keiser, president of the Conference, read the following telegram from the First Mennonite Church in Chicago:

TO THE MIDDLE DISTRICT CONFERENCE,
SUGAR CREEK, OHIO

Dear Brethren:

Greetings with Eph. 1:2-3.

"The congregation of Chicago sends love and best wishes to the Conference and will be much in prayer during the various sessions. We praise God for His continued blessing on our work here in Chicago. Souls have been saved during the past year and the church is being strengthened all along the line. A fine spirit prevails and the Spirit of Evangelism is growing. We are hoping it will burst into a flame this fall and winter and that the church and community will be greatly revived.

"In our present organization we are desirous to be recognized as a member of the Middle District Conference with all its rights and privileges. We pledge anew our loyalty to her standards based upon the Word of God, and trust that God will lead the discussion, and that resolutions will be passed that will extend the borders of the Kingdom through out the district."

Sincerely yours,
First Mennonite Church in Chicago,
Mr. P. P. Sprunger, Delegate

The following report of the EVANGELIZATION COMMITTEE was read by Rev. Delbert Welty of the Noble Mennonite Church:

Resolutions of the Evangelization Committee:

Resolved, that we reassert to the Conference that the condition stated in the resolution at the Fortuna Conference in 1936, regarding the building of the Lima, Ohio, Church be met at the earliest possible date and that the amount in excess of $3500 be liquidated over a period of three years through free will gifts by all, or as many of the churches of our Conference lead to do so.

Be it further resolved, that in case it becomes necessary that we authorize the Trustees of the Middle District Conference to execute a first mortgage, in order to secure the creditors for the remaining present unpaid debt of the Lima, Ohio, Church Building Project. Adoption of report carried.

The following summary of expenses and gifts for the Lima Mission was then given:

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, 2:45-4:00

The Business Session of the Women's Missionary Society was opened with a prayer by Mrs. William Stauffer. Miss Inda Sprunger gave a discussion on "Methods of Creating More Interest in Our Societies". She also gave a demonstration on project work. The following officers were then elected: President, Mrs. D. E. Welty, Wayland, Iowa; V. Pres., Mrs. A. B. Krehbiel, Donnellson, Iowa; Sec.-Treas., Martha Gilliom, Berne, Indiana.

During the Women's Missionary session the men had an open forum meeting in the basement of the church with Dr. Calvert N. Ellis as leader.

FRIDAY EVENING

The evening was given over to a program by the Women's Missionary Society. Talks upon various phases of church work were made by Mrs. J. E. Amstutz, Miss Inda Sprunger, Mrs. Unruh, Mrs. Paul Whitmer, and Mrs. Lester Hochstettler.

SATURDAY FORENOON

9:00-9:15 Devotional service led by Rev. Soldner.

The following report of the auditing committee was read by D. W. Bixler:

August 13, 1937

We have audited the accounts of the Evangelization Committee, the Educational Committee, and the Board of Trustees Fund, and have found them correct.

Eugene Raber, D. W. Bixler

The report of the Auditing Committee was accepted.

Edison Sprunger then gave the Report of the Special Committee on Coordination:

1. We recommend the adoption of the last sentence in Sec. Five, paragraph two of the proposed Constitution. (a) That the Women's Work Committee shall choose which office that elected members shall hold in its committee. (b) The member of the Young People's Committee elected by the Conference shall serve as the Secretary-Treasurer of the Young People's Committee.

II\. That the Young People's Group elect the other officers of their organization. (a) That they elect a program committee of three, each serving a term of three years in rotation. (b) That the Young People consider drawing up a constitution.

III\. That the Secretary-Treasurer of the Educational Committee shall take care of all funds for the work of a field secretary. All receipts from the organizations for this shall be sent to said treasurer and he shall pay all bills of the field secretary upon presentation of itemized statements. The Educational Committee and the Women's Work Committee shall provide for the work of the field secretary.

IV\. All expenses of the Field Secretary shall be paid which includes (a) all expenses for material and labor for the "Vine Press"; (b) including payment of the salary of the field secretary's substitute, if said secretary must be absent from place of employment.

Respectfully submitted,
Edison Sprunger.

Adoption of the report was carried.

It was resolved, that a vote of thanks be extended to Miss Inda Sprunger for her zealous work for the Conference.

Rev. P. E. Whitmer, Chairman of the Constitutional Revision Committee, resumed the reading of the revised Constitution.

The motion was adopted that the clause under the heading "Ordination" be accepted as written in the printed copies.

It was moved and carried that Article VII be adopted as written.

It was moved and seconded that the Constitution as a whole be accepted as revised. The vote upon the motion was 189 yeas; nays, 0.

A motion was made and carried that the Constitutional Committee remain in office another year and that the permanent adoption of the Constitution be held in abeyance until the 1938 Middle District Conference session and that mimeographed copies be distributed to the member churches of the Middle District Conference.

Pres. A. S. Rosenberger, President of Bluffton College gave an optimistic report of the progress of the college.

D. W. Bixler, long the financial wizard of Bluffton College, was appointed the Financial Agent of the college. It is his duty to collect and pay debts. He reported that he has been successful in making collections and that the financial status of Bluffton College was in much better condition than it has been for some time.

The officers for the Middle District Conference were then elected making a complete set of officers as follows:

President, E. J. Hirschler, Bluffton, Ohio
Vice President, Rev. E. S. Mullet, Nappanee, Ind.
Secretary, Jacob Roth, Wayland, Iowa

SATURDAY AFTERNOON

1:30-1:45 Devotional service by Russel Mast.

It was moved and carried that the coming year's proceedings be printed.

The Resolution Committee submitted the following report which was adopted:

Resolutions

I. Whereas we have enjoyed the spiritual fellowship of this conference and have been favored with ideal weather, be it resolved, that we express our heartfelt gratitude to our heavenly Father for the spiritual and temporal blessings of these days, and that we do so by arising to sing number 191 (Now Thank We All our God).

II. Whereas the Sugar Creek Mennonite Church has extended to us the hospitality of its church and of their homes, be it resolved, that we express to them our sincere appreciation for every kindness and convenience placed at our disposal.

III. Whereas Dr. Ellis, Dr. Schultz and others have brought to us spiritual and challenging messages from God's Word, be it resolved, that we express our gratitude to them for these messages and that we accept these challenges of loyalty to the Holy Scriptures and to our Lord Jesus Christ.

IV. Whereas the work at Lima has been greatly blessed under the ministry of brother J. J. Esau and through the cooperation and financial support of the churches, be it resolved, that we encourage them to continue in the prayerful support of the Home Mission Committee in this and other work.

V. Whereas Bluffton College has presented to us some of the needs, problems and aims and requested our prayers, be it resolved, that we encourage the College in a scriptural interpretation of life, in a position of loyalty to the Lord Jesus Christ, and that to this end we give our prayerful support.

VI Whereas the destructive forces of intemperance are challenging us to action, be it resolved, that we recommend to the congregations to continue the instruction concerning the evils of intemperance and that we endeavor to rid ourselves of this iniquitious traffic.

Respectfully submitted, D. J. Unruh,
Kenneth Neuenschwander, Adolph Friesen

The invitation to the Middle District Conference to hold its 1938 convention at Trenton, Ohio, was accepted.

Rev. A. R. Keiser of Dalton, Ohio, was appointed to investigate rates and facilities for the General Conference to be held at Saskatoon, Sask., Canada, in July.

A motion was made that the proposition of holding a retreat be given to the Educational Committee for study and recommendation. Motion carried.

It was moved, seconded and unanimously carried that the Mennonite Book Concern be not moved from Berne, Indiana, and that the secretary convey this motion to the proper authorities of the General Conference.

It was moved and carried that the Conference rise in appreciation for the very inspirational messages by Dr. Calvert N. Ellis.

3:30-4:00 Bible message, "A Peculiar People", by Dr. Calvert N. Ellis.

Report of the Young People's Field Secretary of the Middle District Conference

After carefully studying the resolutions submitted by the Resolution Committee of the 1936 Middle District Conference, and believing that missionary minded church is a live church, and in appreciation of the splendid work and the untiring efforts of our senior missionary, P. A. Penner, our first project was to ask all the C. E. Societies to write a letter to Dr. Penner for his thirty second anniversary upon the field.

Another suggestion by the Committee on Resolutions was, that we publish a mimeographed paper. This we did in December, leaving it to the young people to name the paper. The name, "The Vine Press" submitted by the Ebenezer C. E. Society, was chosen. Four issues were published. We trust in the future we can publish the "Vine Press" oftener.

We visited the Bluffton Senior C. E. and Intermediate C. E. Societies, addressing both. Also visited the Trenton church upon the occasion of the "Mite Box" opening of the Women's Missionary Society. The Grace Church at Pandora was next visited, this occasion marking the first Mother and Daughter banquet, sponsored by the women of the Missionary Society. The following week, we addressed the ladies of the Lima Women's Missionary Society, also taking in the Children's Meeting, immediately following.

Two weeks later we attended the Young People's Conference at the Ebenezer church, and took part on their program.

The next place visited, was Dalton, where we addressed the Women's Missionary Society, on Saturday afternoon, and the C. E. on Sunday evening. At Wadsworth a Mother and Daughter banquet was the occasion of our visit.

Some time later a joint meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, and the Girls' Missionary Society of the Grace Church at Pandora was held, and we attended and addressed that meeting.—We feel very grateful toward all who so kindly received us and demonstrated such a wonderful spirit of co-operation and interest.

Regarding projects:—In view of the fact that very often in the fall, just when missionaries should be returned and new ones sent, the mission treasury is lowest, we proposed that the young people of the Conference try to raise what they could toward this project. Three hundred eighty-two dollars was raised.

Considering that some of the societies are not active during the summer months, we feel encouraged over this report, and we are confident that there are those who wish to add to this work.

Again, may we state, we have appreciated your kind interest and pray that in the coming year, we may unitedly do greater work; and that He may be honored and glorified through our efforts.

Inda Sprunger, Field Secretary.

THROUGH THE SIEGE OF TSINGFENG

(Sent in by W. C. Voth, China)

We believe Mission friends will rejoice with us that in the midst of the terror God is being glorified in China today. "Surely the wrath of man shall praise thee: the remainder of wrath shalt thou restrain." Ps. 76:10. The following letter dated Jan. 4th is from Evangelist S. A. Mah of the Tsingfeng church.

I want to tell you something of the Tsingfeng church in the time of trouble. For a time there was no one left in the postoffice and no means of communication. So it was best just to commune in spirit. Now the postoffice has reopened and does work as always, so I want to write now.

On December 15 disaster descended upon us. From 6 A.M. to 4 P. M. the city was beseiged, at four o'clock the city gates were broken through. But throughout the disaster we (Christians) experienced much the Lord's protection and consolation which greatly showed His glory. Here were 70 who had come to this compound trusting in His protection. All were ten-parts (perfectly) safe. In the midst of battle and under the rain of bullets we prayed constantly and without ceasing. Then came to our minds many Scripture verses in which we found comfort. Mark 8:35, Matt. 6:27, Ps. 91:2, Ps. 34:6, 7, Isa. 54:10-14 and many other such passages all came into our hearts. So we took courage and were not so much in fear. In the evening at 11 P. M. certain ones (meaning Japanese) forced open our front gate. The Lord graciously gave us courage and right words to speak, so we could receive them properly and the visit passed by.

On the 16th from morning till evening they came at intervals. Happily the Lord moved on the heart of their commander to issue for our church two court orders (a notice to Japanese soldiers not to enter or molest.) These were pasted on the front and back gates of the compound. Thus we received peace and security.

"But as to their treatment of those outside the church (non-Christians) I cannot bear to speak. (From other sources we hear that around 1000 were killed, most buildings on two streets were shelled and there was great terror during the taking of the city.

"Greatly to be rejoiced over, however, is the fact that, after this calamity, the Lord Jesus so manifestly began his spiritual work, leading many to come to church and worship. Now attendance at church is 200 to 300, formerly 80 to 100. The church building is crowded. In two weeks the contributions amounted to $28.00 (the amount contributed annually heretofore). After having experienced this causes us all the more to praise and glorify God. What a joy in this trouble even, to taste His grace and mercy. "Nan chung ts'ang en-- (grace hidden in disaster) is a truth we shall never forget.

"Wu T'ung T'ang is at present ministering at Taming. Mrs. Shang (Biblewoman) is still at Tung Ming. Mrs. Lu (Biblewoman) and I are at Tsingfeng. Also Wang Kuang Hsing (A Christian cobbler) and Mr. Han Kin Shan (Christian layman) have been greatly blessed of the Lord in helping (voluntarily) much in the church. Mr. Liang and Mr. Tu have both moved their families temporarily into the Mission compound. In regard to other matters I need not say more.

"Please remember us much in prayer."

FINDING OURSELVES IN SERVICE

Mark 8:27-38

Introduction

Jesus had spent most of His ministry up to this time in Galilee. Opposition was developing rapidly and He was nearing the end of His ministry. He withdrew from the regions where He was better known, to have more quiet conversations with the twelve and teach them the deeper meanings of His mission and their future work.

Jesus, the Christ vs. 27-30

Jesus and the twelve left Bethsaida (v22) and went north to the region around Caesarea Philippi. On the way Jesus asked them a question, "Whom do men say that I am?" (v27). They had various opinions (v28). Jesus was like John in some ways. Malachi, the prophet, foretold the return of Elijah to prepare the way for the Lord. In that day there began among the Jews, a discussion of Jesus which has spread and continued to this day. Periods of quiet, of revival, of conflict have followed each other. The heart of the world has found no answer for its cry, except in Him.

Jesus asked them a direct and pertinent question (v29). It is well to know what others think of Him, but the vital thing is, what do we say in our hearts. Error in our thinking of Jesus is fatal. Peter's confession, spoken for all of the twelve, is very positive—"Thou art the Christ, the Anointed." We need to give Christ His true place, first in thought, then in our hearts. Peter confessed that which had been revealed to him by divine illumination (cf Mat. 16:17).

Jesus Fortells His Death and Rising Again vs. 31-33

From now on Jesus devoted His time mostly to teaching His disciples. The days of great popularity were past. He tells them the things they needed to know (v31). The time was ripe for telling of His approaching rejection, suffering, death, and resurrection. The Son of man MUST be killed also MUST RISE AGAIN, after three days. Here are two great principles of faith—that Jesus is the Christ, and that by His death and resurrection He is the world's Redeemer. Peter again is quick to speak (v32), this time with a natural, human shrinking from Christ's cruel suffering and death (cf Matt. 16:22). His eyes had not been opened to the real purpose of Christ's coming. He and the others, were still thinking of an earthly kingdom. Peter reasoned that if Christ followed out His course as indicated, it would mean complete defeat for His cause. He did not yet understand Christ's principle of the highest service through the sacrifice of Himself.

Christ sternly rebuked Peter (v33) for unintentionally repeating Satan's temptation to take a short cut that would avoid all the suffering of the cross. There is no short cut to salvation. Man's mind shrinks from the path of service that leads through suffering and sacrifice.

Conditions of Discipleship vs. 34-38

Jesus now speaks to the larger audience (v34) and gives three fundamental conditions of discipleship. Deny self, that is, put one's own life in the background and live for Christ. Acknowledge Him as supreme Lord over all of life. "Take up the Cross", that is, go right on in the path of duty in which Jesus leads, without any compromise, even though such faithful Christian living may bring persecution, loss and misunderstanding. "Follow Me", that is, have the mind of Christ, obedience unto death if need be, and choosing the path of lowly service instead of that of ease and glory. If we would save our life (soul) for eternity, we must be ready to sacrifice our human life now (v35). The soul's value is beyond all comparison to earthly values and it may easily be lost (v36). The soul is eternal, things are perishable. They who are ashamed to confess Christ in profession and service, will lose the soul for eternity.

HELPING THE HELPLESS

Acts 9:36-42

Helping the helpless seems as something just natural for us to do, for are we not taught from childhood on, at home and at school, that "Little deeds of kindness and little words of love, make our earth an Eden and our heaven above."

Tabitha in our Bible-story is such a good example for us. When we think of her work in times of old and then picture her doing that work today, we would call it social service. What a large field there is today in larger and smaller cities for a Christian social service worker. It is work for the Master.

Thinking of helpless people, we know and have experienced that there are different ways of being helpless and so it also requires different ways of helping. Sometimes a kind deed or a gift is necessary, where in other cases a word of love and cheer and comfort is much more needed. This is often much harder to do, but if we do it as unto the Lord, He will give us the right words.

We all have experienced what a kind word will do when we ourselves have received it, or when we pass it on to others. I remember so well how a patient was cheered with a few words of kindness. I was working in a poverty stricken home. One day my patient received a bouquet of flowers with a little note enclosed. After she had read the little card, she handed it to me and said: "Read this, it means more to me than the flowers." The little note started like this: "I am sending you these little posies as God's little messengers, etc."—The flowers of course lasted only a few days but the kind words were appreciated and enjoyed long after the flowers had withered.

There are some among the helpless who are not willing to be helped, they are resentful. But if the love of Christ constraineth us to do this work, they will soon see that it is meant well. Emerson says, "Kindness is a language the dumb can speak and the deaf can hear and understand." And what does the Apostle Paul say about helping the helpless? II Cor. 3:3, we read: "Being made manifest that ye are an epistle of Christ, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God."

Everyone of us can become a letter of Christ addressed to the community in which we live. Only too well do we know that here in our city, as well as in other places, many people will never go to church and will never read their Bible, but they will read us. They will watch us closely to see whether we live up to what we profess, and they are going to be influenced by our words and deeds. Let us keep our eyes open to see the need around us and help the helpless.—Sister Elizabeth Wiebe, Beatrice, Neb.

—BETHEL COLLEGE THE RECIPIENT OF SUBSTANTIAL GIFTS.—The John A. and Clara Eyman Ruth children, Rudolph H., Ernest P., Arthur, Miss Emma and Mrs. E. A. Dettweiler of Reedley, Calif., Paul E. of Hesston and Daniel E. of Larned, Kansas, have given Bethel College a memorial donation of $1000.00 in memory of their parents. Mr. Ruth came from Bavaria, Germany, to Iowa with his parents, in 1852, and married Clara A. Eyman. They then moved to Summerfield, Ill., next to Halstead and Hesston, Kans., where Mr. Ruth, though principally a farmer, served also as president of a bank and deacon of the Church of Christian. Later they moved to Reedley, Calif.—The children are all doing well and they are glad to be able to set up for their good parents a monument where it will do good and continue to do so. A Wonderful Savior

Wherein lies the message of hope and of peace?
Wherein lies the promise that joy shall ne'er cease;
Wherein the assurance that we may be saved;
Wherein the rich blessings, so deeply engraved?

This message of ransom; this message of love
'Twas brought by our Savior, who now reigns above;
This Savior, Redeemer, Creator, and King,
This Jesus, our Lord, to Him we should cling.

'Twas He who once perished, on calvary's tree,
'Twas He who once suffered, severe agony;
The world hid in darkness, 'twas at the sixth hour.
This darkness, thus showed us, Christ's infinite power.

His mother, though weary, she could not depart,
But molded this picture, deep down in her heart.
How great was her passion, 'twas proven so plain.
Her strength seemed too feeble, to lighten His pain.

But calmly and bravely, endured He this strife,
Thus cleansing our sins, so that we might gain life,
'Twas at the ninth hour, His sweet peace was won.
Thus, proving so plainly, that He was the Son.

Oh let us remember, He died for our cause!
He bore His cross lightly; yea willing He was.
The cross which is ours, no matter how small,
We think it a burden, and shun thus, His call.

Suggested Hymns:

"Christ Arose" and "Fairest Lord Jesus"

Problems:

The Bible gives us a number of interesting paradoxes. At first sight they are apt to appear to be untrue or at least contradictory. But within them are the truths of God which can not be shaken. Among them are:

Weakness is Strength: When we realize that without Christ, we are nothing, and yield ourselves wholly to Him, then His spiritual power can operate in us and make us strong.

Humility is Greatness: It is the one who renders the greatest service to the largest number who rises to a place of high esteem among men.

Tribulation is Glory: Tribulation results in new works of grace, in that it develops patience, which in turn leads to experience, and experience to hope.

Death is Life: Just as we are reckoned to have died with Christ, so are we able to obtain life in Him. By death, He destroyed death. And this is the great message of Easter. There is life beyond death.

I. The Ransom: (Mark 10:45)

"Ransom," of course, means to deliver a person or thing by the payment of a price; or to buy back a person by paying the price for which it is held. It indicates the need of Jesus' death. It was the price necessary to secure the release of mankind from the power of sin. By His death on the Cross Christ accomplishes deliverance from the service of sin. Christ's ministry was part of His service on earth. But His chief work was done on Calvary when He died for us on the Cross. The redemptive feature distinguishes Christianity from any other religion. Christianity is not merely a sytem of ethics; it is the history of redemption through Jesus Christ, the personal redeemer.

II. The Rejection: (Luke 9:22)

Notice that this is a prediction on Christ's part. His death was not an unforeseen accident for Him. He knew that it would begin with His rejection. And He knew through whom that rejection would come. It was the elders, the chief priests, and the scribes. Jesus also knew what this rejection would mean to Him, yet He did not shrink from it.

But He also knew that on the third day He would be raised from the dead. His rejection was but preliminary to His resurrection.

III. The Resolution: (Luke 24:38-43)

Suddenly Jesus appeared in the disciples' midst and spoke peace to them. By His resurrection Jesus' own sinlessness was finally and fully demonstrated. He died to become our Saviour, and He rose to become our Lord. He is to be found never among the dead things of the world but ever among the living.

6. The Commission: (Luke 24:44-47)

Only when the disciples were fully convinced of His resurrection did Christ issue His great commission. The work of preaching was to begin at Jerusalm. But it was not to remain there. It was to be brought to all nations of the world. This still remains to be fulfilled. Shall you and I help to fulfill it?

Ever since the first Easter, Christianity has been a religion of victorious living. It has enabled its devotees to turn defeats into victories, tragedies into triumphs, calamities into crownings. It has enabled men and women to deal with handicaps and hardships with grace and power.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

The Undefeated Christ

Intermediate C. E. Topic, April 17, 1938

For Daily Study

Apr. 11. Victor over death. John 20:1-18
Apr. 12. Victor over evil. Matt. 4:1-11
Apr. 13. Victor over life. Rev. 3:13-22
Apr. 14. The Victor crowned. Rev. 19:5-9
Apr. 15. Victory over the world. I John 2:13-16
Apr. 16. Christ victorious in His people. I John 5:1-12
Apr. 17. Topic — The undefeated Christ. I Cor. 15:1-11

Decorations

Have something to suggest the spirit of "victory" in your decorations: a lighted or white cross; white flowers; a picture of the resurrection scene; a motto printed on the blackboard. Even a very simple thing, when chosen to express the theme can add much to make the meeting one of thoughtful reverence.

Songs of Victory:

Trumpet solo: "He Arose"

"All Hail the Power," "Sing Them Over Again"

Announcements. Missionary minutes (Latest news from the mission field)

Worship Service

Sing: "Christ the Lord Is Risen" Stanza one

Leader: Jesus said: "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth on me shall never die."

Sing stanza two.

Leader: "O grave, where is thy victory, O death, where is thy sting? The sting of death is sin; and the power of sin is the law; but thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Sing stanza three.

Leader: "And this is life eternal, that they should know thee, the only true God, and him whom thou didst send, even Jesus Christ."

Sing stanza four.

Scripture reading: I Cor. 15:1-11

Sentence prayers by those who feel led to pray.

Topic Discussion

1. Leader's Remarks.
2. Our Victorious Christ (short talks)
   a. Victorious over temptation. Matt. 4:1-11
   b. Victorious over nature. Mark 4:36-41
   c. Victorious over disease. Mark 1:33, 34; 40-42
   d. Victorious over his enemies. Mark 3:4; 12:13-17
   e. Victorious over death. John 11:43-44
   Let the members add other illustrations.
3. Questions.
   a. Does it appear to you that the church of Christ is victorious?
   b. Is Christ defeated in the lives of His followers? How can we live victorious Christian lives?

Closing Moments

Leader: "Beautiful Savior, King of Creation,
Son of God and Son of Man,
Truly I'd love thee,
Truly I'd serve thee,
Light of my soul, my joy, my crown."

Sing: "Crown Him With Many Crowns."

Benediction: Heb. 13:20, 21 (read by leader)

For the Leader

Speak of the "undefeated team," debating, basket ball or football which is so familiar to us. They cannot be called that if they have lost a single time they were put to the test. Their victory is limited to a single set of rules for a game. Jesus was tested in so many ways—ways in which human beings usually fail. Mention the different points in which He was victorious. If He had failed in a single one of them, we could not speak of an "undefeated Christ." He is supreme today. We celebrate His greatest victory, His victory over death. He is the only one who is undefeated there. Our meeting should be one of adoration. His victory is ours if we make Him Lord of our lives.

JUNIOR CORNER

Leader's Meditation

Romans 15

"In the power of the Holy Spirit,"—
How much I could do for Him!
How much I could serve the needy,
How many would turn from sin;
How many would find a healing
Of body and mind and soul,
How many would touch His garment
And touching it, would be whole.

"In the power of the Holy Spirit,"—
How much I would do for Him!
In self is nothing to offer;
In self is nothing to give
But sin in its greed and folly;
Sin with its sorrow and pain;
Sin with no resurrection
To make man live again.

"In the power of the Holy Spirit,"—
O Christ let me live for Thee!
Nothing of self with its weakness,
Only Thy life poured through me:
Only Thy love, Thy compassion,
Only Thy infinite wisdom,
Only Thy words to command.

"In the power of the Holy Spirit,"—
Striving forever with men,
Seeking the lost that are straying,
Guiding them homeward again;
Lifting the weak and the fallen
Into a service with Thee,—
O Christ, such infinite power
Grant through Thy grace unto me. —J. S. A.

Suggestions for April 17, 1938

IT IS EASTER

There should be power throbbing throughout your Easter program. The grave clothes though tightly wound about the Christ, could not hold Him, nor the guards in the strong armor of Rome. The mighty stone rolled away when the Christ arose, the Christ of power! The living Christ can not be bound, nor guarded, nor shut away by mighty stones, —He is the Living One and when you ask Him to be present at the memorial program to His resurrection, He will come and power will be in your midst. Tell the children this that their hearts might throb with the experience of His presence.

Call to Service by prelude

Opening Service

1. Song service with the theme of joy and victory
2. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving
3. Meditation: "There is a Green Hill Far Away" "Up From the Grave He Arose."

A group from your Young People's Endeavor could present this in song and chalk talk. The chalk talk begins with the scene on Calvary to the singing of the first hymn and then, as a part of the picture, the open grave is drawn to the music of the second hymn.

4. Sing in unison chorus of "Christ Arose"
5. Responsive reading: Matthew 28:1-10
6. Prayer that we might see Jesus, the Risen One, (Matt. 28:10).

Easter Mission Minutes:

Lead the children to pray for Easter joy on the fields. Easter joy comes because there has been a resurrection, the resurrection of our Lord first of all and the resurrection of a sinner that was dead but has now arisen unto Life. May their be much joy. Why not make this our Easter prayer?

Study Period.

Aim: to teach the truth that the power to work for God is His gift: to show the risen Christ of Power who wants to be the power in us.

1. Introductory remarks by chairman knitting together the thought of Easter and power
2. Where does power come from? Answered by a junior with Psalm 62:11; Luke 24:49
3. How does the power to serve God come to us? Matt. 9:8, Matt. 10:1; Luke 10:19. Let this junior emphasize the word GIVE
4. Does God want to give us power? Let a junior answer with Ex. 9:16
5. Looking at Jesus, the powerful One: Minute talks by juniors
    a. Christ the power of God. Let this junior introduce the following by this thought in I Cor. 1:24
    b. Seeing Jesus the powerful One. Chose incidents in Christ's life before and after the resurrection that will make the child feel His great power. Let several incidents be told by juniors
6. Discussion: How can I do great things for God? Lead the juniors to the correct answer by points discussed before:
    a. Power comes from God
    b. God wants to give it
    c. God wants to give it through Jesus
    d. Therefore, I must let Jesus come into my heart.—He wants to work through me. I must let Him
7. Sing in unison (twice) "Into My Heart, Into My Heart"
8. Repeat in unison verse of the month: "Without me ye can do nothing."
9. Close with prayer song in unison: "I Need Thee Every Hour." Verse one.

THE JERICHO WAY OF LIFE

Luke 10:27

On the Jericho road we have a picture of real manhood as taught by the Christ. One of our good professors used to tell us that on the Jericho road we have three types of life philosophy: that of the Priest, that of the thieves, and that of the Samaritan. The Priest would say whats mine is mine, and I shall keep it no matter what your needs may be. The thief would say, whats yours is mine, and I shall have it no matter what the cost to you. But the Samaritan would say, whats mine is yours and you shall have it at any cost to me. In Jesus we have the perfect personification of what it means to be a man after God's own heart.—J. E. Hartzler.

CORRESPONDENCE

EAST SWAMP CHURCH, QUAKERTOWN, PA.

It has been quite a while since our last writing, but we at East Swamp have not been sitting around. We noticed at our annual church report that a sum of $1200.00 had been paid on the debt. Our Sunday school showed a gain in attendance and offering over the previous year. A new class has been formed of young "married folks". This was made possible by a number of young people getting married. The "Victor Class" which is the name of the "young married" and single folks is indeed very busy supplying cheer in song and flowers to the sick of the neighborhood. When our perfect attendance awards were made, 48 names were listed which speaks well for the spirit of the church, and is also a great encouragement to the pastor as well as to the officers of the church and Sunday school. We had a change in our S. S. superintendent, Mr. Pershing Hallman, known to all as "Jack", succeeding his father Mr. Earl Hallman at the election last year. We pray God's richest blessings on him as the leader of this group.—During a two-weeks period we lost from our midst three of our church, Mrs. Chas. Heist, Master "Billie" William Awckland, and Mr. Patterson. May we pray God's comforting presence on the members of the bereaved families.—W. W. Cope, Corr.

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, DALLAS, OREGON

Greetings in Jesus' Name! It is time for a report from Dallas. Every one is interested in how we are coming alone with our church. The old one will soon be cleared away and, when that is done, we can start on the new one. The plans have been made now, and we are in hopes to get started soon.

Our pastor was in Monroe, Wash., for three weeks in February holding revival meetings there. While he was gone, Bro. Enoch Zimmerman from Salem held some very interesting meetings. We were very glad that he could be in our midst.

Bro. S. S. Baumgartner from Portland, Ore., and Rev. J. M. Franz from Pratum, Ore., were in Dallas, March 7, in the evening for a joint meeting with the pastor and board of our church concerning our new church.

Our pastor and Mrs. Widmer are the proud parents of a big boy born just before Christmas. A very nice Christmas present. They are very fond of him.—Mr. Leonard Schmidt, Corr.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, HALSTEAD, KANSAS

Missionary Moyer gave an interesting account of his labors in India. Members of the Senior Sewing Society quilting circle surprised Miss Anna Dester on her 77th birthday. A short program, consisting of scripture reading, prayer, singing of several hymns, a short talk, and a poem by various members. Miss Dester was active in church work, especially in the Senior Society, of which she was treasurer for a number of years; also as a Sunday school teacher. She feels lonely at times and gladly welcomes visitors.—The Jr. C. E., consisting of beginners up to the eighth grade, under the able leadership of Doris Mueller, favored the Sr. Society with a program recently. The interesting program showed good training which will help the young folks take their places in the Senior Society later on. This evening (?) they are giving a program at the Eden church and next Sunday at the Burrton church.

Miss Clara Kuehny, our Missionary to India, is on her way home on her second furlough. At present she is visiting at Upland and Los Angeles, Calif. We expect her in a month or six weeks. We welcome her home and wish her God's blessing and a well deserved. real rest.

The men of our church turned out forty strong for their first men's night, Thursday, Feb. 24. Dinner was served by the Dorcas Miss. Society. After the dinner they enjoyed a special program prepared for the occasion. Music was furnished by a quartet. Rev. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College, the guest speaker, spoke on "Opportunities the Church Offers to Men." He stressed particularly the opportunities of fellowship, work, worship, and service. Attention, Men! Save March 31 for another Men's night.

FIRST CHURCH, ALLENTOWN, PA.

In Matt. 25:40 we read, "Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." These are the words of Christ upon His return to the earth, when He is judging the nations for their treatment of the Jews.

We believe that God has that same feeling today for His chosen people and that He richly blesses those who are kind to, and those who are concerned about the salvation of Israel. And we are called to action, by the news we receive daily, of the great persecution of the Jewish people in many lands.

We, in Allentown are very fortunate in having Brother George Held, who is a missionary to the Jews in our own city. And because of his ministry a group of interested people have formed an organization of "The Friends of Israel". This group meets one Thursday night of each month, with some fine speaker. As they have no place for regular meetings, our church opened its doors to them and the Bible Study group of our church contributes regularly to the support of this work.

We have had many very good speakers, among them Russel Taylor Smith, Dr. Robert Fritch, Bro. George Held, besides many fine local ministers; and our church has been richly blessed. A greater interest in our Jewish brothers has been aroused, our S. S. is growing by leaps and bounds, the organizations of our church are becoming more active, we are taking a greater interest in the study of the Old Testament, with its history of the Jew and God's promises to them, and there is a deeper spiritual life amongst those who are interested in this work.

In Romans 11:12 we read that the "diminishing of Israel is the riches of the Gentiles", for through them we have salvation. Israel's need of the Gospel has never been greater than now. The Jewish nation faces a world crises, comparable to the days of Esther, and there is only one solution to their great problem. God gives the solution in His divine statement in Romans 1:16, "The Gospel is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, TO THE JEW FIRST."

Mrs. LeRoy Weidner, Corr.

SECOND MENN. CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBR.

Recently I had the privilege to attend the fellowship in the Methodist Church on the World's Day of Prayer. Different topics were given by ministers on missions of different countries and people in the world.

Japan: We have given too little to the yellow nation. Later missionaries came with less selfishness. Their hearts break in sight of the war of their yellow brethren. Pray to Jesus for Japan, also for ourselves to forgive us.

Africa: Pray for the people of the world. Pray for the people we have never seen. We lift up our hearts to God for tribes, who are in darkness. Some Ethiopians still have God from Jesus' time. When we think of Africa, we think of David Livingstone. Pray for Africa that Christ may be their God and many may be saved.

Night Mission in the world by the Salvation Army. Pray for the people who drift from one place to another on the east and west coasts of the big cities, who make their living in selling vegetables, mostly Italians, Poles, Lithuanians, Japanese, Filipinos, and Mexicans. Pray for them that Christ will be their Savior.

South America: Argentine, Brazil, Bolivia, Paraguay, and others. Pray for the missionaries, to give them wisdom and grace to learn their language in order to teach the Gospel to them. The best we do is very small in the sight of God. God has loved us before we loved Him. Pray that the love of God may come into the hearts of men in South America.

Indians: There used to be one million but now there are only 300,000 Indians. They are God's people, worshipping the great spirit. They don't talk much—lovers of out doors. Pray for them that they find their Savior.

China: 400 millions in war and floods. Psalms 2 was read as resembling China. Pray for peace to come into the hearts of the Chinese. Pray for the poor mothers and children who are chief sufferers in war.

India: 300 million Hindus are the most religious people in the world. They long for Christ. All Christians must live like Christ, to demonstrate His love. Stanley Jones was very near to the hearts of the Hindus. Pray for them, that Jesus Christ may enter into their hearts.

United States in big cities: United we must bring the gospel of Jesus Christ to the prisons, to the slums, to the poor, and the sick. Talk to our Master that many may be saved.

Colleges and schools: Pray for ourselves to have sympathy and faith to look into the future. Pray for Christian colleges that the students may not go astray. Pray for new power, new life, love and peace.

—Second Church, Beatrice, Nebr.—Sunday evening, March 6, the Kiwanis Men's Chorus of Beatrice rendered a very good, spiritual program in the Second Church. The church is looking forward to the coming of Prof. A. E. Kreider who will conduct evangelistic services during Holy Week. The choir is practicing the Easter Cantata, "Joy After Sorrow," to be rendered Easter Sunday. We pray for an outpouring of the Spirit during the festive season.

—Mennonite Church, Geary, Okla. — Rev. P. E. Frantz is giving a series of Sunday morning sermons on the great fundamental Christian teachings, which are proving interesting and instructive.—Missionaries Wiens and Brown were with us recently. Every first Sunday of the month, in the evening, we have a varied program which is always very well attended, also by friends from other churches in the community. Two of these recently dismissed their services to join us.—The final touch to the redecoration of the church interior, in progress for some time, was added by laying a new carpet on the rostrum, the front, back and aisles.—Corr.

—Another Young Mennonite Poet.—This time we bring a poem, entitled A Wonderful Savior, by Erma E. Goering of Moundridge, Kans. Read it on page OUR YOUTH SAYS. Miss Goering is a Bethel student. The other young Mennonite poets who are giving this paper the benefit of their talents, now and then, are: Edwin C. Graber, Freeman, S. D.; Monica Horsch, Upland, Calif., and Mrs. Elizabeth Lingenfelter, Hanston, Kansas.

—The Bethel College Infirmary.—For over three years Bethel has had its own infirmary, with a nurse and a doctor in charge. Since September the institution has had 1990 calls and 104 patients. In addition a program of disease prevention is carried on. About 225 tuberculosis tests, 210 small pox vaccinations, and 270 Wasserman tests have been given so far this year.

—Sunday School Committee Holds Important Meeting.—Last week the Reverends Lester Hostetler, D. J. Unruh and A. Warkentin, appointed by our Board of Education as a committee to work out a complete curriculum for Sunday school instruction and to plan additional sorely needed literature, met at Newton. A plan for supplying all units from Beginners to Adults with suitable lesson material was worked out, which is to be carried through as rapidly as facilities permit. As the first step toward the realization of this program is the study and preparation of a quarterly for intermediate classes. The two brethren from the distance left word to tell the Board of Publication that they expected it to see to it that this new quarterly can be printed in a conference printing plant, as well as our other publications.

—A $5000.00 Gift to Bethel College.—KATIE A. MOORE OF MOUNT HOPE, KANSAS, who died March 14, bequeathed $20,000.00 to four Kansas institutions: To Bethel College, $5000.00; the Methodist Church at Mt. Hope, $5000.00; the Methodist Home for Children, Newton, Kans., $5000.00, and the Methodist Home for the Aged, Topeka, Kansas, $5000.00. The benefactress' maiden name was Bender, and she is of Mennonite extraction.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—Since the passing of Rev. S. M. Grubb, for 39 years pastor of this church, Rev. I. I. Friesen has filled his pulpit several times. The Messenger, their Sunday Bulletin says: We have enjoyed and appreciated the messages brought by Rev. Friesen and are glad to have him and Mrs. Friesen with us.

—First Church, Philadelphia.—In their Bulletin we read: The Ladies' Aid presents BURKS BROADCASTERS, Tuesday, March 29, at 8:15. Proceeds will go to the Mennonite Home for the Aged at Fredricksburg. Admission 25c.

—A Good Suggestion.—From the Sunday Bulletin of the Wadsworth Church, Ohio, we glean this fine suggestion: The Christ of Calvary denied Himself everything, even His own life for you and me. Enclosed is a self-denial envelope in which we are given an opportunity to bring a self-denying offering. As a Christian you will want to use it in your family circle and bring it as unto the Lord on Easter.

—Monthly News Letter, Salem Church, Freeman, S. D., This church presents a musical program for its services prepared several months ahead. The following are some of the groups that share in this program: Church Choir, Men's Club, Children's Choir, Junior Choir, Women's Club, String Quartet, Family Groups, Older Men's Octet, Saxaphone Quartet, Older Mixed Group, etc.

—Mission Church, Portland, Oregon.—The superbly artistic Sunday Service programs prepared by Mrs. Christine O. Miller, wife of the pastor, now come to our desk regularly, and we surely enjoy them, for their art and particularly also for the fine editorials. As soon as space permits we hope to bring some of them.

—Bethel Church, Lustre, Mont.—Ours is only a small group, many members having moved away during the hard times. Rev. Albert Ewert has conducted a series of Bible Studies in Revelation at the various homes throughout the winter when roads and weather permitted. We are now studying Hebrews and are receiving a great blessing. Our girls' mission group, with the help of the mothers, have been organized only a little over a year, but have already sent articles which they have made to three different stations and have sent some money to the general mission fund. A mite box program will be planned in the near future, the boxes were distributed almost a year ago.—Mrs. Peter Bergman, Corr.

Gratefully acknowledged,
Mrs. Frieda Regier Entz, Treas.

Every impulse and stroke of missionary power on earth is from the heart of Christ. He sows, and there is a harvest. He touches nations, and there arises a brotherhood, not only civilized by His light, but sanctified by His love.

All Suffering is Lonely

By Grace Noll Crowell

All suffering is lonely. We may be Surrounded by a host of friends who would Reach out with eagerness to minister
Within our solitude.

But Oh, no human hand can touch the heart;
Our dearest friend is stranger to our need;
In utter loneliness we stand apart,
Uncomforted, indeed.

If it were not for One whose heart has known
The loneliest roads, the bitterest agony;
Whose friends slept soundly as He prayed alone
In dark Gethsemane.

Who climbed a lonely hill on April day
That we through lonely hours might touch His hands,
To find we are companioned in the dark
By One who understands.

Heroic Christ

By Edwin Markham

All life-roads hear the whisper of his tread;
All gates must open Him, and at last
His house will be the Temple of the Vast.
And even the earthly kings that all men dread
Must place the world's crown on His souvereign head—
Yea, even the toilers, earth's rejected men,
Long prisoned in the old industrial den—
Yes, even the dim hosts of the marching dead.

Five words soar bravely from the ancient Creed:
"The Christ descended into Hell!" In this
His love took body in heroic deed.
Think not he idles in the happy suns;
For He is ever in the old Abyss
Searching all roads to find the wandered ones.

The Mystery of Calvary

By Leona Dawson Cole

Jew and Gentile, scribe and Pharisee,
Were in the mob that clamored for the tree,
They followed up the hill but did not know
That it was love not courage that made Him go.

The soldiers, 'mid the howling rabble bands,
Made sure the spikes that tore His feet and hands.
Their exultation pierced the murky air—
But it was love, not nails that held Him there.

Passion Week

During the closing week of the life of our Savior there is unrolled before our eyes the world's greatest and most meaningful tragedy, with scenes in which human passions and mortal depravity run their full gamut.

On Palm Sunday a mob-like throng, drunk with efferescent joy, shout their acclaims, "Hosanna to the son of David . . . Blessed is the King that cometh in the name of the Lord," and strew the highway with palm leaves, flowers, and their own garments, in adoration of Jesus. No monarch's triumphal entry has ever equalled Jesus' entry into Jerusalem on that day.

But already the Pharisees inject a discordant note by asking Jesus to request the disciples to stop the cries. The Master, however, calmly replies, "If these hold their peace, the stones will cry out."

On Monday Jesus drives the traders and gamblers from the Temple and, although this causes much bad blood, some children's hosannas in praise of him are heard above the din. Urged by the Pharisees to stop these, the Friend of Children replies, "Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings hast thou perfected praise."

On Tuesday the rulers and elders of the people pester Jesus with questions concerning the source of his power in the performance of miracles, and Jesus so thoroughly stuffs their mouths with his unimpeachable answer that they retreat in shame. He follows this up with three parables of warning to his enemies. Stirred to more intense enmity against him, they now attack him with a triple battery of questions: First come the Pharisees with the query, "Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar?" Next are the Sadducees with the catchy question concerning resurrection; and lastly the Scribes with the query, "Which is the greatest commandment?" Jesus' retorts to all these questions are among the profoundest answers ever given. Following this, Jesus uttered his seven-fold woes over the hypocritical leaders of his people and prophesied the destruction of Jerusalem and the end of time. The worst thing, however, that happened was the betrayal of his Lord by Judas in the evening.

On Thursday Jesus instituted the Lord's Supper as a memorial of his suffering and death. While this is in progress, he reveals to the disciples his betrayer, very definitely apprises them of the immediate approach of his suffering and death, and holds that wonderful discourse recorded in John 14-17, with his precious intercessory prayer as the climax. Then comes Jesus' intense soul struggle in Gethsemane, Thursday night, and his arrest by Roman soldiery and Jewish rabble. How tragic! after that glorious Palm Sunday. O the fickleness of the human heart! Then his arrayal and trial before Caiphas and the Sanhedrin. What a horrid spectacle of treachery, deceit, and hatred.

Events are now moving fast. For, following this night's trial, Jesus is taken for final arraignment before Pilate on Friday morning. What a scene! The Prisoner, God in human form with all the dignity and attributes becoming a deity. And seated on the throne, as his judge, is the Roman governor who, though he has the positive conviction that the accused is innocent, is too much of a political play-ball to set him free, on his own initiative. And on the outside there has gathered a howling mob, incited to vengeance, hatred, murderous design, by the Jewish rulers against the man whose hosannas they shouted only a few days ago. "Crucify, crucify him," is their only answer to Pilate's futile appeals. At last Pilate acquiesces in their demands and dooms their Messiah to his death on the cruel cross, that the Scriptures might be fulfilled, that the sacrificial Lamb of God might take away the sins of he world.

The execution of the death order follows immediately, and Jesus, prodded by the executioners, crushed under the burden of the cross he has to carry, and railed at by the ugly crowd trailing him, is brought to Golgotha. There he, the Son of the living God, a man without sin, voluntarily dies the most ignominious death imaginable, nailed to the cruel beam, between two criminals. And the circumstances of his passing point strongly to the fact that he died of a broken heart. For whom? For you and for me, that we might have everlasting life with him. When he uttered that wonderful final word, "It is finished," he had truly wrought the great work of salvation. And thus Passion Week drew to its close.—T.

A Meditation on the Cross

Do I think of bearing the cross merely in terms of patient endurance of the inevitable suffering and sorrows which come to me in the course of my life? Does not this fall short of understanding one of the deepest meanings of the cross? Was not the cross of Christ a voluntary assumption of the sufferings of others; an identification of his very life with the interests and well-being of those less privileged than himself? Though existing on an equality with God, he counted not privilege and power of things to be grasped, but took upon himself the form of man, suffering with humanity even unto death, yea, the death of the cross.

Do I measure my personal religion by this test?

Am I content with the condition of the world in proportion to my own good fortune, the happiness of my family, and the welfare of the economic class to which I happen to belong?

Or have I voluntarily identified my interests with those of folks less privileged than I am—with the poor; with the unemployed; with those who live in slums; with child laborers; with workers in the factory and on the farm; with women who toil; with Negroes; with oppressed peoples throughout the world?

Let me pause and think of the lot of each of these; as I meditate now before the cross of Christ, I do resolve to learn, by personal contact and study, more than I now know about what life is like for the least of these his brethren.

In humility, I ask myself, am I as truly distressed over their situation as though it were my own?

Am I prepared to say: "So long as there is a lower class I am in it; so long as there is a soul in prison I am not free"?

Am I personally happy only as my life contributes something to increasing the measure of justice, and the possibilities of the good life for those who are now less privileged than myself? Am I bearing the cross?

Do I have in me that mind which was in Christ Jesus?—Gospel Messenger.

GOD PROTECTS HIS OWN

On Feb. 14 the San Francisco Chronicle carried the following article: "The American Southern Baptist Mission here was BOMBED three times today by Japanese planes. Four Chinese patients in the mission hospital were injured by shrapnel fragments. Three Americans, one Briton and two Canadians at the mission dodged the shrapnel and escaped injury. They were Dr. S. W. Ayres of Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. C. L. Pannabecker and S. F. Pannabecker of Michigan."

Those acquainted with our workers in China will recognize the names of the Pannabecker brothers as belonging to our staff there. We who live in safety cannot begin to imagine or realize the terrible ordeals which these workers are experiencing daily. May we remember them in prayer, thanking God that their lives have been spared thus far.—Workers Exchange.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

"Blessed are they who hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Matt. 5:6.

This is the text Kias used today to bring out a few very vital truths to awaken his own people. He said many of them are spiritually asleep. They are like many white people. They have at one time been baptized but now are seldom seen in the House of God. They fill their bodies daily with food to nourish them but they neglect the feeding of their souls with spiritual food. They no longer hunger and thirst after righteousness.

"There is only one God; only one satisfying religion," stated Kias from behind the pulpit, "and all true Christians have a desire to hear about this God." He said a follower of the Lord longs to attend church where he receives wisdom and is strengthened to withstand temptation. He finds himself confronted daily with the two roads and must choose the good or the bad. Thus, if he keeps in mind the goal that is awaiting the true Christian; if he habitually goes to church and hears of the religion that promises salvation, he will not find it hard to choose the right way.

These are great truths which the Indians who were in church today heard from the lips of one of their own men. They can learn a great deal from this real and true Christian leader.

A sad condition exists in many churches today and ours is no exception. Sunday after Sunday we find the congregation consists mostly of women and children.

Another influential Christian was Mrs. Romannose who is now with her Savior. She, like Kias, was not able to read or write, but for many years she spread a good influence among her people. Her life was full of trouble. She lost all her children and grandchildren; so she adopted her niece's daughter and son. To these she was a real mother. She attended church as long as health permitted and brought her foster children with her. When opportunity for prayer was given she usually was the first to volunteer.

During the last few years of her life Mrs. Romannose was in very poor health and frequently remarked she wished to leave this world. When I visited her the last time I found her ready to go with no fear of death. She died that same day. What a wonderful advantage a Christian has over one who does not have this peace in his heart.

Much sickness has visited the Indian homes again this winter. We are glad for the government Indian hospital, located three quarter mile north of our Mission Station. Much suffering is relieved by the capable doctor and the efficient nurses. The doctor is a Philippino; two nurses are Indians; two are white; and the rest of the employees are Indians.

Who is Supreme: God or the State

A. J. Neuenschwander

During the declining years of the Judge Samuel, the Elders of Israel came to him and said: "Now make us a king that shall judge us like all the nations." Samuel took this matter to the Lord in prayer and then answered the leaders of Israel by saying that kings will rule in an absolute and arbitrary manner, they will demand your sons as horsemen and servants, they will demand your daughters, your fields, your vineyards, your oliveyards, your menservants and maidservants, your asses and your sheep. He told them that in that day they would cry unto he Lord because of your king, but he will not hear you. And in the very next verse we read: "Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, "Nay but we will have a king."

What had Israel done? They chose a king in preference of God. In one form or another this question has come up again and again until this very day. The fateful experience of Israel is well known. Mankind has gone through this same experience repeatedly. There was a time when all men lived under the absolute power and dominion of autocratic kings. Those who were more venturesome in spirit and courage, moved to change this state of affairs. Democracies, or at least rather limited monarchies, came into being.

It is a noteworthy fact that with the spread of Christianity the autocratic power of absolute rulers diminished. Study the spread of Christianity from the third or fourth century until the time of the Reformation and you will find a closer relationship than secular historians are wont to reveal. Since the Reformation, as a result of inventions, mankind developed much more rapidly than before. Here and there, groups with strong religious convictions, held the idea that governments should be the outgrowth of the expression of the people. Democracies were established and God was given a definite recognition. In other sections of the world, kings or rulers exercised absolute power. The very fact of contrast always worked favorably for the recognition of God and the will of the people.

Since the World War, former standards and norms seem to have crumbled. Is it any wonder that they did crumble? Men worked so feverishly to put a garb of religion on the whole titanic struggle, that large numbers of people believed that some great spiritual principle was at stake and joined in the fiendish affair. The "will-o'-the-wisp" of spiritual advantage was never apprehended. On the contrary the Christian religion has suffered a severe crisis. Democracies and limited monarchies have been strained to the breaking point by the dirty back-wash of the war and many have given way to Dictators.

It is amazing how the State has enlarged its power of rule over individuals. Take it in our own country, with Church and State separate, the State directed our education, and an Interstate Commerce Commission had questionable and limited power. Today the Government wants to rule and dominate everything from public health, working hours and conditions, down to how many pigs a farmer might raise or how many bushels of oats he might sell. These regulations are enforced and sugarcoated by bounties of money from the Government. Many accept these grants with eagerness and hope that the domain of the State be extended even farther.

If and when the State enlarges its rule over its citizens, the next field to conquer is the moral and religious life of the citizens. This gives the State the power to say what is good and right, without contradiction. To put it into the words of Mussolini: "Nothing against the State, nothing outside the State, everything for the State."

If the State is supreme, what are the consequences? Then the Church, God's representative, becomes the servant, yes the slave of the State. Standards of life will no longer be gaged by the decrees of the Living and Omnipotent God, but expediency will rule. The scheme, plan and purpose of the Dictator becomes supreme law. The result is a totalitarian state, with individual conscience discounted. This is always the outcome of such a type of philosophy. Where God is ruled out and religion strangled, the individual counts for nothing.

In Europe and Asia we have dictators exercising absolute power. How many of our own brethren in Russia have perished in Siberian waste places, simply because they dared to believe and declare that God was supreme- In Germany developments were a bit different. Slowly but surely the Nazi principles were unfolded until all education, moral agencies and religian came within its grasp. Opposition to this scheme came from one who had established his loyalty to the German people. Martin Neimoeller, Pastor of the Dahlem Protestant Church of Berlin applied the statement of Peter of old to a modern situation when he said: "We must obey God rather than man." Over and over in his crowded church he asserted that the Dictator, the Leader, is NOT God. "There is a HIGHER authority than his." What happened? For six months he was kept in prison. Finally on February 7th his trial started. All Christendom was interested and was ready to help the persecuted Christian leader. But in the land of a dictator, no one can help unless such help aids the cause. Hence all sympathetic persons were excluded from the trial. The German government declared that "this is an exclusive German affair in which foreigners have no reason to be interested." Powerful as a dictator's decrees may be, he cannot dictate to hosts of sympathetic Christians. The crux of the whole affair is this: Who is supreme: God or the State?

The seriousness of this procedure is that the idea comes to be held that the State thus vested in power does not commit wrong, since it always declares that what is done, is done for the good of the nation.

Two things are essential:

1. That we realize that there are certain eternal facts that cannot be ignored. Scripture and history tell us definitely that nations committed sins. Recently in a secular paper I found these "Principles of National Religion", as they came from the state papers of Abraham Lincoln.

1. God deals with nations as with individuals.
2. It is the duty of nations as well as of men to acknowledge their dependence upon the power and goodness of Almighty God.
3. Nations should not in their prosperity forget the God who made them prosperous.
4. Nations may and do sin against God and may suffer under divine judgment.
5. God punishes national sin with exact justice.
6. God punishes national sin to bring nations to repentance and reformation.
7. The Holy Spirit can change rebellious hearts, guide the councils of the government and console the afflicted.
8. Humiliation, confession of sin and prayer are God's way out of national judgment.
9. The united sincere cry of a nation for pardon of sin will be heard on high and answered with forgiveness and peace.
10. Those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord. —Abraham Lincoln

Would that our national leaders and our nations could be brought to see the need of definitely recognizing God as supreme. And, admitting that sin is at the bottom of our distress and depression, ask God to forgive us our sins and to lead us in penitence and contrition of heart and righteousness.

A second point is this:

The Church of the first three centuries out-thought and out-lived the pagan world, and Christianity grew and spread. Today the Church must again lead in bringing men outside to realize that the Christian's life is better and superior, simply because of faith in and adherence to God.

The present day church must estblish her claim by bringing forth a better and purer quality of life. Non-Christian forces cannot find fault with Christ, but they do find fault with a church that is half asleep and follows her Lord in a half-hearted and cold manner.

If and when the Christians of America live a life that is true to the principles of Jesus, by accepting Him as Saviour, then will a real opposition be established against State worship.

Recently the Washington D. C. Minister's Union asked whether they might present their plan for the betterment of conditions to the President. He received them. The heart of their message was for:

"The religious forces in America to arouse our people to the imperative necessity of a return to God, a return which will find its individual expression in a rededication to the service of God, home and country, and its corporate expression in a keener social conscience and a higher ethical standards."

Let the whole Christian church in America declare as in Psalm 62:1, 2, "Truly my soul waiteth upon God: from him cometh my salvation. He only is my rock and my salvation; he is my defense; I shall not be greatly moved." This would decide the question for America: "Who is Supreme: God or the State", in a most effective way.

An Open Letter

by Dean J. S. Schultz

The attitude of different students towards becoming educated seems to be similar to differing attitudes towards the negroes: The North likes them in general but hates them individually; the South hates them in general but likes them as individuals. Thus seems to run the thinking represented in a recent editorial, "Equality".

Is a college education, or any part of it, a penalty or a privilege? These college students evidently hold to the theory that registering as students is an opportunity to become educated, but attending classes and preparing for them is, at least at times, a punishment. Contrary to this assumption is the conception that college students come with the desire to learn, which includes preparation for classes, attendance of and participation in the same. Absence from class is a situation that cannot well be avoided; other obligations demand attention. Under these circumstances evidence of work done may be reported to the instructor and receive credit. Punishment is attached neither to an absence nor to the preparation of the day's work whether present in class or away.

The days in which becoming educated is looked upon as a punishment are fast disappearing from elementary and secondary schools, to say nothing about higher educational institutions. The highest scholarship possible for each individual is the goal. For upper class college students this should be self motivated. If the recent modifications to the absence system of the college do not contribute to this, they should be repealed. And if students fail in a course because of the professor's absence from class, strenuous measures should be taken.

This is not a counter argument, merely a classification of concepts of education.—The Witmarsum.

OTHERS MAY, YOU CANNOT.—Other Christians and ministers who seem very religious and useful, may push themselves, pull wires and work schemes to carry out their plans, but you cannot do it, and if you attempt it, you will meet with such failure and rebuke from the Lord as to make you sorely penitent.

The People Ask for Peace While The President Asks for Armaments

E. L. Harshbarger

The most accurate gauge of public opinion is the poll taken periodically by the Institute of Public Opinion, under the direction of Dr. George Gallup. Polls taken by this organization within the last two years indicate clearly that the American people do not wish to do anything which will provoke a war. In spite of this expressed wish the President and the State Department are pursuing policies which the American people oppose and which have led straight to war in the past.

The Gallup poll shows that 73 percent of the people favored the Ludlow Amendment, which would allow the people to vote before entering war, yet the Administration brought special pressure to bear on Congress to defeat this amendment; 69 percent favor a stricter neutrality policy in the Far East, yet the President has consistently refused to invoke the present Neutrality Act; 64 percent favor an embargo on arms shipment to China or Japan, yet the President has done nothing except halt shipment in government ships; 70 percent favor our complete withdrawal from China, yet Mr. Hull stated on March 17 that we were determined not to "abandon our nationals and our interests in China", and the Administration seems destined to break our plighted word to grant independence to the Philippines in order to be stronger in the Far East; and 95 percent favor prohibition of war loans to either China or Japan, yet there is talk in Washington of repealing both the Johnson Act and the Neutrality Act so that aid may be given to warring nations.

On the contrary, the President is supporting the May Bill which will make him supreme dictator in time of war, with power to fix prices and to conscript manpower; he is asking for a super-navy at a time when not all battleships already approved have been built; he is pushing our defense line beyond the Hawaiian Islands; he is working for a huge merchant marine to support the navy; and absolutely refuses to call an international conference to discuss world problems.

Suppose the president's program goes through, what effect will it have on democracy and peace? What effect will it have on Mennonite peace principles? Let us study, and act upon our Christian convictions.

—Catholics, throughout the World, have launched a powerful offensive against Communism. In an official statement leaders of the Roman church declare: Communism has two faces, a charming face when turned to the crowd in those countries where it is not master; another face, horrible, there where it is in power.—Christian Leader.

Sunday School Lesson

THE VICTORIOUS SERVANT — EASTER

Acts 2:22-36

Introduction

Our Easter Sunday lesson deals with Peter's Pentecost day sermon, the first Christian sermon, the theme of which is "The Resurrection of Jesus." Peter well recalled how he had deserted and denied his Lord in the hour of trial, also how he had gone home to mourn and repent. Now after fifty days, he has become the fearless spokesman for his Lord, proclaiming that the crucified Jesus is "both Lord and Christ." Peter has seen the risen Christ and spoken with Him. He speaks with certainty.

Jesus Approved of God vs. 22-24

Peter addresses his sermon to the Jews (v22). They alone knew the prophecies. The gospel had not yet been taken to the Gentiles. Jsus of Nazareth, whom they knew, of whose many miracles, wonders, and signs they knew, was approved of God. God was in Him and these works indicated that He was far more than a mere man. Peter makes these witness to the truth of what he is saying.

Jesus, the "Lamb slain from the foundation of the world", according to God's plan, counsel, was given into their hands (v23). God by His foreknowledge knew all they would do and permitted it. Peter boldly charges them with rejection of Christ and with their guilt of His death. God has raised Him from the dead. He lives (v24). Death could not hold such an one as He, the sinless One, who died a substitute for the sinner.

David's Prophecy vs. 25-31

Peter's point here is that David saw the Christ as King after His death and resurrection. Verses 25 to 28 quote Ps. 16:8-11, which is a prophecy of Christ and the words are as though Christ were speaking. Jesus was always in the Father's presence (v25). David too felt this certainty in his soul. The two phrases of verse 27 show Christ's complete victory over death, His soul from hell (region of departed spirits) and His body from the grave. As further proof that David is not speaking of himself, Peter states the familiar facts of verse 29. He must be speaking of another person. David was a prophet and spoke prophetically of Christ's resurrection and His future sitting on his throne (v30). Peter is now ready to show that the crucified Jesus is the Christ of prophecy.

Resurrection, Proof of Deity vs. 32-36

Peter now declares (v32) that all that David said about Christ has been literally fulfilled in Jesus, the crucified. God raised Him up and we, the disciples, are witnesses to the fact. Easter is a day of victory because our Lord conquered death. The risen Christ has been exalted to God's right hand (v33). The promised Holy Ghost has now been sent and the people could plainly see that the disciples had received something from God. David could not have been speaking of himself (v34), it must have been Christ Jesus. It must be then ("therefore" v36) that God has made Jesus, the crucified, not only their Messiah, but also the Lord and Christ.

Jesus' resurrection proved that He is the Christ of prophecy. It proves also the fact of His authority given in His last great commission. The resurrection was the climax of all of Christ's miracles. The sublimity of Easter makes the grandeur of Christmas.

DAILY MEDITATIONS

Furnished by J. B. Epp

SUNDAY, APRIL 10

"But joy cometh in the morning." Ps. 30:5.
"My God shall supply all your need." Phil. 4:19.

Though we may weep the dark night thru,
Joy cometh in the morning blue;
And tho the day wears wearily,
Still, as our day our strength shall be.
When day draws on to shadowy night,
At eventide it shall be light;
When darkness folds up, calm and deep,
He giveth His beloved sleep,
Or if they wake and night seems long,
Then for our sighs He giveth song;
And when night yields to morning, then
Joy cometh with the dawn again.

MONDAY, APRIL 11

"Then I shall know even as I am known." I Cor. 13:12.

My life is but a weaving
Between the Lord and me;
I cannot choose the colors
He worketh steadily.
Oft time He weaveth sorrow;
And I, in foolish pride,
Forget He sees the upper
And I the under-side.
Not till the loom is silent
And the shuttles cease to fly,
Shall God unroll the canvas
And explain the reason why.
The dark threads are as needful
In the Weaver's skilful hand
As the threads of gold and silver
In the pattern He has planned!

TUESDAY, APRIL 12

"He wakeneth me in the morning." Isa. 50:4.

Another day to grow in grace,
To walk in wisdom too,
To follow on to know the Lord,
And all His precepts do.
Another day to meditate
More deeply in God's Word,
To humbly walk in fellowship
With Christ, my risen Lord.
Another day to praise my God,
To cast on Him my care,
To come before the throne of Grace
With earnest, fervent prayers.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 13

"My voice shalt Thou hear in the morning". Ps. 5:3.

Another day to do God's Will,
Whate'er His Will may be,
To speak, to suffer, or to wait
Before Him silently.

Another day for God to work,
His Will in me fulfil,
To touch me with His mighty hand,
And mould me to His Will.
Another day to testify
Of grace which doth abound;
To spread the glorious Gospel news
With no uncertain sound.
Another day, Lord, by thy power,
Help me to-day to be,
In thought, in word, in action too,
Well pleasing unto Thee.

THURSDAY, APRIL 14

"My strength is made perfect in weakness." 2 Corr. 12:9.

"In all these things we are more than conquerers." Rom. 8:37.

Give me Thy strength for my day, Lord,
That wheresoe'er I go,
There shall no danger daunt me
And I shall fear no foe;
So shall no task o'ertake me,
So shall no trial fret,
So shall I walk unwearied
The path where my feet tread;
So shall I find no burden
Greater than I can bear,
So shall I have a courage
Equal to all my care.

GOOD FRIDAY, APRIL 15

"It is finished." John 19:30.

" 'Tis finished!" so the Saviour cried,
And meekly bowed His head and died:
'Tis finished! yes, the race is run,
The battle fought, the vic'try won.
'Tis finished! Son of God, thy power
Hath triumphed in this awful hour;
And yet our eyes with sorrow see
That life to us was death to Thee.
'Tis finished! let the joyful sound
Be heard through all the nations round;
'Tis finished! let the triumph rise
And swell the chorus of the skies!

SATURDAY, APRIL 16

"But He was wounded for our transgressions." Isa. 53:5. "God made Him sin for us, who knew no sin." 2 Cor. 5:21.

Dear Savior, why by woes wast Thou surrounded?
Ah, Lord, for my transgressions Thou was wounded,
God took the guilt from me, who should have paid it;
On Thee He laid it!
The Righteous dies, Who walked with God true-hearted;
The sinner lives, who had from God departed;
By man came death, yet Man its fetters breaketh;
God it o'ertaketh.
Eternal King, in power and love excelling,
Fain would my heart and mouth Thy praise be telling;
But how can man's weak powers at all come nigh Thee,
To magnify Thee?

EASTER SUNDAY, APRIL 17

"But now is Christ risen."

"Christ the Lord is ris'n to-day,"
Sons of men and angels say:
Raise your joys and triumphs high;
Sing, ye heav'ns, and earth, reply.
Lives again our glorious King:
Where, O death, is now thy sting?
Once He died, our souls to save:
Where's thy victory, O grave?
Soar we now where Christ had led,
Following our exalted Head;
Made like Him, like Him we rise;
Ours the cross, the grave, the skies!

California S. S. and C. E. Convention

The annual convention of the California S. S. and C. E. Conference is to be held at Upland on April 8-9. The convention will open on Friday evening and close with Sunday morning church service.

The Theme of the covention will be "THE CHALLENGING CHRIST," Col. 1:1. The main addresses will be given on different phases of this topic. Conferences will be led on Saturday on Church Music, Missions and The Christian Life of the Teen Age. Saturday afternoon will be devoted to a study of the different phases of our General Conference Program. The usual banquet will be held on Saturday evening, with fellowship around the tables. A special feature of the Saturday evening program will be series of two-minute talks by young people.

Those who have enjoyed Upland hospitality on previous occasion will want to go again, and the newcomers can be assured that they will enjoy their stay. - Workers Exchange.

—PREACHING—Gospel ministers should not only be like dials on watches, or mile-stones upon the road, but like clocks and larums, to sound the alarm to sinners. Aaron wore bells as well as pomegranates, and the prophets were commanded to lift up their voice like a trumpet. A sleeping sentinel may be the loss of the city.—Bishop Hall.

My Shepherd

(Editor's Note: One of the best loved friends of young people in the General Conference recently sent us the following little paraphrase of the Twenty-third Psalm. We believe you will want to keep it as a part of your scrap-book. Read it and the psalm itself alternately—just try it!)

The Great Thinker of this wonderful Universe is my Friend.

He provides for my mind ever enlarging interests.

Restful and refreshing experiences border the way of my life.

He builds up my very being by leading me in ways which are always true, because He is a Being altogether true Himself.

He makes it possible for me to meet the unavoidable difficulties of life without fear by His very Presence.

He has means beyond my ability to think or understand for providing for my well-being of body, mind and soul.

When adverse circumstances seem near enough to overwhelm me,

He treats me as though I were a guest of honor.

The attitude of this Friend is most re-assuring for all that is good and lovely in life and makes me feel thoroughly at home with Him for all time and for the whole of life in every way.

A Businessman Meditates on Religion

One of the friends of young people who reads widely and studies closely the trends of the times, occasionally sends to this department little excerpts from various journals which are apropos to the problems it deals with. Recently he sent us the following marked paragraph:

"Let me tell you, however, that progress comes only through Truth; that security comes only through Courage; that Freedom comes only through Sacrifice; and that Godliness comes only through Love.

"Whenever I go to London I spend a part of the last day at Westminster Hall, adjoining the Parliament Buildings at Westminster. To me this is the most historic building in the world. The Sphinx of Egypt, the ruins of Greece and the relics of prehistoric man are interesting; but the really great events of civilization took place in this old Hall in London. It was built in 1097-1399 and is one of the most remarkable pieces of timber architecture in existence. Its great arched roof rises 92 feet from the floor—without a post or girder. This roof is of oak, and history says that the trees from which it was cut were about 500 years old in 1197. Here is my final thought: During those 500 years the timber in this roof was subjected to every storm imaginable. But the pulling at the roots, as the winds swayed the trees, only served to give these roots more space in which to grow. For 800 years since the time the trees were cut these timbers remained sound, withsanding fire, revolutions, wars and every other vicissitude. The last generation of Englishmen, however, decided to attempt to heat and 'civilize' this Hall. With this civilization came a very small beetle which got into the wood. In a few years it was threatened with complete decay and destruction. Last month in London I personally stuck my finger into the mushy wood.

"I think no further comment is necessary."—Roger Babson.

Perhaps not, Mr. Babson, but it just occurs to us that the little beetles of civilization get into individual characters also, don't they; whence the general mushiness of character everywhere.—B.B.

Will the Teachings of Jesus Work Today

Matt. 5:9, 38-48; 7:12.

Young People's Topic for April 24, 1938

Meditations:

M., Apr. 18. Jesus' hard Sayings. John 6:57-69.

T., Apr. 19. Jesus' Sayings on Preparing for the Future. Matt. 6:24-34.

W., Apr. 20. Do Jesus' Sayings on Prayer work? Matt. 7:7-12.

T., Apr. 21. Is Divine Healing Practical? Mark 16:17-20.

F., Apr. 22. Are Men "Born Again" today? John 3:1-13.

S., Apr. 23. Dare we Practice ALL the Sermon on the Mount? Matt. 7:24-29.

Suggested Hymns:

"All the way my Saviour leads me"

"Saviour, like a Shepherd lead us"

Problems:

Our entire scripture passage for this topic is taken from the Sermon on the Mount. Thus we do well to take a look at this message of Christ's as a whole.

There are many ways in which the Sermon on the Mount is interpreted. Some people would have us think it is a way of life by which we obtain Salvation. Others tell us it is exclusively a description of a Christian's life. Then there are those who insist that it applies to the Jews only and not to the rest of the people of the world. And finally there are those who consider this great Sermon on the Mount a picture of Christ's Kingdom as it shall be during the Millennium.

Certainly each of these interpretations is of some value and that each one has its element of truth is also possible, especially the last one, but to evaluate these interpretations is not our concern here.

Our topic asks, "Will the Teachings of Jesus Work Today?" The question is not, did they work at one time, or will they work at some future time? It asks if they work now, in our time and in our own lives. For this reason we must look at the Sermon on the Mount as a whole. And in so doing we can hardly help but see, that in His teachings Jesus always sets down central principles which serve as guides in many different situations. He does not attempt to give one definite rule for each and every problem that might confront us at one time or other in a life time. His teachings are not a set of rules to be observed or a sytem of religious practices to be kept. They are always statements of principles, or basic ideas, from which we can determine what action to take.

If Jesus' teaching had had to do with specific rules and particular cases they would have been good only for His own day and age. They could not have lasted any better than the ancient rabbinical teachings have lasted. He gave them so that we can apply them even to our world and our situations today. They are applicable to changing conditions. Therefore His teachings are good for every age. They have a timeless quality. They are just as vital and valuable to us today as they were to the people of Palestine twenty centuries ago when He first spoke them.

Just consider the one example, of Jesus' emphasis upon the value of Human Personality. He certainly did clothe personality with dignity and sanctity. Thus He handed down the principle that human personality is of great value. And today that principle is still true. Similiarly He has given us principles with reference to personal life, evangelism, peace, leisure, prejudice, the church and others. It is hoped that they too will be studied during the discussion hour at least.

He that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him.—Bible.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Next Steps

Intermediate C. E. Topic, April 24, 1938

For the Quiet Hour

Apr. 18. Join the church. Acts 2:41-43.
Apr. 19. Seek to win others. John 1:40-51.
Apr. 20. Study the word. 1 Tim. 4:8-16.
Apr. 21. Daily prayer. 1 Thess. 5:14-23.
Apr. 22. Living like Jesus. 1 Cor. 4:9-15.
Apr. 23. Showing God's love in action. 1 John 3:14-19.
Apr. 24. Topic—Next steps as a Christian. Col. 3:1-4, 16, 17.

Pre-Prayer Circle

Luke 2:52. "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." Pray that each Intermediate may see the need of going on in the Christian life, growing as Jesus did. Thank God for His Word which shows us the way to real progress and for Christ who is our Guide. Thank Him for the opportunities for growth.

Songs of Praise

In keeping with the thought of the topic, sing at least two new songs. Only about one fourth of the songs in a hymn-book are usually sung. Turn to the index and select several new ones that will fit the topic. Be sure to have the song leader and pianist practice them beforehand.

Quiet Worship

Prelude, "Confidence," Mendelssohn's "Songs Without Words"
Leader: "But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."
Hymn, "Close To Thee"
Scripture reading: Col. 3:1-4, 16, 17
Prayer by two members
Poem: "Growing"
Special Music

Topic Discussion

1. The leader introduces the topic.
2. Discussion questions and topics, by members.
3. Closing ten minute talk by the pastor, "The importance of taking next steps in the Christian Life."
4. Closing hymn and benediction.

For the Leader

One who has just become a Christian is like a young plant that has been set out and taken root. The gardener does not set out his plants and when he sees they have started to grow let them dry up. He cares for them until they blossom and bear fruit. So the New Life within us must be cared for. A baby learning to walk does not stop with the first step, but keeps on taking steps or it would never learn to walk. We must continue to go forward if we expect to grow in our Christian life. (To impress the "next steps" that are to be suggested, draw a series of steps on the blackboard, and as the suggestions are given label each step. For example, the first step might be, "prayer," then "Bible study" and so on.

Next Steps in the Christian Life

1. What is the importance of joining the church? Acts 2:41-43.

2. How does seeking to win others strengthen your Christian life? John 1:40-51.

3. How does the study of the Word build us up in faith? 1 Tim. 4:8-16.

4. Why is prayer necessary in the Christian life? 1 Thess. 5:16-23.

5. Why is it important to live like Jesus? 1 John 3:14-19. Why are some Christians satisfied after they have taken the first step? What do they lose by taking this attitude?

GROWING

"Mother, do you still grow?"
I let the measuring rod
Slip closer to my child's head—
Three foot two—
"Do I still grow?"
Do I still- grow!

This afternoon I suffered
From unkind words
But smiled.
Last year I would have been Quite proud
Of making sharp retort.

Last week I set aside
My own desires
For others!
Last year I would have cried
"I'll have my own way
Let others yield to me."

Last month I found some beauty
In a soul once scorned,
And told it to another.
Do I still grow?
Yes, child,
But oh! so slowly!

—Mary Dickerson Bangham

A Question Box

Young Christians often have questions that trouble them. Prepare a question box and ask them to bring their questions written on a slip of paper and drop them in the box. Ask the pastor or someone who understands young people to come to the society on a later Sunday and discuss these questions. It will be very helpful to the Intermediates.

JUNIOR CORNER

Leader's Meditation:

I MUST tell it again and again,
I must TELL IT again and again,—
The wonderful story of Jesus and glory;
I must tell it AGAIN AND AGAIN.

One generation shall laud thy works on another,
And shall declare thy mighty acts.
They shall utter the memory of thy great goodness,
And shall sing of thy righteousnes. Ps. 145: 4, 7.

YES——

I MUST tell it again and again,
I must TELL IT again and again,—
The wonderful story of Jesus and glory;
I must tell it AGAIN AND AGAIN.

And in these days it is the story of the risen Christ. I, who stand in awe and wonder at hyacinths in bloom behind a border of violets,—how can the story of the rising out of earth of the first Fruit of the Kingdom fail to bend my knees in worship and to open my lips in praise of Him "Who is the fairest of ten thousand to my soul." How can we impulsate oththers lest our being throb with love and adoration and awe of the Mighty One and we become vessels of His power to work the miracle of spring in human hearts?

Suggestions for April 24, 1838

Call to service by prelude
Opening service: The Commanding Christ

1. Remarks by leader, assembling in the mind of the child the vital truths studied this month and putting before them the truth of the evening: God has put us here for some work he wants us to do and when He has prepared us. He will give us that work. He has sent Jesus to speak the command to this one and that one. We have seen Jesus as the Suffering One, the Victorious One, and the Risen One,—today we want to see Him as the Commanding One.

2. Sing in unison: "Bring Them In"

3. Scripture reading by a junior: Matt. 4:18-22.

4. Prayer in unison: Sing verses 2, 3, and 4 of "Have Thine Own Way Lord."

5. The Commanding Jesus: Before the meeting deal among the juniors verses or portion of verses in which Christ speaks a command and let them speak these or read them at this time. A few verses are printed:

a. "Come ye after me and I will make you fishers of men."
b. "Give to him that asketh thee."
c. "From him that would borrow of thee turn not away."
d. "Love your enemies."

e. "Pray for them that persecute you."
f. "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon the earth."
g. "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven"
h. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God"
i. "Judge not, that ye be not judged."
j. "Ask and it shall be given you."
k. "Seek and ye shall find."
l. "Knock and it shall be opened unto you."

6. Sing in unison: Trust and Obey. Verses 1 and 3

Mission minutes: Announcements regarding mission project

Study Period:

Aim: To teach the truth that not only the power to do God's work is a gift of God, but the work itself is his gift to the one whom He has chosen to do it.

1. "I must do the works of Him that sent me." Let chairman introduce the topic by reading John 9:4

2. Watching God give work. Incidents retold by juniors

a. God gives Noah a work to do. Gen. 6:13-22
b. God gives Moses a work to do. Ex. 3:1-12
c. God gives Joshua a work to do. Joshua 1:1-9
d. God gives Gideon a work to do. Judges 6:7-16
e. God gives Solomon a work to do. I Chron. 28:1-9
f. God gives King Cyrus a work to do. Ezra 1:1-5
g. God gives Isaiah a work to do. Isa. 6:1-9
h. God gives the disciples a work to do. Mark 6:7-12, Acts 1:8
i. God gives Paul a work to do. Acts 9:1-15

3. Special music: "I'll do what you want me to do, O Lord"

4. Heart-talk: The Blessing of Obedience. Use these same characters and show how they were blessed. Close with the thought: "Without me ye can do nothing" and its answer, "I can do all things through Christ"

5. Close with prayer song: "I Need Thee Every Hour"

Anyone wishing to use poem in last issue, please note omission stanza 3 line 6.

"Only the touch of the hand."

CARD-PLAYING

How long halt ye between two opinions? If the Lord be God, follow Him: but if Baal, then follow him.—I Kings 18:21. Mr. Romaine was once addressed by a lady, who expressed the great pleasure she had enjoyed under his preaching, and added that she could comply with his requirements, with the exception of one thing. "And what is that, madam?" asked Mr. Romaine. "Cards, sir." "You think you could not be happy without them?" "No, sir; I know I could not." "Then, madam, they are your god, and they must save you." This pointed admonition led to serious reflection, and finally to the abandonment of such unworthy pleasures.

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, NEWPORT, WASH.

Dear Editor and Reader: Though there has not been a word from Newport for a time, it is not that there is nothing good to say from here. The Lord has richly blessed us the past year, has also spoken very earnestly to us by taking some of our members, especially the father of four very small children. He took him suddenly out of time into eternity. There sometimes the question comes, why? By the reports in our papers we see so many are taken suddenly. "So teach us to number our days, that we may get us a heart of wisdom," Ps. 90:12.—We had our annual meeting Jan. 1. The Sunday school officers stayed as the year before. For church one new member in the business committee and a deacon were elected. As no rcord had been kept of this church, since its organization in 1927, a special meeting was held, notes were taken, and the brethren are now putting it all on record in the church book.

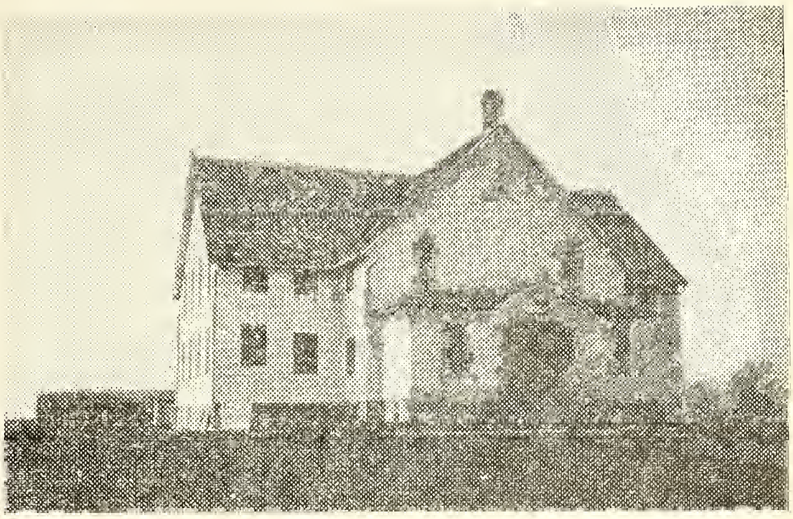
As Bro. Unruh had served this church a number of years, it gave him a call, to be ordained as its minister, which was accepted, but with the request for a consecration and special prayer week. This the church granted. For the ordination services Rev. J. C. Kaufman from Moundridge, Kans., was called. Rev. and Mrs. Kaufman held their meetings Feb. 6 to 13. Bro. Kaufman made very clear the earnestness of giving and also excepting such a call. He helped individuals to see the way to salvation more clearly, also the need of work for the Master. On Sunday, Feb. 27, Bro. Unruh was ordained as Minister and Elder and Mrs. Unruh as coworker. On this occasion Rev. Harley King of Colfax, Wash., spoke on Jer. 3:15 and 23:4, also Acts 20:28; Rev. Kaufman, on II Cor. 5:19b-20a. A Colfax Male Quartet, the local Mixed Quartet, and Henry Dalke rendered special music. In the evening the two brothers each gave us an inspiring message, and the Colfax Mixed Quartet and the local Male Quartet sang. The Ladies' Aid had very nicely decorated the church for this occasion. The Lord had granted us a lovely day, so it was possible for all the people from our neighboring church at Deer Park to be present, also those of Spokane, and quite a number from Colfax. Our new deacon, Jake Wittenberg, was also ordained into his office.

The C. E. are having their regular meetings once a month and union meetings with Deer Park. The Ladies' Aid is meeting once a month. May the Lord make us all fit for his Kingdom.

Have had quite a bit of flu and also measles in our community.—Correspondent.

Contentment is a pearl of great price and whoever procures it at the expense of ten thousand desires makes a wise and a happy purchase.—Balguy.

Dedication of Tabor Church



In the presence of about 1000 people this church was dedicated Sunday, March 27. The dedicatory services were held in the afternoon. Prof. J. J. Voth, a son of the church, made a fitting introduction, based on Psalm 84. Rev. P. H. Richert, elder and pastor of the church from its inception, preached the German dedicatory sermon, on I Cor. 3:17, "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?" The tabernacle in the wilderness, where God promised to dwell, was the first temple. God showed Moses how to build it. We are the temple of God. To be that, we need concecration through the Holy Ghost. Where Christ dwells there is glad service and gratefulness. Rev. (Prof.) A. E. Kreider based his English dedication address on Ezra 6:16, "And the children of Israel, the priests and Levites, and the rest of the children of captivity kept the dedication of this House of God with joy." Dedication means setting aside for a specific purpose. We dedicate this house unto the Gospel and its wonderful power to save and help man; unto the life giving ministry of Jesus Christ; and unto the children and youth, to be nurtured and developed into true Christians, and unto the whole community, as a light that will shine as a city set on a hill. Then followed three minute talks by the Reverend Brethren P. Buller, J. H. Epp, Gerhard Friesen, C. C. Wedel, A. J. Dyck, C. Frey, J. E. Entz, B. W. Harder, S. M. Musselman, and closing remarks with prayer by Rev. P. P. Buller. The rich and splendidly executed program of addresses was interspersed with fine singing by the church's Male Choir and Ladies' Choir.

The introduction of the evening program was by Rev. P. H. Richert, based on Ps. 96. Then followed an address by Dr. E. G. Kaufman, based on II Sam. 18:29, "And the king said, Is the young man Absolom safe?" and by Rev. P. P. Wedel, Hebr. 10:25, "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another, and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching." The Intermediate Choir of the church sang and the Male Quartet sang pleasing numbers. Closing remarks by Rev. C. E. Krehbiel and closing prayer by P. H. Richert.

The Tabor Church, with members from neighboring churches spreading in all direction, was founded thirty years ago and the old church, now rebuilt, erected at that time. It had 131 members at the start. Today it has a membership of 332. Much of the growth of the congregation, both spiritually and numerically, next to God, must be attributed with to its ever-active, ever-dutiful pastor Rev. P. H. Richert. May God grant him many more years of useful and joyous service in this large, beautiful, splendidly apportioned new house of worship.

DEDICATION SONG

(Melody No. 154, Gesangbuch)

How holy is thy habitation,
O Lord, how beautiful the place,
Where I in grateful adoration
Bring unto thee my joyful praise.

No other place is so inviting,
As one where light and right prevails;
And where the words from Holy Writing
Give healing to all human ails.

Be thou, Good Shepherd, ever present,
To feed thy hungry flock with love,
And make this house for all a pleasant
Foretaste of yonder home above.

Here give thy comfort to the mourners,
And to dead souls give life and hope,
And to the weary old sojourners
Give all the help for which they grope.

"God dwelleth in his holy temple,
Let all the earth in silence be,"
And let this house be an example
Of what it means to worship thee.

Now, Lord, hear thou our imploration,
And with thy presence bless this house,
So that thy word and meditation
In each a living faith arouse.—P. H. Richert.

In Memorium

PAUL LOUIS SCHINDLER was born December 17, 1862, in Neuchateau, Switzerland, the son of Frederick and Isabelle Favier Schindler. He was the youngest of a family of five children. At the early age of ten he was left an orphan, his mother having died when he was but two.

At the age of 22, in 1884, he came to this country in company with Rev. Paul Aeschliman, Mr. Ernest Aeschliman and others, working a short time in central Illinois before settling in Davis County, Iowa.

On May 2, 1895, he was united in marriage with Lydia Trachsel who preceded him in death on Feb. 28, 1908, leaving a family of five children. On April 3, 1909, he was married with Elizabeth Handrich of Donnelson, Iowa. To this union was born a son.

In August 1930, he suffered a stroke of paralysis that rendered him an invalid for over seven years. The last year this condition was made worse by failing eyesight. He bore his affliction with remarkable patience and submission, deriving his strength and courage and calm from a firm trust in the wisdom, goodness and love of God. That trust sustained him to the last.

He early identified himself with the Pulaski Mennonite Church, and he remained a faithful member until his illness prevented his attendance at services. He missed keenly the strength and the blessings he had found in fellowship with Christian friends and in worship of the God he loved.

Death came to him as a blessing, because it lifted him out of his suffering condition into the world beyond, where in the presence of God life will find its true fulfilment. He reached an age of 75 years, one month, and 2t days. Those who will miss him in the home and family circle and yet rejoice in his release from his suffering are: the wife and mother, the six children, Clarence, Ethel (Mrs. Henry A. Fast), Herman, Irene (Mrs. Harry Helmick), Wayne, Ernest, the ten grandchildren, and besides a host of relatives and friends. May his memory be a blessing even as his life was.

HAROLD ORTMAN, son of Fred F. Ortman and Christina Brubacher Ortman, was born July 31, 1918, in Garden Township, Harvey County, near Moundridge, Kansas. He attended the district school and later entered Moundridge High School, where he was a member of the Senior Class and looked forward to his graduation this spring.

On June 9, 1935, he was baptized and united with the First Mennonite Church of Christian, Moundridge, Kansas, where he was a member at the time of his death.

On the evening of March 10, 1938, as he was driving home from Newton, Kansas, he noticed that a school friend was experiencing motor trouble. Always willing to lend a helping hand, he stopped to give assistance. After the trouble was remedied, he was just about ready to start for his car, when a transport truck struck him causing almost instant death.

The span of his life was 19 years, 7 months and 9 days. One brother preceded him in death. He leaves to mourn his early departure his bereaved parents, five sisters, two brothers and other relatives and manv friends.

Funeral services were conducted at the home and at the First Mennonite Church of Christian at Moundridge, Kansas, on Sunday afternoon, March 13. The pastor, Rev. P. P. Wedel, was in charge and spoke on Isaiah 40:27-31

JOHN P. SCHMIDT, son of Peter and Elizabeth Wedel Schmidt, was born Feb. 25, 1880, at Halstead, Kansas, where he grew to manhood. In the year of 1899 he moved to a farm near Goltry, Okla., which has remained to be his home.

March 1, 1907, he was united in marriage to Miss Lena Boese, and to this union were born five daughters and one son.

On Nov. 9, 1913, he was baptized by Rev. H. R. Voth, after which he and his wife both joined the Zoar Mennonite Church of Goltry. He proved to be a faithful Christian worker as S. S. teacher, member of the church board, song leader, etc. He did this in his quiet way, never expecting any praise, but doing it for the glory of his Master.

On Feb. 20, 1938, he contracted a bad cold in his throat which finally resulted in pneumonia from which he did not recover, and passed away on the morning of March 5. One of the last words he spoke was quoting John 3:16, "I am so glad that He is mine and I am His."

He leaves to mourn his wife and the children: Malinda, Mrs. Edward Johnson of Ringwood, Okla.; Matilda, Mrs. Theodore Epp, Enid, Okla.; Celesta, Mrs. Henry Thomas, Ringwood, Okla.; Ervin, Elfrieda and Elvera, all at home. Four brothers, Jacob and Sam of Goltry, Ben of Meno, Okla., and Dan of Haywood, Calif. Three sisters, Eva, Mrs. Fred Bartel, Cherokee, Okla.; Mrs., Mrs. Andrew Eck, Ringwood, Okla.; and Susie, Mrs. Henry Smith, Ringwood, Okla. Six grandchildren, one uncle, Andrew Wedel, and many friends.

The funeral took place March 9. At the home Rev. J. B. Epp spoke on Isa. 40:10 and 41:31, and the Male Quartet sang, "The Riches of Love", his favorite song, and a duet, "Wo findet die Seele die Heimat, die Ruh'." At the church the pastor, Rev. J. W. Bergen, spoke on Matt. 24:44 and Rev. Epp on Rev. 22, with songs by the Quartet interspersed, such as "It is His Will", "The Lord Knows Why", etc.

JACOB J. HIEBERT, son of Johann and Marie Loewen Hiebert, was born June 16, 1870, in Friedensfeld, South Russia, and departed this life on Feb. 8, 1938. He reached the age of 67 years, 7 months, and 22 days.

In 1874 he, with his parents, migrated to America, settling at Steinbach, Manitoba, Canada. One year later they moved to Kansas, on a farm near Hillsboro. Here he received his elementary education. On Sept. 15, 1880, he was baptized upon the confession of his faith and received into the Hillsboro Mennonite Church by Rev. John S. Hirschler. He remained a faithful member of this church until his departure.

On March 17, 1895, he was united in marriage to Eva Schmidt. They shared joys and sorrow for nearly 43 years. To this union were born 13 children, five of whom preceded him in death. He was a loving husband and father, sincerely interested in the welfare of others, helping wherever his health permitted. He suffered much during his life, and this was increased when he lost his left hand in 1922. In Jan. 23, he took seriously sick, and he was removed to the Axtell Christian Hospital in Newton for medical treatment and care, and there he died.

He leaves to mourn his departure his widow, three sons, Edmund, Dan, and Ruben, all of Hillsboro; five daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Wiebe, Newton, Mrs. Marie Unruh, Newport, Washington, Mrs. Margaret Hein, Hillsboro, Esther, Wichita, and Ruth at home; two daughters-in-law, three-sons-in-law, 21 grandchildren, two sisters, three brothers, and a host of friends and relatives.

Funeral services were held Feb. 12 at 2:30 p.m. in the Hillsboro Mennonite Church, Rev. J. H. Epp and Rev. J. D. Jantzen conducting the services.—The bereaved family.

JOHN SCHNEBELE, son of Jacob and Barbara Eicher Schnebele, died on February 3, 1938, aged 77 years, 3 months, and 4 days. In early youth he united with the Zion Mennonite Church of Donnellson, Iowa, where he served as a deacon for 11 years, and remained an active member throughout his life.

Oct. 31, 1897, he was united in marriage to Elise M. Lowenberg Krebill. Of this union four children were born, of which two passed on before him.

He leaves to mourn his death his bereaved widow; one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Pickron of Rock Island, Ill.; and one son, Orlando Schnebele of East Moline, Ill.; also three step children, Mrs. Ella Pink of Rock Island, Ill.; Harry J. Krebill and H. Fred Krebill, both of Donnellson, Iowa; also two half sisters and one half brother, Mrs. Katherine Kuehney, Mrs. Elizabeth Staufer, and Valentine Schnebele, all three of Deer Creek, Oklahoma. Two sisters and one brother preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held February 6, at the Zion Mennonite Church of Donnellson, Iowa.

HENRIETTA ELIZABETH NEUMANN, daughter of Adam and Carolina Witt, was born March 11, 1858, in Thorn, West Prussia, Germany. She came to America in 1879 with friends, locating at Elbing, Kansas. Here she united with the Mennonite Church, was baptized March 14, 1883, and accepted the Lord Jesus as her personal Saviour to whom she was true to her end—which came Feb. 28, 1938, at the age of 79 years, 11 months and 17 days. She was joined in Holy Matrimony with Carl Henry Neumann, June 2, 1884. To this union were born six children, all living, Henry P. Neumann, Mrs. Pete Neufeld, Oscar C. Neumann, Mrs. Martin K. Dirksen, Mrs. Earl Ellis, all of Medford, Oklahoma, and Carl J. Neumann of Shafter, California. They came to Oklahoma in December 1898. After twenty-one years of farm life, she, with her husband, moved to the town of Medford in August, 1919. Her husband preceded her in death, January 8, 1929.

She leaves to mourn her departure, besides her children, one sister, Mrs. Aaron Regier, Inman, Kansas, nineteen grandchildren, four nephews, four nieces, four great grandchildren and many friends. She was a devoted and loving mother who cherished her children with her whole being. She was unselfish at all times and a friend to all.

Short service was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Earl Ellis, where she made her home since her husband died. This was followed by the last rites at the Mennonite Church, with burial in the Mennonite Cemetery, March 3, 1938, in charge of Rev. John Lichti, assisted by Rev. W. E. Baldwin, pastor of the Congregational Church, Medford, Okla.

For her Earth's journey's over
In Heaven she's at rest;
And we, (her dearly loved ones)
Can surely call her blest.

PETER K. AUGSBURGER, youngest child of Joseph and Magdalena Kennel Augspurger, was born Jan. 26, 1849, near Trenton, Ohio, and passed away February 16, 1938, at his home in Camden, Ohio. On Feb. 23, 1871, he united in marriage with Sarah E. Conrad, and had he lived one week longer they would have been married 67 years. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, one son, one granddaughter, and one grandson.

His pastor, Rev. J. E. Amstutz, conducted brief services at the funeral home in Camden, and in the Mennonite Church at Trenton, Ohio, basing his remarks on Ps. 23. Burial in the Mennonite Cemetery, near Trenton, Ohio.

MRS. CHRISTINE BEACHY UNZICKER, 70, wife of the Rev. Peter Unzicker, died suddenly in their home at Dunlap, in an apoplectic stroke at 10:30 a. m. Sunday. Funeral services were held in the Eighth Street Mennonite Church at Goshen at 2 p. m. Wednesday, and burial was made in the Prairie Street cemetery, Elkhart.

Mrs. Unzicker, who was born Dec. 16, 1867, in Grantsville, Md., was married to Mr. Unzicker in July, 1910. Prior to that time she had been a resident of Elkhart 18 years, and following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Unzicker lived in Texas a number of years before locating at Dunlap 20 years ago.

Surviving beside the husband are a brother and two sisters living in Grantsville, and the following stepchildren: Glenn and John Unzicker and Mrs. Noble Himebaugh, all of Elkhart, Frank Unzicker of Freeport, Ill., Mrs. Lewis Miller of Manitou Springs, Colo., Samuel Unzicker of New York and Vernon Unzicker of Flint, Mich.

The deceased was a member of the church at Goshen. Funeral was in charge of the pastor, Rev. G. S. Stoneback, assisted by Rev. E. Troyer of Carlock, Ill.

—Brother M. J. Galle, co-worker of Rev. P. Aeschliman writes of the good brother's end: "The pneumonia from which he had suffered was entirely cleared up. It was a blood-clot that hastened his end. He had planned to leave the hospital Sunday, the 20th, but passed on the 19th in the hospital. He had had diabetes for some time and this brought on also Bright's disease, all of which may have hastened his death. He had just eaten breakfast, the nurse was just outside the door and, on looking around, found him gone." Thus quietly and peacefully pass on God's elect to their eternal reward.—Ed.

—Mennonite Church, Dallas, Ore., March 28: During this month we have been wrecking the upstairs and side rooms of the old building. On March 27 we had our last service there. Today we start tearing down the auditorium. In a few days we will be ready to begin with the basement of the new church building. Funds are coming in and we hope to have sufficient to keep going until we finish. Arrangements have been made to worship in the Seventh Day Adventist Church here. We rejoice for this, because we were thinking we would have to worship in the homes like the Old Order Amish Mennonites do. Anyone interested in this work, desiring information, should write to Mr. Dick Neufeld, Dallas, Ore., or to the pastor of the church, Rev. H. E. Widmer, 318 Mill St., Dallas, Oregon. We desire your prayers in behalf of this work.—Corr.

—Mennonite Church, Medford, Okla.—March 26: Brother and Sister J. C. Kaufman are with us this week. We are having such blessed meetings. We praise God for His Love, and praise Him for Jesus and His precious salvation, for in Him we have life eternal.—Praise the Lord O my soul!—John Lichti, pastor.

—St. John Church, Pandora, Ohio: Our pastor, Rev. D. J. Unruh, has returned from a ten-day visit in Kansas, where he attended a meeting of an Educational committee of the General Conference. In his absence Pres. A. S. Rosenberger of Bluffton and one of his students, Andrew Shelly, preached at the Sunday services.—Corr. Rev. Unruh sends us copies of their church bulletin, of which he says, "Although they are still in the experimental state, we will send you one each week. Quite a number of people have inquired about you and I can assure you that you have many friends in this community."—We, too, cherish the memory of many of the good people of that community. Those bulletin are O. K., though.—Ed.

—"Hidden Lights," an extract from the Folder of the Mission Church, Portland, Ore. "Foolish to put a light under a bushel? Yes, but this foolishness is all too common among Christians. What are some of these "bushels?" Imagined modesty or humility, not wanting to "put one's self forward. Timidity or bashfulness, most of us have this trouble. It's that bushel that makes it hard for us to pray at prayer-meeting or to conduct family worship, or to make a public confession of Christ. The worst bushel is an imperfect life. It is like the dirty glass chimney on a lamp."

—Like others of our ministers, Rev. A. S. Bechtel of Hanston, Kans., is giving a series of pre-Easter sermons on the current Sundays. The themes are: Jesus, the Way; Jesus, the Truth; Christ who faced Toward Calvary; The Miraculous Darkness of Calvary; The Miracle of the Rent Vail; The Miracle of the Earthquake; The Miracle of the Opened Graves; The Miracle of the Undisturbed Grave Clothes.

—The Mennonite wishes to express heartfelt sympathy to the Dr. J. P. Isaac family of Glendale, Calif., in their recent loss of wife and mother through death. Mrs. Isaac was a daughter of Rev. David Goerz, chief founder of Bethel College. Daughter Helen is a student at Bethel in the senior year.

—Dr. A. Warkentin of Bethel College was guest speaker of the Berne, Ind., church on Sunday, March 27. He gave the sermon at morning worship, addressed a gathering in German in the afternoon, and again filled the pulpit in the evening.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio. On March 24, the "Busy Mothers Class" of the Sunday School came to the parsonage and surprised their pastor on his birthday. They brought baskets well filled for all. After a short program the evening was spent in a social way.

—At the World's Fair in Paris they built a typical French village and the atheistic Blum government insisted that there should be no church in it. But a group of Arian French authors addressed a memorial to the government, calling attention to the fact that a typical French village without a church (sans clocher) was unthinkable.

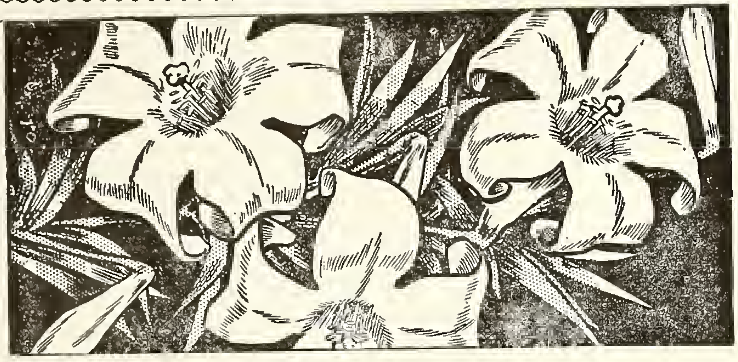
O Death, Where Is Thy Sting?



Christ Is Risen! Hallelujah!

Easter Tidings

Edwin C. Graber

The Lord of Life victorious: a host of angels sing,
"The grave no longer imprisons; death has lost its sting."

The broken, empty vault, and Resurrection's peerless power
Freed us from dark eternal, and death's grim, grilling hour.

For death is but transition now and Life, divinely given,
Spans our every chasm, from cradle unto Heaven.

The Lord of Life victorious: all nature joins to sing,
"The grave no longer imprisons; death has lost its sting."

Christ is Risen to New Power

From the cross they took Him in a shroud,
In a tomb they laid Him, followed by a crowd,
Guards were set to watch Him, and the stone made fast;
Yet He rose in power, He was Lord at last.
Let the chorus echo, shout your glad refrain,
Christ was dead, but liveth; soon He will come again;
Doors of hope are opened, death has lost its gloom,
There is One that leads us on beyond the tomb.
What then shall we fear?

Two Gardens

By Mary Starck Herr

It was night, and in a garden
Jesus knelt and prayed alone;
Near were those who truly loved Him,
But the flesh had weary grown.
So they slept, while Jesus struggled
With the powers of night and gloom,
Till by ministering angels strengthened,
He went forth to meet His doom.

It was evening. To a garden
With a rock-hewn tomb inside,
Loving hands had brought the body
Of the Saviour, crucified,
Wrapping it in finest linen,
With the spices rare and sweet,
Round pierced side and thorn-scarred forehead,
And His wounded hands and feet.

It was morning in that garden,
And in terror, soldiers fled
From the tomb which had burst open
To release Him who was dead;
Angel hands had rent asunder
Roman-seals, and rolled away
From the door the stone that closed it
On the resurrection day.

Praise be unto God our Father,
Who from death has raised His Son,
For as He was resurrected,
So shall we be, for He won
Life for all who trust the power
Of His blood from sin to save,
And when He shall come in glory,
He will call them from the grave.

A Cross in the Night

I Cor. 2:2

On the tower of the Seminary here in Hartford is an electric cross. Each night the lights are turned on and for great distances around the cross speaks its message of Suffering, Sacrifice and Service. When darkness covers the earth and things are at rest under the coverlet of midnight, this cross appears to hang between heaven and earth wholly unaffected by the darkness, giving one the sense of security and the feeling of at-home-ness.

As we approach again the passion of our Lord—Good Friday and Easter, dark clouds cover the earth; clouds of political corruption, avaricious dictators, and would-be-dictators, selfish capitalism and the covetousness of labor; storm clouds of national and international jealousy, hatred and suspicion; in fact the dark clouds of devastating war hang over the world.

But above and through all this darkness appears the cross of Calvary giving to the world a sense of direction. "Politics" means only doing the "possible"; the cross means doing the "impossible". Politics extends "arms" across the sea; the cross extends "hands" across the sea. The cross changes the hearts of men, a thing impossible for politics. Our hope is not in London, Berlin, Rome, Moscow, or even Washington. Our hope is in a cross to which nothing need be added, and in an open tomb which can never again be closed. Why should St. Paul preach anything other than the Christ and Him crucified?

J. E. Hartzler, Hartford Seminary.

Simon of Cyrene

Simon of Cyrene bore
The cross of Jesus—nothing more.
His name is never heard again,
Nor honored by historic pen;
Nor on the pedestal of fame
His image courts the loud acclaim:
Simon of Cyrene bore
The cross of Jesus, nothing more.

And yet, when all the work is done,
And golden beams the western sun
Upon a life of wealth and fame:
A thousand echoes ring our name;
Perhaps our hearts will humbly pray—
Good Master, let my record say
Upon the page divine: "He bore
The cross of Jesus"; nothing more.

King of Kings and Lord of Lords

Once during the wars between the Spanish and the French, the Spaniards, who were investing their foes, sent an insulting note to the French commander, General Coligny: "Surrender! We are more numerous than you." And General Coligny wrote his reply on a piece of paper and fastened it to an arrow and shot it into the Spanish camp. It read: "Surrender? Never! We have a king with us."

When we are tempted to surrender because things seem to be going wrong in the world, we can fling back the same proud and defiant answer. We have a King with us. Easter tells that the King is with us.

That is the way we should celebrate Easter. We know that as a world, as a nation, as individual men and women, greater challenges come to us today, than have ever stared into man's face. Will we remember that we have a King of kings and a Lord of lords, who will help us meet the problems, that we have to encounter. The governments of the world are asking for leaders, the business of our day and time, is asking for leaders. Our soul in the still of the night, can hear a voice say, leaders!

This voice that calls for Christian leaders is no one less, than the Spirit of our great King, that has made Easter reecho its most worthy phrase, "Christ has risen, our King lives!"—Gustav Frey, in Worker's Exchange.

AT HOME

A correspondent of the Palestine Review writes: "One of the great attractions of Palestine is that you are with other Jews. When you go through the streets on a Saturday shops are closed; when you go through on Sunday they are open. In the bus you meet Jews; in the theater you sit next to Jews; in the cafe you eat with Jews; in the hospital you are with Jews. You do not have to be on your best behavior for fear of what the non-Jews will say.

"Then there are the marvelous nights with a million stars. There are ghosts everywhere of Abraham and Jacob, Isaiah and Jeremiah, Akiba and Bar Cochba. Every step tells a story,—Biblical, Talmudic, Medieval, Modern."

But nothing of Christ! He is the great Forgotten One.

And not merely forgotten. Dr. Christie writes in the British Weekly that "multitudes in Israel" are determined to blot out the geographical evidences of Christianity (in Palestine) and warnings have been given to "take away your dead Christ from our Land." The Sea of Galilee has been desecrated. No Jew has raised his voice to advocate Christian rights in the Holy Land. The German pietist colonies in Palestine have been threatened. "We will turn you out of Palestine as you are doing to us in Germany. Your fathers may have bought that land, but it is ours."

"They Understood Not"

Joanna S. Andres

The days just passed had brought grief and sorrow to the hearts of those who, in a few brief years, had learned to love and adore the Christ who had walked in their midst. He had walked with an authority unknown to them before; they had seen tremendous power go forth out of His words and out of His touch and, seeing this, they had believed in Him and followed with the assurance: "This is the Christ, the Son of the living God."

And then came death. DEATH! Into death they could not follow "for as yet they knew not the scripture, that he must rise again" and when the Christ on the cross said, "It is finished!" they, seeing Him pass away from them, were pierced with the sword of grief. Their Lord was gone,—gone forever! They understood not the words: "He must rise again." He was sealed into the tomb. And still through the ages men seal the tomb of their dead, not knowing that Life is not held by death. But these are they that know not the scripture: "He must rise again."

On the first day of the week, very early while it was yet dark, Mary Magdalene seeks the tomb of her Lord and, nearing it, she sees the mighty stone, rolled away! A fresh pain pierces her wounded soul. "They have taken away my Lord," she cries, "and we know not where they have laid him." She understood not the words: "He must rise again." Standing without, at the tomb, Mary Magdalene weeps. "Why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou?" said the Risen One standing near. Did He not know? Oh, yes. He knew. And because He knew, He came. Mary Magdalene, art thou weeping today? Turn and behold the Risen One.

And behold, two of them were going that very day to a village, named Emmaus, and walking along the way, a stranger drew near. Upon His question, they stood still, looking sad: "Stranger," said they, "dost thou alone not know the things that have come to pass?" Did He not know? O, yes, He knew! Knew their disappointment and their questioning heart that could not comprehend the great experiences of the past days and hours. He the Risen One drew near to answer their need, giving them understanding and the joy and satisfaction of a burning heart. "They had not understood the scripture, that He must rise again," but now they knew.

"Blessed," said the Risen One, "are they that have not seen, and yet believe." Thomas had not yet believed, but he must now for the Christ comes to him in his unbelief: "Thomas, see my hands; reach hither thy hand and put it into my side." And Thomas, obeying the command, now knew the scripture, "that He must rise again."

O Lord, I cannot doubt
That Thou didst rise again
For I have touched with feeble hand,
Thy garment's wondrous hem.

And I have heard Thy voice:
"Mary, why weepest Thou?
Lo, I am here to wipe thy tears
And smooth thy troubled brow."

Yes, I have felt the burn
Down deep within my heart
When Thou didst come to speak with me
Along a road apart.

Oh! I have seen the scars
Of nails within Thy hand
And touched Thy pierced, blood-stained side
That made me understand.

Thou art the Risen One!
My heart is all at rest,
For I can feel Thy wondrous power,—
Thyself within my breast.

"And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre."—Luke 24:2.

The resurrection morn has come,
Christ has risen from the tomb;
Has scattered back its night of gloom,
And leads the way to heaven and home.

O death, where is thy venom sting?
O grave, where is thy victory?
The Lord to both now holds the key,
While happy saints their homage bring.
—R. E. Neighbor.

EMMAUS AND BACK

By Martha Bell Tummey

"This is the end; let us go home," they said.
"Heed not the women's tale. The Nazarene is dead."
Two traveled toward the close of day
With heavy hearts along the Emmaus way.

The stones pressed hard their sandaled feet,
They plodded on in weary, sad retreat,
And each one to the other said,
"This is the end. The man we loved is dead."

"Let us go back—oh, let us haste!" they cried.
*"He lives! He lives! We've seen and walked beside The risen Lord! The prophets wrote, but we were slow
Of hart in faith. Said He not so?"*
And on they sped as if on wings of light
To bear the ages' gladdest news. Unheeded fell the Night.

Christian Education

NEGLECTED AREAS IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

Daniel J. Unruh

I. Teacher Training

What's wrong with our Sunday Schools, is a question that confronts the Christian worker of today with a challenge that cannot be evaded. To say that the Sunday School does not function as it ought to is not a criticism of the institution, but rather an honest attempt to evaluate the means and the objectives of the Sunday School of today. A worthy objective is, in the last analysis, the only justification for this institution or any other institution to exist.

The objective of the Sunday School is Christian Education. For the present, it will not be necessary to define the term Christian Education, as related to the Sunday School, but we will presume that it is based upon the strictest biblically orthodox confession. In this light, we ask the question: How well does the Sunday School function in this given field? The answer to this question can undoubtedly be reduced to a phrase, namely; 'that depends on the teacher.'

If that be true, then our first and foremost task, in the field of Christian Education through the Sunday School, is to train Sunday School teachers. "Teacher training must precede and follow an attempt to solve Sunday School problems. Real teachers are impossible without teacher training." (C. H. Benson) It goes without saying that such training must be true to the great fundamentals of the Christian faith.

Why has this field been so neglected? Is there so little appreciation of Christian service that we are unwilling to make the sacrifices in preparation? Are the emoluments for such service not large and attractive enough to warrant preparation? Or have the great realities of Christianity been so beclouded by idealism that we become enamored with 'what ought to be' rather than with 'that which is'.

I believe that the field of Teacher training is one of the most fertile areas, and yet one of the most neglected in the 'set up' of Christian Education. This field must be cultivated more diligently if the Sunday Schools are to function successfully in their God-given task. The person, or group of persons, that can make the Mennonite Churches, as well as the Christian Churches at large, conscious of this opportunity and help to supply the means will render the cause of Christ an immeasurable service.

Every opportunity for a secular education is offered to the youth of today, and the efficient Sunday School must match this opportunity with a teaching corps adequately prepared for their work. We must have teachers who are born again, born of the Holy Spirit, who know and believe the Holy Scriptures, who live a blameless Christian life, and who are temperamentally and pedagogically fitted to teach the eternal truths of the Christian faith. "The things that Thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, WHO SHALL BE ABLE TO TEACH OTHERS ALSO. II. Tim. 2:2.

DAILY MEDITATIONS

Furnished by J. B. Epp

MONDAY, APRIL 18

"For me to live is Christ." Phil. 1:21.

Living for Jesus, a life that is true,
Striving to please Him in all that I do,
Yielding allegiance, gladhearted and free,
This is the pathway of blessing for me.
Living for Jesus, who died in my place,
Bearing on Calvary my sin and disgrace,
Such love constrains me to answer His call,
Follow His leading and Giv Him my all.
Living for Jesus thru earth's little while,
My dearest treasure, the light of His smile,
Seeking the lost ones He died to redeem,
Bringing the weary to find rest in Him.

TUESDAY, APRIL 19

"The joy of the Lord is your strength." Neh. 8:10.

The joy of the Lord is our strength for life's burdens,
And gives to each duty a heavenly zest,
It sets to sweet music the task of the toiler,
And softens the couch of the laborer's rest.
The joy of the Lord is the strength of our trials,
And lifts the crushed heart above sorrow and care.
Like the nightingale's notes, it can sing in the darkness,
And rejoice when the figtree is fruitless and bare.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 20

"As thy days, so shall thy strength be." Deut. 33:25.

God hath not promised skies ever blue;
Flower-strewn pathways always for you.
God hath not promised sun without rain;
Joy without sorrow, peace without pain.
God hath not promised smooth roads and wide
Swift easy travel, needing no guide;
Never a river, turbid and deep;
Never a mountain, rocky and steep:
But, God hath promised strength for the day;
Rest for the labor; light for the way;
Grace for the trials; help from above;
Unfailing sympathy, undying love.

THURSDAY, APRIL 21

"How shall they call upon Him in Whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him of Whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? Rom. 10:14.

Why should I give for the heathen,
Dying without the true light?
He brought me out of my darkness,
And banished forever my night!
Why should I pray for the heathen?
That He Who alone is the Way
Might visit them with His salvation
And turn them from darkness to-day!
Why should I go to the heathen?
To tell them of His dying love,
To tell them that He has arisen,
Is coming again from above!

FRIDAY, APRIL 22

"For the love of Christ constraineth us." 2 Cor. 5:14.

He came from the mansions of glory,
He cared for me dead in my sin,
He prayed for me; then went to Calvary,
Because I was precious to Him.
Is such love not power constraining
To tell of a Saviour from sin?
Of all that I am, have, or hope for,
Is there aught that's too precious for Him?
Today is the day of salvation;
To-morrow the harvest is past.
Oh, be not "ashamed" at His coming!
"Approved" stand before Him at last.

SATURDAY, APRIL 23

"And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God."

He guided by paths that I could not see,
By ways that I have not known;
The crooked was straight and the rough made plain
As I followed the Lord alone.
He was better to me than all my prayers,
He was better than all my fears;
He made a bridge of my broken hopes,
And a rainbow of all my tears.
He emptied my hands of my treasured stores,
And His covenant love revealed;
There is not a wound in my aching heart
But the balm of His breath has healed!

The Temptation of Jesus

Cornelius Frey

The fact that the church fathers designated the Temptation of Jesus as one of the sermon topics for Passion week, proves that they did not look upon it as a mere sham maneuver but rather as a very real part of his suffering. A certain doctor of divinity has asserted that Jesus could not sin. But that is overlooking the fact that Jesus was not only God but also man, and as such he was subject to human frailties. With like reasoning one could assert, Jesus could not become hungry nor tired nor troubled. And yet, when forecasting his suffering, he said I am troubled (pained). The struggle between his human inclinations and the urge for obedience must have been quite intense, at times. We need only to think of Gethsemane. Jesus had to suffer through temptation, in order to become a perfectly succoring High Priest, For in that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted.

Jesus in his calling as a Savior was often tempted, and the report of his first major struggle with the power of darkness closed with these words, "The devil departed from him for a season." But Jesus had to make this all-important decision in the desert, far away from his fellowmen, and without food.

Of considerable importance is the time of the Temptation. The time was not a matter of arbitrary choice by Jesus, but rather foreordained of God through the Spirit. With the approach of the thirtieth year of his life, Jesus realizes that his time to enter upon his messianic career has come. He comes to the Jordan and, to the astonishment of the Preacher of Penitence, takes his place among sinners. The visible and audible acknowledgment that his Father bestows on him is a matter of great satisfaction to him, who aims to do his Father's will above all things. Without doubt this was one of the most glorious and happiest experiences of his life up to that moment. He is seized with a burning passion to spend himself in the service of a lost world, for the glory of God. In his spirit he beholds himself placing a redeemed world at his Father's feet. In the loneliness of the desert, removed from human and divine contact, he is now to undergo a trial for an example.

The realization of his being the son of God became well grounded in the mind of the Savior, after receiving divine approval at the Jordan. Coupled with this was undoubtedly also the consciousness of his power to perform miracles and, as a sequence, the temptation to use this power. But I do not think that the Master immediately recognized this suggestion as coming from the devil. It was for him to determine what was his Father's will in the case. The Old Testament that had been his guide from youth up, again pointed out to him the right direction: Not material bread alone but, above all, God's Word which expresses the will of God should be man's chief concern—yes, even that of the Son of Man. It appears that Jesus here caught the motto of his life, The Son of Man has come not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many.

And is it not highly significant and wonderful that Jesus who helps thousands through his healing power, never uses it to his own advantage. He can not endure seeing others hunger until morning, but he himself hungers for forty long days.

Second Assault.—Jesus had taken upon himself the salvation of mankind, insofar as that was and is possible. To begin with, the chosen people had to be woed and won. To do that he had to get the acknowledgment of the angels. Two ways were open—an easy one and a difficult one.

The easy way was to meet the messianic hope of the masses and to satisfy the inborn nature of the individual by floating in glory from the pinnacle of the temple, in view of thousands of eye-witnesses, and then be proclaimed the long awaited Messiah. The acclaim and the enthusiasm would have been boundless.

The difficult way was, to begin—in humility and patience and amidst much misunderstanding, contempt and stiff opposition, especially on the part of the leaders of the people—the rescue of individual human souls, and then be nailed, as an outcast, upon the cruel cross.

What a temptation for the Son of Man to choose the easy way! But he was determined not to deviate one finger's breadth from the will of God. And so he had to find in the Bible the necessary guidepost. In this instance the tempter reveals himself as a cunning theologian who knows the Bible as well as the one being tempted. (Psalm 91:11-12.) But Jesus' weapon proves mightier, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.

Dear reader, when you are in the midst of trying life situations, where two opposing passages from the Word of God present themselves as your guides, what has prompted you to choose the right one? Would not the Spirit that is promised to searchers of the truth take the lead in such instances? Had Jesus from the first recognized the suggestion as coming from the devil, he would have indignantly rejected it, and the battle would not have been so difficult.

The event was quite different in the third Temptation. Here the one being tempted recognizes the satanical aspect of the temptation, calls the tempter by his name and bids him depart. In my younger days I used to think, if I could only ward off temptations as easily as Jesus did—simply open the door and say, Get out—but I have since come to realize that I have the same privilege which Jesus had. My distress was due to the fact that I imitated Eve in Paradise. She labeled the fruit as counter to God's order, but at the same time viewed the forbidden object as desirable. Balaam knew very well that it was counter to God's will to fulfill the wish of Balak. But the tendered presents caught his fancy. And, although he said, If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the Lord, yet he bade him stay over night, in order to obtain permission to pick up the proffered treasures. In like manner we, too, often withstand temptation, to be annoyed by it for days and weeks.

Luke closes the temptation report, and when the devil had ended all the temptation, he departed from him for a season. The word ALL designates three spheres in which temptations take place: Position, Possession, Pleasure (German: Herrschsucht, Habsucht, Genussucht). John the apostle calls them "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life." Now every one of us has likely been "jittery" in one or the other of these spheres, and man's enemy knows in which one. He notices our weaknesses and watches his opportunities. Our High Priest who knew of Satan's plan to sift the disciples like wheat and who, through special intercession, prevented Peter from having his faith shipwrecked, also knows our dangers and places the petition in our heart, "Lead me not into temptation."

In the life of Jesus the struggle with Satan in the desert was preceded by a time of special blessing. What followed the victorious combat? Can we understand what it meant to Jesus when, after his privation and in view of his recently won victory, the angels came to minister unto him?

Should we not in times of blessings and strengthened faith realize that tests and trials will follow, and know that after enduring suffering and temptation angelic ministry will be our recompense?—Trans. J. R. T.

General Conference Statistics

The blanks for the General Conference statistics have been sent out to all churches; but in the three-year Blank the dates are incorrect. The information is desired for the years 1934 to the end of 1937, or from Jan. 1, 1935 to Jan. 1, 1938. Some who have already replied have noticed this error and given correct information and we thank them. Should any church leader not have received blanks, will you please notify C. E. Krehbiel, statistician, Newton, Kansas.

RECEIVING VISION FOR SERVICE

Mark 9:2-10

Jesus Transfigured vs. 2, 3

No one of the gospel writers tells anything of that which took place during the six days between Peter's confession and our lesson of today. "Now after six days" (v2), comes the marvelous event of the transfiguration. It seems evident that this event had a real connection with what took place six days earlier. Jesus wished the disciples to see that the Cross would not detract from His eternal glory.

Mark's account of the transfiguration should be closely compared with those of Matthew and Luke. This event is one of the most meaningful in Jesus' whole earthly life. It proves that God, the Father of Jesus, is the eternal God, and that Jesus is the "beloved Son" of God.

Jesus took the three of the inner circle with Him (vs. cf. Luke 9:28) into a mountain retreat. Here He was transfigured "before them"—this was wholly for their sakes. In this they saw the real Jesus in His eternal glory. Verse three tells in a few words, the outward signs of the transfiguration (see also Matt. 17:2, Luke 9:29). It was not a reflected light shining upon Him, but a radiant light of glory from within. The glory of Moses' face was reflected; that of Jesus came from His inner glory.

Moses and Elijah Appear vs. 4-6

The three disciples were fully awake, they actually saw Moses and Elijah, IN GLORY, speaking with the transfigured Lord. Moses, who died long before this time, and Elijah, who had been taken into heaven without dying—the representatives of Law and Grace, the representatives of the saved of all time, talked with Jesus that day (v4 also L. 9:31). Peter, right at times, sometimes wrong, but always ready to speak, acted like himself on this momentous occasion. He made a hasty suggestion (v5, also L. 9:33, Matt. 17:4). "It is good for us to be here", so why not arrange to stay. Peter needed to learn and did learn, that there are hills and valleys in the Christian life. There was work to be done at the foot of the mountain (vs 14, 15). The mountain-top experiences are the preparation and inspiration for service in the valley. We forget this at times.

Peter spoke out of his feeling instead of his intelligence. He was visionary for the moment (v6). We need to think long and seriously over our plans that may be costly to us and to others when put into operation. God does not hurry us when there is something worthwhile to do.

God's Testimony vs. 7-10

God Himself appeared in a bright cloud (v7, Matt. 17:5) and spoke to the three disciples—"this is my beloved Son; hear HIM"—not them, but HIM. Moses and Elijah represented the old covenant of the Law and the Prophets—Jesus, the new covenant of Grace and Truth. Here the authority of Jesus is exalted. He did not come to destroy the authority of Moses and the prophets, but to fulfill it. Suddenly the disciples found themselves alone with Jesus (v8, see also Matt. 17:6-8, Luke 9:36). "Jesus only", they saw—the same Jesus they had known, yet after having seen His glory, He would not be the same to them after this. To have "Jesus only" was better than to have Moses and Elijah.

Jesus charged them not to tell what they had seen until after His resurrection (v9), for until then they could not understand fully. They did not yet understand the meaning of Jesus' resurrection from the dead (v10). The three disciples had a vision of God's, Christ's glory, and could not be the same after this. Trying times were ahead of them, when all fond hopes seemed lost. In those darkest shadows they could remember the mountain-top glory and not be utterly cast down.

THE CHILD WHO LED

By Ada C. Sell

Richard could not understand it at all. There were some things he could understand, like how it could be dark in China when it was light in his country, how Uncle Ned's milking machine worked, why mother's iron wouldn't heat if the end of the cord wasn't fixed right, how Kinkey loved to get mice for her little kittens—well, lots and lots of things. But the one big question—why in the whole wide world didn't mother and daddy speak to each other?

There was mummie: she was just as nice to him as ever, buttering his toast, seeing if his cocoa wasn't a teeny, weeny bit too hot, fixing his orange. Daddy asking whether son wanted to take a walk, and did he like his new scooter. Richard gulped his toast down and one big tear dropped into his cocoa.

Mother gasped in dismay. Not in four days had she spoken to daddy. It had to be now; the tear must have done it. Afterward Richard was so glad he had cried that tear. But what did mummie mean? It was so hard to understand some of the things these grown-ups said and did. Specially when things were out of gear.

"Edward, we really must consider the child! Possibly it would be better to try to act as much as possible as before, until proceedings are completed."

"As you like, my dear."

This was all Greek to Richard. He didn't know what proceedings meant. He felt a little better as he slipped his hand into daddy's. They had their walk; it was Good Friday, and lots of people were going to church. Daddy felt a deep pang when he heard Man of Sorrows played feelingly on a pipe organ in the church they passed.

"Son, what do you want the Easter bunny to bring you?"

"Nothing, daddy."

"Look here, my lad, that's a strange answer," protested daddy, sternly and unreasoningly. But thus are children's responses too often not taken for bona fide. It is the expected answer that is probed for.

"Don't you want an Easter basket, son?"

"No."

Nonplussed, daddy hurried on. Could it be that the child had such a sensitive nature that his little heart was literally breaking because of the strain their home had been under? God forbid! Then to his tired, dazed brain came the faint query: "What was it all about?" Come to put it into words there might be no real reason for disagreement. A meddler or two, trifling with the reputations of others, making mountains out of molehills which never were; who can say what does start the wall of estrangement to rise? Brick by brick it rears its ugly front; until the two on opposite sides of the wall can no longer see each other through their customary eyes of love. Then Dame Gossip draws a deep breath of satisfaction, settles her skirts in the proper folds, ties on her sunbonnet, and off she goes, in search of another victim, heedless how much she may sully perfectly clean linen. And Satan himself, her general, is proud of his aid.

What had begun it all? What? What? Frantically daddy pushed his fingers back through his hair, grabbed his boy's hand, and walked home at too brisk a rate for the child. More wondering why, more heartache for little Richard. His heart was a dead thing, and on his stomach lay the food he had eaten for breakfast, not digested a little bit. Daddy had to see mother; Richard was forgotton.

"Enid, don't you think we could forget, and start over again? The child, he will be sick! I love you, I love you very dearly."

But Enid, usually so sweet and tactful, had no reply. The words would not come. Some one had done his work too well.

"Do you not love me any longer, Enid darling?"

"Oh, yes! yes! that's the hard part of it! But now since things have gone as they have, I can't go on, I just can't."

"Very well, my dear," replied the man, and the scarcity of the words in his reply was no indication of the quantity of real desolation of heart he experienced as he uttered them.

So the lawyer proceeded, trying to dissolve a bond made in trusting love.

Richard was ill. He could not look at food, it made him sick. The doctor was summoned.

"Has the child been subject to some nervous trouble?"

"No, doctor!"

But both parents knew what was wrong.

It was ten in the evening when Richard asked to see mother and daddy, on the eve of Easter. Each parent holding a hand of his, he looked into their eyes. A child often has deeper yearnings than an adult. Richard yearned over his mother and his father. He had a request.

"Let's go to Easter services tomorrow."

"But you're sick, dear," murmured his mother. The parents had not been to church since the start of the trouble.

"I'll be better if you say we'll go, honest, I will!" His eyes were very bright.

"All right, son, we shall go," father decided and rare tears gathered in his eyes.

Enid hurried to another room, and there her husband found her in a paroxysm of weeping. Forgotten was all the misunderstanding, loving arms upheld her, the mother of little Richard. Her heart melted at last, Enid lifter her face and received the kiss of reconciliation. And somehow both knew there had been no real grounds for misunderstanding.

When Easter morning dawned bright and lovely, Richard was fairly intoxicated with the beauty of the skies, the flowers, the music, and the return of love. At the Easter service a woman's beautiful alto, a man's deep bass, and a boy's squeaky soprano helped to sing "He arose! He arose! Hallelujah, Christ arose!"

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST CHURCH, MT. LAKE, MINN., APR. 6.

Dear Editor:

Spring is here, and in our church, too, we feel new life coming. Our pastor, Rev. Isaac Dick, started the catechism class Mar. 27, with eleven young people taking instruction. The first three months of the year we had two Bible classes meeting every Thursday night. We had a book review on "The Gospel of Mark" by a S. S. teacher on Mar. 3. On Mar. 16 another S. S. teacher, Miss Mary Goossen, was married and will change her membership to her husband's church, the Bergfelder congregation. Our loss is their gain. On Mar. 8, the members of the church Choir and the Junior Mission Society enjoyed a social evening in the Bargen home. The students of the local Bible Academy gave a program on "Daniel" in poems, readings and songs on Mar. 11. A free-will offering was taken to increase the school library. Mr. Winfield Fretz of Chicago Divinity School spoke briefly to the S. S. on Mar. 20. He spent his spring vacation in Mt. Lake, gathering material on Co-operative Movements for his Master's thesis. We plan to redecorate our church interior before the No. District Conference meets here June 12.

With happy Easter greetings to all Mennonites everywhere, Your reporter—Mary Bargen.

WEST SWAMP CHURCH, QUAKERTOWN, PA.

At Christmas Time the Sunday School had a White Gift offering, which money was given to the Eastern District Sunday School Mission Project. The offerings received at the Christmas festivals, in addition to a contribution from the Young Women's Missionary Society, was used in purchasing Bibles for the church pews. They are very helpful during the church services.

For the past few months the pastor has been meeting with a group of twelve young people of the church in preparation of admission to the church on a later date.—At the present time we are in the midst of the last courses of the Teacher's Training Class, which was started last winter. We have as our books in studying the course, the following: "The Best Possible Sunday School", and "Sketches from Church History for Mennonite Schools." The class meets in the Bethany Church, Quakertown, this being the center church of the charge. There are about twenty-five young people from the charge, which includes, Flatland, Bethany, and West Swamp, attending every week.

On Sunday, March 23, during the absence of our pastor, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Rev. J. M. Regier, President of the Home Mission Board of the General Conference, conducted the service and gave the message of the afternoon.—On the evening of the same day, the Mission Committee of the Christian Endeavor Society had charge of a very interesting program. Mr. Dayton Knipe of Telford, Pa. was the speaker of the evening, and the Clef String Orchestra rendered several inspiring musical selections.

The Christian Endeavor Society went to a Chinese Christian Endeavor meeting in Philadelphia, on Sunday evening, April 3, to take part in the program.—Correspondent.

BETHANY CHURCH, QUAKERTOWN, PA.

The series of pre-Easter services conducted by Rev. J. M. Regier, home mission chairman of General Conference, from March 18 through 24, was well received and well attended. The next to the last service showed the best attendance, when a mixed chorus from the neighboring Mennonite Brethren church rendered special music. Rev. Regier preached on the "I Am's" of Jesus.—Rev. G. T. Soldner, field representative of Bluffton College, brought the message at the evening service on March 27. On April 1 the gospel team of Bluffton College gave its program to a capacity audience.

Sunday School attendance continues to be satisfactory. An orchestra is a regular feature of the Sunday School, while in church a junior choir has taken the place of the regular choir on several occasions. A ladies' sextet has also rendered special numbers at various times. For the evening service our pastor usually has a story for the children, which is also appreciated by the grown-ups. Occasionally lantern slides are a feature of the evening service, one such service early in the year illustrating events in the life of Jesus.

The Young People's Society, though limited in numbers, continues active. The society recently conducted a service at the Mennonite Home for the Aged at Frederick. The midweek meetings, held jointly with the West Swamp congregation at various homes, are in the form of a teacher training course.

The Ladies' Aid Society continues to be one of the mainstays of the church. The society did much to make possible the recent renovation of the church. The men of the church were recently invited to a meeting to consider the possibility of forming a brotherhood of the church—Anna Bauman, Corr.

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, PANDORA, OHIO

The Fifty-Seventh Anniversary of the Founding of Christian Endeavor was observed by the Senior and High School Christian Endeavor societies, Jan. 30, with a pot-luck supper and a fellowship period, at which time Rev. G. T. Soldner of Bluffton College was the guest speaker.

Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Moyer and son, just recently returned from India, spent Sunday, Feb. 6th with us, speaking both at the Sunday School and church services.—Mrs. Clayton Steiner, a returned missionary from Peru, S. A., spoke to the Women's Missionary Society at their February meeting.

The men of the church held a fellowship supper in February. The meeting, with Rev. E. W. Bloomquist of Lima, Ohio, as guest speaker, was largely attended.

Dr. H. A. Fast, field secretary of the General Conference, visited us in February, speaking both at the regular morning service, and before the C. E. Societies. At separate meetings he spoke of the larger work of our church boards, and of our General Conference institutions and their tasks.

Rev. Jesse N. Smucker, pastor of the Bethel College Church, was the speaker for our annual pre-Easter services held March 20-27.

A sacred concert given by the Bluffton College a capella choir was largely attended and greatly appreciated.—The church choir under the direction of Mr. Vilas Gerber is working hard in preparation for the rendition of the Easter cantata "From Olivet to Calvary."—Mrs. Sidney Steiner, Corr.

— First Church, Hutchinson, Kans.—It has been the privilege of the pastor, C. H. Dirks, to make 59 pastoral visits, to have 19 study calls and 27 visits in our home. Making a total of 105 extended visits with members and friends of this church since Jan. 1, 1938. —Pre-Easter services at this church, April 10-15, with Dr. A. Warkentin as guest speaker.

A Church Analyzes Itself

One of the young pastors of our denomination has been doing excellent work in the practical business of making the church program most meaningful to his people. Recognizing the various dispositions and ranges of interests among his charges, he prepared the following questionnaire, which he had all members of the church over 12 years of age fill out, and by which he guided himself.

Such questionnaires have a way of taking all possible conceit out of a person. The ultimate good is that the church as well as the pastor becomes keenly conscious of its shortcomings and areas of possible improvement.

The portions of the questionnaire which were of more local interest have been eliminated for the sake of brevity.

Are you for conducting a Teacher Training Class? ------; when?---------------- a Personal Evangelism Class?---- when? ---------------------.

III. CONCERNING GALATIANS 6:2.—"Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." Do you think that the members should do more calling upon others?------ How long should a "pastoral call" be (either by the pastor, the church worker, or a deacon)?------------; What do you expect of a pastoral call? 1.-----------------------; 2.--------------------; 3. ---------------------- When or how often should members expect a pastoral call?----------------; Do you desire to have in your pastor a sympathetic friend with whom you can discuss your everyday problems both material and spiritual and pray concerning them? --------------.

IV. CONCERNING THE WORSHIP SERVICES

How many congregational songs should a worship service contain?--------; Do you favor having a central theme for the entire service?------; If so, is there an advantage in having the sermon towards the beginning for the sake of focusing the attention of all the worshippers upon that central theme?--------; Would you prefer to shorten the present service?----.

You are urged prayerfully to make suggestions that will make our church more helpful spiritually.

Jobs in a Changing World

2 Pet. 1:2-11 (Consecration Meeting)

Young People's Topic for May 1, 1938

Meditations:

M., Apr. 25. Early occupations. Gen. 4:3-12.
T., Apr. 26. Ruth, a job-seeker. Ruth 2:1-7.
W., Apr. 27. Needed craftsmen. Exod. 35:30-35.
T., Apr. 28. A labor strike. Exod. 5:1-12.
F., Apr. 29. The right spirit in job-seeking. Rom. Rom. 12:9-18.
S., Apr. 30. Is the ministry over-supplied? Isa. 6:1-8.

Suggested Hymns:

"Have Thine own way, Lord," "O Master, let me walk with Thee."

A high school or a college graduate is naturally interested in finding a job. He is also interested in recreation, in cultural inspiration, in social contacts with his fellow-men, in meditation and worship. In the present world situation, the proper balance among these pursuits has been distorted. Job-seeking and job-holding have been so violently thrust into the foreground as to almost eclipse every other activity of youth. Eras of change lie between the picturesque simplicity of Ruth the Moabites gleaning among the ears of grain and the hysterical competition of job seekers of the twentieth century.

It is well, at intervals, to withdraw from the confusion, to consecrate our lives anew to the fundamentals of Christ's program. Consecration is of the spirit, affecting one's inner life. Yet outward symbols are often effective in producing an atmosphere congenial to that inner experience. A simple candle-lighting ceremony in which the members kindle their little tapers at a large light, suffuses a feeling of renewed strength and unity of purpose

Problems for Discussion:

Peter, in his second epistle, vs. 5-7, lists some of the qualities in which Christians are expected to grow. Does the development of these qualities make for success today?

1. Virtue. (The Young People's Witness explains that in this place it signifies resolution or courage instead of chastity.)
   a. What are some of our sources of courage?
   b. What are some of the uses and misuses of resolution and determination?
2. Knowledge.
   a. What types of knowledge are required to be a successful clerk, secretary, librarian, teacher, engineer, telephone operator, minister?
3. Self-control or Temperance.
   a. Is temperance in working as important as temperance in eating and other matters?
   b. Is a person ever justified in pursuing a certain task so rigorously that his health might be permanently impaired?
4. Patience.
   a. In what instances would the following need to exercise patience? (Clerk, secretary, librarian, school-teacher, foreman of a construction gang, telephone operator, head of a big business firm, minister.)
5. Godliness.
   a. Might this imply purity and cleanliness of the body as well as of the soul?
   b. How does this precept compare with any up-to-date treatise on "How to Get a Job"?
6. Brotherly Kindness.
   a. How does this apply to employer-employee relationships?
   b. Have labor unions ever been "brotherly"? Give reasons for your answer.
   c. Is the C. I. O. an organization based on brotherly kindness?
7. Love.
   a. Can the cultivation of the principle of love be reconciled to modern methods in business?
   b. Is there anything we can do to help spread the gospel of love?

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Our Part in Our Homes

Intermediate C. E. Topic, May 1, 1938

For Daily Study

Apr. 25. Martha's objection. Luke 10:38-42.
Apr. 26. Every member worked. Gen. 37:1, 12-17
Apr. 27. Favorites in the home. Gen. 37:1-11
Apr. 28. Obedience in the home. Eph. 6:1-10.
Apr. 29. Cheerfulness in the home. Prov. 17:22
Apr. 30. Love in the home. I Cor. 13:1-7
May 1. TOPIC—Our part in our homes. Eph. 4:25-32

Consecration Meeting

It might be interesting to have each member at the consecration meeting give one of their mother's favorite Bible verses. Let them tell why it is a favorite, if they can. If this plan is used, it should be announced the week previous, so that the members can come prepared. If you have a picture of a mother in a home, it will add much to the impressiveness of this part of the meeting. Illuminate it, dimming the other lights.

Song Service

"There Is Beauty All Around," "O Happy Home," "Ready To Serve"

Announcements. Announce the topic and leader for the next meeting. If you have a "Parents' Night" on May 8, tell about it.

Quiet Worship

Leader: "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus"

Song: "I Would Be Like Jesus"

Scripture reading: Eph. 4:25-32 (With comments on each verse read by different members without announcement)

Song: "What a Friend We have" (One stanza from memory)

Leader:

> Let me be a little kinder,
> Let me be a little blinder
> To the faults of those about me;
> Let me praise a little more.
> Let me be, when I am weary,
> Just a little bit more cheery,
> Let me serve a little better
> Those whom I am striving for."

Sentence prayers. Give a number of thoughts for prayer written on a slip of paper before the meeting.

Consecration service

The Christian Home

1. The leader's part. Speak of the difference between a Christian home and one that is not. What are some of the outstanding differences? Each one has a part in such a home, because without the cooperation of every member it is impossible. A Christian home is one in which many things are shared. What is expected of us? How can we do our part?

2. Select some of the daily readings for comment by members.

3. Questions for discussion:

a. Do parents have a right to expect our obedience? What did Paul mean when he said "Children obey your parents in the Lord"? What do we gain through obedience?

b. Why should children share in the work of the home? How will it help us to appreciate home more?

c. How shall work be divided? Why cannot each one be allowed to do what he likes best?

d. What responsibility do we have for keeping the home running smoothly? Why do we lose our tempers? How can you avoid clashing with others?

e. To what extent should children share the financial responsibility of the home? When we earn money do we have a right to spend it for luxuries?

f. Should children share in the family worship? In what way? How can they help to establish a family altar where there is none?

g. How can the use of the radio be adjusted to satisfy the whole family? Do we have a right to monopolize it for our particular types of programs? Why should the parents be considered?

Closing Moments

Song: "Love Divine, All Love Excelling"

Benediction: Ps. 19:14

The Scripture Lesson: Eph. 4:25-32

V. 25. There can be not trust where there is no truth. Confidence is the very foundation of a happy home.

V. 26. Do not carry a grudge. It eats like a canker on the soul and gives you a distorted view of the world. Forgive even as God for Christ's sake has forgiven you.

V. 27. To keep weeds out of the lawn we are advised to sow grass and then more grass. Pack your life with the good and worthwhile and you will not be tempted to do evil.

V. 28. Rise from the low desire of wanting to get something without working for it, to the noble ambition of working not only to satisfy your wants, but to be able to give to those in need.

V. 29. Speak only that which uplifts another and you will have many friends.

V. 30. God's spirit of love cannot dwell in the same heart with unrighteousness.

V. 31. The Gardner pulls the weeds up by the roots and they wither in the sun. The evils in the human heart wither when plucked out and exposed to the sunlight of God's Spirit.

JUNIOR CORNER

"His Only Begotten Son"

We continue the half year outline based on John 3:16 as suggested in January number. The aim for May is: to lead the child to a deeper love for Jesus.

The Outline:

May 1: The Jesus-stories I love
May 8: The Jesus I love. (Placed here instead of the 29th in view of Parent-Guest Night or Mother's-Night)
May 15: The Jesus-hymns I love
May 22: The Jesus-pictures I love
May 29: The Jesus-words I love

Verse for May: "If ye love me, keep my commandments." John 14:15.

Song for May: "O, How I Love Jesus"

Suggestions for May 1, 1938

IT IS MAY DAY! Why not follow the usual May-Basket custom. There are always those about us whose hearts are quickened by a thought of love. The children could be asked to bring a May-basket each. These could be placed around the verse of the month which your junior artist could fashion into a large motto. A candle on either side of the motto and the flowers all about it, would make a lovely decoration for the evening. After the service these baskets could be distributed to those who might be forgotten otherwise.

OR—The flower thought could be carried out thus: You could meet your juniors thirty minutes before

Sunday School. You will have told them of the service flowers can render in lifting our hearts to God in praise and thanksgiving. Each child could bring a May offering and your entire group would set these vases of flowers under your direction. It would be an old-fashioned garden bouquet but there is always love in such a bouquet. I would set each child's offering separate, just as it was brought, even though it might be small. Do you think, if you should do this, there would be a junior missing in your church service? It would be a long-to-be-remembered morning for each one of them. The leader's offering could be a bank of greenery that will set off the old-fashioned-garden-love-bouquets.

Your Program

Why not make it a Who-Wants-To-Be-Next Meeting. If your endeavor is divided into age groups, then put them all together for this night. It is a story telling night. Tell the children to be ready to tell a Jesus-story that they love. When the story-telling time comes, the leader, having all the names of the children in a lovely May-basket, draws the first name. This first one then tells his story and draws the second name. This could be done five times. Then, after the singing of a song, it will be time to do away with the drawing of names to let the free-will story-tellers who can hardly wait their turn, give their Jesus-story. Introduce the story-telling period with singing: "Tell Me the Stories of Jesus".

Opening service:

1. Five minute song service in charge of chorister
2. Scripture: Rise to repeat in unison the 23 Psalm
3. Leader's prayer

Mission Minutes

Announcements

Who-Wants-To-Be-Next period (Closing service)

1. Sing in unison as a response to the beautiful stories told, "O How I Love Jesus"
2. Repeat in unison Christ's answer to our love as in the verse for the month: "If ye love me, keep my commandments"
3. Words of Jesus and my answer: The leader speaks the words of Jesus and the group answers:
   a. Leader: "Jesus says to us: 'Come unto Me' "
   b. Group: (Leader holding up the sheet with the large printed verse which the group reads)
   "Let me come closer to Thee, Jesus,
   Oh! closer day by day,
   Let me lean harder on Thee, Jesus,
   Yes harder all the way."
   c. Leader: "Jesus says to us, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel unto every creature' "
   d. Group:
   "Let me show forth Thy beauty, Jesus,
   Like sunshine on the hills,
   Oh, let my lips pour forth Thy sweetness
   In joyous, sparkling rills"
   e. Leader: "Jesus said: 'If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink' "
   f. Group:
   "Yes, like a fountain, precious Jesus,
   Make me and let me be;
   Keep me and use me daily, Jesus,
   For Thee,, for only Thee."
4. Thanking God for His Son, Jesus. In quiet prayer let all heads be bowed
5. Rise to sing: "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow"

Something to think about: A big help for your worship service are "flash-cards." You can build quite a library of these, printing, month by month, the hymn of the month and keeping these for singing in the worship period. One verse on a half poster sheet is a good size. It would be a big help to you to have a little printing set that would make your "flash-cards" easily read. Portions of worship scripture or praise or thanksgiving could also be printed and filed for reuse. The use of flash-cards illuminates all announcing during worship hour and also is a means of quick memorization.

Are you thinking about Mother's Day? A special worship program in candle-light will be suggested in the next issue for a Guest Night.

CORRESPONDENCE (Continued)

SALEM CHURCH, DALTON, OHIO, April 14

Lenten services are in progress the latter part of this week, and all next week. Pastors from churches of surrounding towns, assist with the services.

On March 6, Rev. Carl Landis of Bluffton brought us Gospel messages in the morning and evening. A week later, Rev. John Nussbaum of Cleveland, was with us for an afternoon service. On March 22, Dr. H. A. Fast, General Conference Field Secretary was with us, and conducted meetings on Sunday morning and evening, and both on Monday and Tuesday evening. He also spoke to the Women's Missionary Society. He renewed our interest in the work of the General Conference in its various aspects, and thrilled us in refreshing our minds with the work that our loyal leaders of the conference have done in the past and are doing at present. On the following Thursday evening, the Bluffton College Gospel Team gave an inspiring program.

Sunday afternoon, April 3, our pastor and a group of members had a service for inmates of the Wayne County Home for the Aged. In the evening, Prof. Oliver Diller, assistant at the State Experiment Station, spoke to the Christian Endeavorers.

We covet the prayers of all our conference churches, that we might be led to do our Master's will, in problems that are at present confronting us as a church.

For pastor's resignation see "Jottings."

—Mrs. L. E. Amstutz, Corr.

In Memoriam

REV. PAUL R. AESCHLIMAN, son of Christ P. and Julia Roulet Aeschliman was born near Brenets in Canton de Neuchatel, Switzerland, on Oct. 25, 1862 and passed away at St. Ignatius Hospital, Colfax, Washington, on March 19, 1938, after an illness of nearly three weeks, due to pneumonia and complications, at the age of 75 years, 4 months, and 22 days.

He came to America in 1884, with several of his brothers, located at Pulaski, Iowa, and was received into the membership of the Mennonite church by Rev. P. Roulet. In Nov. 1886, in company with others, he came to Washington territory to seek a new location.

He received his elementary education in Switzerland, largely in French. Here, he attended Halstead Seminary at Halstead, Kansas, from 1891-1893.

On August 25, 1892, he was united in marriage with Phoebe E. Dieffenbach at Pulaski, Iowa, and together they came to Washington to make their home and to engage in farming in Whitman county.

By this time a group of Mennonite people had located in Whitman County, and July 1, 1893, they met in a private home for the purpose of organizing a church. Rev. J. B. Baer, Field Secretary of the General Conference presided at the meeting. At this meeting they elected Paul R. Aeschliman to serve them as their pastor, and on the following day he was ordained to the Gospel Ministry and Eldership in the congregation, the service being held in a primitive school house.

His ministry extended far beyond the bounds of this congregation. He served as a member of the Home Mission Board of the General Conference, as well as on various committees from time to time. In the Pacific District he was the first Conference President and thus well deserves the title of "Father of the Pacific District Conference." He served in executive capacities throughout his ministry. His latest activity being in the Evangelization and Church Extension Committee. In this field he was singularly used of God in the establishment of new congregations, being directly or indirectly instrumental in the organization of nearly every one of the Pacific Coast Mennonite churches. At least twelve young men were ordained to the Gospel Ministry by him. He officiated at least at 50 marriages and served at a large number of funerals, speaking words of comfort to many.

He served at the First Mennonite Church near Colfax, Washington, as pastor for over 43 years and, upon his retirement from the active pastorate in Oct. 1936, he was made Pastor Emeritus in recognition of his many years of faithful service. He was a wise and cherished counselor and found great joy in the service of his Master.

Now his work is ended, he has entered into well deserved rest. He leaves to mourn his departure his bereaved life companion, one daughter, Mrs. Beulah Wright, LaGrand, Ore., one son Rupert Aeschliman, Colfax, Wash., four grandchildren, two brothers, Fred and Ernest Aeschliman, Colfax, Wash., and one sister, Mrs. Rose Rubin, Pullman, Wash., besides a host of other relatives, friends and neighbors. Four brothers and four sisters preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held at the church he had served so long, on March 22, 1938, conducted by Rev. M. J. Galle, Odessa, Wash., using Psa. 116:15 and Luke 2:29 and Rev. W. Harley King, using Acts 20: 24 and II Tim. 4:6. Present in a body were six other ministers of the Gospel, fellow laborers, from Whitman County and from Newport, Wash. The unusually large assembly and the many floral offerings were indicative of the high esteem in which this faithful servant of God was held. He was laid to rest in the Colfax Cemetery.

RUDOLPH BADERTSCHER, aged 65 years, following a stroke, died at the home of a son near his farm home west of Kidron, on March 18. The son of Frederick and Maria Steffen Badertscher, he was born in Canton, Bern, Switzerland, on September 9, 1873, and came with his parents, brothers and sisters to Wayne County, Ohio, at the age of eight years, where he resided since. At the age of sixteen years he was baptized by Rev. S. F. Sprunger of Berne, Ind., and received into membership of the Salem Mennonite church near Dalton, Ohio. On May 17, 1896, he was united in marriage with Miss Amelia Amstutz, a member of the same church. Ten children were born to this union, one daughter Helen preceding her parents at the age of three years. He lived in happiness with his helpmate for 39 years, until she was called to her eternal home three years ago. The departed knew, in his younger years what it means to make a living through strict economy and hard labor, but always found time for spiritual inspiration, gave cheerfully towards the upbuilding of God's Kingdom, and prospered. He is survived by the following children, Lloyd and Willis of Apple Creek, Clarence of Orrville, Earl of Wooster, Mrs. Luella Moser of Dalton, Mrs. Bernice Raber of Apple Creek, Nora of Wooster, Lester and Mrs. Arline Sommer of Dalton. There are also 17 grandchildren, one brother, Fred Badertscher of Dalton, and one sister, Mrs. Sam King of Pandora. He was preceded by two brothers, John and Christian of Dalton, and one sister, Mrs. Adam Amstutz of Pandora. Funeral services took place on Sunday, March 20, conducted by Rev. A. R. Keiser, assisted by Dr. H. A. Fast, and attended by a host of relatives and friends.

— The Deer Creek Mennonite Church choir will present the Easter Cantata, "Redemption's Song", Good Friday evening, April 15.

WILLIAM BIXLER, who was bedfast for over a year, died at his home south of Orrville, on March 24, at the age of 70 years and 14 days. The son of David and Magdalena Hofstetter Bixler, he was born on March 10, 1868, south of Dalton, and spent his entire life in Wayne County. Early in youth he joined the Sonnenberg Mennonite Church, and in the year of 1935, affiliated with the Salem Mennonite Church, where he was present at the services as long as health permitted. He lived for and near his God, and awaited the summons to eternal life eagerly. As a youth he taught five terms of school. After his marriage with Miss Caroline Amstutz on March 9, 1893, he located on a farm near Mt. Eaton, and later moved to a farm homestead near Orrville. He was a prominent dairy farmer, was manager of the Wooster Farm Dairies in 1929; and served two terms 1915-1919 as Wayne County Commissioner. He was scrupulously accurate in his business dealings, making him very efficient. He spent his declining years in a home south of Orrville, built in 1925. Two weeks before his death, the departed and his wife observed their 45th wedding anniversary. Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, Calvin of Wauseon and Dale of Elkhart, Ind., and one daughter, Miss Elma, at home. There are 12 grandchildren. Of a family of ten children, he was the first adult member to be called over yonder. Surviving brothers and sisters include, John D. of Kidron, Mrs. Daniel P. Gerber of Dalton, Daniel of Wadsworth, Mrs. Daniel C. Hofstetter, Noah, and Mrs. Martin Moser of Orrville, Mrs. David P. Lehman of Kidron and David W. Bixler of Bluffton. Funeral services took place on March 27, conducted by Rev. A. R. Keiser of Dalton, and Rev. I. W. Royer of Orrville, with a very large attendance.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Bethel College received notice April 8, through Pres. E. G. Kaufman, that it has been accepted for membership in the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The cup of joy is almost running over. More later.

—Prof. N. E. Byers, dean and staff member of the Bluffton College Faculty for twenty-five years, has informed the College Board of Trustees that he expects to retire at the close of the present school year. Previously Prof. Byer had been connected with Goshen College for fifteen years.—Fourteen trustees attended a recent meeting of the Bluffton board, at which Dr. J. S. Slabaugh, Nappanee, Ind. was named chairman.

—Prof. (Rev.) J. J. Voth of the Bethel College faculty who has preached for the Gnadenburg Church near Whitewater, Kansas, over a year and now had a call to serve the group for good, had to decline, much to the regret of the church, because of his heavy work load at the College. But he continues until the congregation has found its man.

—Rev. A. R. Keiser, of the Salem Church, Dalton, Ohio, has resigned his position as pastor of this church in order to accept a call from another church, but will continue to serve the Dalton group until June 1, to give the congregation time to find a successor.

—Mennonite Church, Hanston, Kans.—We are strenuously rehearsing our Easter Cantata, "The Victorious King" to be sung here Easter Sunday evening, and in the Ransom Church Good Friday evening.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—The pulpit of this church, which became vacant with the death of Rev. S. M. Grubb, has been filled a few Sundays by Mr. I. I. Friesen, a student preacher, and more recently by Mr. John F. Schmidt, another student who is about to finish his work at Hartford Seminary.

—Union Church, Sugar Creek, Ohio.—Dr. A. C. Wieand, Ex-President of Bethany Bible Seminary, Chicago, conducted the annual pre-Easter services this year. The topics for his sermons were: Jesus the King of Righteousness and Peace; The Complete Doctrine of Christ; Jesus' Teaching to Pray; Jesus' Last Appeal to the Jewish Rulers; The Destruction of Jerusalem and the End; Jesus' Last Night with His Disciples; The Trial and Death of Jesus—This church has just been remodeled in a way to make church and Sunday school work more effective and attractive. Our houses of worship should be that, for they are God's houses.

—Mennonite Church, Inman, Kansas.—Prof. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College gave a series of Bible lectures of an evangelistic and inspirational type at this church April 3 to 8. The themes were: The Greatness of God; Things That Cannot Be Shaken; Searching the Scriptures; What's Life For?; Sin and Its Forgiveness; The Final Test; The Cross of Christ.—A number from here went to Bethel a few days recently, doing donation work on the new Memorial Hall.

—Johannestal Church, near Hillsboro, Kansas.—The Marion County Y.P.C.E. held their rally at the Johannestal Church, Monday, March 28. In spite of heavy roads about 100 young people attended. The program included a play. Musical selections were rendered by the Hillsboro and Brudertal young people.

—Directors of the Herald Publishing Company and a local Committee representing the General Conference Board of Publication held a meeting, at Newton, April 6, to discuss plans looking toward a possible merger of their printing interests.

—Brother Henry Kuehny of Deer Creek, Okla. quietly passed away in his sleep Monday night, March 28. He retired in his usual health and woke up in glory some time during the night.—A.S.B.

—Rev. S. S. Baumgartner of Portland, Ore. stopped off a few days in Newton, on his return from a session of the Home Mission Board in Pennsylvania to visit his son Prof. Paul Baumgartner and wife, on the Bethel campus, and other friends of whom he has a good many here.

— In this issue of the Mennonite we bring the first of four sermonettes sent us by Dr. J. E. Hartzler of Hartford Seminary, which were promised us some time ago. We are sure our readers will greatly appreciate these. Dr. Hartzler has the gift to say much in small space, multum in parvo, and our readers seem to prefer contributions of that type to long-drawn out ones.—We also bring another short, but deeply meaningful poem by Mr. Edwin C. Graber, and another original article by Mrs. Joanna Andres, whose contribution "Calvary's Cross" of a few weeks ago, many liked so well.—Hearty thanks to these kind helpers.

— Bethel College will have for its commencement speaker this year, Hon. Walter A. Huxman, governor of Kansas, who is also a member of the College Board of Advisors.—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick V. Pargeter of Pretty Prairie, Kans., are another couple who are making a substantial donation toward the realization of the Memorial Hall.

— Bethel Hospital. Mt. Lake, Minn. has a new superintendent. Miss Marjorie Jamison of St. Paul has been chosen to succeed Miss Marie K. Fast, former head, who has entered Moody Bible Institute.—Observer.

— The Swiss Community Male Chorus of Pandora and Bluffton, Ohio., about fifty strong, gave a sacred concert at the First Mennonite Church, Berne, Ind., April 10, which was greatly appreciated.

— From the Berne, Ind. Witness: Dr. C. O. Lehman, son of the well known J. F. Lehman family, formerly superintendent of the Berne schools, now head of the department of education at the Normal school, Geneseo, N. Y., has been appointed a member of a commission that is to study the schools of New Orleans.—Miss Christine Habegger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Habegger, has been chosen soprano soloist of the Oberlin College a capella choir.

— "The Pastor's Helper", a beautiful twelve-page folder, commemorating Easter, from the Burrton, Kans. Church, Walter H. Dyck, pastor, has just reached our desk. We are thankful for this and compliment Rev. Dyck and his people for this evidence of progress.

Purified Gold

Isa. 43:1, 2, 3

Fear not—oh weary Christian,
The struggle must be won;
Satanic forces cannot Outwit God's matchless Son.
The tempest cannot harm thee;
Thy Saviour's words remain:
"Fear not, I have redeemed thee
And called thee by thy name.

"When thru' life's murky waters
Thy pilgrim feet must go;
Fret not, I mean to test thee
Because I LOVE THEE SO;
They shall not overflow thee.
Look up! Be unafraid;
For I the Lord, thy Saviour,
A path for thee hath made.

"The fire is meant to try thee,
To strengthen and refine;
But do not fear the flames, Child,
Have I not said, 'Thou'rt Mine?
And when in Heaven's glory
My face thou shalt behold;
Thou'lt shine in all thy beauty
And be my precious gold.

Happiness Isle

Come with me to the Happiness Isle,
The fare, you know, is only a smile;
On the ship of Faith we will sail away
With never a mishap, oh come, I pray.

We will plow through the waters of discontent—
Storm clouds will vanish, we're on happiness bent;
And through we sail o'er a turbulent sea,
On Faith are no fears, on Faith they flee.

Come sail on our ship and through difficulties smile,
'Twill take you each day to the Happiness Isle,
Your smile will others on board beguile,
You will reap the smile of God, the while.

The Transformed Cross

Gal. 6:14

From Bethlehem to Jerusalem is only six miles. From the manger to the cross is not far. The shadow of the cross usually falls over the cradle of those who are to be great. Until the crucifixion the shadow of the cross fell over Bethlehem and the pathway of Jesus. Since then it has fallen upon the whole world.

There are about 385 different types of crosses; about ten of which have religious significance. The cross of Christ was a Roman instrument of torture, and when it came into the life and experience of Jesus it meant guilt, condemnation, loss of personal rights as a citizen; it meant disgrace, defeat and death.

But that cross was transformed as it passed through the life of the Christ. The cross which came from His life was not the same as the cross which entered His life. When that Roman instrument of torture came from His life it was a Divine instrument of redemption. Instead of guilt it now means forgiveness; instead of condemnation it now means justification; instead of loss of rights it now means the possession of the rights of citizenship in the Kingdom of God; instead of disgrace it now means grace, undeserved mercy; instead of death it now means life. St. Paul may well hope in nothing other than the Cross of Christ.

—J. E. Hartzler, Hartford Seminary.

Nothing But the Cross

Nothing but the cross of Christ can so startle the spiritual nature from its torpor, as to make it an effecutal counterpoise to the debasing and sensual tendencies of the race. Favored by temperament and education, individuals may measureably escape; but if the race is to triumph in the conflict between the flesh and the spirit, between the lower propensities and the higher nature, they must, as Constantine is said to have done, see the cross, and in the motto, "In hoc signo vinces." By this sign we conquer.—Mark Hopkins.

IT IS FINISHED

And Jesus said, "It is finished: and he bowed his head, and gave up the ghost."—John 19:30. Can any one think of words fraught with deeper and weightier meaning than these, spoken by our Savior, It is finished? Impossible! Has any one ever performed a deed that brought greater and more lasting blessing to mankind than the task that Jesus finished on the cross? No one has! Are we not seized with reverent awe as we contemplate this wonder of wonders, the finish of which now could be pronounced? What is this wonder? What did Jesus really finish? Your—my — eternal salvation; the extermination of your sins—my sins; the assurance of the hope of everlasting life and glory; your-my-rebirth from a servant to sin into a free child of grace and the sonship of God; the transformation of your—my—heart full of sin and errors into a temple of the living God. There the son of God had hung, suspended on the cruel cross for weary hours, in indescribable agony, as a ransom in your stead and my stead. His pierced hands extended north and south, His thorn-crowned head facing east, and His bleeding back turned west, suffering the punishment for all men everywhere on this earth. A German artist who left us a very impressive picture of the crucifixion scene, placed these words above the painting: Das tat ich fuer dich, was tust du fuer mich? All this I did for you, what dost thou do for me? Should not these words, this heartbreaking scene, spur us Christians on to ever increasing efforts to follow in His footsteps and to do all we can to brnig the world to the feet of our Christ? Has Easter time meant a rebirth for us?—T.

Thankful

I oft forget to thankful be
For gifts that daily come to me,
But I accept them as a fact
And in thanking use poor tact.

At times I grow weary
And the world seems cold and dreary,
Then self-pity fills my heart
And I find it hard to play my part.

But as I halt to think and gaze
Not expecting or awaiting any praise
And view the load my fellows bear
Then my lot, seems not so unfair.

So may we all give thanks each day
And not be slow our praise to say,
To God and to our fellow men.
If we cultivate this art, we surely can.

BETHESDA LEPER HOME, CHAMPA. C. P. INDIA

By P. A. Penner

In common with the Salvation Army, we believe in the three S's, "soup. soap, and salvation." Our homeless, friendless wandering lepers need these three "S's". India has about one million lepers. It is true, the latest census report does not give this number, but we have reasons to believe that the census enumerators do not always give the exact figures of the number of lepers in the villages, where they are supposed to take the census. Lepers are found all over India. They are found in the cities and the thousands of villages; they are to be seen at public bathing places, at festivals, at shrines, in the R. R. trains, taxies and other public vehicles. Very few trains pass through Champa on which lepers are not found. They are wedged in between healthy passengers. Legislation is impossible for many reasons that I cannot here mention. Fate also is a reason why lepers are at random. On one occasion I asked a leper to come to our Leper Home, seeing that he and his six companions certainly were a menace to the other villagers. He replied that if it had been decreed by the Gods that the healthy people of his village should become lepers, they would become lepers, although there would not be a single leper in the village. On the contrary, if they were not to get this disease, then their stay would not change this. What can you do with a mentality of this kind? The city of Calcutta has a begging leper population of over 2000.

Our institution, under the superintendency of the General Conference Mennonite Mission, has a population of 597 inmates. What I mentioned previously, I am compelled to write again, namely that many lepers are waiting for admittance. We cannot do this, no room.

Those that we have in the Home get "soup," i. e. physical care. This consists of a weekly dole of rice; a monthly cash allowance amounting to approximately 50 cents with which the patients buy their lentiles, vegetables, meat and firewood; and clothing twice per year. During the last few years the clothing which we distribute in the Home has been made by the Christians of our Basna station.

Next, our lepers get "soap", i. e. medical care. All wounds and festering ulcers are dressed once per day by our healthy Indian staff and leper dressers. Hydrocreol injections are given twice per week. Medical authority is reticent to speak of a cure for leprosy; but it is a fact that leprosy in certain stages can be and is arrested. We have recently dismissed about 15 patients who are pronounced symptom-free, i. e. there are no active signs of leprosy as far as the microscope will reveal. But, even the word symptom-free is in some cases equal to a cure. Some who have been dismissed have had no recurrence of the disease. One of our girls was under treatment for a period of two years. Then she was pronounced symptom-free and was removed from the Leper Home and put into the Boarding for girls. Today, she is studying for Senior teachers work. Who would not rejoice at such results?

Lastly, we give our lepers the third S, "salvation," i. e. soul care. We at least offer them salvation from sin through the merits of Jesus Christ. Not all who come here become Christians. This is perhaps more than we could expect. But, even such who refuse to accept the Christian faith are not the same when they leave or die than they were when they were admitted. We have a man in our Home who has had special treatment for four years. He will be discharged in a few weeks and sent to his village. He has refused to accept Christ, but although he is not a Christian, what a change in this leper. He used to sit in the rear part of the church with an indifferent expression on his face, as much as to say, what do I care, I am a Hindoo and have much more than you Christians have to offer. Gradually, he thawed out and during this process, he has steadily moved forward toward the front of the church. How happy I am that our pews are rent free. Sadharam is now sitting well forward, is present at most of the regular services and always an attentive listener. He sings lustily with all the other lepers and is a constant inspiration to me. Recently I asked him: "Sadhram, when you will be at home again and, according to your custom, bow down before the idol, will you not have your doubts as to the efficacy of your worship?" He was hesitant, but finally he did admit: "Yes, I think that I will." His is a testimony perhaps of others who refuse to become Christians. But, we are so happy that there are, nevertheless, others who gladly accept the message. They are a fine bunch and we only hope that through their testimony others will accept HIM who was a friend of lepers.

About half of the lepers have been baptized. From their meager allowance they give about one rupee each, on the average, a year

Just keep on praying for this institution, and its inmates, please.

A man may make his way across the Atlantic in a skiff; but if you are intending to cross the sea, take my advice, and secure passage in a first-class steamer, and you will be more likely to get there. So it is with these heathen millions. I do not know but some of them may drift and not reach the city of God. But I do know that by giving them the gospel, by building up and supporting among them a Christian church, we shall greatly multiply their chances for heaven.—C. H. Fowler.

Christian Education

NEGLECTED AREAS IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

Daniel J. Unruh

II. Sunday School Literature

A man is known by the company he keeps, and someone has said that a company is known by the men it keeps. May we paraphrase that by saying a Sunday School is known by the literature that it uses, and the literature is often known by the person who recommends it. There is always the possibility of condemning 'in toto' something which we do not understand, or condemn the person with whom we do not agree, but there are also some vital objectives in Sunday School work and these objectives are most certainly colored by the information and explanations with which we surround the teacher and the pupil in the Sunday School.

Possibly the word neglect is too mild when applied to some of the Sunday School literature in use today. For some literature seems to be written with the deliberate intent of undermining the faith of the teacher and the pupil, in the historicity of the Bible or the efficacy of the death of Christ on Calvary's cross. There is a type of literature that depends on repetitious slogans and hair-splitting dogmas for its claims on orthodoxy and oft times creates suspicion and engenders strife, but far more dangerous is the literature that speaks glowingly of the ideals of Jesus, and then proceeds to undermine the historical accuracy of the Bible, and ignores or even rejects the great distinctive truths of Divine revelation.

What kind of literature should we use in our Sunday Schools? Is it a matter of concern at all? Is it enough to be idealistic about it and say: we believe in the ultimate triumph of truth, and if we surround the pupil with sufficient Christian idealism, he will develop a practical philosophy of the good life, and a belief in God satisfactory to his understanding. Or, should we be satisfied with literature that makes dogmatic utterances about Bible facts and history, in the hope that such knowledge and belief in itself will transform lives. Should not the Sunday School literature have a greater objective than either of these? What should the objective or goal be?

Walter Albion Squires in A Parish Program of Religious Education says: "Now it is the goal of Christian religious education to lead people not only to know about this Savior, but also to know him in such an intimate and personal and mystical way that he enters into their thoughts and their conduct as the controlling factor of their lives. Any system of education which omits this goal ought not to be regarded as Christian. It may have excellent plans and suitable materials for developing the moral life to a certain extent, but if it does not exalt Jesus as Savior and Lord, it will certainly fall short of laying a sure foundation for morality and universal brotherhood."

Our own denomination has no Sunday School literature of its own, for the children and youth of our churches. So each church, according to fancy and sometimes according to finances, gathers material here and there, divergent in viewpoint, oft times containing beliefs foreign to our Articles of Faith and not infrequently contradictory to the Word of God. Is this not neglect? Can we expect the best co-operation in our Conference when we offer no restraint to such divergent views?

Here then is a field that ought to be cultivated "till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ." Notice it is not a unity of faith, but the unity of the faith. Thus we will be able to fulfill our divinely entrusted task in this our day and generation.

WAR

M. Horsch

"He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire." Psalm 46:9.

Should we be asked to give in one short word the most prevailing characteristic, the most striking feature of human history, what would our answer be? War! The history of all nations, civilized or savage, ancient or modern, is saturated with war. Very sad to say, church history is not free from it.

Again, should we be asked to furnish in one word the proof that human nature is sinful, depraved, fallen, this word would be, War! Should we be asked in one word to furnish a proof that human passions are not bridled by justice, or ruled by love, our answer would again be, War! Is this always to be the case? Is humanity destined to go on and on under that fearful curse, one result of the fall? Or will the time come, when nations shall learn war no more? It will come! And the glorious prophecies concerning the Kingdom of Peace will be literally fulfilled. Isaiah 2:4 and Micah 4:3.

Christians as followers of the Prince of Peace have a great mission in this world, to show the world, in precept and example, a way that is infinitely better than destruction, bloodshed, and terror of war. This is the way of righteousness, justice, and love. This way may lead to Calvary, but it's the way of final and glorious triumph.

God alone can make wars to cease! Science can not do it. Why? It does not change one single human heart. It does teach men how more skilfully to destroy one another. To wipe out that which human hands have patiently and perseveringly wrought, lo these many centuries.

Commerce can not do it. Why? Some of the most cruel and most wicked wars have been waged for the sake of trade and revenue. In this, the World War is a most horrible example.

Education can not do it. Why? The most highly educated nations of the world are the most militaristic and war-like. In spite of education, governments are actuated by unholy ambitions, lust of power, evil consciences and fear. So-called democratic governments are as bad as the rest.

Progress and civilization can not do it. Why? In themselves the most wonderful progress and highest civilization do not make men unselfish and righteous. Here we touch the most vital point. The source of war is not in outward conditions or circumstances, but in fallen human nature, in lust of gain, exploitation, greed, power, glory, vengeance, fear, hate, etc. Read in connection with this James 4:1-2.

Who can make wars to cease? God alone can make wars to cease. He could do it by one sweep of His almighty hand, one act of miraculous power. He could sink every warship and paralyze every soldier's arm. He could sweep every ammunition factory and every fortification off the face of the earth into the deepest depth of the ocean, where they belong. But that is not God's way of ruling the nations. He will not make wars to cease unless the roots out of which they grow are plucked out, eradicated. Here comes in His dispensational plan, yea, His infinite compassion, patience and love for a fallen race.

While sin reigns, strife will reign. Let justice and benevolence become universally recognized, and wars must cease. There never was a war during the Christian era, where right was exclusively on one side and wrong alone on the other. There never was, nor ever can be, a war that was just and right on both sides. Always both sides are wrong and on both sides the powers of evil are having their way.

How then can God make wars to cease? That which is impossible with man is possible with God. He can bring it about, that men love righteousness and hate wickedness. There are millions and millions of God's children today who love justice, are inspired by kindness, and faithfully endeavor to follow in the footsteps of their Lord and Master. They love their enemies, they bless those who curse them, do good to those who hate them, and pray for those who despitefully use them. If all were like them, war would be impossible.

To the natural man, however, all these Christian traits are impossible and a heart renewed by the power of the Holy Spirit, only, is a heart of peace. When will it be? When will man's hearts be changed and war be impossible? — When? — When righeousness covers the earth as water covers the sea. This time seems a long way off, but surely God's time will come! In our dispensation of world kingdoms the power of evil will ripen out as well as the power of good. The kingdom of darkness as well as the kingdom of light.

The former will ripen out for the reign of Anti-Christ and final judgment, the latter for the return of the Prince of Peace.

He maketh wars to cease. Our God has promised and so He will do it. Sometimes we hear the question, it is, however, a presumptuous one: "If God can make wars to cease and has promised it, why does war continue to scourge mankind?" What would our answer be? Because men will not have God's remedy. As long as they are not at peace with God, they can not be at peace among themselves.

Do not think that our compassionate Father in heaven looks upon human suffering with indifference. This is humanly speaking. The whole Bible is in contradiction to such an idea. In Christ Jesus, His heart is overflowing with great compassion toward human suffering, a result of the fall. He has taken the misery of the whole world upon himself and to the cross, that He may make peace and take away the wall of partition, separating God and man.

No nobler title belongs to him than "Prince of Peace". His time will come, when this blood-soaked, war-ridden dispensation will be at an end, when the author of all evil shall be bound and no longer deceive the nations. Then the Prince of Peace shall return in great power and glory to establish His kingdom of peace. Remember, every triumph of the Gospel, every heart yielded to the Prince of Peace, every life consecrated to Christ is a step toward His millennial reign. You can not save society without saving the individual; you can not have a warless world without the Christ-peace in the heart of the individual.

Here is seen the great mission of our peace organizations! First to realize. that this great object cannot be accomplished in alliance with the "Powers that Be" nor with the arm of flesh. Then to remember, that it can not be accomplished by power or might, but by God's spirit. Again, to use these organizations for aggressive testimony in word and deed, concerning our sincerest convictions about the iniquity of war. Be peace makers, people are war conscious, owing to the sinister war propaganda of today. Endeavor to get them peace conscious by correct and truthful information concerning national and internatioal conditions. Leave no one in doubt, not the least our government, that we are determined to follow in the footsteps of the Prince of Peace, our Lord and Savior, this not as combative pacifists, but as truly non-resistant Christians. Matt. 5:38-48.

Yes, there is such a thing as fighting-pacifism. Any Marxist or God-hating communist can be such a pacifist. Between these and the Spirit of the Prince of Peace there is a heaven-wide difference. Such pacifism is quite compatible with fierce class hatred, strikes and revolutions, murder and bloodshed. Such pacifists endeavor to insinuate themselves even into Christian circles. Let us beware of them! Take heed that we are never cast into the same pot with them. II Cor. 6:14. Our militarists endeavor to do that very thing and discredit our peace principles and our convictions. Beware of their spirit!

Closing, we hear our Lord and Master say: "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you. Not as the world giveth give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." John 14:27.

"Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God." Matthew 5:9.

Announcements and Programs

INVITATION

To the Minister's Conference of the Western District which, if it is God's will, is to be held April 26, in the Emmaus Church, the host congregation heartily invites all ministers, deacons, and church boards with their wives. May God grant us a blessed day.—B. W. Harder, Elder.

Mennonite Song Festival

The Mennonite Song Festival Society is calling the first general rehearsal of all singers April 24 at Bethel College in the chapel. The festival will be held June 5, in the College Bowl.

The afternoon program will consist of anthems and hymns by the seven church districts. A combined men's chorus and a combined high school chorus will also sing on the afternoon program.

The evening program is divided into three sections. A combined ladies' choir, consisting of all the ladies of the various church choirs will sing as their main number Sanctus by Gounod. The second section will be rendered by the combined choirs of all the churches, singing three groups of numbers. The closing selections will be sung by the men of the various churches.

Besides the local district directors the following people will lead in the combined group singing: John Unruh, Newton; Sam Ewert, Hillsboro; Alvin Reimer, Inman; Walter Hohmann, Bethel College; Ben Zerger, Moundridge; Mrs. Glen Fuller, Bethel College; Walter Graber, Pretty Prairie; Mrs. Ferd Voth, Newton; Rev. David Wedel, Halstead.

The officers of the society are: G. F. Friesen, Furley, President, (filling out the unexpired term of Rudolph Wiens); Arnold Zuercher, Whitewater, Vice President; Albert Ewert, Newton, Secretary; and Paul Baumgartner, Newton, Treasurer.

The churches invited to take part in this festival are: Johannesthal, Bruderthal, Friedenstal, Hillsboro, Alexanderwohl, Tabor, Goessel, West Zion, Garden, Emmanuel, Christian, Eden, Hoffnungsfeldt, Buhler, Hebron, Inman, Bethel, Hoffnungsau, Burrton, Hutchinson, Bethel College, First Mennonite, Halstead, Wichita, Kingman, Pretty Prairie, Belmont, Arlington, Emmaus, Gnadenberg, Swiss and Zion.

—THE EASTERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD APRIL 28 TO MAY 1, AT THE EAST SWAMP CHURCH, QUARKERTOWN.

—Rev. Albert Schultz, pastor Bethel Church, Wolf Point, Mont. writes: I enjoy our Mennonite. Am glad for the section devoted to Doctrine, as I feel we should have a good article every week along that line. I suggest making it more Bible study and the corrspondence part be limited to things that are of real interest and valuable to the churches over our Continent. So far this winter we have been able to serve our people every Sunday. This is quite unusual. During the winter months we are 15 miles from our church, as we teach in the Bible School. We, as a community, have been spared from any serious illness. At present a young man of the Bethel Lustre church, the only child of Brother and Sister Olfert, is in the Glasgow hospital in a critical condition (forepart of March). The Bible school closed March 25. The baccalaureate message was given by Rev. Evers of Fort Peck Dam. The people that are left in this community are making preparations to put in another crop. About ten families left Montana last fall, most of them going to rainly Oregon. One of our members is ill with cancer. Would our readers pray that she might be able to do as Paul did, "My grace is sufficient." At times she suffers immensely.

Rev. W. S. Gottshall Ill

—In a letter, dated April 11, Rev. P. J Boehr writes in part: We want the readers of The Mennonite to know that father Gottshall is very ill, and that he has been bedfast for over a week. One cannot say much in regard to improvement, but thank God for a few better nights. However, during the last days he has had fever, with bowel troubles and possibly leakage of the heart. . . .And so you understand that this sturdy preacher of the Faith has been considerably disabled in the body, but, thank God, not in spirit. . . Mother Gottshall stands up well under this extra pressure, and does much to make the sufferer comfortable, feeling that underneath are the everlasting arms. . . . East Swamps is missing her pastor keenly, especially during this festive season. Special evangelistic meetings are scheduled for the week beginning Easter Sunday, and the Eastern District Conference is to convene in this church over the first Sunday in May. . . . Please do pray for Mother Gottshall in her ministration and that this stalward gospel minister may again be able to preach to people the unsearchable riches of Christ, if that is not praying against the will of the Father; and for us also while we are, in a measure, filling the temporary vacancy of East Swamp, "That in all things He may have the pre-eminence."

SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Many readers of the Mennonite are personally acquainted with the everready church, community, and conference worker Brother E. W. Baumgartner of Berne, Ind. They will be interested to know that Bro. and Sister Baumgartner celebrated their silver wedding on Easter Sunday, and will join the editor in congratulating this good couple on their twenty-five years of happy married life and wish them God's blessings, with many more returns of this festive day.

PANDORA, OHIO, APRIL 14, 1938

Rev. John J. Esau has resigned as pastor of the First Mennonite Church of Lima, O., effective July 1st. The church in Lima is a mission church, under the supervision of the Home Mission Committee of the Middle District Conference. Brother Esau has been pastor of this church since its beginning and has done very good work there. The church has prospects of growth and service in the future, as it has done in the past. The Home Mission Board of the General Conference has made it possible for us to place a lady worker in the field for the summer months, and Miss Helene Wiens, a graduate of the Northern Baptist Seminary, is to begin work in Lima by the 22nd of April. Miss Wiens is a sister to Mrs. John Thiessen, missionary to India, and to Mrs. August Ewert missionary to China.—Daniel J. Unruh,

FOLLOWING VISION WITH SERVICE

Mark 9:14-29

Introduction

Three of the twelve had an impressive mountaintop experience on the Transfiguration Mount. Many are seeking to have an experience such as someone else had and, like Peter, wish to remain on the mountain. These lofty experiences are of real value to us, to the world, and to the Lord's work, only when we come down from the heights and with renewed energy take hold of the realities of life. The large bulk of our work as disciples of Christ, is in the valleys.

The Multitude in the Valley vs. 14-16

When Jesus and the three disciples came down from the mountain, they found a large gathering of people centering their attention on the other disciples (v14). Some scribes were there and seemingly taking advantage of Jesus' absence, were asking embarrassing questions. Suddenly Jesus appeared and all the people, glad to see Him, and gratly amazed, probably seeing in His countenance traces of the heavenly glory of the Transfiguration, ran to Him (v15). The scribes were now seemingly forgotten, and Jesus, whom they had doubtless ridiculed just a few moments before, has now become the center of the people's interest.

Father Brings Afflicted Son vs. 17-24

Jesus inquired about the reason for the questioning with the disciples. One of the multitude answered at once (vs 17, 18). He had brought his afflicted son, expecting to find Jesus, and in His absence had appealed to the disciples (read Matt. 17:14, 15. Luke 9:39). Mark's graphic description indicates that this was a real violent case of helpless need. The distressed father was the first to reply to Jesus. His sense of need—feeling for his son—was the deepest. The best one to whom we can bring our needs, is Jesus. Blessed are those parents who bring their children to Him.

The disciples evidently tried to help this son, but failed (v18b). The scribes most likely were questioning with them about their helplessness when Jesus came to them. These nine disciples in their inability to help, picture the many disciples of today who because of weak faith are so helpless and feeble. Jesus was greatly distressed because of the failure of the disciples. The stern words of verse 19 seem to be addressed to the nine who lacked that deep, spiritual faith to use the power given to them. Jesus was disappointed. The words apply with even greater force to the self-righteous scribes.

Jesus directs His attention to the father (v21), doubtless to arouse his faith and prepare him for the miracle. He expresses the hope that Jesus may be able to help them. His faith was small, but he used all he had. The failure of the disciples raised a doubt in his mind. Doubtless much of the unbelief in the world today is because He is so poorly represented by many of His disciples. Jesus turns the father's words back on him (v23), "if thou canst believe." It must ever be, not what HE can, but what WE can. All things are possible to the one who truly believes in Christ's power. Faith is the way by which man establishes connection with the fulness of God. The father realized his little faith and asked for more (v24).

Jesus Heals the Son vs 25-29

By word of command, Jesus called the foul spirit out of the boy. The spirit resisted to the end with all his might. The father came directly to Jesus and received the blessing for his son. The disciples did well to inquire as to the cause of their failure (v28). They took it seriously. There is sufficient power available for the work we are required to do. This work and service is down in the valley where people live, toil, sweat, bleed, and die. We need the help of Christ.

CORRESPONDENCE

FRIEDENSBERG CHURCH, AVON, S. DAK.

Greetings to The Mennonite friends and readers: We are again enjoying the nice spring weather. Springtime always brings with it renewed hope and joy. We are happy to report also that it can be seen in the S. S., and church. We are living in a troubled world, and any sign of the spiritual improvement makes one very happy. The Easter season is upon us. Our C. E. is planning a musical program for this time. Easter should be a great time of joy for all people, especially the Christian. On March 27, Rev. Preheim of Freeman, S. Dak., gave us a very helpful sermon. Wishing all God's blessing and a joyous Easter season.—Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, BURRTON, KAN.

"Praise ye the Lord. Praise Him for his mighty acts." Psalms 150: 1, 2.

The Burrton Mennonite Church bids you join in words of praise as it reviews the past and looks into the future with hopefulness and trust. The Lord has certainly been good to us all!

Our average Sunday school and worship service attendance has registered an encouraging increase. Senior and Junior Endeavor meetings are, as a rule, held each month. Bible study classes meet twice a month. The catechism class now has nine members. It is hoped that others may still join.

Our pastor, Rev. Walter Dyck, has on the last Sundays given blessed Pre-Easter messages, which are filling our hearts with praise for the Risen Lord.—Corr.

BETHEL CHURCH, FORTUNA, MO., APRIL 8

There is much to report, but I will try to make this letter brief. Our work here is far from other Mennonite communities, so that we seldom have the privilege of fellowship with our own people. However, in this way we have been made to appreciate the more occasional visits.

On Feb. 7, we had the privilege of hearing Brothers Arthur Rosenberger, president, and Grover Soldner, field secretary of Bluffton College. On April 2 both Dr. Henry Fast, field secretary of our Conference, and Rev. S. P. Preheim, solicitor for the Conference printing press, came for a three-days visit. Brother Fast spoke on Sunday morning and evening and Brother Preheim spoke to the Christian Endeavor group. Brother Fast spoke again on Monday night and Tuesday afternoon, and Brother Preheim on Tuesday night. Their visits were very much appreciated.

On Sunday, March 20, the people voted to ask Mr. and Mrs. Unruh to serve for another year.

I am sending a folder with which we are experimenting. So far we are publishing these only monthly, but may be able later to make it a weekly.—Correspondent.

MENN. CHURCH, WAYLAND, IOWA, APRIL 8

Dear Editor and Readers:

We thoroughly enjoy reading articles from the different churches, also your editorials, the sermonettes, jottings, and the paper as a whole is very helpful and deserves the support of every Mennonite home.

Since our dear Sister Mrs. Selma Sommer moved to her former home, near Pandora, Ohio, our church has failed to send in items. We are sorry to report that Mrs. Sommer has been ill since August, 1937. The past week her son Irvin, a junior in the Wayland High School, has been quite sick with throat infection. Her son Otto finished his business course at Chillicothe, Mo., and at present is in Chicago.

At our annual business meeting Jan. 8, the old officers were reelected. In 1937 death claimed Bro. Chris Boshart, Bro. Sam Wenger, a deacon for many years, and Bro. John Wenger. Early in January, Mr. Jacob Koebel and in March, 1938, Bro. Levi Wenger were called home.

Among visiting ministers were Rev. Carl Landes, who gave us a very earnest address. In September Bro. Orie Miller, a local high school teacher, very ably filled our pulpit. March 13, Rev. A. S. Rosenberger and Rev. D. J. Unruh brought us very interesting and timely messages.

April 5, relatives here received word of the death of Rev. Ferry Platt, Merom, Ind., due to meningitis. Rev. Platt was the son-in-law of W. J. Rich, formerly of here and now of Newton, Kansas.

We are looking forward to April 24 when Rev. Whitmer, Pandora, Ohio, is to be with us for a series of meetings. May God abundantly bless us during our meetings and may His presence go with us.

The past week we have experienced a touch of winter, high winds, rain, snow, and sleet.—Your correspondent, Mrs. C. K. Schantz.

SARON MENN. CHURCH, ORIENTA, OKLA.

Passion week is here and Easter is near with its message of the risen Lord: "Because I live ye shall live also," John 14:19. Yet, it is at this time that we join many of you who also are emerging from one of the winter's worst two-day snow storms. We thought spring had come, so this snow met with much unpreparedness. The trees were clad in new leaves, gardens were growing, early flowers were blossoming, and the chicks were in the coops. All fell prey to the pangs of frost.

We have had a number of visiting ministers with us. Rev. D. Ewert, Hillsboro, Kansas, spoke on John 3:14-16, centering his thoughts on steps in Christian living that tend heavenward. Rev. P. H. Richert stressed the different mission calls in the Bible. Dr. A. Warkentin, Bethel College, spoke of the great interest in humanity made manifest by God from time eternal, providing great riches that cannot depreciate.

More recently we had with us missionaries Weins and Brown. Speaking on successive nights made their reports all the more interesting and emphatic.

On March 30 the O. B. A. rendered a sacred program, which we enjoyed a lot and certainly thank the Lord for surrendered young lives that will go and sing His praises.—Mrs. Wm. Frantz, Corr.

IMMANUEL MENN. CH., PRATUM, ORE.

The Lord has given us the opportunity to hear from various parts of His vineyard since the first of the year. Bro. H. J. Brown, missionary from China, was with us Mar. 9 and spoke at both services, also showed us pictures. His messages were very interesting as well as convincing. They have been instrumental in creating a greater interest in missions as well as making us realize what a wonderful privilege we have in being co-workers together with our Lord in bringing the Gospel to those who are still in darkness.

On Feb. 20, A. D. Welty, from Lima, Ohio, who has spent more than thirty years in rescue mission work in that city was the speaker. Bro. Welty came west to meet his daughter and family, the Clarence W. Jones', missionaries from Quito, Ecuador. Bro. Jones is director of Radio Station HCJB in Quito which has the distinction of being the only radio station owned and operated by missionaries for the purpose of spreading the Gospel. He spoke in our church on Tuesday evening Mar. 2 to a full house.

God has wonderfully blessed these dear missionaries in this most unique undertaking. Brother Jones was the first missionary from S. America to speak in our church.

On Sunday, Mar. 6, Bro. G. P. Schultz, from Chicago began a week of evangelistic meetings. His messages were really heart searching. And, while we did not see the visible results we had hoped for, there is evidence of the Spirit of God having spoken very definitely and we are praying and trusting God to give courage for open confession.

The attendance at the regular services is gratifying and we are rejoicing in having some new families as regular attendants.—Corr.

PORTLAND MISSION HEARS MESSAGES ON CONDITIONS IN CHINA

At this time of conflict in China we have been especially interested in the missionaries from that field. A few weeks ago we were priveleged to have our own missionary, Rev. H. J. Brown, with us, and Sunday evening, March 27, Miss Jean Pound, missionary to China with the Oriental Missionary Society, gave us an address in which the Chinese Christians preached us a few sermons.

The Oriental Missionary Society is a fundamental, interdenominational, "faith" organization, founded by Charles E. Cowans of "Streams in the Desert" fame. Its missionaries, under no board, go out with a CALL, a VISION, and FAITH that God will take care of them. And God has rewarded their faith in a wonderful way.

Miss Pound told of the great need in the Orient and encouraged missionary activity within our own church, emphasizing the fact that in God's sight there are no home and foreign missions, the World being the field.

As to the war in China, she says there are both bad and glad things. One missionary was caring for a thousand refugees a day. A Japanese official commanded that they be sent home. The missionary replied that they had no homes. He persisted in the command and she continued to explain that their homes had been destroyed. Finally he asked what she was teaching them. The reply was, "only the Bible." The official left with the warning that no more Bible should be taught without the permission of the Japanese government.

In another instance, while a Bible School was in session, the siren sounded a warning of an air-raid. In a short time homes were in ruins and the missionary, with his pupils, rushed out to rescue those pinned under the debris. Then studies were resumed but on can imagine that lessons are not learned very thoroughly with frequent interruptions of this sort.

The glad thing about the war is that there are more inquiries after the Christian way of life than ever before. Many people are casting away their idols, saying that they have never done them any good, that they were made with their own hands and useless. They are seeking a God who can give them grace and strength to suffer, a God who can comfort them in the midst of sorrow. Our part is to provide missionaries and funds that these seeking ones may have the opportunity to learn of Christ.

A literal translation of the word 'zealous' from the Chinese, is 'hot-hearted.' This is most descriptive of the Chinese Christians. Many of them will walk over one-hundred miles to church while in America some Christians cannot walk six blocks when their cars break down.

Too poor to give money, they have been known to give the shoes off their feet, the quilted coats off their backs, the food that they eat, to the cause of Christ.

One custom that some of them have is a good sermon on tithing to American Christians. They have a 'God-spoon.' When preparing rice for the meals, a 'God-spoonful' is set aside. When the sack is full of 'God-spoonfuls' it is sold and the money given to God.

When we hear of these joyous, sacrificing, ardent workers for Christ, a prayer rises from our hearts, "God make us 'hot-hearted' Christians like our Chinese brothers and sisters.—Christine Miller, Corr. Alberta Community Church.

A Successful Partnership

A New England farmer got a few dollars together and purchased a run-down Connecticut farm. He worked for months clearing out the undergrowth and blasting the tree stumps. Finally he put in his crops.

One day the preacher called and remarked upon the improvement of the place. "It is wonderful," he said, "what you and the Lord have been able to do here." The farmer replied: "You should have seen this place when the Lord was running it alone."

That is not sacrilege. It is rather a striking picture of a great partnership—that between God and man, a partnership that is essential to the highest and best in creation.

Man cannot do God's work. Only divine fingers can drive the stars in their courses. Man cannot create life. Science has tried it in vain. Man can give meaning to life—he can mar or make it. God creates. Man co-operates. God sends the sunshine and the rain. Man plows the furrows and plants them. God gives life to the seed. Man hoes the corn.

God doesn't do man's work. He builds no bridges, makes no roads, erects no cities. He forms the coal. but does not mine it. He originates the oil, but digs no oil wells. He makes the lightning, but builds no motor to gear it down to human need. He generates electricity, but depends on an Edison to form the incandescent bulb. He creates power, but looks to a Henry Ford to tie it to the drive wheels of progress.

God makes the wind, but no sails to catch it. He creates hunger, but no markets to supply it. He brings men into the world with no governments to rule them. He makes the brain, but endows no schools in which to train it. He breathes soul into humanity,, but provides no churches for is cultivation.

It requires God and man to work together to make a world. Both are essential. Man cannot do what God does. God does not do what man can do. God never shirks his part. Man does. It is he who determines the success or failure of the firm.

That Connecticut farm cannot exist without God. It cannot produce without man. The partnership is inescapable. It is also unconquerable. Happy the man who plays his full part in the great cooperative enterprise of life.—The North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

"Missionaries and Battleships"

(The following little comment was sent to us by Miss Aganetha Fast, missionary in China. It speaks volumes!)

Missionary work carried on by the churches of U. S. A. reaching into six countries, and engaging 24,000 missionaries and 1000,000 Native workers, is transacted for less money per annum than it costs to build one battleship.

Which has the greatest effect upon civilization and happiness of mankind? We are led to see more plainly than ever, the futility of man's trust in human power. —The Christian Article, found in the S. African Outlook V. 52. Oct. 2. 1922, pp 214.

E. Fay Campbell, Yale. "I am one of those who believe that far more missionaries should go to the mission field, during the next fifty years, than have gone the last fifty years. This can be done if we want it badly enough to be done. The younger church all over the world, are still far too weak in men and money, to be left alone and there are still vast millions, who live entirely outside reach of the Christian message. With some of the finest men graduating from our universities, unable to secure work, I see no earthly reason why hundreds should not be scattered all over the world doing missionary work. I believe the Voluntary Band Movement is one of the essential and vital forces connecting up with Christian men and women with Christian work."

Choosing a Vocation

Matt. 25:14-30

Young People's Topic for May 8, 1938

Meditations:

M., May 2. Consider your aptitude. Exod. 31:1-5.
T., May 3. Ask, Is it Christian? Rom. 14:17-19.
W., May 4. Ask, Can God bless it? Rom. 13:12-14.
T., May 5. Consult your friends. Prov. 11:13, 14.
F., May 6. Ask God's guidance. Ps. 37:1-9.
S., May 7. Believe there is a place for you. Eph. 1:1-6.

Suggested Hymns:

"Give of your best to the Master"
"Open my eyes, that I may see"

Discussion Period

Youth makes one of life's greatest decisions when choosing a vocation. The parable of the talents illustrates two methods of meeting life's problems. The two faithful servants took an inventory of their available assets and adjusted themselves accordingly. The wicked and slothful servant refused to face the facts by hiding them out of sight. His is a sorry story of maladjustment.

Too often talents are regarded as elusive gems granted only to the few. Eloquence, a beautiful voice, a brilliant mind, adept fingers, creative imagination—these are considered rarities distributed in sparing quantities. Jesus, however, stressed the universality of talents entrusted to our stewardship. Infectious friendliness, enthusiasm for a cause, conscientious caution, thoughtfulness, courtesy—all these are as valuable as the previously named skills. We may be inspired by the expressive orator, but we seek comfort and guidance from a sympathetic, loving soul. Our esthetic appreciation is nourished by hearing skillful renditions of piano compositions, but our bodies are fed with Mother's fine-textured bread and luscious apple-pie. And so it is that each one of us has personality traits that can be developed into sought-for abilities. Every one, by discovering his assets and utilizing them constructively, can find that sense of security and usefulness that is so essential to our mental stability.

Program Suggestions:

Have individuals representing various vocations, seated behind a table on the platform, carry on an informal panel discussion. The following might be participants: farmer, doctor, nurse, business man, engineer, teacher, minister (any others, depending on community needs and iterests). These people may be either full-fledged members of the profession or young people interested in preparing for certain lines of work.

The discussion should be guided along the items in the following outline or an outline prepared for the particular needs of your group. Each member of the panel will discuss the questions in relation to his particular vocation.

1. Ability and aptitude.

What special skills does my work require? What personality traits are essential to be a good farmer, doctor, etc.?

2. Preparation.

How much and what type of education is needed for teaching, preaching, etc.? What opportunities are there for earning at least part of the expenses, if necessary, while getting the required training?

3. Mental attitude.

Is this work a source of enjoyment and inspiration?

4. Economic security.

Is there reasonable hope that my work will assure financial security for myself and my dependents?

5. Opportunities for advancement and achievement.

What are the chances for promotion?(Is this field overcrowded or is there a need for workers?

6. Service.

Is my vocation a means of serving my fellow men? What examples are there of specific services rendered by persons who have chosen this as their vocation?

7. Principles of the Christian religion.

Is my work in harmony with Christ's teachings?

8. Summary.

What are he reasons for my choice of vocation?

Honoring Our Parents

Intermediate C. E. Topic, May 8, 1938

For Daily Study

May 2. Honor the old. Prov. 16:31
May 3. Honor by supporting them. Mark 7:9-13
May 4. Honor by obeying them. Luke 2:50-52
May 6. Honor them by accepting their teaching. 2 Tim. 1:1-6
May 7. Jesus' care for His mother. John 19:25-27
May 8. Topic — Honoring our parents. Prov. 6:20-23; Eph. 6:1-3

Parents' Night

Let this be parents' night in your society. Send special invitations to the parents of the Intermediates at least a week in advance, asking them to be your guests at the C. E. meeting. These can be typed on heavy paper, and decorated by hand or with flowers cut from magazines.

Have a committee at the door to welcome them. A small corsage for Mother and a flower for Father's lapel will express your desire to honor them upon their arrival. Have a special section in your room reserved for them. If possible have typed programs.

A suggested Plan

I. Instrumental Prelude: "Largo" from "New World Symphony," Dvorak
  b. "Faith of Our Fathers," "I Have a Friend So Precious"
  c. Society announcements
  d. Greeting to Parents by leader
II. Quiet Worship (without announcement)
  a. Special Music
  b. Scripture reading: Eph. 6:1-3 and Col. 3:16, 17
  c. Prayer by two Intermediates
  d. Reading: "I Am Your Home"

"I am your home.
I am a bundle of bricks, or stone, or some wood.
I can be sold or bought in the market for a few thousands in money. But I am more than these—
I am thousands of years of human history with a long struggle of mankind for love and protection;
Sacrifice and great expectations;
Hope that endures and is patient and believes always that tomorrow will be bright;
Dreams and visions and aspirations;

Tears and struggle and disappointment that rends the soul apart;
A lull and breathing space in the hot struggle of life;
Horny hands and self-discipline and laughter.
They say that I am held together by nails and cement and mortar.
But I am held together by Forgiveness that even forgets;
Love that fails not;
Trust and confidence that laugh at mistakes;
An understanding of each other that goes deep and reaches far and lasts forever.
I am your home."—Epworth Herald

III. a. Pantomine

While the words to the song, "Love at Home" are read or sung have a simple pantomine of a happy home with parents and children.

"There is beauty all around,
When there's love at home;
There is joy in every sound,
When there's love at home.
Peace and plenty here abide,
Smiling sweet on every side;
Time doth softly, sweetly glide,
When there's love at home.

Kindly heaven smiles above,
All the earth is filled with love,
Sweeter sings the brooklet by Brighter beams the azure sky:
Oh, there's One who smiles on high,
When there's love at home.

Jesus, show Thy mercy mine,
Sweetly whisper I am Thine,
Source of love, thy cheering light
Far exceeds the sun so bright,
Can dispel the gloom of night,
Then there's love at home."

b. Mothers' response:

"Jesus Son of human mother,
Bless our motherhood, we pray;
Give us grace to lead our children,
Draw them to Thee day by day;
May our sons and daughters be Dedicated Lord to Thee."

c. Fathers' response:

"Thou who didst with Joseph labor,
Nor didst humble work disdain,
Grant we may Thy footsteps follow
Patiently through toil or pain;
May our quiet home life be Lived, O Lord, in Thee, to Thee."

d. All sing: "Saviour, Teach Me Day by Day."

IV. Two Talks

a. Parents Worthy of Honor, by a parent.

b. Practical Ways of Honoring Our Parents, by an Intermediate

c. Closing song, "I Would Be True." Benediction

JUNIOR CORNER

The Jesus I Love

Mothers' Night or Parent Guest Night

A Worship Program

Setting: in spring flowers and candle light

Prelude: Let the Young People's pianist serve you on this night, remaining at the piano throughout the program. The children could be told that this pianist will always play one verse of the next hymn that is to be sung. This will be a great help to the children for the program should be rendered unannounced.

Entering In: A candle light procession of children and leaders singing: "Fairest Lord Jesus." When arriving at the seats which for this night should be placed on the platform, the children remain standing until this hymn and the following has been completed.

Call to Worship: Sing: "O Worship the King," verses 1, 2, 3. This majestic hymn is a beautiful contrast to the more slow and tender hymn just completed. (Be seated after verse 3)

WORSHIP

I: Adoration:

1. From the middle of the back row, a quartet rises and reaches for candles which are near by. The piano leads them into singing: "My Jesus I Love Thee," verse 1, 2, 4. (Be seated)
2. An echo from the group by singing the chorus of "O, How I Love Jesus." Do not rise for this but remain seated also for verse one, two and four which follows the chorus.
3. A voice rises from one side of the group and speaks verse one of "Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee."
4. A second voice rises from the opposite side to repeat verse two
5. A third voice, again opposite, the third verse
6. A fourth voice, the fourth verse. Let the voices rise as they are needed but those who have completed their verse, let these remain standing until the fourth voice has finished, then all are seated
7. Response from the group by singing verse one and three of "O for a Thousand Tongues to Sing"

II. Meditation: What Jesus is to me.

1. A voice rises and says: "Jesus said, I have called you friends" John 15:15
2. Group in unison sings: What a Friend We Have in Jesus," verse one
3. Another voice rises and says: "He will be my guide, even unto death" Ps. 48:14
4. A duet rises and sings: "All the Way My Savior Leads Me," verses one and two
5. Third voice: "Thou hast been a shelter for me" Ps. 61:3

6. Group sings in unison: "A Shelter in the Time of Storm," verses 1, 2, 3
7. Fourth voice: "Beside me there is no Saviour, says the Lord." Isa. 43:11.
8. Group rises and sings in unison: "A Wonderful Saviour Is Jesus, My Lord," verses 2, 3, 4

III. Assurance of His Love

1. The younger ones singing: "Jesus Loves Me This I Know"
2. A voice speaking the words as the music of the hymn is played: "I Gave My Life for Thee.

IV. Response to His Love

1. Group sings in unison: "I Am Coming, Lord"
2. A voice speaking the words of "Whiter than Snow" with the group singing the chorus after each verse

V. Praise. Rise during these praise hymns

1. The group singing, Praise Him! Praise Him!
2. The younger group singing, "Praise Him, Praise Him, All Ye Little Children"
3. The group in unison singing verse one of "Praise Ye the Lord, the Almighty." With verse two, begin to leave the platform. The ones who placed candles again remove them and carry them in recessional Recessional: Use verses 2, 3, 4, of "Praise Ye the Lord, the Almighty" and sing the Amen.

Daily Meditations

Furnished by J. B. Epp

SUNDAY, APRIL 24

Psalm 84:1, 2, 4, 10.

Lord of the worlds above,
How pleasant and how fair
The dwellings of thy love,
Thine earthly temples are!
To Thine abode my heart aspires,
With warm desires, to see my God.
O happy souls, that pray
Where God appoints to hear;
O happy men, that pay
Their constant service there!
They praise Thee still; and happy they,
That love the way to Zion's hill.
They go from strength to strength,
Through this dark vale of tears,
Till each arrives at length,
Till each in Heav'n appears:
O glorious seat, when God, our King,
Shall thither bring our willing feet!

MONDAY, APRIL 25

"Whose shall those things be that thou hast provided?" Luke 12:20.

Out of this life I shall never take Things of silver and gold I make.
All that I cherish and hoard away,
After I leave, on earth must stay.
All that I gather and all that I keep
I leave it behind when I fall asleep.
And I wonder often what I shall own
In the other life, when I pass alone.
Shall the great Judge learn, when my task is thru,
That my spirit had gathered some riches, too?
Or, shall at the last it be mine to find
That all I had worked for I've left behind?

TUESDAY, APRIL 26

"Behold the fowls of the air; for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns: yet your Heavenly Father feedeth them all. Are ye not much more than they?" Matt. 6:26.

Said the robin to the sparrow:
"I should really like to know
Why these anxious human beings
Run about and worry so."
Said the sparrow to the robin:
"Friend, I think that it must be
That they have no Heav'nly Father
Such as cares for you and me."

* * *

Can men tell that you love Jesus?
Can they by your life and mine
See in daily walk and action
That we trust our Lord divine?

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27

"Casting all your cares upon Him, He careth for you." I Peter 5:7.

The camel at the close of day
Kneels down upon the sandy plain,
To have his burden lifted off
And rest to gain.
My soul, thou too shouldst to thy knees
When daylight draweth to a close,
And let thy Master lift thy load
And grant repose.
When thou hast thanked thy God
For ev'ry blessing sent,
What time will then remain
For murmers or lament?

THURSDAY, APRIL 28

"Looking unto Jesus." Hebr. 12:2.

If thy soul would be distressed,
Look around;
Care and trouble, strife, unrest
There abound.
If thy soul would sorrow know
Look within;
How unlike thy Lord art thou,
Prone to sin.
But if thou wouldst joy in love,
And restful be;
Fix thine eye in faith above
Christ to see.

Keep your eyes upon Jesus,
Look up in His wonderful face;
And the things of this world will grow strangely dim
In the light of His Glory and Grace.

FRIDAY, APRIL 29

"Come unto Me, and I will give you rest." Matt. 11:28

No other plea but Jesus
Can satisfy our God.
No other sacrifice for sin
But Jesus' precious blood;
He left His wondrous glory
To manifest God's Love.
His mercy now extends to all
Who will His mercy prove.

No other name but Jesus
Can bring forgiveness sweet;
No other one can bring the calm
Found only at His feet.
No other one can lighten
A soul that is oppressed.
For Jesus said, "Come unto Me,
And I will give thee rest."

SATURDAY, APRIL 30

Jesus: "I pray for them." John 17:9.
Paul: "Pray, also for me." Ephes. 6:19.

I promised someone I would pray for him—
How could I forget about it?
Yes, surely, God, in His infinite Love,
Would carry him thru without it;
But I failed my friend, and it grieves me more,
That I failed my Lord, yet I love Him more!
He never forgets to pray for His own,
He makes intercession before the Throne;
And He calls us often apart to share
With Him in this great ministry of prayer.

In Memoriam

LEAH (HOCHSTETLER) BIXEL, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hochstetler, was born in Allen County, Ohio, August 7, 1869, and died March 31, 1938, aged 68 years, 7 months, 24 days. She was first married to Calvin Hauenstein who preceded her in death. The two youngest children, Amanda Leah and William Henry, also preceded her in death. The following sons survive: Rev. John Hauenstein, Troy, N. Y.; E. A. Hauenstein, Lima, Ohio, and Ed. Hauenstein, Detroit, Mich., together with their families

Mrs. Bixel was the last one of six sisters, five sisters and two brothers having preceded her in death. Four brothers living are Johan and Henry Hochstetler of Findlay, Ohio, Levi and Jacob Hochstetler of Bluffton, Ohio.—In 1907 she took her nephew, Clarence Hochstetler, who was then a baby, and cared for him until he was grown to manhood. Twelve years ago she became the wife of Noah Bixel who survives her.

In her youth she accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as her personal Savior from sin and always remained true to her confession. She was a member of several churches in the communities where she lived and was an active Christian. For several years, and at the time of her death, she was a member of the St. John Mennonite Church. She was an active member in the Sunday school, also Women's Missionary Society, and a frequent attendant at the mid-week prayer meeting. She was a diligent student of the Word of God and had completed several correspondence courses and memorized more than 600 Bible verses.

Funeral services were held on Saturday April 2. They were in charge of her pastor, Rev. Daniel J. Unruh, who spoke from Phil. 3:20-21. He was assisted by Rev. Armin Steiner, pastor of the Missionary Church of Pandora, O.

HAROLD NIEHAGE, son of Henry and Julia Niehage was born April 13, 1910, at Moundridge, Kansas and lived in this community all his life. He received his education in the Moundridge schools, graduating from the High School in the spring of 1930.

Having made public confession of his faith in Christ he was baptized June 5, 1927, and became a member of the First Mennonite Church of Christian in Moundridge, Kansas, and remained a member there until death claimed him.

His marriage with Frieda Flickner took place September 5, 1935. One son was born to them, who is one year and five months of age, and in whom Harold took special pride. But in the providence of God the happy and blessed wedded life was not to be of long duration.

On Monday, March 28th, the deceased took sick. On Thursday he entered Bethel Hospital at Newton, Kansas, where in spite of the best medical attention he passed away on April 2, 1938, aged 27 years, 11 months and 19 days. Those mourning his early departure are his bereaved wife, one son, Sherwin, his parents, two brothers, Reinhold and Quinton, his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Flickner, seven sisters-in-law, six brothers-in-law, also the grand-parents of his wife, and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted from the home and from the First Mennonite Church of Christian on April 4th. Words of comfort were spoken by Rev. Walter Gering, on Phil 4:11, and by P. P. Wedel, on Habbakuk 3:17-19.

And when no longer we can see Thee, may we reach out our hands, and find Thee leading us through death to immortality and glory.—H. W. Beecher.

YODER—ERI E. (BYLER), second child of John and Elizabeth Byler, was born September 10, 1851, near Belleville, Pa., died March 26, 1938, at her home in Goshen, Indiana, after a lingering illness from a stroke of paralysis, aged 86 years, six months and sixteen days.

She accepted the Christian faith at an early age and remained a faithful member of the Mennonite Church. She was married March 6, 1879 to Rufus A. Yoder of West Liberty, Ohio. To this union were born three daughters, Mary, Anna and Kathryn. Her husband died Janury 22, 1896, and in February 1908 her daughter Kathryn died very suddenly, at Goshen College, while attending school. In September 1908, with her mother and her daughter Anna, she moved to Goshen, Indiana, where many students found in her an inspiring friend and helper. In 1900, when foreign mission work was still very new in the Mennonite Church, she gave every encouragement to her daughter Mary who was called to go to India as a missionary. Later her home became the home of the three grandchildren of missionary parents, to which they have ever since turned as home with the greatest love and devotion.

Surviving her are her two daughters Mary Burkhard and Anna Yoder, three grandchildren, two great grand-children and a wide circle of relatives and friends to whom she endeared herself.

Funeral services were held at the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, conducted by the Pastor George S. Stoneback and M. C. Lehman. Text, John 14:1-4. "In my Father's house are many mansions."

—Marriage.—BROWELEIT-STEVICK.—On March 24, by Rev. Harley King, at the home of the bride near Colfax, Wash., Herbert R. Broweleit and Verna L. Stevick were united in marriage.—W.H.K.

—Flatland Mennonite Church.—Members of this church were pleasantly surprised Sunday morning, March 27, when the pastor, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, brought with him Rev. G. T. Soldner, field secretary of Bluffton College. who brought us the message of the morning.

—First Church, Philadelphia.—"This is the first Sunday of the month, the time to bring your Penny-A-Meal barrel. Penny a meal may sound so little at a time, but remember, "A little amounts to much if God is in it."

—Second Church, Philadelphia.—Sunday March 27 and April 3, Mr. John F. Schmidt filled our pulpit and our members expressed their enjoyment of his messages. Rev. I. I. Friesen will be with us again Sunday, April 10.—"The Messenger."

—First Church, Bluffton, O.—Sunday, March 24, this church had the opportunity to hear Prof. G. A. Lehman and his choir from Rochester, N. Y., in dramatizing the "Elijah" here in the Bluffton High School. All Bluffton churches arranged to hear this oratorio.

—At the Hebron Church, near Buhler, Kans., the Reverends C. H. van der Smissen and J. M. Regier were assisting the pastor, T. A. van der Smissen in a series of meetings during Passion week.

—St. John Church, near Pandora, O., reports in its Sunday bulletin, that during the week April 4-10, they held every evening, except Thursday, Spiritual Life Conference with Missionary S. T. Moyer as leader. On Thursday evening Mrs. Moyer spoke before a union meeting of Women's and Girls' Missionary Societies.

—Wayland Mennonite Church, Iowa.—The report has reached us that Rev. Kenneth Neuenschwander, pastor of this congregation, has recently tendered his resignation and left Wayland.

—Missioary P. J. Wiens has gone north to visit the churches in Nebraska and South Dakota this spring. The Wiens family are residing in Newton, Kans.

—Rev. P. R. Schroeder of the Salem Church, near Freeman, S. Dak., was holding a series of evangelistic meetings at the Mennonite Church, Hillsboro, Kansas, during passion week, Apr. 11-15.

—The Hutterian Mennonites who formerly had most of their colonies in South Dakota, have been driven mostly to Canada during the World War, though their motto used to be, "Nur nicht nach Norden."—Freeman Currier.

—An Easter Sunday Wedding.—On Easter Sunday Elaine, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Baumgartner, Berne, Indiana, was married to Dale Lantz in the Berne Church by Rev. C. H. Suckau.

—Members of the First Mennonite Church of Christian at Moundridge, Kansas, are looking forward to Sunday April 24. Special programs will be rendered in the afternoon and evening, commemorating the sixtieth anniversary of the organization of their congregation. There will be short talks and contributions from the different organizations of the church and an English and a German address at each one of the programs—Wilma Wedel.

—Another Mennonite Poet. In this issue of the Mennonite we are introducing another Mennonite poet (poetess) in the person of Gracelyn Polstra Augsburger, wife of Rev. W. R. Augsburger, pastor of the Grace Mennonite Church at Albany, Oregon. We feel sure our readers will enjoy the poem, Purified Gold on first page and join the editor in thanking her.

—Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Ida.—Seventy members of the choirs of the Presbyterian, Methodist, Latter Day Saints and Mennonite churches will present an Easter Cantata in he Mennonite Church Sunday evening, April 17th, at 8:00 o'clock, under the direction of Gus Klempel, the Chorister of the Mennonite church, accompanied by Margaret Giesbrecht. The title of the cantata is "Bright Easter Morn" by E. K. Heyser.

—Prof. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College was holding a series of meetings at the Second Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebr., during Passion week.

The Transforming Cross

Matt. 16:24

There must be a reason why Jesus urges men to take up their crosses and follow Him. Evidently the "Transformed Cross" has become a "Transforming Cross". That Roman instrument of torture, coming through the Christ on Calvary, has become a transforming instrument of redemption.

The cross coming into the life of the individual means renewal of mind, the regeneration of heart, and the motivation of the will. Coming into society it means social regeneration, the Kingdom of God; it means brotherly relations, the practice of the Golden Rule; it means economic fairness, just and equal practices. Coming into the world at large the cross means international neighborliness, the elimination of greed, selfishness and suspicion. It means the end of war since the Crucified hangs beween international thieves and neither can look upon the other without first seeing the Christ.

Paganism, in whatever form, coming by way of Calvary, is transformed. Men and ideas can not move over Calvary and remain the same. Men coming to Calvary go away as transformed instruments in the hands of God.

Then too, it is the special privilege of every Christian to follow the Christ in taking up our daily crosses, the crosses of difficulties and perplexities, of oppositions and persecutions, of pain and suffering, or whatever else, and transform them into instruments of redemption. The cross of Christ is a transforming cross.

EDITORIALS

CONTENTMENT.—But having food and covering we shall be therewith content.—I Tim. 6:8.—Better is little with righteousness, than great revenues with injustice.—Prov. 16:8. — When the late Theodore Roosevelt was touring the country as candidate for the vice presidency, he stopped in a town in the middle west, where the audience facing him was composed mostly of Germans. To edge a little closer to these voters he made a short address in German. Among other good things he said, there was one characteristic in the German trait that we, in America, sadly lacked, it was "Genuegsamkeit," contentment. When he said that, he stated a great truth, for instead of being satisfied with the necessaries of life, it seems as though here in this country, we are goaded on by an insatiable urge, the more one has the more he wants. In Switzerland in 1910 we learned of a group of small farmers one of whom related this interesting experience. Ninety-five of these men took an extension course in farm bookkeeping, with their own farms during the current year as the project. At the end of the year it was found that only three of the ninety-five had made any gains, the rest either just came out even or somewhat short. The multitudes of taxes prevented making their labor profitable for them. But were they unhappy, disgruntled, dissatisfied? No, they were satisfied, yes, happy with their families in the possession of civil rights and religious privileges and grateful to God for his blessings and mercies. That is contentment, a characteristic which Christians do well to cultivate.—Fortunately we have splendid examples of this sort among our Mennonite brethren in this country. We need only remember those in the Dakotas, Montana, and in the Dust Bowl of western Kansas, etc. The Christian fortitude and immovable faith in God that these dear people have exhibited during all the lean years, with the pinch of want and even poverty upon them, is remarkable. May God bless them and usher in better days for them.

THE RELIGION OF THE NEW SPAIN.—At present the success of the insurgents in the Spanish civil war seems to be a foregone conclusion. While many are interested in the type of government General Franco may set up, whether fascist or monarchial or even democratic, we Christians are more concerned in the religious problem that the new regime is facing. On this subject the Christian Century remarks as follows: "Religion, the world will be told, has been re-established in a land which was in danger of succumbing to atheism. Whatever form the Franco state may take, it will proclaim itself as God-fearing and God-serving. The operations of the new state, and the social order which it brings into being, will be given the blessings of the church. Not only in Spain but the world around, men will study the history of the Span-h church during the coming months to see what happens when a Christian church is set free to work its will." Here is hope that this dictator will show Fuehrer Hitler what he should do in Germany, namely let the people continue in the religion they have adhered to so long, with blessings to them and to the world, while with the pagan religion that is now being foisted upon them, the land is losing the respect of the world, and the Christian people everywhere are in distress and sorrow over it.

How to go to the General Conference at Saskatoon?

1. A party of delegates is planning to start from Philadedphia on Tuesday, July 26; and leave Chicago July 27 via Chicago-Milwaukee at 10:15 p. m.; and St. Paul via Northern Pacific on July 28 at 8:55 a. m.; and Winnipeg via Canadian Pacific on July 29 at 10:30 p. m., to be in Saskatoon July 30 at 3:30 p. m. Bro. Earl Kramer, 927 Fidelity Trust Bldg., Philadelphia, Pa., in charge.

2. Another party starts from Bluffton, Ohio, directed by Bro. S. K. Mosiman of there. They leave Chicago via C.B.Q. July 29 at 8:00 a.m.; St. Paul via Great Northern July 29 at 7:35 p. m.; Winnipeg via Canadian National July 30 at 9:45 a. m., and arrive at Saskatoon Saturday evening 9:30.

3. Conference visitors from Newton and other sections may join either group at cities as indicated. Any leaving Newton or Hutchinson July 26 can join the first party at Chicago or at St. Paul. Those desiring to join the Ohio party can leave Newton or Hutchinson on July 28 and join them in St. Paul the next day.

Fares.—From Newton and Hutchinson one can buy a 30 day round-trip coach ticket to Kansas City for $8. 35, and at Kansas City buy a round-trip 21 day first class ticket Kansis City to Banff, Alberta, as destination for $59.50 and stopover at Saskatoon either going or coming. If 25 or more go together and give 10 days advance notice a Special Party Coach fare round-trip (Newton or Hutchinson to Saskatoon) of $56.55 may be had, but without sleeper privilege.

Ministers who expect to and are entitled to use Clergy fares must secure both Western and Canadian Certificates. For Canadian application address "Canadian Passenger Ass'n, 437 St. James St., Montreal, Quebeck."

For further information see or write Bro. Karl A. Richert, Claassen Loan Co., 110 East 6 St., Newton, Kansas. He has kindly consented to assist any who wish to travel either by rail or auto. There may be those who wish to take or to accompany others in cars and Bro. Richert's office may bring you together.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE CHINA MISSION

Just as we were making up the next MENNONITE, with a mission article all set to go in, there comes a long letter from Missionary S. F. Pannabecker. However eager we are to bring it at once in full, the mass of other matter crowding us, hardly permits that. We shall, therefore, give the important part, with promise to bring more next time.

Tung Ming, Hopei, March 9, 1938

Dear Brother Richert and Other Friends:

From the heading of this letter you will see that Dr. Pannabecker and I have at last reached our field. My last letter was written from Chengchow, after a fruitless attempt to reach the field via Sinsiang and Taokow. That was Feb. 23. You will remember that our train was turned back just ten miles south of Sinsiang, due to a Japanese advance. (In a somewhat round about way we finally reached Laufeng.) From Laufeng to Tung Ming is 45 miles, and we made it easily in two days.—Everything seems most peaceful as you ride along the country roads. Prospects for continuing north across the Yellow River and to Kai Chow are a little indefinite right now.

With us here (at Tung Ming) is James Liu and his wife and Mr. Yang, the preacher of the Kai Chow east suburb. They are anxious to return to Kai Chow and we will likely make the attempt together at the first favorable opportunity. Here at Tung Ming we heave finally been able to get more or less dependable reports of what took place at Kai Chow. After first hearing some very discouraging reports, we are glad to tell you that, according to letters brought down by runner and telephone across the river, it seems that there was no loss of life or property in the east suburb compound. Of course the city was taken by the Japanese one evening, though no attempt was made at that time to ransack it. But the next morning the shops were pretty well looted of valuables, though it seems there was little loss of life. No visit was made to the east suburb during these days. Later when most of the Japanese had left city, some Chinese militia got away with considerable supplies of flour, gasoline and ammunition, though with little fighting. Following the arrival of new Japanese troups, a group of 20 of them visited the east compound. A request was made that a notice be posted at the gate to keep out all unauthorized visitors. The Japanese replied that that was unnecessary, and wrote a few characters outside the gate to the effect that Japanese do not harm Christians.

As to the city compound, it seems that the first few days there was some molestation, but we do not have definite reports. The latest report was that the compound was still well filled, but the food supply perilously low. While peace and order is fairly good in the region which the Japanese have occupied, outside that influence the territory is open to any bandits and marauders who may come.

The letter closes thus: "Continue to remember us in this difficult situation and especially the Chinese Christians who have fears of becoming "wang kuo nu," perhaps the three hardest words in the Chinese language, meaning "country annihilated slaves."

Sincerely, S. F. Pannabecker.

N. B. Brother Richert says, A CABLEGRAM REPORTS THAT THEY ARE NOW AT KAI CHOW.

WHY DO NOT MORE PEOPLE ACCEPT CHRIST?

The majority pass Him by. There are multitudes who rejoice in Him and follow Him gladly. They see in Him their all in all, their King, their Lord, their Savior, the One who shines brighter and purer than all the angels heaven can boast. But there are still larger multitudes who ignore Him. Why? It is a question that puzzles. Why do some so gladly accept Him and follow Him and others act so indifferent and hateful towards Him? Some think it is the fault of the church; that the members lack zeal; that they fail to witness; that we use wrong methods here and do things the wrong way there. Some think the preachers fail to do their duty; not declaring the whole counsel of God. There is probably some truth in these answers. The fault may partly lie in ourselves. But how account for the fact that conditions were no different when Jesus was on earth, preaching, teaching and healing, walking and talking with the people of Galilee? Not everyone accepted Him. The majority rejected Him. His followers at the time of His death numbered a handful, one hundred and twenty in all. Surely He preached the right word and surely He used the right methods. The fault, at least once in the life of the church, at its very beginning, lay not in the preaching or in the seed that was sown, but rather in the soil. It is still true that some hearts are hard like the trodden soil on the wayside; others have no depth so that any little difficulty or persecution coming their way will cause them promptly to forsake Him. Still other hearts are preoccupied. They are set on riches with all of its deceitfulness. They do not wish to bother with Christ. They are afraid He will not be at home with many of the things they like and intend to keep. So He is crowded out. But, thank God, there are others that receive Him gladly. The soil is mellow and receptive, expectant of the good things of God. They receive the word and it multiplies, thirty, sixty, and a hundred-fold. It is discouraging at times to see so many reject Him; but it is encouraging that many still receive Him. Christianity has always been a minority movement. The large masses, travelling the broad and easy way, were never able to follow it. Probably the time will come when all nations will flow up unto the mountain of the Lord and when the knowledge of God will cover the earth as the waters cover the sea, but that time is not yet. In the meantime we must be concerned only that we are true to our Lord, and give a faithful witness to the things we have heard and see.—Lester Hostetler in "The Herold."

NEGLECTED AREA IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

III. Christian Essentials

The first essential of a great construction is a good foundation, otherwise the construction will collapse and bring shame to the builder and possible injury to those who trusted him. This fact is especially vital in the realm of Christian Education. It must be right at its source and in its fundamentals, otherwise is can not be trusted in its ideals. Christian Education is not trustworthy if it neglects to emphasize the absolute trustworthiness and the eternal durability of the Word of God, the Bible. "For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven." Ps. 119:89. "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away." Matt. 24:35.

The Lord Jesus gives us a picture of the right emphasis and a divine "must" in Christian Education in the discourse with Nicodemus. When Nicodemus approached him with the compliment, "Thou art a teacher come from God," Jesus answers, "Except a man be born from above, he cannot see . . . . he cannot enter the kingdom of God." Why talk about the great teacher and neglect the fundamental condition of all spiritual learning, for without regeneration there can be neither Christian impression (he cannot see) nor Christian expression (he cannot enter).

Several years ago I heard the headmaster of a well known eastern 'Prep' school, in an address before a civic club, say: "No man is truly educated who does not know God's program for the world." What he meant by God's program, I do not know. I am sure however that no one can know that program apart from God's own revelation of it. A brief summary of it is given in Acts 15:14-18. a. First, God visiting the Gentiles to take out of them a people for his name (i.e., the church) b. "After this I will return and will build again the tabernacle of David" (i.e. the restoration of Israel) c. "that the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles" (i.e., the universal reign of Christ). "Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world."

Christian Education does not need to make us great theologians, philosophizing about God, but neither will it make us great sociologists with political theories of internationalism, flavored with excerpts from the Sermon on the Mount. Instead it should make us men and women who are thoroughly acquainted with God's Word; humbly accepting it as the revealed will of God; proclaiming reconciliation of God with man through the atoning death of Christ on Calvary; and a new life, through faith in Christ, which enables us to live as Christians; looking for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ.

Christian Education, whether in the home, the Sunday School, Bible Institutes, Colleges or Seminaries dares not emphasize any part of divine revelation at the expense of neglecting any other part. Such neglect leaves the people as easy victims and the prey of clever propagandists. Every 'ism' has an element of truth in it by which it lives. The neglect of truth has too often left the Church of Jesus Christ to the proselyting influences of religious and political rackets, has robbed them of evangelical zeal and diverted her funds from missionary channels into the hands of misdirected theorists. This neglect is tragic. The gospel will continue to be proclaimed and if we fail here and "neglect so great salvation" God will raise up other witnesses for Himself, to whom He will entrust this great privilege.

Bethel College Member of North Central Association

The announcement that Bethel had met the standards of the North Central Association was made in Chicago on April 7. A detailed report of the Association's study, criticisms, and a graph showing Bethel's strong and weak points was received by President Ed. G. Kaufman this week.

Bethel was on of six colleges and universities accredited by the North Central Association at its annual meeting in Chicago. Approximately 250 colleges and universities from Indiana in the east to New Mexico in the west, are members of this Association.

A summary of Bethel's elements of strength, as disclosed by the North Central Association's report, are as follows:

1. Bethel College is the only four-year Mennonite college west of Goshen, Indiana, and has a definite constituency in the 75,000 Mennonites residing west of the Mississippi River.
2. The faculty ranks high in training and is alert and vigorous in every phase of the academic program.
3. The curriculum is substantial and dignified.
4. The program of instruction appears to be good.
5. The library holdings are adequate for student use.
6. The program for the admission of students has been well conceived and is carried out in an effective manner.
7. The academic and non-academic student records are very satisfactory.
8. The counseling program is formulated and directed by a centralized Personnel Bureau in an effective manner.
9. The present program of student organizations appears to be entirely adequate.
10. The health service has been greatly expanded since the examination made in 1935.
11. The program for the housing and boarding of students is an extensive one.
12. The science building at Bethel College would be a credit to any college or university campus.
13. The officers of administration have been working diligently during the past three years in an effort to improve Bethel College.
14. The administration and the faculty have been active in studying and evaluating the program of the College.

To overcome its elements of weakness, the North Central Association revealed, Bethel should take the following steps in the near future:

1. Develop much better financial support.
2. Eliminate the debt.
3. Pay better salaries.
4. Build fireproof dormitories.
5. Improve general facilities and equipment.

In Appreciation

Bethel College's recent accreditment by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is due in a very large measure to its church and local constituency, and the combined efforts of all the friends, supporters, board and faculty members, and those men and women who have preceded us in their efforts at Bethel. We wish to acknowledge this with deep gratitude to our Heavenly Father. This accreditment by the North Central Association is not an end in itself, but merely one step in a larger program of Christian education. Much work will be necessary to retain accreditment and further improve Bethel College, and so make our contribution to the cause of Christian Higher Education.

Very gratefully yours, Ed. G. Kaufman.

—Rev. Christian Schowalter, early General Conference Leader, Honored.—Former pupils and members of his congregation at Donnellson, Iowa, are tendering a memorial gift of $1000 to the Bethel College Memorial Fund, in appreciation and memory of their teacher and leader, Rev. Schowalter and his good wife Mrs. Rosina Schowalter. Brother Schowalter had been trained as a teacher in Germany, where he taught some and, on coming to America in 1850, he continued the work here for a number of years. In 1861 he was chosen pastor of the Donnellson church and served it 43 years. He was one of the founders of the General Conference, a member of the committee that drafted its constitution and prepared the Minister's Handbook, served on the Mission Board a long time, also as teacher and part time principal in the Wadsworth school, passing away in 1907 at the age of 78 years.

Reasons Why I Cannot Be a Lodge Member

Albert Schultz

This article was prepared for a local minister's meeting and it was suggested by them to put it in tract form, but at the suggestion of Rev. P. R. Schroeder I am sending it to our church paper to use in its columns.

This is only a very limited treatment of the lodge question and the writer gives only his own personal views in the matter. Quotations from other writers are used to substantiate my personal views. I doubt whether the article will bring anyone out of the lodge, but may it serve to the end that someone will be kept out of the lodge.

1. I cannot accept nor honor the convictions of the lodge concerning the Word of God.

They open their business meetings with an open Bible and close the meeting likewise, but they do not regard the Bible as the INSPIRED WORD OF GOD. They regard other writings on the same level with the Bible. Masonry permits its members to use as the Great Light the book held sacred by the land in which they may be situated. The Old Testament for the Jews; the Koran for Mohammedans; the Zend-Avesta for the Parsees; and the Veda (four books of Hindu) for the Hindus. Masonry does not regard the Bible as the revealed will of God to man, but merely as a symbol of the will of God, and every Mason must interpret the symbol for himself. Haywood says, "To believe that the Bible is the infallible and inspired Word of God is looked upon as Bibliolatry, the worship of a book of ink and paper."

They misinterpret the Bible in their rituals. During the initiation of a member a certain portion of Scripture is read to give the whole thing a Biblical pretense. The worshipful Master reads from Ps. 118:22; Matt. 21:42; Mark 12:10; Luke 20:17. These references have to do with the stone set at nought by the builders, and which became the chief corner stone. They cite this as referring to a certain key stone, supposedly fashioned by Hiram Abif at the building of Solomon's temple, but rejected by the builders, because it was neither oblong nor square. Holding up the keystone the worshipful Master says, "This is the stone set at nought by the builders, which is become the head of the corner." Is this not wilfully, deliberately, knowingly, and intentionally perverting and suppressing the truth?

I believe the Bible to be God's Word to man. It is a Book not given by men, but by God. There is no Book outside of the Bible that is inspired by God, so the writings of men cannot be on the same level with the Bible and so I cannot accept their estimation of the Bible. "Prophecy came not by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." 2 Peter 1:21.

2. I cannot believe in the God of the lodge.

Reade says, "We have no narrow minded prejudices; we do not debar from our society this sect or that sect; it is sufficient for us that a man worship God no matter under what name or in what manner." Newton says, "Of no age, Masonry belongs to all time; of no religion, it finds great truths in all." The only book that informs us about God is the Bible and the Bible speaks of God as the creator of the earth and all that is therein, including man. There is only ONE God—not many. There is not a separate God for each man-made religion.

3. I cannot believe in the program of salvation as presented by the lodge.

The grand lodge of New York has officially declared in its constitution, "Character determines destiny." They teach that heaven is a reward of doing one's duty. "Heaven is the reward of a well spent life." "The pass to heaven is a pure and blameless life." Masonry teaches that if a man lives an upright, virtuous, blameless, and holy life; if he lives according to the golden rule; if he keeps the commandments he will be saved. The question, what must I do to be saved, would be answered, "Be true to the principles of Masonry." How different the answer was to the poor lost Philippian jailor. My Bible tells me that heaven is a gift and for my service for the Lord I will be rewarded. Eph. 2:8, 9; Titus 3:5; 1 Cor. 3:14. Peter said, "Neither is salvation in any other." Acts 4:12. Jesus said, "I am the way," John 14:6.

4. I cannot believe that God is the Father of all men as the lodge says.

Newton says, "We invite to our altars men of all faiths, knowing that if they use different names for the 'Nameless One of an hundred names' they are yet praying to the one God and Father of all men." They believe that all men worship the same God, only in a different name and different manner. This is far from scriptural. God is not the Father of all men, but is the creator of all men. Only men born into the family of God are His children and can call Him Father. Jesus said to the very religious group of His day, "ye are of your father the devil." John 8:44. Jesus was plainly indicating that they were worshipping someone else than the true God.

5. I cannot believe in the brotherhood of the lodge.

They boast of a brotherly love and relief for the needy, but this love and relief is only to their fellow Masons, their wives and daughters, and their widows and orphans. Masonic charity cannot be extended to non-Masonic purposes. If we as Christians pursued such a method, all the heathen people would have to become Christians before we could help them, and then they would not need it. I believe in a brotherhood where we are born into the family of God, by the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghost. Titus 3:5.

6. I do not believe in the secrecy practised by the lodges.

I do not find that Jesus did His work in secret. He preached openly and publicly. He did not carry on a secret work. If what we have is valuable to a few, why should it not be proclaimed to the world. Do we secretly proclaim the Gospel? Are we not urged to PREACH—literally "shout it out"? Jno. 18:20; Matt. 10:27.

7. I cannot be bound by an oath to unbelievers.

The Word of God forbids the yoking together of saved and unsaved. 2 Cor. 5:14. The minute I do so I have lost my power by disobedience. God forbade the working of an an ass and ox together for the ass was an unclean animal and the ox a clean animal. Deut. 22:10.

8. I cannot be a good churchman and a good lodgeman at the same time.

Both call for money. To which one shall I give. What I give to the lodge is lost to God. The demands of the lodges are extreme. The fees, banquets, parades, special garments, halls and temples require much money. Every cent I give to the lodge robs God of His money. God says, "Honor the Lord with thy substance, and the firstfruits of thine increase." Prov. 3:9. The lodge demands my time and energy. God says, "Ye are not your own," 1 Cor. 6:19, 20. God did not buy me with silver and gold, but it cost Him the precious blood of His own Son, and then I give my time to the lodge? How can I be so cruel? He paid for me and a great price.

9. I cannot belong to the lodge, for the Lord satisfies my every need.

I do not have to seek worldly entertainments to find satisfaction, for Jesus fills my every need. What does the world think of me, if I have to seek satisfaction in the lodge? Will they not say, "Jesus does not satisfy him." Christ says, "I will help you." The Lord said, "Come out from among them and be ye separate." Separate not join.

10. I cannot belong to the lodge, for on the dying bed the lodge creed will not console me.

I need more than creed on my dying bed. I need real help in that moment, and there is only one Book, only one Savior, only one God, and only one heaven. The Book, Savior, God, and the heaven of the lodge will not console me on my dying bed, nor after I am dead; but the Bible that I read and believe, the Savior that I trust, the God that I believe (not believe in) and the heaven that I am going to, will be mine for ever, with a song for eternity to the Lamb that was slain for my sins, and washed them away by His own blood. I cannot be comforted by the creed of the lodge, but only by the Word of the true and living God who liveth and abideth forever, the same today, yesterday and forever. Praise His holy Name!

COOPERATING IN SERVICE

Mark 9:30-41

Introduction

Today's lesson contains the final teachings of Jesus in Galilee. He is visiting Capernaum for the last time, before leaving for Jerusalem and Calvary. He has been in retirement with His disciples for some time, instructing them for the work they were to do after His death. Some much needed teaching is given in our lesson.

Jesus Fortells His Death and Resurrection vs 30-32

He and the twelve came from the Transfiguration Mount, across the Jordan above the Sea of Galilee, down to Capernaum. He wished to pass along unobserved (v30) for His whole purpose now was to instruct and prepare the disciples for their later and large work. He foretells his death and resurrection (v31). This statement, now made the second time, was still deeply perplexing to them. They could not understand what He meant (v32). They still expected an earthly kingdom with Him as the living ruler on the throne in Jerusalem. The apostles were to preach the Gospel of the death and resurrection of Jesus after Pentecost—preach Him as Savior, Redeemer. We too find it difficult to grasp new and strange ideas.

Greatness in Humility vs 33-37

While Jesus' thoughts were occupied with His coming death and resurrection, the disciples were having visions of glory and greatness for themselves (vs. 33, 34). They were so human. Jesus, the Son of David, reigning on David's throne in the Kingdom of God to be established in this world, meant to them an earthly kingdom in which there would be high positions to be filled. Being His closest disciples, they expected the preferred offices and each one had ambitions. The desire to be FIRST has wrought much harm in God's work in the world, is greatly hindering it today.

Jesus saw the seriousness of the situation (v35) and took time to teach a lesson greatly needed—then and now. Two vital elements in greatness are HUMILITY and a WILLINGNESS TO SERVE OTHERS. Greatness is a quality of character, not in position. It is a quality of soul developed by service and sacrifice. He showed by example—a little child (v36), the only way of obtaining the greatness they desired. To enter the kingdom of heaven, one must be humble, teachable, as a little child (Matt. 18:3, 4). To choose for self, a place of humble service for God and others, is the way to achieve real greatness. To serve well with no thought of earthly reward, is service unto Christ, is true greatness.

Brotherliness in Service vs. 38-41.

The disciples met a stranger doing a very good work in Jesus' name (v38), who however did not belong to their group. They felt he had no right to do his. We need to watch lest this same spirit grow in us. The disciples had not yet learned the mind of Jesus as revealed in verse 39. He was glad to have this good work done in His name. He saw the spirit which moved this man. The large-heartedness of Jesus is beautiful to behold. This incident is deeply significant for us today. Many still look with suspicion upon good work that is not done by their own group, church, denomination. Are we entirely innocent in this?

Nothing really done for another in Jesus' name, however little it may be, will be unrewarded (v41), no matter who the doer may be. Watch, lest we hinder in some way, some one who is doing good in Jesus' name.

Announcements and Programs

Invitations

To the Minister's Conference of the Western District which, if it is God's will, is to be held April 26, in the Emmaus Church, Whitewater, Kansas, the host congregation heartily invites all ministers, deacons, and church boards with their wives. May God grant us a blessed day.—B. W. Harder, Elder.

DAILY MEDITATIONS

Furnished by J. B. Epp

SUNDAY, MAY 1

"By love serve one another." Gal. 5:13

Do we approve, applaud, with understanding,
The sweetness in the lives of those we know?
We criticize, and blame, and keep demanding,
But seldom our appreciation show!
So often we've been helped by words of kindness,
A friendly smile that cheered us thru the day;
The chance to help another on his way
Yet constantly we forfeit, in our blindness
If we are seeing all that's right in others,
The wrong no longer can obstruct our view;
So let's enrich our own lives, and our brother's
By magnifying all that's good and true.

MONDAY, MAY 2

Psalm Twenty-Three

In pastures green? Not always; sometimes He Who knoweth best, in kindness leadeth me
In weary ways, where heavy shadows be.
So, whether on the hill-top high and fair
I dwell, or in the sunless valley, where
The shadows lie, what matter? He is there!
'Tis better to walk by faith than sight,
In this path of yours and mine;
And the pitch-black night, when there's no outer light
Is the time for faith to shine.

TUESDAY, MAY 3

"He hath the key . . . He openeth, and no man shutteth." Rev. 3:7.

Is there some problem in your life to solve,
Some passage seeming full of mystery?
God knows, Who brings the hidden things to light:
He holds the key.
Is there some door closed by the Father's hand,
Which widely opened you had hoped to see?
Trust God and wait—for when He shuts the door
He keeps the key.
Unfailing comfort, sweet and blessed rest,
To know of ev'ry door He keeps the key.
That He at last when just He sees 'tis best
Will open unto thee.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 4

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet." Psa. 119:105

Lamp of our feet, whereby we trace
Our path, when wont to stray;
Stream from the fount of heavenly grace,
Brook by the traveller's way.
Bread of my soul, wheron we feed,
True manna from on high;
Our guide and chart, wherein we read
Of realms beyond the sky.

Lord, grant that we aright may learn
The wisdom it imparts,
And to its heavenly teachings turn
With simple, childlike hearts.

THURSDAY, MAY 5

"The Lord was with Joseph." Gen. 39:2

The Lord was with him! Thus it was he prospered!
In dire affliction's place he fruitful grew;
The wrongs consumed him not; he o'er them triumphed:
The Lord was with him; thus he was kept true.
Soul, couldst thou wish for greater, richer treasure
Than that the Lord Himself should be with thee--
Should crown thy life in rich, unstinted measure
With His sublime and sov'reign company?

FRIDAY, MAY 6

"To know the Love of Christ, which passeth knowledge." Eph. 3:19.

Lord Jesus, make me understand
That Love of Thine,
That brought Thee from Thy home above
To enter mine;
And for my sake to undertake
To pay my debt, my heart remake;
That I, tho' human, should partake
In the divine.
Lord Jesus, I am one in Thee,
Thou one in me;
Oh, make my heart, mind, soul, and strength
Love only Thee;
That while I sojourn here below,
In thought, word, deed, I may bestow
Thy Love, and thus to others show
The Christ in me.

SATURDAY, MAY 7

"Who led thee thru that great and terrible wilderness . . . that He might prove thee, to do thee good at thy latter end." Deut. 8:15, 16.

"To do thee good"! Nay, not to do us ill!
Alas, we have so oft misunderstood!
Much that has come in His unerring will
We have concluded was not for our good.
"To do thee good"! 'Tis ever so with Him;
"To do thee good" is ever His design;
We have not known; our eyesight has been dim;
And we have blindly challenged Love Divine!
"To do thee good"! Nay, not to take away!
"To do thee good"! in ways we cannot tell.
Shall we not humbly, worshipfully say:
"My God, work on! Thou doest all things well!"

In Memoriam

ANDREW JOHN SCHRAG, born in Wolhynia, Russia, June 21, 1864, died April 6, 1938, at an age of 74 years, 9 months, and 15 days. At the age of 10 he migrated from Russia to America, with his parents, locating in South Dakota in 1874. He left South Dakota for Dallas, Oregon, at the age of 18, residing there until 1900. At the age of 25 he was united in marriage to Caroline Grenz by the Rev. Jacob Schrag. This union was blessed with 8 living children. In 1900 they and 3 other families came by covered wagon to the Menno district in Washington, where they homesteaded. He has been residing in Monroe, Washington, for the past 16 years. His last seven months were spent in the Menno district on his home place. He was baptized by his grandfather Rev. John Schrag when he was 15 years old and became an actual member of the Mennonite church. He leaves to mourn his passing, his bereaved wife, Mrs. Caroline Schrag; 8 children, Mrs. A. J. Graber of Odessa, Wash., Mrs. Chas. Kaufman, Marion, S. Dak., Mrs. Sam Wiese, Leader, Sask., Mrs. Corey Raymond, Everett, Wash., Mrs. Herb. Schwartz, Edmonds, Wash., John Schrag, Portland, Oregon, Leonard Schrag and Alvin Schrag of Monroe, Wash., three brothers and five sisters, and 26 grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted from the Menno Mennonite church April 10, interment was made in the cemetary near the church. Rev. M. J. Galle, officiating.

HELEN WILL, NEE MIERAU, was born September 3, 1879, in Tiege, South Russia. In 1884 she came to America with her parents, to a farm near Hillsboro, Kansas. Her father died in 1890 and her mother in 1931.

In 1933 she came to Halstead, in which community she has resided till her death. On September 9, 1894, she was baptized by Ch. Krehbiel and received into the Halstead Mennonite church, where she has been a faithful member till her death.

She was united in marriage with John Will on October 2, 1898, by Rev. Ch. Krehbiel. To this marriage ten children were born, two of whom have preceded her in death. Herman, the second one preceding her on February 7, 1938. One brother, Dietrich, also preceded her in death.

She was called to her everlasting reward suddenly on April 1, 1938, having attained the age of 58 years, 6 months, and 29 days. She leaves to mourn her early departure her husband, John Will, 4 sons, John, Henry and Frank of Halstead, and Otto of Hutchinson; 4 daughters, Marie (Mrs. Walter Bockhaus), Helen (Mrs. Carl Schroeder), both of Halstead; Frieda (Mrs. Oliver Keller) of Harper, and Louise of the home. Also two brothers, John of California, and Wilhelm of Wichita, 13 grandchildren and many friends.

Last sad rites for her were conducted from the Mennonite church Monday afternoon, April 4 at 230. Rev. David C. Wedel officiating. Short services were held at the home at 2 o'clock.

Western District Oratory Items

Set May 1 Entry Deadline

The officers of the Western District Convention are reminding entrants of their oratory contest that entry blanks must be sent to William Juhnke, McPherson, Kansas, R. 2, by May 1. Those Christian Endeavor members who do not have a list of the rules, topics and helps for the oratory should contact the president of their society immediately. Full instructions have been sent to all presidents whose names were received. Failure to receive this information should be reported at once.

All Entries Should Report

Those C. E.'s which have more entrants than the number permitted by the rules (i e.,—more than one for each topic), should send in the names of all contestants. Specify, however, the contestants who are to represent your C. E. in the regional contest.

Prepare List of Judges

The plans for regional or district elminations will take more definite shape after May 1. The location of these will depend largely on the areas from which the contestants come. A list of judges is now being prepared. This list will be composed of ministers from various congregations of the Western District, recommended Sunday School teachers, college instructors and other laymen of recognized ability.

The entry blank given below may be used.

The World of Jesus' Day Compared with Ours

(A C. E. topic read recently at the Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio. Writer not indicated)

Tonight we want to picture in our minds the world as it was in the days of Jesus. How great are the contrasts with the time in which we live. Nineteen centuries have passed since Jesus was born on earth. Sixty generations have come and gone.

The world in the time of Jesus' life was very limited, only the lands that surround the Mediterranean Sea were known to civilization. The means of travel and communication were very primitive. Even though the known world was small it was harder to contact with the far off lands than it is today. There were only a few million people but the distinctions between race and class were sharper and deeper than at present.

Jesus found the world to be burdened with a heavy load of sin and slavery; the economic order was based on enforced human labor. In his wandering among the cities of Palestine Jesus found himself face to face with war, paganism, cruelty, oppression, tyranny, immorality, disease, supersition and poverty. But in the face of all this Jesus came forth from his carpenter shop and set up a program so vast as to be adequate for the whole world, so durable as to be eternal and so detailed as to touch every human being. Jesus touched the deep needs of the human heart then and still does today.

In the material world there has been a great deal of progress. But in the moral and spiritual realms we must admit our civilization has not kept pace. We are highly developed materially, but our moral and spiritual assets are very meager. We saw how utterly deficient was the condition of the world in Jesus' day, but today we are just as deficient if not more so. Our cities are dotted with hospitals and we have much medical equipment and yet we have not mastered the control of disease. After 1900 years of Christian heritage the world fought the greatest war that history has known. And today we tremble lest the war fuse be lighted again. If the lid could be lifted we would see that immorality is rampaging the globe. There is still tyranny and cruelty in many places. And in spite of the poor-houses and government welfare agents there are still hundreds left to suffer and die uncared for. We are far from the goal and ideals set by Jesus.

Some years ago, Henry Van Dyke made a tour through Palestine and then published a book on his experiences. He took note of the charges—Whole cities were gone, forests had vanished, places of historic interest could not be determined with certainty.

But there are four things that are about the same as in Jesus' day:

1. The mountains still lift their heads in rugged majesty.
2. The flowers that flood the earth every spring are the same as those upon which the Lord looked in the days of his flesh.
3. The stars overhead shine as they did over Judean hills when Jesus was born in Bethlehem. They still declare God's glory and show forth His handiwork.
4. The human heart has not changed.

Christ ministered to those needs then, and still does today.

There is a lack of Christian faith in these days. People talk often of the rapidly changing conditions in the world, and seem doubtful sometimes if Christ is prepared to meet those conditions. But this attitude is short-sighted. It reflects our own stupidity and lack of courage. There have been changes, but largely on the surface. Fundamentally, mankind has the needs it had twenty centuries ago. Christ has always had to struggle to gain hold of human hearts. His message is revolutionary. It involves making men over.

In Jesus' day the Roman Empire was at the height of its power and glory. The Roman eagles had triumphed over foes on all borders. She represented the civilized world of that day. On the eastern edge of her dominion was Palestine, a land not more than 150 miles long and sixty miles wide. Little heed was given happenings in Judea and Galilee. But in that small land Jesus was born, grew to manhood, worked at a carpenter's bench, came forth to teach, gathered a small company of untrained disciples and worked with them for three years. The country with which he was personally acquainted was no larger than a small American state. But his message carried on and on and has gone around the world, while Rome has crumbled to dust.

At present we are concerned about nationalistic policies. But what about the situation when Jesus lived? He was a Jew. He loved his race, but came to save the whole world. He kept the law of Moses, but was unwilling to foster national pride. They would have made him a king, but He slipped away from them. His was to be a spiritual kingdom, a universal kingdom, an eternal kingdom. And so "he came unto his own, but his own received him not." But He has been received in part and the glad work goes on.

Once more we meet with formalism now. Sometimes it looms large in the church. It disgusts us. But that Jesus faced, and it met his disgust. The Pharisees were narrow, proud, showy and desired to vaunt themselves. The latter were very worldly and dishonest, in there dealings, yet they sat as priests in the house of God. The chief priest and elders did much to bring about his death. They could crucify Him, but they could not rid themselves of Him. And He is alive today fighting the same battles of nineteen centuries ago.

There are many doubters now, but there were doubters then. Sometimes men stood by as He cured people and tried to argue against the evidence of their own eyes; if they could do nothing else, they slandered Him by ascribing His good works to the power of Satan.

The early church won the world because of several qualities. In the first place, a tremendous passion for evangelism held sway. When persecution struck at Jerusalem, the Christians went out in all directions, preaching the Word with mighty power. Churches sprang up everywhere. We can hardly visualize the triumph of those days. Paul declared that within one generation the gospel had been preached to the whole world. Christ was all in all to the saints of the first century. To them He filled earth and sky. Preaching on that basis, won men and women then, and wins them now.

Keeping Our Friendships Christian

Rom. 12:10-18

Young People's Topic for May 15, 1938

Meditations:

M., May 9. The magic of love.—I Cor. 13:1-13.
T., May 10. The power of unselfishness. Gen. 13:1-12.
W., May 11. Control the tongue. Jas. 3:1-18.
T., May 12. The charm of kindness. Matt. 25:31-40.
F., May 13. Seeing the good in others. Matt. 19:16-22.
S., May 14. Forgive possible slights. Luke 6:37, 38.

Suggested Hymns:

"Blest be the tie that binds," "Where cross the crowded ways"

If you can possibly find a copy, be sure to read Henry Drummond's sermon based on 1 Cor. 13. He calls it "The Greatest Thing in the World." Excerpts:

"Patience; kindness; generosity; humility; courtesy; unselfishness; good temper; guilelessness; sincerity—these make up the supreme gift, the stature of the perfect man. You will observe that all are in relation to the known, today and the near tomorrow, and not to the unknown eternity. We hear much of love to God; Christ spoke much of love to man. We make a great deal of peace with heaven; Christ made much of peace on earth."

"There is a difference between trying to please and giving pleasure. Give pleasure . . . . For that is the ceaseless and anonymous triumph of a truly loving spirit."

"Things cannot be great. The only greatness is unselfish love. Even self-denial in itself is nothing, is almost a mistake. Only a great purpose or a mightier love can justify the waste."

Program Suggestions:

After your devotions, let the members be distributed into discussion or quest groups of ten or less. To save time and to avoid confusion, it is important that an announcement of the members and the leader of each group be posted beforehand. The leader, of course, should be notified early.

Each leader can then conduct a discussion either according to the following outline or according to his own outline. These group discussions should be concluded early enough that you have time for a general meeting. A member of each group, previously appointed, can then report on the most important points brought out by his group.

I. The requirements of friendship.
  1. What qualities do we desire in our friends?
  2. Which is more important, "To have friends" or "To be a friend"?

II. The technique of friendship. Discuss methods of of being a friend to:
  1. A small child.
  2. A teen-age boy who has broken a window while playing baseball.
  3. A chum of yours who has suffered the loss of a loved one.
  4. An austere old lady who seems to resent even a cheery "God morning" called to her in passing her house.
  5. A Japanese student feeling the pressure of race prejudice.
  6. Father when he comes home from work tired and disgruntled.
  7. Mother when she worries about the family welfare.

III. The results of friendship.
  1. Distinguish between passive and creative friendships.
  2. What far-reaching results might be accomplished through friendships discussed under II?

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Why Pray?

Intermediate C. E. Topic, May 15, 1938

Daily Bible Readings

May 9. The soul craves fellowship with God. Ps. 57:1-3, 7-11
May 10. Pray in need. Ps. 22:1-8
May 11. Pray to be "in tune with the infinite." Rom. 8:26, 27
May 12. Pray because prayer has power. Jas. 5:13-20
May 13. Because prayers are answered. Ex. 14:10-15, 21
May 14. Because prayer gives peace and courage. Dan. 6:10
May 15. Topic—Why Pray? Jas. 5:13-18.

Present the Quiet Hour

This topic and the one for next Sunday offer a splendid opportunity for presenting the value of the Quiet Hour to the Intermediates and urging the importance of making it a part of their daily schedule. Have copies of the Quiet Hour pledge and present it. THE MENNONITE, May 23-1937 has a short dialogue, emphasizing this topic "Why Pray?" A copy of this skit or the Quiet Hour pledge will be sent to anyone upon request by the editor of this department. Address: 1049 West Ave., Reedley, Calif.

Prayer and Praise

Turn to the topical index of your song book and select a few songs under "Prayer." Include at least one that is new. Announcements.

Quiet Worship

Song: "I Need Thee Every Hour"
Scripture Reading: Jas. 5:13-18

Poem:

"We kneel, how weak; we rise, how full of power!
Why, therefore, should we do ourselves this wrong,
Or others—that we are not always strong,
That we are ever overborne with care,
That we should ever weak or heartless be,
Anxious or troubled, when with us is prayer,
And joy and strength and courage are with Thee?"
—Trench

Prayer song: "There Is A Place of Quiet Rest"
Sentence Prayers. (Before the song is sung, suggest several topics for prayer: needs in your church, society or community)

For Topic Discussion

I. Man's Need of Fellowship with God. Ps. 42:1-5

Man was created with a capacity for communion with his Maker. In the garden of Eden the most blessed hours were those of communion with God. St. Augustine said: "The soul is restless until it rests in God." Through prayer our souls are brought in tune with God's spirit. Through prayer we learn to know His will and yield our wills to His. Through prayer we express gratitude for God's daily loving care for us. We confess our dependence upon Him. How do we become conscious of the Divine will through prayer? What effect does the expression of gratitude toward God have upon us? Why do so many people seem to get along without prayer?

II. Jesus' Example

1. He prayed. Mark 1:35; Luke 22:39-46

Jesus' life was one of constant communion with His Father. Yet even He felt the need of having times of quiet for prayer. Jesus prayed before He undertook a great task. He prayed after a strenuous day. He prayed when faced with great temptation.

He is still praying for us. Romans 8:34

2. He taught His disciples to pray. Luke 11:1-4

We need to pray as His disciples did, that we may not yield to temptation.

Why did Jesus feel the need of prayer? What are some things He taught His disciples about prayer?

III. What Prayer Does for Us. Is. 40:31

"I pray because prayer works." That is the experience of many praying people. Through prayer we receive guidance. Prov. 3:5, 6. Prayer gives courage and peace. Dan. 6:10. Prayer relieves the heart strain. Lincoln said: "I have been driven many times to my knees, by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom, and that of all about me seemed insufficient for that day." It is through prayer that we become conscious of Christ's presence with us. When we consider all that prayer can do for us, why do not Christian people pray more? What are some common hindrances?

IV. God Hears and Answers Prayer. Ex. 14:10-15, 21

"Prayer is omnipotent, it can do anything God can do! When we pray God works." God hears and answers every prayer. Though "no" is just as truly an answer as "yes." Some of the greatest promises in the Bible are those made to those who pray. John 14:13, 14. When we think that these words came from the lips of Jesus, who was Truth itself, we wonder why we do not pray more, instead of wondering why we should pray. What are some conditions we must meet if our prayers are to be answered?

JUNIOR CORNER

The Jesus-Hymns I Love

Leader's Meditation

We are touched when we read in the gospels: "And when they had sung a hymn, they went out unto the Mount of Olives." Jesus had eaten his last supper with the disciples. He had poured out his heart to them in the words of John 14. He had finished the discourse by saying, "Arise let us go hence." Probably on the streets of Jerusalem, He continued the heart message of John 15 and 16. Nearing Gethsemane, somewhere along the way, Jesus lifts his hands in prayer committing all things unto the Father (John 17) and then He sings a hymn with his disciples and turns toward Mount Olivet to endure the agony of Gethsemane.

It is precious to know that Christ, too, loved hymns and that He turned also to them as a means of strength. Hymns have always held an important place in the life of man, in the life of the Christian. The hymns we store are treasures that give us strength in many an hour of trial. What a privilege to store within the heart of a child such treasure to which he can resort throughout the years.

The aim for this night is: to awaken within the child a new love for the Jesus-hymns through acquaintance with the story that gave them birth and a study of the treasures which they hold.

Program Suggestions

Call to service by prelude

Opening service:

1. Song in unison: "Sing them over again to me, Wonderful words of Life."
2. Scripture: Leader and group
   a. Leader: Psalm 95:1
      Group: Psalm 96:1
   b. Leader: Psalm 95:2
      Group: Psalm 96:2
   c. Leader: Psalm 95:3
      Group: Psalm 96:3
   d. Leader: Psalm 95:6
      Group: Psalm 96:4
3. Song service in charge of group who has been asked to come ready with a Jesus-hymn they love.
4. Sentence prayers of thanksgiving for these Jesus-hymns.

Mission Minutes

Announcements

Study Period:

There is abundant material on stories of hymns. Select the ones you believe of value to the Junior child and weave these into your program. There could be three steps in each hymn study:

1. The story of the hymn told
2. A study of the words of the hymn
3. The singing of the hymn, sometimes by the group, sometimes by special voices

Very often a hymn is based on a portion of scripture. If so, then this scripture should be used in the study of the words of the hymn. There could be a heart talk at the close of this study: "Worshiping through Song." This could be the leader's opportunity to also stress the point that to talk, to laugh, during singing is not right; that to sing is to draw near to God and to sing is to pray. Show them by leafing through the hymnal, how many, many hymns are prayers. Your service could close with a prayer hymn spoken by one of the best readers of our church. Let the music be played softly while the hymn is spoken and when it is finished let the heads be bowed as you thank God that we may come to Him and that He has been near.

Extracts from a Junior leaders' letter

At the beginning of the year, each Junior received a mite box. Each child then chose a day, either cloudy or sunny and dropped a penny into the mite box on every cloudy or sunny day, which ever they had chosen. This has proved satisfactory as a means of raising money. We would like to help support some girl or boy in our mission fields. Doris Mueller, First Mennonite Church, Halstead, Kansas.

May God bless you and your group in your endeavor to become helpers in the Kingdom work, will be the prayer of all of us that read this.

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST CHURCH OF NEWTON, KANSAS

Dear Editor and Readers of The Mennonite:

Our Sunday morning worship services have been going on as usual, Reverends J. E. Entz and A. Warkentin serving alternately.—Wednesday evening, Feb. 16, we had the Board of Foreign Missions in our church. Missionary Brown of China and Moyer of India spoke very interestingly and inspiringly. Sunday, Feb. 20, Rev. M. M. Horsch of the second congregation of Beatrice preached in English on Mary's breaking the alabaster jar. In the evening Dr. Warkentin preached on watching.

On February 27 we celebrated the Lord's Supper with a very good attendance; more than ever at the spring communion. Rev. Entz preached in both languarges. In the evening Miss Wiens, daughter of our missionary Wiens, very interestingly spoke to the Sunbeam Juniors about India. The senior C. E. had a missionary prayer meeting introduced by missionary Ewert from China, followed by a testimony meeting.

On March 6, in the afternoon and evening, the annual meeting of the Mennonite Teachers' Association of Kansas convened in our church. The large Ladies' Chorus of Hesston College sang beautifully and a string quartet of the Eden congregation played a fine selection. In the evening the Bethel College Choir furnished nice music. Prof. D. Driver of Hesston College presided in the afternoon and Dr. Harshbarger of Bethel College in the evening.—Pres. H. E. Janzen of Tabor College spoke very interestingly on "Educational Factors in the Development of Personality."—The influence of the teacher in the development of personality was very ably presented, "In Grade School", by Reynold Weinbrenner; "In High School", by Dorothea Epp; "In College", by J. Harold Smith.—Pres. Krank Mossman of Southwestern College gave an interesting address on "The Need for Christian Personality in our Modern World."—The collection after the expenses had been deducted was sent to the Mennonite teachers in South America. The meetings were well attended.

Sunday, March 20, Rev. D. J. Unruh of the St. John congregation, Pandora, Ohio, addressed the Sunday school and preached German and English. In the evening the Y.P.C.E.S. of Elbing, Kansas. gave an excellent program. Sunday, April 3, the Junior Choir gave a splendid Easter program in the evening, and Sunday, April 10, in the evening, the Bethel College Choir sang beautifully the "Seven Last Words of Christ."

During Passion week the Protestant churches of Newton held Union Meetings in our church. They were well attended, blessed meetings, different ministers bringing the message. On Thursday evening a union communion was held, in which pastors of different churches officiated. Many partook of the emblems. It was a beautiful, quiet celebration.—On Good Friday we had services in the forenoon. In the large Methodist church there were services from 12 to 3 o'clock in the afternoon. These were very well attended, different ministers spoke on the seven last words of Christ on the cross.

Easter morning we had a blessed sunrise prayer meeting at the graveyard, followed by the usual services morning and evening. In the C. E. meeting Mrs. Andres gave a very interesting, practical address. Our young people's Bible class meets in the church auditorium and the older Bible class on Ephesians, under Dr. Warkentin, in the basement, Wednesday evenings.

Wishing you all God's blessing.

Fraternally, C.v.d.S.

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, LANSDALE, PA.

During this happy Easter season we are reminded anew of a living Christ. As another spring approaches and nature garbs afresh the hillsides and meadows in rare beauty, we cannot help but feel the newness of life and know that He indeed is risen.

During the Lenten season our pastor has very ably presented to the congregation a series of sermons on "Christ". Beginning on March 6, with "Christ and Worship," "Christ and Prayer," "Christ and Suffering," "Christ and Sin," "Christ and Love," "Christ and Faith," and concluding Easter Sunday on "Christ and Hope."

We have been quite busy these past few months, having Rev. D. D. Eitzen with us. Recently Rev. G. T. Soldner, a representative of Bluffton College, delivered a message on "Unanswered Prayer". It, too, was a soul stirring message. On March 20, it was a year since our pastor, Rev. Olin Krehbiel, and family came to us. We are indeed grateful to God for this servant who so faithfully and ably ministers unto our needs.

There have been so many items of interest happening here in Grace Church. The catechetical class is meeting weekly and baptismal services will be held on Pentecost. There are twelve members in the class at present. The Senior Young People's Society recently held a service in the Mongomery County Jail, for the benefit of the prisoners there. We also observed the birthday of our oldest member, Mrs. William Gerhart, long a faithful member of our church. On this occasion a beautiful bouquet of flowers was placed at the altar by her son. Another bouquet beautifully decorated the church a few weeks ago in memory of Mrs. Mary Croll, whom we have greatly missed the past year. The Ladies Aid Society recently took a vacation to visit the Campbell's Soup Co., in Philadelphia. They reported a nice trip and tasty refreshments.

At this writing we are looking forward to our Easter services. The Young People's Society is conducting the annual Dawn Service. Communion will be celebrated at the morning service. In the evening the program will be given entirely to music, including instrumental and vocal solos.

We trust the Lord has richly blessed all of you as he has bestowed blessings on us.—Mildred L. Fretz, Corr.

BETHESDA CHURCH, HENDERSON, NEBR.

In the last two weeks we had Brother H. J. Brown and Brother P. J. Wiens with us. It surely is inspiring to hear the veterans of the Mission field. We are expecting our Field Secretary, Brother H. A. Fast, sometime in May. I had the privilege to visit the church at Madrid, Nebr. Apr. 10. Rev. J. B. Epp is going to take charge of this church there temporarily. They have prospects for a good wheat harvest. Easter Sunday the Community Chorus composed of the three Mennonite churches of the community sang Gaul's "Holy City," over one hundred singers taking part. Over an inch of rain fell Saturday. The Catechism class consisting of 31 young people is doing faithful work. Mrs. D. J. Mierau is on the sick list.—Sincerely, A. W. F.

EAST SWAMP, QUAKERTOWN, PA., APR. 17

We passed a very successful Easter season in our community. Good Friday services were held, for the fifth year, in the Reformed church, sponsored by the various ministers of town. The services, extending from 12:00 to 3:00 p.m., were well attended. We of East Swamp are greatly grieved by the serious illness of our pastor, Rev. W. S. Gottshall, who was not able to be present at these services.

An Easter dawn service was held at 6 o'clock in the St. Johns' Lutheran Church, Spinnerstown, by a group of our young people. The West Swamp, St. John's Lutheran, Trinity Reformed, and East Swamp churches form this group. The address of the morning was delivered by Student Joseph Schantz of the St. John's Church, basing his remarks on "Security." This meeting was well attended.

On April 10 our annual Easter Pageant was held in the church, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Dietz. A series of meetings are being held from April 17 to 24 inclusive, by Mr. Douglass Davies. We pray that many may see Christ clearer than ever before.

We look forward to the annual Eastern District Conference to be held in East Swamp, April 28 to May 1, also to the Junior C. E. Convention, on May 14, starting at 11 a.m., in our church.

We would call attention to all members and friends of our conference to pray for Rev. Gottshall in his sickness, that God may, if it be His will, again restore him to the minisry of others who are sick of soul and discouraged. May we remember Romans 8:28. May we also pray for Rev. Peter J. Boehr who is conducting the services in Rev. W. S. Gottshall's absence.—Corr.

EDEN CHURCH, INOLA, OKLA.

Readers of The Mennonite: The Eden Church had a delightful change in the regular Sunday morning services, April 3, in that a group of students, representing the Missionary Volunteer Band of the John Brown University of Siloam Springs, Arkansas, rendered a program in the place of the regular Sunday sermon period. The group was composed of four ladies, the Misses Dorothey Hedrick, Ethel Mae Squire, Selma Jantz, and Ruby Linblad. Miss Linblad, who is a returned and also a returning missionary from India, is the present sponsor of the group. The program consisted of songs and short talks with scripture reading by the Misses Jantz, Hedrick, and Squire; and a message, in which she laid the work in India very vividly before us, by Miss Linblad. She used Romans 10 to portray the life of the people she works with, and whom she loves and lives for.

Miss Linblad is connected with the Scandinavian Alliance Mission which is using missionaries from many denominations, but all being evangelical. This alliance does work in Africa, India, China, Japan, South America, and Mongolia, having headquarters at Chicago. Miss Linblad has been in India for five and one half years, doing mostly orphanage work. She plans to return there in September, if the Lord is willing.—Inola Reporter.

SAD NEWS

—Under date of April 19, 1938, Brother E. W. Baumgartner, treasurer of the Board of Publication, Berne, Indiana, writes: "It grieves me to report to you the passing away of our good manager's wife, Mrs. Fred von Gunten, who died early this morning through child birth. The little one is in an incubator struggling for life, but the fine young Christian mother has been called by the One whom she loved and served. This is sad, indeed; the whole community is shocked. The departed was only 19 years old."—Brother von Gunten who had been assistant to Bro. F. J. Wiens in the Mennonite Book Concern, became acting manager of the business when Mr. Wiens left it, getting married about the same time. He is a son of Dr. Rufus von Gunten.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—First Church, Upland, Calif.—Our church debt has been wiped out by the generosity of the membership. Over two thousand dollars were paid into the treasury. The bank notes are about to be burned. We all rejoice in this. Now, a note of caution! The March collections have been the lowest in years. If the regular support does not continue, then a new bank note will rise, phoenix-like, out of the ashes of those just burned.—"The Herald."

—Faithful Church Worker Meets Tragic Death.—Adolph Liechty, thirty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Liechty, Berne, Ind., was drowned, recently, as he was canoeing in the flooded waters of the Wabash River, while his companion, Jonas Neuenschwander, was able to swim to shore. Brother Liechty was a fine young Christian, a teacher in the Sunday school and an active worker in C. E. and all auxiliaries of the church. "One outstanding feature about this young man was his happy Christian smile, which is expressed in a bit of verse he left behind,

"I'll solve my problem, then get up and smile and plug right on, know all will be well.' "
—The Vine Press.

—The Grace Church Men's Fellowship, Pandora, O., recently held its spring meeting. Ninety-three men of the church, including a few invited guests, gathered for the session. After a social period the men had a generous dinner in the basement of the church. A committee of men prepared and served the dinner, and a young men's S. S. class waited tables. Group singing directed by chorister Vilas Gerber provided the music. Dr. E. W. Bloomquist, pastor of First Baptist Church, Lima, gave a very appropriate and effective address suited to the occasion.

—First Menn. Church, Geary, Okla.—Our choir, under direction of Edgar Lehman, rendered the cantata, "Redemption Song," by Nolton, on Easter Sunday evening, to a full house. The Bethel College Men's Quartet gave a splendid program Saturday evening, April 16, before a large audience. The Ladies' Aid is observing a Fellowship Gift Day Thursday, April 21.

—Zion Menn. Church, Souderton, Pa.—Thirty-five people were received into our church membership Good Friday evening. This raises our membership to an even 500, not including our inactive list.—Prof. A. C. Shultz, teacher of Bible in our college at Bluffton, has consented to be with us Sunday evening, May 1, to give an illustrated lecture on Palestine.—The cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ," was rendered by our choir with Mr. Maurice Foulk as director Wednesday night. — Death recently called Brother Frank Clymer and Miss Mary Freed from our midst.

—Mountain Lake, Minn.—On Sunday, April 10, Brother and Sister P. P. Dyck of the Bethel Church, surrounded by relatives and friends, celebrated their golden wedding.—The schools of the town, as usual, are planning to give their spring concert on an extensive scale, on April 21. The senior high school chorus and glee clubs, school band, junior high school chorus and glee clubs, a girl's sextet, a boys' octet, etc., will participate.

—Echoes from Pandora, O.—The Grace Church enjoyed a series of Pre-Easter services, with Rev. J. N. Smucker of the Bethel College Church delivering the messages, which proved very helpful and inspiring, and were greatly appreciated. Rev. Smucker's sermon's get a hold on the people.

—First Church, Allentown, Pa., Bulletin, Sunday, April 3.—"This is Mission Sunday. The offerings will go to missions. The following paragraph from a letter by Dr. H. E. Dester of Basna, India, gives an idea as to what is made possible through church contributions: 'At the hospital we have had a good year. Treated over 5000 out patients, including village work and dispensary. There were over 700 hospital patients, 303 minor and 126 major operations, including 67 cataract operations. Have averaged a cataract operation daily so far this year. For most of this past month it has been necessary for some of the patients to live in their carts, on the veranda, or under the trees. We have had 55 major operative cases this year. It is not a pleasant feeling to see them lying on the cement floors or even out under the trees.' To Mother Mine

SOMETIMES I'm cheerful, sometimes I'm glad,
Sometimes I'm lonely, and sometimes I'm sad.
But whatever the mood I am in may be,
There is always YOU to comfort me.

Sometimes when friends have been unkind
And things go wrong — Dear Mother Mine—
There is always home as a safe retreat
And YOU, Dearest Mother, so tender and sweet.

All of my little joys you have kept.
At some of my childish troubles you've wept.
Perhaps, if God wills it, I may love another,
But always YOU best — MY OWN DARLING MOTHER.

—Graycelyn Polstra Augsburger.

What We Esteem in Mother

In observing Mother's Day, what is it that we honor? Why do we pay homage to motherhood? It is evidently not the things that the world counts great that we esteem in mother. It is not intellectual acumen, not greatness in the world of art, not attainments in the professions nor in social life. No, we honor, we crown mothers in so far as they exemplify the life and spirit of Christ. It is the enduring, patient, considerate, sacrificial devotion and love in mothers that grips our heart, the Christ-like love that will not let go, no matter what happens. It is the self-sacrificing attachment and never wearying service for her children that we hold so dear. It is the faith, the trust that she inspires in her children, as the nearest representative of Him who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for to such belongs the kingdom of heaven." Some people live for fame, some for sport, some for wealth, some for power, some for pleasure, but a true mother lives for God and His cause, and for her children.

A Model Mother

HANNAH, the wife of Elkana, a Levite, was sorely distressed, because she had for some years been denied the gift of a child, to make her home what God intended every home to be, a little heaven on earth. She linked her happiness to a home with a child, around which she and her husband's love might twine. Would that more mothers, Christian mothers, too, might aspire to that kind of a home, instead of lavishing their care and attention on pet cats or dogs, or other animals, as some do.

Again Hannah went to God, the giver of all good gifts, in her yearning for a child. One reason why we have so many unhappy homes is, that children are not considered nor received as a gift from God, with the consequent sacred obligations on the part of parents, but rather as a burden if not a nuisance.

Hannah, persisting in her prayers for a child and still not getting it, convinces God that it is not from selfish motives that she craves this gift, but that through it His cause might be served and His glory increased. She made a vow thus, "O Lord of hosts if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thine handmaid,----and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid a child, then I will give him unto the Lord all the days of his life----." I Sam. 1:11. Notice the extremely humble spirit revealed here by Hannah, how much like Mary's, when the angel appeared with the announcement that she was to become the mother of the Savior.

And when at last Hannah got her coveted child, how careful she was in the choice of a name that had meaning to it: Samuel, the one asked for of God. How different the choice of names today! It seems as though even among us Mennonites, who have been known for their simplicity and close walk with God, young parents are tempted to choose outlandish rather than meaningful names for their children. Can that be pleasing to God?

And how beautiful Hannah's song of praise and adoration, I Sam. 2:1-11, after she had received Samuel. How charming also her dedication of the boy to the Lord, "For this child I prayed; and the Lord has given me my petition. . . . Therefore also have I lent him to the Lord; as long as he liveth he shall be lent to the Lord." Notice here the word lend. Did Hannah not promise that she would give the child to the Lord?

Why does she now speak of lending him? Here again she reveals the heart of a true, model mother. Though she was sure of God's protection over her son, she realized that, even in his training for divine service, he would be beset by many and serious temptations, so she was determinted to retain a definite interest and hold upon him that she might continue to have a part in directing his life. And why should not real mothers, even nowadays, retain a directing influence over the lives of their sons, even as grown-ups.

The loveable story of Samuel continues, "Moreover his mother made him a little coat, and brought it to him from year to him, when she came up . . . to offer the yearly sacrifice." I Sam. 2:19. With such care, such love, such painstaking direction on the part of his mother Samuel grew up, and "was in favor both with the Lord and also with men." I Sam. 2:26.

If the world today had a thousand mothers, such as Hannah, to raise Samuels, who knows but what these might bring order and peace where there is chaos, strife, turmoil, distrust, and enmity.

The Two Way Gospel

Rev. 11:15

The Gospel of Christ works in two directions, namely, toward a corrected individual and a corrected social order. If the kingdoms of this world are to become the Kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ, then both individual and society must be taken into account.

In recent years the term "Social Gospel" has been much discussed. A great many people have fallen into the error of holding to the one to the exclusion of the other.

The fact is the Gospel of Christ is both individual and social. Preaching the Gospel is a bit like entering a tunnel in the mountain; no matter at which end we enter, if we keep moving consistently and progressively, we will come out at the other end. No matter at which end a man begins preaching the Gospel, whether individual or social, he is bound, if consistent and thorough, to come out at the other end.

Individual salvation can not be consistently separated from social salvation. Correct the individual and the social order benefits. Correct the social order and the individual benefits. Changing the individual from what he is to what he may be, and changing the social order from what it IS to what it OUGHT to be, is the purpose of the Christian Gospel, and the challenge of Christian preaching. The preacher has a right to expect changes in both individual and society. In a word, he has a right to expect an answer when he prays: "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done on earth."

J. E. Hartzler, Hartford Seminary.

A Telling Mother's Day

SOMETHING was decidedly the matter with the Rogers's house! You could tell it somehow just by looking at the broad bay windows upstairs and the front door swinging idly on its hinges.

Where was the feeling of perfect order that always seemed to hover about the neatly swept walks, the trim smooth curtains, the shining-like-crystal windows? Alas! Curtains in the upstairs windows blew in the slightest whiff of wind, quite free from their restraining fastenings . . . yesterday's papers flapped spinelessly across the porch . . . glasses from last night's lemonade stood on the windowsill in the living room . . . and father's hat lay right where he had left it when he came home last night! In the kitchen the dinner dishes were piled in the sink; left-overs from the roast lay on the meat platter, on top and not in the ice box. And could that streamlet of water from under the ice box mean that the pan had not been emptied?

Yes, decidely it could. It hadn't been emptied at all. Neither had the dishes been washed, nor the beds made, nor the house shaken into shape and set on its feet with all the deft little pats that mother knew so well how to administer after the family had been busy having a good time.

It was "Mother's Day" in good and earnest. For Mrs. Rogers was a wise woman; and every so often she took a complete day off. Away she went to see friends, to attend to little commissions for herself that she had been neglecting, to have a good time—for there were plenty of places where she was always welcome. Her family was warned ahead of time, so that they could arrange their affairs accordingly, for they knew that Mother's day was just as important to her as any of their holidays could be to them.

And could you have been around on the day after one of Mother Rogers's "sprees", I think you would have seen that she was wise in more ways than in merely realizing that she needed a rest now and then. For the air would be rife with children's "Gee, Mother, I couldn't find a thing while you were gone!" and "It's no fun to come home when you're not here, Mother!" and "You won't go away very soon again, will you?" and "I couldn't seem to make things look like you do"—this last from grown-up daughter Sarah.

And maybe the sweetest of all is Dad's blunt, "Guess it's pretty hard to get along without you, Mother. We're pretty used to you, you know", with Dad's embarrassed chuckle at the end.

Oh, it doesn't take long to find out where the cornerstone of the house rests—if Mother takes a day to herself now and then.—A.E.

REV. N. B. GRUBB GONE HOME

On Monday, April 25, at 4:30 p. m., the editor received the following telegram: Rev. N. B. Grubb died 2:00 p.m., funeral Thursday 2:30 p. m.—J. J. Plenert."—Although Rev. Grubb had been ailing for some time this message took us by surprise. Unfortunately THE MENNONITE of issue April 26 had already been printed, hence this sad news reaches our readers a week late. Many of those who have known the departed brother will mourn with the family and pray that God may comfort them in their bereavement. Only a little more than two months ago father Grubb's son, Rev. S. M. Grubb, and only a little more than a year ago another son preceded him in death. Rev. Grubb was the oldest living minister in the General Conference. He would have been 88 years old July 6 next. He was in the ministry 66 years, 40 of these he served the First Church in Philadelphia as its pastor. He was one of the chief promoters of THE MENNONITE and its first editor, and served on the Publication Board 39 years.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

MORE OF THE S. F. PANNABECKER LETTER the gist of which was given last week. If we might be permitted to make a suggestion to some of our foreign missionaries, it would be this: That in their letters intended for possible publication in our papers, they omit details that greatly interest them, there, but hardly the large body of readers thousands of miles away.

At Kaifeng again we found that the missionaries were making great preparations to take care of the refugees. Altogether at the various mission centers they are planning on accepting at least 10,000 people, confined to women and girls, boys under 18 and old men over 55. They pressed us hard to stay and assist them, as they needed a doctor badly, also another man to supervise one more refuge center. As at Chengchow there was somewhat of a pull to help in the badly needed work, but we felt our first responsibility was to our own field, if we could possibly reach it.

The story of the taking of Kai Chow is about as follows: Advance from Taming south started on the 7th, when Nanlo was attacked and taken. On the 8th Tsingfeng likewise fell, and on the 9th Kai Chow was attacked. Most of our workers were in the East Suburb compound at the time. Two decided to come down to Tung Ming while the rest stayed there. There were also 700-800 refugees gathered in the compound. The Japanese first attacked the north gate, then the northwest corner of the city, and continued on to the west gate, southwest corner and finally the south gate. The local official, with his body guard, waited until the last moment and was still in his quarters, when the Japanese troops entered the city. He then left via the east gate which may have given rise to the reports, that a stand was made in the east suburb, causing damage to our place. This is apparently unfounded.

It seems the Japanese treated the workers quite decently. Soldiers have been passing by, off and on, during the daytime, but do not seem to molest folks inside the compound. I have heard no reports that looting occurred in the compound either. The Catholic compound which is on the East Street seems also to have gotten by lightly. They say some soldiers tried to enter, but the priest held them off, even in the face of threats. Afterward the incident was reported to headquarters and an officer sent to investigate. He informed the people that the Japanese were there to protect them and requested all to leave for their homes. Since the food supply was getting short, many left, but it seems that on their way some of the young women were led off by soldiers. The rest scurried back and were afraid to leave. The latest report was that the compound was still well filled and food supply perilously low.

As far as outsiders are concerned, we have no information how they fared, presumably not as well as those in the mission compounds. Christians as members of a recognized body have a better standing and are less liable to suspicion. While doubtless the fact that they have some foreign connections may help some.

The big problem during the coming days is, how to get a semblance of stability. Large numbers of Chinese troops wander around in territory that the Japanese have not occupied, awaiting an opportunity to pounce down on any small garrison, or do whatever damage they can. The Japanese troops on their part have penetrated far inland and have not cleared out the Chinese troops before them . . . It is a safe estimate that the Japanese have not exerted a telling influence toward peace and order in one half of this province which they claim to have taken. In one place north of us, around Shih Chia Chuang, a Chinese general claims control of 18 counties. The big problem for the future of North China is, how peace and order and the processes of legitimate government can be set up and made to function.

NEGLECTED AREAS IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

IV. Prophetic Teaching

The Sunday School has included very little prophetic teaching in its ministry. This is due, no doubt, to fear that the study of prophecy will lead to endless speculations of dates and signs of the times. Because of this neglect, there is excluded from the curriculum of Christian Education a large and important part of divine revelation, and the only safe counterbalance against unwise speculations and visionary experiments. When man excludes prophecy from his field of learning and instruction, he invariably substitutes current prophets and prophecies for the Biblical ones.

Man is not only incurably religious, but is also insatiably iniquisitive about the future. He is never satisfied to consider the future as an unknowable vacuum, consequently there are innumerable deceivers who foist their speculations upon credulous man. Many of these, "blind leaders of the blind", have a generous inclusion of idealism derived from scriptural sources, but rejecting the divine program they involuntarily stamp themselves as false prophets. Why then are intelligent, sincere and respectable people ensnared by them? Having no true knowledge of prophecy they easily become the victims of the false.

The desire to look into and predict the events of the future seems to be innate. The understanding of it is subject to divine revelation; the method of its realization must come from the mind of the Omniscient; while the realization of it must remain in the hands of the Omnipotent. To ignore and to neglect the prophetic revelation is nothing less than folly and opens the door to all manner of heretical "isms". "Despise not prophesyings." I Thess. 5:20. See also II Peter 1:19-21. To reject this revelation is rebellion and leads to apostasy and spiritual anarchy. II Peter 2, and Jude.

To neglect this large area of divine revelation is to say that God took unnecessary pains to give and preserve for us a vision of the future. Would we not thereby earn for ourselves the rebuke that Jesus spoke to the disciples of the Emmaus' road, "O fools and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken."

To believe and to know the great prophetic truths of God's Word, satisfies the longing of the human heart, protects against the folly and remorse of experimentation, stabilizes the believer in times of reverses, and safeguards him against heretical fadists and isms. Prophecy is given for edification, exhortation, and comfort (I Cor. 14:3). "Ye do well that ye take heed." Neglect is dangerous.

Gifts to Colleges

by Ed. G. Kaufman

Baldwin-Wallace College.—President Wright announces a gift of $50,000 by Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kulas of Cleveland, Ohio.

Luther College.—A legacy of about $25,000 was recently received from the estate of C. N. Snedsrud of Lansing, Iowa.

Boston University.—A gift of $73,500 in securities was received anonymously by the Boston University.

Kenyon College.—A gift of $30,000 from the late Ella G. Whiting of Columbus, Ohio, has been announced by President Gordon K. Chalmers, of Kenyon College.

College of William and Mary.—Announcement of a gift of $50,000 to the College of William and Mary has been made by John Stewart Bryan.

Rutgers University.—Rutgers University receives $791,880 from the estate of James Nielsen, according to an appraisal filed in Surrogate's Court, January 7, in Utica, New York.

Grove City College.—Grove City College has been remembered generously in the will of Mr. William W. Stewart of Sewickley, Pennsylvania. The will provides that three thousand shares of Harbinson-Walker Company common stock, current worth approximately $65,000 are willed to the college.

Erskine College.—W. H. McQuiston of Monticello, Arkansas, has given to Erskine College, at Due West, South Carolina, the sum of $20,000.

Earlham College.—Gifts and bequests received during the past few months amount to about $30,000.

Colby College.—The treasurer estimates that the amount to be received from wills now in process of settlement will amount to at least $350,000. An increasing number of people are known to be writing into their wills bequests either for endowment or buildings.

Wooster College.—According to the will of Atlee Pomerene, former RFC chairman and Senator, this college will benefit to the extent of $30,000.

Marvelous Opportunities.—"I am not a beggar," President Harper of Chicago University once told an audience to which he had been introduced as "the world's greatest beggar." "I have never begged for a dollar in my life, but"—and the words came with quiet emphasis, "I have given my friends some marvelous opportunities."

The above items clearly indicate that the day for gifts to our church colleges is not over.—Educational News Bulletin, April, 1938.

— First Church, Reedley, Calif.—The good news has reached us that Bethel College has been admitted to The North Central Association. This is an important event, not only in the history of Bethel College but also of our entire work being done by the General Conference.

We Reap What We Sow

Whatever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.—Gal. 6:7b.

This is a truth which the history of men, both as individuals and as nations, amply proves. When by the treaty of Versailles, France in particular, and England as a willing accomplice, extracted from Germany the last pound of flesh and laid her so low as to leave her grovelling in the dust for decades to come, the seeds were sown that have produced the disasterously abnormal conditions in the world today, with hatred, malice, fear, suspicion, vengeance, murder and destruction lurking everywhere. And we, who unfortunately had to acquiesce in the terms of that unholy treaty, although we had intended to help make the world safe for democracy and to end all wars, are being swept along into this maelstrom which may carry civilization to its final doom almost any time. Our representative, sponsor of the greatest democracy in the world, had to sit meekly by, when the spokesmen of the other two victorious democracies gorged themselves with new possessions, while a power like Italy had to be satisfied with the crumbs that fell from the ?peace-table?. Should the world wonder that that nation along with enslaved Germany, sought and found ways out of their subordinate condition, and onward to new power. Who but the democracies that forged that peace are largely to blame for the rise of the totalitarian states of today. Instead of sowing some seeds of democratic goodwill and neighborliness, as our representative had planned and hoped to do, they sowed seeds that produced dictatorships that now endanger their existence.

But, somehow, these dictator-controlled countries are succeeding in working out their destinies in harmony and concerted effort, while the democracies are torn with internal strife, strikes, clashes between classes, etc. Of France a reliable Swiss paper says, "There are strikes upon strikes, some of the largest factories being beset by sit-dawn strikers. The land is becoming badly impoverished, the franc continues to drop; the farming industry is being ruined; too little work is being done; the people's front, with its contrary attitude against the efforts of the government to improve conditions, is becoming a menace to the existence of this land with its small industries and small farms; and communism is sowing seed that makes recovery more difficult. The dragon-seed that was sown in 1919 has shot up and is yielding its fruit. The rise of the European dictatorships can be explained solely on the basis of the tyrannically coercive terms of the treaty of Versailles."

And yet there is a good deal of talk in Europe, France and England, and even on this side of the Atlantic, about the three great democracies combining in an effort to combat the dictatorships. In this connection it is reassuring to hear what Ex-president Hoover who just recently returned from Europe has to say. He holds, for Great Britain, France and the United States to combine to protect themselves against fascist dictatorships, "involves the pledge of some sort of military action by the U. S. with other powers. More than this, we would be fostering the worst thing that can happen to civilization, that is the building of a war between government faiths and ideologies.—This would result in combining the autocracies against the democracies. It would have all the hideous elements of old religious wars. We should have none of it. We can never herd the world into paths of righteousness with the dogs of war."

While Mr. Hoover deplores the organization of the totaliterian states, he emphasizes very strongly the fact that the U. S. must maintain the same neutral attitude toward these states as toward others, if we want to help maintain peace. The form of government that the people over there choose is their concern, not ours. His observations may be summed up as follows: 1. A few hundred million Europeans have lost the freedom of the press and of speech.—2. A general armament race is in progress between the important states.—3. All state treasuries are struggling with huge deficits. Inflation is threatening some of the countries.—4. The influence of the totalitarian states in all Europe has grown perceptibly.—5. The League of Nations has flatly failed in its effort to create more peaceful relations in Europe.—6. Everywhere there are fears of coming wars.—7. In different countries terrorism and disturbances have greatly increased,

Sunday School Lesson

TESTING DISCIPLESHIP BY SERVICE

Mark 10:17-31

Introduction

The lesson speaks particularly about possessions and the giving of them for religious and charitable purposes, as a test of discipleship. In truth however, this goes far beyond mere material matters. It is the spirit in which we possess and the purposes for which we use possessions, that counts. This is the fundamental teaching to the inquiring man in our lesson.

A Man's Vital Question vs. 17-20

After Jesus and the disciples had left the house in Capernaum, a man came in haste with a vital question (v 17), which implied that he believed that eternal life is to be obtained by things we do—an earned reward. He was sincere, earnest, good morally, of noble purpose. He addressed Jesus in the courteous manner of speaking to any great teacher, showing his confidence in Him. Jesus saw that the man did not see the full force of the words, "good Master," and wished to enlighten him in His answer (v18). God alone is truly good. The man did not see Jesus as God. His words and miracles should have shown him that He was more than merely a "good Master" and teacher. Jesus is here rebuking all superficial thinking about Him by people of our day.

Jesus refers him to the commandments (v 19), to those referring to our dealings with others. The self-confident He sends to the Law; those leading this man to see himself. These touch on the fundamental things in life. Without doubt, the man was quite honest in his reply (v 20). We can not doubt his sincerity. The Law had been his guide from youth. From the Law standpoint, he was perfect. Jesus had been teaching a more lofty conception of life, which this man had doubtless heard.

One Vital Thing Lacking vs. 21-22

Jesus looked on him earnestly, tenderly, searchingly. He loved his sincerity and evident earnestness (v 21). He so looks on us. He, in love, spake plainly to him, recognizing his good qualities, frankly telling him that he lacked the one thing most needful to receive eternal life. Jesus asked two things of this man. He was pressing deep into his life, leading him to see that he had his heart set on his possessions. They were standing between him and the eternal life he desired. The "one thing lacking," was, putting his complete trust in Jesus, supreme love for Him. Eternal life demands personal qualifications of heart and spirit in this life. We need to watch ourselves. The man went away sad at heart (v 22), his riches were his idol. All his life thus far, he had a desire for "eternal life." Now he came to the real test, he failed. Rather than give up his earthly treasures, he lost his soul. He took issue with Jesus.

Dangers of Possessions vs. 23-27

Jesus plainly tells (vs 23,24) that possessing riches so easily robs the possessor of the Christ-like virtues of faith and trust in Him; so easily leads to a loss of spirituality and deadening of sympathy for the poor and needy. It is extremely difficult for one who loves riches to enter the kingdom of heaven (v25). Riches have cut many off from God. It is possible for God by His grace, to save the one who has been trusting in his riches (v27).

Heaven Rewards Sacrifice vs. 28-31

Peter, speaking for the twelve, thinks of all they had sacrificed to follow Jesus (v28). Jesus acknowledges the acceptableness of their spirit and service as disciples and assures them of their reward (v30). Kingdom entrance requires separation here from all that is wrong and sinful in this life. It may even mean much of real sacrifice of that which is dear to us. The reward is certain. It is eternal. It is for all who render service of self to God and man.

Fellowship of Reconciliation

2929 Broadway, New York City

Dear Editor of The Mennonite:

May I appeal through your columns that at least a thousand ministers will write me that they will speak on Memorial Sunday on "Keep America Out of War." The war policies and the war psychology of the Washington administration in these days must be met by concerted efforts for peace. If these are not to come from the church in America today, we shall once more be confronted with the demand that "preachers present arms" tomorrow. I know that there are thousands of ministers who leave no uncertainty in the minds of their own people as to their convictions on this matter of the seriousness of the problem. But why not, for once, speak together?

Such a united voice would be heard far beyond the bounds of any one parish. Indeed, if one thousand pastors speak together even the ears of Washington, so quick to hear whispers of war and so deaf to the shouts for peace, will be compelled to listen.

Sunday, May 29th, is a particularly appropriate day, not only because of the patriotic implications of Memorial Day, but because on this week-end in Washington a great conference of peace, church and labor groups will be convening also to demand that the United States remain out of war. May I ask every pastor who will join in this united effort to drop me a line, even a postcard, at 2929 Broadway, New York, saying, "You can count on me." — Sincerely, Harold E. Fey.

Bible Conference at Newton, Kansas

May 15 to 22, Incl.

You are cordially invited to come and partake of the great spiritual blessings which await you at the above Bible conference.

The opening meeting will be held on Sunday, May 15, at 2 p.m. at the Newton City Auditorium.

The speakers which already have acknowledged their agreement to come are: Dr. Max I. Reich, Philadelphia, he will, besides other themes, speak on "The Message of the Psalms of Israel"; Dr. P. R. Schroeder, Freeman, South Dakota; Dr. H. W. Lorenz and Rev. Abr. Unruh, Tabor College, Hillsboro, Kansas; Rev. Dan. Unruh, Pandora, Ohio. Additional speakers will be announced in forthcoming issues.

If you are prevented from attending the conference personally, tell your friends and remember the work in your daily prayers.

The committee of the Christian Bible Conference Association, Newton, Kansas.

Doctrinal --- Devotional

CAN WE MAKE OUR CROSSES REDEMPTIVE?

Some Bible teachers say we can, and we should make our crosses redemptive, but they give no scripture for this. Nor can I find any scripture to support this. If any one can, I would be thankful to hear from him, because I do not wish to teach or preach anything that is not scriptural, especially on a doctrine that is so central as that of the cross of Christ, which determines all our other thinking about the gospel.

In an article in the last issue of "The Mennonite" the statement is made that we may "transform them (our daily crosses) into instruments of redemption". The writer evidently uses the word redemption as identical with salvation. If I understand the scriptures, it makes a distinction between the two terms, so that redemption is limited to what Christ did on the cross, namely, as he himself explains, that he gave his life as a "ransom". The word redemption expresses ransom both etymologically and scripturally, and is never applied to merely human beings, when speaking of redemption from sin. On the contrary, it is expressly stated that such a ransom is impossible: "None of them can by any means redeem his brother, nor give to God a ransom for him". Ps. 29:8.

We should all be soul-savers, but none of us can be a soul-redeemer. We should even be willing to die for others, to help save them, but such a death would be only that of a martyr, dying for the truth. Christ's death was also a martyr's death, but much more. Peter was a martyr, and was crucified, but that did not make him a redeemer. The Paschal lamb was to be without blemish. So was Christ. If Israel in Egypt had disregarded this and had taken any lamb without regard to blemish, the blood on the door posts would not have protected them from the angel of death.

We as members of the body of Christ have to suffer with him as his witnesses. There is yet much lacking in this element of the suffering of Christ. Paul was anxious to help "fill up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ." The context shows clearly that this is a suffering as witness, not as redeemer. It has a saving value, because it makes the testimony convincing and effective, but it has no redemptive value. Redemption has been accomplished once for all on the cross of Christ. But the work of salvation is still going on. Salvation is a more general term, and does not always imply a ransom as redemption does.

My only purpose in writing this is to prevent confusion, and to emphasize Christ as the only Redeemer.

In love, P. H. Richert.

THE DOCTRINE OF THE TRINITY

Dr. A. McCaig,

Principal Emeritus of Spurgeon's College

We have seen how Christ's teaching about God, joined with His utterances about the Personality and Deity of the Holy Spirit, and His witness concerning Himself as equal with the Father, leads definitely to the conclusion that the Divine Being must be conceived of as a Trinity. This doctrine is undoubtedly mysterious, and transcends our human reasoning, but that it stands plainly revealed in the teaching of the New Testament generally cannot reasonably be gainsaid. The Apostles taught by Christ, and, inspired by His Spirit, clearly teach the Deity of Christ and of the Holy Ghost, while holding to the Unity of God, so that there is no escape from the conclusion that they held the doctrine of the Trinity. It comes out clearly in such passages as Eph. 2:18, 20-22; Eph. 4:4-6; Rev. 1:4, 5, while it is crystallised in the baptismal formula and in the Apostolic Benediction: "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the Communion of the Holy Ghost be with you all."

The Doctrine transcends Reason, but does not Contradict it.

But note that while this mysterious doctrine transcends reason, it by no means traverses reason. It passes beyond our reasoning powers, but it cannot be shown to be opposed to these reasoning powers. Christian philosophy has found helpful analogies in Nature which can be used to illustrate the great subject, though they may not explain it. Thus Augustine illustrated it by the analogy of the human mind, which knows itself, and loves itself, so that there remains a trinity—mind, love, and knowledge, and this is not compounded together by any commingling; although they are both each severally in themselves and mutually all in all. So he sought to make the doctrine clear by distinguishing in God—the Father, as He Who loves; the Son, as He Who is loved; and the Holy Ghost as the bond of love between the two: amans (loving), amatus (loved), et mutuus amor (and mutual love). Space will not permit the mention of other analogies drawn by reverent philosophical minds, such as Aquinas, Richard St. Victor, and, in later days, Lacordaire and Dr. Joseph Cook.

The Trinity revealed in Relation to Redemption

On this great matter it seems well to follow the great Reformers, Luther and Calvin, who cared little for speculations about the Trinity, and desired rather to rest in the plain statements of the Word. Luther, e.g., maintaining that we should, like little children, stammer out what the Scriptures teach, that Christ is truly God, that the Holy Ghost is truly God, and yet there are not three Gods, or three Beings. The most significant fact about the doctrine is that it is revealed in relation to redemption. As one has well said, "God has revealed Himself to us in the distinction of Father, Son, and Spirit, and our faith rests upon this threefold revelation, and sees in it the revelation of one and the same God, and when we profess our faith in the Triune God, we name the one great historical drama of Redemption. The circuit of revelation terminates in the Divine Three. What the Father demands the Son performs; and what the Son effected, the Holy Spirit appropriates to us." Wherever the doctrine of the Trinity is given up, the Christian truth of Redemption through atonement is also abandoned.

The Doctrine of the Trinity Light-giving.

It is surely a gratifying thought that this great doctrine does not present itself merely as a mystery, but as a revelation, an unfolding of great principles which dominate the whole domain of salvation—as, indeed, a solution of other mysteries. It may be compared to the luminous cloud of the Shekinah, which, while in itself a mysterious and marvellous symbol of God, into the heart of which only the favoured leader could enter, yet was the means of shedding light upon Israel's path, and leading the people in the way of salvation.

NEED OF WORSHIP

He who neglects worship neglects that which separates man from the birds, the animals, the insects, the fishes.

The unworshipful man is an anthropoid with a highly developed brain.

He may be a paragon of morality, but so are bees and ants.

He may provide for his family, but so do hyenas and orangoutangs.

Worship lifts men to the next level of experience and justifies their existence as men.

The neglect of worship is psychical suicide.

Intelligent worship is the most remarkable achievement of which a human being is capable.—Dwight Bradley.

Hartford Theological Seminary

Hartford Theological Seminary has become a center for Mennonites training for Christian service during the past few years. This year there are a group of eleven in the "Mennonite Group" at Hartford. This group has been meeting weekly for the past two years to discuss the history and polity of the Mennonites.

Last year the group discussed the doctrine and polity of the Mennonites. They collected the various constitutions and by-laws of the different conferences. They examined these and tried to ascertain what a typical Mennonite polity should contain.

This year they have been studying the history of the Anabaptists, especially the life of Menno Simons; the history of the General Conference and the contributions to Hymnology by the Mennonites. Two of the group will be leaving this year. Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt and Mr. and Mrs. Verdi Reusser. There is one middler in the group, Paul R. Shelly. There are three juniors this year: Russel Mast, Hiram Hilty, and Erwin Albrecht. The group is very fortunate in having Dr. E. E. S. Johnson, Waldo Professor of Medieval and Modern Church History at Hartford and pastor of the Hereford Mennonite Church, Bally, as one of the leaders in the discussions. Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Hartzler have made a definite contribution to the group during the past two years.

Felix Schrag, South Dakota, was absent this year, having been appointed to serve for a year as associate pastor in Pasco, Washington. He will return to Hartford next year. George Stoneback, a middler last year, was elected to serve a year as pastor of the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Goshen, Indiana, and has since accepted a call to become the regular pastor of that charge.

Although this group at Hartford is separated geographically from the Mennonite communities, they are not separated from the Mennonite faith but are learning more and more to revere the faith of their fathers and to dedicate their lives to follow in their train.—By Paul R. Shelly.

"THE CHRISTIAN'S TWENTY-THIRD PSALM"

The Lord is my banker; I shall not fail.

He maketh me to lie down on gold mines. He giveth me the combination of his tills. He restoreth my credit.

He showeth me how to avoid lawsuits for his name's sake.

Yea, though I walk in the very shadow of debt, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy silver and thy gold they rescue me. Thou preparest a way for me in the presence of my collector.

Thou fillest my barrels with oil; my measure runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will do business in the name of the Lord.—Selected by Rev. L. R. Westerberg.

Worthwhile Ways of Reading the Bible

The Bible is all of mankind's greatest treasure, but in order to enjoy it, IT MUST BE READ. Why not resolve to read the Bible more intensively?

Read the Bible with the spirit of Mary who sat at Jesus' feet and drank in the words. Read it as if you were listening to the deep melodies of a great organ, and after a bit you will find your own heart singing a nobler tune.

If you have been reading only casually, a good place to start would be the Gospel of St. Luke and Acts, relating the events and the Person that mark the turning point of human history. Follow with the other Gospels, letters of Paul, Psalms, etc. But do not try too soon to master it all; in reading the Bible, you are not cramming for an examination, but living with a friend.

Do not be ashamed if you cannot understand all of it. God does not expect you to know everything, but everything which is essential to life's deepest joy and greatest growth is open to the true and earnest mind.

Read and re-read the sections of the Bible thoroughly for light on practical problems instead of reading it all hurriedly. To get the benefit of the Bible, you need, not a snap shot, but a time exposure.

Read it for light on personal problems—friendship, purpose in life, financial perplexities, anxiety over loved ones. The Gospels, Psalms, and Epistles should prove especially helpful here.

As you study each scene, think where you—caring for the things you care for—would have been in that scene, had you lived then.

Read to understand thoroughly a single character, his motive, his hope, and his ambition.

Take a great word or phrase and trace its meaning through the Bible, e. g. "faith," "glory of God," "patience," "prayer," 'grace."

If you want to read the Bible all the way through, do it for what it will do for you and not for the sake of having done it.

Read the Bible by yourself, but if possible, also with companions. The richest experiences of life must be shared.

When in sorrow, anxiety, or fear, go to the Bible for help. Although it is not primarily a shelf of medicine, it is daily food for daily needs.

For in God's providence, this is your book. Men have labored incessant hours, spent all they had, gone foot-sore and weary to an exile's rest, died in agony a martyr's death, that you might have it.

The Bible is not simply a record, it is a MESSAGE! READ IT! SHARE IT!

(Above is a guide-sheet recently issued to a group of students during special Bible Week.)

ELDER BROTHER

By Lida Marie Erwin

I've always felt that He who died for men
Wants not the servile pose, the bended knee,
But wants His own to walk with Him again
As did the men of yore in Galilee;
Prefers the title Brother, Neighbor, Friend
Prefers to walk in humble ways and lend
To that of King, whom men adore yet fear;
Encouragement and helpfulness and cheer.

I think we should not worship Him as one
Who dwells apart in some far-shining star:
He's one who helps in trouble, shares in fun,
And feels our heartthrobs every place we are,
And drinks with us the sweet or bitter cup;
And if perchance we fall, He helps us up!

Being Popular Without Sacrificing High Ideals

I Cor. 13:4-7; John 8:29; 2 Tim. 2:22-25
Young People's Topic for May 22, 1938

Meditations:

M., May 16. Jesus, Friend of all. Luke 15:1-7.
T., May 17. Silent, but true to the truth. John 19:7-11.
W., May 18. Popular, but steadfast. Acts 4:13-22.
T., May 19. Keep away from evil-doers. Prov. 1:7-19.
F., May 20. The habit of high living. 1 Tim. 6:6-12.
S., May 21. Popularity is fickle. Matt. 21:1-11; 27:19-25.

Suggested Hymns

"I would be true", "In Christ there is no East or West"

This should be an unusually interesting program because it deals with the universal strivings for self-assertion and social approval. Popularity is pursued by some like an elusive will-o'-the-wisp; on others it descends seemingly of its own accord. Why? How? What brings it? Is it right to wish for it? Bring your perplexed queries. With open minds and consecrated hearts face them honestly and try to find answers for at least some of them.

Program Suggestions:

Invite a speaker for this program. She may be one of the teachers in your community, the pastor's wife, or some other woman of experience and understanding to talk about the ever-present urge to be popular.

The woman you invite may prefer to lead a discussion and in her summary incorporate her ideas concerning various questions. Either way, the program will perhaps include:

A. Various Types of Popularity.

1. The "hail-fellow-well-met" who is always exuding exuberance. He delights people because of his constant cheerfulness. Or does he?

2. The flatterer who obtains his following by gushing complimentary phrases.

3. The dependable person who is always eager to perform the thoughtful courtesies that lighten our burdens.

4. The capable lassies who can bake the best cakes for the Sewing Society suppers, who can embroider the nicest linens for the bazaar, who can plan the most interesting programs, who can coach entertainments and direct the choir.

5. The understanding soul who has found his greatest joys in the wells of his deepest sorrow: who is always ready to listen to others' griefs and gayeties; who imparts life and hope to others through his own godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness.

B. Popularity and Christian Ideals.

1. In any community a person will need to change some of his habits to adjust himself to his neighbors. "When in Rome, do as the Romans do." How far should such adjustments be carried?

2. With whom do I want to be popular?

C. Techniques of Popularity.

1. Personal appearance. What is a healthy attitude toward carefulness of grooming and choice of clothes?

2. Etiquette. How deeply should I concern myself with developing social graces and skills?

3. Courtesy. Aside from formal politeness, how can I develop an awareness of the other person's casual needs?

4. Love, patience, meekness. What experiences in life should help me to grow in these qualities?

D. A Balanced View of Life.

1. What things in life are more important than popularity?

2. Where does popularity fit into the composite picture of a spiritually healthy life?

How Should We Pray

Intermediate C. E. Topic, May 22, 1938

Daily Bible Readings

May 16. Pray earnestly. Jas. 5:16.
May 17. Pray humbly. Luke 18:9-14.
May 18. Pray persistently. Luke 18:1-8.
May 19. Pray believing that God hears. 2 Chron. 6:16-21.
May 20. "Prayer without ceasing." I Thess. 5:17; Eph. 6:16-21.
May 21. Pray with kindness. Matt. 5:44.
May 22. Topic — How should we pray? Matt. 6:5-14.

Pre-Prayer Circle

James 5:18. The topic is prayer. Make this a time of sincere, earnest prayers. Write on slips of paper special calls for prayer. Many of these can be taken from our church papers. Almost every letter from our missionaries ends with a plea for prayer. Include some items for thanksgiving. Allow each one time to read his slip, then ask them to pray audibly or silently. This will take time for preparation, but will put new life and interest into the prayers.

A Quiet Hour Help

A small booklet issued quarterly by David C. Cook Co., Elgin, Ill. and called "The Quiet Hour" will be a great help to your Intermediates in their devotional life. It is only twenty cents per year. Send for a sample.

How Should We Pray (A quiet hour presentation)

After your opening Song Service and announcements, explain that the presentation shows how the Quiet Hour should be kept. First, meditation and worship. Second, reading the Bible for His message. Third, prayer. Choose one who can sincerely enter into the spirit of this presentation to give it. Young people learn by observing others. This can mean much in giving them an understanding of the devotional life.

1. Meditation. Scene: Girl seated with bowed head, while someone behind the scene reads the following verses: Ps. 46:10; Josh. 1:8; Ps. 1:1-2; Ps. 19:14. Followed by the song "Near to the Heart of God," sung behind the scene.

2. Bible Study. Scene: Same as above, after song is sung she opens a Bible and reads. The following verses are read: Ps. 119:18; Ps. 110:11; Ps. 27:11. Follow by song, "Open My Eyes That I May See"

3. Prayer. Scene: Girl kneels while the following verses are read: Matt. 11:23; Mark 1:35; Matt. 6:6; Isa. 40:31. Follow by song "Sweet Hour of Prayer" or some other appropriate prayer song.

The entire presentation might be concluded by the singing of "Take Time to Be Holy." Subdued lights add to the effectiveness of the presentation.

Discussing The Topic

1. The Leader's part. Use the Scripture reading Matt. 6:5-14 for the basis of your talk. We may feel the need of prayer and yet not know how to pray. One time after Jesus had been praying, His disciples came to Him and said, "Teach us to pray." Our topic suggests a desire to learn how to pray. Jesus taught his disciples by example and by illustration. His praying was different than that which the disciples saw all around them. Bring out especially the teaching in verses 5-7 of the lesson. What does it mean for your prayer life.

2. Use the Daily Readings for discussion, turning the topics into questions. What are the conditions of effective praying in Jas. 5:16? How do we express humility in prayer? Luke 18:9-14.

Closing Moments

Story: Years and years ago there lived in Copenhagen, Denmark, a young man by the name of Bertel Thorwaldson. In his humble home he learned to shape clay, to cut marble, and to make simple, beautiful statues. After studying in Italy he returned to Denmark to make some statues for the church which he loved. The great blocks of marble were brought to him, and as the days went by they grew into wonderful statues, thirteen of them, statues of the Christ and His twelve disciples. When they were finished and placed in the Church of the Frauenkirche in Copenhagen, they seemed almost alive and ready to help in the beautiful services which were held there.

One day there came to the church a group of people who had been searching Europe for the great and beautiful. Down the long aisle they came, stopping often to look at the face of the Christ. How gentle He seemed! How loving His face! How tender His whole attitude! So, as they gazed silently at the statue, no one noticed the little old lady who helped to keep the church clean, standing, also at the foot of the statue. That little lady loved the beautiful Christ and she wanted others to know Him as she knew Him. So she watched them as they studied it. Standing close to her was one of the young girls of the party. Touching her dress, the little old lady said, "When you stand there you cannot see how beautiful the Christ is. You must not only look into His face, but you must look into His eyes. And that you can only do from your knees."

It is upon our knees in prayer that we begin to realize the beauty of the Christ, in all His tenderness and love.

Special song: "Teach Me to Pray, Lord."
Benediction.

Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God.—Bible.

JUNIOR CORNER

THE LEADER'S ASSURANCE:

"And I know
That when I come unto you,
I shall come in the fullness of the blessing of Christ." Rom. 15:29.

What a wonderful assurance to have! Paul had it—Paul the great worker of the Christian Church. Such an assurance, seems to me, is the result of

1. A thorough preparation on God's part made possible because of
   a. communion with Him
   b. a readiness to serve
   c. a yielding of self as a vessel for the Spirit
   d. an obedience to the guidance of the Spirit
2. A thorough preparation on my part by
   a. a thorough study of topic materials
   b. a careful selection of best methods to be used
   c. an understanding of the group to be served
   d. a right relationship to God through constant prayer—"not I but Christ."

What a joy to face the next meeting, to face the next appointment with: "I know that when I come unto you, I shall come in the fullness of the blessing of Christ."

The Jesus-Pictures I Love

Program Suggestions for May 22, 1938

Call to worship by prelude

Worship period

1. Rise for minute prayer by leader asking God's presence in each temple of the heart
2. Sing in unison: "The Lord is in His holy temple"
3. Group song service and scripture reading. This could be put on the board and instead of announcing, the leader could point to the next song or scripture to be used.
   a. A voice reading Ezekiel 34:11, 14, 15, 26
   b. Group singing: "Lord, I hear of showers of blessing." verses 1, 2, 3
   c. Group reading Psalm 23
   d. Group singing. "The Lord is my Shepherd", verses 1 and 4
   e. A voice reading, John 10:14, 27, 28
   f. Group singing, "Saviour like a shepherd lead us", verses 1, 3, 4
   g. Group reading, Jer. 31:3
   h. Group singing, "O How I Love Jesus"
   i. Prayer of thanksgiving for God's love

Mission Minutes: There was so much in the last News and Notes that your group should know and in behalf of which you can now lead your group to be helpers through prayer.

Announcements

Study period:

Aim: To show the beauty of Jesus-pictures and to find through each a new love for the Jesus portrayed therein.

1. Sing in unison: "I Would See Jesus"

2. Seeing Jesus tonight: After introducing the theme of the evening, there could now follow a series of picture studies by juniors. The Standard Sunday School roll is a rich source to choose from. These are to be Jesus-pictures, so each picture selected should have Christ in it. Your theme in each picture study could be: "How I see Jesus." The Bible story, of course, should be told first by the junior presenting "his" picture and then his thoughts on how he sees Jesus. There could be a number of special music after each picture study which supplements the picture theme.

Closing Service:

Let the lights be put out as the piano plays "My Jesus I Love Thee" very softly. Before the children, unveil the picture of "Christ in Gethsemane" (Hoffman). Light candles near it, illumining the same. Then by leader or by guest let there be a heart talk on Christ's love for us. Close with the memory verse: "If ye love me, keep my commandments." With lights still out, let the piano play "Nearer, Still Nearer" through once while all eyes are upon the Saviour and hearts are meditating His love. Let the group then sing verse one. Close in a prayer of gratefulness.

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST CHURCH, ABERDEEN, IDAHO, APRIL 25

Dear Readers of The Mennonite:

The glad Easter season has come and gone, and we were again reminded in a very real way of the suffering, death and resurrection of our dear Lord and Master. May we be more willing to suffer and sacrifice for Him. Our pastor, Rev. P. A. Wedel, brought us a very inspiring Easter message in the morning, and in the evening the cantata, "Bright Easter Morn," was rendered by some seventy voices of the various churches in town to an appreciative audience of over five hundred.

We are very happy to report that the much needed addition to our church is nearing completion, through the untiring efforts of many of our members, who so faithfully gave of their time and means. We expect to dedicate it in the near future.

On March 3 our Mission Society and King's Daughters observed World's Day of Prayer, with an appropriate program and an all day quilting. The Mission Society is planning a Mission program for the evening of May 1, at which time a pageant entitled "Spirit of Mission" will be given by the Intermediate girls.

An interesting and enjoyable event of the season was the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Horsch, celebrated on the evening of March 9, at our church by a large group of friends.

Our congregation is sincerely grateful to God for the blessings He has bestowed upon us, and we ask His continued blessings upon our church and our pastor, that we may have His guidance as we strive to work together as co-workers with Christ. For we know, only as we trust in Him are we made strong.—Corr.

BETHEL CHURCH, MOUNTAIN LAKE, MINN.

This spring the Bethel Church and the neighboring churches have been richly blessed through different visitors bringing inspiring messages. No one in Mountain Lake and vicinity will come before God with the excuse that he had had no opportunity to hear the gospel message.

From April 1-10 Rev. Ralph Underwood conducted evangelistic meetings in our church. The two meetings on Friday and Sunday evening were held in the high school auditorium, for the audience outgrew the church. On Sunday night, when he told the story of his conversion, even the auditorium was unable to accommodate all the people. Rev. Underwood is standing firmly upon the Word of God and is fighting the false "isms". The visible results were not as great as some may have expected them to be, but who can count the unseen blessings and results.

On Good Friday Communion Services were observed. An impressive service for all believers. At the Easter sunrise service, Rev. Albert Schultz gave a short Easter message. Rev. P. J. Wiens, missionary from India, occupied the pulpit on Easter morning. During the week Rev. Wiens spoke in the different General Conference churches in this vicinity. Our pastor has again started with the instruction of the catechism class. May Christians pray that many may choose Christ as their guide through life.—Helen Penner.

In Memoriam

SISTER FRANCES ZERGER, daughter of John and Katherine Schwartz, was born in Kotozafka, Russia, June 6, 1866. She came to America with her parents as a child. They settled in McPherson County, Kansas. On October 3, 1880, she was baptized by Rev. Jacob Stucky and joined the Mennonite church at Moundridge, Kansas.

From there she moved to Reno County where she joined the First Mennonite Church at Pretty Prairie. On October 2, 1895, she was married to Jacob Zerger, a widower with eight children. The Lord blessed their union with six children. Later they moved to Oklahoma. There they helped to organize a new Mennonite church. After the Lord had taken her husband from her side, she moved back to Pretty Prairie.

Besides her trials as a widowed mother, she took sick with cancer. After much suffering, the Lord took her home on March 17, 1938. She attained the age of 71 years, 9 months, and 11 days. She leaves to mourn her death a stepmother, 7 stepchildren, 6 children, 4 brothers, 5 sisters, and many friends and relatives.

SUSANNA GOERING, daughter of Christian Voran and Katharina Goering Voran, was born on June 6, 1864 in the province of Wolhynia, Poland. With her parents and others she immigrated to this country in the fall of 1874. They settled in the vicinity of Moundridge, Kansas, where she lived the rest of her life.

She was baptized on April 19, 1878, and became a member of the Hoffnungsfeld Church near Moundridge, Kansas. In the Spring of 1884 she transferred her membership to the First Mennonite Church of Christian and here remained a member until she passed away.

On June 12, 1887 she was married to Joseph A. Goering and they were permitted to go through life together for a little over fifty years. Four daughters and six sons were born to them. One son died in infancy and one son and one daughter after they had grown up.

The deceased suffered a stroke of paralysis a number of years ago, and since that time was an invalid, though not always bedfast. Through the days of her suffering she greeted her friends with a smile and bore her affliction patiently with seldom a word of complaint. She breathed her last on Friday, April 22, 1938. Confident that she was ready to go, she rested assured of victory and often said, "Jesus will take me as I am." She was aged 73 years, 10 months and 16 days. Those mourning her departure are her bereaved husband, three daughters, four sons, five grandchildren, two daughters-in-law, two sons-in-law, one brother and many other relatives, and many friends.

Funeral services were held from the home and from the First Mennonite Church of Christian, Moundridge, Kansas, on April 25, 1938, in charge of the pastor, P. P. Wedel who spoke on James 1:12, assisted by Rev. John C. Kaufman with a German sermon on Psalm 35:14.

MRS. JOHN S. GEIGER, the daughter of Noah and Veronica (Christner) Bechtel, was born at New Hamburg, Ont. on March 4, 1859, and died at her late home at Pandora, Ohio, April 18, 1938, aged 79 years, one month and 14 days. Nov. 29, 1881 she was united in marriage with John S. Geiger of Pandora, Ohio, and since the time of her marriage she has lived in this community. Six years ago last Thanksgiving Day, Mr. and Mrs. Geiger celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary in company with their children, grandchildren and other near relatives and friends. Eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Geiger, of whom seven survive their mother. Four live in this community and three have located outside the home community. Mrs. Geiger in early life became a Christian and joined the Mennonite Church. She was a devoted member of the Grace Church for many years, loved and esteemed for her beautiful Christian life. Funeral services were conducted at the Grace Church, April 20th, Rev. Paul E. Whitmer officiating.

How Does the Mennonite Church Lose Her Trained Ministers?

As a young layman of the Mennonite Church I wish to bring to the attention of the readers of The Mennonite a problem that is confronting our theological students in seminaries as well as the entire Mennonite Church. The statement has often been heard that the Mennonites each year lose a number of well trained men and women to other denominations. I think the statement is true. Whether they are lost because they choose to leave, or whether circumstances are such that they have no alternative is a matter worthy of our consideration. In this article I shall pay particular attention to the problem of holding our ministerial students. It is, however, worth mentioning in passing that the Church also loses a large number of graduates from college each year. This is a more serious problem and worthy of separate consideration.

It seems to me it is a very serious problem when young men who are trained in good Mennonite homes, who graduate from our Mennonite colleges and who go through three years of seminary work, with the intention of serving the Mennonite Church, for one reason or other enter other denominations and are lost to our own. The reason does not lie in the explanation that other churches proselyte, or that other churches pay better salaries, or that our young men want to serve their Master in bigger churches than the average Mennonite Church is. I believe that the explanation of our problem, why our young ministers enter other denominations is, that they find opportunities open to them there. I do not imply that there are no opportunities in the Mennonite Church. There are plenty of them. Our weakness is that we have been at fault in not making them known to our young men. They have had to look out for themselves in most cases. The agency through which these opportunities should be made known is the Placement Committee of the General Conference. This Committee is composed of four members. To many it may be news that this Committee exists. It was news to me until a few years ago. The cause why this Committee has not been active cannot be charged to it, it rests with the individual churches. They have not been using this Committee to help them in the selection of their pastors, and we cannot expect the Committee to push itself upon the churches. Churches are in the habit of selecting their ministers without consulting this Placement Committee. They have a perfect right to do so, but it will be to their advantage, in most instances, if they consult with the Committee, and it will certainly be to the advantage of the young ministerial students who are looking for a church, to make use of the Committee.

It is unfortunate that this Placement Committee has been so generally neglected. Its importance cannot be over-estimated. It is not the function of this committee to appoint ministers for the churches. Its purpose is rather to assist the churches in finding the most capable candidate for the particular opening, and to help the candidate to find a suitable position. It should be a central clearing agency for all the churches of the Conference. It has, or should have, a list of all the churches throughout the General Conference which are in need of a pastor, and also a list of all students in seminaries and another list of experienced pastors who wish for one reason or another to change parishes. To make this possible, it is necessary that there be close cooperation between the churches and the Committee.

At the present time a seminary student who is looking for a pastorate or an experienced pastor who is looking for a change, must do so through his own efforts. Sometimes he can depend on a friend for help. In any case it is bound to bring an endless number of embarrassing situations to both the individual and others concerned.

Church members sometimes resent ministers who volunteer their services without having been first invited. Ministers are human. They do not enjoy the prospect of unemployment and the feeling of insecurity that comes with it. So they should not be criticized too severely for volunteering their services, because in our Church, at the present time, they pretty much have to look out for themselves. It is exactly to avoid such a situation that the Placement Committee can play its important part. If this Committee were functioning a minister could write to it and have his name submitted to the Churches with openings. This would surely be more desirable than for the minister to do it directly. The students are faced with the same embarasing possibility. If there are no openings in their home community where they are acquainted, how, at the present time, can they find out about other openings?

It is rather evident that the explanation of the question, "Why Does the Mennonite Church Lose its Young Ministers" lies somewhere in this area. We are failing to keep in touch with our young men in seminaries and one not providing places for them upon graduation. What else can we expect but lose our men if we do not show an interest in them and provide an opening for them? I could cite a half dozen instances within recent years, where splendid, well trained, strong, spiritual, young men of good Mennonite background have accepted other than Mennonite churches, because their was either no call extended to them or no opening pointed out to them. There is only one thing for a student to do. If he does not have an opportunity in his own church he must go into another.

In order to overcome this weakness that lies wholly within our own Conference organization, I submit a few suggestions: First, let the individual churches make it a point to consult the Placement Committee when they have a vacancy. The Committee can submit to them a list of available candidates. This should be a great asset to the individual church, because it has no knowledge of the available candidates over the Conference while the Committee, if it is functioning, and if the churches are cooperating, should have. Often when a church is looking for a pastor, it has a difficult task on its hands, because it may know of only a very few suitable candidates that it feels would qualify for their opening, and those few may not be available. Furthermore, it may not know a great deal about the background of candidates who on first appearance seem desirable.

Secondly, it would be wise to use our ministerial students during he summer months. This gives them an excellent opportunity to get in touch with the problems of the ministry; it gives them an opportunity to get acquainted with Mennonite people in different sections of the country, and it gives the church members a chance to know who and what kind of students are available within the coming years for the churches. One of the district conferences made an excellent start last summer, by using two of its young ministerial students; one of them in a mission church without a regular pastor and another in a small rural church without a full-time pastor. Another student found some experience by supplying for pastors who were on vacations or attending conferences. This might be an idea for ministers attending the General Conference this summer.

In the seminary where I am now a student practically every young person who wants work for the summer, already has his arrangements made. Most of them are going to smaller rural churches that have no full time pastors. The home mission boards support them. These students go east, west, north, and south, where ever there are openings. Often the students accept churches in a section of the country other than that from which they were raised. This permits a cross-fertilization of ideas and develops fellowship and friendship in this particular denomination. It is beneficial to the students and the churches. Why cannot the Mennonites do something similar? In one case, where one of our Mennonite students applied for a church this summer, he was regretfully informed that there was little to be done for him. Now what will happen, is that that individual will probably accept a placement by his seminary field director. Often these summer positions lead into permanent positions. Once friendships have been established and one's attentions are turned away from the Mennonite Church, with no conscious effort made to turn it back again, the Mennonite student has taken his first long step out of the Mennonite Church, into that of another denomination. If, after graduation, the student finds this same lack of opportunity open in a Mennonite Church, he has then only one choice. Once a person leaves the denomination he seldom comes back. Is it not clear where the fault lies and what must be done to remedy it?

A third suggestion with speial concern to the Placement Committee might be that the Committee provide itself with a list of all those people who are preparing for religious work. In addition to the list of names it would be of value to have a minimum of biographical information about each person. Something similar to the biographical sketches in Dr. Warkentin's Who's Who Among the Mennonites. Fortified with this information the Committee would be in a position to render valuable service to the inquiring churches on short notice. It would be in a central position to act as a clearing house between supply and demand.

The Mennonite Church can ill afford to lose its trained ministers. In order to prevent it, proper machinery must be set in motion to do the job. The General Conference Placement Committee can be that machinery. The churches must provide the initial stimulus to set this machinery in action. Mennonite Church, make room for the youth that wants to serve you!

Note—While I am a student in seminary I am not a candidate for the ministry so I have not written this article with myself in mind. It is written out of sympathy for our young ministers who face a greater problem than necessary. — J. Winfield Fretz, 544 N. Leavitt St., Chicago, Ill.

— A Special School and Education Number in our church papers is due late in May or early in June. Some of the topics treated in this issue will be Bible Schools and Academies, Daily Vacation Bible Schools, Extension Work in Our Colleges, Stewardship and Our Colleges, Christian Education, Mission Work, Our Colleges as I See Them (by four brethren), Our Churches and Adult Education, Education through Our Publication Work. President J. D. Unruh of Freeman College is the editor-in-chief of this edition.

— St. John Church, Pandora, Ohio.—We were happy to welcome Rev. S. P. Preheim, representative of the Board of Publication in our midst last Sunday. Did you contribute to the work? We hope you did.—A Union Summer Bible School will be held in Pandora, after the public schools close.—By the way, do you subscribe for The Mennonite. It's only $1.50 a year, and is worth more.

— Rev. M. J. Galle, Odessa, Washington, writes: We had a wonderful Easter service here in the English Congregational Church. — Rev. Gustav Frey, Shafter, Calif.—We have been getting good rains. The governor of California spoke here southeast of Shafter on April the third. The flower fields of hundred of acres, where the festivities were held, were visited by thousands of people that day, and many, many, stood in admiration and praise for what nature presented to them.

— Cause to be grateful to God.—We Mennonites have had the blessed experience that our churches, once fairly established, ordinarily grow and expand. This is cause for rejoicing and rather outstanding news for Christians generally. But an "Exchange" brings the sad news that the country over, since 1900, about 30,000 town and country churches have been closed for lack of support. The Baptist denomination, in the Northern Convention, has 4900 town and rural churches, and it has been estimated that less than 20 percent of these are gaining in membership.—The (Kansas) Visitor.

— Berne, Indiana.—A program of sacred music was broadcasted over the amplifying system of the Mennonite Church of Berne every morning during Holy Week. The broadcast came from the tower of the church and could be heard for quite some distance.

— Crop Prospects in Kansas good.—Kansas is again getting its normal amount of moisture. Heavy snows this spring helped much. If nothing unforseen happens there will be a bountiful wheat crop. Even the dust bowl area has been blessed with rain, so that there are prospects for a harvest.

— Life without Love is Nothing.—The most eloquent speech, the profoundest knowledge, the sincerest faith, are all nothing, without love, as shown in I Corr. 13. Nothing can take the place of love. But if such a thing were possible and should occur, it would do no good. It would all be vanity. Love desires and works for the good of others. It is the heart of Christianity, and it explains the meaning of the Cross of Christ.—Selected.

— Wayland Mennonite Church, Iowa.—During the week April 24 to May 1, Rev. Paul E. Whitmer, Pandora, Ohio, is holding special evangelistic services here. His general theme is: WHAT IS YOUR LIFE? The individual themes: Is Your Life Abundant? Is Your Life Found? Is Your Life Christlike? Is Your Life a Good Testimony? Is Your Life Generous? Is Your Life Consecrated? Is Your Life Working? Is Your Life Worshipping? Is Your Life Rich?

— The Arrest of Pastors in Germany seems to continue. Recently, however, a delegation of farmers came to Berlin and demanded the release of thirty of their pastors, held on charges similar to those preferred against Martin Niemoeller. They declared, "We want to render every possible service to the Fuehrer in peace time as farmers and in war time as soldiers, but there is one thing that must not be taken from us—that we continue to serve our Lord Jesus Christ faithfully." The pastors were released.

— Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—The church held communion service on Sunday, April 24, with Rev. J. J. Plenert of the First Church in charge. He also received new members into the congregation.

— Doubt about the Worth of Life.—Only in recent years have we heard doubts about the worth of life. In my youth no one ever asked the question: Is life worth while? Some things we did not like in the human situation, but we did not question the value and meaning of life itself.—Jos. F. Newton.

— "The White Man is a Spy," cried an African chief. "He has been prying into our secrets, and writing them down in his terrible book." The missionary had merely been reading aloud the first chapter of Romans.

Report of Meeting of the Board of Home Missions

(Standing) J. M. Regier, A. J. Neuenschwander, D. Toews and J. E. Amstutz.—(Seated) W. S. Gottshall and S. S. Baumgartner

The Board of Home Missions met for its annual session at Quakertown, Pa., March 16 and 17 last, with all members present. One of the interesting facts about the make up of this Board is that Rev. Gottshall has served on it 42 years; Rev. Toews (27) and Rev. Neuenschwander (15) together 42 years; Rev. Baumgartner (21) and Rev. Amstutz (21) together 42 years.

(Due to Rev. Gottshall's sickness which commenced soon after our Board meeting, he has been unable to make a report to our church papers. I shall report briefly in his stead. J. M. Regier)

The meeting of the Home Mission Board attended by all Board members, also Rev. H. A. Fast, was held in the home of Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander in Quakertown, Pa., beginning March 16 at 10 A. M. It was opened with a prayer service in which all members took part.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read, the treasurer made his report. He reported among other things that loans for church buildings have been made as follows: Vineland, $500; Wymark, $300; Swift Current, $300; Vancouver, $500; Dallas, $300; Shafter, $500; East Swamp, $500; Saskatoon, $1000.

Since a number of our workers were really underpaid, it was voted to increase the compensation for several of these.

For Pennsylvania it was voted to continue Rev. Sylvan Lehman at Mechanics Grove, Rev. John S. Raugh at Smith Corner, Rev. Slotterback at Altoona, and Miss Niswander in Philadelphia.

Resolved to continue sending $25 a month toward the pastor's support in Hutchinson until October 1.

Note was taken of the good work that has been done in Chicago and Portland, and steps were taken to make greater efficiency possible.

Closer co-operation with the Evangelization Committees of the various District Conferences is being encouraged. Such beginnings have been made with the Pacific and Middle District Conferences.

It was voted to assist Rev. Jacob H. Janzen with his "Briefe an mein Volk", which he mails to about two hundred people. They are sermons which are being read to groups in various scattered communities.

In addition to continuing support of the Church and Girls' Home in Winnipeg, $100 was voted for the Youth Center that has there been started.

The itinerant work in Canada continues to be a great and needy mission field. The over two hundred scattered groups are our people, and we must shepherd the flocks. $560 a month was voted for this purpose which remunerates over a dozen traveling ministers.

Steps were taken to have five different churches in Canada, which have been financed by our Board, deeded over to the General Conference.

We trust that in connection with the next General Conference session many people will become better acquainted with our Canadian mission work.

Very cordially, J. M. Regier.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

Champa, C. P., India, March 29, 1938

Dear Christian Friends in the Homeland:

So often when we feel it our duty to write to the church papers, we have nothing to tell but the every day round of duties. But the day before yesterday brought to me a new experience which I shall presently relate.

Since my return to India, I am stationed at Champa, the home of our leper asylum with its 600 inmates. For the time being it has become my duty to teach the Sunday School Teacher Training Class Saturday afternoons, at our beautiful leper church. One of Brother P. A. Penner's biggest heartaches here is caused by not being able to admit nearly all applicants. But many times a case so pathetic comes up that he can not refuse them, even if he has his wards overfilled.

As I approached the entrance to the leper church, I saw an old gray-haired woman with dishevelled hair and dirty, ragged clothes, sitting at the entrance under a tree. I asked her who she was, where she came from, and what she desired. She told me that she had walked eight miles, had no relatives to care for her, because she was a leper, and that she had come to be cured. I noticed that the fingers of her hands were only stumps, and it was with great difficulty that she untied the dirty bandages covering the big wounds on her feet. I wanted to do something to help her. Silver and gold could not help her, and I had no authority to admit her to the asylum, so I did as Peter and John of old, I pointed her to the Great Helper and saw to it that she got a drink of water. She drank some of it and then poured the rest over her big, festering wounds. If you had seen the tears that rolled down her wistful wrinkled face as I did, something would have welled up in your heart as it did in mine. I told her to wait for Sahib Penner who would soon come. When he came, his heart dictated admittance, though his institution said, "No." But he followed the former and took her in. I for one was glad that God had made it possible through your and government help to do something for those whose lives are the most miserable of all, without His healing touch both physically and spiritually.

Some people say sympathy is no worthy motive for doing mission work. But to me it seems that sympathy and love are so closely related that you can't have one without the other. Was it love or sympathy which caused Jesus to weep over Jerusalem? In connection with this there come to my mind these lines which I came across on my way to India the first time.

The cry of man went up to God,
"Lord, take away pain!
The shadow that darkens the world Thou hast made,
The close-coiling chain,
That strangles the heart, the burden that weighs on the wings that should soar—
Lord, take away pain from the world Thou hast made
That it love Thee the more."
Then answered the Lord to the cry of His world:
"Shall I take away pain?
And with it the power of the soul to endure,
Made strong by the strain?
Shall I take away pity that knits heart to heart
And sacrifice high?
Will ye lose all your heroes that lift from the fire
White brows to the sky?
Shall I take away love that redeems with a price,
And smiles at its loss?
Can ye spare from your lives that would climb into mine
The Christ on His Cross?"

Yours in Christ's happy service for needy India,
Mrs. Johanna Schmidt Frank

DAILY VACATION SUMMER BIBLE SCHOOLS

J. D. Unruh

J. Edgar Hoover says: "There is no excuse for the fact that 700,000 American boys and girls were enlisted in the army of crime prior to reaching voting age. There is no suitable explanation which the fathers and mothers of America can make for this outrageous situation." Perhaps there is an explanation. Maybe the testimony of a prisoner will explain this situation in part. This prisoner did not claim to be a religious man but admitted he always stopped for a few minutes when he walked past the hall where religious services were being held in the penitentiary. This he did so he could listen to the old familiar hymns he heard when but a child. They had a softening effect on him. The young boys in the prison he said "didn't care a hang for hymns or religion or anything else. In fact, they've never heard any hymns . . . They're rather a hard crowd."

These startling statements may be for removed from the actual situation obtaining in the average Mennonite community. However, we need constantly to be on our guard lest we be drawn into the maelstrom of secularization.

To bolster up the half-hour weekly attempt of the Sunday School in its efforts to instill a love for the Bible and its way of life and the old familiar hymns, the concentrated work in a four or six weeks' period of summer Bible school is most effective. Last summer fifteen such schools were conducted in the Northern District Conference. Six hundred twenty-one children attended. Perhaps other conferences had better records. One challenge presents itself in this connection: Would not a uniform General Conference Course be of great value in this work? The Educational committee of the Northern District Conference is beginning work along this line. Rev. H. Albert Claassen of Freeman is the chairman of this committee. Experiences of other conferences in this work would be much appreciated by the above mentioned committee.

The Center Cross

Mark 15:27

J. E. Hartzler

Jesus died between two sinners; He died on the center cross. Christianity is not a religion that can be fully stated in the terms of creeds or symbols. Christianity is essentially an experience; an experience between the Divine and human, and between human and human; an experience resulting from a relationship of love.

Our Christian creeds and symbols, while needful, are but visual expressions of great divine truths and principles. The cross of Christ is the supreme Christian symbol; it is the symbol of the redemptive mind, heart and purpose of God. To see only as far as the symbol means failure to see the ultimate truth.

Our salvation is not in two pieces of wood nailed together; our redemption is in God, through Jesus Christ our Lord. The cross is the symbol of that salvation; a symbol of redemptive experience.

When the Roman cross came into the experience of Jesus, it was transformed into an instrument of redemption. When the cross, that experience of redemption in Christ, comes into the individual today, it means a renewed mind, a regenerated heart, and a divinely inspired and motivated will. When that cross, that experience of redemption, comes into our social order, it means social regeneration, brotherly relations, economic and industrial fairness.

And when that cross comes into the life of the world, it will mean, not only the "Christ of the Andes", but the cross of the Rockies, the Alleghenies, the Alps, the Pyrenees, and the Himalayas, and that will mean the end of war between capital and labor, and between nation and nation. It will mean that our swords will be beaten into plowshares, and our spears into pruninghooks, and that we shall learn war no more.

A New York Preacher Prophesies

In the Community Church of New York, Dr. John Haynes Holmes recently preached a sermon on "Some Precious Things We Are Losing These Days." Dr. Holmes is widely known as one of the most prophetic modern ministers of religion and he has long occupied one of the most liberal pulpits in the nation. The modern world and modern man, he said, are losing "outward substance and inward serenity, which seem to point to some great cataclysm of civilization." Dr. Holmes also noted "symptoms of a process of social degeneration . . . no less serious in character though far less sudden and dramatic in operation."

We are losing manners, good will, moral principle, reverence, religion. "I think these things have gone, or are rapidly going, and I dread the consequences to the race." The passing of good manners was probably connected with the "debauch of the great war." There is much evidence that "at bottom this generation is coarse and rough, altogether uncouth. We push and shove, shout and hurrah, chew gum, wear preposterous clothing, and go rudely our own way."

Modern man is losing "good will to men." We have long known about bad feeling between capital and labor but now we find workers hating one another, perhaps as cordially as they hate their employers. Mr. Roosevelt's opponents manifest much ill will and Mr. Roosevelt returns ill will to those who oppose him. If there is good will to men within the heart of man, then he finds life worth living no matter what the vicissitudes and burdens, but good will "certainly seems to be withdrawn in this present age." Instead of loving their enemies social groups today seem to be practicing mutual hatred.

Modern man is losing "the integrity of the inner life." Not only are individuals abandoning principles but so-called modern reform movements have likewise done so. Once a reform was a call to righteousness. It was an outward expression of inner integrity. But now modern reform movements often are only struggles for individual or group advantage. Within them we no longer hear discussions of what is right or wrong but rather of strategy. There is concern not about what is right but about what is effective, not about what is true but about what is practical. This is the new morality or the absence of morality "which has made reform today probably as ugly a thing as it once was beautiful."

Our loss of reverence and religion seems to be associated with the attainment by man of physical power. With power has come pride, with pride arrogance, with arrogance the loss of humility, with the loss of humility the loss of reverence. "There was a time when men reverenced life as the incarnation of a spiritual mystery they knew not of, and the progress of civilization was measured by the growth of regard and tenderness for life." But now bombs are rained from the sky upon defenseless cities and men "prepare for the destruction of the world's proudest and most beautiful cities in the next war . . . We care for nothing any more but power—except, of course, ourselves who wield the power to our own use and for our own advantage! We are out to possess this world though in the process we must destroy everything in it, and leave nothing but the dead, cold earth, to match the dead, cold moon. . . .

"This loss of reverence is perhaps our deepest loss, if only because it is reverence, as sprung from humility, which lies at the heart of the other precious things which we have lost as well.

What are manners, if not the grace of deference in the presence of our fellows whom we reverence, as we reverence ourselves, for the spirit that lies within?

What is good will, but that expression of love for all mankind dictated by reverence for its highest qualities as always latent even in its lowest deeds?

What is principle if not that standard of integrity which we recognize and reverence within ourselves because we first recognize and reverence it within the universe?

And what is reverence itself but the humility of the man who walks this earth as ever in the presence of the Most High?

Which brings me straight and sure to my final word—that what we are really losing this day is religion! Not religion in the crude sense of creeds and rituals, or even of churches. But religion in the true sense of that life of the spirit which is all in all! . . . It is this which we have lost; it is this which we must regain, if our world is to be saved."

STUDY TOUR TO EUROPE

In view of the fact that competent authorities agree that a general war is not imminent in Europe, plans for the special tour to study cooperatives, labor and religion in Europe, under the leadership of the Rev. James Myers, Industrial Secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, are being carried forward. An added indication of confidence in the European situation is evident in the heavy bookings for European travel this summer and the difficulty for securing accommodations, for this reason applications for inclusion in this tour or inquiries concerning it should be made to Mr. Myers at 297 Fourth Avenue, New York City, without delay. The itinerary has been slightly altered omitting the trip to Austria and giving added time in important cooperative centers in France, Switzerland, Sweeden, Denmark and Great Britain.

Note: For further information write to Rev. James Myers, 297 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

—Rev. C. H. Suckau, pastor of the Mennonite Church at Berne, Ind., since 1928, will receive a leave of absence for two months. He is planning to make a tour of Europe in company with daughter Edna.

Northern District Conference Session

First Mennonite Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota
June 11-14, 1938

A Rich Preacher

An old German preacher had undeservedly gotten famed for being rich, because he lived like most of the preachers of all denominations in all lands have to live—temperate in all things, economical, on small salaries.

One day out in the country he met the assessor, who at once began to examine him:

"Is it so, Mr. Pastor, that you have capital?"

"Yes," said the preacher, "in a way I am a rich man."

"In that case," said the assessor, interestedly, and pulling out his books, "how much are your possessions?"

"I'm enjoying good health," said the preacher, "and health is better than riches."

"Well," said the other, "what more have you?"

"I have a good wife and that's worth more than pearls."

"Congratulations," said the assessor, "but don't you own more?"

"Yes, I have healthy, well-shaped, intelligent, well-behaved children, and it's a gift from the Lord which makes me rich."

"You own anything else?" asked the assessor.

"Yes, I own citizenship in heaven and the Spirit gives the assurance in my heart that I'm a child of God."

"Don't you own any other fortune?"

"No, otherwise I own nothing," said the preacher.

"Mr. Pastor," said the assessor, "you are a rich man, but your fortune cannot be taxed."

Rich and not paying taxes! "That beats all." Let's go and get rich.—Selected. Christian Monitor.

SERVING THROUGH CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP

Mark 12:13-17, 28-34

"Is it lawful to give Tribute to Caesar?" vs. 13-17

The parable of The Wicked Husbandman (vs1-11) stung the chief priests, scribes and Pharisees to the quick (v12). It hardened their hearts against Jesus. Truth resisted always hardens hearts. They now sought, indirectly and underhandedly, to "catch Him in his words", and thus bring Him into conflict with the Roman government. The Pharisees plotted with the Herodians—a sect of the Jews who supported Herod and the paying of tribute to Caesar—to entangle Jesus. Bitter enemies united against Him.

They came with flattering words which however were true (v14). Jesus spoke the truth because He is the Truth personified. He did not permit public sentiment to govern His words and conduct. He was big enough to follow closely the line of duty—making known the way of God. They asked Him the much-debated question—"Is it lawful (what law?) to give tribute to Caesar"? A cunning question, a well-laid snare, so they thought. Satan is quite ingenious. Jesus saw through it all (v15) and asked for the Roman coin with which the tax was paid, on which was Caesar's image and superscription (v16). Jesus' answer (v17) completely overwhelmed them. They were caught in their own snare. He said in effect—"You accept the money of Caesar, you must then accept your responsibility to him." Jesus recognized the need of government and insisted the Jews owed an obligation to the government. Christian citizenship demands of us the giving to the established government that which is rightly due it. There are things due to God that need to be rendered to Him. In a conflict between the law of civil authority and the supreme law of duty to God, our highest allegiance must be to God. Jesus' answer (v17) satisfied Caesar, glorified God, and edified the people. "It established the limits and distinguishes the jurisdiction of the two empires of heaven and earth."

The Greatest Commandment of All vs. 28-34

One of the scribes came asking Jesus a question designed to start an argument, hoping somehow to entangle Him in the general argument which would naturally follow. The Rabbis said there were 613 precepts of the Law. "Which is the First Commandment of All?" (v28). Jesus' answer was given with authority and depth of understanding (vs29-31). God is one Lord, God, the only One. Jesus sums up the only possible answer in one word LOVE. Nothing else may ever take place in our heart. Love God with ALL the heart. God first in the WHOLE of life.

The second commandment, really involved in the first, is like it—love neighbor as self. Man has two responsibilities, one to God, the other to fellowman. To love another is to have a delight for his welfare like we have for self. If we love God, whom we have not seen, we must love our neighbor whom we have seen. The law of love which Jesus invokes in his answer, is the oldest known to man. The First and Greatest Commandment was known in the Garden of Eden and the second was there also. The lawyer's trained mind saw the logic of Jesus' answer (v32) and saw, too, that such love to God and fellowman involved far more than mere ceremonial religion which can not be a substitute for a practical religion based on love (v33). To see the truth clearly shows that one is not far from the kingdom of God (v34). When one submits to the truth of Christ, he is IN the kingdom.

Love towards God and man is fundamental in Christianity and in Christian citizenship. The Christian religion produces the best type of citizen in any country. The Christian citizen takes Christ into all his activities.

A Fifteen-Year Record

Among the staggering facts set forth is this:

"Our nation has engaged in six major wars since its birth in 1776. In total, these wars extended over a period of fifteen years. The number of American soldiers killed in action or died of wounds during these fifteen years of war was 244,357.

Now look at our fifteen years PEACE TIME record of death on the highway!"

Beginning fifteen years ago in 1923 with 18,031, and rising to the terrific slaughter of 40,300 in the repeal year 1937, the report lists a Grand(?) Total of 441,912.

"Fifteen years of war, 244,357 casualties; fifteen years of peace, 441,912 traffic deaths!"

"In war," continues 'The Traveler,' "our soldiers fought and died for a purpose. But what purpose can there be in the killing of hundreds of thousands on the highways?"

"Truly, this traffic slaughter is WORSE THAN WAR!"

THE YEAR OF REPEAL 1937 was "peak." A year of national nightmare; raids by night and death stalking the day.

The dead—40,300.

The injured—1,221,090.

Memorial Day shadows shade the entire year!

The Sabbath of the Lord glooms with the deepest shadows, for more were killed on Sunday than on any other day.

The Neglected Teaching

1. My Money and I

As the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil, so the love of what money can do is a root of all kinds of righteousness, peace, and good will in the world.

A man through the love of what his money may do becomes a coworker together with God, and through his money may be a blessing to hundreds he will never see, and relieve from hunger and starvation and eternal ruin thousands of God's children whom he will never know in this world.

Through the beneficent gift called money, a loving Father has so arranged that one of His children in one part of the earth may be a blessing, a benefit and a benefactor to hundreds of His needy and unsaved children in far distant parts of the earth—even to those across the seas and on the other side of the globe.

Through money God and I are partners, and by its holy significance we become coworkers together in relieving the poverty of the world, and in saving the lost and the ruined of the world.

When I pray, my words may not mount very high, and being words only they may not cost me much. Words, even in prayer, are abundant, often easy and sometimes very cheap. When I exercise faith, it may be after the day's work is done, or on the Sabbath when the law requires that I cease from toil. But when I cast into the treasury of the Lord my money, I have put there that which has cost me something, that which represents hard licks, severe toil, business ability, my best judgment, that which, in fact, represents my savings and my sacrifice.

The Bible teaches, logic proves, and God knows, that with the money we get and the money we spend, we either through and by that money get closer to God, or further from God. Money may be a golden cord which binds us to God, or it may become a wall that separates us from God.—J. O. Atkinson.

HABITS OF PRAYER

When a pump is frequently used, but little pains are necessary to get water; the water pours out at the first stroke, because it is high. But if the pump has not been used for a long time, the water gets low, and when you want it you must pump a long time, and the water comes only after great effort. It is so with prayer; if we are instant in prayer, every little circumstance awakens the disposition to pray, and desires and words are always ready. But if we neglect prayer, it is difficult for us to pray, for the water in the well gets low.—Felix Neff.

CELEBRATES 25TH BIRTHDAY

First Mennonite Church, Hutchinson

May, 1938

Twenty-five years ago our church had its birth in a gathering of 37, in the home of Jacob Sawatzky in Hutchinson. Rev. H. P. Krehbiel, sent out by the Western District Conference, preached the first sermon. He was assisted by four Bethel College students.

In commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of our church, special services for morning and evening were arranged. The opening sermon was delivered by our pastor Rev. C. H. Dirks, on Acts 28:15: "When Paul saw the brethren, he thanked God and took courage." Cooperating love in the past, blessed our church activities, enlarged our membership, deepened our devotion in Christian endeavor, and gave courage to cope with the future. Then the morning's guest speaker, Rev. J. M. Regier, of Bethel College, chairman of the General Conference Home Mission Board, under whose supervision our church is yet functioning, spoke on Paul's admonition: "Love the brethren." So often we find that we do not consistently and sincerely live this so fundamental Christian principle. Is this not the cause of our general church weakness? Rev. Regier closed with prayer and benediction.

At the evening service, Andrew Baize, who had attended the church services almost from beginning, gave a short history. For some time services were held in various homes, also in a hall in town. Then later in the Seventh Day Advent Church, Sixth and Pershing. They had their services Saturday, we Sunday. In 1917 the Home Mission Board of the General Conference took over the work. 1918-1919 funds were raised for a church building on 700 East 4th, its present site. This church was dedicated, March 20, 1920. Formal organization of the church, June 25, 1922. Since then, we have remodeled and enlarged to accommodate a growing congregation.—Continuing the evening service, Rev. T. A. van der Smissen spoke of the value of prayer in all church endeavors, especially in the building of a church. Then followed an address by Rev. H. J. Dyck on building of the church, based on Jude 20 and 21. This interesting program was interspersed with music by the Church Choir, a ladies' trio, a mixed quartet, and a violin solo by Anna Duerksen.

Pastors who served since the beginning were H. P. Krehbiel, H. J. Dyck, H. T. Unruh, T. A. van der Smissen, P. J. Wiens, J. J. Plenert, and the present pastor, C H. Dirks. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sawatzky, in whose home the first group met, were our welcome guests Sunday night, then the only partakers of the first service, in Apr. 1913, and Sunday night at our festivity. They now live in Buhler.

Of the pioneer laymen of our activities a number are yet active members: J. K. Froese, O. C. Krehbiel, our first deacons. Others, active in church work since long ago are Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Matthies, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Schmidt, E. W. Miller, Mrs. P. E. Griffith.

We are yet a comparatively new church, and ask for understanting cooperation and assistance in our endeavor to constructively assimilate a membership and an attendence, consisting of various groups coming to our services, from environments so differing. For the good will, and leniency, promoted by Christian love of our membership we are thankful. With a city, quite floating population, much more so than rural, problems continually present themselves for solution in a church organization, different from an older stable rural church. Our Mennonite constituency, with sons and daughters and friends in Hutchinson, can aid much for our mutual benefit and the building of the Kingdom of Christ among our fellow men. — Very truly yours in love, C. C. Epp, Corr.

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, WAYLAND, IOWA

On April 10, Rev. Willard Leichty of the Sugar Creek Church very ably preached for us. May 1 closed a most helpful series of meetings, conducted by Rev. Paul E. Whitmer, who was assisted by Rev. Welty of the Eicher Church, Rev. Gingerich of the Sugar Creek Church, and Rev. Friesen from Donnellson, Iowa. As a congregation we wish to thank them all most heartily for their cooperation in the blessed work of our Master.

Rev. Whitmer very reverently administered Holy Communion, which was preceded by baptismal services. Thirteen precious young souls took this major step in their life and two members were added by the right hand of fellowship. May God richly bless them all. In the afternoon of May 1, Rev. Whitmer visited the shut-ins and gave them Holy Communion. Language is inadequate to express the power of the last message given by Rev. Whitmer, on the subject of "The Unsearchable Riches of Christ", to a spellbound audience. We sincerely pray that these inspirational messages will remain with us always.

We wish to take this means of thanking Mrs. Selma Sommer for her kindly greetings to our church and to express our appreciation for her devoted interest in its welfare. We are very sorry to hear of her continued illness but know she is blest with patience and resigned to His Will on her bed of suffering.

Two of our members, O. L. Eicher and Omer Roth, have been surgical patients in the Iowa City hospitals the past two weeks. Glad to say they are both improving nicely. "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength." Isa. 40:31a.—Correspondent.

MENN. CHURCH, WADSWORTH, OHIO, APR. 27

Rev. Shelly has organized a Young Men's Brotherhood. Upon looking over our membership he found that we have about thirty-five young men, junior class of high school to young married men. The purpose of this organization is to instill a deeper spiritual responsibility. So many of our young men are out of work, and Rev. Shelly felt that an organization like this would tend to draw them closer together and closer to the Church. The first responsibility was to take entire charge of the ushering. They are also working on a Young Men's Chorus. It is so much better for them to have things to do in the church than to be idle with no interests at all.

We are very proud of our Easter Sunrise Service. This was our fourth, and each year the attendance increases. It seems to be just the right start for such a sacred day. The Young Men's Brotherhood had charge of this service this year, and it was a most wonderful service. We always have a reproduction of the tomb, and then we bank each side of it with Easter lilies and ferns, and at the end of our services we remembered all the sick of the congregation with lilies. With the early sun shining, the realistic decorations and the program it is a very impressive service. Then following this service we serve breakfast to all who can remain. Our Easter services were better attended this year than for many years. In fact I have never seen so many out for Easter Communion. We trust that this continues throughout the year.

Sincerely, Mrs. Wm. Straiton, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, REEDLEY, CALIF.

Dear Editor:

The first week-end of April our church was host to the Annual County Christian Convention. Registrations exceeded five hundred and the highest attendance considerably above that. "Not I but Christ" was the convention theme which was made a positive resolve in the lives of many during that time. It was a great convention. Youth today is an earnest youth seeking the best way of life. Christian youth today is a singing youth as demonstrated through the many thrilling songservices. Christian youth today is consecrated to Christ and his cause—Love.

The following week a large delegation attended the Annual California Mennonite Y. P. and C. E. Conference at Upland returning with a new vision of "The Challenging Christ" and the place of Mennonites in the affairs and the attitudes of this nation and world especially as regards education, peace, and missions.

On Good Friday there were twenty-two candidates for membership into our Church, nineteen of which were received through baptism. There is a certain stimulus in being a worshipper in a "full church" Sunday after Sunday. We are happy to report that attendance averages almost more than our church can conveniently house and there is rumor of necessary enlargements. We feel that a growing church is a good sign.—Helen M. Fast, Corr.

EDEN CHURCH, INOLA, OKLA., APRIL 30

The Lord has been so good, he has blest us in every way, the whole creation is bringing thanks, the grass and the flowers, the birds in the air are all rejoicing. How much more should man, made after the divine image, sing and praise his great and glorious God. We have been blest both spiritually and materially. Wednesday, March 30, Missionary H. J. Brown was in our midst. Tuesday, April 5, Missionary Slater from the Oriental Missionary Society stopped in and gave a very interesting talk. Sunday, April 10, we were favored with some real music by the Salvation Army, mostly string music, a few quartets and other numbers, also addresses by some of their highest officials. It was enjoyed by everybody and we tell them all: Thanks, come again! For next week we have engaged Bro. P. P. Wedel to conduct a week's revivals. Bible study in the morning and preaching at night.

Every third Sunday in the month our services are in English since often there are few attending that cannot understand any German, the S. S. classes are mostly in the English, with the exception of the Bible classes. The C. E. meets every four weeks. A young Girl's Glee Club practices every Friday night with Mrs. B. H. Pankratz as leader. At present we are preparing for children's day which is to take place on Ascension day.

Spring has set-in in full force. Everything is looking fine, have a shower now and then.—Jacob Froese, Corr.

LORRAINE AVE. CHURCH, WICHITA, KANSAS

During the months of March and April we had a great deal of activity in our church and much spiritual blessing. On March 6 we had installation of church officers which had been delayed by unavoidable circumstances. On March 11, Missionary Henry J. Brown of China related incidents and experiences from the Mission field, adding to the interest by the use of lantern slides.—Mr. Jacob Richert donated and planted some trees on the church property. This was thankfully accepted.

Holy Week was observed by services every evening with a candle light, Communion service on Thursday evening. On Easter Sunday the Sunday school had a joint Easter program. The church also had consecration of infants, baptism and reception of new members. The following were baptized: Marianna and Kathryn Galle, Ruth and William Androes, Naomi Schmidt, and Mrs. Berda Craft. In addition Mr. Floyd Craft, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Pankratz, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vogt, and Miss Elizabeth J. Egle were received by the hand of fellowship. This makes a total of 12 new members.

This church was organized October 9, 1932 with 17 charter members; since then there have been added: in 1933, 3; in 1934, 5; in 1935, 15; in 1936, 11; in 1937, 28; in 1938, 21; total, 73.—Mrs. Ben Frey, Corr.

Living the Risen Life of Witness

"Am I a soldier of the Cross,
A follower of the Lamb.
And shall I fear to own his cause
Or blush to speak His name."

To witness is to bear testimony to the truth. To witness for Christ is to bear witness of his saving power as experienced in our own lives. And this is not only for the ministers but for every saved child of God. When Jesus said, "Ye are my witnesses," we do not believe that He meant the disciples only but all his followers. We can be witnesses by our consistent life. The life demonstrates the truth of what we say.

There are many opportunities for us to be witnesses for our Savior. It is not hard for us to do this in our church or Sunday school, when we gather together eager to learn more from the word of God, and long to have close communion with our Lord. But when we come to places where we are the only ones who know the Lord and have experienced His love to us, it is not so easy to stand up and say a word for our Savior. But this is our duty as living witnesses for our Risen Lord. By doing this others may see the need of having a Savior and maybe even accept him as their personal Lord, too.

When Christ had been laid in the tomb, and when early Easter morning Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went there and found the tomb empty, how sad they were. They loved Jesus so much and to find that the body of the one they loved was gone grieved them. As we read in Matthew 28, the angel said, "Fear not ye, for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here: for he is risen as he said. Come, and see the place where the Lord lay, and go quickly and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead." And then it says they departed quickly. As they were going they met Jesus, they fell before him and worshipped him. Jesus said to them: "Be not afraid, go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee and there shall they see me. The women had really seen Jesus and quickly went to tell the others what they had seen and heard. We can not see Jesus as they did, but if we have really experienced his saving power in our life, we will have a message to tell others also. Our aim should be as found in Philippians 3:10: "That I may know him, and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings, being made conformable to his death." He died on the cross to save us from our sins, but that is not all. He is Risen! And now we, too, can have everlasting life. If we know Him then as our personal Savior, we can certainly be a witness for him.

Certainly we can see in the story of John and Betty Stam, missionaries to China, how they were witnessing for their Lord even in the very darkest hours of their life. They were killed by the reds for bringing God's message to those who hadn't heard it yet. They were beheaded, and just before they met their death they said only what they hoped might lead someone else to Christ. They were still witnessing for Christ to the last moment of their life. Those who saw the Stams after death have testified that John's face bore a smile and Betty's face was calm in repose. Rev. 20:4 we read "And I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and the word of God—and they lived and reigned with Christ."

Living the Risen Life of witness is yours and my duty. Christ has done so much for us. Can we not also do something for him?—Contributed.

Objectives of Young People's Meetings

"Why have young people's meetings? Have you ever spent time asking that question? Perhaps the following answers given by one group, and contained in the book "Better Meetings for Young People's Society" will help us.

1. To help us to know God better.
2. To help us to be Christians.
3. To help us to straighten out our ideas about life's problems.
4. To help us to tackle some of the tasks about which young people should be concerned.
5. To lead us to win others to Christ.
6. To train us for better leaderships.

THE COOKIE JAR

Success is mainly a matter of hanging on when others have let go.

7. To help the church with its work.
8. To prepare us to be intelligent Christian adults.
9. To help us to do the things we know are right.
10. To give us an opportunity to express our religion in worship.

As we get the reasons for young people's meetings firmly established in our minds, it would be well for the officers from time to time, to take this list and ask themselves two questions: first, "Just how far have the objectives which we set for ourselves been accomplished?" Second, "In planning the meetings, how can we make sure that every meeting will help to achieve these objectives?" —Vine Press.

Youth and the Homes of Tomorrow

1 John 4:19; Deut. 6:6-9

Young People's Topic for May 29, 1938

Meditations:

M., May 23. Laying a good foundation. 2 Tim. 1:5-7.
T., May 24. Learning to work today. Luke 10: 38-42.
W., May 25. An ancient ideal. Prov. 31:1-23.
T., May 26. The example of noble motherhood. Prov. 31:24-31.
F., May 27. Dangers to avoid. Prov. 30:11-17.
S., May 28. Home influences that Jesus felt. Luke 2:40-52.

Suggested Hymns:

"Faith of Our Fathers", "Home, Sweet Home"

Nowhere can we find a more wholesome portrayal of home life than in Luke 2:52, "And Jesus advanced in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and men." In all life, normal growth is healthy; regression and deterioration, unhealthy. A home where kind emotions are stifled with temperamental outbursts, where each member is bent on frustrating others' wishes only to carry out his own, is ugly and disappointing. By contrast, a home where parents and children share each other's trials and successes, where individual interests are encouraged, is beautiful and inspiring.

Program Suggestions:

As a variation from talks and discussion groups, present a little dialogue. As the scene opens, Rev. Goodwill is busy with some papers at a desk. He is middle-aged, slightly gray-haired. The lines around his mouth and eyes betray a knowledge of life born of experience. His eyes sparkle with kindly humor. When the doorbell rings, he rises to admit Bob Johnson, a wholesome, well-built fellow in the early twenties. Bob is carrying a tennis racket.

Rev. G.:—Why, Bob, I'm more than glad to see you.

Bob:—I was afraid maybe you would be too busy to be disturbed.

Rev. G.:—No, indeed. In fact, my thoughts were beginning to wander instead of remaining decorously with my Sunday's sermon, so I welcome an interruption—especially if you're inviting me to play tennis.

Bob (Laughing):—You haven't taken to mind-reading, have you, Reverend? (Hesitatingly) Since you've guessed one reason for my call, perhaps you can guess another?

Rev. G.:—You wish to speak with me before we play?

Bob:—Well, you are a wonder! You are the most understanding person I know!

Rev. G.:—(Deprecatingly) Oh, no, not at all. But sit down, Bob, sit down. No, really Bob, it's not my clairvoyance that tells me you have something to say. It's your beaming face and your eager bearing.

Bob:—I'll bet you know what I want to tell you, don't you?

Rev. G.:—(Slowly) Well, I can't say that I do. (Musingly) Mmmmm! Marian is a mighty fine girl.

Bob:—Then you do know!

Rev. G.:—(Innocently) Know what?

Bob:—(Unable to contain himself any longer) Why that Marian has consented to marry me! Imagine! She's going to marry me! We're engaged!

Rev. G.:—Why, Bob, that's wonderful! Let me congratulate you! (Shakes Bob's hand) I'm sure you two will be very, very happy.

Bob:—Oh, I know we will. Why, it couldn't be otherwise. Could it?

Rev. G.:—(More seriously and thoughtfully than before) No, of course, . . . it couldn't be . . . otherwise.

Bob:—What's the matter? You act as though you don't approve.

Rev. G.:—But I do. And I think you two will establish a wonderful home. It is just because I am so eager for you to have the right kind of a Christian home that I'm . . . thoughtful.

Bob:—(Perplexed) What do you mean?

Rev. G.:—I know young people don't like to be burdened with advice. It is because I think a great deal of you and have confidence in you, that I'd like to tell you some of the stories of real life that have come to my attention during my forty odd years. Do you mind, Bob?

Bob:—Of course not. I always like to listen to you.

Rev. G.:—It isn't that I want to dampen your enthusiasm at all. That is fine and noble and you have a right to it. But if you combine your ardor with a foundation of common sense and straight thinking, the home you and Marian plan to establish should be thrice blessed.

(From here the person whom you have chosen as Rev. Goodwill can plan what he is going to say. He will be able to say them much more effectively if they are his own words. The conversation might include the adverse effects the following factors have had on marriages of which Rev. Goodwill has known, and also means of avoiding similar results.

1. Lack of preparation for marriage.
2. Over-romanticism.
3. Economic uncertainty.
4. Religious differences.
5. Difference of ideals.

The conversation might then be concluded somewhat like this:)

Bob:—Well, that certainly puts a new slant on things for me. But it doesn't discourage me in the least. In fact, it makes life seem more challenging than ever.

Rev. G.:—That's fine, Bob. That's the way I want you to feel. How about that tennis game now?

Bob:—Goodness! I had almost forgotten about it.

Rev. G.:—Well, I hadn't. And I should be very much disappointed if I don't get to play. Remember I have a score to settle with you.

Bob:—Well, with all the things I have to think about. I wouldn't be surprised if you did beat me today.

Rev. G.:—Come on, let's go.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Looking Myself Over

Intermediate C. E. Topic, May 29, 1938

For Daily Study

May 23. My loyalty to the church. Eph. 3:14-21.
May 24. My helpfulness. Acts 9:19-22, 26-28.
May 25. My zeal. Gal. 6:9.
May 26. My faith. Ps. 23:1-6.
May 27. My generosity. 2 Cor. 8:1-7.
May 28. My unselfishness. 1 Cor. 10:31-33.
May 29. Topic—Looking myself over. Rom. 12:3; 1 Cor. 11:31,32.

Personal Life Topics

This topic is the beginning of a series of topics on the personal Christian life.

June 5. Honesty and Truthfulness. Ps. 119:113-120.
June 12. Courage. Eph. 6:10-17.
June 19. Dependability. Matt. 26:36-46.
June 26. Cheerfulness. Matt. 6:25-34.

We suggest that the same worship service be used for all of the meetings, varying the other parts of the program.

Worship Service

After a praise service of selected songs and announcements the following worship service should be carried through without announcement. Typed copies could be made, and collected after each meeting.

Instrumental prelude: "Holy, Holy, Holy"

Leader: "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place?"

Response: "He that hath clean hands and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully."

Leader: "For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith."

Duet: "Jesus, I Come"

Prayer by leader.

Prayer song: "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind" (Sing the first two stanzas, read the third silently while it is played, then sing the last two).

For the Leader

Very few of us leave our room to go to school, to church or any other public place without first looking into a mirror. It often reveals defects in our appearance of which we would be entirely unaware unless someone told us. How embarrassed we are when someone has to tell us of the stray lock of hair, the crooked tie, or the sagging skirt.

As we meet others they are just as conscious of the flaws in our character as they are of those in our appearance. They are slower to speak of them for fear of offending us. However, there is a mirror that will reflect those imperfections just as truly as a real mirror does our physical ones. That mirror is God's word, the Bible. By its standards we must measure our weakness and our strength to see ourselves as God sees us.

Discussing the Topic:

1. What importance did Jesus attach to the examination of our personal lives? Matt. 7:3-5.

2. Why is it harder for us to see our own faults than those of others? How can we become aware of them?

3. What danger is there in thinking too much about our faults?

4. Why is it necessary for us to know our good qualities as well as our bad ones?

4. How does keeping the Quiet Hour help us to think correctly of ourselves?

Closing Moments

"The Higher Way"

In a girls' boarding school the girls seemed to get more quarrelsome every day until the teachers almost despaired of ever teaching them the fine qualities of Christian womanhood. There was continual gossiping, jealousy and back-biting. But there was on teacher whom all the girls loved and admired, who lived in a humble home in the village with her invalid mother.

When the head mistress of the school was at her wits end, she conferred with this teacher, who was called Ratbai. The next day three of the most quarrelsome girls walked about the school holding their heads high. They had been invited to the home of their favorite teacher, Ratbai to tea. How honored they felt themselves.

As the three approached her home that afternoon they remarked again about the beauty of Ratbai. There was something irresistable about her, yet they agreed it was not her clothes, because they were very common, but something in her face and manner that attracted them. Everything about the humble little home expressed the same charm. What was it? They had no explanation.

After tea had been served, Ratbai was showing the girls some photographs, among which was one of herself, when she was a child. They were shocked at the homeliness of the face, and in wide-eyed amazement asked, "How could that be you, Ratbai?" "Oh," she said, 'that was long ago, before I became a Christian and learned the magic verses, Ratbai?" Then she told them how after she had learned to know Christ, she had taken as her motto the words of I Cor. 13:4-7 and tried to live by them day after day.

> Love knows no jealousy.
> "Love is very patient, very kind.
> Love makes no parade, gives itself no airs, is never rude, never selfish, never irritated, never resentful.
> Love is never glad when others go wrong.
> Love is gladdened by goodness, always slow to expose, always eager to believe the best, always hopeful, always patient."

That evening the three girls went back to their school very thoughtful and very humble, saying in their hearts, "We too will be beautiful as our dear teacher is by living the HIGHER WAY."

JUNIOR CORNER

The Jesus Words I Love

Call to service by prelude

Opening Service

1. Rise to sing in unison: The Lord Is in His Holy Temple

2. Opening prayer by leader

3. Opening prayer by group singing: Break Thou the Bread of Life. Verses 1, 2, 3. (Be seated).

4. Jesus—Words I Love: Group participation. Having been previously asked to bring a Jesus-word, the group now recites these. To illiminate duplication, a better way might be to supply each child with a saying of Christ. Having been quoted, these could be gathered up for the "Memory test" later.

5. Sing in unison: Wonderful Words of Life. Verses 1, 2.

Mission Minutes

Announcements

Study Period. Aim: To acquaint the child with the sayings of Jesus and to create a longing to obey the same.

1. Sing in unison again verse one of "Wonderful Words of Life."

2. Jesus—Words I Love: Talks by juniors

a. "Watch and pray." Mark 14:38.

b. "There is nothing covered up that shall not be revealed." Luke 12:2, 3

c. "The very hairs of your head are all numbered." Luke 12:6, 7

d. "He that humbleth himself shall be exalted." Luke 14:7-11; I Peter 5:5

e. "Today I must abide at thy house." Luke 19:1-10; II Cor. 6:16

f. "It is finished." John 19:30; John 3:16; Acts 4:12

g. "Lovest thou me?" John 21:15-17

3. Special music: "In the secret of His presence,
How my soul delights to hide!
Oh, how precious are the lessons
Which I learn at Jesus' side."

4. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving for the Jesus—words we love

5. Sing in unison the song of the month: "Oh, How I love Jesus"

6. Memory test: Divide your group into two sides; Mark the two sides on the blackboard. The Jesus-words used in the opening service could now be used, reading the scripture and asking, in turn, in what connection Jesus spoke it. This will be difficult for the children. They will not guess many. You could go through them rapidly, supplying the answer if neither group knows it, then repeating the contest. If there is time, repeat twice giving one point for each correct answer. The group having the most points at close of the third contest round, are winners. Twelve is a sufficient number of sayings to use in this ten minute contest period. The group should be able to learn the setting as to story, book and chapter of each of these sayings at the close of ten minutes. The true value in contests is the memory work it accomplishes and with the leader's efficient guidance, facts and truths will really "stick."

7. Closing moment

a. Leader's heart remarks that call to quietness. Use the thought: "If ye love me, keep my commandments." John 14:15.

b. Repeat in unison this verse of the month

c. Sing in unison verse one of "I Need Thee Every Hour."

d. Closing prayer.

Religious and Political Significance of the Church Struggle in Germany

A very able and meaningful address upon this subject was recently given before a huge gathering of the "People's Front Organization of German Emigrants," in New York City, by Dr. Paul Tillich, now a member of the faculty of Union Theological Seminary of New York but formerly the leader of the Religious Socialists in the Reich. We shall give the gist of this address here in English.

THE STRUGGLE BETWEEN TWO RELIGIONS.—Dr. Tillich took the stand that the struggle going on in Germany is not a fight between the Church and the State but between two religions. Proceeding from the premise that religion is the ultimate conception of human destiny, he showed that alongside the universal world encircling Christian religion there is being developed, in Germany, a narrowly nationalistic religion of the German Volksgemeinshaft which has for its objectives values which are diametrically opposed to those of the Christian religion. The Christian faith in a regenerated life through Christ is being supplanted by a faith in the education of the people toward an ideal, racially pure Volksgemeinshaft, with invincible heroism of the pagan (or Siegfried) type as the objective. Against a religion of love, of service in humility, and in suffering if need be, there is being set up a religion of hero worship, of an idealism of power that knows no defeat.

NO POLITICAL ELEMENT INVOLVED IN THE STRUGGLE OF THE CHURCH.—The German Church has no design of a political nature, makes no demands for political recognition or political liberties. It merely fights for the undisturbed, unhindered proclamation of the Word of God in its entirety, and the free exercise of conscience based on that Word. It fights for the truth against lies and false pretenses; for justice toward all men as against inhuman injustice, especially in the persecution of people that mean no harm, intend no wrong, and have no designs of disloyalty to those in power.

WHO OPPOSES THE CHURCHES?—With many examples and illustrations Dr. Tillich described the activities of: 1. The Black Corps, the organization of the black-shirts (Schutztafeln) who represent that fanatic order of the Germanic race religion. Members of this group have characterized the adherents of the confessional church with such epithets as the scum of human society, thieves, prostitues, traiters of the fatherland. — 2. The Secret State Police, who by virtue of their unlimited power and the use of secretly installed, tiny microphones, wax plates and other sensitive mechanical devices can pry into the sanctity of the home, the secrecy of residences or public places, and by imputing evil designs where no harm was intended, can get well meaning people into all sorts of trouble. The trial of pastor Niemoeller behind closed doors and his retention as a prisoner, after he had been found guiltless, serve as an example of their work. — 3. The Rosenberg - Schirach - Ley Group, brought it about that Rosenberg captured the first German "Nobel Preis," and with it the official recognition of his book, "The Myth of the Twentieth Century," which embodies the erroneous philosophy of German Naziism.—4. The Church Ministry. This office has the duty of fighting the confessional Church, on the one hand, and of preventing the most radical offences against it, on the other hand.

WHO DEFENDS THE CHURCHES?—1. Parts of the Older Bureaucracy and Justice, who try in their limited way to prevent the worst outbreaks against the Church. The judges belonging to this group have done and continue to do much to protect the Church and any of its victims that may be exposed to the displeasure of the State.—2. The Army, especially its higher ranking officers who have no use for the new German pagan religion. Of this the following incident is a striking illustration: The chief philosopher of the Nationalists, Alfred Rosenberg, came to the then ranking officer of the army, Colonel-General Fritch, and asked permission to give an address before the Potsdam officer corps. This was given, on condition that the speech contain no reference to religious and related world problems. Scarcely had Rosenberg launched out in his speech, when he began to unfurl the black flag of pagan religion, whereupon the officers to the last man left the hall. The officers seem to maintain their hold on God and the Bible.—3. Foreign Countries.—Take for instance the attitude of our American people which, on the whole, is quite anti-German or, at least, anti-Nazi. And why? Largely because of the fight of the German government against the Church and its Christ, because he was a Jew.—4. The broad masses of the German people, among whom the old religion still lives, though without any appreciable outward demonstration so far.—5. The Catholic Church which has experienced the socalled "scandal persecutions" among its monks and nuns, the dissolution of its church organizations, the destruction of all confessional or church schools, the suppression of its press, and the innumerable imprisonments of Catholic clergymen.

In concluding Dr. Tillich again emphasized the fact that the struggle in Germany is positively a fight between the religion of Jesus Christ and the barbarian heathenism propagated by National Socialism.

— This generation proposes:
To smoke its way to health;
To drink its way to posterity;
To destroy its way to food and clothing;
To entertain its way to wisdom;
To sin its way to joy and happiness;
To war its way to peace;
To hate its way to love. —Christian Advocate.

In Memoriam

GRUBB, NATHANIEL BERTOLET, son of Silas and Elizabeth Bertolet Grubb, was born in Frederick Township, Montgomery County, Pa., July 6, 1850. Lived home on the farm until 1868. In May, 1865, was baptized at Schwenksville Mennonite Church by Rev. Moses H. Gottshall. On May 9, 1872, the Schwenksville congregation unanimously called him to the ministry, as assistant to Rev. Moses Gottschall, and on June 30th of that year he was ordained. After the death of Rev. Israel Beidler, pastor of the Germantown Mennonite Church, he preached there every two weeks, alternating with the Rev. John H. Haldeman for the years of 1875 and 1876. In 1882, from July to October, he supplied the pulpit of the First Church of Philadelphia, Penna., then received and accepted a call as its pastor, on October 1, 1882. He continued as pastor of this church until March 1, 1921, when on account of failing health he was obliged to resign. Ac cepting his resignation the congregation elected him pastor emeritus. During the period of his pastorate he received into the congregation over a thousand members, an average of twenty-six per year. On May 5, 1884, he was ordained an Elder or Bishop as the office was then known. The Revs. Moses H. Gottshall, John H. Oberholtzer, Andrew B. Shelly and Levi O. Schimmel officiated.

On July 4, 1872, he was married to Salome C. Gottshall, the daughter of Joseph and Catharine Clemens Gottshall. They were permitted to live together in the happiest family relation until February 19, 1915, when she passed on to her rest. Six children were born to them, four sons and two daughters. ·Three of the children, Arthur, Lizzie Irene, and Katie died eary. The three sons, Silas, William, and Wallace grew up to manhood.

Silas, the oldest served as pastor of the Second Mennonite Church of Philadelphia, Pa., 39 years, and as editor of THE MENNONITE 25 years. William also entered the ministry of the Mennonite Church. serving Mennonite congregations as follows: Allentown, Pa.; Perkasie, Pa., which charge he founded; Quakertown and East Swamp, Pa.; Trenton, Ohio, Eden at Schwenksville, Pa., 3 years; Normal, Illinois, 8 years, and more recently the congregational Churches at Cobden, Dwight and Emington, Ill.

During Rev. N. B. Grubb's ministry at Schwenksville he preached regularly at Bertolets and frequently at Hersteins which before the divison was an outpost of Skippack. For several years he supplied the church at Rockhill, near Telford and Skippackville, Pa., for Rev. David G. Bergy, who on account of age was obliged to retire. He served as assistant to Rev. Moses Gottshall for ten years supporting himself and family by working at his trade as miller. Sometimes he worked as day laborer and for some time managed a hay bailing business. He also clerked at the Pennsylvania Farmers' Hotel in Philadelphia, Pa. But that did not appeal to him and he had returned to the mill when he was called to the ministry. Afterwards he studied at the Mennonite Seminary at Wadsworth, Ohio, having had the benefit of the Public School and Frederick Institute, Frederick, Penna., (now the Mennonite Home for the Aged), and later was instrumental in the establishment of the Home.

Rev. Grubb contributed widely to religious publications, was a member of the Pennsylvania German Society, the Montgomery County Historical Society and the Mennonite Historical Society, which he founded. In 1887 he founded a job printing establishment in Schwenksville, Pa., which later became the home of "the Schwenksville Item," a weekly newspaper still published there.

He passed to his eternal reward on Monday, April 25, 1938 at 2 P. M., following a long illness. He was 87 years of age, at the time of his death. Surviving him is his son and family, Rev. William H. Grubb, the pastor of the Congregational Church, Dwight, Illinois, also the family of his other son, Rev. S. M. Grubb.

DETTWEILER, MRS. KATIE, daughter of Daniel and Marie Hirschler, was born in Maxweiler, Bavaria, Germany, February 11, 1852. Died in Upland, California, April 27, 1938, at the age of 86. Her husband, John Dettweiler passed away in 1916. She leaves four children: B. D. Dettweiler, Phoenix, Ariz.; D. S. Dettweiler, Alta Loma, Calif.; Mrs. Anna Relph, Alta Loma; and Mrs. Emilie Roeben, Upland. Two sisters also survive her: Mrs. L. M. Ledig, Upland, and Mrs. S. S. Haury, Granville, Ohio. Two daughters preceded her in death: Katie, Feb. 29, 1916 and Tillie Horsch, wife of Rev. M. M. Horsch, March 10, 1923. Funeral service was held at the First Mennonite Church of Upland, Saturday, April 30, conducted by her pastor, Rev. Lester Hostettler, who spoke on "God Our Dwelling-Place" Psalm 90:1. Interment was made in the Bellevue Cemetery.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Junior C. E. Rally in Pennsylvania.—The Annual Spring Rally of the Perkiomen Valley Branch Junior C. E. was held on April 24, 1938, at the Palm Schwenkfelder Church, Palm, Pa. Mrs. Russel Bechtel led the song service. It consisted of Scripture reading, prayer, solos, readings and duets. The following societies were present: Bally, Schwenksville and Palm. Dr. E. S. Johnson of the Herford Church and Rev. Lester K. Kriebel of Palm Schwenkfelder Church brought addresses to the gathering. The banner was awarded to Bally for having the highest percentage. Fifty-one Juniors were present.

—Alberta Community Church, Portland, Ore. — Several exquisitely artistic Sunday programs have again reached us from this church. We have been told that Mrs. Christine Miller, wife of the pastor, is the person that does this work greatly to the delight and blessing of those who are favored with copies. May God bless you, dear sister. Art is a wonderful handmaid of religion, and you can hardly realize the good you are doing by your inspired use of it.

—Quotation from one of the Miller folders: "Sometimes we wish we had lived in the time of Christ's human presence in the world. We look back at the incarnation as earth's brightest and most glorious period of history. Yet, under the blessed reign of the Holy Spirit we have far richer privileges than those who knew Christ in the flesh. We have the same blessed presence now, only without the limitation of the flesh. He can now be to millions everywhere, even for more than He was then to a few favored ones.

—Items in Closing Exercises of Bluffton College.—May 2 to June 11 various student music recitals.—June 5, Choral Society, "The Creation" by Hayden. June 11, Alumni and Old Students' Day.—June 12, Baccalaureate Service and Vesper Choir Concert.—June 3, Class Day.—June 14, Thirty-eighth Annual Commencement.

—Note from Prof. G. A. Lehmann to the Pastor of First Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio. "Please permit me to send you this note of thanks for the wonderful reception to our choir on Sunday morning. You cannot know how very much it meant to the members of the choir and to me personally, to have such a large audience and so generous an offering as well as such a banquet . . . there was practical Christianity at work. . . . It was grand of you all to be so good to us."

—Second Church, Beatrice, Nebr., May 3, '38.—Last Friday the Bethel College Gospel Team gave a very good program in our church. Saturday evening the young people of First and Second churches gave the young men a reception in the beautiful Chautauqua Park.

—Indiana Endeavorers meet.—A greeting from the Endeavorers of Indiana gathered in Spring Retreat in South Bend, April 23-24, informs us "two hundred and ninety-three Endeavorers have been gathered here in Retreat this week end and have again rededicated their lives to the cause of Christ. Now they return to their church homes inspired anew to serve "for Christ and the Church."

—The Friendly Church that Helps, Philadelphia, Pa. —It was just 46 years last Thursday that Brother J. B. Bechtel was ordained as deacon of the First Church. His service has been appreciated. May the Lord grant him many more years.—Rev. William Grubb, pastor of Congregational Church, Dwight, Ill., will preach at our morning service today, May 1.

—From Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bergman, Frazer, Montana. — "Dear Editor: Just a personal note of appreciation for the paper. We like it and look forward to its coming. We liked especially the Daily Meditations furnished by J. B. Epp, and use them in connection with our daily devotion. They seem to have been chosen especially for us. Wishing you the Lord's continuous blessing in your work, we are sincerely.—Frazer, Montana, May 2, 1938."

—Rev. David Toews, Rosthern, Sask., upon whom much of the work in preparation for the Conference in Saskatoon depends, is making arrangements to procure song pamphlets, such as our Western District Conference has, and writes that he expects to be in Newton around the first of June.

—PEACE RALLY, was held by the Mennonite churches of Goshen, Ind., and vicinity, on Sunday, April 24. Dr. C. H. Smith and Dean N. E. Byers were the speakers. "There are millions in men and money back of the forces that make for war. Addresses such as those given encourage the forces that are striving for peace."

—From the Bulletin of the Hereford Church, Bally, Pa. — "Make this place of worship your Church Home. Help to preserve the spiritual life in the community by your presence at the hour of worship and assist in prospering the spiritual and moral welfare of this parish by uniting with this church."

—At the Mennonite Church, Berne, Ind., a chorus of one hundred voices presents Hayden's "Creation" under the direction of Prof. Freeman Burkhalter, supervisor of music in the Berne schools.

—National Hospital Day, May 12th.—It has become customary in American hospitals to hold open house at this time of spring. Our Mennonite hospitals are all getting ready to receive the friends of the institutions, and to celebrate the day with appropriate programs.

—Eighty-five men of the Salem church near Freeman, S. D., recently spent a day graveling the entire parking space around the church. "In unity there is strength." —Courier.

—Good Use of Leisure.—We have a number of men in the town of Freeman who make good use of their leisure time. They have a shop above the Freeman Lumber Co. office, where they work every evening and make all sorts of articles. They have such workshops in many other towns—Courier.

—Church Attendance in New York.—The city of New York with its 7,000,000 inhabitants has 1,074 protestant churches with 554,000 members which is scarcely eight per cent of the total population. Of those who hold memberships only forty per cent, or just two per cent of the total, actually attend church.

In no way can we rejoice mother's heart more than by turning to mother's God and mother's Bible.

NOT I

"Not I but Christ,"
So came I to the Cross
In all my weakness
And in all my dross,
"I would believe,"
So said my heart to Thee;
"Yea, I would die,
That Thou canst live in me."

What was my life
But failure, shame and loss,
And longing only
For the wondrous Cross
Where Thou wouldst take
And change this self for Thee
And then, not I,
But Thou wouldst live in me.

God brought me there
Beneath the Cross that day.
I died and all of self
Was washed away.
I felt the surge
Of life within the breast,—
Thy life, new born,
That rose and spoke and blessed.

How can it be
That self, once dead, can rise
E'en for a moment
In its sinful guise;
That I should want
Myself instead of Thee,
When self is loss
And Thou art gain to me?

No, Lord, not I;
There is no need of me;
The world is waiting—
It hath need of Thee.
Here, at the Cross,
I would forever die;
Here at the Cross
Forever Thee, not I. —J.S.A.

WHAT SHALL WE DO ABOUT IT? In obedience to the General Conference Constitution, which prohibits membership in secret societies, the churches of the Western District have so far, under the merciful guidance of God, been able to steer clear of the lodges. Mennonites who might also be connected with lodges, go counter mainly to apostolic injunctions which, after all, is less serious than ignoring any of Christ's own fundamental teachings, such as the ban against the bearing of arms to kill fellow men or the taking of oaths. Now, it has been known for some time that some members of Mennonite churches in the Western District have, in the process of obtaining their citizenship papers, by oath obligated themselves to take up arms in defence of this country, should such occasion arise. Such individuals probably feel that the country that grants them all the rights and privileges of a free American citizen, also has a right to ask their protection in case of need. That may be fairly good logic. But, to assume by oath the obligation to take up arms and fight, goes counter to two of the basic teachings of our Lord Jesus Christ and our own Mennonite doctrines which prohibit the taking of oaths and the taking up and use of arms to kill. It is very regretable that through these occurrances the start has been made of a movement in the direction away from what we as a group of believers have stood for so long, and a way opened to tempt others to take the same course. The Western District Ministers' Conference at its recent session took note of this matter, and passed a resolution requesting the Peace Committee to exert its efforts toward the conservation of the fundamentals of our faith. But it would seem that the Conference itself needs to take its stand on this problem.

DO WE NEED A MORE MANLY CHRIST?— One of the charges against Christianity is, that it is principally a religion for women and children, that it lacks the virility and dynamics that appeal to real, red-blooded men. But does this supposed weakness really lie in the religion and not rather in our presentation of it. May it be that our preachers and teachers have made too much of the meek, patient, lamb-like, effeminate side of Christ's life and being and not enough of the manly and heroic? A certain Christian leader says, "I know a number of preachers and priests who believe that this is the solution of the problem. They pride themselves as being men's men. Their efforts are all devoted to the capture and conversion of men. They adopt a bluff, bright, breezy manner and mode of address and present a manly Christ. But, the more they seek to be super-Nietzschean fishers of men, the more crowded their churches are with women. When they are not ridiculous they are apt to be repulsive, for in their efforts to be men they forget to be gentlemen." No, if Christ is properly analyzed in all that he has been, has done and still is and does, and is presented in true form, he will appeal to the manliest of men and the most heroic of characters. Has there ever been greater heroism than that of bearing the sin of the whole world and that of dying the terrible death on the cruel cross to redeem a lost world? What our preachers need to do is to present Christ and the Christian religion as the Apostle Paul did, great, superb in his suffering, in his death, in his resurrection, as the conquering hero over sin, death, and Satan, but greatest of all in his unfathomable love for fallen humanity.

IN MEMORY OF P. R. AESCHLIMAN

An other servant's work is finished,
He's gone to his reward,
His pilgrimage is over,
May he in peace depart.
From earth he was transplanted,
In yonder garden fair,
Where he shall be most useful,
To serve his Master there.

On earth his path was rugged,
Sometimes misunderstood.
He bore his grief and sorrow,
In silence as he should.
He loved his friends so dearly,
Some stood by him so near,
In sunshine and prosperity,
Or days dark and dreary.

In church his place is vacant,
Yet 't seems he must be there;
And all around seems destitute,
At home his vacant chair.
We need him, O we miss him,
To us it's grief and sorrow;
Though weeping may be for a night,
There dawns a bright tomorrow.

THE CHURCH AND EVANGELISTIC TASK AT BASNA

By W. F. Unruh, India

It may not be amiss to attempt a description of the church and evangelistic activities at Basna. It is hard to describe a work impersonally, when it is close to one's heart. Recently the Baptist Mission to the south of our field has given over to us the shepherding of six churches with Christians living in nineteen villages. This part of the Baptist field is in the Phuljar state where Hindi is the language mostly used and logically belongs to our field. In the Baptist field the Oriya language is used. The Baptists have such a large work that they felt unable to take care of these churches from a distance and so they have asked us to assume the responsibility of this part of the field. The Basna field has Christians living in twenty different villages. Since the Phuljar part of the Baptist field has been added to ours we have Christians in 39 different villages to shepherd. This is a tremendous task. The only way to keep these Christian people true to the Lord is to bring the Word of God to them regularly. At present there are three avenues by which we bring the Word of God to them.

First is the Sunday worship service in as many villages as possible. We attempt to help and guide our preachers in preparing their Sunday worship messages. Every month on the Monday and Tuesday following the last Sunday of the month the preachers gather to prepare messages and sermons for the Sundays of the next month. We prepare the sermons together, deliver them before each other and thus help each other to become more efficient in preaching the Word of God. Just this morning we finished one such monthly Preachers' Retreat. Ten of the leading preachers were present. These monthly retreats provide a good training and a fine check-up on the work in the different groups. Each preacher is to have two services on Sunday.

A second plan to bring the Word of God to the Christians is to have a two-weeks Bible School or Bible Course in each village, where there are Christians. The Christians are all enrolled and taught. Often non-Christians also learn. A series of Bible stories and Christian songs are taught. Four people are at present in the village Sukri carrying on this work. Gerrabhatta, where seven people could be baptized and added to the church, is one of these places.

A third way to bring the Word of God to the people is through evening group worship in each village. With this we have not gotten very far as yet, because it is a new venture, but we are determined to hammer away at it until it becomes an established custom in each group. We feel confident that if the Word of God is daily read and heard and there is daily prayer and worship in each group, the Church of Christ will be established and will grow.

The above relates to the Christian groups out in the villages. The Judishpur Compound Church at Basna is another task which calls for continual attention. The main work here is this: Sunday morning before church services we have a catechism class for the young people. At 9 a.m. there is the regular Sunday preaching service. Then a group of local villagers meet for instruction for baptism. They must first learn the Apostle's Creed and the Lord's Prayer, so that they will be able to take part in the worship services. Sunday afternoon is Sunday School. The Basna missionaries all teach except I. I go out in the afternoon to a village about three miles away to worship with a group there. The C. E., which meets every Thursday evening at about sunset, is supervised by Mrs. Unruh. On Wednesday evenings, at about sunset, the weekly para prayer meetings are held. They are led by the different missionaries and by a few leading Indian brethren. In each para (part of the village) a group meets with a leader in an open court yard. These prayer meetings are used of God and honored.

Christian Education

OUR APATHETIC COLLEGE GRADUATES

J. D. Unruh

There isn't a Mennonite community in the United States but what has practices that are contrary to approved ethical standards and Christian ideals. Neither is there a community but what has the potential leaders to divert the ways of the people into channels that would be more in keeping with the abundant life as exemplified by Our Savior. Both pointed statements —yet, I believe, true. The logical question to ask then, is this: Why don't we see more concrete results? The answer is that we have too few capable young people who are willing to take the risk of breaking from traditional customs with consequent penalty. Too few who would say with Queen Esther: "And so will I go in unto the king, which is not according to the law: and if I perish. I perish." (Esther 4:16)

Most of our students are too willing to follow well trodden paths. Somehow in our colleges we can get students all "keyed" up as to what needs to be done to solve some of our social, economic, political and religious problems, but once out of college these folks lose their zeal and fall into the same old "ruts". But what a thrill awaits the few who get into the stream of life and begin to divert it from worn channels into those channels that offer the satisfied life in Jesus Christ.

THE NEGLECTED TEACHING

2. CHRIST'S BUSINESS

Christ claims first place in one's life, and how can a man give first place to Christ and His program until he is ready to give Him first place in his pocketbook? These were vital principles under the old Jewish law of the tithe. The old Jews were commanded to pay the first tenth to God, because it helped them to recognize God's first claim on everything. Surely those of us who really will put Christianity first—and mean it—will not hesitate to covenant to pay Him at least the tenth and let it be the first tenth. It will serve as a pledge to Jesus Christ that we intend to keep Him and His Kingdom first.

Christ wants us to mean business about His big business of reconstructing the world. We can't really be sure we mean business about Christ's business until we are ready to "consecrate" our pocketbooks as a part of ourselves. Money talks. That is, money tells whether we are interested deeply or not. You can't really be sure that your pocketbook is on the altar until you are ready regularly to pay to Christ's work at least the "first fruit" of your income to prove it. To pay a tithe is to say, "Lord Jesus, I consecrate my all to Thy big task, and here is my tenth to show Thee that I mean it."—A. E. Peterson.

Our "American Mother of 1938"

Mrs. Grace Noell Crowell, distinguished American poet from Texas, was crowned "American Mother of 1938", in New York City, on Mother's Day, May 8. Of the many things that the papers had to say of this event, we give the following as significant: Smiling happily, but modestly belittling herself as a symbol of American motherhood, Mrs. Crowell, a gray-haired, kindly-eyed mother of three grown sons, said in part, "No woman is big enough spiritually or mentally to claim the honor (of American Mother) as her personal due. Every mother should make religion the deep foundation of her house, for without it her work would indeed be futile.... Boys and Girls today need God—desperately. Without him they would be like rudderless ships on a stormy sea."

Mary Pickford, who was present to pay tribute to the "Mother", concluded her remarks with these lines from Mrs. Crowell's poems:

"So long as there are homes where fires burn and there is bread,
"So long as there are homes where lamps are lit and prayers are said,
"Although people falter through the dark and nations grope,
"With God Himself back of these little homes, we still can hope."

The Mennonite Principle of Adult Baptism

The Mennonite Church practices adult baptism or believer's baptism only, and was historically the first of the Reformation churches to insist that only persons of adult age who realize the need of baptism and express a desire to receive it are scripturally qualified to receive it. The forerunners of the Mennonites were the Anabaptists who were the most radical wing of the Reformation movement. The term Anabaptists was given this group by their enemies and in German is expressed as "Wiedertaeufer". This term literally means re-baptizers. This was not the correct view, according to Anabaptist thinking; they were not rebaptizers because they did not count the reception of this rite as an infant as having been baptism. They were rather adult baptizers.

By their strenuous adherence to the doctrine of believer's baptism, the Anabaptists rejected the doctrine of infant baptism which was held by the Catholic Church and the Reformation movements of the day. This difference was historically the subject of much dispute. The Zurich Council ordered a final disputation on January 17, 1525, with the hope of settling the question. With the support of the civil authorities the adherents of infant baptism were declared victorious. A decree was passed ordering all Anabaptist leaders to leave Zurich and demanding that all children should be baptized within eight days.

This edict set the stage for the introduction of adult baptism upon confession of faith. At a private home during February of 1525 were gathered Conrad Grebel, George Blaurock, Felix Manz, and others to institute a new church. Grebel baptized Blaurock who in turn baptized a number of others. It must be remembered, however, that baptism was only one of a set of distinguishing principles on the part of this new movement. The doctrine of infant baptism was, however, closely related to the doctrine of the state church. An individual was baptized as an infant into the state church just as an individual today may become a citizen of his native country of birth. It was clear to our early leaders that such a system was not productive of a pure church and that the church must be a voluntary organization of believers admitted by adult baptism only.

Where did our forefathers get this doctrine? There is only one answer; by reading the New Testament. A traditional church form was not acceptable to them when the whole authority of the New Testament was against this interpretation of baptism. They found an emphasis throughout the New Testament of faith in Christ and the Christian program of salvation as an essential prerequisite for baptism. They found no cases of infant baptism but many of adult baptism on confession of faith.

As they read the New Testament, they found that Jesus was Himself baptized by John the Baptist as He was about to enter on His public ministry. While Jesus Himself did not baptize anyone, yet we are told that His disciples did. In the great commission given after His Resurrection, Jesus told His disciples to go and teach and baptize all nations. This they proceeded to carry out already at Pentecost when Peter urged upon his hearers to repent and be baptized, and afterwards three thousand were baptized and added to the group of Christian believers. All through the Book of Acts there are instances of the baptism either of individuals, as the Ethiopian by Philip and Saul by Ananias, or of groups such as Cornelius and his household by Peter, and the Jailor and Philippi by Paul and Silas. All these instances are of adult or believer's baptism.

The very meaning of baptism implies the necessity of faith. We think of water baptism as a symbol accepted by the believer as a public confession of Christ; as a sign of membership in Christ's church; as symbolizing cleansing, regeneration, and the baptism of the Holy Spirit; as signifying being buried with Christ, dead to sin and having risen with Christ to newness of life in Him and through Him.

Infant consecration as practiced in many of our churches embodies all the benefits of infant baptism without any of its objections. While there are some instances given in the New Testament that would permit the assumption that children were baptized, yet it is no where specifically stated that they were, nor is it any where stated that they should be. Many of our churches today, although firmly believing in adult baptism, also show a spirit of Christian love to those churches that practice infant baptism by receiving into their membership those who have been baptized in those groups holding to the latter precept.

The doctrine of adult baptism has found favor with several other Christian churches and is now adhered to by several Christian bodies in America which have a combined membership of approximately ten million communicants.

The following scriptural passages may be examined with a view toward an understanding of baptism both as to who is qualified to receive it and also as to its nature: Matt. 3:1-17, Matt. 28:16-20, Mark 16:16, Acts 2:37-42, Acts 8:36-39. Acts 10:44-48, Acts 16:27-34, Acts 19:1-7, Romans 6:1-8, Gal. 3:23-29, Col. 2:8-15, and Eph. 4:1-6.—From Eastern District.

ONLY ONE MOTHER

Hundreds of stars in the pretty sky,
Hundreds of shells on the shore together,
Hundreds of birds go winging by——
Hundred of bees in the sunny weather,
Hundreds of dewdrops to greet the dawn,
Hundreds of lambs in the purple clover,
Hundreds of butterflies on the lawn
But only one Mother the wide world over—
God Bless Her.

SAVING YOUR FACE

Matt. 16:25

A good man said to me recently, "If you want to save your face you had better stay away from . . . ." Since then I have been thinking a bit. I have been asking myself whether my face is worth saving. I doubt it. I have never yet seen a preacher's face that was worth saving. Too many ecclesiastical dignitaries have the foolish notion that they must save their faces.

If the teaching of Jesus means anything, it means that more of us should be willing to lose our faces in the saving of our souls. We can well afford to lose our faces if in it all we may save our souls.

And may it not be that our Church is facing a threatening condition relative to our future leadership, a condition of which too few of us are conscious? Not infrequently men face death unawares because of some organic defect in body which needs surgical care, and only too frequently, before anything is done it is too late to even hope for recovery.

May it be that there is developing in our donominational system, somewhere between our Colleges, Bible Schools and Seminaries, a condition which may prove fatal to our existence? I am only asking the question. Are there symptoms of ecclesiastical appendicitis? How long shall we wait until we operate?

Well, at any rate, I am not interested in saving my face. I am interested in saving the soul of our Church, and to do this we must create divinely inspired prophets for our ministry to take the place of those good and faithful men who are dropping out of the ranks. Doubtless this will cost some of us our faces, but what is a face beside a soul? — J.E.H.

The Mass and The Man

Soul winning has suffered from the criticism—sometimes just—of mass evangelism. While personal interest in souls is always the heart of evangelism, no one would deny that the largest blessing has come to the greatest number of individuals when the mass has been moved toward God.

The mass is made up of single souls, but there seems to be a community soul also. There is individual consciousness, but who can doubt that there is also corporate consciousness. Men are swayed en masse. Why deny a law of our nature?

Our day is particularly one of mass movements. Propaganda forming the mind of the mass and a personality seizing the imagination of the mass, and you have a one-sentence analysis of Communism and Fascism. This is what has occurred in Russia, Italy and Germany.

Even those who in our own country are strenuous advocates of the social gospel (and remember the gospel is social in aim) are making their appeal to the mass. But that is another thing from making it social in aim. Some of them in the manner of the demagogue are narrowing the mass appeal to a class appeal.

With all of the collective philosophies, reasonings and bargainings in the air, is it not opportune that the witness for Christ press his testimony to individual man? This means propaganda for Christ with the expectation that the great Personality would capture the imagination and will of the multitude and the revival would be here.

But alas, the average Christian has little contribution to make in an attempt to propagandize a community for Christ. The gospel is good news, but he has no news to tell. He can talk of duties to be performed and of social goals to be attempted, but where in all that, is the "good news"? The news is concerning something that happened. Someone died to be our redemption, and the same Someone lives to be our life. Oh, it is good news indeed, the best news the world ever heard.

You do not originate this "good news." You do not modernize this gospel. You merely proclaim it. But proclaim it you must. Be certain a living Christ is real in your own life, and then by your character, by word of mouth, and by the word of Scripture, gently, lovingly, prayerfully propagandize for Him until the revival or the return.—Moody Monthly.

Every time we see a sunset, we must correlate this with the fact that between the time the sun rises upon our daily life and the time it sets in the evening, thirty-five persons that day rising with plans and hopes and expectations will have been murdered. There is a death by criminal violence in the U. S. every forty-five minutes."

MAINTAINING PERSONAL EFFICIENCY

(A Personal Aspect of Temperance)

Daniel 1:8-16, 19, 20; 1 Cor. 9:24-27

Introduction

Daniel, one of the Hebrew captives, was in training for a place of high honor in the king's palace in Babylon (v4). His food was to be served from the royal kitchen. Daniel knew God and His laws, and his determination to keep these laws relating to his food and drink led to

His Firm Resolution vs. 8-10

Daniel, "purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself" (v8). This is the key to his entire life and the secret of his success and power. The real purpose of a man's heart tells what he is. Daniel's whole career rested upon his heart purpose. Daniel decided what to do before the time of temptation came. Moral victories are won before the actual battle. Much of the king's meat was unclean according to the law and had first been offered to idols. The wine, he was persuaded, would defile his body. His purpose was fixed. Bodies are given to us to be kept clean and holy. Daniel made a polite request—not arbitrary refusal—to the prince of the eunuchs.

God was rewarding him for his faithfulness (v9), was helping him now. We may always depend on Him to help His faithful children. Our privilege is to please Him.

Daniel Proposes a Test vs. 11-14

Daniel's confidence in the simple, wholesome diet of pulse—a vegetable diet—and pure water was unbounded (v12). He felt sure God would not let His children suffer because of loyalty to Him. A ten day's trial, he believed, to be convincing to all. He had enough confidence in his religion to put it to a practical test. Have we such confidence in a critical time? Make the test, Daniel proposed (v13), then examine the countenances carefully and judge for yourself. Daniel had not changed his purpose in the least.

Result of the Test vs. 15-20

Daniel's faith was not disappointed (v15). Some see in this an argument for a vegetable diet. Daniel depended largely upon God for results. This test and the result is a strong argument for obeying God and seeking to please Him. God was pleased with Daniel's noble choice and purpose. He blessed the simple food to the health of body and fairness of countenance. Daniel won a victory for himself (v16), did a service to the king, and he and his three associates were greatly rewarded of God (v17) with keenness of mind and understanding.

The king recognized the superior wisdom and understanding of these four young men (vs19, 20). The basis of their wisdom was God's Word. He bestowed this wisdom in answer to their unswerving obedience and as a preparation for their especial work. Their clean habits of life helped to make them healthy and efficient. Clean habits of living and clean thinking go hand in hand in character building.

Race for the Crown vs. 24-27

Daniel's motive for clean living was obedience to God's laws. Paul in these verses suggests another motive—the winning of a reward. All run in a race, but only one wins the prize (v24). All Christians should run with the same earnestness, self-denial and patience to obtain God's prize. In the Christian race, all who run may obtain the prize. Runners in races were temperate in all things (v25) which means abstinence from all things harmful to the body. Much more so must the one who would win in life's race, use like restraints, for he is striving for an imperishable crown. Self-control in all things, control over bodily appetites and desires, is essential (vs26, 27). Life is not a sham battle. With God's help each one can attain to self-control in all things. Daniel and his comrades first gave themselves to God. Do thou likewise.

Give Them Bricks

Listen to the children: "Who's afraid of the big bad wolf!"

That's all very well, but suppose there are millions of children instead of three little pigs, and more than one bad wolf, to be considered. This is the fact at the present time, and the children are in need of bricks with which to build themselves strong houses.

Who will deny that a good education is the most dependable defense against ignorance, gullibility and lawlessness? The Harrison-Thomas-Fletcher bill (a revision of the Harrison-Black-Fletcher) which is now before Congress is the result of a countrywide survey of our educational provisions. The study revealed some appalling conditions. Short school terms and classes taught by untrained teachers appear to be the rule in many parts of the country, and, of course, defenses are never stronger than their weakest spot.

The bill (S. 419, H.R. 10340) provides federal funds "for the purpose of lessening inequalities of opportunity for elementary and secondary education among States and within States." State sovereignty is carefully guarded.

This bill offers the bricks mentioned above. The children will use them if they are provided, but most of them will be satisfied with the materials at hand. Little they know how much, for them, is at stake in Congress just now. But you know; will you help these boys and girls?

Write first to the President of the United States, Washington, D. C. Speak of the bill by name and say you want it to become a law. Then write to your Senator and Congressman. If you and others neglect to do this, the children may get no bricks. Then when the wolf-like winds "huff and puff" and blow their poor little houses in, one moment of regret will be more wearisome than many hours of effort now spent in persuading neighbors and friends to write those letters or postcards. Of course the children have perfect faith in you and in everything else that is American. Hear them: "Who's afraid of the big bad wolf!"

The Hospitals in Jesus' Day Compared With Our Day

Topic for Sunday, May 1, Mennonite C. E. at Second Church, Beatrice, Nebr.

The word hospital is not used in Biblical literature. However, the inns used for the care of the sick served the same purpose as hospitals. They were located near a spring or well and were merely roofed archways, sometimes separated by partitions thus providing a separate room for each party. Not only the sick but travelers as well used the inns for their comfort.

Apparently, the patient provided his own nursing care; for we read that when the good Samaritan had applied first aid to his victim and had brought him to the inn, he himself stayed to care for him until the next day and then paid the innkeeper for the man's future needs.

Also at the pool at Bethesda the one impotent man had waited 38 years to receive the healing benefits of the water because he had no man or nurse to atttend to him. The others, described as the lame, the halt, and the blind had their own men to put them into the pool.

The modern hospital with its lavish display of marble and fine furnishings is a far cry from the inn of Jesus' day. Here a highly organized corps of nurses and attendants are eager to minister to the needs of the sick and would be humiliated to have history record that one of their patients had waited 38 years for a single service.

Twenty-four hours a day the sick are tended. The single attendant has given place to countless seen and unseen servants. There is the laboratory technician to count the number of red and white cells in your blood; the bedside nurse to wash and comfort you; the dietitian to prescribe your diet and the cook to prepare it; and the many others whom the patient may never see.

Today control of hospitals is exercised either by the government or such non-government agencies as the church, an organization, or private ownership. With the advent of the church the majority of non-government hospitals are church owned and regarded as one of their missionary enterprises. The nursing service is usually provided by men or women who have taken a 3 year course of study to prepare them and yet we dare not say that they are more successful than the ardent and devoted Phebe—our first visiting nurse whom Paul describes as a saint and succourer of many.

The patients are segregated into departments such as medical, surgical, and mental and nervous, the latter group occupying over half of all hospital beds in the United States. This means that 57 percent of all patients hospitalized are classified as mental and nervous. Dare we not say that perhaps many of these have waited more than 38 years for a helping hand?

The art of healing has not changed. More scientific to be sure, but always and forever it must be coupled with faith in the healing power of our Lord.

—Ursula Penner.

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, SUMMERFIELD, ILL.

Our congregation has been very fortunate this spring in having several brethren of the ministry as visitors. On March 13, Rev. J. M. Regier, who was on his way to attend a meeting of the Home Mission Board at Quakertown, Pa., stopped off at St. Louis to visit his daughter who is taking nurses' training at one of the hospitals. On Sunday morning he came over to Summerfield and brought us a very timely and helpful message at the morning service.

From March 30 to April 1, we had the rare privilege of a visit from the Field Secretary of the General Conference, Dr. H. A. Fast. During his stay with us, he spoke several times and presented the work of the General Conference in a very unique and interesting way. It was very encouraging and inspiring to see how our General Conference work, from its small beginning 75 years ago, has grown and expanded to its present proportions. Surely the Lord has blessed our efforts, so let us not become weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not.

From April 6-8, Rev. S. P. Preheim from Freeman, S. Dak. visited our church in the interests of our Publication Work. He spoke once and then solicited funds for the purpose of establishing our own printing house. There was a good response as our people seem to feel that we ought to have our own printing press. The same day that Rev. Preheim left, Rev. Carl J. Landes, executive secretary of the Mennonite Peace Society from Bluffton, Ohio, arrived to begin a series of meetings during the Passion Week. He brought us ten messages in which he emphasized the importance of having peace with God, with one another, and as races and nations of the world.

Our young people presented a Christmas pageant and also one again on Easter. These pageants presented the birth and the resurrection of our Lord in a very vivid and dramatic way which, no doubt, left a good impression both on those who took part and on the audience as well.

Recently the A-Capella Choir of Greenvile College gave a very fine sacred program which was enjoyed by all. Since we are so far away from other Mennonite churches, we feel that union services with other churches are helpful. On Good Friday, we had a union communion service with the St. John's Evangelical-Reformed Church of Summerfield and on Easter we had a sunrise service at the Evangelical-Reformed Church. This service was followed with a breakfast.

We had a very early spring. Many of the fruit trees blossomed in March, but about the middle of April we had a very hard frost which froze some of our fruit. At present we have prospects for a bountiful wheat crop and things in general are looking good. Several of our older members have been quite feeble and incapacitated during the past winter, but otherwise the health of our community is favorable. The pastor has been giving catechetical instruction to a class of young people and we are planning to have baptismal services on Pentecost.—Fraternally, Elmer Basinger.

EBENEZER MENN. CHURCH, BLUFFTON, O.

Miss Alice Treuschel, instructor of Bible and religious work at Bluffton, sponsored a program. As many of the Ebenezer children attend their school, afternoon services April 10 were omitted, to attend the program.—Communion and baptismal services were held Easter Sunday, a. m., twenty-six were received by baptism.—An Easter cantata rendered April 17, p. m., by home talent, assisted by Miss Habegger, Berne, Ind., was a real success.—After an illness of twenty months, Miss Fannie Amstutz, 42, died on Easter Sunday, in the Community Hospital, Bluffton, Ohio. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Amstutz. Surviving are her parents, five brothers, three sisters. Miss Fannie was a faithful worker for the Lord at Ebenezer. Burial at Ebenezer, Rev. P. A. Kliewer officiated, speaking on Ps. 4:8.—April 24 Rev. Preheim was with us in the interest of the General Conference publication work. He preached here twenty-five years ago.—Many attended the musical program at Bluffton, Mendelssohn's "Elijah", under the direction of Prof. G. A. Lehman, by the Rochester Chapel Choir, Rochester, New York.—On May 1 Rev. Harold Burkholder will bring us the message; on May 8 our pastor, P. A. Kliewer, expects to hold a children's consecration meeting, and for May 15 we are looking forward to having Rev. and Mrs. Moyer, on furlough from India, to preach for us.

We are rejoicing greatly at the literature received from Ezra B. and Elizabeth G. Steiner. Here is just a brief quotation by these faithful workers, "I looked across into the land to which men who know not what they do say, the Gospel shall not be brought. I had now reached what I had sought for many years. Stepping ten feet inside Tibet, with my cane I planted the cross in the snow on Tibetan soil, Mt. Lipu. I read Matt. 28:19-20 and my life verse, John 3:16. I offered a fervent prayer that God might soon swing the gate wide open to the messengers of His Gospel."

HEREFORD MENN. CHURCH, BALLY, PA.

Greetings from the Herefrod Church: Our New Year was ushered in with the annual service of Praise on the first Sunday of the year, when different talent was presented during the service. We had just been in the midst of our activities for the month of January when Mrs. Amy Latshaw Berky, a life-long member of our church, was removed by death. She was the wife of our physician, Dr. O. W. Berky. She died on January 16 and was buried on the 20th.

Our young people attended and enjoyed a Fellowship Banquet on February 4th, in the Schwenkfelder Church at Palm. Our pastor, Dr. Elmer E. S. Johnson, was the guest speaker. Special services were held during the Sunday morning worship services in commemoration of the celebration of C. E. Week. This year marks the 50th anniversary for C. E. in Pennsylvania and the 51st for our church.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bieler celebrated their 25th anniversary on Sunday, February 20th. Mrs. Bieler was confined to her room and the members of the congregation remembered them on their anniversary date with cards, gifts and flowers. On February 25th she passed away and was buried on March 1st. She, too, was an active member of our church as well as its organizations. Our congregation was greatly saddened by the death of two of its members within six weeks' time. But God knows best and we question not.

The Peace Play "Let My People Go", was presented by our young people on Sunday evening, March 6. The Bluffton College Gospel Team presented a program in our church on March 27. Andrew Shelly, one of our members who is a member of the team, preached the sermon. Their message in song and speech was very inspirational and well appreciated. The Quarterly Ministerial Conference of Ministers and Deacons was held at our church on March 28th.

We again held Easter Dawn Services at 6:00 o'clock Easter Sunday morning. This was followed by a Children's Worship Service at 10:00 o'clock. The members of our Primary Department were present rendering a few selections.—These, together with many other events, have been the activities of our church. We have had joyous events as well as the sorrows of life. In the spirit of fidelity and hope we push on to greater things for our church, community and our Christ. —Correspondent.

Set June 5 For Finals of Western District Oratory

Many Compete for Free Retreat

McPherson, Kans., May 9.—The date for the finals of the Western District Oratory, which will find three Oklahoma C. E. members competing with three Kansans, has been set for June 5, to be held in connection with the Mennonite Song Festival.

Nineteen contestants from these two states who represented the pick of their C. E.'s entered into the oratory, a joint peace, missions, retreat contest with each entrant writing and delivering his own ten-minute talk. The prize in all three is an expense-paid retreat to the annual Western District Young People's Retreat.

While the contest element has been used, the main purpose of the oratory is to promote a genuinely Christian educational program among the C. E.'s of the Western District Conference. The local, regional, and final contests are open to the public, and everyone is cordially invited.

The Oklahoma entrants were selected in a regional oratory on May 2. This was sponsored by Hilda Wiebe at Meno, Oklahoma. The Kansas elimination will be held in the Bethel College chapel on Thursday, May 19.

The Western District Convention is sponsoring this oratory for the first year as a part of their convention program. They have a capable and progressive convention president in Rev. Walter H. Dyck, pastor of the Burrton Mennonite Church. Miss Hilda Wiebe is secretary of the Convention.

KANSAS ELIMINATION CONTEST

The Kansas elimination of the Western District Christian Endeavor Convention Oratory will be held in the Bethel College auditorium on Thursday, May 19, at 7:30 p.m.

All entrants should report between 7:00 and 7:30 to the desk in the lobby of the administration building.

The following entries have been approved: Peace—Rufus Baehr, Bethel College Mennonite Church; Eldon Flickner, Eden Mennonite Church, Moundridge; Harley Stucky, Hopefield Mennonite Church, Moundridge. Missions—Paul Goering, First Mennonite Church of Christian, Moundridge; Ella Janzen, Zion Mennonite Church, Elbing; Reuben Krehbiel, Eden Mennonite Church, McPherson; Rachel Unruh, Ebenfeld Mennonite Church, Montezuma, Retreat—Esther Hiebert, Lorraine Ave. Mennonite Church, Wichita; Edwin Stucky, Eden Mennonite Church, Moundridge.

The C. E. of the First Mennonite Church of Newton made reservations for three entrants before May 1. These will be included.

YOUTH MARCHES ON

PHILADELPHIA.—"We have been making strenuous effort to urge our Young people to attend both local and General Conference sessions." Are you doing likewise?

SOUDERTON, PA.—The young people of the Zion Mennonite Church of Souderton presented an Easter Drama entitled, "The Half of My Goods," on Palm Sunday night under the direction of Mrs. Henry Detwiler. The true message of the cross was revealed again to us in the stirring action of this drama, which centered about the life of one of the thieves who was crucified with Jesus.

SCHWENKSVILLE, PA.—The Zion Mennonite Young People visited the Eden Mennonite Young People of Schwenksville on the night of the Anniversary Service for their Christian Endeavor.

YOUR TOWN, TOO.—Much is going on, but we do not hear about it. Write us your news—everyone is interested.

WHAT'S IN THE BIBLE?

Exod. 34:27, 28; Luke 1:1-4; Acts 1:1-5
(Consecration Meeting)

Young People's Topic for June 5, 1938

Meditations:

M., May 30. History. I Cor. 10:1-12.
T., May 31. God's Law. Ps. 19:7-14.
W., June 1. Biography. Gen. 17:1-8.
T., June 2. Poetry. Ps. 25:1-6.
F., June 3. Prophecy. Isa. 40:1-11.
S., June 4. Story of Jesus and redemption. John 20:26-31; Col. 1:14.

Suggested Hymns:

"Holy Bible, Book Divine"
"Break Thou the Bread of Life"

No literature has influenced the life of man as has the Bible. No other book can be found in the posession of so many contrasting types of humanity. No other teachings are accepted, believed in, discussed, rejected, reviled by as many utterly different groups of individuals. The Bible has proved its way into the dingy hovels of city slums. It has proved its superiority over rival religious books in India, China, Africa. The plowman ponders its words while he is working. The minister depends on the Bible for his messages. Children marvel at its stories. The aged find comfort in its promises. The weary seek in it faith to surmount their discouragements. Philosophers attempt to analyze its structure. Scientists return to its haven when science fails to pierce the unkown. Those who oppose it need more skill and knowledge than is required to oppose any other writings. The universality of appeal of the Bible is undisputed.

Program Suggestions:

Select several members of your organization to prepare topics discussing the various types of literature found in the Bible. You might appoint another person as reader. It would be his duty to read aloud the Scripture passage as selected by the persons discussing them. If you'd rather, you can dispense with the reader and have each person read the Scripture passage linked with his own topic.

Following are some topics and suggested points that may be discussed in connection with each:

A. History—I Cor. 10:1-12.

1. What purpose is served by the history of the Bible?

2. How does it compare with other records of Bible times?

B. Biography—Gen. 17:1-8.

1. Who are some of the people whose biographies appear in the Bible?

2. Of what value are these records of others' lives?

C. Exhortation—Ecc. 1 or some other portion of Ecc.

1. Why is exhortation necessary? When is it needed?

2. Do Biblical exhortations still apply today?

D. Wise observations, proverbs, etc.—Prov. 16.

1. Are these observations still true to life today?

2. What helps a person to develop insight?

E. Illustrative stories—any of Christ's parables.

1. Why did Jesus use these stories?

2. Wherein lies their power today?

F. Poetry—any passage from The Psalms.

1. How does it compare with modern poetry?

2. How does the Psalmist depict emotional variations?

G. Drama—Esther 5:1-8; 7:1-7.

1. Note the action, suspense, and dramatic tension of these scenes.

2. What other scenes are good drama and why?

H. Prophecy—Isa. 40:1-11.

1. What is prophecy?

2. How does prophesying occur today?

I. Record of the life and teachings of Jesus—any passage from the gospels.

1. Wherein lies the old, yet ever new appeal of these stories?

2. Are Christ's teachings difficult to understand? Are they difficult to follow? Why do not more people follow them?

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Honesty---Truthfulness

Intermediate C. E. Topic, June 5, 1938

For Daily Study

May 31. Honest public servants. 1 Sam. 12:1-5.
May 30. Dishonest politicians. Amos 7:10-17.
June 1. A crooked soul. Acts 8:9-11.
June 2. Shining honesty. Job. 27:6.
June 3. The truth-speaker endures. Prov. 12:19.
June 4. The dry rot of falsehood. Ps. 101:1-7.
June 5. Topic — Honesty and truthfulness. Ps. 119:113-120.

Appropriate Songs

"True-hearted, Wholehearted," "Wonderful Words of Life," "Yield Not to Temptation," "In the Hour of Trial"

Worship Service

The same order can be followed as last week, varying some of the songs used. The following poem by Horatius Bonar can be used at a fitting time:

"Thou must be true thyself
  If thou the truth wouldst teach;
Thy soul must overflow if thou
  Another's soul wouldst reach:
It needs the overflow of heart
  To give the lips full speech.

Think truly, and thy thoughts
  Shall the world's famine feed;
Speak truly, and each word of thine
  Shall be a fruitful seed;
Live truly, and thy life shall be
  A great and noble creed."

For the Leader

David Livingston said of his ancestors: "My great-grandfather fell at the battle of Culloden, fighting for the old line of kings, but the only family tradition of which I feel proud is this: one of my forefathers on his deathbed said to his children round him, 'I have searched diligently all the traditions of our family, and I never found that there was a dishonest man among our forefathers. If, therefore, any of you take to dishonest ways, it will not be because it runs in our blood. I leave this precept with you, Be honest!' "

The importance of honesty and truthfulness becomes clear when we realize that our whole social structure depends upon it. Give examples from business, school and family life to show what an important part it plays. One cannot be dishonest and be a follower of the Christ who was the "Way, the Truth, and the Life." Our prayer should be that we might become conscious of any little dishonest practices of which we may be quilty.

Bible Illustrations

1. Honest public servants. 1 Sam. 12:1-5.
2. Honesty in religion. Acts 5:1-11.
3. Peter's practice. Gal. 2:11-16.
4. Honesty rewarded. Luke 19:12-17.

Discussing the Topic

What is the difference between honesty and truthfulness, if any?

2. Can we make a difference between little and big lies? Where does the evil come in? Are so called "white lies" ever necessary?

3. If you tell the truth you need not remember what you said. Is this true? How does one falsehood lead to another?

4. What are some common dishonest acts in business? in school life? in home life?

Short Talks

1. Honesty in work; in speech; in prayer.

Closing Moments

Consecration service. Ask each one to come prepared to give a verse of scripture that brings out the topic. Prepare verses for those who may fail to bring them. Suggested references: Phil 4:8; Prov. 11:1; Rom. 12:17; Prov. 12:19; Col. 3:23; Matt. 6:1; Matt. 6:5, 6; John 16:13; Eph. 4:14, 15.

Song: "I Would Be True" (This can be read responsively, instead of sung, the leader taking the first phrase, the group the second, and so on.)

Benediction: Jude 24, 25.

JUNIOR CORNER

LEADER'S MEDITATION

It is almost five months now since bells and whistles and guns ushered in the new year. Sitting before the fire, it seemed that a deeper fountain of the heart had been unloosed. There streamed forth the past strangely mixed with the future. Because the past had brought forth shortcomings and failures, the future came to its aid. The heart looked longingly to the year that was not yet and asked that it might not be as the one just passed.

Thinking thus with eyes lifted in prayer, there arose between the old and the new year, the figures of the Mighty One with eyes so loving and with arms outstretched. As once before, His voice called out again, "Peace unto Thee. Fear not, it is I."

And we who saw Him walked into His arms finding forgiveness and peace. With what joy we then looked forward to be used of Him in the tasks which the new year layed at our feet. Almost five months have passed since that holy hour of consecration. Five months are sufficient for a true check-up: Have I allowed the Mighty One to use me? Has His life, His power flown through me to quicken the hearts of those entrusted my care? Shall the work that has been done bring forth fruit through all eternity because I asked for seed from the Eternal One?

His promise to the sower is:

> He that supplieth seed to the sower and bread for food, shall supply and multiply your seed for sowing, and increase the fruits of your righteousness. II Cor. 9:10.

Where Are We?

In the past five months we have followed a series of studies based on John 3:16. We are now submitting the last study in this series. Would it be well to review the five months work at this time? This would leave three weeks for the June study. For many groups the June study will close the endeavor term. These then, who have no summer sessions, could close with a consecration night on the 26th following two heart studies. It is with these thoughts in mind that this general outline is submitted:

For June

"That whosover believeth on Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

Aim: a study of the truth that salvation is a gift bestowed upon simple belief.

June 5: Review night of five month's work
June 12: God gives eternal life
June 19: "Only believe"
June 26: "Come unto Me."

No new memory work is submitted for June. It would be better to use the memory work done since the first of the year.

What to Review?

For your convenience the half year's work is summarized here.

Studies

January. Theme: "God"
2. God the Present One
1. God the Father
3. God the Powerful One
4. God the Knowing One
5. God the Faithful One

2. God's love teaches me
3. God's love forgives me
4. God's love saves me

March. Theme: "The World."
1. Christ's command to the Church
2. Our conference set-up to answer the command
3. Our home mission work
4. Our foreign mission work

April. Theme: "That He Gave"
1. God Gives salvation
2. God Gives the Spirit
3. God Gives the power to work
4. God Gives the work

May. Theme: "The Only Begotten Son"
1. The Jesus-stories I love
2. The Jesus-hymns I love

CORRESPONDENCE

BETHEL CHURCH, LUSTRE, MONTANA, MAY 1

Within a little over half a year two young men of this congregation have been called Home. On September 26, 1937, DONALD BERGMAN, 18 years old, possed away after an emergency appendix operation, his death having been caused by pulmonary embolism. He was a true Christian, having witnessed for his Savior by his life and willingness to serve. He was an only son and is sadly missed, but the Lord makes no mistake and in this case also we submit to His will.

The other young man, not quite 18 years, was JACOB OLFERT, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Olfert. He was injured in a fall with a horse several years ago, and an internal injury, unnoticed until early this year, caused sarcoma, a cancerous condition of the hip. And after a lingering illness from January until April 6th, the Lord relieved him of his suffering. His mother was privileged to be at his bedside for over eight weeks, and both parents were with him when he peacefully passed away. Services were held at the church, Rev. Albert Ewert officiating and the Revs. A. A. Dick and John F. Thiessen of the M. B. Church assisting. The ministers spoke words of comfort to the bereaved parents and words to the young people, warning them to "remember their Creator in the days of their youth." Interment was also at the church cemetery.

On Good Friday afternoon the girls Mission Group of the church held their mite box program. Several readings from the Missionary News and Notes were given, a topic on "Giving" discussed and a number of songs rendered, after which the mite-boxes were collected and opened. Over forty dollars was found to have been offered in this way. This money is to be sent to the fund for returning missionaries to the fields.

The Lord is blessing with a heavy rain on this day. May He also bless spiritually as well as materially. —Correspondent.

BETHEL CHURCH, LANGDON, N. DAK., MAY 4

Dear Readers of the Mennonite:—Will try and tell you a few of the things and doings from here that might be of interest to at least some of you. On Easter Sunday three aged people, two brethren and one sister, were received into the church, the oldest, a man of 71 years. While listening to his testimony, I was reminded of the words, "All the years in sinning wasted, could I but recall them now." A group of people from Marge, Minnesota, came to Alsen to testify what the Lord had done for them, and also held meetings in the place for over a week, making many see their lost condition and come to their Savior. Sunday, May 1, Missionary Wiens from India told us about their work in that Mission field. At present Rev. Edward Duerksen is teaching a number of young people in Catechism. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Veer arrived from Chicago, where they had spent the winter and are visiting with their children at present. We had a wonderful rain out here Sunday, and the weather remains cool. Greetings to the Editor and Readers.—Mrs. I. Veer, Corr.

In Memoriam

MRS. CAROLINE OTTO, daughter of Samuel and Rosa Heer, was born in Mascoutah Township, St. Clair County, Ill. on February 28, 1866. She passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Richter, in St. Louis, Mo. on Monday, March 28, 1938, at the age of 72 years and 1 month.

In her youth she united with the Mennonite church at Summerfield, where she held her membership until her death.

On March 1, 1899, she was united in marriage with Henry Otto who preceded her in death February 5, 1926. This union was blessed with four children, two sons and two daughters, of whom a son and a daughter are still living.

She leaves to mourn her departure one daughter, Mrs. Herbert Richter, and one son, Adam Otto, both living in St. Louis, three grandchildren, one sister and one brother, besides many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon, March 31, at Moll's funeral parlor at Mascoutah in charge of Rev. Elmer Basinger. Interment was made in the Mascoutah cemetery.

AUGSPURGER, BENJAMIN K., son of Jacob N. and Barbara Kinsinger Augspurger, was born near Trenton, Ohio, September 11, 1869. He died very suddenly of a heart attack on April 11, 1938, at his home near Middletown, Ohio.

In his youth he united with the Mennonite Church of Trenton, Ohio, and remained a faithful member until taking up his residence in Middletown, at which time he transferred his membership to the First Presbyterian Church of that City.

On January 15, 1895, he united in marriage with Margaret E. Carr. He is survived by his devoted wife, two daughters, Mrs. Geo. H. Freeman and Mrs. E. F. Tarry, four grand-children, and one sister, Miss Lydia A. Augspurger.

Funeral services were held from his residence Thursday, April 14, 1938, at which time Dr. G. M. Gordon spoke words of comfort to the bereaved family, friends and neighbors. Burial in Woodside Cemetery, Middletown, Ohio.

AUGSPURGER, SARAH CONRAD, widow of the late Peter K. Augspurger, was born March 19, 1851, in Iowa, united in marriage February 23, 1871, and departed this life at her home in Camden, Ohio, April 17, 1938.

Brief funeral services were held at the Funeral Home in Camden, Ohio, and in the Mennonite Church at Trenton, Ohio, April 20, 1938.

Her pastor, Rev. J. E. Amstutz, based his remarks on John 10, verses 3, 4,6, 7, 11, 14, 27-29.

She is survived by one daughter, one son, one grand-daughter, and one grand-son.

Burial in the Mennonite Cemetery, Trenton, Ohio.

—How Live Longer and More Happily.—If people lived forty percent more simply and fifty percent more contentedly, most of the economic problems of our land would be solved. Not the size of possessions but being satisfied with what one has makes men happy and contented with their fate.—Vorwaerts.

—Bethel College will have its Seventh Annual Booster Banquet, sponsored by the Newton Chamber of Commerce, on Monday evening, May 16. A ten-dollar gift purchases a ticket to this gathering. Any ten-dollar donor may have additional tickets for friends or members of the family for a dollar each.—The Newton Rotary Club sponsors a concert by the Bethel A Capella Choir and the school's music department in Lindley Hall, May 17.—Surrounding churches are donating much work on the basement of Memorial Hall.

CELEBRATES 25TH BIRTHDAY

First Mennonite Church, Hutchinson

May, 1938

Twenty-five years ago our church had its birth in a gathering of 37, in the home of Jacob Sawatzky in Hutchinson. Rev. H. P. Krehbiel, sent out by the Western District Conference, preached the first sermon. He was assisted by four Bethel College students.

In commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of our church, special services for morning and evening were arranged. The opening sermon was delivered by our pastor Rev. C. H. Dirks, on Acts 28:15: "When Paul saw the brethren, he thanked God and took courage." Cooperating love in the past, blessed our church activities, enlarged our membership, deepened our devotion in Christian endeavor, and gave courage to cope with the future. Then the morning's guest speaker, Rev. J. M. Regier, of Bethel College, chairman of the General Conference Home Mission Board, under whose supervision our church is yet functioning, spoke on Paul's admonition: "Love the brethren." So often we find that we do not consistently and sincerely live this so fundamental Christian principle. Is this not the cause of our general church weakness? Rev. Regier closed with prayer and benediction.

At the evening service, Andrew Baize, who had attended the church services almost from beginning, gave a short history. For some time services were held in various homes, also in a hall in town. Then later in the Seventh Day Advent Church, Sixth and Pershing. They had their services Saturday, we Sunday. In 1917 the Home Mission Board of the General Conference took over the work. 1918-1919 funds were raised for a church building on 700 East 4th, its present site. This church was dedicated, March 20, 1920. Formal organization of the church, June 25, 1922. Since then, we have remodeled and enlarged to accommodate a growing congregation.—Continuing the evening service, Rev. T. A. van der Smissen spoke of the value of prayer in all church endeavors, especially in the building of a church. Then followed an address by Rev. H. J. Dyck on building of the church, based on Jude 20 and 21. This interesting program was interspersed with music by the church choir, a ladies' trio, a mixed quartet, and a violin solo by Anna Duerksen.

Pastors who served since the beginning were H. P. Krehbiel, H. J. Dyck, H. T. Unruh, T. A. van der Smissen, P. J. Wiens, J. J. Plenert, and the present pastor, C H. Dirks. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sawatzky, in whose home the first group met, were our welcome guests Sunday night, then the only partakers of the first service, in Apr. 1913, and Sunday night at our festivity. They now live in Buhler.

Of the pioneer laymen of our activities a number are yet active members: J. K. Froese, O. C. Krehbiel, our first deacons. Others, active in church work since long ago are Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Matthies, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Schmidt, E. W. Miller, Mrs. P. E. Griffith.

We are yet a comparatively new church, and ask for understanting cooperation and assistance in our endeavor to constructively assimilate a membership and an attendence, consisting of various groups coming to our services, from environments so differing. For the good will, and leniency, promoted by Christian love of our membership we are thankful. With a city, quite floating population, much more so than rural, problems continually present themselves for solution in a church organization, different from an older stable rural church. Our Mennonite constituency, with sons and daughters and friends in Hutchinson, can aid much for our mutual benefit and the building of the Kingdom of Christ among our fellow men. — Very truly yours in love, C. C. Epp, Corr.

— Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Quakertown, Pa. writes, "No doubt you, as editor, and our people are all wondering about the condition of Rev. W. S. Gottshall. He is improving. While still in bed, he was interested in the work of our Eastern District Conference which was held in his church. He was glad to learn from various reports that the Conference was a blessing and well attended. He is taking more nourishment and we hope that he might continue to recover. Rev. and Mrs. Gottshall are deeply appreciative of the many inquiries and the prayers of so many of God's children in their behalf."—Dated May 6, '38.

— Brother Fred von Gunten, acting manager of our Mennonite Book Concern at Berne, Ind., attended the Eastern District Conference session, with a display of books, etc. He was away seven days, sold $175.00 worth of books, with an expense item of only $30.00. This is a splendid showing, both for the manager and the Eastern brethren. They read books there.

— The Ministers' Conference of the Western District was well attended. The invitation of the host church, the Emmaus congregation near Whitewater, Kansas, which is noted for its fine hospitality, read, "The host congregation heartily invites all ministers, deacons and church boards with their wives." — Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa.—On Easter Sunday 168 took Communion (a record) and the following nine were added to the church—Mrs. John Slotter, Mrs. Jonas Troxel, Mr. Edwin Beidler, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Wimmer, Misses Grace and Myrtle Wimmer, Miss Nora Landes, and Mrs. Ray Orr.—Mr. Fred von Gunten, manager of the Mennonite Book Concern, had a fine display of articles and did a good business. He is a fine young man and our heart-felt sympathy goes out to him over the recent death of his wife.—Church Messenger.

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hanston, Kansas, asks: "Will there be something appearing in The Mennonite about the recent Ministers' Conference at the Emmaus Church. There were some very good subjects on the program: I was very sorry we could not attend it." We shall be glad to bring the English papers read at the session, at least in somewhat condensed form, if the writers will kindly send them in.—Editor.

—Did You Know? In the year 1874 the Mennonites from Southern Russia brought over to America the Red Turkey hard wheat. And if you were to travel across the plains of Kansas now, you would see miles upon miles of this waving grain.

—Bethany Church, Freeman, S. D.—"We are highly gratified by the goodly number (109) who last Sunday morning participated in our somewhat "experimental" Communion service. We will appreciate any constructive suggestions in the improvement of the method.—Bethany Messenger.—Bro. Harold Gross, instructor in Freeman College, is serving this church temporarily as pastor.

—The Freeman College Choir is making a tour of some of the churches in Nebraska and Kansas. They sing at the Bible Conference which convenes in Newton, Kansas, May 15-21, also at Bethel College, Tuesday morning, May 17.

—Natural gas in South Dakota Mennonite Territory.—The Freeman Courier reports that oil men are around, buying leases, because of the apparent presence of oil and gas around Dolton, only a few miles from Freeman. The prediction is that boring for these resources will soon begin.

—Bluffton College Fellowship.—We are glad to see Bluffton organize fellowships. These organizations made up of graduates, former students and friends can become a real source of support to the school. They have helped Bethel wonderfully.

—The Newport Church, State of Washington, can report her first Sunrise Service Easter morning. — On April 21, in the Newport Church, John Wiebe and Marie Schroeder, and on April 24, John Peters and Elizabeth Lowen, at the home of the bride in Spokane were united in marriage by Rev. P. D. Unruh. All four are members of the Mennonite Church at Deer Park.

—From "The Church Visitor," Mennonite Church, Inman, Kans.—Pentecost is an appropriate time to affiliate with some church. We are planning to have baptismal services that day. If any of our friends would like to make our church their church by joining, they would make us happy by telling us so.

—Echoes of the Eastern District Conference: The newly elected officers are: Rev. J. J. Plenert, President; Rev. H. T. Landes, Vice President; A. C. Alderfer, Treasurer.—The Brotherhood arranged a picnic for all members and friends of the District for Saturday, June 11.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa., May 8, '38—"We welcome Bro. Erland Waltner of Freeman, S. D. who is to bring us the messages at our services today. He is at present a student at the Biblical Theological Seminary in New Dork City. The subject of Bro. Waltner's message for this evening will be "Powerful Living." Text, Acts 1:8."

ADULT EDUCATION

J. D. Unruh

Approximately 75,000,000 persons constitute the adult population of the United States today. Many of them had very limited educational opportunities in childhood. Over 36,000,000 did not finish elementary school. It must be recognized, too, that much of the information taught in schools and college at the turn of the century has become obselete. In view of these facts adult education has become virtually a necessity for intelligent present day citizenship.

Certainly it is true that in our own circles there are many older people whose formal educational opportunities were most limited in youth. Many would certainly welcome opportunities to acquire knowledge that would enable them to meet more intelligently life's vital problems.

There may be various ways to carry on a program of adult education. Only one is herein suggested. That way is through open forums to be conducted in our churches. These no doubt would be operated differently in various communities. For example such a plan as this might be followed: An open forum once a month with the subjects announced a month in advance. The subjects could be worked out by a local committee which would also be responsible to get forum leaders. Such a project might be financed through free will offerings. In some instances the problem of getting leaders might be quite difficult. However, very often forum leaders could be obtained from the immediate vicinity. If, for instance, the question of law enforcement should be discussed, who would be in a better position to lead such a discussion than the state's attorney of the county? It appears that open forums would be of immeasurable value if conducted in the right way.

—Eastern District Y. P. Convention.—The 43rd Annual Convention of the Eastern District Mennonite Young People's Union will be held Monday, May 30, at Deep Run Menn. Church. Morning session, 9:45, afternoon session, 1:30, evening session, 7:30, all D. S. T.

VICTORIES OF CHRIST IN PHULJAR RAJ

By W. F. Unruh, India

Christ Jesus is going on from victory to victory in Phuljar. Thus far since New Year 1938 sixty-six people have been baptized. We have the faith to dare to believe that Christ will get the victory in the hearts of at least 150 more before the end of the year. The people are open to the Gospel in many villages. If we will go to them and faithfully and simply teach them the Word of God, they will accept the Lord as Savior. The villages in which the Christians of the Baptist churches live have been much neglected as far as the evangelistic message is concerned. We expect a large ingathering here. This week three groups of workers went out to minister to these Christian groups, to bring the children and relatives of Christians to Christ and to strengthen the believers by teaching them a selected series of Bible stories.

Constantly we have to face difficulties which almost non-plus us at times. The marriage difficulties among the Christians who have been used to a very loose standard of marital relationship present continual and heart-aching problems. The Ariya Samaj is trying to get the weak Christians to go back into Hinduism, and by the help of several renegade Christians have succeeded in a number of cases. The liquor evil presents great difficulties, because the government has recently given out contracts to make cheap liquor, and now it can be had at most bazaars. Last week in our local para there was "mar-peet" (beating) by Christians who were drunk. The Roman Catholics present a menace. They seem to insist on no standards of conduct—just so people will join the Roman Catholic church and wear the cross about the neck. Whomever we put out of Christian fellowship for purposes of discipline they will receive right into their church. The Roman Catholics have many such Christians in many of the villages where we have Christian groups. This is the case among the churches which we have taken over from the Baptists, which makes it very unpleasant and confusing for the Christians. The latest news is that the Roman Catholics are going to build a school about two and a half miles from our mission station, at a place where there are some people who had to be excommunicated or who had gone back into the old ways. The Roman Catholic "Christians" remain in caste and keep on with caste practices, wear the Hindu cue, greet each other by saying "Ram Ram", take part in meals for the salvation of the dead, etc. Some Roman Catholic leaders are said to report that their best results come in Protestant communities. These are difficulties we face, but in spite of them the Lord moves forward with His Kingdom.

The World, Man and God

Gen. 1:1

It is so easy for a man to lose mental and spiritual balance. It is easy to be one-sided. It is easy to see only one thing and disregard everything else. It requires wisdom and insight to maintain proper balance in such a world as this.

When a man sees only the world, then he drifts into Materialism. When a man sees only man, then he drifts inevitably into Humanism. When a man sees only God, then he moves unavoidably into Pantheism. But when we take all three together in proper proportions and relate them in an intelligent system then we have Christian Theism, and this is what we need.

Christian Theism implies viewing the world as an expression of the Mind of God. It implies viewing man as an expression of the Will of God, and it implies viewing God, not only as the creator of power, but as the One giving direction to that power. The fact of power is undeniable; the fact of direction is equally undeniable; the one is as mysterious as the other.

It is God, not the world or man, who is at the center, at the heart, of the universe. This means that God is both immanent and transcendent; He is in the human and the superhuman; in the natural and the spiritual. With God in the center we avoid the extremes of Materialism and Humanism. "In the beginning God." — J. E. Hartzler.

LIFE THROUGH DEATH

Except a grain of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit."—John 12:24.

In these words Christ portrayed the necessity and meaning of His death. He must suffer and die to bring life to many. To that end came He into the world. This figure makes it vivid to us.

The farmer plows his field and along about September he plants wheat but the grain that he plants decays. The kernel sprouts and dies and up comes the stalk which will head out and yield many seeds. So that for each bushel the farmer plants he will receive from 10 to 50 bushels.

Christ through His death is producing regenerated lives in multiplied thousands. At the cross the sinner finds forgiveness for sin and by faith issues forth in new—new of life. He dies unto sin and is raised unto righteousness.

We note as we read on in this chapter that in a measure we are to follow Christ in this dying process. That is we are to lose our lives to self that we might find them in Him. But do we truly have this spirit or merely profess to have it? Are we willing to suffer and give our lives that the gospel message might be spread? Christ died that you and I might have Eternal Life.

The Neglected Teaching

Prepared by the Bethel College Tithing Band

3. SOME EFFECTS OF TITHING

The tithe conserves the energies of God's workers for the Kingdom's real business.

It puts a quietus on all display and self-seeking in one's contributions. Nobody can get puffed up over paying his debts.

It makes the Christian's financial relation to the Kingdom a pleasure instead of a perpetual annoyance.

It is the one sure way of proving we are in earnest when we say of God that He owns all we possess.

It links us with God in a real and definite sharing of His work.

It is the plan our Lord approved.

It is plain to all that, had not the early Christians set aside one day in seven for the worship and service of God, and resolutely abstained from their ordinary work upon that day, Christianity would never have become one of the great world religions. It grows equally clear that were the Christians, along with the devotion of one-seventh of their time to the Lord, to set aside also one-tenth of their net income for His service the world would be speedily evangelized.

You cannot serve God and money, for in that act you have separated God from money. But you can serve God with money, for in that act you have related yourself to God through money and thus restored and exalted money to its rightful place, made it a means of constant communication with God, and a medium whereby you come to be a coworker together with Him in His plan for this whole wide world.—Bishop J. W. Bashford and J. O. Atkinson.

SERVING BY PERSONAL DEVOTION TO CHRIST

Mark 14:3-11, 27-31.

Act of Affectionate Devotion vs. 3-9

Jesus found a haven of rest and quiet in the home of His close friends Martha, Mary and Lazarus in Bethany, on the east side of the Mount of Olives, two miles east of Jerusalem. In the last and supreme days of His life, He did not forget them. He had evenings of communion and fellowship with them. On this evening He and the twelve were in the house of Simon the leper (v3) whom Jesus had doubtless healed in one of His earliest miracles. While at the table, Mary (John 12:3) anointed the head of Jesus with very precious ointment of spikenard. Her act of loving devotion aroused an indignant protest from some of those present (v4). It seemed wasteful to them (v5). They could not see Mary's deep love behind the act. Her act was far above them, they could not understand. How easily we may misjudge the motives of others. Can love and affection ever be wasted?

Jesus rebuked the uncharitable critics (vs6,7). He declared her gift of love a good work for Him. Mary brought joy to His heart and soul when He needed it. The poor, they could help at any time, but anything to be done for Him, must be done while He is with them. It is remarkable how some become suddenly interested in the poor, on occasion. Jesus pays a high tribute to Mary (v8). He saw her act as an open expression of love. She brought her splendid bouquet while He was alive. She seems to have understood, believed in, and loved Him above all others. She seemingly believed that He was actually to die and be buried. She brought the most precious gift she had to bestow upon Him. Nothing we can give to Him is too good or too precious. Jesus declared that her act shall be a living memorial (v9) an imperishable monument to her. Mary worshipped Him in her act of anointing. She gave herself in the gift. She valued her Lord as none of the rest did.

Act of Evil Disciple vs. 10, 11

See the contrasting spirit in Judas (v10). He was hardened by Jesus' rebuke and went out to seek revenge. Mary's spirit of appreciation found no response in his nature. He was ready to sell his Savior for a few coins. He was hard toward life's finer sentiments—a typical money-lover. Jesus' arch enemies were glad to pay him for his treachery (v11). Love of money led Judas to his awful downfall. He had had the same privileges as the other disciples. Devotion, such as Mary had, was utterly lacking in his heart. He had never really given himself to his Lord.

Declaration of Loyalty vs. 27-31

Jesus and the disciples had now come to the Mount of Olives and He had much to say to them. He tells them of the testing they shall undergo that very night (v27). To them it seemed incredible that they could, in the terror of the night, lose confidence and hope in Him. Yet He plainly says so—"All ye shall be offended", and quotes from Zechariah 13:7. Again Jesus assures them of His resurrection (v28) and tells them that He would go before them into Galilee. This should have given them hope and assurance. Impulsive Peter again makes a brave and doubtless sincere boast (v29), but it failed. His confidence in himself but illustrates the deceitfulness of the human heart. He proclaims his loyalty still more strongly (v31). Peter surely did not intend to play false. He did not reckon with the testing time. He had made his great confession to Christ. He was, however, slow to learn the language of the cross. Today's lesson reveals a distinct element of service in personal devotion. Religion gets its depth from acts, attitudes which express worship, devotion and praise to God. Approaching God through devotion and true worship, brings a richness into the life of the child of God and makes him a channel of blessing to others.

Report of the 34th Annual Meeting

OF THE BETHEL DEACONESS HOME AND HOSPITAL SOCIETY—MAY 10, 1938

The meeting was opened with Scripture reading, Matt. 25, 31-40, and prayer by the President, J. E. Entz.

Rev. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College addressed the meeting on "The Ministry of Healing" Acts 10:38. The speaker said that there are very few pages of the Gospels that do not report of the healing ministry of Christ. Jesus did not hesitate to take time. He was glad and eager to accept all opportunities for service. To him it was not duty. Christ exalted the healing ministry of our Sisters and Doctors. This ministry is committed to us. He did not heal to be seen, in fact, he told people to "tell no one." His motive was compassion. He healed not only the body, but also the soul. Rev. Kreider referred to a motto of a physician, "We dress the wound, and God heals." He emphasized faith as a factor in healing. The Church and the Hospital belong together.

After singing "O, Have You Not Heard of that Beautiful Stream," the meeting was ready for the business of the day.

The following brethren served as tellers: K. K. Haury, Ed. Claassen, A. B. Reimer. The Resolutions Committee: H. P. Schmidt, C. H. van der Smissen, and Christ. Thierstein.

The report of the Directors was read by the Secretary. The membership of the Society is now 301, with 1936 votes. 15 new members were added during the past year. 25 old members asquired 35 more votes. Seven of the members were called to their reward. The Sisterhood is composed of 32 Sisters, of whom two have retired. There are thirteen students in training. Eight doctors comprise the Hospital Staff. There were 1233 patients in the Hospital during the year. However, the number of persons served in and through the hospital was 2529. Free service was given to the amount of $7524.

The Bethel College A Capella Choir sang three numbers.

Before the election one of the Directors, Rev. G. N. Harms, presented his resignation. However, he was asked to serve to the end of his present term, to which he consented. The following Directors were elected: H. J. Dyck, H. E. Suderman, and D. O. Rupp. A. N. Claassen was elected to the Advisory Council for the Home for the Aged.

The forenoon session was closed with prayer by Rev. Abr. Ratzlaff. Rev. P. P. Tschetter opened the afternoon meeting by reading John 15:1-17 and prayer.

Following this was a duet from the Swiss Church of Whitewater.

From the report of the Home for the Aged, the following is interesting. During the year the Home had 50 inmates for a shorter or longer period. At the beginning of the year there were 28. During the year 22 more were admitted. At the close of the year there were 32. Ten of the inmates are under 70 years of age, 18 between 70 and 80, and 22 between 80 and 90.

In the course of the discussion several resolutions were passed, giving the Board of Directors free hand in establishing a Clinic in connection with the Hospital, also approving the building program.—Rev. A. J. Dyck spoke on the present needs for the erection of the upper two stories of the Training School.—After another duet all reports were accepted.—The Senior and the Junior Auxiliaries reported of their activities for the Hospital and Home.

The Chairman appointed the Auditing Committee for the coming year: G. B. Entz, K. Richert, and H. J. Kliewer, and a Nominating Committee composed of the following: F. N. Funk, Sister Lena Mae, and B. W. Entz.

The Resolution Committee submitted the following report:

"We thank our heavenly Father for the great, manifold, and wonderful blessings which he has laid upon the work in the Hospital and Home, by which many have been blessed.

"We are grateful for the beautiful day and express our thanks by singing 'Now Thank We all Our God.'

"We thank Bro. Kreider for his appropriate message and Bro. Tschetter for his introductory service at the afternoon session.

"We thank the Bethel College Choir and the duet from the Swiss Church at Whitewater for their inspiring songs.

"We thank the Sisters for their loving and faithful services.

"We thank the ministers of the different denominations for their spiritual help in the Hospital and Home for the Aged.

"We wish to thank all who have so faithfully, generously, and prayerfully supported the institutions and ask their further support through prayer and gifts.

"We thank the First Mennonite Church for the use of its building and the Auxilliaries for their faithful and valuable service, also for the splendid noon meal."

After a closing prayer by Rev. G. N. Harms, the meeting adjourned.

The Board of Directors organized as follows: J. E. Entz, president; H. E. Suderman, vice-president; H. J. Dyck, secretary; F. N. Funk, treasurer.

H. J. Dyck, Sec.

The Eastern Conference for Bluffton

The following motion was passed at the recent session of the Eastern District Conference held at the East Swamp Mennonite Church, April 28-May 1, 1938:

"We praise God for Bluffton College, our own educational institution; and for the service she has rendered to Christ and the Church, in giving inspiration and training to large numbers of our young people.

"We rejoice in the successful refinancing program whereby our financial obligations are satisfied in an honest and honorable manner.

"Now that we are on the threshold of a new era of Bluffton College we feel that a new era of support must supplement this forward movement.

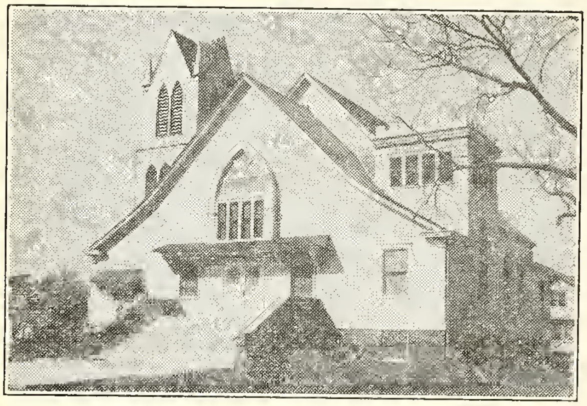
"Be it therefore resolved that we pledge a new wide range of prayer intercession, and also an equally wide range of regular and systematic financial support for Bluffton College; in the anticipated Endowment Campaign; and also in the giving of daily amounts, or some such system as may seem most acceptable."

The conference endorsed a plan of systematic giving for Bluffton College in a very united and whole hearted way. According to the program adopted, an effort is to be made to get 1000 people to give "a penny a day and a prayer for Bluffton College." A little simple arithmetic shows that such a program should net $3,650.00 per year. Whole hearted enthusiasm plus systematic giving is helping to solve the problem of our colleges.

—Editor enters Politics.—Ed Liechty, the capable and genial editor of the Berne (Ind.) Witness, was nominated almost unanimously for representative to the Indiana House of Representatives. We heartily congratulate, Mr. Liechty.

Golden Anniversary of the Zion Mennonite Church of Moundridge

On Sunday, April 3, the members of the West Zion Mennonite Church celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the organization, in 1888, and dedicated the new church basement.



Guests from many surrounding churches were present for the festive occasion. At the opening of the forenoon service, five new members were received into the church. Rev. P. K. Regier read the scripture passags Rev. 3:7-12, Deut. 6:4-18 and led in prayer.

Mr. J. H. Krehbiel, a charter member, gave a short history of the church in which he recalled many interesting facts. The name "West Zion" was suggested by Mr. Jacob Schowalter, also a charter member, since most of the members came from the Zion Church, Lee County, Iowa. The other charter members present were: Miss Theresia Galle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haury, Mr. Henry Schmitt and Mr. P. C. Schowalter.

Rev. C. E. Krehbiel of the Bethel College Church preached the anniversary sermon based on Acts 9:17. Rev. Krehbiel stated that he had heard Rev. Wm. Galle, the first minister of the church, preach on this same text many years before and chose the same in memory of Rev. Galle. Special music was rendered by the Ladies' Choir and Men's Chorus of the church. At the close of the forenoon service the congregation gathered in the new basement of the church and after being seated at the tables, the new basement was dedicated to its intended use by the pastor.

A noon luncheon was served to about three hundred members and guests.

A mission festival was held in the afternoon. Rev. J. F. Moyer of the Bethel College Church read Acts 1-18 and led in prayer. Rev. J. M. Suderman preached a home mission sermon on Matt. 14:6. The Ladies' Choir sang "In Heavenly Love Abiding." Rev. P. P. Wedel preached the foreign mission sermon on 2 Cor. 5:20-21. The Men's Chorus sang, "Still, Still with Thee."

The day was fittingly climaxed by the rendition of a sacred concert in the evening by the Bethel College A Cappella Choir under the direction of Prof. W. H. Hohmann.

On Easter Sunday during the church services, Mr. K. R. Galle of Arkansas City presented a memorial to the church in the name of the Wm. Galle family. The memorial is a beautiful oak communion table with a reproduction of de Vinci's famous painting, "The Last Supper" on the front, arranged so that it can be illuminated with concealed electric lights. A bronze plate indicates that the memorial is in memory of the late Rev. Galle, the first minister of the church. Mr. Galle spoke of the long and faithful service their father had given the congregation, and expressed his appreciation, in behalf of the family, for the many kind tokens of esteem the congregation had manifested toward their father during the time of his ministry. The congregation conveyed their appreciation to the Galle family by a rising vote of thanks.—The Correspondent.

Announcement and Invitation

The ordination of Brother Albert Gaeddert into the ministry will take place at the Hoffnungsau Church on Sunday, May 29, at 9:30 in the morning. Friends and promoters of the Kingdom are heartily welcome to attend.

Then at 2:30 p. m. a mission festival will be held to which we extend a hearty invitation.

CANADIAN BRETHREN WANT A NEW GERMAN HYMN BOOK

Rev. Benjamin Ewert, Winnipeg, Manitoba, has sent us a list of the songs—706 in number—which their Song Book Commission has compiled for the German song book that the Canadian brethren feel they need to make the most of their church worship. They ask the General Conference Board of Publication to undertake publication of this book for them. That is just one of several publications that this Board is expected to take in hand. Others are: An Intermediate S. S. Quarterly now being planned by a Committee of the Board of Education; a revised Mennonite Hymn Book, now being worked out by a Song Book Committee and to be checked up by the Conference; a revised edition of the History of the Mennonites, now in the making, by Dr. C. H. Smith, whose first edition took so well that it was all too soon exhausted, and others. These demands on our Board of Publication show the dire need of a conference printing plant, which should have been started thirty years ago, before private organizations began to take charge of the field. It is to be hoped that the delegates to the next conference session will be so conference-minded that they will make a conference owned and operated printing plant an early reality. A discussion of the projected German songbook will follow in the next Mennonite.

NEWPORT, WASH.

A Sunrise meeting was held on Easter morning, with songs and Scripture reading. In the evening there was a good Easter program . . . Rev. Peter Unruh, pastor of the church, has officiated at two weddings recently, all members of the Deer Park Church.

SAN MARCOS, PASO ROBLES

The young people of the San Marcos Church have finished the study of Menno Simons. Since there was only one book, the different members gave reports at the C. E. meetings. The examination is to be given soon. . . The convention at Upland was attended by 16 members. . . An Easter program was given by the C. E. on Easter Sunday in the afternoon.

COLFAX, WASH.

A project designed to stimulate interest in general and especially in missions has been started. The Miss. Com. of the C. E. with the use of a missionary map of the world is working it out.

Enjoying the Bible

W., June 8. Songs for the soul—Psalms. Ps. 40:1-8.

T., June 9. The story of Israel—the Pentateuch. Hosea 11:1-12.

THE COOKIE JAR

"O Lord, I would love, and laugh, and lift"

F., June 10. Read to learn wisdom. Rom. 15:1-4.
S., June 11. Books of prophecy. Joel 2:21-32.

Suggested Hymns:

"How firm a foundation"
"Open my eyes that I may see"

What things are enjoyed most in life? A sudden inspiration sends us in gay pursuit of some pleasant pastime, like a game of tennis. We are satisfied for a time. The fragrance of flowers, the sight of a lovely sunset, the feel of a baby's soft hand are all pleasures that help us to enjoy life. They are fine; they are good. We need to keep our minds open to appreciation of these little things in life. We must also learn to pierce beneath these pleasantries to find deeper channels of enjoyment. To live deeply and fully will bring pain and suffering.

Kahlil Gibran, writer of Oriental poetry, says: "And the selfsame well from which your laughter arises was oftentimes filled with your tears. And how else can it be? The deeper that sorrow carves into your being the more joy you can contain. Is not the cup that holds your wine the very cup that was burned in the potter's oven? And is not the lute that soothes your spirit, the very wood that was hollowed with knives? When you are joyous, look deep into your heart and you shall find it is only that which has given you sorrow that is giving you joy."

Is not this the way in which we obtain our joy in the Bible? From intense suffering David rises to psalms of praise and joy. Does not the value of the Scriptures lie in the depths of pain portrayed therein? Even the history of its writing and printing is a tale of disappointments and opposition. The more we learn the more we realize that we have not fully lived until we have been through a real struggle, mentally, physically, or morally.

Both the history of the Bible and the history in the Bible is one of strife, pain, and sorrow. Yet where can we find greater help, greater comfort, greater joy, greater inspiration?

It is like the wild flowers from the marsh that the little Irish boy gave to the queer old woman whom he used to mock. He regretted his making fun of her, so he wanted to give her a present. The wild yellow iris was very difficult to get, and the little boy almost gave his life in the treacherous swamp in trying to reach them. And because he had to suffer so to get them, the flowers were especially precious to the queer old woman to whom he gave them.

Program Suggestions:

After the leader has discussed in general terms the enjoyment that can be had in reading the Bible, other speakers, in brief talks, can develop specific angles of enjoyment of the Scriptures. Each Roman numeral can be developed by one speaker.

We derive joy from the Bible:

I. Because It is a source of inspiration.
 1. How is It a revelation of God?
 2. Can It aid in communion with God?
 3. Can It be for us an instrument of usefulness?

II. Because It leads to the joy of conquest.

We all have times when life seems useless and purposeless. After emerging from such a period of doubt, we experience an exhilarating sense of victory. What are some of the factors that tend to capitulate us into these conflicts?

1. Disappointment in work.
2. Physical suffering.
3. Severe losses and deep sorrow

How can the Scriptures help us to use these unfortunate experiences in a constructive manner?

III. By a knowledge of the history of the printing of the Bible.

A brief account of this should be available in most church libraries. How can knowing a bit of the hardships involved lead us to a greater appreciation of the Book?

IV. By studying some of Its passages.

Here several could be asked to read their favorite passage of Scripture and tell why these verses have become dear to them.

A Poem of Courage

"Dare to be brave, dare to be true;
Strive for the right, for the Lord is with you,
Fight with sin bravely, fight and be strong;
Christ is your Captain; fear only what's wrong.

Dare to be brave, dare to be true;
God grant you courage to carry you through;
Try to help others; ever be kind;
Let all the erring a friend in you find.

Fight then, good soldiers; fight and be brave;
Christ is your Captain, mighty to save.

Courage

I. What is it? What is the difference between physical and moral courage? Between foolhardiness and courage?

"The word 'courage' comes from the Latin cor, meaning heart. Courage is not a matter of the head, but of the heart; not of the understanding, but of the feeling. You may have the theory of courage perfectly and still be a coward. What you need is the hero's heart.

Love prompts courage-love of some dear one, love of one's church, love of one's country, love of one's home, love of Christ."—C. E. World.

True courage does not seek danger for its own sake or for display. There is a deeper motive, a conviction of right to which it is devoted. Moral courage usually includes physical courage, for he who stands for what he knows to be the truth often suffers physically as well as mentally. Paul and Stephan are examples.

II. Where We Need Courage

1. Courage in overcoming physical handicaps.

A young girl in college fell from a horse while taking riding lessons and broke her arm. Due to the neglect of the attending physician infection set in. The result was that she lost her right arm. As soon as she was able she was back in college writing with her left hand. People marveled at her courage. Her only comment was, "I don't have time to think about myself. Anyway, it wouldn't do any good." What type of courage would you say it takes to face life with physical handicaps? Give illustrations from your observation.

2. Courage to face physical danger

What are some common physical dangers which we all face which call for courage? A pastor, beloved of many young people, told of how much courage it took to face the dental chair for the extraction of teeth, when he was nearly sixty years old. Some people never lose their fear of the dark or of water. It takes courage to help someone in physical distress or to face death. Give other instances.

3. Courage to resist evil and to do right.

A buyer said to a little boy on a slave market, "I'll buy you if you go straight." "I'll go straight, whether you buy me or not," was the lad's quick reply. The stories of Daniel and his three friends illustrate this courage. Dan. 1:8-14 and 3:14-18. Give examples from your own observation.

III. How Develop Courage?

1. Physical rest. Sometimes when we are exhausted physically we need rest to bring back our courage. Elijah wanted to die after the contest with the priests of Baal. God gave him rest and food and his courage returned. How does our physical condition affect our courage?

2. Prayer. Jesus knew the source of courage. Many times He spent all night in prayer and from His Father he drew courage that sustained Him. In Gethsemane He prayed, then He said to His disciples, "Arise, let us be going." He had the courage to go out and meet danger. Jesus said, "Ask, and it shall be given unto you." We need to claim this promise. "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." Why do we fail to use this source of courage?

3. Doing God's Will. Read Josh. 1:9. The opening question states the one condition of courage: the knowledge that we are doing God's will. If we are sure of that, we can be sure that God will be with us. Jesus prayed, "Not my will but Thine be done," then He was ready to face the foe. Why does it take courage to say, "I'll go where you want me to go."

4. A Dominating Love. If you would become a courageous Christian let a great love for Christ dominate your life. Paul said, "So now also Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether by life or by death." "To me to live is Christ." He suffered every form of physical torture except death itself, but his courage never seemed to waver. How does love for Christ give us courage?

JUNIOR CORNER

"The Gift of God Is Eternal Life"

No other gift so precious is,
No other gift a Saviour gives;
No other gift from sin makes free
And from death's sting eternally.

No other gift doth life impart,
New life within the human heart,—
Life so abundant that shall be
With Christ through all eternity.

No other gift like unto this,
No other gift so full of bliss;
No other gift,—then let me take
And let my soul in God awake.—A.

Program Suggestions for June 12, 1938

Setting: Blackboard with verse: The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Rom. 6:23. On the table, between two pots of flowers, the challenge: Ask and it shall be given you. Matt 7:7.

Call to worship by prelude

Worship period:

1. Drawing near: Let two voices sing "Tread Softly, Tread Softly, the Master Is Here."

2. The group rises to repeat in unison or they sing in unison: "The Lord Is in His Holy Temple."

3. Prayer by voices out of the groups still standing:

- a. Voice one: Draw nigh unto my soul and redeem it. Ps. 69:18.
- b. Voice two: Let all those that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee. Ps. 70:4.
- c. Voice three: I am poor and needy; make haste unto me, O God. Ps. 70:5.
- d. Voice four: Remember me, O Lord; O visit me with thy salvation. Ps. 106:4.
- e. Leader's prayer of thanskgiving. (Group is seated)

4. Sing in unison: "I Need Thee Every Hour." Verses 1 and 2.

5. Special music: "Jesus Loves Even Me."

6. Sing in unison one verse of "My Jesus I Love Thee"

Mission minutes

Announcements

Study Period: The Gift of Eternal Life.

1. Introductory remarks by chairman using the verse on blackboard and the verse between the flowers

2. Eternal life verses: There are eleven letters in the words "eternal life." Make these letters in a large form and cover with bright tinsel. Pull a string over the table with Matt. 7:7 and let each junior having a letter come forward. Pin the same to the string and then give his verse. These verses could be used:

- a. God hath given unto us eternal life, and this life is in the Son. I John 5:11
- b. I John 2:25
- c. Lay hold on eternal life. I Tim. 6:12
- d. John 10:27 and 28a
- e. To whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life. John 6:68.
- f. John 3:16
- g. John 6:47
- h. John 5:24
- i. John 6:40
- j. John 17:3
- k. John 3:36

3. Special music: "Ye Must Be Born Again."

4. The Free Gift of God Is Eternal Life. The logical guest speaker for this evening would be the pastor. He has been our co-worker through the last terms in prayer and interest and perhaps he has longed to meet the young hearts in a closer way.

5. Sing in unison: "Just As I Am." Verses 1, 2, 5.

6. Closing prayer

Men's Gospel Team, Bluffton College.—Andrew R. Shelly has been elected president and William Snyder, secretary. The quartet, Albert Bohrer, and President Rosenberger, leave the campus on their five-day Canadian trip. They expect to visit the Mennonite churches at Leamington, Waterloo, Kitchner and Vineland, Ontario. The group will return via Niagara Falls, Buffalo, and Cleveland.—Witmarsum.

"The Bible, its Teachers and its Teachings"

J. J. Balzer

This is the third of a series of instructive articles on the unifying teachings of the Bible by Rev. J. J. Balzer of Mountain Lake, Minn. The first article was entitled, "ONE WORLD," the second, "ONE KINGDOM." His fourth article will be "ONE IMPERATIVE."

The supreme question for the 20th century Christian is this: "The Bible, is it an evolution or an inspiration?" Since this question is fundamental for the faith and life of a true Christian, and its answer effects the very life of Christianity itself, a most sincere consideration is most essential.

"New" theologians are now writing books on "The Religion of a Mature Mind," "The Mature Man's Difficulties with His Bible," thereby showing how little they know of the Divine contents of this wonderful book. And their great mistake is in the fact, that they blindly follow the "destructive criticism" of an "infidel Jew in a Christian cloak—Wellhauser."

The inspiration of the Bible is, of course, the traditional view. That too common teacher-custom of speaking contemptiously of "the traditional view" is as unwarranted as superficial. The Copernican theory of the motions of the heavenly bodies has become "the traditional view." Is it any the less true on that account? That it is the traditional view may be regarded, on the contrary, as something in its favor. It could hardly have endured so long, under the close and continued inspection of modern science, unless it had much to support it. But the fact is, that this Copernican idea is not his own, but that the Bible was teaching it long before Copernicus ever saw a star. The old patriarch Job in his wonderful discourse of the afflictions of man and its causes speaks of the revolutions of our globe (Job 38:14). Thus Copernicus only manifests the traditional view of the ancient oriental nations, the Jews, Babylonians and Egyptians who gave us the fundamental principles of astronomy.

Why then defy the traditional view of the Scriptures? Why make it the subject of the closest scrutiny, of the most careful investigation, the most continuous and even viscious assault; when it stands as a veritable Gibraltar against which "Modernism" marshals its increasing forces to little avail.

When Sir Walter Scott lay on his death-bed and Dr. Lockhard stood by him, he all at once cried out: "Reach me the Book!" "What Book?" asked Dr. Lockhard. "The Book" came the feebler answer, for there is but "one Book" — the Bible.

But what is the Bible? This is the question of our theme. I shall try to give my answer in the spirit of my introductory remarks.

1. "The Bible is," without any exception, "the most interesting book" in the world. But, like other books, its charm will very much depend upon whether we rightly understand it or not, and know how to use its contents.

It has sometimes been asserted that the Bible is a dry and uninteresting book, and it can be readily seen how such might be the case. If people were to treat other books in the same manner that they treat the Bible, there would not be an interesting book in the world. What would you think of a person taking any popular book of the day, opening it at random, reading here a little and there a little, and then saying, "This book is not interesting?" You would at once say that the book had not had a fair trial. And yet, people treat the Bible in just that way and say it is an uninteresting book.

2. "The Bible is a living book." No book is an absolute dead thing. It contains a seed of life in it. It preserves, in a greater or lesser degree, the intellect and life that begot it. If this be true of all books of mere human composition, how much more is it true of the Bible—the book "given by inspiration of God."

3. The Bible has a life-giving power." As we read it, we know there is in it a Spirit that speaks to our spirit, a Life that touches our life and produces new life.

4. Even as a literary composition, the Bible is the "most remarkable book the world has ever seen." Its writings are the most ancient, the events it contains are of the deepest interest. To the influence of the Bible is due the great advance in civilization and the true happiness that floods the world today. When St. Paul first preached this Word of Life in Europe, Europe received a new soul, and the schools of Greek philosophers soon closed, heathen temples vanished and were replaced by churches which spired the clouds. The wisest and best men of all ages have borne witness to the beauty and saving power of these holy Scriptures.

The Bible is composed of two principal parts, "The Old and the New Testaments." The word testament means covenant, and is the term by which God was pleased to designate the relation that existed between Himself and His people. The Old Testament deals of the calling and history of the Jewish nation, and as such it is the Old Covenant. The New Testament deals with the history and application of the redemption wrought by the Lord Jesus Christ, and as such is the New Covenant, the church covenant.

The Bible is also called the Scriptures, which means Holy Writings and the early Christians used this name most commonly of the whole Bible.

Another name applied to the Bible is "The Word of God." This is doubtless the most significant, impressive, and complete title. It is sufficient to justify the faith of the weakest Christian. It teaches us to regard the Bible as—"God speaking to man." Note that the words, "God said," occur ten times in the first chapter of Genesis. And such expressions as, "The Lord said," "The Lord spoke", "The Word of the Lord came," are found 3808 times in the Old Testament alone. These writers, who claimed to be the revealers of the will of God, almost always commenced their messages with the words, "Thus saith the Lord." That they were not deceived in their claims is evident from the minuteness and detail as to names, times and places which characterized their messages, and from the literal fulfillment of these oracles of God.

It is evident from these and many other passages of Scripture that the writers of both the Old and New Testament were conscious of having received revelations from God, and considered themselves inspired of God to write the Scriptures, and felt, while writing, that they were giving expression to the infallible truth of God, and were conscious that the Holy Spirit was moving them to the work.

It is also a matter of greatest importance to know whether the writings that have come down to us under the name of the Old and New Testament are in the same state in which their authors left them, or whether they have been added to, altered or abridged; that is, whether the 66 books of the Bible, as we have them at the present day, are "genuine" and "authentic."

There is a distinction between the two terms "genuineness" and "authenticity." A genuine work is one written by the man whose name it bears; and "authentic" work is one which relates truthfully the matters of which it treats. For example, there is extant an apocryphal gospel purporting to have been written by St. Thomas. This work is not "genuine", for Thomas did not write it; it is not "authentic", for its contents are mainly fables and lies.

But who are the writers or Teachers of the Bible? There are about 44 of them who completed this work of 66 different books, during a period of about 1600 years. Many of these men never met each other or heard one of another. And yet we find it "one book." The unity of Scripture is an evidence of its "divinity." Its authors lived in different countries, were affected by different circumstances, spoke different languages, employed diversities of literary style, represented all grades of culture, and yet from Moses to Malachi, the Old Testament moves on without a break; and from Matthew to Revelations, the New Testament proceeds without an hiatus. Not one of the 66 books is in conflict with another. Yea, more, not one of them but produces an essential part of the glorious whole and so fits, what he has to say, into the consummation, as to complete and perfect it. The great Joseph Parker sanely asked, "Can any man add one true line to the moral or spiritual code of the Scripture? Can any man publish an appendix of omitted morals? Can any man add to the tender balms and solaces provided in the Bible for broken hearts and wounded spirits?" Is there a point at which you can provide a solitary jot or tittle to its teaching that would prove of profit to the world? If not, why make a mock of the masterpiece of the ages?—(as our Modernists do.) If not, why neglect the Book of books? If not, why shut the ears against sentences that are so clearly from God? If not, why sit at the feet of men and permit them, in your presence, to scorn its evident divinity? If not, why not accept it as the basis for life building, as the Pole Star for life's direction, and as the source of information concerning the life that is to come?

In conclusion a few remarks about the "Teachings of the Bible."

When the hermit John the Baptist began his short teaching career, he opened it with the startling proclamation, "The Kingdom of God is at hand!" He did not wait very long when the King came to him for baptism, and he heard the voice of God saying, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." Shortly after that Jesus began his work in much the same way by proclaiming, "Repent ye, for the Kingdom of God is at hand." If Prophet and Apostle are to be accepted as our inspired guides, "Theocracy"—or "God on the throne"—is the scarlet thread in the Old and New Testament teaching. The Pentateuch, or book of Moses, presents no other plan, the Psalms sound no other note, the Major and Minor Prophets see no other vision, and consulting the Bible as a whole, we are forced to say, the Kingdom of God is that

> "The one far-off Divine event
> To which the whole creation moves."

By the call of Abraham from among the Gentile nations, God chose for Himself the Hebrew Nation to be His peculiar people, His firstborn son among the nations, to be His Kingdom people, the Servant of Jehovah, as the prophet Isaiah asserts saying, "But thou Israel, art my servant, Jacob whom I have chosen, the seed of Abraham and my friend." (Isaiah 41:8). "Ye are my witnesses, saith Jehovah, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know and believe Me, and understand that I am He." (Isaiah 43:10). "Yet, now hear, O Jacob my servant; and Israel, whom I have chosen."

And at Mount Sinai, where God established and organized His Kingdom by giving them His Kingdom-laws, He proclaimed them to be His chosen people from among all nations. Thus the Bible knows but two classes of people, the Jew and the Gentile.

But the Jews rejected the Kingdom and crucified the King and they were side-tracked and scattered among all nations, losing the land of promise as their homeland; during this present dispensation called the "Dispensation of the Church."

The church, therefore, a people chosen from among all nations, have become the adopted citizens of the Kingdom of God, being spiritual during this Church Dispensation, who have their citizenship not on earth but in heaven, from whence they wait for the Redeemer to return and change this vile body to become like unto His plorified body.

Thus with the close of the Church Dispensation the Dispensation of the Kingdom will begin. Israel shall be refined by the fire of the greatest tribulation that ever occured in the history of man. They shall see their Messiah return in glory, repent and be regenerated and accepted by their eternal Lord and King, Jesus Christ, and thus the promised "Kingdom Age" of a thousand years—the millennium—will begin, where righteousness and peace will reign in the earth and all kings shall worship Him and nations shall serve Him, and no one shall say to his brother, "Know the Lord," for they shall all know him, from the least to the greatest and all the earth shall be filled with the Glory of the Lord. Then our daily prayers will be fulfilled: "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done in Earth as it is in Heaven."

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, MEDFORD, OKLA.

Dr. E. L. Harshbarger, Bethel College, Kansas, Chairman of the Peace Committee of the General Conference and member of the Peace Committee of the Western District Conference gave, in our church, yesterday (May 15th), two very interesting and timely sermons on Peace and War, which were very much appreciated, and we were greatly blessed. Dr. Harshbarger's sermons are based on the teaching of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace. Let all of us as peace-loving followers of Christ Jesus give of our time, of our energies, of our money, NOW, to build a peace-minded Mennonite Church and a peace-minded nation.—John Lichti.

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH, ALBANY, ORE.

The Easter season has come and gone, and we were again reminded of the intense suffering, death and resurrection of our Lord and Savior. May we have been made more willing to carry on the work for Him. The Primary Department and Young Ladies' Trio of the Sunday School presented a short program Easter morning.

On Friday, May 6, the Women's Missionary Society spent the day at the W.C.T.U. Children's Farm Home. This is an annual event of our society. The day is spent in sewing, mending, patching, etc. for the many orphans cared for in this institution. Their work is always greatly appreciated.

We are looking forward to our annual S. S. and C. E. Convention which is to be held at Portland, Ore. on June 19. These gatherings are always an inspiration, beside the spiritual blessings one receives from them.

Two young souls have recently been baptized upon the confession of their faith.

Our pastor, Rev. Augsburger, is at present conducting a catechism class, with nine members enrolled.

We have indeed received much spiritual food, as well as blessings from the series of messages we have been enjoying on the book of The Revelation, brought to us by our pastor, chapter by chapter, for quite sometime. They have been most interesting. One wonders at the indifference shown by so many in these days, when we learn of what is yet before us. May many yet choose Christ as their guide through life.—Correspondent.

In Memoriam

MRS. ELOVINA BARINGER, Quakertown, Pa., daughter of Amos and Emeline nee Shellenberger, Fulmer, was born in Haycock Township, July 1st, 1863.

On October 30, 1886, she was united with Henry L. Baringer in marriage, with whom she shared joys and tasks for more than fifty-one years. Three children were born into this union. Two sons: Howard and Harold died in infancy; Mabel, the wife of Asa Silas Knechel, Bethlehem, survives.

In 1889 she united with Flatland Mennonite church, with her husband, and has been a faithful and active member in the Lord's work ever since. Because of her kindly and willing disposition, the departed was held in high esteem by a host of neighbors and friends, to whom she proved to be a devoted Christian who was always ready to lend a helping hand.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a grandson, Henry Asa Knechel, and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Mianna Slotter, Perkasie, William Fulmer, Perkasie; Mrs. Angeline Stever, Philadelphia; Mrs. Emma Mann, Hellertown; and M. Edwin Fulmer, Bethlehem. Her last illness was of short duration. She took sick on Friday, April 29, and steadily grew worse. Wednesday morning, May 4, she departed from this world to be with her Lord. Her age was 74 years, 10 months and 3 days. Text used by her pastor, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Proverbs 31:28-31. Interment at the Flatland Burial ground.

MILO J. LEHMAN, the son of David and Mary (Habegger) Lehman, was born in Pandora, Ohio, March 12, 1916 and died at the home of his parents near Pandora, May 2, 1938, at the age of twenty-two years, one month and twenty days. His illness was short, less than one week. He had a severe attack of flu which soon developed into double pneumonia. Medical aid and careful nursing were of no avail in staying the hand of death. The funeral services were held at the Grace Mennonite Church on the afternoon of May 4, 1938, conducted by his pastor, Rev. Paul E. Whitmer and Rev. C. O. Good of the local M. E. Church. A large congregation was present at the funeral. Milo is survived by his parents, one brother, Francis, and his family, his aged grandmother, Habegger, of Berne, Indiana, who recently celebrated her ninetieth birthday, and by many other relatives and friends. Milo was an active member of the Grace Church and a regular attendant at its services. His death is a great loss to his parents, relatives and friends.

PETER P. O. GRABER, son of Peter and Susanna Graber, was born on December 23, 1893, at Pretty Prairie, Kansas, and lived in that community until young manhood. He received his education in the public schools there and later attended the Bible school at Hillsboro, Kansas, for two years.

When he was 4 years old his father died, leaving him and six others in the family to be reared by an invalid mother. On the 27th of March, 1910, upon public confession of his faith in Christ as his Savior, he was baptized by Rev. J. J. Flickinger and became a member of the Pretty Prairie church.—In the year 1913 his mother died, leaving him an orphan.

On May 6, 1917, he was joined in holy wedlock to Anna Goering, with whom he was permitted to share the joys and sorrows of life for 21 years. Five children were born to this union. Shortly after their marriage, they moved to Moundridge, Kansas, where he became a member of the Hopefield Mennonite Church, retaining his membership there until 1935, when he transfered it to the Eden Mennonite Church.

In 1924 it became known that he was suffering from diabetes and about a year ago dropsy developed. In spite of all efforts to find medical relief, no human help could be found. In his severe pain he sought through much prayer and song his comfort in the Lord. He died April 18, 1938, having attained the age of 44 years, 3 months and 27 days.

He leaves to mourn his death his deeply bereaved wife, 5 children, 5 brothers, 1 sister, 3 half-brothers, 3 half-sisters, his aged parents-in-law, many relatives and friends.

He was a loving husband and father, who constantly sought to bring his own to the Lord.

ANNUAL GET-TOGETHER OF IOWA CHURCHES

Plans are being made for the annual Get-Together meeting of the four Mennonite Churches of Iowa; namely, the churches at Pulaski, Donnellson, Wayland, and the Eicher Mennonite Church. The meeting will be held on Sunday, June 12, at the Eicher Mennonite Church near Noble, Iowa.—Everyone welcome to come and spend the day with us.—Mrs. J. J. Rich, Corr., Crawfordsville, Iowa.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Dr. J. E. Hartzler, Hartford, Conn., writes: "Please change address of The Mennonite from above to 1024 South 7th St., Goshen, Indiana, until further notice. I leave here Thursday for points in Ohio and Indiana, and then go on to Freeman College for commencement festivities and Bible lectures in that community. Then to Mt. Lake, Minn., for High School commencement and a week of Bible lectures in the Bethel Church, and the Northern District Conference. Then move on east for a number of summer Bible conferences in Pennsylvania, and Maryland and Ohio. Will return to Hartford Seminary during the winter."

—Portland Hears Radio Singers.—Mrs. Christine Miller writes: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowmer, who are heard thrice daily over station KWJJ, rendered a program of sacred song at our church Sunday evening. These consecrated, talented singers go wherever asked—to big churches, little churches, hospitals, jails, reformatories—and refuse all remuneration, saying that this is their way of contributing to the work of the Kingdom. Many hearts have been touched and won to Christ through their ministry of music. Their coming here brought out the highest Sunday night attendance on record.

—Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebr.—Rev. A. W. Friesen has kindly sent us their Year Book, a rather large 24-page pamphlet containing, besides the usual statistics, fine illustrations of their three successive church buildings, and also of their Bethesda Bible School. The report shows tangible evidence of life and growth in this large congregation of 700 members, with a Sunday school enrolment of 820, and contributions for all purposes totaling nearly $7,000.00. The congregation is served by Rev. A. W. Friesen, pastor or elder, the Reverends John F. Epp and H. D. Epp, assistant pastors, and Bro. B. A. Friesen, deacon.

—Pine Grove Menn. Church, Bowmansville, Pa.—Mrs. Horace Groff, Bowmansville, Pa., has been appointed correspondent for this church. — Sincerely yours, R. V. Stubbs.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—The Dramatic Player Guild will present, "Why Not Jim," May 19 and 20 at the Church. Proceeds are to be used for new electric lighting.—Mother and Daughter Banquet on Saturday, May 21, at the church. The men will prepare and serve the dinner.—In the book "Who's Who" among American University and College students will appear the name of our Mr. Wilbur W. Lauer as one of the 3500 thus honored.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—Teams have been organized to call on church members for the purpose of raising funds to redecorate the interior of our church, a work so badly needed.

—A Tentative Program for the coming Conference session, appears in this issue of The Mennonite. Those somewhat familiar with the affairs of the Conference will notice that some alterations and possibly additions will have to be made to put the program in its final form. The German copy for the "Bundesbote" has not arrived at this writing.

—Friedensberg Church, Avon, S. D., May 14.—Thursday and Friday of this week have brought a real blessing to this community. We had the pleasure of having Rev. H. A. Fast with us. He has told us so many things that encouraged us to hold to the faith and principles of our great forefathers. He has also given us new light and hope of our Mennonite conference. We are grateful for such a splendid field secretary and are sure that he will prove as great a blessing to other communities as he has to ours.—Corr.

—The Bible Conference at Newton, Kansas, was in progress all last week. The speakers, chief among them Dr. Max Reich, a converted Hebrew and Bible scholar, brought much good food for the inner man. But the attendance, owing to rains and many counter attractions incident to the closing weeks of schools, etc., was not as good as it might have been.

—A Drouth in Europe.—A drouth of an intensity hardly yet experienced, is reported from parts of Europe. Great Britain, France, Switzerland, the Balkan region, Italy seem to be hit worst, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Scandinavia much less. May this not be the hand of God at work, in the effort to keep these nations from going wild in their preparations for war?

—Mission Stations, Oklahoma.—Sunday, April 3, is a day long to be remembered by our Thomas Indians. The Men's chorus of Hesston College and Bible School, Hesston, Kansas, favored us with a sacred program.—The severest blizzard in the memory of any one around here came upon us April 7 to 8. Firmly packed snowdrifts 6 and 7 feet high were formed on the mission grounds. On Sunday the 10th, it was impossible to go to any one of the churches.—We had blessed and well attended Easter services again through all churches.

INTRODUCTION

John D. Unruh, Member Board of Education, Editor

The series of articles in this issue of The Mennonite deal briefly with the educational work of our Conference—relating both accomplishments and possibilities. The sequence of the articles appears quite logical to the editor of this special issue. The first two articles are of a general nature with reference to our work as a whole. Then follow several articles on local Bible schools and the possibilities in Daily Vacation Bible Schools. This series is followed by several papers on the academies both in Canada and the United States. The last two sets of articles deal first, with our colleges, and, close with the problem of adult education.

The Board of Education is grateful to the editors of our church papers for the privilege of devoting one issue to the cause of Christian Education. It is the hope and prayer of the Board that this special issue, as well as the weekly articles appearing in The Mennonite, may help to acquaint our people with the great work of Christian Education. We trust that God may richly bless those who have contributed to this issue and those who may chance to read the articles.

Is Christian Education Mission Work?

By H. J. Brown, Missionary to China

What do we really understand by Christian education? Is any education carried on by the church or a Christian group by virtue of that alone Christian? Generally speaking we have secular education carried on by the government and non-Christian groups; and we have, in contrast to this, education carried on by religious people for religious purposes. There is reason to be concerned about the educational work of Christian people, whether carried on by the church or other organized bodies. If there ever was a need of Christian education in America, it is now. The home has lost much of its former spiritual value and Christian devotion. Very few families practice daily prayers. For many people the home has become a place where they eat and sleep. There is no time for a few minutes of quiet and united fellowship with God, much less for teaching Christian principles. Many people, if they still pray, have to do so on the run. There is even no time left to talk over common interests of life. The radio steals the last minute during meals. Thank God for the devotional programs that are broadcast. They do bring rich blessings to many a thirsty soul; but the home of today is not fulfilling its duty in educating families, or the members thereof, in the sacred principles of Christian living.

This fact then throws the burden of Christian education on the shoulders of Christian groups. The church itself and its auxiliaries, as Sunday school and Christian Endeavor, the Daily Vacation Bible Schools, and the church and private regular schools will have to bear the burden. The field of service here is enormous; but the actual accomplishments are far from what they ought to be. One thing is certain, namely that the greater number of the American youth are not sufficiently impressed with Christian teachings, so that it produces a high standard of moral living. Lack of Bible knowledge among the young in our Christian circles is deplorable. To be sure, it could be worse, far worse. But on the other hand there is a vast opportunity of greatly improving the situation still lying idle. The modernistic and worldly inroads have greatly weakened every phase of Christian education. Some so called Christian schools are at present doing the cause more harm than good. Even many churches and their auxiliaries have already been so permeated with anti-Biblical teachings, that they cannot present the Bible and its teachings to the youth of their circles as being the Word of God, that has power to save from sin, and create a new creature out of every sinner, who submits to the operation. Instead of the Bible and its Christ they preach some other philosophy, review "good" books, show worldly movies, arrange for card-parties, dances and the like. Surely in such places one cannot expect to obtain a Christian education.

The exhortation of Christ to the faithful is: "But that which ye have already, hold fast till I come." Rev. 2:25. On the other hand it behooves them also to heed His warning: "Be faithful and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die." Rev. 3:2. If the present Christian institutions will awaken to the dangerous inroads, that the enemy now is making, correct their way in turning wholeheartedly to the Word of God, and teach those simple but powerful truths in an unadulterated form, and even enlarge the present scope of their activities among the young people, it cannot but follow, that Christian education in the directing hand of God, and with His blessings resting upon the work, shall have a life-giving message for the youth of today. It will produce new life in their circles, and through these young people the message of life will spread to the outside, and without doubt it will spread to the utmost parts of the earth, as some of these men and women leave their native land as missionaries, teachers and responsible businessmen to foreign countries. Thus Christian education is mission centric and has a message for the world.

How Are We Doing?

H. A. Fast, Conference Field Secretary

We generally ask this question when we need some reassurance that we are really doing effective and efficient work in a given task. Perhaps it is not entirely out of place, if we ask the same question in regard to the Christian-educational efforts of our churches.

"How are we doing" in the performance of this great and important task? Are we really getting somewhere? Are we measuring up to the efforts and the effectiveness of other denominations? How are we performing this task in the face of the tremendous need for an alert, active, and effectively functioning church?

An adequate answer to these and related questions would require more space and more detailed and accurate information than I have at my disposal. I shall make no attempt to answer these questions but I am willing to give some of my reactions toward the Christian-educational efforts of our churches that I have had opportunity to observe.

1. There are reasons for encouragement. There appears to be an increasing appreciation of the great essentials of our Christian faith and life, and there are encouraging signs that churches are striving to measure up more fully to the task. Churches are supplementing their teaching efforts by establishing Daily Vacation Bible Schools and by cooperating in Week-day Bible Schools. The attendance and the interest in Sunday School and Christian Endeavor work is generally good and we get a very fine percentage of our Sunday School pupils to unite with the church and to attend its Sunday services. In this as well as in the generally excellent quality of Christian life and character of our young people and in their willingness to serve, we have a real reason for gratitude.

But I wonder whether this gratifying condition is actually due to the effeciency and effectiveness of our Christian-educational efforts or more truly due to the influence of the generally fine Christian atmosphere and example of the home. I wonder also whether in this encouraging condition we always succeed in enlisting a genuine, wholehearted personal commitment to Christ in his way of life. I wonder further whether we always succeed in giving young people such a clear understanding of the great basic facts of the Christian life and message and whether we always help to establish Christian attitudes so firmly in their life that they are enabled to live a consistent Christian life and give a clear and convincing testimony of the power of Christ in human life.

2. I wonder how many of our churches have a definitely formulated aim for their Christian-educational work and a standard by which to measure what they have done. How many of them have a clear picture of what they are trying to accomplish by their teaching efforts, in any given year, or by the time a child is 8 or 12 years old or a young person of 17. I am sometimes afraid that many work without a plan or a goal and the results are probably as meager as if they were trying to farm or carry on business without a plan or goal.

3. I wonder how many churches have ever stopped to estimate the actual value of each of their educational efforts as, for instance, the Sunday School, Vacation Bible School, Week-day Bible School, Christian Endeavor, midweek Bible study, leadership training, the sermon, etc. and to ask whether these efforts really meet the total need. Is it not a fact that most of our churches still think merely of having a school instead of being a school in Christian living?

4. I wonder how many churches have realistically and carefully studied their educational "set-up", to see whether it really serves the needs of the church in the best and most fruitful way. Only a small proportion of our churches have a committee on Christian education which carefully studies and supervises the educational efforts of the church, and very probably a still smaller proportion of these committees are actually at work.

5. I wonder how our teaching methods and materials would compare with the ones our children enjoy in the public schools.

6. I wonder how many churches have an adequate and continuous program of finding and training leaders to take charge of and to do effective work in their various enterprises of service.

7. I wonder how many churches make a definite effort to enroll in its teaching program every child and young person within the church group and every unreached person outside the Christian circle.

I could keep on "wondering" but I hope this may be sufficient to start churches and Sunday Schools and leaders to wondering about their own Christian-educational efforts. And I hope it may suggest to them ways of improving the effectiveness and of extending the reach of their own efforts to "go therefore and teach—all things whatsoever I have commanded you" as our great Master Teacher charged us.

Our Bible Schools in Canada

John G. Rempel, Minister, Rosthern, Sask.

As the general of a besieged city received word that the enemy was preparing to shut off the wells of the city, he said resolutely: "Then we will dig our wells deeper."

The answers to a recent inquiry, sent to the principals of the Bible schools belonging to the General Conference Mennonites in Canada, as to what thought had been instrumental in calling their Bible school to life, though diverse, had the idea, expressed in the above illustration, in command.

More than ever is our youth of today being exposed to non-Christian and heretic influences. In the form of writing and print all kinds crowd in on them. Therefore, the deepening of religious knowledge is necessary.

In our public schools, religion, as a subject of instruction, has generally been excluded. In purely Mennonite districts we have one half hour daily for religion and German, the time for which may be included in the time-table. Often this time is extended another half hour, after school hours. Good use of this privilege has already been a great blessing to the churches. Even if children are privileged to visit such a school, they are, after finishing school, that is, at the beginning of adolescence, almost entirely dependent on the Sunday school for instruction in religion. And yet, exactly these, are the decisive years of life. If the influence of those people, who immigrated after the war, comes into consideration here, it is because these people learned to appreciate regular religious instruction, especially since they had been robbed of it by the Bolshevistic regime.

As here and there experiments were being made with Bible schools with Mennonite Brethren in the lead, the Canadian Conference occupied itself with this question. During its Manitoba session of 1933 it elected a committee, whose duty it became to work out an appropriate course of study for our above mentioned Bible schools.

In the following headlines the committee laid down the purpose and signification of the Bible schools:

1. A deeper understanding of the Holy Scriptures and our Faith.
2. Extension of knowledge of church history in general, and Mennonite history in particular.
3. Increase of general education, especially in German language, literature, and singing.
4. Preparation for church work in the Sunday schools, young people's societies, and as ministers.

Our Bible schools have mostly observed the course, proposed by the committee, but have adapted it to local conditions and needs. To sum up: Our Bible schools are places for the planting and care of religion and the German language.

During the last year the number of Bible school students in famine areas (especially Saskatchewan) has decreased. The desire for improvement has not died out, however, rather, it has begun to increase.

As an illustration of how the Bible schools stand today, I would like to give a few statistics from two Bible schools of each of the Prairie Provinces:

1. Winnipeg, Manitoba—has a day Bible school and an evening Bible school. The former had 15 students last winter, the latter 35.
2. Gretna, Manitoba—in connection with the Mennonite Collegiate Institute had 18 students last winter.
3. Rosthern, Saskatchewan—in connection with the German English Academy had 12 students last winter.
4. Swift Current, Saskatchewan—25 students.
5. Rosemary, Albert—18 students.
6. Didsbury, Alberta—9 students.

Since the last crop failure robbed many parents of the possibility of sending their children to a Bible school, some churches arranged a short course for their youth at home. Thus at many places church schools began to exist. A typical example: Eigenheim, only 6 miles from Rosthern, had engaged an experienced preacher and teacher last winter for such a school, which was attented by 17 young people.

The influence of the Bible schools is already noticeable, especially in the Sunday School, but also otherwise. For example, last winter in a district that has to be taken into account for our Rosthern Bible school, two young brethren, both of which have attended our Bible school, were chosen into the ministry. Their positive Christianity, their courage in the work fills us with happy confidence and entitles to good hopes.—(Translated from German.)

Was it Worth it?

Rev. J. J. Balzer, Teacher and Minister

I am requested to write about 600-700 words regarding the 34 years of my schoolwork. Impossible! I am glad that this article is to be more or less historical, as I dislike to write subjectively. To chatter from school shall be the object of this task.

Had I the photographs of all the pupils and students from 6 different states who, during 34 years of my life, studied their lessons in my classroom, I could decorate the nine rooms and two halls of our home, and the walls would not supply the necessary space to place them. This is speaking favorably on the question: Was it worth it?

Asking myself, what has become of the many hundreds, who for 2, 3 and 4 years battled with the studies of the academic course—the school was incorporated under the academic laws of Minnesota—in German, English and Latin, then I am permitted to say, that by the grace of God, a goodly number are active missionaries in heathen lands, some never attending a higher institution; others are preachers, elders, professors, doctors, teachers and many are S. S. teachers. The feeble efforts of myself and the work of my help-mates: Brother H. A. Bachman, John J. Becker, D. H. Fast, and a number of teachers in organ and piano, have proved that it was more than worth it.

The cultural influence which this school promoted during this period also comments favorably on the question "Was it worth it?" Our Mennonite settlement here in Minnesota was not composed of organized churches from abroad, but consisted mostly of a mixed group of members of various very conservative churches in Russia, like Morgenau, Pordenau, Bergthal and others. Their ideal school was the "Dorfsschule" (village school), where Bible stories, reading, writing, catechism and some arithmetic were taught, and very little of geography and nothing of general or church history. In singing only soprano was in use and that pretty poorly.

In 1886 Brother I. I. Bargen and myself opened an organized Union S. S., beginning with 14 children, 12 girls and 2 boys. On the 5th Sunday over 100 were enrolled, and four part singing was begun. On June 29, 1887, the first children's day was celebrated and a program on missions was given by the children and some teachers, and the offering given amounted to $96.63. A choir furnished the singing and even an organ was used.

In the Bible Academy soon a choir of 110 singers was organized with instrumental music, and when the "Cantata Zion" was presented, a silver offering of 110 dollars was raised from the audience, which was sent to P. A. Penner in India. What music in Mountain Lake today? Every church has a large choir; the community choirs of all churches, composed of 150 singers, gives concerts once or twice a year and the high school has an orchestra of over 80 members. Was it worth it? To begin with a quartet in 1886, and witness such wonderful and marvelous changes since then?

And what reading matter was used 50-60 years ago? In the scattered private schools the New Testament and the Old were used as textbooks, and the only newspaper that was found in some homes was the "Mennonitishe Rundshau" published in Elkhart, Ind., by Rev. John Funk. In church and general history and introduction into the Bible, I gave my lessons by dictation, for parents were not willing to buy textbooks. A few years later the change came, a school library offered good reading matter, and soon every home had a number of weeklies and a daily. The literary society of the school offered such extensive and well prepared programs on Friday evening, that the hall could not seat all the visitors. It was worth it to make a beginning in cultural work. And so we today look back upon these years of development, we are humbly impressed, in so many ways, by the fact that by the permission of God and His grace we could be helpful in promoting the many improvements. Yes, thank God, it was worth it, worth the midnight oil, the sleepless nights, and the labor connected with it.

Possibilities of Daily Vacation Bible School

C. B. Friesen, Teacher, Mt. Lake, Minn.

Experience proves that there are great possibilities in the work of the Daily Vacation Bible School. It has a mission to fulfill that cannot be accomplished as effectively by any other agency.

There are, however, certain essential prerequisites. (1) The most important of these is a qualified teacher. He must be born again, must possess a fairly good knowledge of the Bible and of the plan of salvation, must have a love for children, and lead a consecrated life. (2) A definite, graded course of study, to assure systematic work, prevent repetition, and make for progress, so that the child will, in a number of years, acquire a general knowledge of the entire Bible. Some very good courses are available. (3) The cooperation of the parents is necessary. This means willingness to send their children, to give financial support for such services, more in proportion to its value, and to pray earnestly for the work and the workers.

In speaking of the benefits of such work, it remains an established fact that the Bible stories which the children learn and the Scripture passages that they memorize, will be a blessing and a preserving power to them in their later life. There are also wonderful possibilities of bringing the gospel into non-Christian homes. Most parents who take no interest in church or Sunday School, are willing, however, to send their children to the Summer Bible School. As these children learn choruses, gospel songs, Bible stories, and memorize Scriptures, they take them into their respective homes and thus unconsciously become missionaries to arouse an interest in spiritual affairs.

The prime importance of the Daily Vacation Bible School, of course, should be evangelization, and the possibilities in this respect are almost unlimited. Naturally, the greatest opportunity lies in the winning of the children in the school. Many of whom can be led to take a definite stand for Christ. In an article in The Sunday School Times the writer says, "We had no handwork in our school; in fact, we marvel that any school has time for it. Our time was all too short without that, and the children did not feel the lack of it in the least. One can learn to make baskets and bird houses at home or in the day school, but the Daily Vacation Bible School is the golden opportunity for concentration on the Word of God. . . . At our first meeting (of the teachers) we resolved that no one should complete this three weeks' course until we had discovered his relationship to Christ. To urge the children who were not Christians to accept Christ as Savior and Lord was of paramount importance."

A wonderful opportunity lies in the contact that the teachers have with the parents, as they visit the homes. Here they can do some effective personal work among the grown-ups of the community. Finally, the closing program, which should be prepared with that purpose in view, presents another opportunity to present the gospel message, this time through the lips of the children, thereby making an appeal that cannot be affected in any other way.

We know that the results of the work of the Daily Vacation Bible School in many instances have been miraculous: Souls have been won to Christ, interest in God's Word has been stimulated, church and Sunday School attendance have increased, new Sunday Schools have been established, unhappy family relations have been solved, the morals of a community have been improved, yea, entire communities have completely changed for the better, all as the result of the work of the Daily Vacation Bible School. This may seem exaggerated, but it is the testimony of Christian workers who have long been engaged in such work.

Therefore, let us, as Christians, strive to give every child within our reach an opportunity to attend a Summer Bible School. "How shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent?" (Rom. 10:14, 15)

Serving Mennonite Youth of Canada

G. H. Peters, Principal of Institute, Gretna, Man.

There are two Mennonite high schools in Canada, one in Gretna, Man., and the other in Rosthern, Sask. The former is kown under the name "Mennonite Collegiate Institute", the latter is called "German-English Academy."

Both schools offer a full high school course (Grades IX, X, XI, and XII). But in addition to this, both schools have an extensive program in German and religion.

As I am not well enough acquainted with the work at Rosthern, my further remarks are related chiefly to the school at Gretna. But I hope not to be far from the truth in believing, that the aims and endeavors of the high school at Rosthern are nearly the same as those at Gretna.

The Mennonite Collegiate at Gretna, Man., was founded in 1890, and until December, 1934, the school was under the able leadership of the well known teacher H. H. Ewert. Since January, 1935, G. H. Peters is the principal of the school, who tries to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor and to conduct the school along the line of principles laid down by the former school board.

In 1936, the school was formally taken over by the Manitoba Mennonite Conference. Unfortunately the chronic ills of the school, constant deficiency in money, have not yet been cured, the school being, now as before, dependent on the charity of individual friends of education.

Which are now the aims and principles guiding the work in the Mennonite Collegiate Institute? These principles are determined by the requirements of the Mennonite communities of Canada. As these communities are established on a democratic basis, the various workers being selected from among the members of the communities, it is indispensable that these members are well versed in the doctrines and teachings of our Mennonite Church. This is one of the chief reasons, why we emphasize the teaching of religion in our school. More than that, the whole spirit of instruction is dominated by a fundamentally Christian life philosophy, and we would hardly tolerate in our school a teacher who favors a modernistic viewpoint in theology. We consider the Bible as the infallible source of religious information.

A second factor in determining the course of study in our school is the exclusive use of the German language in the religious services of our Mennonite communities. We here in Manitoba still hold that the German language is our mother tongue, the knowledge of which should be made compulsory for every Mennonite. We emphasize, therefore, the instruction of it in our Mennonite Collegiate. It is our aim that our graduating students should have as thorough a knowledge of the German language as of the English. If this aim is not reached in all cases, it is due to the indifferent attitude of some of the parents who tolerate the exlusive use of English in their homes. I should like to point out here that the emphasis of German in our school does not in any way hinder a thorough appropriation of the English language. Our experience is a clear proof that just the opposite is the case. The best students in German are usually the best students in English, too.

That our students are not neglecting the English subjects such as the English language, history, science, mathematics, etc. is proved by the fact that they pass their department examinations usually with higher mark than the students of the state-supported high schools.

Social requirements are satisfied and variety in school life is secured by the organization of literary society programs, choir practices, young Christians' society programs, etc., all under the guidance of the faculty of the school. We approve of sport only to the extent as it serves the health of the students, but not farther. We do not permit our students to compete in sport with other schools, finding this wasteful of time, energy, and even health. There are several other things in which we cannot go with the majority, if we don't want to depart from our high aims of education.

In conclusion I might say that our Institute which is connected with a dormitory for about 50 male students, is primarily an educational institution in which we try to prepare intelligent young men and women with high ideals and a strong Christian character, who will be able to serve our communities adequately as teachers and community workers.

Any prospective student who would be interested in the conditions of admittance to this school is requested to apply for further information to the principal of the school.

Yours in the service of our young generation, G. H. Peters.

Extension Work by Our Colleges

G. T. Soldner, Field Secretary, Bluffton College

A question frequently asked regarding our colleges is, what they can do for the churches. How can they make a contribution to the work of those who support them? Can greater cooperation be effected between the colleges and the churches?

These questions are asked not only by the ministers and the members of the churches but the college officials find them among the most difficult to answer. They are most desirous of having the schools make regular and worthwhile contributions to the churches from whom they receive students, gifts, prayers and support in many ways.

A common contribution that is made by our schools to the churches is in the field of music. Throughout the years of their existence, each school has developed various musical organizations, such as instrumental ensembles, quartets, glee clubs, choruses, and now the a capella choirs. These in turn have gone to the churches with their programs, bringing inspiration and creating the desire for better music. The programs thus rendered have also revealed the degree of excellency attained in the music departments of the schools.

A further work of extension in the music department of Bluffton College is that of directing some of the work in the churches. For a number of years Prof. Lantz has conducted choir schools in the churches of the Eastern District Conference, during the summer months, closing the work of the summer with a great musical presentation by the massed choirs of the conference. He is also available to churches for the rendition of oratorios. During the past two years he has directed the choir of the church at Berne in their presentation of "The Messiah" during the Christmas season, and this rendition was accompanied by a well balanced orchestra, chosen from the regular college orchestra. Similar work has also been done in churches near Bluffton. No doubt the faculties of the other schools have done similar services to the churches, conference sessions, retreats, and other gatherings.

Another form of extension work done by a member of the Bluffton faculty a number of years ago was that of conducting Teacher's Training work for the Eastern District. A series of class periods was arranged in the various centers of the conference. Five evenings per week for a period of ten weeks were used in this effort. The same lesson was given in each center during the week. This effort alone resulted in more work done, in Teacher Training, in the conference than would likely have been accomplished by the churches in a considerably longer period of time.

A number of years ago the college had prepared a syllabus in which the various members of the faculty listed a number of lectures, addresses, and sermons, on varied subjects, which they were prepared to give. More than fifty such subjects were listed. The schedule was then mailed to the ministers of the churches. Some churches made good use of this service. Speakers were thus secured for Sunday School conventions, C. E. rallies, father and son banquets, and other occasions. Much wider use of such service should be made by the churches. While the colleges offer the service, they hesitate to ask for permission to render it. But our schools are only too anxious to be of use and of help.

Another form of extension work that is offered is that of special evangelistic services, or Bible lectures, in which men from our schools will give an entire week or more to a church. Each school has its Bible instructor, and various other ministers on the faculty. These men are available to any churches, at times that can be arranged to fit into their regular programs of work. Among the presidents of our colleges, deans, Bible instructors, and other ministers, there are more than a dozen men available to the churches for special services. But again, these men hesitate to ask for permission to be of use. Let the churches ask for them as it is a regular part of their work.

Gospel teams, debate clubs, recreational directors, indeed any organization on any of our college campuses, and any instructor on our faculties are only too happy to be of service to the churches. Peace institutes can be held; church fellowships can be conducted; song fests can be had; pulpits can be filled. The colleges belong to the churches and are waiting to be used.

Scrap Book Notes of a Field Secretary

J. M. Regier, Field Secretary, Bethel College

"We want no begging for money on Sunday morning," a minister was ordered to inform the Field Representative. "We want a gospel message." The story of the woman who put in two mites; the story of the rich young ruler; of Zacchaeus who promised to give half of his possessions to God's kingdom; the Centurian who was honored because he built a school for the Jewish people,—would these be gospel messages? If an appeal for financial support for hungry people were made on Sunday morning, would that be begging which is not permitted? Supposing the appeal were for young people who are hungry for truth?

As we go from place to place soliciting gifts, we approach a driveway. "There is no use driving in here," my companion says. "They are very good people, but unable to help." Nevertheless, we drove into the yard, just for a friendly visit. The man comes to our car. "I know what your mission is," he says. "My wife and I have talked matters over and have decided we want to do something for Bethel College, too. We expect to sell an article which may bring about $5.00. Within three weeks we will be able to send it in." We were deeply touched. As long as people have such vision of the need of higher Christian education and such willingness to help, Bethel will never fail.

When the representative of a college is treated like an agent who is only seeking to feather his own nest, it takes much grace to remain cheerful and enthusiastic. "When a begger comes to my house," said one man, "I usually give him a quarter to get rid of him. Would that be all right?" We thank God that many people really have a better understanding of the purpose of a church college.

On my last visit with Rev. P. R. Aeschliman last July, I assured him that I had come to his home simply for a visit with a dear friend. Knowing what my work was, he insisted I had to accept a gift from him for the school. He wrote out a check for $20 and said he was willing to do that every year. Who will continue this for him and who will follow in his trail?

One thing that encourages me concerning the future of the Mennonites, as I visit various churches, and I have preached in at least seventy-five churches since I entered this work, is the large number of young people attending church services. How often do sincere church workers lament the fact that so few young people attend church. We have many reasons to rejoice that a very large percentage of our attendance consists of young folks.

Two thoughts come to one's mind: will the loyalty and devotion to the home church continue, if the young folks drift into other schools? Then again, what a challenge these young people are to have them properly trained in our own colleges.

There is much to cheer us. At Bethel the Memorial Hall is now under construction. The work is not pushed very rapidly, as all available money is needed to purchase material, and the labor is done by friends who are donating their time. With new recruits every day, it is a little more difficult for the chief builder. But to see the people respond to this challenge is heartening. Several hundred different people have already helped.

One morning when concrete was to be poured, we were short of workers. At 6:30 in the morning we telephoned a man 30 miles away to send us workers. Two hours later eight volunteers whom he found were at work. This number included the man's pastor who pushed a wheelbarrow with concrete all day. Such experiences offset many that are of a discouraging nature.

The Field Representative is not in great danger that some one will steal his crown. It is not the type of work that one does for pleasure. And yet he experiences much satisfaction in meeting so many good people and in finding a growing interest in higher Christian education.

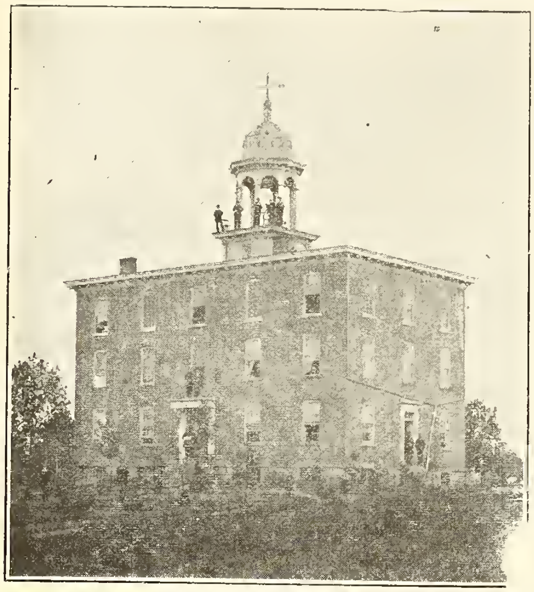
Stewardship and Our Colleges

H. J. Krehbiel, Pastor Emeritus, Reedley Ch., Calif.

Since 1893 I have been attending the sessions of the General Conference. At one of these sessions a brother speaking on education said in his address: "We must educate or we will perish." In 1889 I represented the Summerfield, Ill., Church at a conference held at Berne, Indiana. At that time I was a student in the seminary at St. Louis, Mo., and I began my address at the conference by saying, "I am a student." Rev. David Goerz was present at that conference and following my address he said, "Thank God, that a young Mennonite man need not be ashamed to say, 'I am a student.' "

At the first session of the General Conference held in Iowa, in 1860, four projects were placed before the conference, and one of them was to establish an educational institution. Six years later this was realized in the Wadsworth Seminary. For a period of twelve years this institution continued when, because of dissention and financial troubles, it was abandoned, which was a sad mistake. Had all the churches belonging to the conference at that time stood by the school as loyally as did the Summerfield Church, the school might have continued. Notwithstanding its brief existence, from the graduates of that school for a generation came the teachers, ministers, missionaries and leaders of the General Conference.

Some Mennonites might say and some perhaps do say, Why go to the expense of thousands of dollars to have our own schools when the government furnishes them free of charge? The same might be said of our church papers, Why publish them, there are enough religious periodicals. We might also say, Why conduct our missions in India and China, other and larger denominations are doing this work. We might finally ask, Why conduct our churches, there are enough other churches in the United States and Canada. The answer to all these questions is: Because we believe that four hundred years ago our forefathers established certain Christian principles, for which they suffered and died. We have inherited these principles and it is our duty to preserve them, for through them we are making a distinct contribution to the civilization of the world and to the kingdom of God. We cannot preserve these principles, if we do not have our own educational institutions.



WADSWORTH COLLEGE, WADSWORTH, OHIO

First Mennonite College in America. Erected in 1866, in operation until 1878, then discontinued because of lack of support.

In 1916 one of my sons was ready to go to college. A number of young people from Reedley were going to attend the University of California, at Berkeley. He wanted to go with them. I told him he might go if he could enter the University without joining the Reserve Officers Training Corps. After reaching Berkeley and investigating the matter, he wrote me that he could not enter without joining the corps. I wired him to return home, and we sent him to one of our colleges, and we have had no reason to regret our action.

As Mennonites we must educate or we will perish. Stewardship in reference to our colleges means, to send our children to our colleges and to give our colleges adequate financial support, so that lack of funds may no longer be the one obstacle that keeps them from being accredited in educational associations.

Our Churches and Adult Education

P. R. Schroeder, Pastor, Salem Ch., Freeman, S. D.

Blessed is the church whose adults are as eager learners as its children. Blessed is the Christian whose "delight is in the law of Jehovah; and in whose law he doth meditate day and night." Psalm 1:2.

While there is a premium on being young—those are the days for remembering one's Creator—Christian people can experience a peculiar satisfaction at all periods of life if they don't permit themselves to come to a standstill. To live is to "press on toward the goal." To live is to study, to "show thyself approved unto God."

Who does not want to learn better how to live? Who is not secretly longing for better equipment to face and conquer life's tests and temptations? Who will say that he knows all he ought to know on the great doctrines of the atonement, God, prayer, holiness, creation, providence, retribution, rewards? Who knows the mind of God as he ought on giving, on peace, on prophecy, on service, on temptation, on love, on righteousness? Many Sunday School teachers wish they were better teachers. Church officers begin to recognize their need of better equipment, as soon as they feel the pressure of the duties of office. There are many who desire an enrichment of their personal experience of Christ. There are those who would become personal soul-winners if they only knew how. Others have for years lived in a cloud, because they do not know the way of life well enough for their own assurance.

Here lies one of the outstanding opportunities of the Christian Church. Its members are largely adults. Its resources are as limitless as the revealed wisdom of God. Its teaching ministry perhaps never had greater opportunities than today. Here is an obligation that cannot be shirked. In part it has been met.

Many churches conduct Bible study at the midweek meetings. But the attendance is small. There is a thirty minute period of more or less definite study in the Sunday School. Some churches have annual Bible weeks. Those who can go to the district conferences may hear several addresses by an invited Bible teacher. There is a certain measure of intended or incidental Bible study where family worship is practiced. Church papers and church libraries wield an influence that is bound to bear some fruit.

Opportunity is rapping at our church doors. Pastors and church boards or educational committees, if such exist in the local churches, have a magic wand in their hands. This is adult education. Plans should be made without delay for the conducting of study classes. Why not a teacher training course? Or a course in matrimony? An excellent text is to be had in "For Better, Not For Worse" by Dr. Walter A. Maier. Why not a weekly or semi-weekly winter evening school in the church with the cooperation of near-by churches, if possible. In Turner County, South Dakota, four churches, representing three branches of Mennonites, conduct such a school with classes for different ages, two periods each evening, twice a week, for twelve weeks.

Text books on missions, on money, on prophecy, on doctrine, on personal work, and many others, are available. There is no excuse for offering anything else than sound Biblical material. A set of eighty-four Bible study booklets, in four series for primary children, juniors, intermediates, and adults, is available at ten cents each. Each series covers the whole Bible. Each booklet contains thirteen lessons. They are published by "Through, The Bible Publishers," Dallas, Texas. Correspondence courses for individual or group study, at low cost, can be had from the Bible Institute of Los Angeles, Moody Bible Institute, Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, or from the Sunday School Department of our General Conference, Rev. D. J. Unruh, Pandora, Ohio. Here there is an opportunity for churches and individuals, to get the benefit of able and consecrated Bible scholars. Let every minister learn to use the vast resources of non-Mennonite text books in the same way that our college instructors have to use them—that is, by omitting or mentally revising or adapting such items as need thus to be dealt with. In the absence of sufficient Mennonite text books, every congregation must get the fullest possible benefit of such springs and wells of water as are available from other denominations, as long as they do not contain water contaminated by rationalism. No individual student satisfies himself at one single human fountain. Likewise it becomes the obligation of every congregation to mould its thought and life along the lines of our common Christian heritage, and not only along the narrower denominational lines. In the meantime men from our own ranks who have a call from God that presses them forward like John the Baptist, or Paul, or Elijah, should sound out the eternal verities of the unchangeable Word, in order that more usable material for our own particular needs may be produced.

A week of Bible study under an able man of God is becoming a vital necessity in every church. It is almost certain that this will finally result in a revival. The wholesome effect of this kind of work is seen at Berne, Indiana, where four local churches have conducted such Bible conferences for thirty years and more.

Special problems can be taken up by organizing women's or men's groups. The whole field of Christian faith and practice calls for painstaking study in every church. Where the local church is too weak, an appeal must be made to the district conference. What our Young People's Retreats are aiming to do for our youth, needs to be done by other methods for the adults. Denominational and inter-denominational Bible study must receive increasing emphasis, be it in the local church or in conference sessions, be it for indoctrination of our denominational foundations or beyond denominational lines, in the universal fellowship of all saints. Make room for the Word of God to demonstrate its power. "When the adversary shall come in like a flood, the Spirit of Jehovah will lift up a standard against him." Isaiah 59:19 margin.

Young People's Work in Our Churches

Walter Gering, Pastor Eden Church, Moundridge, Ks.

One of the great challenges which confronts the church of today is its youth. What mighty things could be done in any church, community or denomination, if youth with all of its present day education, training, equipment and ability might be won for Christ and His cause. On the other hand, what a tragedy if the youth of today goes out into the world highly educated and equipped, yet without Christ. The challenge of youth today to the church lies in its possibilities: the possibility of becoming a mighty instrument in the hands of a living Christ or the possibility of becoming a mighty influence of degredation. Both of these possibilities lie within the youth of our churches today. Which of these two it shall be, is largely determined by the influence of the home, school and church. Because of the rapidly declining spiritual influence of the average home and school, the burden rests more and more upon the church. A large proportion of the youth of today receives practically no religious training outside of the church. What shall we as local churches do to meet this responsibility?

We ought to be clear as to what it is that we are striving to do, when we consider the matter of young people's work in our churches. Nothing kills progress so much as aimless, purposeless endeavor to work in some general direction. What is it that the church is trying to do in meeting the problem of its youth and how is it to go about to attain that goal? The following suggestions are offered for consideration.

THE FOURFOLD AIM

1. A definite acceptance of Christ and a consecration to His cause.
2. A growth in spiritual understanding and living.
3. An increased ability to serve Christ.
4. A deeper spirit of unity and loyalty to the group and the cause of Christ.

THE MEANS OF ATTAINING THE AIM

1. Definite Instruction

a. Through definite Bible study. The Bible still remains the agency of instruction in Christian truth, and it has been repeatedly demonstrated that youth will respond favorably to definite Bible study when presented in the light of every day problems.

b. Through prepared talks by members of the local group. In every group of young people, there can be found those who have entered upon the Christian life and by their personal appeal may be instrumental in instructing others.

c. Through the agency of discussion meetings on topics of vital interest to the group. Open discussions, if led rightly, can be highly instructive in solving personal problems.

d. Through question box meetings. There are always those who hesitate to present their problems openly, but will do so indirectly, and often their problem is the problem of others.

e. Through outside, inspirational speakers. An occasional contact with leaders of other groups brings new angles and ideas.

2. Definite Opportunity For Individual Expression

a. Through formal program services. There are always those who are capable, willing and ever desire to express themselves in a formal manner. This ought to be encouraged. We grow by doing.

b. Through discussion meetings where not only the leader but all have opportunity to express their ideas.

c. Through musical organizations. There are those who make their real contribution and growth through participation in such organizations.

d. Through informal testimony and prayer service. This type of expression is one of the valuable contributions to the development of Christian growth. Its usefulness has not yet been out-lived.

3. Definite Opportunity For Service

a. Through occasional or regular Sunday evening services. There should be opportunity for the group to conduct the evening meeting as a part of the regular church program.

b. Through exchange programs with other churches. Many churches welcome an opportunity to exchange with others, not only for the social contact which it affords but also because of the inspirational value and training it brings to both congregation and participants.

c. Through Gospel team work. Such work may be conducted in various ways such as visiting sick, unchurched groups, hospitals, etc. Some of the finest experiences and periods of spiritual growth have come through such work.

d. Through projects and tasks undertaken as a group which will bring about united effort and interest. Group unity and loyalty grows to the degree that the group works together in common tasks.

Education Through Our Publication Work

J. R. Thierstein, Chairman, Board of Publication

One of the serious problems with which we naturally should be concerned, is how to inculcate in our children and young people a taste for and an appreciation of wholesome, morally uplifting reading material. Are the public schools doing it? Hardly! While the reading that our children are exposed to in these schools cannot be said to be bad, much of it fails in really educating the heart of the child, or his inner life.

Facing such conditions, what are we, as a body of Christian believers, to do? Bestir ourselves in our homes, Sunday schools and churches to the pursuit of a definite, well defined program of disseminating reading material that has a positive Christian trend. Through adult education we must get parents to read more good literature themselves and to take greater interest in the reading of their children. Too many parents are satisfied with reading the Bible at devotion and hastily scanning the daily or weekly for the latest news. In such a frame of mind, they do not realize that there is, in the souls of their children, a craving to know good things which they could find in good books and magazines.

Our Sunday schools and churches will have to do much more in supplying their libraries constantly with new books of the character building type, and make strenuous efforts to induce and train the children to read them. Contests could be devised to arouse interest. The Western District Education Committee is building up a good-sized loan library, with which to serve the Sunday schools and smaller circles, in the effort to advance interest in reading.

Our Book Concern could start and carry on a book-sale, on the "a book-a-month plan", whereby, upon payment of a comparatively small price, a family or individual may obtain, from carefully selected lists, the choice of a worthwhile book each month.

Our Boards of Education and Publication realize that our people have many needs that should and could be met through publication, as soon as all of our churches realize that such work is really home mission work and deserves the financial support of such work. We do mission work to save souls. But, is it not true that many more souls have found salvation through reading the Bible than by the personal efforts of missionaries? And how many have been influenced to live better by reading good books!

A great need, the Senior S. S. Quarterly, has been supplied. Next in line is an Intermediate Quarterly, then material for primary, beginners and other units of the Sunday school. It seems also that the material now comprising the Young People's pages in The Mennonite had better be expanded into a Young People's paper that would more adequately meet the needs and best interests of this group. The Junior Messenger, now an adjunct of der Kinderbote, could probably be enlarged and published in the interests of the children in these States, and der Kinderbote-Junior Messenger made to conform to the needs of the children in Canada. To do all this requires money, and as long as only a comparatively limited number of our churches support the Education and Publication work with regular voluntary offerings, this work will lag behind.

The all prevailing need to carry on, improve and expand our work of publication is a conference printing plant. And we hope and pray that the coming conference will unite to supply this need beyond a doubt. To facilitate the work further, a good brother has suggested a change in the boards, thus: Let the Board of Education confine its functions to the promotion of our schools and the Board of Publication be superceded by a Board of Christian Literature whose function would be the planning, publication and dissemination of the literary needs of our Conference. The suggestion has merit and deserves serious consideration.

May we all pray God to give us wisdom to properly carry on the work of publication to the advancement of His Kingdom.

Moundridge Boys Win in Oratory Elimination

Harley Stucky, Paul Goering, and Edwin Stucky, three Moundridge youths, won the privilege of representing Kansas in the Western District Christian Endeavor oratory contest to be held on June 5, at Bethel College, in connection with the Mennonite Song Festival.

Harley Stucky, representing the Hopefield C. E., won first place in the Peace section of the contest with an oration entitled: United for Christ. Paul Goering won first place in the missions section of the contest using the title: The Decisive Hour of Christian Missions. He represented the C. E. of the First Mennonite Church at Christian. Edwin Stucky won in the retreat division with: Christ as a Retreater. He represented the C. E. of the Eden Mennonite Church.

The judges were Dr. E. L. Harshbarger, Rev. P. K. Regier, and Rev. David Wedel. The winners of the final contest will receive an expense paid permit to the Elmdale retreat which is sponsored by the C. E. Convention of the Western District Conference.

How Propagandists "Put It over on Us"

Matt. 12:1-14; 15:1-11

Young People's Topic for June 19, 1938

Meditations:

M., June 13. Propaganda appeals to ignorance. Jer. 4:22.

T., June 14. Propaganda is based on falsehood. Ps. 78:35, 36.

W., June 15. Propagandists are the false prophets of today. Matt. 7:15-20.

T., June 16. Propagandists intend to deceive. 2 Thess. 2:1-12.

F., June 17. Test propaganda by character. Tit. 1:7-16.

S., June 18. Smoke-lies from the pit. Rev. 9:1-5.

Suggested Hymns:

"Let there be light, Lord God of hosts," "God of the nations, near and far."

Program Suggestions:

Prepare an exhibit of different types of propaganda. Begin with an open forum on the subject. Here you will want to discuss such topics as:

A. The Vehicles of Propaganda
   1. The Newspaper
   2. The Radio
   3. Motion pictures, the stage, and art
   4. Pamphlets, etc.
   5. Billboards, placards, etc.
   6. Magazines
   7. Books
   8. Meetings
   9. Rumor
   10. Parades

B. The Methods of Propaganda

1. Attract attention

This is accomplished by means of color, size, intensity of outline, illumination, position on the page. The last-named factor is very important in determining the attention value of an advertisement. The back cover page has the highest preference, because it is more apt to be seen by a large number of persons. Among the inside pages, the front pages are more valuable than the back pages. On any single page the upper half is more apt to attract attention than the lower half.

2. Appeal to the needs and desires of the consumer

First there is the appeal to universal needs such as hunger, thirst, desire for activity, and desire for rest. Then there is the appeal to wants that have developed through training, imitation, custom, fad, fashion, the ambition to excel, the desire for luxuries, and the like.

3. Create mental habits.

This is facilitated by guiding the association of the gullible public. Situations, ideas, and objects are experienced in some realation to each other. It is the business of the propagandist to control the course of people's associations by means of selecting those ideas or events that shall be recalled or remembered together. Herein lies the insidiousness of propaganda. Certain cosmetics become associated with personal glamour; tobaccos and whiskeys, with social success; race hatred, international rivalries, and war, with ambition to excel. War also becomes associated with desire for rest because security and stability are portrayed as being unattainable unless some foe is vanquished in a decisive war.

By means of repetition, suggestion, reasoning, the thinking habits of the public are guided and controlled. Thus many fall prey to the slogans and pictures that carry the messages of false propagandists.

C. How to Counteract False Propaganda

1. Study of the motives of propagandists. Pierce through the attractive appeals. Find the underlying reason for the strong desires of the propagandists to put across their disintegrating ideas.

2. Combat adverse propaganda with constructive appeals, such as an appeal for Christian Education.

Follow the general discussion with short prepared talks pointing out the important features of the types of propaganda on display. Your exhibit may include both destructive and constructive propaganda.

If you have access to them, the following books are suggested as references:

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Intermediate Gatherings

The Intermediate Christian Endeavor Societies of the Eastern District Conference held their Rally at Lansdale church on April 21, at 2:30 p.m., with Mrs. Emma Rappold in charge. The theme was "Loyalty to Christ." John Boehr led the song service. After a series of readings and musical numbers by Intermediates, a message was given by Mr. Ernest Cope of Lansdale. Mr. Cope emphasized the difference between being loyal to Christ, in order to make better citizens and the true loyalty that Christ works out in us. The meeting was well attended.

On May 21, the convention of the Eastern District Intermediates was held at Deep Run church. Group discussions were led by Rev. Olin Krehbiel and Margaret Slotter, pastor and member of the Lansdale church. Lloyd Yoder of the Souderton society was the third group leader.—By Wilmer Smith, Lansdale, Pa.

DEPENDABILITY

Intermediate C. E. Topic, June 19, 1938

For Daily Study

June 13. Ready for service.—Ps. 123:1-4.
June 14. Reliable souls. Matt. 24:45-47.
June 15. A man to be trusted. 2 Cor. 12:1-10.
June 16. Steady and true. 1 Cor. 15:58.
June 17. The dependable Christ. 2 Tim. 1:12
June 18. Only the dependable chosen. Luke 9:57-62
June 19. Topic—Dependability. Matt. 26:36-46.

Advance Preparation

With this topic it would be interesting to try a plan something like this: get a package of cheap envelopes. On the outside of each print: "Topic: Dependability. Can we depend on you? Keep a secret. Do your part." These should contain the assignments and handed out one week in advance. Number them so that you can call on them by number at the meeting. Give everyone something to do, even though it may only be announcing a song. You will need to explain your plan somewhat as you give out the envelopes.

Appropriate Songs

"I Know Whom I Have Believed," "'Tis So Sweet To Trust In Jesus," "Great Is Thy Faithfulness," "Jesus Never Fails."

For the Leader

This is a world in which there must be dependence and trust. We could not live if it were not for the dependability of God's laws in the world. We could not get very far in any one day if we could not depend upon people. Give examples of how many people you depend on from the time you get up until you go to school.

It is human to fail. It is God-like to be dependable. Refer to the Scripture lesson. The disciples failed Jesus at the most desperate moment of His life. They slept when they should have been praying. Jesus knew what it would cost to save men from sin. He never wavered, but "set His face steadfastly" in the direction that He knew would lead to death. What if He had turned back or chosen another course?

A teacher moved into a new community and went to church. She hadn't been there very long until she said of one of the workers, "I have already found out that you can't depend on Vivian." How do you suppose she discovered this? How do we show this weakness? How can we grow more dependable?

Presenting the Topic

1. Bible Illustrations (Give these to different members) Were the following people found dependable? Give reasons for your answer. Daniel 6:4; Joseph, Gen 39:6; Moses, Heb. 3:5; Judas, Luke 22:3-6; Demas, 2 Tim. 4:10.

2. How does "dependability" rank among the qualifications for a worker? Assign to someone the task of interviewing several business men or foremen, and your pastor or Sunday School superintendent how they would rank dependability among the necessary qualifications of a worker. Let him make a report of what they say, at this meeting.

3. What does it mean to be dependable? How do people find out if they can depend on us or not? Make a list on the blackboard. A dependable person: a. Is on time; b. Keeps his promise; c. Does a job thoroughly; d. Is regular in attendance; e. finishes what he starts; add others.

4. Count the cost. Many people fail to make good because they do not count the cost before they begin something. Jesus said people laugh at the man who starts to build a tower and is not able to finish it, because he ran out of building material. He didn't count the cost before he started. Why is it a good rule to be slow in making and breaking promises?

5. How can we grow in dependability? Is forgetfulness an excuse? How much is dependability due to habit and how much to a live conscience?

A pencil and pad can be a wonderful help in making us more dependable, if we have the habit of just forgetting. The minute you make a promise, an appointment or something else for which you are responsible, jot it down where it will serve as a reminder.

Do It Now

"If you've found a task worth doing,
Do it now.
In delay there's danger brewing,
Do it now.
Don't you be a by-and-byer
And a sluggish patience tryer;
If there's aught you would acquire,
Do it now.
If you'd earn a prize worth owning,
Do it now.
Drop all waiting and postponing,
Do it now.
Say "I will!" and then stick to it,
Choose your purpose and pursue it,
There's but one right way to do it,
Do it now." —Author Unknown

Closing Moments

Five minute talk: Col. 3:23 "Doing Everything As To the Lord."

Song: "I Would Be True." Benediction.

JUNIOR CORNER

"ONLY BELIEVE"

Program Suggestion for June 12, 1938

Call to service by voices grouped about the piano singing "Come Ye That Love The Lord." Let those of the group already seated join the singing of verse two.

Opening Service:

1. Five minute song service in charge of chorister.
2. Devotional: Scripture reading by a junior. Mark 9:17-24.
3. Group singing the chorus softly, (twice) "Only Believe"
4. Prayer
5. "Only Believe." This could be the usual mission minutes. Using the verse Mark 11:24, have a brief prayer service in behalf of specific workers or needs on our mission fields.

Announcements

Study Period

1. Bring the minds back to the subject of the evening by singing in unison "Standing on the Promises" after the chairman has mentioned the subject by using the verse in Mark 9:23.

2. Rich or Poor, Which? Minute meditations by juniors.

    a. By "only believing" all things are possible for me. Read Mark 9:23. (It doesn't matter to have used it before.)

    b. By "only believing" I become a child of God and heir of His riches. John 1:12 and Gal. 4:7.

    c. By "only believing" I shall behold wondrous things. John 11:40.

    d. By "only believing" I receive eternal life. John 20:31.

    e. By "only believing" I shall be saved from all my sins and receive life as reward. Acts 16:31.

    f. By "only not believing" I shall die in my sins. John 8:24.

3. Which shall it be? Let the group bow heads in meditation while a verse of a hymn is played softly. Then lead in a prayer that God might lead us to believe on the Savior and so enter the life abundant. At the close sing softly one verse of the hymn you have chosen.

4. What others chose. Minute talks by juniors retelling Bible incidents:

    a. Two blind men chose to believe in Jesus. Matt. 9:27-31.

    b. Jairus chose to believe in Jesus. Mark 5:21-24; 35-42

    c. Another blind man chose to believe in Jesus. John 9:1-38.

    d. Martha chose to believe in Jesus. John 11:1-44

    e. The sinner on the cross chose to believe in Jesus the crucified Savior. Luke 23:39-43

    f. The 3000 and 5000 and more chose to believe in Jesus the Savior. Acts 2:41; 4:4; 5:12-14.

    g. An Ethiopian chose to believe in Jesus the Savior. Acts 8:26-39.

    h. A jailor and all his house chose to believe in Jesus the Savior. Acts 16:23-34.

5. Poem: "Only Believe?"

Only believe?
And nothing more
To find the way to Heaven's door?
Only believe
There flowed for me
The crimson blood of Calvary?
That there God's love
So freely gave
His only Son my soul to save?

Only believe
And I shall be
Cleansed from my sin eternally?
Only believe?
Oh can it be
Thus comes the Christ to live in me?

Only believe!
Yes, nothing more
To have the Way to Heaven's door.—A.

6. Sing in unison: "Whosoever Will"

7. Closing prayer by leader or a guest asking again that God might lead us to believe in Jesus that we might become His sons and daughters.

Extract from a Junior-Leader's Letter

The week before May 1st we decorated a box with pink crepe paper and also made flowers to decorate the handle that would lay flat on th top for sending. We collected quilt patches for this Maybasket which we planned to send to Mrs. Petter. Mrs. Petter wrote back such a lovely letter telling how pleased and surprised she was. She even took her Maybasket to Sunday school and told the story of how it came to be. She also wrote us of some experiences with Indian boys and girls that were very interesting to the Juniors. I read the letter to them Sunday. Mrs. Petter suggested that our society send "Redbird," a one-year old Indian baby, a gift. The children are now planning what it shall be.

We are still collecting quilt patches for we saw in the News and Notes that Fred Johnson was calling for them, too. Sincerely, Helen A. Penner, Junior leader, Beatrice, Nebraska.

(Do we have such a vital touch with our mission stations? What a joy for these little ones to be given the opportunity to help in God's great Kingdom work! What can we do?)

Dedication of the First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Ohio

The Lord willing, the First Mennonite Church of Aberdeen, Idaho, is to be dedicated on June 5th beginning at 2:00 p. m.

We take this opportunity to extend a hearty invitation to everyone to join us in giving thanks for the many blessings that have been ours to the extent that our new church building can now be dedicated for greater service in the Kingdom of God.

The program prepared for the occasion will recall some thirty years of faithful service on the part of many, and a consecration to the sacred use of God's people our place of prayer and of worship. After the dedication program we welcome our guests to a fellowship dinner which will be served in the basement of the Church.

—Methodists Claiming War Indemnity.—It is reported that the Methodist Church has placed a claim for $500,000 with the U. S. government, against Japan, as compensation for the missionary property which its army destroyed or badly damaged during the undeclared war in China. Twenty-four mission stations are said to have been ruined.

—Commencement Week at Bethel College.—Sunday, May 29, at 4:00 p. m., Open-air Concert by College Band, directed by Prof. David Suderman.—Sunday evening, at 8:00, baccalaureate sermon by Pres. E. G. Kaufman.—Tuesday evening at 7:30, Senior Class exercises.—Wednesday afternoon, Reunion of Classes of 1898, 1903, 1908, 1913, 1918, 1923, 1928, 1933, 1937.—Wednesday evening at 6:30, Alumni Banquet.—Thursday evening, June 2, at Newton City Auditorium, the forty-fifth Commencement Exercises, Hon. Walter A. Huxman, Governor of Kansas, giving the address. Forty-three seniors will graduate.

—Freeman Junior College Choir at Bethel.—This A Capella Choir of 28 voices under the able direction of Prof. Gerhard Toevs gave a splendid program of sacred and secular songs in the Bethel chapel, on May 13. Though Freeman Junior is rather new in this line of a work, their singing was quite on par with the efforts of older organizations we have heard.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, which lost its pastor a few months ago through death, has extended a unanimous call to Brother Erland Waltner of Freeman, S. D., and the call has been accepted. Mr. Waltner is a Bethel graduate, class of '35, and his work was so outstanding that he received a fellowship at the Biblical Theological Seminary, New York City, where he has studied the last three years and expects to continue doing part-time work, while serving the Philadelphia church. May God bless this new relationship abundantly!

—Rev. J. J. Balzer, Mt. Lake, Minn., writes, among other things, "We often have rain and it is too cold for May. The farmers cannot make headway with their cornplanting. Alfalfa is about ready for the first cut and the fields of small grain look beautiful. With God's blessings, there will be a good harvest." On May 7-8, Minnesota had a five inch snowfall, and people think the old saying, "A snow in May, brings a lot of hay," appears to be coming true.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon.—The exercises of cornerstone laying for the new Mennonite church, were held recently. Rev. J. M. Frantz of Pratum, Oregon, assisted in the program, opening the service and giving the history of the church, while the pastor, Rev. H. E. Widmer, preached the sermon on 1 Cor. 3:11 and Rom. 9:32. All help on the building so far has been voluntary, a fine spirit of cooperation prevails. The motto of the church is, Our Unfailing God.

—The Bethany Messenger, weekly Sunday bulletin of the Bethany Church, Freeman, S. D., Brother Harold Gross, editor and acting pastor, usually contains one or two meaty and interesting articles that should be read by a wider circle. We hope to bring one now and then, when space permits. Mr. Gross reports that he plans to enter Hartford Seminary next fall.

—Happenings in Eastern District (from ' Rev. Swartz's "Church Messenger").—The Eden church at Schwenksville has authorized its choir to raise money for an organ.—The congregations of the District have again invited Prof. Russell Lantz of Bluffton to direct their united choirs and conduct a music festival this summer.—The Conference budget, $2500 for general purposes and $2500 for the Old People's Home, total $5,000.00, was oversubscribed at the Conference, though the home drive reached only $3600.—The Conference mourns the loss of these three leaders: S. D. Yoder, S. M. Grubb and N. B. Grubb durnig the past year.

—First Church, Allentown.—This year it was surely "Happy Easter." Splendid services through the day. The S. S. offering was $238.45, the Ladies' Aid turned over $60.00, the church offerings were :Plate offerings, $64.74, envelope offering, $116.35, making a total of $479.54.—The Annual C. E. Convention is scheduled to be held on Memorial Day.—The Eastern District Brotherhood is planning for an old fashioned picnic and get-together at Deep Run June 11.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—One of the richest Sunday bulletins that comes to us regularly, is the one from this church. If we had more space we would like to make use of parts. The last page, entitled "Bluffton College Page," is devoted to things about Bluffton College or Christian college work in general.

—First Church, Philadelphia.—From a Brief History of the Sunday School by the Pastor, we glean the following: It had its first session May 10, 1868—original membership 28—enrollment at end of first year 73 with 11 teachers—until 1873 congregation elected the S. S. officers then the school—school conducted in German until 1875, some classes using the teaching period for the study of German. Today the school is organized into departments as a standardized school. Present enrollment 268.

—Mrs. Barbara Habegger, wife of Missionary Alfred Habegger, Busby, Montana, who had to undergo an operation some weeks ago and was confined at a Methodist hospital, Billings, Mont., for about a month, is now well recovered and back at the station, busy with her husband to catch up with the work. God be praised for her recovery. Marden Habegger, their son, graduates from Bethel College, Thursday June 2. His parents expect to be present.

—St. John Church, Pandora, Ohio.—The Pastor, D. J. Unruh, recently spent a number of days in Kansas, being one of the speakers of the Bible Conference at Newton, and holding a series of meetings at the Hoffnungsfeld Mennonite Church, near Moundridge. It has been a real joy to all concerned to see such fine turn-outs of the Young People's Bible class, the attendance averaging 25-30. This class had charge of the service at the County Home last Sunday afternoon.

A Thought on Pentecost

The first Christian Church has very valuable lessons for us. They were united and acted as one man. "They continued steadfastly in the Apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and the breaking of bread, and prayer." How different today! One doctrine then, now a multitude, and consequently confusion, uncertaintly, doubt. They were steadfast in fellowship. Today we isolate ourselves. We do not know each other, and as a result so much misunderstanding between Christians. They broke bread together and prayed together. What a power could the Christians of today develop, if they could make up their minds to pray unitedly for certain causes, as for instance, the cessation of war, and then act accordingly. But we do not seem to be able to do that. And what was the result of this unity, this harmony, this continuing in the doctrine of the apostles, fellowshiping, and praying together of the first Church? "The same day (Pentecost Day) there were added unto them about three thousand."

Our Mennonite Hymn Book

At a special meeting of the Board of Publication held in July 1936, the Board had become convinced that the new Hymn Book did not sell as it might have been expected, and that a revision of some kind was necessary. The chief fault found with the book lay in the medieval titles of many of the hymns, which had no meaning to the great majority of the people. It was plain, that if English titles—the first line or the opening phrase of the hymn—could be substituted for the foreign ones, the book would find much more favor, and would be worth a great deal more. It was also said, there was not enough variety of hymns or at least of certain types, and not enough gospel hymns and songs of the revival pattern. These faults were due largely to the fact that for some reason rather difficult to explain, the plans of the Hymn Book Committee, which had compiled a splendid list of hymns were not carried out as intended. Thus, for instance, seventy hymns in the list did not get into the book, and the Barnes Publishing House that made the plates ventured other changes and substitutions. That was unfortunate, for these plates cost the Book Concern the greater part of $3,000.00, which capital, due to the small sale of the book, is still largely wrapt up in the metal.

Since it is possible to remove the objectionable titles from the plates and substitute titles in plain English, the Board of Publication felt that this change, with some additions that would meet other wishes, would not add greatly to the cost already incurred, and so decided on a revision. The then manager of our Mennonite Book Concern was instructed to plan and direct a revision along the lines indicated. And the following persons were asked to serve on the Revision Committee: Prof. W. H. Hohmann of Bethel College, chairman; Prof. Russell Lantz of Bluffton College, Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, Newton, Kans., Rev. L. Hostetler, Upland, Calif., Mrs. Wilhelmina Bixel Fuller, instructor in organ and piano, Bethel College, and Brother F. J. Wiens, manager of the Book Concern, as members.

The members of the Committee have done a great deal of individual study on this project, especially the chairman, who has, among other things, sent out questionnaires to church and other leaders, to ascertain their views as to what constitutes a serviceable church hymn book. They will now hold a meeting at Newton, Kansas, June 7 to 10, to prepare a report, which is to be submitted to the coming General Conference for consideration. May God bless their efforts.

Sometime ago a leading member of the Revision Committee put the following questions to the Publication Board, and the Committee. Since they are interesting we list them here:

1. Is the Hymnal to be adapted for all our religious meetings, or only for the church service?
2. Should we consider other branches of Mennonites in compiling it?
3. What was the real weakness of the present Hymnal, why is it used by so few churches, and why the lack of enthusiasm among those who do use it?
4. Upon what basis shall we discard hymns now found in the hymnal and upon what principle shall we add new material?
5. How shall we keep the matter before the whole church and enlist the interest of a large number of our people so that they will understand the process by which a new hymnal is compiled, accept it and adopt it?

6. Who is to give the final literary touch to translations, and OK the hymns from the point of view of their literary quality and religious content?

7. How large a section for scripture readings, and aids to worship?

8. How many Chorals shall be included and how shall they be selected?

9. How many Gospel Hymns, and upon what basis shall they be selected?

10. How is our committee to work?

REPLY TO ABOVE QUESTIONS

The sanest and most practical answers to the above questions were given by Brother E. W. Baumgartner, Treasurer of the Board of Publication, as follows:

1. Personally, I desire a Hymnal which can be used for all religious meetings. I worship the same God in all religious meetings.

2. If we can adopt a book agreeable to General Conference Mennonites, I believe other branches would take to it quite well because we have all kinds of Mennonites in our General Conference. By this I mean all kind of tastes and opinions among our people.

3. The weakness of the present Hymnal is, as far as I have heard, the titles of the hymns which are not understood by the rank and file of our people. I believe one reason why so many churches are not using the Hymnal is due to the fact that the English has overtaken our churches to the extent that the sound and solid flavor of our old German Hymnal has been lost in a generation which is not acquainted with the fine and staple spirit of the old German Hymnal, even though many of the old hymns are translated into the English language and found in our present Hymnal. Then, sorry to say, many of our churches have been caught in this wave of emotional evangelism and complaint is made by these people that our present Hymnal does not contain enough of these so-called Gospel Revival Hymns. I say this kindly.

4. The basis upon which we should discard or add material is first of all a collection of hymns and songs which when they are sung will not go to the feet of our people but to their hearts. By this I mean get rid of any song which has the slightest tint of jazz. Let me explain. Our Berne church a few years ago during our annual union meetings engaged, together with the other churches, an evangelist who brought with him some gospel singers and players and most of their singing material was of the kind which, except for the words, one hears in questionable places. It got so bad during those meetings the authorities had to place church police around the house of God to keep people quiet. One night I was asked to serve as one of these police and I refused to serve, because as I said when I was asked to serve, if this evangelistic party will sing and play hymns which will not shoot to people's feet but rather to their hearts, there will be no need of police.

5. I believe a frank presentation of this matter should be brought before the Conference. Also, if the appointed committee and our board can finally accept a revision then make use of our church papers and make that known continually to our people. Something along the line of making our S. S. Quarterly a reality.

6. I know of no one better qualified than our own Bro. Thierstein to give the Hymnal the final literary touch to translations and if the job is to big for one man let him call in any one he chooses to help him.

7. Sections for scripture readings and aids to worship should not take up to much space. Enough for most any occasion or activity of the church.

8. My personal taste is for more Chorals than Gospel Hymns. At least Hymns should be of the highest type so that when we go from a Choral just sung to a Gospel Hymn our souls do not feel a sudden drop in worship. Let all Chorals and Gospel Hymns absolutely be of the type which invite and touch the sinner to repent and to accept the free Gift of God and lift the saints as it were to the very portals of heaven. This kind of song produces Christian worship and gives men anchor. I cannot stress this too much. Every preacher should desire such siging in his church. This paragraph really answers question nine also.

10. The committee should work through mail as much as that is possible but work to a point where probably a final get-to-gether of the committee is practical and necessary.

To me, a real Mennonite Hymnal means an invaluable part of the church and I have been disappointed because of the fact that my own church has not adopted the Hymnal even in its present form.

E. W. Baumgartner.

Regarding Our Hymn Book

Lester Hostetler

Our Hymn Book is not as popular as one might wish. A recent editorial in the Bundesbote informs us that it is used by only a small per cent of the Mennonite churches and that those using it have a good deal of fault to find with it.

It has some obvious defects and the Publication Board has authorized its revision. I do not know when the work will be completed but I think it is safe to say that within a year or two we will have a new book to sing from, one that is better in every way than this one we are now using.

While our Hymn Book is not perfect, I personally hold that it is better than it looks or that the extent of its sale indicates. I have a suspicion that many of our churches which turned to other publications, got something that is worse. Our Hymn Book is criticised for having poor binding, for being high in price, for omitting many old favorites, for including many unfamiliar and difficult tunes, for using poor translations, and in some cases setting old hymns to different tunes than the ones generally associated with them. No one, however, has said that the hymns and tunes are undignified ,or trivial, or unworthy of being used in the worship of God. Most of the selections, I am quite sure, have beauty and depth and power to inspire true worship, providing they are sung correctly and enthusiastically by a congregation or choir.

Many people do not like the titles which appear at the top of the hymns. They have a strange sound and are meaningless and unfamiliar to most people. I recently conducted a discussion group in church music. We turned to the first hymn on the first page of the Hymnal. I asked what the name CANONBURY L. M. meant. Out of thirty-five young people of high school and college age, only one or two were certain they knew what it meant. The rest were quite sure they did not know. A few understood that L. M. meant Long Meter but they did not know what Long Meter was. As to the word CANONBURY there were various guesses. Some thought it was the name of the hymn, others that it was the place where it was composed, or where it was first sung. Of course these guesses were wrong. CANONBURY is not the name of the hymn but of the tune to which the hymn is set.

I proceded to tell this group, and I am quite sure they will never forget, that every hymn-tune has a name and that the purpose of the name is for easy reference and for identification. The name in itself has little significance. The tune may be named after the composer, as for example "Webb"; or it may be named after a friend, or a great person, or a town, a street, a country, an historical event, or an idea.

Tunes, like roses, are identified by their names. To one acquainted with church music the term DUKE STREET means a fine and well-known tune to which a number of different hymns have been set. The name itself is not pretty and has no meaning except that the composer happened to live on Duke Street in a town in England. But the name serves to identify the tune so in speaking of it one does not have to sing it through in order to make oneself understood as to which tune is meant.

Next to the Bible, the Hymn Book of the church contains, or should contain, our finest devotional literature. The music should be of a high grade so as to fit the words. I believe that our present Hymn Book can be greatly improved and I heartily favor its revision. I have accepted a place on the committee which was appointed to revise it and I hope that many suggestions will be forth coming from many sources to make our next Hymnal more serviceable.

But in my opinion we need something more throughout our churches than a revised Hymn Book. We need more training and more education in worship. We need a better understanding of the book from which we sing—its hymns and its tunes.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. Neuenschwander

Rev. and Mrs. Emerson F. Slotterback, 2204—11th Avenue, Altoona, Penn., have been laboring in this field since last September. These laborers have entered into the work with such devotion and consecration that soon new life was noticed. During the winter many homes were visited in the neighborhood of the church and as a result many have been coming to attend the Services regularly. Some who attend hold their membership elsewhere, but are regular in their attendance at Sunday School and Young People's Services as well as Worship Services.

Early in April, Rev. John S. Raugh, E. Freedom, Pa., conducted a week of Evangelistic meetings. As an immediate result of these meetings, 18 children made their decision for Christ. Of this number three had made professions earlier but had drifted back into sin. We trust that they might all remain true to Christ whom they accepted as Lord and Saviour.

In a letter written by Rev. Slotterback, dated May 16th we learn of more results of the special meetings that were held. "Six adults were baptized. Four were received into the Church by the Right Hand of Fellowship and two by letter. There were about 125 present at this meeting." The letter goes on and says that on May 8th, 114 were in Sunday school. At another meeting five men, professing Christians, openly reconsecrated their lives unto the Lord.

Such reports should fill our hearts with praise and thanksgiving and also intercession that the same Spirit might be given freedom to operate in many other places.

—The Immanuel Mennonite Church of Los Angeles has recently called Wilbert Regier to serve as its pastor. Mr. Regier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Regier of Whitewater, Kansas, and a grandson of Rev. Gustav Harder, for many years treasurer of the General Conference Board of Foreign Missions. In past months the church has been served very well by Rev. Albert Jantzen. Last Sunday Dr. Entrickin of the First Fundamental church of Los Angeles closed a two-weeks series of evangelistic services here.—A. J. Richert.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NUMBER

Concluded from last week

OUR COLLEGES AS I SEE THEM

Erland Waltner, Student Theo. Seminary, New York

When we think of our colleges, we think of the needs of Mennonite youth. Peggy Joslyn, in "Modern Youth" magazine, sums up the present-day youth problem thus: "We have little to live for because we have found nothing to die for." Here is a keen cognition that the problems of modern youth are primarily spiritual.

Are our colleges giving our youth something to live for and something to die for? The swirl of modern education is dominantly centrifugal, extending the horizons of mind and personality. This is needful. A Christian college, however, must also provide a centripetal dynamic which integrates the loyalties of its students in a center higher than themselves.

The Mennonite faith provides such a center—Christ—for whose principles our people have lived and died. The cravings of restless youth can be satisfied only as they know Him as Saviour and Lord. Youth challenges our colleges to provide means whereby students may know for themselves the integrative and dynamic power of Christ.

To learn how to scout, a boy consults the Scout Handbook. To learn how to live, youths need the Bible—the great handbook of the Christian faith. They need a technique of study and prayer so that the Holy Spirit may become operative in their experience. Let us give our colleges every encouragement in the construction of a vital spiritual program.—Erland Waltner, Bethel College '35.

OUR COLLEGES AS I SEE THEM

Harry Sawatzky, Student Freeman College

The high standing of our Mennonite Colleges and the remarkable records of prominent graduates cannot be ignored. They compare favorably with the best schools of the nation. The opportunities offered to the students for acquiring an adequate training are as many and as varied as any other college has to offer. The comparative value placed upon their standards has been aptly stated by our former state superintendent of public instruction of Montana, a state with very high educational requirements, when she answered my inquiry with: "We find your credits from Freeman Junior College to be fully acceptable to the state board of educational examiners."

However, getting at this subject from the angle of greatest concern, that of the cost to the student, I find that for us scattered Mennonites our colleges connot even begin to compete with the state institutions. Had I attended our nearest Normal School, I would have received an equal amount of training for approximately two-thirds the cost. And, our Mennonite college teachers are shamefully underpaid! There is, no doubt, much left to be desired in the administration, improvement and development of our various plants, but all that in due time. Our colleges are only in their infancy yet, as it were, and they must needs suffer some "growing pains." Our prerequisite is to keep pressing on. Every zealous Mennonite will see our colleges as I see them—absolutely essential to the preservation of our moral, civil, and religious liberties. Mennonite parents and their sons and daughters will find it well worthwhile to sacrifice considerably in order to have our Mennonite youth attend the nearest Mennonite college.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE AS I SEE IT

Don E. Smucker, Bluffton Alumnus

It is a sad but obviously true fact of the modern world that all the unchristian forces are largely and heavily subsidized. Yet, the most potent Christian influence in my life has been Bluffton College—small and inadequately financed. This institution offered me the dynamic resources (the use of which depends on myself) to combat the major evils of our day, namely, personal disintegration, poverty, racial intolerance and war.

If the Bluffton students of my generation failed to equip themselves for living in the Twentieth Century, it was not the fault of the College. For the campus was a community of Christians—not perfectionists, to be sure—commonly seeking the personal and professional development necessary for effective living in a complex society. Naturally, there were differences of conviction and opinion within that fundamental quest toward the Kingdom of God. But that was the variation which made impossible the easy-going acceptance of our faith. Bluffton had standards which made a student develop a faith which really belonged to him. The members of the faculty knew that once the undergraduate had gained contact with Reality on that basis, the world could be faced with confidence and courage. No one ever purchased or inherited the Christian faith at a bargain price!

Finally, Bluffton college deepened my faith in the precious heritage of Mennonite pacifism, the pacifism which includes the infinite implications of the Sermon on the Mount. Any institution which can do these things (and my experience can be multiplied 800-fold!) deserves our interest, prayers and sacrificial support.

Learning, to be of much use, must have a tendency to spread itself among the common people.

—Henry Ward Beecher

Why Maintain Bible Academies?

Rev. J. B. Frey

Speaking of Bible Academies, it is understood that high school education is meant in which the Bible is systematically taught like any other high school subject, by qualified teachers who "have a pattern of sound words" (II Tim. 1:13), who are able to "distinguish the things that differ'" (Phil. 1:10), and who are "rightly dividing the Word of Truth" (II Tim. 2:15)—teachers who show themselves approved unto God (II Tim. 2:15) and who teach the Word of God faithfully and without fear or favor.

Christ said, the sons of this world (eon) are more prudent, for their generation than the sons of light (Luke 16:8). Can this rebuke of our blessed Lord and Savior also be applied to His church in regard to their work of training the young people for His kingdom and service?

The high school, or early adolescent period of life is the period in which decisions are made for life. That being the case, it follows, that they who have the young people under their influence decide the destiny of their lives, and therewith the weal or woe of the home, the church, society, and the nation.

May those who have been bought with the precious blood of Christ and who are called by His name weigh and ponder the following facts: On the average in America sixty-five per cent of girls, and seventy-five per cent of boys drop out of Sunday School during early adolescence. And while this is different in our Mennonite communities, yet it has a tremendous bearing on the religious situation as a whole.

In the ages from 12 to 18 the possiblities and probabilities of conversion, according to statistics, are the greatest by far. It is stated on good authority, that seven times as many are converted at the age of sixteen as ten years later. And multitudes in their teens could be reached if the church were alive to the situation and would exert itself. Dr. Geo. Baily, an authority in this field, has stated, that less time and energy are necessary for the winning of twenty children to Christ than one adult. And the tragedy of the church is, that it does not only permit the young people to drift from Sunday school and church, but turns them over to schools where they spend five days a week, not only without any care for their spiritual well-being, but under the influence of teachers, many of whom in our day hate the word of God, its Christ, and the church, and that at the very time when God speaks most directly and persuasively to these precious souls. And it is not surprising that these boys and girls become the religious derelects in every community. And it is sad beyond expression that only a small percent of these are brought back to the church through revivals and personal work.

What about the criminals of today? The following facts should startle many a sleeping conscience of parents and guardians into remorse and new activity: Early adolescence is not only the time of making converts, but also the time when criminals are made. Clarence H. Benson says: "More than two-thirds of all delinquent boys brought into court are from twelve to fifteen years of age, on the other hand, the first crime is seldom, if ever, committed after sixteen. A life of crime, then, must date its beginning from the early teens."

It is stated that Supreme Court Justice Fawcett, of Brooklyn, has decleared that of the four thousand boys brought before him in twenty-one years not more than three were members of the Sunday school when their crime was committed. County Prosecutor O'Brien, of the city of Omaha, is credited with the statement, that of the eight thousand cases committed to him, less than 3 per cent had the benefit of any religious educaion in home, school, or church. When the crime that we see in our country at every hand, will become full blown, then the question will be asked: How did it all come about? Will not then consciences begin to smart, and will not the church that feigns to worship the Christ of Calvary's cross then feel the awful guilt that king David did when Nathan had to say to him, "Thou art the man"?

You ask the question: What can be done? We answer: Get Christian teachers for your high school, if at all possible. And get the best Bible teacher you can, who knows the Word of God, and is able to teach it. A teacher who is consecrated to the Lord and who has the spiritual welfare of the boys and girls at heart.

Or, better yet, make the high school a Bible academy, if at all possible, where the Bible has the most prominent place and is systematically taught like any other high school subject. And if you have a Bible teacher anyway, you can have a Bible department for those who want to study mostly Bible. And then to realize what the effect will be upon these boys and girls in the years when God speaks to them most directly and persuasively. The high school student will study the Bible one whole period of 40 minutes each day and be under its blessed influence. And those who just take Bible subjects mingling with the other students, and all the students under the instruction of Christian teachers all day long, creates a wholesome Christian atmosphere and environment.

Because of the handicap in teaching the Word of God in the state high schools, and the possible opposition of some high school teachers, it is far better to have a church-owned-and-controlled institution, where you really can teach the Word of God. And if all the high school students take 1 unit Bible each year, they have 4 units of systematic Bible work, besides their high school work on graduation. The Bible students on the other hand, will have an excellent preparation to enter a Bible College or Seminary.

FACING THE SUPREME TEST OF SERVICE

Mark 14:32-46

Jesus Sorrowful, Even Unto Death vs. 32-34

Jesus and the eleven disciples left the sacred atmosphere of the Upper Room and in the moonlit night, went out of the city, across the Kidron valley and came to Gethsemane (v32) where Jesus met God in earnest prayer. Gethsemane was a sacred spot for Jesus, a place of agonizing prayer and victory. The word means, "the place of the olive press", and here the weight of the world's sin so pressed upon Him that his blood came out like drops of sweat and fell to the ground.

Jesus took the three of the inner circle with Him into the deeper shadows of the garden (vs33,34). As He came closer to the agony of the cross, He longed for the sympathy of understanding friends. Great souls are usually lonely. Jesus told the three of his deep soul distress, of his overwhelming grief. The great weight of the world's sin pierced his tender soul. He was driven by the desire for solitude alone with God, yet He wished the three to be near him.

Jesus Prays, the Disciples Sleep vs. 35-42

The three were asked to "watch and pray", while He went a little farther alone. Part of the way in the garden and to the cross, He must go alone. Jesus desired companionship and yet He wished to be alone with God. In our deepest distress of heart we, too, wish to be with Him who alone can soothe the breaking heart. Jesus' agonized soul poured out itself in heart-rending prayer (vs35,36, see also Matt. 26:39-44 and Luke 22:42). His prayer was not a plea for deliverance from the terrible. He never drew back from that (John 12:27,28). He prayed that He might be delivered from the anguish and agony of soul-suffering—revealed in drops of blood—that was upon Him. The intensity of his suffering was as great as His love.

In his prayer He was submissive to the Father's will—"Not what I will, but what Thou wilt"—and His prayer was answered. God strengthened Him (Luke 22:43) and He went to the cross and finished His work. He won the victory by full submission to God. When we do that, we are prepared to face any test that may come.

While Jesus agonized alone in prayer, those three nearest to Him slept. He did not have the moral support of these. They probably heard some of His pleading with God. Their own sorrow overcame them (Luke 22:45). Jesus prayed and stood alone, without human help and sympathy, but He did not turn aside. Jesus' earnest warning (v38) was much needed and it went unheeded (v40). Sleep again overcame them. Jesus gave to them and to us the secret of victory over all temptations. Prayer guards the soul against temptation's wiles and power. It is the secret of progress and essential to spiritual conquest.

Jesus comes to them after the third time of prayer (v41). Now the intense struggle of the soul is ended. He no longer needs their watchful sympathy. The time for preparation was ended—"it is enough". In his prayer hour, He was made stronger and his spirit calm. The disciples may sleep and rest now for soon the betrayer will come. Jesus arouses them to go and meet him (v42).

Jesus' Betrayal vs. 43-46

Led by Judas, one of the twelve, the mob organized by the highest religious leaders, came as though seeking a dangerous criminal and at night time, when people were asleep in their homes. Judas betrayed his Lord with a kiss, the token of allegiance and loving friendship. He failed in the supreme test. He followed his will, not God's. He chose to serve the enemies of Jesus.

THE SUFFERING SERVANT

Mark 15:22-39

Jesus Crucified vs 22-39

In the crucifixion of Jesus we have the supreme manifestation of man's sinfulness and God's holiness. The unfathomable depth of human depravity and the infinite heights of divine love meet on Calvary. Sin has made a moral monster of man. The general attitude of man toward Jesus has not changed essentially today. They who reject Him today, treat Him in practically the same manner as those who favored His being crucified. After Pilate had given consent to His crucifixion, preparations were hastily made for the execution. He was taken to the appointed place without delay (v22). A merciful provision was made to ease the torture of those crucified (v23). Jesus chose to endure the cross in the full possession of his powers and with a clear mind. The heartless executioners gambled for His garments at the very foot of the cross of agony. Many today are similarly unmoved by His sufferings, and give Him scant consideration. Jesus, the Son of God, the King of the Jews, was crucified and numbered with the desperate criminals. His cross stands alone today in the thoughts of His followers.

Jesus Mocked vs. 29-32

The callous-hearted throng was utterly unmoved by any feeling of sympathy. All the good He had done to the many was forgotten. In the cruelest of mockery, they now taunt Him (vs 29, 30), believing He was entirely helpless. They heaped insult upon

His dying agonies. Love does not spare, save itself. Jesus' love endured unto death. On the cross, He made the supreme sacrifice of love. Even the chief priests gave vent to their bitter hatred (vs. 31, 32). Jesus saved others, having come for that purpose. He lived for others and now was dying for others. The gospel of Christ thinks first of others. Jesus couldn't save Himself and at the same time save others. Man's sin made a Savior necessary. The Good Shepherd must lay down His life for the sheep. Those who refused to believe in Him, knowing of His life and works, would not believe even if He did descend from the cross. These religious leaders were wholly insincere. Their impenitent hearts prevented their beliving in Him. The taproot of unbelief is in the sin in the heart.

Jesus' Death vs. 33-39

Jesus had been exposed for three hours, to the mocking gaze and ribald ridicule of those who should have been His friends. Now God draws a curtain of supuernatural and awe-inspiring darkness over the scene, in the middle of the day. When Christ was born, the "glory of the Lord" turned night into day. When He died, God turned bright noon-day into black midnight. The last hours of the cross agony were not for human eyes. At the last, Jesus uttered a loud cry of agony and loneliness, but not a cry of despair (v34). It was the cry of a soul burdened with the weight of man's sin, while conscious of personal innocence. In His lonely suffering He held fast unto God.

The end soon came, all was finished (John 19:30) and Jesus cried with a loud voice—not the expiring gasp of a dying man—and "gave up the ghost" (see Luke 23:46). His enemies crucified Him, but He yielded up His life. Jesus' death opened the way for all who will, to enter into the holy of holies with God (v38). God's hand rent the veil, opened the way through Jesus. The centurion who saw and heard all, was convinced of the divinity of Jesus.

The Neglected Teaching

Prepared by the Bethel College Tithing Band

4. CAN A MAN AFFORD TO TITHE?

One of the very first objections raised by Christian people against the tithing system is that they can't afford it. One reason for this objection is that people often see only the money side of tithing.

When a man is considering the tithe, let him, as much as possible, forget his money for the time and face himself. Can the Christian afford to put God first in his life? The fact that he is a Christian presumes that he is dedicated to the work and program of the Lord. He has confessed Christ, he has promised to be His disciple, his name is recorded on the church records. Now, at this point, can he afford to give Christ a proportion of his possessions? Jesus teaches that a man's attitude to the Kingdom of God is often revealed by his attitude to his property.

The principle of the tithe fortifies the faith of the Christian and gives him a sense of oneness with God's purpose. To establish the tithing principle as a habit is to encourage a life of cooperation between oneself and his God. This is the starting point of the tithing system.

Some advocates of the tithe have considered it as the "taxes of the heavenly Kingdom, which every honorable citizen wants to pay." Others consider the tithe a guide—a standard which they accept for a lifetime of sincere generosity and love for God and their fellow-men.

MISSION WORK BY THE YOUNG CHRISTIANS

By W. F. Unruh

A Christian church will become vitally alive for Christ only when it makes evangelism central in its activity. The Lord has opened the door for the Gospel all around us. From different villages comes word that the people want to learn. They invite us to come and teach them. The motives may not always be pure but the invitations are there nevertheless.

At present we have a group of 24 men and women out in village evangelism. They are divided into five groups and teach in five different villages. A little over a week ago we began this work with a Two Day Training Retreat in camp. Most of these workers are villagers with very little education. They must be trained for this work. A number of them are leaders of different village groups and have had some expeprience. That is a great help. We must train men and women to take a leading part in evangelistic and church activities and this village work is an excellent training for them. That is why we take many into this work who are rather inexperienced. We insist however that they must be right with God, because a person who has sin in his heart and quarrels is of very little value. Day after to-morrow the whole group will again meet at th central camp for another day of training and for a check-up on the work which we hope will come to a real fruitation. In several villages the workers are already preparing certain people for baptism. We hope and pray that a large group will confess and accept Christ as Lord and Savior.

This task is too big for one man. Dr. Dester and Misss Augusta Schmidt are almost "snowed under" with work in the hospital and that leaves the load on us. We must have new recruits soon. May the Lord provide them soon is our hope and prayer.

Gratify or Satisfy

Psa. 17:15

Man is a bi-world creature; he lives simultaneously in two worlds, the physical and the spiritual. There are motives which move the physical; there are motives which move the spiritual. By the five senses—the sense of sight, hearing, touch, taste and smell, man is moved physically. By the senses of inspiration and appreciation he is moved spiritually; his soul is moved.

Generally the experience of gratification is used in connection with the physical, and satisfaction in connection with the spiritual. To gratify the physical is one thing; to satisfy the spiritual is quite another.

Literally thousands of people consume their energies in gratifying the demands of the flesh; now and then one is found who gives himself to satisfying the soul.

Sin means gratifying the flesh: The Christian religion means satisfying the soul, the nobler self. Gratification is temporal, an emergency relief. Satisfaction is eternal and a permanent process.

When men awake from the slumbers of sin, are converted to God and to godliness; when they awake in the likeness of the Master, they shall be Satisifed. Sin gratifies; godliness satisties. J. E. Hartzler.

More About Vovlume II - The History Mennonite General Conference

With thanks it is herewith reported that the Questionnaires on the member Churches of then General Conference, of the Schools, Colleges and benevolent Institutions as also of the Foreign Mission Fields have nearly all of them been sent in. The account of the direct activities of the General Conference itself at its sessions as also the great work done under the immediate supervision of the Boards and Committees has been prepared and is now in type.

The aim in preparing this historical account of the General Conference is for completeness. It was discovered several months ago that in pursuit of completeness the quantity of matter accumulated became too much for one volume. The matter now in type, as mentioned above, will make a book of about 700 pages,—a size already somewhat too bulky. Consistent with the above stated aim it was decided to divide the matter into two volumes. The matter now in type covers the direct activities of the Conference in great detail. This leaves the subsidiary and other related activities of the General Conference for the third volume. That makes it possible to give a much more complete presentation of the mission fields, subsidiary institutions and other related activities than was originally intended. Besides it offers the opportunity to include in the third volume brief histories of the six District Conferences covering the entire territory of the General Conference.

In order to make the third volume still more valuable the plan is to give in Part One of the volume a brief synopsis of the history of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America from its very beginning on to the year 1938-39. Also in this volume are to be included important statistics, some biographical sketches, and the revised constitution of the General Conference. Volume III is expected to appear in the year 1939.

It is expected that Volume II is to be completed by the printer by about July 10, of this year. Perhaps some copies will be available at the General Conference session which meets in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, July 31, 1938, under the auspices of the Mennonite Book Concern of the Conference.—H. P. Krehbiel, Newton, Kansas.

CORRESPONDENCE

GRACE MENNONITE CH., DALLAS, ORE.

On May 15 we had a very big day here. After the regular services in the morning, we went to the city park for a basket dinner. Every one enjoyed it very much. Then at 3 o'clock we had a meeting at our new church, the laying of the corner stone. Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Franz from the Pratum Church were here and a number from the Albany Church too. Brother Rev. Franz read the opening Scripture and led in a word of prayer. Then Brother Widmer, our pastor, read the church history since he came here to Dallas. Then the members of the Board which consists of John Rupp, Nick Neufeld, and Leonard Schmidt all signed the paper. Then it was put into a bottle and sealed up with the corner stone. The closing song, "Blest be the Tie that Binds," was sung by the audience and closing prayer offered by Brother Widmer.

We have very warm weather here. Yesterday, May 22, it was 86 degrees. Last year at this time we were having lots of rain.

We are temporarily having church in the Adventist church. The basement of our new church is finished now and the main part is progressing very nicely. We are planning on having services in the basement the 26th of June. The 19th of June our Sunday school and C. E. convention is to be held in Portland, this year we have quite a few from Dallas that can go.

With greetings from Dallas. — Mrs. Leonard Schmidt, Corr.

WICHITA, KANSAS, MAY 24.

Former Bethel students and friends of Bethel, living in and around Wichita, had a reunion in the Mennonite church, May 22. After a basket lunch and a social hour in the basement, folks gathered in the church for a program. Several musical numbers were given. Rev. J. M. Regier, Bethel field secretary, gave a very interesting report on the strong and weak points of our college. It was based on a chart prepared from a report of the North Central Association. A Bethel fellowship was organized with the following persons as officers: Mr. Paul Kliewer, 240 N. Topeka, president; Mrs. Elmer Schowalter, 833 Perry, secretary; Mr. Ben Frey, 1542 N. Market, treasurer.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBR.

We as a church have been richly blessed by God, both spiritually and materially. It was our privilege to have Missionary H. J. Brown in our midst, who gave us a very interesting report of the mission work in China. He showed very clearly the great need of the gospel of Jesus Christ in that very heavily populated country. Only comparatively few in our district have accepted so far Christ as their personal Savior. We also enjoyed a visit of Missionary Wiens of India and his story of their work in the far east very much. He pointed out what a great hindrance the casts are, that they keep India poor and away from the true Gospel of Jesus Christ. It is very hard for a Hindu to believe that salvation is free. He would like to earn it or pay something for it.

The Bethel College Gospel Team recently visited both Beatrice churches. The program that the young men rendered in our church on Sunday forenoon consisted of several quartet numbers and two talks. The theme of both of these was "An Abundant Life." They emphasized how Christ should live in us, the purpose of His living in us, and the result of His living in us. It was a great pleasure to have these young men with us. The two Mennonite choirs had a social evening with the Team.

It was a great shock for Brother Henry Penner and the congregation to hear that his wife on her way home from Florida took sick on the bus. She was taken to a hospital, but passed away very soon.

The weather this spring has been very favorable. Soaking rains have filled our subsoil. In most places wheat and oats look very promising. We are very thankful for the moisture, and we pray God that he may protect our crops from harm.

FIRST CHURCH, HALSTED, KANS., MAY 23

On May 22, at a special meeting, thirty-three children were consecrated. Rev. Wedel's theme, "What Jesus Saw in a Child," was based on Matt. 19:14, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." A ladies' trio sang, "Tender Little Branches." What an inspiration to see so many parents bring their children and dedicate them to the Lord. May they grow up to be useful Christians, a blessing to the community and the church. Sister Clara Kuehney, our missionary, is visiting here with relatives and friends. She gave an interesting talk before both of our mission societies.

Adorned in the aprons of their wives the younger men's Sunday school class of our church served a bountiful dinner to their wives and families, about 75 people, on Sunday, after the worship service. A short program followed, during which Oscar Erdman, teacher of the class, gave a short address, later followed with another by Rev. Q. B. Roth, who emphasized the fact that before one can do anything worthwhile, one must be something. In between there were fine musical numbers. E. D. Miller was in charge of the dinner and A. J. Nighingale served as chairman of the program. Rev. D. C. Wedel gave the closing prayer.—Corr.

FIRST CHURCH, PASO ROBLES, CALIF.

On Sunday, May 22, about 45 young people from the San Marcos and Paso Robles churches visited the Shafter church. After Sunday school and services, a luncheon was served by the Shafter young people. In the afternoon, all of the churches participated in a combined Young People's Christian Endeavor meeting, under the topic, "We Need Christ."

We hope that this get-together will become a semi-annual custom. Last October the Paso Robles church entertained the San Marcos and Shafter churches.—Miss Elsie Heer.

MENNONITE CHURCH, ALSEN, N. D.

Since some time has passed again, many things have happened in our church. On April 5 some of my relatives came from Margin and brought a young minister and a song leader with them. We had ten days of revival meetings, and the Lord blessed this time in that many confessed their life's sins and made a new bond with the Lord to henceforth serve Him more faithfully. The Holy Ghost had a great influence among our youth, and we now have a very fine catechism class for which we thank the Lord.

On Good Friday, April 15, we observed Holy Communion; the church was well represented. Brother Duerksen drove to Arena, N. D., on April 18. On May 1, Missionary Wiens served in the Salem Church, Munich, in the forenoon, in the Bethel Church, Langdon, in the afternoon, in our church in the evening.

We have had more rain this spring than we have had in the past few years, but even so it has dusted quite frequently. In April and May it was quite cold, and many people had colds and were sick, but now everyone is better. Thank God for this.—Mrs. Jacob Kunkel.

Peace Making

Harold Ratzlaff

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. — Matt. 5:9.

Peace is so often considered to be a negative state, in which war or contention are absent. We are in danger of thinking that the peacemaker is merely one who refuses to fight or at best simply makes wars to cease. But the Hebrew term which is here translated as "peacemakers" has a much deeper and positive meaning than just refusing to fight. It means harmony and order. It means to make for the general welfare and the healthful cooperation and unity of human society.

Our real problem is the making of peace. "Blessed are the peace*makers:* for they shall be called the children of God." They shall live the divine life, which, instead of destroying differences, harmonizes them in a whole that makes them significant.

Unfortunately, our use of the word "peace" is very indefinite. We apply it, so often, to opposed facts. "Peace like a river" and "the peace of a stagnant pool" have little if anything in common. Yet we often refer to them in speaking of "peace." To many, "peace" means the maintainance of the status quo so that there is no war or social revolution. We keep the peace and wonder why anyone should want to disturb it.

Then our usage of the term "peace" includes different, but related, sense of the word. "Peace" can mean the status quo, while it can also be made to mean a constructive harmony in the relations of individuals or social groups to each other. The conquest of disease, the cooperation of nations in defeating famine, rescuing of victims of storm and flood, all these are peaceful activity of the highest kind.

Again we think of the inward poise and calm of a spirit stayed on God. We heard Christ say, "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." In the kingdom men find peace, and feel it to be the distinguishing mark of their life. This was so true of the early church that "peace be unto you" became the normal salutation among its members.

Then, pathetically, the term peace is applied even in one other manner. It is illustrated in the Roman peace under which the world was living when Jesus came. It was based on force and as such was foreign to the spirit of Jesus. At best it was a short-cut that achieved no real solution. Physical force is always inadequate in the realm of the spirit. Even after its successful use, humanity's "head is bloody but unbowed."

It is clear, then, that between the inward peace of which the New Testament speaks so much, and the outward peace, which is created rather than maintained, there is an abiding relation. The people who know that inward peace are the ones who bring it to others, and thus make peace in the external affairs of life. In short, peace is a harmony between elements which may be, and often are, at war, whether those elements reside in the heart of an individual, or whether they are found in the wider life around us. It is essenitally activity, not passivity. It is life, not disease or death. It is the making of creative wholes, not stagnation, or the mere absence of war. Jesus offers the hope of peace as a creative task and a cooperative effort.

How then, can we be makers of peace? Obviously we must begin with ourselves.

Bertrand Russel, in speaking of this says, "It is difficult not to hate those who torture the objects of our love. Though difficult it is not impossible; but it requires a breadth of outlook and a comprehensiveness of understanding which are not easy to preserve amid a desperate contest."

There is a great deal of personal estrangement among us as people. So frequently we fail, because we try to keep the peace, instead of digging down to the foundations of trouble, and so making real and permanent harmony. There are hurts which can not be healed except by patience and firmness. True peace, the peace of reality, costs a lot and so few of us are prepared to pay the price. It involves self-giving every step of the way, and a constant readiness to realise new conceptions of our duty to others.

Jesus says he did not come to send peace. I think He meant that peace is to be attained by the constructive social forces of the Kingdom of God. And in so doing, the opposition of evil is to be automatically removed and the differences between men will be reconciled. It was this kind of peace making that Jesus practiced and blessed. The peacemakers may be merely inconspicious individuals who furnish the spirit of good will and cooperation. Sometimes they have the gift of reconciliation, or the knack of restoring an atmosphere of good will and good humor, or they are the people who hold tenaciously and devotedly to high ideals and hold them so winningly before men's eyes that men forget pttey differences in thir desire to work together for the greater ends. It is the peace maker who does the work of rebuilding the world. The peacemakers are all those through whose influence human life and organization are coordinated, reconciled and maintained. The peacemakers are statesmen and diplomats who seek ways of reconciliation between conflicting interests and desires. Teachers, ministers, writers, and publicists who build up progressive public opinion and the spiritual good will are peacemakers, and so are all those who constructively organize business, labor and promote the larger welfare of mankind.

The way forward is never an easy one. Peace calls us on and on. We cannot forget those who failed because the rope of trust broke. We must take up their task with new ardor, and without bitterness. We have for our guide One who knows every step of the way, and who is with us always even unto the end. Jesus Christ "is our peace," and to love and to serve Him is to be a maker of peace, and to know His blessedness. For individuals and groups and nations, for this tired, war-weary world of ours, there can be no real peace outside of God's purpose of fellowship for all. There can be no real peace outside of God's will to constructive and creative harmony.

They who share the all-inclusive love of God, who have the overcoming constructive spirit of benevolence and good will—these show the fruit of the divine Spirit in their own lives. The fruit of the spirit is love, and they who are born of the spirit exhibit a spiritual likeness of their Father; therefore peacemakers shall be called sons of God.

Making Up Our Minds Intelligently

Matt. 5:17-20; Rom. 10:1-10

Young People's Topic for June 26, 1938

Meditations:

M., June 20. Follow the Truth. Prov. 23:23.
T., June 21. Gather the Facts. I Cor. 15:1-14.
W., June 22. Investigate Carefully. Acts 17:10-12.
T., June 23. Seek for Proof. John 20:21-29.
F., June 24. Consult Others. Mal. 3:16-18.

Suggested Hymns:

"More about Jesus Would I Know," "I'm pressing on the upward way."

As we develop from adolescence to maturirty, our responsibilities increase. We can no longer depend on parents and teachers for guidance. We must make our own decisions. At times we are as baffled by conflicting courses of action as we would be where we asked to duplicate the spider's intricate web. If we choose one, the web will assume one pattern; if we choose another, the pattern will be entirely different. Although we at times lament the complicated web of our lives, we would not want to be deprived of the challenge such a life holds for us. If we consecrate our lives, meet each problem as it arises, strive for a *dis*interested (not *un*interested) attitude, life will remain challenging but not overwhelming.

Program Suggestions:

Select beforehand several groups of three or four. Each group is assigned one of the problems which Youth is facing and concerning which Youth must make decisions. Let each group arrange a meeting during the week or on the previous Sunday when they can discuss their topic. Then at the regular meeting of the Young People, each group can report its findings on that problem. The following might be some of the problems discussed:

1. The liquor question and other moral issues.
2. The choice of an occupation.
3. The selection of a partner in married life.
4. The location of a home.
5. Our attitude toward the question of war and peace.
6. What stand to take on national issues.

This outline or a similar one may be used as a common base for unifying the discussion on the various problems.

A. A definite understanding of the question at issue

Define your terms accurately and state your point exactly. For instance, if the question is, "Will I enlist in a possible future war?" one answer might be, "Only in a defensive war." That necessitates an explanation, for it might refer to defense of our coastlines, or defense by battleships in mid-ocean, or a vigorous offense as an assurance of defense. In order to arrive at a satisfactory solution of any problem, we must have a clear understanding of the issues involved.

B. What facts are available?

Hasty decisions are dangerous. Experience, tested, findings, statistics, interpretations of history are essential for arriving at an intelligent solution of any problem.

C. What are the direct and contributing causes of the trouble?

1. What desires stimulate drinking among young people?
2. What factors make it especially difficult to choose an occupation?
3. Why cannot one select a life-partner as casually as one selects hats?
4. Why should it be difficult to choose a suitable location for a home?
5. What "fogs" the issue of war and peace?

6. What factors tend to confuse matters of national policy in the public eye?

D. What are all possible solutions and answers?

E. Evaluation of solutions and answers.

1. What will be the immediate effect?
2. What will be the ultimate effect?
3. What will be the effect on the majority of people involved?
4. What will be the effect on the minorities involved?
5. What seems to be a course most closely in harmony with God's will and purpose?

F. Deciding on immediate practical steps.

A mere mental decision is useless without a definite course of action to pursue. A few steps should be decided upon immediately before the matter is forgotten. The completion of those will merge gradually into the planning of the following steps.

G. Aids in stimulating decisions.

1. Clear thinking
2. The Bible
3. The reading of good books
4. The advice of others
5. Prayer

Cheerfulness

Intermediate C. E. Topic, June 26, 1938

June 20. Cheerfulness good medicine. Prov. 17:22
June 21. Singing in adversity. Acts 16:25-33
June 22. Cheerful because trustful. Ps. 32:1-11
June 24. Peaceful happiness. Phil. 4:4-7
June 25. Songs in the soul. Eph. 5:18-20.
June 26. Topic—Cheerfulness. Matt. 6:25-34

Spreading Good Cheer

Let those who plan this meeting determine to make it an experiment in good cheer. Have someone at the door to greet those who come with a smile and a genuine word of friendliness. Let the atmosphere of the room radiate good cheer by means of flowers and some pictures on the walls, if possible. See how much of your good cheer is reflected in the faces of those who come. Have some practical plan of bringing good cheer to one in need, by means of songs and flowers after the meeting.

Suggestions for Worship

Mymn: "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee"

Leader: "We know that all things work together for good to them that love God"

Hymn: "The Lord Is My Shepherd"

Scripture reading and leader's talk: Matt. 6:25-34

Sentence prayers expressing gratitude for God's goodness to us.

Hymn: "Wonderful Peace," stanzas 1-3

Quotations on Cheerfulness.

Discussion of Topic.

Closing Moments

Hymn: "Come, We That Love The Lord"

Prayer: (after a moment of silent prayer read)

"Dear Lord,
I only ask that I may touch and bless
Some life today;
I care not be it rich or poor;
That some one may be thrilled with friendliness
Upon the way,
The richer having passed my door."

Benediction: Ps. 19:14.

To help the Discussion

1. Let someone tell the story of Paul and Silas, Acts 16:25-33, mentioning the outward reasons they might have had for discouragement, and the inward reason for their joy.

2. Questions for short talks.
   a. How would you define cheerfulness? How does it differ from the "laugh it off" spirit? On what is genuine cheerfulness based?
   b. What are some things that make people feel discouraged and defeated? What part does selfishness play in our feelings?
   c. How much is cheerfulness a habit? How can one cultivate it?
   d. What reasons can you give that a Christian has for cheerfulness that others do not have?
   e. "Of all the things you wear, your expression is the most important." How does it affect our inner feelings. How is it reflected in those we meet?
   f. How can we spread good cheer through music? Mention other ways.

Quotations on Cheerfulness

"If you keey your face to the sunshine the shadows will fall behind you." Admiral Dewey.

"A cheerful heart is a good medicine" Prov. 17:22.

"Doing good is the only certainly happy action of a man's life."—Sir Philip Sidney.

"Cheerfulness is what greases the axles of the world: some people go through life croaking."

"A pleasant smile brings the largest return on the smallest investment."

"Rejoice in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice." St. Paul.

For the Leader

Someone has said, "Nothing costs less than cheerfulness." Judging from the faces of people you would not think so. Worry is written all over them. "What to eat" and "What to wear" occupies much of their thought. They would imagine themselves very happy indeed if someone told them they would be fed and clothed the rest of thir lives.

Yet that is what Jesus said about the Father, who knows that we have need of these things. There is one condition however that we must meet if we would be free from worry over material things. Matt. 6:33. "But seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all of these things shall be added unto you." Most people turn this around hoping to find God after they have all they want.

JUNIOR CORNER

COME UNTO ME

Program Suggestion for June 26, 1938

Quiet Music

Call to Worship: By chairman saying: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give yo urest." Matt. 11:28.

Response: By group which rises and sings verse one of "Just As I Am" (Remain standing)

Period of Worship:

1. Prayer for nearness: By a voice speaking:

"Come, O Thou God of grace,
Dwell in this holy place,
E'en now descend.
This temple reared to Thee,
Oh, may it ever be Filled with Thy majesty,
Forevermore."

2. A voice speaking: 'Draw nigh unto God, and he will draw nigh to you." Jas. 4:8.
3. Sing in unison: "The Lord Is in His Holy Temple." Be seated.
4. Responsive reading by group: Psalm 147:1-12
5. Sing in unison: Praise Him! Praise Him!
6. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving

Mission Minutes:

Are we allowing the children a part in the great conference that shall take place at Saskatoon? We have faith that it shall be great, — great in its eternal value which God shall weave into it through His nearness, through His revelation of tasks yet to be performed and through His love, born again in the hearts of men which shall send them forth with new zeal to perform those tasks. Isn't this a wonderful opportunity to make Youth feel it is a part of a big, moving body. Youth likes to move. There is a certain "family" pride that we need to instill in Youth. Could there be a better opportunity for this?

What Can We Do?

1. Interest your group through acquaintance with the place of the conference. There has been some information in our publications. Other material could be found through Travel Bureaus or a friend living at Saskatoon.
2. Interest them through acquaintance with leaders that will be there.
3. Interest them by making them co-workers in prayer.
4. Interest them by making them co-workers in the sharing of the financial burden.
5. Interest them through a "surprise project."

Penny - Raising Projects

Whether the pennies you raise should be sent to the Conference mission treasury or expense fund, or any other fund would be as you decide. These thoughts have come to me: (Money thus raised would be appropriate for the Kitchen Fund).

1. One Potato Each. This every child could surely share in. For your next program night, ask each child to bring the largest potato he can find in the cellar. This would make a choice peck of potatoes or pecks which even your kind hearted grocer would not mind buying from you. You could repeat this project once or twice letting a week or two pass between repetitions.
2. The same could be done with an onion or a carrot. Also apples.

More project suggestions will follow in next issue.

Announcements

Study Period. Aim: To help the child to realize that he can come to Christ in any circumstance of life; that Jesus is a loving Friend who waits his coming.

1. Sing in unison verses 1, 2, 3 of "Jesus Is Calling"
2. The wonderful invitation: By two juniors who, seated on opposite sides, now rise and speak these two verses:
   a. Voice one: Matt. 11:28
   b. Voice two: Isa. 55:1, emphasizing the words "come"
3. Special music: Voices singing verses 1 and 2 of "Softly and Tenderly Jesus Is Calling"
4. When May I Come to Jesus? Talks by juniors
   a. When I am ill. Luke 5:12, 13
   b. When some one else is ill. Luke 7:1-10
   c. When I am unsuccessful. Luke 5:1-7
   d. When I am successful. Luke 10:1-20
   e. When I am in sorrow. Luke 7:11-17
   f. When I am selfish. Luke 14:7-11
   g. When I love Jesus. Matt. 26:6-13
   h. When I want to learn to pray. Luke 11:1, 2
   i. When I need to have my sins forgiven. Luke 7:36-50
   j. When I want to know the way to heaven. John 3:1-3
5. Special music: The same voices singing verses 3 and 4 of "Softly and Tenderly Jesus Is Calling"
6. Heart-talk by leader: "Him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out"
7. Sing in unison verses 4 and 5 of "Just As I Am"
8. Parting prayer.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO, ONTARIO, MAY 19, 1938.

The Waterloo-Kitchener United Mennonite Church is carrying on as best it can under the circumstances, with regular services every Sunday and religious Holidays, with the Choir singing, the Missionary Societies working, and with the preaching of the Gospel in and out of season. Twenty one students are attending our Catechism Instruction Class, of whom two have applied for baptism on the confession of their faith.

We had not much of a "Youth Problem" a few years ago, but it has developed by and by, and now we are having our difficulties in getting our C. E. on its feet again. We are not quite sure as yet what the roots of the problem may be. Is it the language?

It is true that sometimes, in instructing my class, I must turn to the English in order to explain what I have said in German. But generally the attendance as well as the attention and the interest in the subject are quite satisfactory, only the response could be better. We would, perhaps, although with a troubled heart, be willing, to yield to the pressure of conditions and introduce a gradual change from the German to the English if it were not for the fact that two languages are two times as much as only one, and mastering two languages gives one quite an advantage in life over such who speak only one, especially if the latter fancy themselves topmost top on everything in the world, just because they know a little less.

Further, our German Christian periodicals are read and payed for a little better than the English, although, according to published statistics, our English speaking churches outnumber the German speaking ones considerably. This is not at all encouraging.

But above all, there is a certain feeling that the English speaking churches move just a little faster toward the Sodom of Modernism than the German. It seems curious, but it is nevertheless true that all German Mennonites know something about the Englishman Charles Darwin and his Theory of Evolution; but very few know of the German Haeckel who carried Darwin's theory much farther into the realm of atheism than Darwin ever dreamed of. I do not quite understand how it happened, but this is the situation today: Regarding the German we think of the valiant Dr. Martin Luther, the great reformer of the Christian Church, while, regarding the English, we think of Charles Darwin, the founder of the theory that has been employed as the most dangerous weapon against our faith in the Tripersonal God.

Somewhere it was said the German speaking members of the Mennonite Church were at present on the graveyard. This may be true, but then, at least, they are where they belong. If dead members remain active in a church, well, there is something ghostly about it.

Be that as it may, on Sunday, May 8, A. D., the Bluffton College Men's Gospel Team visited with us, conducting the morning service in our church all in English, with just a few exceptions. In beautiful hymns as well as in the spoken word they proclaimed the Gospel of the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world. The service was conducted in the American way, much different from our language and methods. But it was resting on the same foundation, and making for the same goal, and issuing from the same faith in Jesus Christ, the Redeemer and and Lover of our souls.

Visiting in our homes the young men proved that there was nothing ghostly about them, that they were lively, living men who had flesh and bones, and did not despise the food that was prepared for them by our humble housewives. I must say that our Congregation fell in love with them, and one of the weightiest arguments of those opposed to the English language in our services was considerably shaken. But thanking the Bluffton College Men's Gospel Team from the bottom of our hearts, we still maintain that two languages are twice the value of one. And did not the young Brother Shelly, who brought us the message that morning, command both languages? We are even prone to believe Brother Rosenberger played his trombone in German, as many could follow his tune with the German words to it.

We still remain very much German, but we have turned English also, and do not even regret to have done so. We have seen with our own eyes that among the English are people besides Darwin, and theories besides and above his Theory of Evolution.

And when at the evening service Rev. A. S. Rosenberger, President of Bluffton College, spoke to us on the subject "The Wisdom of God," our doubts faded more and more away. If this is the stand that our English speaking brethren are taking then there can be no diversity between them and us, even if we preach the same Kingdom of God on the same foundation, JESUS CHRIST.

We are very thankful, indeed, to have learned this from our brethren of Bluffton College, who have contributed so much to the strengthening of our faith in Christ, the Redeemer of mankind, and in bringing the hearts of those closer together who work toward the same end, the building of the Kingdom of God.

Yours in His service

Jacob H. Janzen.

EAST SWAMP CHURCH, PENN.

The Eastern District Junior Conference was held May 14, at East Swamp Church. Mrs. Clarence Kooker, Supt., led the meeting and Rev. A. J. Neuenchwander the song service. In the morning there were four conference sessions, followed by a talk on Tithing by Mr. Gregor. During the noon hour the Juniors had recreation in charge of Mrs. Weidener of Allentown.

In the afternoon the service opened with devotion in charge of the Souderton Juniors. There were special numbers by the Schwenksville, Allentown, Second Church Philadelphia, Perkasie, West Swamp, Deep Run and Lansdale. The Juniors sang a few choruses, followed with an address by Miss Catherine Niswander. Eight societies responded to roll call. The banner was presented to West Swamp, for having the largest percentage, and the picture went to Lansdale, for having the largest number present. 167 Juniors were present. (This is a splendid showing.—Editor).

The mission project that the Junior Conference had decided on was then presented to the group. They are going to support a little boy in China for his education, through Miss Fast. The amount agreed on was $20.00 a year for two years. At the end of the meeting we had $24.50, $4.50 more than needed, but we are going to send the entire collection for this little boy.—Lillie Reeves, Sec.

MENNONITE CH., RANSOM, KANS. MAY 30.

On Sunday May 15, the following young people were received into the church thru baptism: Otis Sidebottom, Wilma Oppliger, Dale and Ruth Huxman, Virgil Klitzke, Thelma Dubbs, Ben Cowan and Marshall Biggerstaff. The following Sunday Holy Communion was observed. — Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Habegger were with us on Wednesday evening and told about their work among the Indians of Montana. We are always glad to have missionaries with us and we hope Rev. an dMrs. Habegger can be with us again.

The Community Daily Vacation Bible School will open on June 2nd and continue until June 17. It will be held in the M. E. Church with Rev. Abr. Albrecht as superintendent.—The Ladies' Missionary society will hold their yearly business meeting on June 8, at the Home of Mrs. Ernest Jalhde. They will also have a mite box opening at this time.—Rose Ummel

PANDORA, OHIO, MAY 23, 1938

As the Missionary Society of the St. John Church closes this month, I shall give a brief report of the year's activities. Our meetings are usually held the first Thursday of the month. A pratical topic theme is the basis of our programs, or we enjoy talks by mission workers. Among these were Miss Inda Sprunger, Miss Fannie Baumgartner, Miss Irma Schneck, Miss Etta Davis and Mrs. S. T. Moyer. The annual April Union Meeting of the neighboring Mennonite Churches, First Mennonite and Ebenezer Churches of Bluffton, Ohio, Grace and St. John Mennonite Churches of Pandora, Ohio, was held April 7, at the St. John Mennonite Church. Mrs. S. T. Moyer was the speaker of the meeting. Our society also gave money and merchandise gifts to various stations and people, home and foreign missions.—Mrs. Cora Welty.

MENNONITE CHURCH, BUHLER, KANS.

At the Sunday morning services, April 3, Rev. J. M. Regier of Bethel College delivered the sermon in the German language. That evening Rev. David Wedel, pastor of the Halstead Mennonite Church, filled the pulpit and preached in a very inspiring manner. Good Friday morning the church members observed Holy Communion, with Rev. J. M. Suderman, the church pastor, in charge.—On Easter Sunday morning Rev. D. J. Ediger of the local church brought the message, and at this service a choir composed of the middel aged members of the church sang under the direction of Mr. John G. Unruh.—The annual service for the consecration and dedication of babies and children was held on Mother's Day at which time eleven infants and their parents received the blessing of the church.—Rev. P. P. Wedel of Moundridge delivered an impressive sermon in the interests of peace at the Sunday evening services, May 15th. —On Pentecost Sunday the church is planning to observe baptism and the reception of new members.

The four women's missionary societies of the church held a joint meeting on Thursday afternoon, May 5th, at which time Rev. and Mrs. August Ewert, returned missionaries from China, were the guest speakers. A most inspiring and profitable afternoon was spent by the ladies present receiving the messages which were so ably delievered.

Five young people, students at Bethel college, were present during th Sunday School hour, May 15th, and taught various classs. At this time the regular teachers observed their methods.

A union summer Bible School has been organized by the churches of Buhler to be held in the grade school building and to last for a period of three weeks. There will be nine grades beginning with the kindergarten. The school is to be conducted by five teachers secured from the churches of the community. No tuition will be charged, as the expense is being cared for by the respective churches.

BETHESDA CH., HENDERSON, NEBR., May 31

Our Field Secretary, Dr. H. A. Fast was with us and gave us a few of the Conference works. By this time the various choruses of the colleges are about on their homeward stretch. Dr. J. F. Balzer of Crete, Nebr., delivered the commencement address to the local high school. His theme was well chosen, "Whither Bound?" The All-Mennonite S. S. Convention was well attended. As usual we had rain that morning. Baptismal services will take place, June 5. Thirty-one young people are to be baptized. June 6 will be communion. The Senior Mission Society sale, held May 26, was well attended. The articles brought a fair price.

—BETHEL COLLEGE CONFERS 38 DEGREES at its Commencement, Thursday night, June 2, as follows: Twenty-five A. B. degrees, six B. S. in Home Economics degrees, three B. S. in Industrial Arts degrees, three D. D. degrees, and one L. L. D. degree. The last four were honorary degrees. Upon the following three the degree of Doctor of Divinity (D.D.) was conferred: Rev. P. H. Richert, pastor of Tabor Church, Goessel, Kans., and for many years efficient secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions; Rev. David Toews, elder of a large Mennonite Church at Rosthern, Sask., godfather and counsellor of about 21,000 Mennonite immigrants from Russia; Rev. A. H. Unruh, long time Bible teacher in Russia and now Principal of the Pniel Bible School at Winkler, Manitoba. Lastly the College honored itself by conferring the L. L. D. or Doctor of Law degree upon Hon. Walter A. Huxman, governor of the State of Kansas, who also delivered the commencement address.

—From Rev. John Lichti, Medford, Okla.—"Wish to announce that on March 13, I told my congregation to look around for a younger pastor. Last Wednesday, June 1, at a meeting of the congregation is was decided to extend a call to Rev. A. G. Schmidt of Cordell, Okla. Whether or not Brother Schmidt will accept the call remains to be seen. At the same meeting I was made Pastor Emeritus. We hope to get a pastor who will preach us Jesus the Crucified."

—Mennonite Church, Wadsworth, O. — Nineteen persons have recently come into the fellowship of this church, 14 by baptism, two by the right hand of fellowship, and three by letter.—On communion Sunday, 197 were in attendance, 157 communing. Eight members were served communion in their homes, making a total of 165 participants. The Young Men's Brotherhood sponsored by the pastor, is doing well.

—Mennonite Ministers appear on Commencement Programs.—Rev. C. H. Suckau preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class at Berne, Indiana, and Rev. A. W. Friesen performed the same service at Henderson, Nebraska, and Rev. John Bartel, pastor of the Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota did the same thing before his local community audience.

—Menno Mennonite Church, Lind, Wash.—"We had the pleasure of having Rev. Harley King of Colfax, Wash., with us Sunday May 8, bringing us the message that morning. After brief services at the cemetary on Decoration Day, Rev. Felix Schrag of the Pasco, Wash., congregational church gave us, at the church, the message entitled, "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living.—Corr. D. H. F.

—From Monthly News Letter, Salem Menn. Church, Freeman, S. D.—Bro. Harold Gross of Freeman had a choice text and sermon for the people of the Salem church, May 15, in the pastor's absence. Text, Acts 3:6. Leading thought: The world expects something from the church that the church has to give.—Two enterprises, rather uncommon for rural communities, featured by members of this church, have become little Meccas. The "Pine Hill Printery," owned and operated by the John C. Gering family, is a mail order establishment out in the open country with a nation wide list of customers. "The Kaufman Museum," Chas. J. Kauffman owner and curator, has been built up to such proportions that hundreds of strangers are attracted to it annually.

—Rev. S. P. Preheim of Freeman, S. D. after soliciting parts of the Northern district for funds for a Conference printing plant, has now been visiting the membership of the Middle district with the same purpose, and is just finishing the work. As always in such matters, some churches gave well and some didn't come up to the expectations. The brother solicitor reports he has not pressed the issue unduly but left the people with a friendly attitude toward the cause with a willingness to do more if necessary. All givers have the hearty thanks of the Board of Publication.

—West Zion Menn. Church, Moundridge, Kans.—In connection with Mother's Day services are infant consecration was held. Dr. Klaassen of Hillsboro recently addressed the Senior C. E. and many others in attendance on the subject, "Peace." Rehearsals of the choirs of this district, for the Mennonite Song Festival have been held in this church.

—A Veteran S. S. Superintendent Honored.—At the recent 70th Sunday school anniversary in the First Church, Philadelphia, Mr. Charles H. Moyer's long service as superintendent was gratefully remembered. He served from 1875 to 1894 and 1901-1902, and is still an inspiration and a blessing to the school. An inspiring anniversary message by Dr. H. Cornehlson was much appreciated.

A Word from Canada Concerning the General Conference

As the time for the convening of the General Conference of Mennonite Church of North America is approaching, the thoughts of many Mennonites in Canada and in the United States are, no doubt, often occupied with this important event. So a word from a representative of the Mennonite Church in Canada in the Mennonite would seem appropriate.

I can truly say that the people here in Canada have great expectation regarding this Conference, not only those belonging to this organization, but also Mennonites not associated with it, are expecting great things, very worthy and special blessings from this gathering.

The meeting of friends and getting acquainted with others of the same faith, from both sides of the International Line, also getting acquainted with the various congregations, undertakings, customs, habits, conditions, opinions, etc., at this conference, is important for the carrying on of the common work in the Kingdom of God and of our denomination in particular.

No doubt the brethern from the United States will find many things and conditions somewhat different here from what they are accustomed to. And the brethern in Canada may find the brethern from the United States in some respects somewhat different from what they are accustomed to. Among these differences the language is to be noted particularly. The Mennonites in Canada, especially those of Western Canada, the old-timers since 1874 as well as the newcomers since 1923, still speak the German language. And all, with very few exceptions in new or mixed settlements, have their religious services entirely in the German language. This includes Sunday Schools, Young People's Societies, Conferences and other meetings.

Therefore it will be necessary for the brethern and sisters from the United States, where English is used quite extensively, when coming to this conference, to bring, if possible, the German language with them. They will need it here. But if there should be any, who are unable to speak or understand the German, they shall nevertheless be welcome. I can assure them, and all the others, that they will all receive a hearty welcome, and that they will find very friendly people and true Christian fellowship here.

It is the desire and expectation that many brethern and sisters from the United States, as well as from the Canadian provinces, will attend this conference session in Saskatoon. It is also desired and expected that the delegates and friends from the United States will reserve enough time for this visit to stay at least two days in Manitoba, to go through the great Mennonite settlements and get a general knowledge of them, and also see the rich wheatfields. It will then just be harvest time. They should also stop a day at Winnipeg, to visit the Mennonite Girls' Home, the Concordia Mennonite Hospital, the Mennonite churches and other places of interest here.

Preparations will be made here to make it possible for those who come, that this can be carried out, if we are informed whether and when they intend to come and how many. Information should be given to the undersigned directly or through Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, Newton, Kansas, the secretary of the Conference.

The officials of the Canadian Government have given us assurance that there will be no difficulty for delegates and other friends coming into Canada. The officers at the International Boundary will be informed in this respect.

In anticipation of great blessings through the coming General Conference, and with hearty greetings,

Benjamin Ewert,

Winnipeg, 286 River Ave., June 1, 1938

Conference Visitors

Will You Go to Conference per Automobile?

Upon inquiry at the Immigration Department at Ottawa, Canada, I received the appended very kind letter from Director Blair concerning those who plan to drive to Saskatoon, Sask., from the States to attend the conference session.

It should be added that it is important that one have with him "Certificate of Title" to his car as it will be necessary to show this to the United States Officers when returning home.

Then do not overlook the last sentence in Mr. Blair's letter. Our first conference session beyond the borders of the United States takes on international significance and offers opportunity to make a contribution to mutual international goodwill. We certainly do not want to ignore this opportunity, the more so because Canada offered asylum to so many of our co-religionists who fled for their lives from Russia, and further because Canada accorded fullest freedom of religious convictions to non-resistants during the war.

Brother David Toews received a similar cordial reply from Mr. Blair to his inquiry.—C. E. Krehbiel, Conference secretary.

Department of Mines and Resources
Immigration Branch
Ottawa, Canada, May 27, 1938

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your letter of the 9th instant advising that the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America will hold its next triennial session at Saskatoon, Sask., beginning July 31st, and that there will be a number of visitors attending the Conference from the United States, some of whom will travel by automobile.

This letter is to assure you that the Canadian Government welcomes all tourists and visitors from the United States, and we desire that entry at our ports shall be with the least possible delay and inconvenience. Delegates who are not American citizens should carry with them evidence of their Immigration status in the United States, so that our officers will be sure that they will be able to return without difficulty at the conclusion of the Conference.

Tourists' automobiles are admitted without charge and may be used for pleasure in Canada under their State licenses for a period of sixty days, which period may be extended upon application to a Canadian Customs Officer.

If you will let me know the ports of the International Boundary through which the delegates will enter, I shall gladly notify our officers at these ports to extend every courtesy.

May I express the hope that your Conference will be most successful and that it will further cement the friendship between the United States and this Dominion.

Yours very truly,
F. C. Blair, Director.

Announcement and Invitation

The Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church of Wichita, Kansas, is planning a special service on Sunday, June 26, to give our people an opportunity to become better acquainted with the work of this church, and we herewith extend a hearty invitation to everyone to come and worship with us. Rev. J. N. Smucker of the Bethel College Church and the pastor of the local church will deliver messages in the morning. A complete program of the morning and afternoon services will be published at a later date.

A basket dinner will be served in the basement of the church. Everyone is asked to bring a basket and spend the day.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. Richert, Sec.

29 Cheung Chau Island, Hong Kong, April 30, 1938

Dear Mission Friends:

We are happy to hear from the missionaries on furlough that the Mission Board and the churches at home are not losing courage for Missions in China in the face of the present difficulties, but are continuing to support the work in prayer and gifts. You will be glad to see how valiantly Chinese Christians, though surrounded with unrest, are keeping courage and faith and how workers are going courageously about "the Father's business." We have had letters from Taming, written March 29th and 30th by Mr. Ts'ao Chien Hsun and Mr. Li Kuang Ming. Mr. Ts'ao, as secretary and language teacher, was with us at Kikungshan and returned with the Pannabecker brothers to the field. Mr. Li is evangelist at Taming and was the last to leave when the Japanese entered Taming and one of the first to return.

LETTERS FROM CHINESE COWORKERS

Mr. Tsao writes: I arrived at Taming from Tung Ming Feb. 18th. First went to my home and found all well. When I came, no civilians were allowed to cross the Yellow River, but by special arrangements I came over on an officers' cart. However, I brought none of my baggage. On the way I experienced the Lord's protection and beyond all expectation reached home safely. I stayed at Tsingfeng Mission one night, it is peaceful there. Wu T'ung Tang, Ma Shou An, Mrs. Lu and Mrs. Shang, regularly stationed workers there, are all there.

The Tsingfeng Church was just having a Short Term Bible School of one month. There were between 40 and 50 enrolled and not a few were young people. I led one meeting and taught the singing twice. Response was very good. The Gao Tsun Church is also doing well. It is peaceful at Nanlo. I also went personally to the Pien Tsun Church and asked them whether they could open an instruction class. They said they could, but after two days there were bandit disturbances again. Shwangtsing is also troubled with bandits, and it will be difficult to open classes there this spring. The same is true of Fengku. At Lung Wang Miao Church is on. The day school has opened with many pupils enrolled. Mr. Sun thinks they can begin instruction classes in a few days. At Taming I led the meeting in the south suburb residence compound. There were over 100 worshippers. A large number of newcomers. A lot of people were sitting outside the door, because the room was full. Before Chinese New Year there were meetings every evening. Now a devotional meeting every morning. Mrs. Hsu and Mrs. Li help with the women and go out to preach. As I visited the churches all were heppy and were hoping Fu mu shih (Rev. Voth) would soon come back.

Mr. Li writes that he brought his family back from Kai Chow the latter part of February and that all workers were back at Taming. Some came back very soon after the Japanese occupation, others, in order to be with their families, remained longer at Tung Ming or Kai Chow. They convened the annual church meeting, March 20th, in connection with which they had a service of Thanksgiving. They thanked God for the protection and guidance experienced throughout the fall and winter. $35.00 were brought together in thank-offerings. They had a Thanksgiving meal together and enjoyed a time of happy fellowship and consecration.

Concerning this Mr. Li writes: "All Taming workers agree with one accord, that in this time of helplessness and stress we want to go forward trusting in the Lord and work for Him. Please pray much for us that we may have courage, may have faith, may have the trust-God-heart and be used of Him. We live in our former places and are well, so do not be anxious but, please, continue to pray for us that we may in this unusual time accomplish unusual things for God."

He further reports that the school teachers, Mr. Li Ch'eng Lin, Mr. and Mrs. Wang Shun T'ing et al have returned and opened the Mission schools in both suburb and city. The church committee had decided that station classes be conducted in both suburb residence compound and city from April 10th to 17th. My husband will be able to report more in detail about conditions as he found them. Through a letter from Mr. Pannabecker we learn that Mr. Voth and Miss Kuyf and missionaries of the Nazarene Mission arrived at Taming on Good Friday, April 15th. That was just three weeks after he left Hong Kong. We thank God for journeying mercies.

Your Coworker,

Mrs. Wm. C. Voth.

A Letter from Pennsylvania

ALLENTOWN, PA., MAY 31, 1938

Dear Brother Thierstein: Since I have been elected conference secretary at our recent Eastern Conference, it becomes my duty to report the activities of the various organizations, even though you may receive a detailed report from their secretaries as well.

(This has actually happened in the case of the Young Peoples' Convention, the secretary of which has sent in a rather full report which is found on first page of the Y. P. section in this issue. So we will just skip that part of Rev. Nyce's good report but give the rest.—Editor.)

Continuing Brother Nyce says: The Annual Song Festival will be held at Perkasie Park, Sunday afternoon and evening, July 24, under the direction of Prof. Russell A. Lantz of Bluffton College. Miss Etta Davis, waiting for orders to be sent to our mission field in China, in her address before the Y. P. Convention said, The first part of the Christian's program is to hear the Great Command. The command is given by One in authority as we see in the preceding verse, 'Jesus said, All power is given unto me in heaven and earth.' There are two pre-requisites in the command: (1) 'Come, follow me' and (2) 'Tarry.' We are to tarry for the power promised before we enter the Christian program. In Acts 1:8 we have this promise. The second part of the Christian's program calls us to enlist in the great campaign. 'Go' and disciple all nations, 'baptize' those who come and (3) 'Teach' the new convert to observe all things. We are not called upon to share in other faiths, we are called upon to Teach, Baptize and then again Teach. The third part of the Christian's program is the result because of the promise. Not only have we a great command, but a great Companion. The promise is in the present tense and perpetual. It does not say, "I will" or "I shall" be with you sometime, but "I am with you alway. Following is:

SONG FESTIVAL WELL ATTENDED

Favored with ideal weather the Kansas Song Festival, held in the bowl of Kidron Park, on the Bethel College Campus, June 5, was attended by the largest audience ever. The parking lots on the campus looked like a sea of autos, of which there were about 1300. Counting four persons to the car there must have been at least 5,000 people in attendance at the festival. Close to 500 singers sang, first in eight groups representing different geographical districts, then in mighty mass choruses, some of the old favorite hymns and chorals as well as contemporary anthems. A fine loud speaker system carried the music out over the large audience and far beyond.

SHARING SERVICE WITH THE LIVING CHRIST

Mark 16:1-8, 14-16, 19, 20

Introduction

In this lesson we study our Lord's resurrection, the fundamental fact of our faith, a key proof of the gospel. It has a logical place here at the conclusion of our six month's study of Christ, based on Mark's gospel and woven around the theme of service. Christ's resurrection and the Great Commission are closely related.

The Open Grave vs 1-8

The Jewish sabbath ended at sunset on Saturday. Then the shops opened their doors and Mary Magdalene and her friends (v1) bought "sweet spices" to anoint the body of Jesus early the next morning. (Read the resurrection accounts in the four Gospels). Very early in the morning—our Sunday—while still dark (John 20:1), they came (v2) to complete the anointing which the hasty burial preparations had prevented. They came, sad at heart, yet eager to give to Him the final token of their love. Love is thoughtful and finds a way to express itself. Part of their faith was gone, but all their love remained.

While hurrying along, they recalled the large stone placed at the door of the tomb (v3). Impulsive love urged them on as love always pushes on, hoping, trusting that obstacles will vanish or else be overcome. As they came near and looked up, they saw the open tomb (v4). God rolled away the stone—not to permit Jesus to come out of the grave, but for the women to enter in and see and be convinced. God rolls away stones of difficulty for us when in love and faith we go on at His call. On entering the opened sepulcher (v5) they saw God's messenger there where they had expected to see the Lord's body. He greeted them with an amazing message (v6) and a comforting message. The enemies of Jesus thought they had finally silenced Him in death. Now the amazingly glad news—"He is risen." Death was powerless over Him. What great things the disciples and friends of Jesus missed in failing to believe that He would rise again!

The women were to go and tell others (v7). Peter, who denied his Lord, whose heart was heaviest of all, was singled out to receive this special message of comfort. Jesus is risen, is still the message of the Church.

Christ's Commission vs. 14-16

In the evening, the disciples, excepting Thomas, "sat at meat" together (v14) and Jesus came into their midst. They had been slow to believe those who said they had seen Him (vs 9, 12). He reproved them for this. We too are so slow to believe, at times, the honest reports of others. Now He gives to them the great commission to tell the gospel message as they knew it, to the world. It is for all people of all nations, and as many as believe and receive shall be saved. This is the only way of salvation. Our highest privilege is the carrying of this message to others.

Disciples Go Forth vs. 19, 20

With this final message having been given, Jesus was ready to return to His place in heaven with the Father. He went there (v19) and sat down on God's right hand, our High Priest forever, having made the ONE perfect sacrifice for all mankind. The disciples went forth (v20) carrying this message of the Savior who died, who arose again, ascended and now was seated at God's right hand. They were faithful and God, the Lord, helped them. They went out in their new-born faith in their living Lord. This same Lord is our helper and close friend—not in the flesh, but in the Spirit. We serve a living Christ.

Bible Conference at Newton, Kansas

Before us lies a thirty-page report chronicling the Bible Conference recently held at Newton, Kansas. It was painstakingly prepared by the veteran ex-editor Rev. C. H. Van der Smissen, at the request of the committee that sponsored the conference. To bring the article in one issue would be impossible because of its length. So The Mennonite would have to publish it either in installments, running through different issues, or bring the essence of the addresses in condensed form. We shall do the latter.

The conference lasted from Sunday, May 15, through Sunday, May 22. Dr. Max Reich, the main speaker, a converted Jew, was lent to the conference by the Moody Bible Institute. Other out of town speakers were Dr. P. R. Schroeder, Freeman, S. D.; Rev. A. H. Unruh of the Pniel Bible School, Winkler, Manitoba; Dr. H. W. Lohrenz, professor of Bible, Tabor College, Hillsboro, Kansas; Rev. D. J. Unruh, Pandora, Ohio; Rev. J. D. Minninger, Kansas City; Rev. P. P. Tschetter, Pretty Prairie, Kansas; Rev. H. V. Wiebe, former missionary to China; Rev. A. E. Kreider and Dr. A. Warkentin of Bethel College, and Missionary Fred Johnson, Moencopy, Arizona. Mr. Otto Richert of McPherson, Kansas, was the capable, inspirational song leader throughout, ably assisted by his wife at the piano.—Editor.

At the opening session, Rev. P. R. Schroeder spoke on man's relation to different spheres of influence: Spiritual things, Ethics, Philosophy, Science. Some ignore the spiritual, God. But with us, as Christians, God is the center, the others have their bearing in their relation to God. Dr. Reich gave an interesting discourse on Christ's last addresses to his disciples, based on John 13:13-17, and continued thus in the address next day.

Rev. A. Unruh spoke earnestly and impressively on the theme "Regeneration," John 3:1-16.

Dr. Lohrenz lectured on "The Life of Holiness," Lev. 11:44; I Pet. 1:15; Matt. 5:48, and Eph. 4:1-3: God's holiness in the O. T. is the introduction to our theme. Holiness means separation for a special service, in relation to the eternal, invisible God. Holiness is separation from sin and the world. It governs our whole life, our thinking, feeling and will. Christ taught sanctification, as shown in His presentation of real Christian life in the Sermon on the Mount. Sanctification is not regeneration. God regenerates, then we work out what God has worked in us with the help of the Spirit. Sanctification begins in the heart. Our inmost being, our thoughts, our feelings, our wishes must be sanctified.

Dr. Reich.—Theme from Psalm 62. In the O. T. God speaks to Israel. Here the true Israel speaks to God. In heathendom the individual has no right, it is the family, the tribe. God evaluates the individual highly. In Israel we find a search for righteousness as in no other nation, a deep sense of penitence. God's holiness shows our sinfulness. Where the knowledge of sinfulness is missing, God's presence is missing.

Rev. Wiebe.—Matt (?) 9:65 (?), Jesus gives His program. We have a great gospel. It saves and makes workers. Why do we conduct missions? Because Jesus believed in missions. Jesus commands it. "I must." And so must we. Go into the world! I could not pray, "Our Father," if I did not believe in missions. Our Father, not my Father. I believe in foreign missions, because they have such a blessed, vivifying influence. The need is so great.

Dr. Reich.—The secret of happiness in the book of Psalms. Mercy is loving-kindness, love in action, Psalm 32. A Pauline psalm, quoted in the letter to the Romans. Happiness and pleasure are two different things. Do not seek happiness, but the conditions for happiness, in God's word. Humanity, estranged from God, is the source of all unhappiness. You cannot break the law of the state with impunity, but neither the laws of the Spirit. The sins we cover, God uncovers. The sins we uncover, God covers, and forgives. To commune with God, to side with God, knowing God as our hiding-place, to follow God as our guide, that is happiness.

Dr. Schroeder.—Rev. 19:11-16. The names of the Lord Jesus Christ in the New Testament, and their meaning, make one marvel. I. He is the Word, the name in the divine trinity. The Word brings truth. II. Jesus of Nazareth, is the human name. III. Jesus Christ, the Lord. He earned this name by His humilation and glorification. "Jesus" is used 596 times in the gospels, in the other books 49 times; Jesus of Nazareth 17 times. IV. Son of Man, 88 times in the gospels, three times in the rest of the N. T. V. Son of David, 16 times in the gospels. VI. Master, 66 times in the gospels. VII. Son of God, 73 times in the gospels, 28 times in I John, 61 times elsewhere in the N. T. VIII. Christ, 60 times in the gospels, 509 times in the rest. His appearance was that of a human being; his ministry, that of God, the son of God. IX. Jesus Christ, 6 times in the gospels, 242 times elsewhere in the N. T. X. King, King of Kings, 42 times in last part of the gospels, elsewhere 7 times. XI. Lord, 189 times in the gospels, in the Acts 104 times, in the rest of the N. T. 460 times.

Dr. Reich.—Ps. 75. God is nothing but good to the true Israel. Do not publish your doubts, tell only what you know, because of God's little ones. Why do the unrighteous prosper? Asaph understood it when he had been to the sanctuary of God. My prosperity consists not in earthly things. I put my trust in the Lord, my God in heaven. No book is more human than the Bible, no book more divine. The mystery of suffering is brought out in Job. Satan's challenge to God was, Job is pious because it pays. But Satan was allowed to deprive him of all. His friends argue, God is god, if Job were a good man, God would have protected him. So Job must have been a hypocrite. Job protested. He could answer his friends but not God. He became penitent, confessed, and prayed for his friends. They thought God's blessings were external; Job, that it is to have God. In this he rejoiced and God blessed him.

Rev. D. J. Unruh.—The cross is our subject. The preaching of the cross is old fashioned, out of date, but we know that it is the power of God. It was God's plan from the beginning that Jesus should die on the cross. The old sin-offerings are no longer necessary. Jesus came as a sin-offering for the sins of the whole world. There is a divine necessity, a "must" in the Crucifixion. There was no other way to save mankind except by the cross, Gal. 3:13. The curse which sin deserved rested upon Him. Jesus took my sin upon Himself, II Cor. 5:20-21. There is a divine attraction in the cross. It is the greatest exhibition of God's love. We ought to show the love of God in the cross to sinners.

Dr. Reich.—Exod. 3. While Moses was herding the sheep in the desert, the angel of Jehovah appeared to him in a flame of fire. The fire of His holiness consumes. God promises to liberate the children of Israel. But Moses was not the same now as he was forty years ago. He was diffident. God's name is, "I am who I am," which implies eternity, the unchangeable one. You cannot understand the N. T. without the O. T., nor the Old without the New. God is the father of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob forever. He is the God of individual men, not of clan or tribe. We can say, Thou art my God. God takes interest in the details of life of every individual, nothing is too small. Abraham was the father of the faithful. Isaac was the conservative. He would have made a good Mennonite. He is the picture of regeneration. Jacob stands for sanctification. His crisis was at Pniel. There he became an "Israel," for he had striven with God and men, and prevailed. If you meet God face to face, if you test Him in time of temptation, then He is your God.

Rev. Minninger.—Lessons from the life of the Apostle Peter. Biographic studies are very educating and interesting. God, by His grace, made out of Simon, the reed, a rock. Andrew never preached a sermon but brought his brother Simon to Jesus. In first and second Peter we learn to know the man. Jesus had said to Peter at the last supper, "Simon, Simon, behold Satan has desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren." Mother's prayers are a power and Jesus never ceases to pray for us. Peter likes the word precious. There is something more precious than gold, that is trials. Trials precious? Yes, they are often the greatest blessings. We are redeemed by the precious blood of Jesus. So He must be precious to us. Is He precious to you? Lessons to be learned from the study of the apostolic church are: Old things have passed away, all has become new. New life, new joy, new plans. The early church members were regenerated, their lives brought the fruit of the Spirit. They received power. They were peaceful, non-resisting, because spirit-filled. They were persecuted people. They constituted a word-filled people. God's word brings joy and peace. They were a united people, and thus united they were a strong missionary church. They were a praying people. Jesus Christ was the center and foundation of their life.

Dr. Reich.—Suffering in the book of Psalms. Death was a mystery to the O. T. saints. Job describes death in a pitiful way, but later he says, "I know that my redeemer liveth." Jesus says, "I am the resurrection and the life." Hezekiah dreaded to die, Is. 33:10-16. How different was Stephen. He knew his redeemer and died joyfully. Psalm 16 is messianic. Jehovah is my inheritance. We are not there yet, but we have a cup of joy every day. God in His love has drawn me in his circle. There are pleasures for evermore. There must be another bigger life. At the captivity Jehovah seemed to be defeated. But He had a purpose in this. The God of Israel was in Babylonia as well as Palestine. Ezekiel in his vision learned that the glory of God had gone with Israel. God is Spirit and is everywhere. Psalm 131. There is a mystery. Our joy becomes meagre. It is the weaning process. It is hard, but necessary. We must learn to obey God without joy. It is the winter of the regenerated. It is needed. But spring is coming for the life of the soul. This is grace, nothing but grace. Then we love Christ the more. He lives in us, we delight in Him. God, the merciful who gave His beloved Son for us, is now the center of our religion.

Rev. D. J. Unruh.—The book of Amos is one of the prophetic writings. He being of the southern tribes and sent to the northern tribes, had difficulties. Amos shows the sins of eight nations, especially of Israel and threatens the judgment. If you point out the sins of your own people, city, or church, you are not welcome. If men worship God without having a righteous life, it is not accepted. Chapter 8:4, 6, God threatens to punish sins. We cannot connive sin. We cannot be servants of God and Baal. It is more important to provide for our children's spiritual needs than to provide for them financially. Amos said, "God took me, sent me, and gave me the message, therefore I am the messenger of God." The minister must be the messenger of God, otherwise he has no business in the pulpit. God must speak through us, we are springs of living water.

Rev. Tschetter. John 5:24. With the Lord our salvation is first. He will never rest until He has saved mankind. Christ has four witnesses: John the Baptist points to the annointed one to follow him. Jesus' works show Him to be the Messiah. The witness of the Father is the third. The resurrection of Lazarus was a testimony of the Father. The scriptures testify for Christ.

Rev. D. J. Unruh.—I John 1 and 2:1, 15. Fellowship and its meaning. In an intimate fellowship with God, we have a feeling of His presence. Fellowship is something between two. God wants His children to have close relationship with Him. God came in the flesh. The incarnation is the foundation of fellowship. The Son of God came down to fellowship with us. The purpose of God was joy for us. The first epistle of John treats of this fellowship. A separated life is demanded. We have to walk in the light, not do works of darkness nor love the world. Professing is not possessing. There are those who are outwardly members of the Christian church, but in spirit they are not. They put the fundamentals of salvation aside. They are willingly unbelieving and deny Christ. God's children have an anointing. God calls to a closer walk and fellowship with Him.

Missionary Johnson from Hopiland.—Rom. 1:16ff. We were heathen before the white people came, and we thought we had the truth, we were religious. We expected some one to come. We thought the white man would come with a book. They came and brought us Jesus. We are rejoicing in Christ. He is sufficient for all nations. It is He whom we need. Our government was good, but now they want to make us heathen again. J. B. Frey and J. B. Epp, former missionaries to the Hopis, and Johnson sang a Hopi song out of the Hopi song book.

Dr. Reich.—The 23 Psalm. It is a psalm of David. Jehovah is the name generally used. Comfort does not mean to make feel good, but to strengthen the weak. Goodness means prosperity and mercy. What does the psalm tell us about God. He is a living God. His name expresses eternity, individuality, a personal experience. What kind of a personality? The God of the N. T. is love, but God was that always. Shepherd and sheep share their lives, they live together day and night. The sheep know the shepherd; he knows the sheep and calls them by name; they hear his voice and follow him. The Psalmist speaks of spiritual experiences under beautiful, visible pictures. Our surroundings are given us. They influence our development. But in spite of them we can be happy. This is the language of faith. Faith begins with appreciation, then acclamation, then conformation, and adoration. We live by faith. This is a present day psalm. The Lord is my shepherd, that is faith. The shepherd provides. The Psalmist has a golden day. Some people have a golden yesterday, and think of a golden past. Here is a living experience. This is a messianic psalm. The lamb is in the bosom of the Father. The psalm shows the way to go to our Father's house, our home. The unchanged Jesus is coming to take us there.

Rev. Kreider.—The Gospel of Luke. Called the most beautiful book. The announcement of the angel is beautiful. Luke gives us the story of the twelve-year old Jesus in the temple, tells of His visit in Nazareth and the effect of His preachnig, the visit at the home of Mary and Martha in Bethany, and the visit in the house of Zachaeus in Jericho. On the day of crucifixion Luke tells us of Jesus' prayer for His enemies, of the repentance of the malefactor, and on Easter of the disciples of Emmaus. In Luke we find also the parable of the prodigal son, of the good Samaritan, of the rich man and Lazarus. Here we find also a report how Jesus wept over Jerusalem, the hymn of Mary, the prayer of Simeon, the song of the angels, and the story of the sinful woman anointing Jesus' feet. Luke mentions especially the prayer life of Jesus. The disciples were so impressed with it that they asked Jesus to teach them to pray.

Missionary Johnson.—John 3:13-17. It was at first hard for me to understand the word the missionary brought, that Christ was made sin for us, and that through Him we could be cured of sin. Our medicine men cured a serpent bite with a serum which they make from the poison. I was baptized with my parents. Father was a great smoker. On becoming a Christian he burned pipe, tobacco, and all heathen paraphernalia. We suffered persecution. That is what white people need—persecution. At first it was hard for me to confess Christ, but God helped me, and now I rejoice doing it. Educated boys and girls are heathen yet; the head is changed, the heart is the same.

Dr. Warkentin of Bethel College. Hebrew 1. God spoke first, men afterwards. Revelation comes from God and works out in history. Generally God revealed Himself to individuals, He did it also through prophecy. First period: Enoch, Noah, Abraham; second, Moses, Miriam, and Deborah; third, Samuel and others; fourth, the school of prophets, of which there were five. They looked upon their teachers as their fathers; the pupils were sons of the prophets. There are 29 or 30 prophets in 250 years. They were sent to God's people, but sometimes to kings and leaders. Return to the Lord was their message. The people would not listen and Israel was sent into captivity. The prophets promised the Messiah. The prophets should be seers, the enlightened ones, the gazers seeing God. The seer only foretells the future, but speaks God's will and message. How did God commune with the prophets? Sometimes verbally, sometimes through trances, visions, dreams, or symbols.

Dr. Reich.—Acts 6. Everyone of the deacons had a Greek name. Stephen reviewed before the Sanhedrin the history of Israel and how they refused to listen. He prayed for his murderers. He saw the glory of God and the Son standing at the right hand of the Father. Where is the Son now? Still there. The Holy Spirit is now on earth, living in all who are reborn. He convicts men of sin. He does not make organizations, but works through them. We get our orders from our King at the right hand of God. Paul at the death of Stephen did not see the glory of God, but saw it reshine from the face of Stephen. We ought to bring Christ to the people before we bring the people to Christ. The Holy Spirit, a divine person, makes room for Christ in man.

Sunday evening, May 15, Brother E. M. Harder spoke in the name of the committee which had arranged the Bible Conference. He thanked the different speakers, especially Dr. Reich, for their spirit-filled messages; also the choirs of the colleges and churches, and the audience for their prayers and their support in a material way. Rev. P. H. Unruh offered a resolution to send greeting to similar conferences in Germany. It was adopted by a unanimous rising vote. A season of prayer followed.

Dr. Reich.—Matthew 7. What is the kingdom of God? We must become like little children to enter this kingdom of unity and love. The kingdom of God is like a merchantman who sells all to buy the best pearl. The pearl is righteousness through the knowledge of Christ. Paul gave the good for the better. Jesus is the good shepherd, the light of the world, the lamb of God. He has 365 names showing His character. The pearl is fallen humanity. Christ gave Himself to save it. Is fallen man a pearl? God values it so highly that He gave His best, His only begotten Son, to save it. God made man out of dust and His breath of life, and man became a personality, the very image of God. Man is not happy without God. The ceaseless craving for God and the knowledge that it might have been, that is hell. The pearl is without will and feeling, but God wants willing, loving children. It is for us to open the door of our heart.

Eastern District Convention

The forty-third annual convention of the Eastern District Mennonite Young People's' Union, was held at the Deep Run Church, May 30th, 1938, with about 500 persons attending three sessions.

Centering about the Theme "I must work the works of Him that sent me" was a well planned program, in charge of Norman Geissinger, retiring president. John Boehr, son of Missionary P. J. Boehr, led the singing throughout the day, while Charles Wasser, led the devotions and Theodore Moyer, local chairman, welcomed the convention. Special music was furnished by the Springfield Society, the newest member of the Union.

Reports of the various officers indicated a busy year on all sides. Dr. H. A. Fast, our Field Secretary, and D. D. Eitzen, Chairman of the General Conference Y. P. Committee, addressed the Fall and Spring Rallies, respectively. The Mission project of $400 with $40.00 over, to help send Miss Etta Davis to China, as missionary, was raised. Active members totaled 528 Seniors, 107 Intermediates and 292 Juniors. Separate reports for the latter two groups will appear later. Each group had a Mission project of it's own, as well as a convention.

Prayer Fellowship Cards, with the Missionary personnel were distributed and Mr. Clarence Shelly gave a comprehensive report on "Good Citizenship" with reference to Peace, Labor and Temperance.

The new project for 1938-9 will be to assist the Sunday School Union to raise $1000 to equip and develop our New Retreat grounds; pledge to contribute $100 to the Boys' Home in Winnipeg and $75 to the General Conference Peace Society. Invitations to attend the General Conference sessions at Saskatoon were extended by John E. Fretz, E. D. represntative of the Y. P. Committee, who also thanked the convention for their gift of $25.00 to the work of the Field Secretary, Dr. Fast. A Retreat Constitution was adopted, to go into effect at the coming Retreat, to be held June 17-19, at Green Lane.

Officers elected for the new year were: President, DeWitt Temple, Germantown; Vice president, Norman Geissinger, Zionsville; Recording Sec'y, Mabel Clymer, Souderton; Corr. Sec'y, Betty Greger, Saucon; Treas., Mr. Earl Hallman, East Swamp; Mission Sec'y, Tina Klaassen, Bowmansville; Int. Supt., Mary Hunsberger, Deep Run; Junior Supt., Margaret Slotter, Lansdale.

The afternoon sessions opened with devotions in charge of the Bally (Hereford) Society, followed by a vocal trio, from Richfield, entitled "Tell Me Who?" The attendance banner held by the Richfield Society during the past year was won by East Swamp, with 97% present.

The popular group conferences "Presenting the Gospel" were led by (1) Miss Katherine Niswander, on "Presenting the Gospel to the unsaved in our communities"; (2) Rev. Sylvan Lehman, on "Considering the methods used by Jesus"; (3) Rev. H. G. Nyce, on "Needs on the Mission Field at present." Discussion followed the presentation, and summaries were given when the convention re-assembled.

The message of the afternoon was delivered by Miss Etta Davis, accepted worker for our Mission Field in China. The subject based on Matt. 28:19-20, "The Christian's Program" mightily stirred the audience, and one felt God's very presence, as we were led to consider, once more, our responsibility to the Lord's commission, through (a) The Great Command, (b) The Great Campaign, (c) The Promise; closing with Isaiah 6:1-8.

The evening sessions opened with devotions by the Flatland Society and a selection by Bethany Society, Quakertown. Rev. J. J. Plenert, president of the Conference, installed the officers. During this service members of First Philadelphia Society sang "Let the Beauty of Jesus be Seen in Me." Bowmansville members offered another selection in closing.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Emerson Slotterback, Pastor of the Altoona Church, before another large audience. We regret that space does not permit a full report of the proceedings, nor include the resolutions adopted. Mennonite youth in our section has thus again taken steps to assume responsibility and prepare itself for greater service in the Lord's work.

C. E. Tree Planting Service

On Saturday afternoon, May 14 the Junior, Intermediate and Senior C. E. Societies of the Hereford Mennonite church, Bally, Pa., held a very effective tree planting service. The three socities planted a Douglas Fir tree as a Christian Endeavor Tree on their church property to beautify the grounds. About 40 people were present and each one put a shovel full of ground in the hole. and thus actually helped to plant the tree. We hope and pray that this tree will be a living monument of youth for many years to come. M. L.

A Singing Religion

Eph. 5:19; Col. 3:16; Acts 16:25

Consecration Meeting

Young People's Topic for July 3, 1938

Meditations:

M., June 27. A new kind of song. Ps. 40:1-8.
T., June 28. Sing for joy. 1 Pet. 1:3-9.
W., June 29. Praying in song. Eph. 3:14-21.
T., June 30. Singing our gratitude. Heb. 13:14-16.
F., July 1. Singing with the saints above. Rev. 5:8-14.
S., July 2. A song for the ages. Ps. 145:1-21.

Program Suggestions:

The topic and the fact that this is another consecration meeting make this an ideal time for a real worship service. If possible, you should hand out printed or mimeographed copies of the program. This avoids confusion and the break in the atmosphere always caused by announcements. Exercise the most care in selecting the persons who will furnish the music. Music is very important for a worship service. Candlelight is more effective than electric light. Of course, these external details are not necessary; but they do help in guiding thoughts and attitudes.

1. Prelude: Ten or fifteen minutes of soft music by the organ, piano, or violin. The performer is preferably hidden from sight.

2. Leader (has been sitting on the platform and now takes his place at the pulpit): "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly; in all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts unto God. Col. 3:16.

3. Response: The choir or a smaller musical group sings, while hidden from sight, "All People that on Earth do Dwell."

4. Leader: "Oh sing unto Jehovah a new song: Sing unto Jehovah, all the earth. Sing unto Jehovah, bless His name; show forth His salvation from day to day. Declare His glory among the nations, His marvellous works among all the peoples. For great is Jehovah, and greatly to be praised." Ps. 96:1-4a.

5. Choir sings "All hail the pow'r of Jesus' name"

6. Leader reads the following poems while the pianist, organist, or violinist is softly playing meditative selections. The leader should pause for several minutes after each poem while the music continues.

WHO BIDS US SING?

Who bids us sing? What need has the world for song,
What need of the spring when autumn is harsh and strong?
The winter comes, the winter drear,
The year is dead, the marvellous fruitful year:
Who bids us sing? What need has the world for song?

What need? Under the earth the blossoms hide
Through all the cold of the winter tide;
Who shall waken them, who shall call
When the first sweet days of the springtime fall?
Who else? Under the earth the blossoms hide.
—Rhys Carpenter

THE POET

Why hast thou breathed, O God, upon my thoughts
And tuned my pulse to thy high melodies,
Lighting my soul with love, my heart with flame,
Thrilling my ear with songs I cannot keep—
Only to set me in the market place
Amid the clamor of the bartering throng,
Whose ears are deaf to my impassioned plea,
Whose hearts are heedless of the work I bring?
And yet—dear God, forgive! I will sing on.
I will sing until that shining day
When one, perchance, one only may it be—
Shall turn aside from out the sordid way,
List'ning with eager ears that understand
Until that day—thy day—help me to bear
The hurt of cold indifference and the pain
Of seeing all the multitude rush by,
Drowning thy music with their cry for gold!
—Angela Morgan

7. Leader and speaking choir read Psalm 145 responsively. The leader reads one verse and the same choir that sang the response responds in unison with the next verse.

8. Audience rises to sing "For the Beauty of the Earth"

9. Prayer. Audience remains standing.

10. Postlude by piano, organ, or violin.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Showing Patriotism

Intermediate C. E. Topic, July 3, 1938

For Daily Study

June 27. Loving our country. Ps. 137:1-6.
June 28. Serving our country. 1 Sam. 12:1-5.
June 29. Working for justice. Mic. 6:8.
June 30. Working for peace. Mic. 4:1-4.
July 1. Working for religion. 1 Kings 18:20-26.
July 2. Just administration. Ps. 24:1-6.
July 3. Topic—How to show our patriotism? Luke 7:2-10.

Consecration Meeting

Place a standard with a Christian flag and one with an American flag in the front of the room. After the opening song service of suitable hymns, have the group give the flag salute for each one. These should be written on the blackboard, or copies placed in their hands, unless they are very familiar. Then let each one give a verse of Scripture, which expresses the spirit of good citizenship, and tell how it would show our patriotism. A list of such verses can be prepared by the committee if necessary. Rom. 12:11; Rom. 12:21; Rom. 13:8; Rom. 13:10; Rom. 14:7; Rom. 14:19; Rom. 15:1; 1 Cor. 15:58; 1 Cor. 15:13; Col. 3:23; Acts 5:29. Add others.

Patriotism

Our idea of PATRIOTISM has had to be revised in recent years. During the World War, the man who made the most noise about his patriotism and succeeded in stirring up the greatest enmity against the real or imaginary foes was considered the most patriotic. Today our conception of patriotism has changed somewhat. We are not so sure that the man who is most ready to kill the enemy by physical power is the most patriotic. We have discovered that that kind of patriotism does not result in the welfare of our country and its citizens. National selfishness is as great a sin as individual selfishness. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," applies to nations as well as to individuals. We are beginning to realize that the spiritual power of love is far more effective in destroying any enemies we may have as a nation than force. Constructive rather than destructive thinking and living promotes the welfare of a nation.

Christian Statesman

"This country constantly and consistently advocates maintenance of peace; we advocate national and international restraint, the abstinence by all nations from use of force in pursuit of policy and from interference in the internal affairs of other nations."—Cordell Hull. Have someone report on the article, "Christian Statesman" in Christian Herald, May, 1938. We should know how our statesmen are representing us before others nations.

Topics for Talks

How a Christian shows his patriotism:

1. Through law observance
2. By the development and use of his talents
3. In his attitude toward war
4. In his school and business life

TWENTY-THREE INTERMEDIATE C. E. SOCIETIES

Some interesting facts have been discovered about our Intermediate C. E. societies through a questionnaire that was sent out recently to the churches of the General Conference.

Twenty-three Intermediate Societies have been reported in the churches of the General Conference in the United States. They are distributed in the districts as follows:

Eastern District	7
Middle District	5
Western District	6
Pacific District	5

The Twenty-three societies have a total membership of 892. The largest society has a membership of 205 and is located in the church at Berne, Indiana. The smallest society, and probably the newest one, which has 7 members, was recently organized in the First Mennonite church in Philadelphia.

Twelve of the 23 societies hold weekly meetings, on Sunday evening, and the others meet bi-weekly or monthly.

The Northern District reports no Intermediate societies, but an interested worker in that district writes, "I realy feel the need of such an organization for the Intermediates in our church and do pray that the same may be made possible."

The generally accepted age of Intermediates is from 13-17, corresponding to the high school classification. Fourteen of the societies are approximately within this age limit, the others varying all the way from 5 to 25 years.

* * *

DOES YOURS?

Your church needs an Intermediate C. E. Society:

If you have young people of high school age who are eager to train in service for Christ and the church.

If you have a Junior society that has begun this training.

If your Intermediates hesitate to take part in a meeting with adults present.

If the size of your society prohibits them from taking some part aside from singing in every meeting.

If the committee work is all being done by older members.

If they would rather sit in the parked cars or listen to the radio than attend the C. E. meeting.

If you believe that expressional training needs to be adapted to the age of the person as well as the impressional training.

Program Suggestions for July 3, 1938

Quiet music

Call to Worship: A voice from the group:

"From all that dwell below the skies,
Let the Creator's praise arise!
Let the Redeemer's name be sung,
Through every land, by every tongue!"

Worship Service:

1. Sing in unison as a response to the call: "I will Sing of My Redeemer." Verses 1, 3, 4
2. Special music with chorus in unison: Let a quartet which is seated sing the verses 1 and 2 of "Oh, How I Love Jesus" and the group join in on the chorus
3. Prayer: Rise to speak in unison:

"Lord of all being, throned afar,
Thy glory flames from sun and star;
Center and soul of every sphere,
Yet to each loving heart how near!
Grant us Thy truth to make us free,
And kindling hearts that burn for Thee;
Till all Thy living altars claim
One holy light, one heavenly flame."

4. Responsive reading (Can be put on the blackboard)

Leader: "We will rejoice in thy selvation, and in the name of our God we will set up our banners." (Ps. 20:5)

Group: "Some trust in chariots, and some in horses: but we will remember the name of the Lord our God." (Ps. 20:7)

Leader: "Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee." (Ps. 67:3)

Group: "O let the nations be glad and sing for joy: for thou shalt judge the people righteously, and govern the nations upon the earth." (Ps. 67:4)

5. Sing in unison: "Praise Ye the Lord, the Almighty." Verses 1 and 4

Mission Minutes: Tell of some "harvest" on our mission fields

Announcements:

Study Period. Aim: to acquaint the child with the Biblical teaching concerning the government and our relationship to the same.

1. Leader's introduction to the subject of the evening by using the two flags: the American and the Christian. Quote: "The Christian flag is the only flag that in the United States of America is allowed to float above our country's flag. This is allowed because Jesus Christ is Lord of Lords and King of Kings." Tell your juniors this and set the two flags in proper position before them
2. Rise to sing in unison verse one of "America" and verse four as a prayer unto God for our country
3. Discussion period in charge of leader: Romans 13:1-7
   a. Who chooses all government officials? You will not receive the right answer from the eager boy or girl. Slowly and clearly lead them to understand, God Chooses. Dan. 2:21; Romans 13:1
   b. Does God also choose a bad government to rule the people? Show how God sets evil men over a nation to punish a nation, to call it back to serve Him. It is God's love. Example: In Israel's history, those who had closed their heart against God were used as a tool of punishment over others and then they themselves were destroyed, as in the case of Babylon. Ezek. 21; Isa. 21:9.
   c. When I disobey the laws of the government, whom do I disobey? Ans. with Rom. 13:2
   d. In what two ways does God want the government to help me? 1. to praise me when I do good. v. 3 and 4a. 2. to punish me when I do evil. v. 4b
   e. In what ways does God want me to help the government? Verses 5-7
4. What was Jesus' attitude toward the government? Incident of Mark 12:13-17 retold by a junior.
5. Does it sometimes happen that I cannot obey the government. Answered by two juniors with a. Daniel's three friends could not obey because King Nebuchadnezzar forgot God and asked the people to worship his golden image instead of God. God is above all kings and Daniel's three friends, inspite of persecution, obeyed God rather than man. Let this junior retell the story of Daniel 3 and also the influence of three men because they stayed true to God. Use God's commandment in Ex. 20 here.
   b. The apostles could not obey, because they were told not to tell others about Jesus the Savior. Let a junior tell the story of Acts 5:12-42. Stress verse 41 and 42, the joy of suffering for Jesus and remaining true to Him. Use the commandment of Jesus in Acts 1:8 here.

6. Special music: I Would Be True to Thee, Lord. Verses 1 and 2
7. Heart meditation in charge of leader who, standing by the two flags shows that the position of the flags is also our position. We must be true to both but when the nation forgets its God, then we must remain true to Him no matter at what cost. We must obey God's commandments first. What these commandments are need not be mentioned here. They will be studied under "The Mennonite Junior and His Church." Close the meditation with prayer for our nation, its leaders and its people and a prayer that God would make us true witnesses of His love that, like through Daniel and his friends and through the apostles, many hearts might be turned to Him through our lives.
8. Quote verse of the month
9. Sing in unison verses 1 and 2 of "The Church's One Foundation"
10. Closing prayer of thanksgiving for Jesus whom God has made to be Lord of Lords and King of Kings,—that all lies in His wonderful Hand!

(Next penny project to appear in next issue)

CORRESPONDENCE

EBENEZER CHURCH, NEAR BLUFFTON, OHIO

Miss Alice Treuschel, instructor in religious education in the Bluffton schools, addressed our S. S. on the subject, "Early Christian Training of the Child." —Sunday, May 8, we had a blessed children's consecration. "And he lifted up his eyes, and saw the women and the children; and said, who are those with thee? And he said, the children which God has graceously given thy servant." Gen. 33:5. In the evening the Girls' Missionary Band sponsored a Mother's Day program.—On May 14, Mrs. Peter Zimmerly, aged 82, died. She was a resident of the Swiss settlement and a member of our church. Five daughters, two sons, a stepdaughter and a stepson survive her. Rev. P. A. Kliewer and Rev. P. E. Whitmer of the Grace Church, Pandora, officiated.—On Sunday, May 15, we had an interesting lesson by Rev. S. T. Moyer who brought us direct information about our charge Ezra Steiner and his wife Elizabeth, who are slowly winning the confidence of the Tibetans. On Sunday, May 22, our pastor preached a powerful sermon on the subject, "A Cake Not Turned."—On Sunday, May 29, we received into our church: Mrs. Harold Burkholder and Mr. Joseph Thompson. On Decoration Day our Ebenezer Bible school commenced. The ordination of Brother Victor Augsburger to the African Mission took place, June 12.—The first Sunday evening in June the Grace C. E. of Pandora, accompanied by Rev. Paul Whitmer were with our C. E.

EAST SWAMP CHURCH, QUAKERTOWN, PA.

June 3. Another conference has gone, but not in the memory of the Swamp folks. On Menorial Day, at the C. E. Convention at Deep Run, our group was awarded the banner with 97 percent attendance. We are happy to see it in our church again after several years.—On June 12 Bro. William Mohr will organize a Brotherhood chapter here. At this writing 14 men have joined. May God richly bless this undertaking. Mr. and Mrs. John Snavely are the happy parents of a son born to them and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Awckland of a daughter. Mr. Awckland, commonly known as "Brownie," is the president of our Y. P. Society. He is especially happy that the members supported him in bringing back the banner for another year. His good wife returned from the hospital May 30, and he was so happy that he could not stay for the evening session, but had to go home to tell his young daughter how happy he was.—Children's day service will be held June 12 at 7:30 p. m.—Rev. W. S. Gottshall's health is slowly improving and we pray for his presence at East Swamp in the near future. We thank our God that He is restoring his strength so that he can again laugh and chat with his friends. May we all say a hearty AMEN to the remark made at the Gottshall home, "We surely have a wonderful Savior."

HEBRON MENN. CHURCH, BUHLER, KANS.

We were all saddened by the sudden death of Mrs. D. B. Neufeldt, a dear friend and sister in the Lord. The obituary will presently appear in this paper.

Sunday evening, May 29, the Ladies' Chorus of the West Zion Church, Moundridge, gave us a very fine program of sacred music. This choir is under the direction of Mrs. Weldon Rupp.

On Memorial Day, Buhler was not able to have its special program at the cemetery, because of rain. But by afternoon the sun shone nicely and all the local churches had their Children's Day programs and picnics. These festivities are always enjoyed by young and old.

Tuesday evening, May 31, Rev. Seegardel showed pictures in the Buhler High School which portrayed the horrible suffering the people in Russia must endure. How thankful we ought to be, because our dear land gives us liberty and freedom to worship God!

The M. B. Church, the Buhler Mennonite Church and the Hebron Church united in providing a Vacation Bible School for the children of our community. More children than expected came. It was necessary to secure six teachers. The children and teachers enjoy their work. Bible, Memory Work, Catechism, Geography of Palestine, and Missionary stories are taught besides choruses and songs. — Correspondent.

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, BERNE, IND.

In our mid-week prayer and Bible study we have just finished the study of the Book of Daniel. This was a very timely study, in the light of what is happening in the world today. Truly, God's Word is a "sure word of prophecy." Following the completion of this book we are taking up the study of the Gospel according to St. John, another precious portion of Scripture. It is a great joy to see so many of our young people coming out to this mid-week service and showing eagerness in the study of God's Word. The joy would be still greater if more of the older people would come.

The Summer Bible School is again in session, the various churches of town cooperating, with the Rev. C. H. Suckau as Superintendent. There is a large enrollment and much interest. Why shouldn't there be? Is there anything more worthwhile than to fill the hearts and minds of our young people with the knowledge of the Bible? How necessary it is, since the Bible is not taught in our public schools, that there should be this opportunity given to the children and young people. It does not pay to neglect the study of God's Word. There has been too much neglect of this in the past, and the results are sadly telling in our nation today, of which we are all aware.

Monday evening, June 6, the church will hold the semi-yearly business meeting. Delegates to the Middle District and the General Conference will be chosen.

Preparations are in full progress for the Centennial celebration in September, the 100th Anniversary of the founding of this church. Much interest is shown and we are looking forward to a time of blessing. One hundred years, a long time and yet how short! It will be most interesting to review what has been wrought during this time. As a church we can truly say, "Hitherto the Lord hath helped us." May we keep true to Him.—Martha Gilliom, Corr.

In Memoriam

FRANK M. CLYMER—The death of brother Frank M. Clymer came after several months of indisposed feeling and a growing weakness. A few weeks before his death, Brother Clymer knew that his end was near, and greatly appreciated the numerous friends who came to see him that he might bid them farewell. He had a beautiful faith which enabled him to look forward to his passing with a calm Christian fortitude.

Frank M. Clymer at his death was aged 75 years, 2 months and 7 days. The funeral service was held in our church on Sunday March 20th. All the former living pastors of this church, besides the present pastor, assisted at the funeral. Rev. A. M. Fretz, Rev. Reed Landes, Rev. G T Soldner. Interment was made at the Hillside Cemetery.

MARY SCHUMACHER SHANK was born July 26, 1879, at Bluffton, Ohio, and departed this life, May 17, 1938, at Lomita, California. On Nov. 15, 1903, she was united in holy matrimony with David C. Shank, also of Bluffton, Ohio. To this union were born two children, Oliver J. Shank and Mrs. Alice Stuckey, both of Van Nuys, California. On Oct. 1st, 1916, Mr. and Mrs. Shank located in California as their future home, living at Parlier, Van Nuys and Lomita. Lomita was their home at the time of Mrs. Shank's death. Mrs. Shank was a devoted Christian, a true and loving wife and mother. She leaves to mourn her passing, her husband, a son and a daughter, two grandchildren, two step-daughters, eight step-grandchildren, four brothers, three sisters. After funeral services in California, her husband brought her body to Pandora, Ohio, for burial, where funeral services were held at the Grace church, May 23, 1938, by Rev. Paul E. Whitmer, Rev. A. C. Steiner and Rev. Grabill.

RUTH ELIZABETH AUGSPURGER—daughter of the late Edward J. and Julia Kinsinger Augspurger, born December 22, 1911, died May 17, 1938, at her home near Hamilton, Ohio, after a lingering illness during which time she was ever patient and hopeful. Her pastor, Rev. J. E. Amstutz, assisted by Rev. Fiers of the Church of Christ, Hamilton, Ohio, conducted the services at a Funeral Home in Hamilton. Interment in The Mennonite Cemetery, Trenton, Ohio. She is survived by her mother, sister, and three brothers.

MRS. LOUISE FREDERIKA PENNER, NEE WIEBE, was born July 15, 1863, at Marienburg, Germany. Her training and education she received in the school of higher learning for women at Marienburg. The influence of a Christian home, together with instruction in God's Word in school and church, caused her to make a decision for Christ her Savior. And on June 18, 1879, she was baptized upon confession of her faith by Elder David Hamm, and received into the membership of the Mennonite church.

In 1885 she immigrated to America with her parents. Beatrice, Nebr., became the home of the family. On April 27, 1899, she was married to her bebereaved husband, Henry Penner. The couple then farmed until 1917, when they moved to town. Their wedded life was blessed with two children, a son and a daughter. These with their families keenly feel the loss of their beloved mother and grandmother.

In January she went to Florida, to spend the winter in a mild climate. Just started on her homeward journey, she suddenly became ill, and was taken to an hospital at Nashville, Tenn. There, on April 23, she was called to the homeland. She leaves to mourn her loss, her sorrow-stricken husband, the son and daughter, a son-in-law, a daughter-in-law, one brother, two sisters, and many other relatives and friends. She attained the age of 74 years, 9 months, and 8 days. To those who knew her best, the life she lived among them will long be a blessed memory. —Isaiah 35:10.

GLORIA DAWN, the daughter of Jacob Jr. and Linda Schrag Preheim, was born on August 7th, 1936, at the farm home near Marion, S. D., and died April 11, 1938, having reached the age of 1 year, 8 months and 4 days. Soon after her birth a physical defect became noticeable which proved to be a hindrance to the normal development of the child. Medical aid was immediately sought for her, specialists at Sioux Falls, S. D., and also at Rochester, Minn., were consulted where her ailment was diagnosed as Hydrocephalic head, (Water head) a condition for which humanly speaking there is no cure. Gloria apparently gained in weight until she reached the age of 8 months, after which she gradually lost strength and vitality, until God in his infinite wisdom and love saw fit to relieve her of all suffering, when she quietly passed away Monday afternoon. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 oclock in the (South) Salem Mennonite church. The services were conducted by Rev. Alfred P. Waltner and Rev. Albert Claassen. Interment in the church cemetery.

MARY FREED—Death came to Miss Mary Freed after about two months of illness at the Eastern Mennonite Home, Souderton, Pa. Miss Freed was always of a cheerful disposition even throughout her illness. She enjoyed coming to the church services until her faculty of hearing became so badly impaired that she could practically hear nothing of the service.

Sister Freed died March 31st, 1938, aged 80 years and 2 months. She was survived by one sister and three brothers. Interment was made at the Salford Mennonite Cemetery.

—Rev. J. W. Regier of Los Angeles, Calif. visits relatives and friends in Kansas.—Among others the editor was recently honored with a visit by Rev. J. W. Regier, formerly co-pastor of the Zion Mennonite Church at Elbing, Kans., also member and president of the Bethel College Board of Directors, and now living in retirement with his children, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Richert, at 6157 Springvale Drive, Los Angeles, Calif. Rev. Regier and daughter came here to see their granddaughter and daughter Louise Richert graduate from Bethel College. Fittingly relatives and friends honored Rev. Regier by celebrating his 89th birthday during his visit here.

—THE REV. C. H. SUCKAU HONORED.—This is the season of the year when it is customary for colleges and universities to bestow honorary degrees. We are happy to announce that the Rev. C. H. Suckau, Pastor of the First Mennonite Church, Berne, Ind., is to be thus honored, having been invited by the Faculty of Weaton College, Wheaton, Ill., to receive the degree of Doctor of Divinity, on Monday, June 13, during their Commencement Season. On Saturday, June 11, he is to deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the Academy Commencement in this same College.

In the bestowal of this honor upon our Pastor, the Church feels that she, too, has been honored, and we rejoice with the Pastor and his family that he has been thus singled out for this special recognition. May Pastor and People be a blessing to each other.—Martha Gilliom, Corr.

—Bluffton College Professors giving Lectures.—Recently, at the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Goshen, Ind., Prof. N. E. Byers spoke on "Fascism, Communism, and Democracy, and their Relationship to Peace and Brotherhood," and Dr. C. Henry Smith on "Dangers Threatening our Mennonite Peace Heritage." Interesting forums followed the addresses.—On Sunday, May 22, the Bluffton College Gospel Team gave a program at this church.

—Rev. Erland Waltner who recently accepted the call to the pastorate of the Second Mennonite Church at Philadelphia, after graduation from the Biblical Seminary in New York, May 23, immediately left for a tour of Europe. He will assume his new charge in September.

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Pastor of the Mennonite Church, Hanston, Kansas, out in the Dust Bowl, writes: We are getting good rains. Things are looking fine here. There are some very nice wheat fields. Of course, many of them did not make any stand last fall. Spring sowing has come along beautifully and there is a fine promise for good feed crops. Pentecost morning we had communion. Next Sunday we have Children's Day. "The Child in Our Midst," will be the sermon subject. In the evening the union Vacation Bible School closing program will be held at the Baptist Church. We are planning Sunday evening union services on the Methodist Church lawn.

—From Church News, Second Church, Philadelphia.—Those who are not subscribers to The Mennonite miss a lot of news of particular interest to our church and denomination. This weekly publication costs only $1.50. However, new subscriptions are accepted at $1.00 for the first year. Send subscriptions to The Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Indiana.

—The Young People's Retreat of California and possibly other parts of the Pacific District will be held at Lake Sequoia, August 22 to 29. Dr. J. H. Langenwalter will serve as Dean and C. F. Mueller as Camp Director.

—Immanuel Menn. Church, Los Angeles, Calif.—Sunday, June 19, the Lord willing, has definitely been set as the date for the ordination, installation and reception of our new pastor, Brother Wilbert Regier, and the farewell service for the Jantzens. Rev. F. F. Jantzen, Paso Robles, father of Rev. Albert Janzen, will officiate at the ordination. Dr. J. A. Hubbard will bring the ordination sermon in the forenoon. Pray for this service as it is of great importance to the church and to Bro. Regier. The Service Committee is planning the noon meal as there will be an afternoon meeting and also special services in the evening.—A. J. Richert.

—The Institute of International Relations, held at Bethel College, June 7-17, has a larger attendance than the two previous years, about 300 attending the day sessions and double this number the evening sessions. Among those enrolled for the full program are ten Methodist ministers, representing the thirteen districts of their Kansas Conference. They are sent here by the Peace Commission of the M. E. Church, with the plan of using the work done at the Institute as a nucleus for instituting a peace movement in their churches. These ministers and others hold conferences from 2 to 4 each afternoon, to make plans for putting to practical use the service brought by the Institute.

—The Church Needs You.—There is always a tendency in Summer to let down on church attendance, for various reasons.... It is easier to sleep long Sunday mornings than to go to church; perhaps the radio preacher does have a better sermon, and the music on the air might be more elaborate. But, suppose everyone yielded to those inclinations; suppose only the catechism class came to church. Where would our church be? The church needs you. The service is what your presence makes it. The music is how you inspire it. The sermon is a result of the encouragement of your presence. Church is your affair, your business.—Rev. Harold Gross, in "Bethany Messenger."

—The First Menn. Church at Bluffton, Ohio, has chosen Dr. S. K. Mosiman, Prof. E. J. Hirschler and Rev. H. T. Unruh as delegates to the General Conference at Saskatoon, Canada. These with Gerhard Buhler, John Tosh, Mrs. Cal. Steiner and Mrs. B. Smucker will also represent the Church at the Middle District Conference.

—Führer Adolph Hitler to be married? According to confidential reports der Führer is to be married to Leni Reifenstahl sometime in August. The lady of his choice, who won the cinema prize during the recent May Day festivities in Berlin, has been seen with Herr Hitler at public functions occasionally during the past few months.

God's Woman

Blessed one of God's Creation,
Noblest word of Christian Nations;
Highest emblem of the ages,
Sweetest carol of the sages;
So ideal—yet so human:
This describes God's type of woman.

Ever willing to bestow
Help and love where'er she goes,
Building character everywhere
Dropping love-bits here and there.
Gentle, helping, trustful, good—
Virtues of true womanhood.

That she brought sin is very true,
But, she brought the SAVIOUR too! ! !
Blessed, highest privilege, this.
Wondrous thought none can dismiss.
Though she is so very human,
We esteem GOD'S TYPE OF WOMAN.

—Gracelyn Polstra Augsburger

Friendship

Friendship—what a blessed word—
Of which we have so often heard;
It to a higher plane does lift
When we possess this wondrous gift.

Friendship—how broad, how real,
Its very meaning we can feel.
It gives courage, hope, and cheer:
And wipes away the bitter tear.

Friendship—what does it show?
That we have friends who love us so
By gifts and help they do bestow.
Help us their love and sacrifice to know.

Friendship—what value and worth
To all mankind on earth
Of which we can give and also receive
And banish much of sorrow and grief.

—Elizabeth Lingenfelder

To Our Subscribers in Arrears

DEAR FELLOW CHRISTIANS:

We have a report from our business manager to the effect that the subscriptions in arrear on THE MENNONITE, on June 1, amount to $1176.00, almost double the amount of the arrears a year ago. In spite of occasional reminders that the subscription has expired and that it is time to pay up, a good many of our subscribers make no response. They always have the privilege to drop the business office, the Mennonite Book Concern at Berne, Ind., a card with request to stop the paper, or simply to decline to receive it from the carrier or postoffice. Some think that we should stop sending the paper when the subscription expires or when there is no response to a notice to renew it. Many secular papers, perhaps the majority, do that. But it is a little different with a church paper which the Conference wishes to go into every Mennonite home, because it is needed there. And many of our brethren would seriously resent such treatment by our business office. So, unless there comes a definite stop notice, we continue sending the paper, in the faith that our Christian subscribers will pay up in due time, that they will not fail us.

The situation with THE MENNONITE at present is as follows: It has about 2175 subscribers who have either paid or of whom we have reason to believe that they still want the paper. The great majority of this number have nobly paid the paper until January 1939 in advance and have received, as a token of gratitude by the publishers, the 64 page Yearbook. A good many others are credited to January 1938, fewer to a later month of this year. They deserve our sincere thanks.

To all others this S.O.S. is seriously addressed. There are 247 subscribers whose label reads Jan. 1937, or in a few cases a later month in 1937, meaning that their paper is paid only to that date. The price of the paper for renewals, i.e. to old subscribers, is $1.50 or 12½ cents a month. So, when the paper is marked Jan. 1937, it is 17 months, i.e. 17 times 12½ cents or $2.12 in arrear. If this group would exercise Christian charity to pay up and in advance to Jan. 1939, at $3.00 each, the sum would amount to $741.00.

There are 32 subscribers whose label reads Jan. 1936 (in a few cases a later month). On June 1, 1938 they are 29 months or 29 times 12½ cents or $3.62 in arrears. If they would graciously pay ahead to Jan. 1939 at $4.50 (3 times $1.50) the sum would amount to 32 times $4.50 or $144.00.

Thirty-two subscribers are behind since Jan. 1935, just 41 months on June 1, 1938, i.e. 41 times 12½ cents, or $5.12. Paying ahead to Jan. 1937 they would help our business in the amount of 32 times $6.00 or $192.00.

Nineteen subscribers have not paid since Jan. 1934 or thereabouts. On June 1, 1938 they owe 53 times 12½ cents or $6.62. Advancing their payments to Jan. 1939, they would contribute 19 times 7.50 or $142.50. Adding all the above sums we have a total of $1219.50, more than enough to offset the shortage reported by the office, and THE MENNONITE—das Unglueckskind—child of misfortune—since its birth fifty years ago would be out of the red.

Will you, dear readers, not kindly examine the label on your paper, and make us happy by paying your paper at least up to date, so that we can report better things about this paper at the coming conference. You can easily figure the amount in arrear. Count the number of months from date given on label to June 1, 1938, and take that many times 12½ cents.

May we not hope to hear from most of you by July 1 next? Kindly consider paying for your church papers as part of your mission work. For as the missionaries do their work among the heathen and unsaved, so do the papers their bit in teaching the readers of the home land. And kindly remember that a Christian cannot afford to take the church paper for two, three, of four years, and then stop it without paying for it.—The Editor.

"Have ye not read that which was spoken unto you by God." Matt. 22:31.—The Bible is a truly wonderful book. Though a library of 66 books, written by different men at different times, there is admirable unity throughout, for they all center on One Person, our Savior Jesus Christ. The finger prints of God are noticeable on every page of the book. No man would have written the Bible, if he could; no man could have written the Bible, if he would. The riches and mysteries of this book are inexhaustible. It will take eternity to reveal and expound them.

"The Bible is the only Book
On which no human eye can look
And grasp its mysteries;
No matter what you see, there's more,
A boundless and unfathomed store,
Of deep profoundities."

HOME MISSIONS

CHURCH IN SARDIS, BRITISH COLUMBIA

Built in 1931 for $500. Membership 89. Seating capacity 250. The first church and organization of our Conference. The congregation is poor and though still unpainted the church is already too small.

ALBERTA COMMUNITY CHURCH, PORTLAND, OREGON

A. J. Neuenschwander

A few days ago, Rev. S. S. Baumgartner, 3425 S. E. Grant Street, member of the Home Mission Board, in cooperation with Rev. Edmund Miller, pastor, 5520 N. E. 22nd Avenue, made final arrangements for the purchase of the building that has been rented all these years as our Mission. The church is located at 5138 N. E. 23rd Avenue, and is in a fine residential section of the city. Not many years ago the City School Board erected a large school building not far from our church.

The building is a frame structure, 43 x 26 feet, and is located on a lot that has a fine elevation for a basement, and the lot is also large enough to permit enlargement in the future when the need arises. At the present time there is room for about 100 persons.

At the present time the building is heated by a stove and a small room takes off some more space. It is the plan of the congregation to put a basement under the building and put a furnace in the basement as well as make possible the holding of classes in some of the rooms. Other improvements are to be made costing about $250.00 and the group expects to take care of this alone by gifts and volunteer labor. Additional room is needed in view of the growing Sunday school. So far the attendance has been up to sixty-six.

The congregation has enjoyed a fine growth since the Millers are on the field. On Easter Sunday, two more were baptized and received into the fellowship, and five children were consecrated unto the Lord. Forty-seven took part in the observance of Holy Communion.

Earlier workers in this field deserve credit for careful and prayerful sowing of the good seed of the Gospel. Much personal work was done. There has been a time of growth underneath and not seen by men, but the Lord who giveth the increase be praised for the present visible growth. We trust that in years to come, this church might grow and be an effective testimony for the Lord in Portland.

We as a Board earnestly solicit your intercessory prayers for this Home Mission Church as well as other fields in our care.

"Prayer moves the hand which moves the world."

GOD'S POWER TO SAVE WAS NEVER MORE EVIDENT IN CHINA THAN NOW

Hong Kong, China, May 4, 1938

Isaiah 49:12. Truly wonderful is the work being done here in China by God and also through His own: Chinese, missionaries and others. Just last night a Mr. Jackson of the China Inland Mission came from Hankow and reported the marvelous opening up of God's work. High officials are getting deeply interested in God's word. The Religious Tract Society and other such organizations are unable to supply the general, ever increasing demands for Bibles. Marshal Feng Yu Hsiang is coming back to his former spirituality and is donating Bibles to officials. One Chinese gentleman has given $3000 dollars for the purchase and printing of Bibles. Generalissimo Chiang and Madame Chiang spend an hour each day in Bible study. They have read the Bible through and have requested Bishop Roots for a suggestion of a Bible Study Book, which would lead them deeper into their spiritual life. One former communist responsible for the killing of missionaries would not eat a meal in the home of a missionary until he had made confession and received forgiveness for the great wrong he had done the church. And he said, I am changing my idea about Christianity.

Missionaries laboring among the soldiers near the front are reporting that thousands of soldiers, standing in open fields, eagerly listen to the message of Scripture and call for Bibles. Churches are crowded to capacity and many are received into the church. Wounded soldiers, formerly so hostile and rude and unruly, gratefully receive the care and listen appreciatively to the Gospel Message. I have before me a write-up of a radio-message given by Dr. Chester Mieo. When I read it, I was deeply touched and greatly encouraged and thrilled to join again the ranks of those in hard places.

Madame Chiang Kai Shek speaking to the Wuhan Missionary Prayer Meeting on April 6, both for herself and for the Generalissimo, said: "You know how missionaries have succoured the wounded, helped our refugees, faced the bayonets, cannons and bombs, and have stood their ground. The Generalissimo and I feel that no word which we could speak could sufficiently express our debt of gratitude to the missionary body all over China who have been a help to the distressed and the best of friends to the hundreds of thousands of refugees." At the end of the address Madame Chiang announced that, because of the changed attitude of many people who had been suspicious of the Christian faith, the law wound be amended so that the Bible might be taught in registered Christian schools.

The typhoon which raged along the coast has abated. Hongkong was at the edge of it and the ships in the wharves had to go out into the harbor for safety, and so could not load and unload. They came into docks again and we will leave at midnight. We were supposed to leave this morning at daybreak, but on account of the typhoon were delayed.

Kindly announce in the church papers that my address after this will be in care of American Consul, Tientsin until further notice.—With Christian Greetings, Aganetha Fast.

Christian Education

IV. OUR WANDERING SHEEP!

J. D. Unruh

Two valuable reports recently published bring to light very interesting facts. In Christian Education (Oct. 1937) is a report on the religious preferences of students in American Colleges and Universities for the 1936-37 school year. According to the report there were 1,335 Mennonite students. According to the Mennonite Quarterly Review (Jan. 1938) our various Mennonite institutions of collegiate rank had 822 Mennonite students for the same year. Apparently then, there were 513 Mennonite students who attended other than Mennonite schools last year. Or, to put it in another way, our Mennonite Colleges enrolled only about 61 percent of the Mennonite students who were in college last year—39 percent were attending other than Mennonite schools.

Granting that some of these students attended other schools because of proximity and economic reasons, granting too that some were interested primarily in special courses (technical) and for that reason went elsewhere, it does appear that our colleges should have had better than 61 percent of the students.

Upon inquiry the writer learned that during the 1937-1938 school year the following Bible schools reported Mennonite students in attendance: (number in each case follows)

Los Angeles Bible Institute	45
Northwestern Bible Institute	43
Moody Bible Institute	42
St. Paul Bible Institute	7
Total	137

These two sets of figures strikingly testify to the need of greater denominational loyalty in our circles. After all is said and done only on a Mennonite campus can the rich heritage and splendid ideals of our people permeate the atmosphere.

TRUE RELIGION MUST PERMEATE EDUCATION

D. H. Richert

"We may question whether any individual can be rated as truly educated who has not received instruction in the history and literature of religion."

"Modern scientists have discovered that there exists a small quantity of ozone in the air, and in this ozone regulates the ultra-violet light, which in a mysterious way is necessary to the sustenance of our bones. Without this all children would have rickets and human skeletons would crumble. Religion has supplied, and continues to supply a mysterious moral element in human life without which men and women lose their ability to distinguish between right and wrong and to make wise moral choices, thereby becoming morally invertebrate.

It is of paramount importance that there should permeate our whole educational process reverence for and knowledge of religion."

"If not the major consideration, at least one of the prime considerations is the personnel and spirit of the faculty. Are our faculties such as to give assurance to our constituency? Knowledge can only be united to vital piety in personality. No set of by-laws, nor formula of objectives printed in the catalogue, can atone for a teacher whose attitude toward the Church or religion is one of scorn or unconcern, or whose philosophy of life is not in harmony with Christian ethics or the Christian faith. Neither the zeal of the head of a department for a certain type of teacher from a certain institution, nor the fear of associations or agencies should move us to consent either to employ or retain a teacher whose deficiency at this point is known to the campus and the outside world. Without trace of narrowness and bigotry, we should strive to secure men and women on our faculties who will minister to an intelligent Christian faith. The personality and view-point of the teacher is set forth in the words of President Coffman: 'One may teach the multiplication table so that his students be saints or sinners.' "—Christian Education.

—Cloudy days often times cause people to get gloomy, but sunny days bring cheerfulness and joy. Cloudy Christians, or those who never let the joy of salvation radiate to the outside, will never cause the unbeliever to turn to Christ and praise God. We should therefore not keep God's sunshine to ourselves or for our select group, but spread it for tne benefit of men and to the glory of God.—Olin Krehbiel in "Church Messenger."

The Neglected Teaching

5. JESUS AND MONEY

It is a great surprise to many people to learn that Jesus had much to say on the subject of money or property.

Ministers today are often criticized for mentioning money in the pulpit. Yet this was the theme, or in some way entered into the majority of the sermons and addresses of Jesus.

It is asserted that one verse of every six in Matthew, Mark, and Luke is on this subject. Sixteen of Jesus' thirty-eight parables deal with the right or wrong use of money.

If you should take your Bible and place a silver star beside every passage that deals with this theme, you would have a "Milky Way" from Genesis to Revelation, with the galaxy most multitudinous about the "Star of Bethlehem."—John G. Alber.

6. SPIRITUALITY AND MONEY

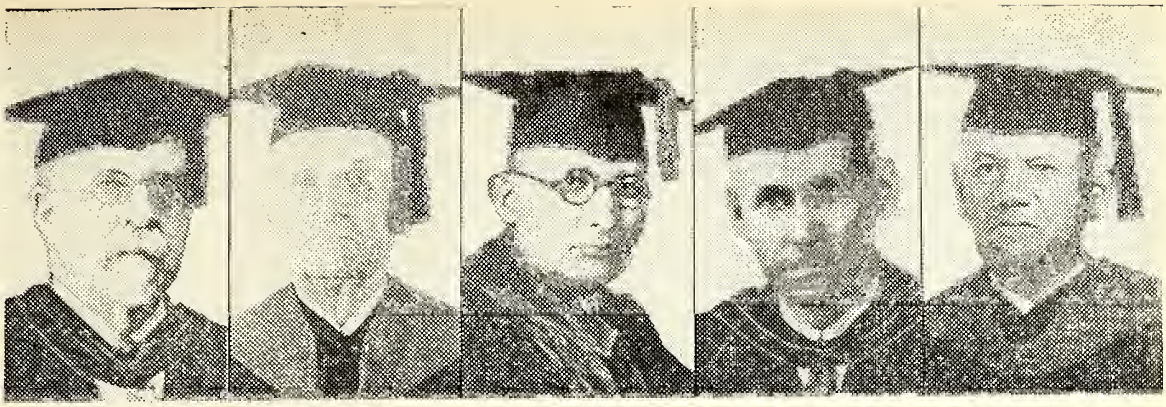
Someone has well said, "The money that belongs by every right to God but is kept back from Him by His people, is probably the greatest hindrance to vital spirituality that there is in the world today."

To cheat a man out of a dollar is to rob him of more than a dollar. It robs him of your friendship. The same principle holds true in our relation with God.

A restaurant man put up a sign, "Meals Cash. We trusted a friend. He failed to pay. We lost both the price of the meal and the friend." God frequently loses not only the amount that is due Him, but the man.

We hear much these days about when the church gets right with God spiritually there will be no trouble about the money. The Scriptures teach that the reverse is true. You cannot get right with God spiritually unless you are right with Him financially. If you don't believe this, try it on your next-door neighbor.—John G. Alber.

"My meat is to do the will of Him that sent me." John 4:34.—What a depth of meaning, what a wealth of suggestions in this statement! It was love that prompted God to send his Son to save the world. It was love for fallen humanity and obedience to the divine will that induced Jesus to offer himself as a sacrifice. Here in a nutshell is expressed the secret of a victorious Christian life. Jesus conquered death, grave, hell, Satan, because He obeyed the Father. Only as we follow in His steps, seek His will, His glory, will our life be a success. If we seek our own will and way, we will likely experience disappointment, sorrow, distress. What a beautiful figure, my meat, my food, my nurture, my thought—daily, hourly, every minute, every heart beat—is to do the will of God. Would not that make a follower of Christ supremely happy?



Here are pictured three Mennonite leaders who, with the Governor of Kansas, received honorary degrees from Bethel College at its commencement, June 2. They are left to right, Rev. Abraham H. Unruh, Winkler, Manitoba; Rev. David Toews, Rosthern, Saskatchewan; (Dr. E. G. Kaufman, president of Bethel College); Hon. Walter A. Huxman, Governor of Kansas; and Rev. Peter H. Richert, Newton, Kansas. The four men were each presented to the president of the College with short citations of their meritorious life. We shall give just brief summaries of these, but quote the presentation paragraph with the name of the person presenting the honorees.—Place: City Auditorium, Newton, Kansas.

Rev. Abraham H. Unruh, Doctor of Divinity. Has devoted his life to the service of the church and God, principally through Christian education. Was for a number of years a prominent leader in the Mennonite schools of southern Russia. In America, since 1925, he is doing a most valuable piece of work as principal and teacher of Pniel Bible School, at Winkler, Manitoba, at great sacrifice. He is editor of the M. B. Sunday school quarterly and president of their conference. "I am very happy to present the Reverend Abraham H. Unruh for the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity . . . a brilliant scholar, a beloved teacher, and a devoted minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ."—Dr. John E. Linscheid.

Rev. David Toews, Doctor of Divinity. Has spent his active life unselfishly serving his fellow-men, as a teacher for some years, as principal and member of the Board of Directors of the German-English Mennonite Academy at Rosthern, Saskatchewan, as pastor of the large Rosenort Mennonite Church since 1902; as secretary and chairman of the Canadian Mennonite General Conference. As chairman of the Canadian Mennonite Board of Colonization, he was the directing head in the huge task of bringing 21,000 persecuted Mennonites from Russia to Canada and in getting them settled there. Since 1924 he is a member of the Home Mission Board. "All the services of this educator, religious leader, organizer and colonizer were motivated by the cardinal virtues of faith, hope and charity. I herewith present the Reverend David Toews for the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity." —Dr. A. P. Friesen.

Governor Walter A. Huxman, Doctor of Laws.—The son of God-fearing, industrious Mennonite parents, immigrants from Russia. Taught school for five years, worked his way through the University of Kansas, became a lawyer, and as such has maintained successful practice in Hutchinson, Kansas, since 1914. Has served his fellow citizens as city and county attorney, and member of the State legislature. In the fall of 1936 he was elected governor of the State, the first man of Mennonite heritage to be thus honored. "As a member of the faculty of a Mennonite college, it is a peculiar honor for me to present . . . a man who has won the esteem of his fellow-citizens as an educator, legal advisor, statesman, citizen, friend—the Honorable Walter A. Huxman, Governor of the State of Kansas, for the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws." —Dr. E. L. Harshbarger.

Reverend Peter H. Richert, Doctor of Divinity. Has devoted his life unsparingly to the Christian ministry and the cause of Christian welfare and education. Was ordained as evangelist in 1886, and since 1898 has been the beloved and successful pastor of the Tabor Church, R.F.D., Newton, Kansas. He has been a rural teacher and for fifteen years instructor in the Bethel Academy; is much in demand as speaker on festive occasions; served as president of the Western District Conference and for many years on the Bethel College Board of Directors, part-time as its chairman. Since 1911 he has been the efficient secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions. Untiring, unselfish devotion to the Lord's work has characterized his whole career. "It is with pleasure that I present the Reverend Peter H. Richert, teacher, pastor, missionary, leader, friend of Christian education for the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity." —Prof. A. E. Kreider.

The Strong Man

Heb. 11:34

A strong man is never so dangerous as he is the day after defeat, and a weak man is never so vulnerable as he is the day after success.

A strong man is usually more dangerous after his death than he was when alive. A strong man never allows defeat to mean defeat. Defeat for a strong man is but an inspiration, an invitation, to undertake again. In fact, the strong man never knows defeat; he knows only PURPOSE, and in one way or another, in life or in death, that purpose will mature.

St. Paul was a stronger man dead than he was alive. The great prophets have all been stronger men since their death than before. John Huss proved more dangerous to the Roman Church in ashes, 500 years ago, and since, than he did in the lecture room in the University of Prague.

Certainly Jesus on the cross was more dangerous to Caesar and the Roman Empire than He could have been preaching in the little synagogue in Nazareth. Jesus outlived Caesar because He first outdied him. St. Paul outlived Nero because he first outdied Nero.

A weak man may succeed, he may make a "hit" today, but his success today means only his downfall tomorrow. But a strong man, meeting defeat today, goes on to victory tomorrow. Men of olden times "out of weakness", through defeat, have been made strong. It is always dangerous to defeat a strong man of God.—J. E. Hartzler, Hartford Seminary.

JOSHUA: A CHOICE OF LOYALTIES

Joshua 1:2-6; 24:14-21

Introduction

Our lessons for this quarter will bring us a series of messages from Israel's early leaders. The aim will be, through a study of the success and failure in the lives of some of these, to find guidance and enrichment for our present-day living and inspiration for a closer walk with God.

God's Promise and Charge vs. 2-6

God is speaking to Joshua, the son of Nun, who was born in Egypt, of the tribe of Ephraim. He had been Moses' right hand man through the wilderness journey and now has been called by God to be his successor. God now commissions him (v2) to lead Israel over the Jordan into the promised land. The death of a great leader is no reason for giving up a great work. God calls another to take his place. The people must now go forward across the Jordan, at the time of our lesson—spring time—overflowing its banks and running along with uncontrolled force. Jordan's waters appeared angry and impossible and only a miracle could enable the people to cross. God spoke, the people must venture. This call to go forward was the best cure for despondent worry.

God's promise (vs3,4) is an almost exact repetition of that given to Abraham and "his seed forever." From the river Euphrates on the far east, to the Mediterranean on the west the land was promised to them. However, because of their sins, shortcomings and lack of faith, the "soles of their feet" never possessed most of it. God makes many promises which we fail to take and possess. This venture demanded courageous faith and God gave His definite promise of constant help.

Joshua's Plea for Loyalty vs. 14, 15

Joshua led the people across the Jordan and drove out the enemies before them. Now before they go to their allotted sections, he calls the tribes to Shechem (24:1,2) and asks them to renew their solemn covenant of loyalty, devotion and faithful service to God. The people must choose between serving God and false gods. Every person has some god and the responsibility of choice rests on each one. Israel must choose for themselves. Joshua chose definitely for himself and his family (v15).

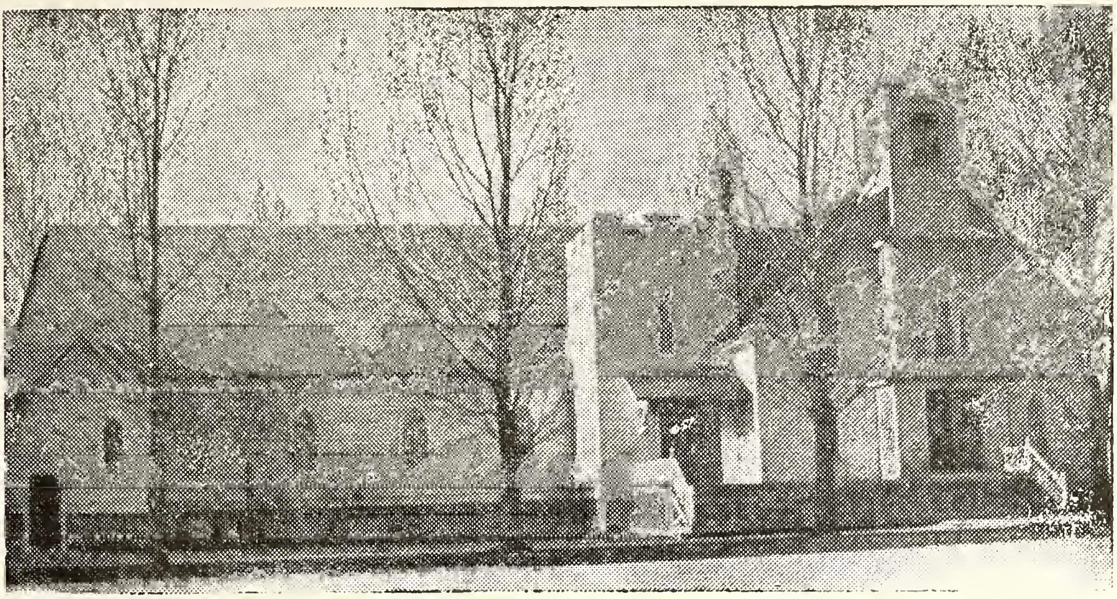
People Declare Loyalty vs. 16-21

Doubtless they were sincere at the time, and they served God, but the next generation began to wander. They acknowledge God's goodness to them (v17, 18) they saw the logic of Joshua's attitude toward God and declared that they "also" would serve Him. The force of Joshua's position is rejected by the many today.

Joshua warns them (vs19,20) for he knew how lightly such an earnest resolve can be made. He demands earnest consideration. Surrounded by outnumbering enemies, they would be severely tested and tempted to sin. God would not protect them if they yielded and then their enemies would destroy them. The holy God will not pass over the unrepented sins of His people. We need to heed the warning of Joshua today, lest we falter in our loyalty to God. Israel, after the deliverance from the bondage in Egypt, lost some of her spiritual loyalty to God. We are in danger of losing much of our faith in God in the over-enjoyment of our freedom. We need a Joshua to keep us from reacting into bondage through unchristian choices.

—Prof. E. J. Hirschler of Bluffton College has been very ill in the Memorial Hospital at Lima, Ohio, while the Middle District Conference where he was to preside as chairman, was in session at Trenton, Ohio. We understand that the good brother's condition is somewhat improved. We hope that the many intercessory prayers by friends may help to restore him to better health.

Dedication of the First Mennonite Church of Aberdeen, Idaho



In the presence of some 600 people this church was dedicated Sunday afternoon, June 5. The rich and very fitting program of addresses was interspersed with splendid music rendered by mixed and ladies' choruses and the church's male quartette. Rev. Edgar Toevs brought the first message, basing his thoughts on "Reasons for Gratitude." Those stressed were: The rich heritage of our forefathers, many of whom have passed to the Great Beyond. This building stands as a memorial to them. The freedom of worship without disturbance and the splendid spirit of unity that prevailed throughout the building of this sanctuary. Rev. P. A. Wedel, pastor of the church, gave the dedicatory sermon on I Kings 9:3-6. The Lord has heard our prayers and supplications. Man can dedicate the house of worship, but God alone can hallow it. To make it a house of God, we must hallow our thoughts and dwell in unity. It must also be a house of prayer, not only to prepare us for eternal life, but for greater service to humanity. There have gone forth from this church: missionaries, pastors, nurses, and superintendents of hospitals. We must come to the altar in faith, where Jesus can be glorified and His cross presented. We must not only dedicate the outer house, but build for a stronger inner church.

The history of the church was read by G. A. Bartel. Some of the main points brought out were as follows: In 1906 the first Sunday School was organized, which met in the different homes, and in 1907 the first church was organized in a school house, with 36 charter members. Rev. Jacob Hege was the first pastor and J. P. Wedel the first deacon, who is still serving in that capacity. In 1910 the First Mennonite Church was built, with Rev. J. B. Baer as pastor, who also dedicated it. The church has now grown to a membership of 320. Then followed three minute talks by John L. Toevs, Supt. H. C. Wiebe and John D. Becker. A fitting climax was the Hallelujah Chorus which was beautifully rendered. After the program the ladies of the church served light refreshments to about five hundred members and guests, in the spacious new basement.

Much of the success and spiritual growth of the church must be attributed to the ever-active and faithful pastor, Rev. P. A. Wedel, who has just completed his second year of service here. May God grant him many more years of useful and joyous service in this large and beautiful house of worship.

VISION

If we could see beyond a present sorrow,
Beyond a present grief, as God can see,
We would be braver, knowing some tomorrow
Will still hold happiness for you and me.

If our blurred eyes could see beyond their weeping,
The sunlit hills that someday we shall climb,
We would be stronger, and we would be keeping
A tryst with Hope through every darkened time.

If we could see beyond a fresh disaster,
The road smoothed out again before our eyes,
We would be calmer, and we would learn faster
The lessons life unfolds to make us wise.

We are so blinded by a moment's grieving,
So hurt by any sorrow, any pain,
That we forget the joys, beyond believing,
The peace that some day will be ours again.

A New German Song Book for the Brethren In Canada

During the past few weeks some of us have received printed lists of "Auswahl und Angabe der Lieder und Strophen fuer das neue, einheitliche Gesangbuch" (Selected List of Songs for the new, unified Songbook). This is the nucleus of a hymnbook which the Mennonite leaders in Canada wish to have published for use in their religious worship. The list comprises the opening lines of 706 hymns and songs. Of these 420 are contained in the "Gesangbuch mit Noten", 369 in the "Russland Gesangbuch," 159 in "dem alten Gesangbuch", 178 in other songbooks.

The desire for such a book was first brought to the attention of the Board of Publication at the conference session in Upland, Calif. through its Canadian member. The Board immediately suggested the use of our "Gesangbuch mit Noten," which has served our churches so well for nearly fifty years, and is still a general favorite with old and young, where worship in German continues.

But the Brother from Canada said, it was not what they wanted. Often the tune was not the accustomed one, or the words and tune not in good harmony, or the choice of stanzas unsatisfactory. Asked what the Canadian brethren really wanted, he replied he hardly knew, for they were not united in their views. Some wanted a book with the poetry only, some preferred one with "Ziffern" (numbers 1 to 8), and still others one with notes. After considerable discussion he was told they should work out a plan for a suitable book and present this to the Board, which would then see what could be done in the matter.

Their Songbook Commission, composed of J. H. Janzen, Benj. Ewert, John P. Classen and David D. Klassen, has now taken the first step. They have made a selection of songs and the list is before the churches for approval, suggestions, or general criticism. Since many of the congregations in Canada do not have a satisfactory book to sing from, they are anxious that action looking toward the publication of the proposed songbook should be pushed.

The book is to have notes. Such a book necessitates much work and considerable expense. The Commission has taken two steps toward the consummation of the project. (1) It has made the selection. (2) It has classified the songs under 37 headings. It will (3) have to proceed with the preparation of a "dummy", i.e. the songs with notes will have to be cut from the books in which they are found, page for page, and arranged in the desired order. When all leaves are placed together, the resulting book is called a "dummy." (4) Next the songs will have to be photographed one by one. And, in order to make size of text and notes uniform, some will first have to be photographically enlarged or diminished. (5) From the photographs, then, the plates will have to be made, and (6) the book printed, bound, etc.

Making musical plates requires painstaking workmanship and is costly, $5.00 or more a plate. With 706 songs—we think this is too many, 500, well chosen, would answer all purpose—the plates for the proposed book would cost in the neighborhood of $3500 to $4000, most of which the Board of Publication would have to borrow. And with such a risk ahead the price of the book would have to be placed pretty close to $2.00. Would the brethren north of the Divide, many of whom are struggling hard to make a living and pay their debts, be able to buy the book at such a price in paying quantities. The brethren on this side would very probably choose to continue using our favorite "Gesangbuch." The sale of the new book would therefore have to be made practically exclusively on the Canadian side.

As ours is the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America, we owe it to the brethren in the northland to help them acquire the means for fostering their worship. The Conference Board of Publication is keenly conscious of that fact. But it hesitates somewhat to make an investment of, say, $4000.00 just for plates and then a couple thousand more for getting the books printed, bound and ready for the market, with no very definite assurance of a timely return of the funds.

Since the "Gesangbuch mit Noten" contains 420 or 70 percent of the songs selected for the new book, perhaps the Canadian churches could be induced to use it, until their situation improves. In that case the Publication Board has even thought of making them a donation of the plates of the Gesangbuch, with the possibility of getting a book just for the price of printing and binding. Of course, since some twenty reprints have been made from these plates, they are somewhat worn. But the last run was still pretty good.

Another possibility would be that they guarantee the purchase of, say, 3000 or more copies of the new book within a reasonable period of time.

The Board of Publication intends to work on this songbook problem seriously, when it meets before and during the coming conference. May God guide its efforts to act wisely and do what it can to assist the brethren in the north in their desire to advance the upbuilding of the Kingdom through song.—T.

—The Mennonite Weekly Review last week brought pictures of its new home and store building, as well as of all of its employees and members of its Board of Directors. It is a good looking, interesting group. The firm employs nineteen workers. Mr. Gerhart Willms is business manager. The new building affords ample and healthy space for all departments of the enterprise, and the book store is particularly well arranged and inviting.

Finals of Oratory Contest

Newton, Kansas, June 6.—The final contest of the Western District Christian Endeavor Oratory was held in the Bethel College Chapel yesterday, June 5, and resulted in expense-paid retreats going to Paul Goering, Harley Stucky, and Edwin Stucky all of Moundridge.

Paul Goering won first place in the Missions section of the contest with an oration entitled "The Decisive Hour of Christian Missions." Harley Stucky won the Peace division with "United for Christ." Edwin Stucky won in Retreat with "The Retreat Spirit in Action."

This was the first year of the "contest" among the Mennonite young people. Anyone was eligible to enter who was a member of any Christian Endeavor organization of the Western District Conference which includes Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas. There are over fifty-five such young people's groups. There were twenty registered entrants coming from these groups. These represented the pick of each society that participated.

Held Regional Eliminations

Two regional eliminations were held, one at Bethel College and the other at Meno, Oklahoma. The winners of these two elminations met on June 5, the day of the Mennonite Song Festival. The Oklahoma entrants in the final contest were Rachel Unruh and Frances Becker. The judges of the contest were Paul Kliewer, Wichita, Mrs. Selma Platt and Dr. J. E. Linscheid, Newton.

Had Varied Program

The young people's choir of the First Mennonite Church sang a double number at the beginning of the program. Mrs. Ferd Voth directed. After the orations were given, Reverend Dyck called on Missionary August Ewert and Rev. Arnold Funk to make brief remarks. Ewert is the missions chairman of the W. D. C. E. convention. Funk is in charge of the Mennonite Young People's Retreat which is again being held at Elmdale, Kansas. It is to this retreat that the winners receive their expenses paid.

Much credit for the success of the first oratory goes to Rev. Walter H. Dyck, president of the Christian endeavor convention, who presided at the final contest, and to William Juhnke who as peace secretary of the convention was in charge of the contest.

Plans are being made to make this oratory an annual event.

A Happy Family Routine

by A Mennonite Mother

Often when entering a home we are impressed with the spirit in that home. But perhaps we do not realize how much routine it takes to build up a spirit like that. Let us not make the mistake and think that the home is the training ground for children only. For it is not. It is also the training ground for parents. If we see a home where the children have safely been guided through the adolescent years we can be sure that it is not only the parents that have done all the training, but the children have helped to train each other, and they have had a good share in training the parents. We can also be sure that in such a home there have been certain habits that have been thoroughly established. Our topic speaks of a Family Routine. We can not have a routine without established habits. We cannot merely say we will have a routine and then have it. It is rather a regular course of action adhered to through force of habit.

There are a number of these family habits, it seems to me, that are essential to a smooth running home. Some would prefer to have rules. But we have never liked rules in our home. We think they spoil the spirit of the home. We think rules belong to other institutions than homes. So we have stressed the idea of habit formnig rather than obeying of rules. There is perhaps no difference in the end, but there is a great difference in the mind of the child while forming a habit or obeying a rule. If disobeying a rule, usually some form of punishment follows. But we have never liked the word punishment either. If a family routine is worked out by hard and fast rules we know that the children will often do or not do certain things in order to avoid punishment, but if it can be worked out through a regular course of action adhered to through force of habit, without making the child feel that he is obeying rules, I think we have a happier situation.

For instance we could say, "Now every time you are not at the breakfast table at ten minutes after seven, you will have to do the dishes alone." But breakfast tastes so much better if we say, "If we can always be at the table at ten minutes after seven, we can all do the dishes together before you have to go to school." Or, if one or the other finds it hard to be on time we could make the rule and say, "Now for every minute that you are late for breakfast you will have to go to bed that many minutes earlier." But we accomplish just as much and keep a happier spirit within the group if I say, "I believe I woke you too late this morning. How many minutes earlier do you want me to wake you so you do not feel rushed in order to get ready for the family breakfast?" It is remarkable how much easier it is for a child to get up when he sets his own time than when a time is dictated to him.

Not everything in a home can be done by routine, and we would not want to have it that way if it could. But a certain amount of it we must have and it has always been our aim to get that certain amount with the least amount of friction possible. It seems to me that ought to be the problem of every parent to work out what will best work out in his family.

Take, for instance, the matter of eating together. How much energy and work is saved for the mother if the family eat together morning, noon and night! To get a family to thoroughly establish that habit is no easy thing. It takes a great deal of patience and time and energy to get to that point. But how much more, endlessly more, patience and time and energy it takes if that part of training is neglected in the habit forming years and then forever after have the meals on the table for an hour or two at a time, never knowing when one or the other will get up, never knowing if this one will want breakfast or that one will not want breakfast, and so try to keep the meal hot, or reheat it or even make fresh for each one.

But that is not the only reason for eating together at regular times—to save time and energy. It seems to me in this busy age we almost have to depend upon meal time for the family to get together. What a splendid opportunity it is to gather around the family table and share our experiences, encourage those who have had discouraging experiences, and rejoice with those of the group who have achievements to relate. How lovely to talk over family secrets and plans.

It is not only regular eating habits that we need, but also regular work habits; we need regular periods of play, regular periods of rest for each individual and periods of quiet for the group. It is not an easy thing to work such plans out and while working at them to keep a happy spirit in the group. A marriage course like you are having where you discuss so many home- and family problems ought to be very helpful indeed. But that will not do at all. That will not be enough. It takes a great deal of studying, a great deal of applied physchology, a great deal of ingenuity. Even that is not enough. It takes a great deal of praying. (To be concluded next week)

Messages from Great Hymns

Psalm 98

Young People's Topic for July 10, 1938

Meditations:

M., July 4. "Faith of our fathers." Rev. 7:9-17.
T., July 5. Reverence, humility: "Holy, holy, holy." Isa. 6:1-8.
W., July 6. A message to the nations. Matt. 28: 19, 20.
T., July 7. Faith: "In heavenly love abiding." Ps. 91:1-10.
F., July 8. Devotion: "O Sacred head now wounded." Matt. 27:29.
S., July 9. Eventide: "Abide with me." Luke 24:29-33.

Christianity constantly draws forth the best that is within mankind. Missionaries have for centuries gone forth to seek and to save. Jane Addams and Muriel Lester have worked with people of the slums to express their devotion to God. Martin Luther dared to defy tenacious religious traditions. Paul spoke persuasively to Jews and to Gentiles. Christ "steadfastly set His face toward Jerusalem."

One of the ways in which Martin Luther demonstrated his theory of personal access to God was in his creation of the church hymn as we know it. Historically he is credited with being the Father of the Evangelical Church-Song. Luther himself is the author of thirty-seven hymns. In addition to writing his own, he translated some from the Latin, and rewrote some of the German songs then in existence. "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" is one of Luther's best-known hymns. The original, of course, is in the German language.

Program Suggestions:

Five persons can be responsible for short talks on each of these five hymns and their author and composer:

"Faith of Our Fathers"—Frederick W. Faber—W. F. Hemy.

"Holy, Holy, Holy"—Reginald Heber—Rev. John B. Dykes.

"In Heavenly Love Abiding"—Anna L. Waring—Felix Mendelssohn.

"O Sacred Head now Wounded" — Bernard of Clairvaux—Hans Leo Hassler; Harm. by J. S. Bach.

"Abide With Me"—H. Y. Lyte—W. H. Monk.

A Suggested outline for these talks:

A. The words of the hymn.

What is the message of the words: Comfort, meditation, praise, consecration, faith, or love?

B. The author of the stanzas.

1. Who was the writer?

2. What had been his Christian experience?

3. What circumstances caused him to write this particular verse?

4. For what purpose did he write the hymn?

C. The tune to which the hymn is usually sung.
  1. Who was the composer?
  2. What is the history of this hymn tune?

D. Unusual situations in which the hymn has been used.

If you find it impossible to find in your library the required information for these hymns, other hymns may be substituted.

After each report on a hymn, a quartet or other musical group may sing the hymn. If desired, the whole congregation can sing part of the verses, the quartet alone singing the others. Conclude the program with a brief discussion of the contributions which hymns have made to the cause of Christianity.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Beauties in Nature

Intermediate C. E. Topic, July 10, 1938

For Daily Study

July 4. The beauty of flowers. Matt. 6:28, 29.
July 5. The beauty of land and sea. Ps. 33:6; 65:9-13.
July 6. The starry sky. Ps. 19:1-6.
July 7. The beauty of light. Ps. 74:16, 17.
July 8. The majesty of God's wisdom. Prov. 8:22-36.
July 9. The beauty of nature's processes. Acts 17:24-29.
July 10. Topic — Discovering beauty in nature. Ps. 8.

First Hand Observation

This is a meeting in which there should be as much first hand contact with nature as possible. The first suggestion is to hold an outdoor meeting in the loveliest spot you know that is within reach. The second is to bring as much of nature into the meeting for observation as possible, rather than merely talking about it. Third, arrange for a meeting to follow this one on a week night at a convenient place, where someone who is a specialist in stars, rocks, flowers or birds will give an illustrated talk on "Appreciating God's Handiwork," or a nature study hike under competent leadership.

Worship Service

After a praise service of appropriate songs and the society announcements the following worship service can be carried out:

Prelude (instrumental) "Holy, Holy, Holy"
Leader:

> "I marvel in the year's swift round
> How new delights are ever found.
> But dearer far than aught I see,
> God's loving presence is to me;
> This makes the world divinely fair
> That he is in it everywhere."

Sing: "This is My Father's World"
Scripture reading: Ps. 8
Special Music: "Consider the Lilies"
Sentence prayers (Giving thanks for the beauties in the world about us)
Talks on the topics for daily reading
Duet: "His Eye Is on the Sparrow"

For the Leader

Someone has said that "all nature is beautiful." It would seem this is true when we look over a field that is gay with wild flowers in the spring. There is no arrangement or color scheme. The lack of it seems to add to the beauty and all colors seem to blend in the natural setting. The same can be said of rocks and boulders, piled up in great disorder. We marvel at the beauty of the sight.

Not all people have the same appreciation of the beauties in nature. Some can look at the overwhelming grandeur of the Grand Canyon and say, "Is that all there is to see?" While another will thrill over a bit of dew on a leaf glistening in the morning sunlight.

Why is it that some people have such a great appreciation for the beauties in nature, while others seem to be entirely lacking in it? How can we train ourselves to see the beauty about us? What does it add to our life?

What must we take to nature that it may mean most to us? How does our knowledge of God and the Bible enrich our surroundings? What did Jesus mean when He said, "Consider the lilies?" Matt. 6:28.

Closing Moments

Let the closing be a meditation service, when all join hands and silently look into the sky, while several poems that speak of the beauty of Our Father's World are read.

Song: "Fairest Lord Jesus." Benediction.

A Poem of Consecration

My God, Thou art a God of strength and beauty;
  Thou art the mighty keeper of the seas;
Thou givest me my life, my faith, my seeing;
  And I, so small—what can I give for these?

Thou givest me the sun, the hills, the rainfall,
  Clear eyes to see the daybreak and the night,
A mind to fathom truth and follow straightly;
  And I, so small—what can I give of might?

And then, as though Thou countest not these blessings,
  Thou sendest Thine own Son to die for me;
And I, so small—O, humbly and with gladness
  I give my all—I give my life to Thee.

GRADUATION OBSERVED

In a joint meeting the Reedley C. E. Societies observed promotion on Sunday evening, June 5 at 5 p. m. After an opening worship service based on the theme, "The Forward Look," the superintendent of the Junior-Intermediate society, Mrs. J. H. Langenwalter presented the graduates from that society. They were welcomed into the Intermediate society by the president, Maxine Mohn, and presented with a copy of the pledge. The graduates of the Intermediate society were then presented and welcomed on behalf of the Young People's Society by Daniel Ewy, the president. They were each given a corsage of spring flowers. The pastor, Rev. Langenwalter, gave a brief closing message. At the conclusion of the graduation service a fellowship supper was enjoyed, after which the High School graduates proceeded to the Baccalaureate service.

JUNIOR CORNER

The Mennonite Junior's Past

Program Suggestions for July 10, 1938

Quiet Music

Call to Service: Group rise and sing "The Lord is in His holy temple." Then let a junior speak:

"God is in His holy temple;
Earthly thoughts be silent now,
While with reverence we assemble
And before His presence bow. Amen."

Opening Service

1. Five minute song service in charge of chairman asking for favorites
2. Scripture reading: a junior reading Heb. 11:8-10; Heb. 11:13-16; Heb. 13:14
3. Special music: "I am a Pilgrim Here within a Foreign Land"
4. Leader's prayer of thanksgiving that God wants us to become citizens of His heavenly kingdom

Study Period: Aim, to introduce the child to the past history of its people and to instill within its heart a love and loyalty to the same.

1. The Mennonite Junior's Past: a guest speaker could be asked in for this evening picturing our past
   a. its wanderings
   b. its persecutions
   c. its belief
   d. its status
   e. its institutions
2. Prayer by guest speaker thanking for God's nearness in our past and asking for His nearness now to make us into loyal witnesses for Him
3. Sing in unison the hymn of the month, "The Church's One Foundation"
4. Repeat in unison verse of the month, "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith." Heb. 12:1,2
5. Mission minutes: This can be linked to above study in "How we are trying to serve God"
6. Announcements in regard to the conference projects
7. Sing in unison: "Faith of Our Fathers"
8. Closing prayer

ANOTHER PENNY PROJECT

For our conference "surprise fund." It can't be much that our groups send to help in the expense, but in the ages past there was a widow's mite upon which Christ spoke his benediction. May these pennies that we send merit the same favor in the eyes of the Lord and become an inspiration to the leaders of our conference. Can we make each penny a representative of much prayer? What a blessing they can then be!

Last time it was a peck of potatoes. Perhaps you have had orders to repeat it, because other mothers wanted a peck also. Could we try the DOING-WITHOUT-PLAN this week? Each one bringing a penny to the meeting, because there was a stick of gum less or a drumstick or a sucker. Perhaps one or the other would forfeit a swim and there would be five or ten pennies more.

I would suggest that you leave all pennies in penny form. They could be gathered in a little sack from week to week and, when the time comes to leave for the conference, you could put the little sack of pennies in the care of someone that is going and ask them to deliver the same to our conference treasurer.

CORRESPONDENCE

SECOND CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBRASKA

Last Sunday we had very dear guests. They were here for the promotion of the Bethel College program. In the forenoon Brother Willis Rich spoke to the young folks and also to the old. In the afternoon we had our Sunday school picnic in Chautauqua Park. The weather was fine and everybody could enjoy himself in a social way, also in God's glorious nature. The prospects for a good wheat crop are good. We will leave it all to our heavenly Father. He does all things well, according to our needs.

In love and friendship, John Wiebe.

Wichita Mission Church Invites You

The Lorraine Ave. Mennonite Church of Wichita invites you to become more acquainted with your mission. Many have expressed the desire to visit the church, others wish to see the relief work we are doing, while still others have enjoyed the homecoming last November and have asked that we again have a similar event. The church is located 30 blocks east of Broadway and 7 blocks south of Douglas.

The date for this event is Sunday the 26th of June. The committee wishes to announce the following program for the day:

9:45 Sunday School
11:00 Morning Worship with messages from the pastor and a guest minister
12:30 Basket dinner in the church basement
1:30 Tour through the needy area
3:00 Early vesper service with Mr. J. N. Smucker, pastor of the Bethel College Church, bringing the message
5:30 Basket supper in the church basement
7:30 Musical program by the Men's Gospel Chorus of the Alexanderwohl Church

You are cordially invited to become acquainted with your mission station in Wichita and the work it is doing.

In behalf of the Committee,
Edward D. Schmidt, Pastor

PORTLAND MISSION ACQUIRES CHURCH BUILDING

For ten years the congregation of the Alberta Community Church has been worshipping in a rented building. Not only has it needed major repairs, but also remodeling, as the Sunday School has outgrown its quarters, making more room a necessity. Yet nothing could be done towards improvement while it remained the property of another church group. (Norwegian Congregational)

So it is with great rejoicing in answered prayer that we announce the Home Mission Board's purchase of the building for $650, the amount of a mortgage on it, making it the property of the General Conference.

Now our members wish to make the needed improvements, and at a special meeting for making plans as to procedure, each one pledged his whole-hearted support to the project. It will take willing hearts, willing hands, and willing pocket books, but we believe that if we do our part, the Lord will undertake for us.

To make the necessary repairs and improvements, about $600 is required. Since we have a contractor, carpenters, painters, cement workers and electricians included in our membership, most of the labor will be donated. The cost of $600 is small, but to our little group it seems quite a bit. Yet in faith we venture out, knowing that the Lord has been blessing in a wonderful way and believing He will continue to do so, supplying all our needs according to his promise.

We request the prayers of all who are mission-minded. Many can help in this way though unable to contribute materially. For additional information, or contributions, write to the church treasurer, Rev. S. S. Baumgartner, 3425 S. E. Grant St. or to the pastor, Rev. Edmund Miller, 5520 N. E. 22nd Ave., Portland, Oregon.—Christine Miller, Corr.

SERMON SKETCH

Mother's Day Sermon preached by Rev. P. K. Regier
Text—Proverbs 22:28

1. A landmark is a starting point, from which all other measurements are taken.

a) Remove a landmark, and you tend to destroy the basis of the age old standards and values which have proven their worth throughout the experiences of men.

b) Removing landmarks causes confusion: the world is in a state of confusion today, and no one seems to know the way out.

2. Some of the landmarks essential to human welfare are:

a) Parental authority
b) The Bible as the bulwark of the Christian home
c) The family altar

A perfumer bought a common earthen jar and filled it with the attar of roses. Soon every particle of the substance of the jar was filled with the rich perfume, and long afterwards, even when broken, the pieces retained the fragrance.

So it is that the human life becomes saturated with the Word of God, if daily a few moments are given to its meditation.

The thoughts, the feelings, the affections, indeed, the whole character is affected by the influence of the Bible, and the spirit of the Scriptures.

And today, especially in the light of the meaning of Mother's Day, we say, "A mother's memory filled with God's promises; a mother's life ordered according to God's Word; a mother's lips telling the story of the Savior's love: could anything be more beautiful?"

Mother's Day is at once an opportunity to pay our loving tribute to our mothers and what they mean to us. But it is also a challenge to preserve the old landmarks which have stood for centuries as the bulwark and security of those values which are essential to human welfare.

—The Kansas Institute of International Relations which held forth at Bethel College from June 7 to 17 was well attended and the general opinion seems to be that it was better than its two forerunners.

In Memoriam

MRS. D. B. NEUFELDT, NEE SARA H. BALZER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Balzer, was born Feb. 26, 1887, at the home of her parents near Inman, Kansas. She was baptized August 28, 1904, upon her confession of faith in Christ and was taken in as a member of the Hebron Church by Elder Bernhard Buhler.

Almost a year later, Aug. 9, 1905, she was married to Dietrich B. Neufeldt and they made their home on the farm six miles east of Inman. There they spent the 33 happy years of their married life. To this union were born two children, Hilda Gertrude, now Mrs. Louis Janzen of Elbing, Kansas, and Marvin Jacob of the home.

Mrs. Neufeldt had been suffering more or less the past 28 years. During this time she underwent four operations and doctored much, but with little success. In spite of her suffering she enjoyed caring for flowers, visiting the sick and the needy as much as her strength permitted. Many times these friends called and often left with some useful gift from Mrs. Neufeldt.

The past weeks she had not been well, and at 9:30 p.m., May 26, she became seriously sick. A doctor and nurse were summoned to help; but Mrs. Neufeldt passed from this life into her eternal home Friday evening at 4:00, May 27, 1938. She reached the age of 51 years, 2 months, and 29 days. The deceased leaves to mourn her departure: her bereaved husband, her mother, two brothers and one sister, a son, a daughter and two grandchildren, as well as many friends and relatives.

Funeral services were conducted at the Hebron Mennonite Church by Rev. T. A. van der Smissen, the pastor, and Rev. H. J. Dyck of the Zion Mennonite Church at Elbing.

* * *

JOYCE MAE DIETZ, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Dietz, passed away in a Philadelphia hospital on May 14, 1938, after a short illness. She was born Jan. 19, 1938. Short services were held at the home of her parents, with further services at the Great Swamp Reformed Church, Spinnertown. Rev. Rupp, the pastor, officiated.

* * *

CLARISSA PATTERSON, of Quakertown, R. D. 2, died in the Quakertown Community Hospital early Thursday morning. She had been admitted as a medical patient April 7. She was aged 79 years.

Born in Ontario, Canada, she was a daughter of William and Sarah (Arnold) Patterson. For many years she was a school teacher and was pensioned some time ago. She is survived by a brother, Fred Patterson, with whom she was living.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 p. m. from the East Swamp Mennonite Church. The Rev. Peter J. Boehr, of Richlandtown officiated. Burial was in the cemetery at Black Water Junction, Canada, according to her wish.

* * *

MRS. ELIZABETH JOHNSON, Perkasie, Pa. died March 30, 1938, aged 40 years. Member of the Lutheran church. Funeral services on April 2nd. Rev. Ritter, her pastor, spoke in English; Rev. A. M. Fretz in German on Phil. 1:21, 23.

* * *

MRS. MARY LEATHERMAN NEE GEHMAN, Quakertown, Pa., widow of Jonas G. Leatherman, died May 13th, 1938, aged 76 years, 1 month, 9 days, at Springfield, where she was a member. Her pastor A. M. Fretz spoke on the words in Phil. 1:6; Isa. 2:30; Matt. 24:44.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—The Committee on the Revision of the Mennonite Hymn Book has brought its work to a close temporarily. For six days they worked hard, forenoon, afternoon and evening; first to determine what songs should be eliminated from the book and, secondly, to select substitutes for these and make other needed changes and additions. They now have listed and properly classified about 550 songs. This list is to be mimeographed, checked up to the Board of Publication, and then presented to the coming conference, with the Committee's and Board's suggestions and recommendations. That done, there is still time for suggestions, criticisms, etc. by leaders and others. Then, in the fall, the Committee plans to meet again for giving the book its final attention. About 140 songs have been eliminated from the Hymn Book. The plates of those left can be used again. So only about 125 new plates would be necessary, making the cost of the revision bearable.

—Saskatoon, a city of about 42,000 population, in the Province of Saskatchewan, Canada, where the coming Conference will be held, is located about 540 miles north west of Winnipeg, the metropolis of Western Canada. Saskatoon has placed its spacious buildings on the Exhibition Grounds, with their accommodations, at the disposal of the Conference. Never, during the seventy-eight years of its existence, has the conference been held among our brethern in Canada. Since this visit among them should serve to strengthen the tie of brotherhood and since the occasion is so rare and holds so much that is worthwhile in store, many from the states should make a strenuous effort to attend, even though the round trip from such distances as Philadelphia, Pa., will cost $141.85, sleeper included. It will be a life-time experience.

—VOICES PERTAINING TO THE REVISION OF THE SONG BOOK:—"How can we understand the foreign titles or tunes of the book, if we don't have the learning. Why not have the English titles, with enough old time hymns to arouse our emotions once in a while. And if some songs are too fast for some people, I would say they must be weak Christians if they cannot control their feet."—A young Mennonite mother, Columbus Grove, Ohio. . . . "Here is my vote of endorsement of Bro. E. W. Baumgartner's article regarding our hymn book."—D. D. Eitzen. . . . "I was much interested in the two articles in a recent MENNONITE, by the brethren Baumgartner and Hostetler. I urged our people to read them carefully. There is much food for thought in both of them. I think B. says some exceptionally fine things about the type of hymns we should use in our churches. I believe that it is still true that deep streams flow rather quietly and that roaring streams are usually quite shallow. I rather suspect that applies quite well to evangelistic and revival preachers and singers. I believe more articles on the order of these two would be helpful on the problem of the Mennonite Hymnal. I do not know if there be any hymn bok anywhere that is not open to some criticism. I doubt if any of our churches are using one that is entirely satisfactory. I wonder at times, if our people are not possibly a bit too critical of that which is the product of our Mennonite communities."—A. S. Bechtel. . . . "The postman has brought THE MENNONITE of June 7. Be sure and read what it says about our new Hymn Book."—Olin Krehbiel.

—Systematic Giving.—Systematic giving is giving according to method instead of from impulse. Our circumstances will determine whether this is to be done weekly, monthly or quarterly. In any event let us have an account or fund, separated for God's use. If your bookkeeper should put money in your cash drawer only when he felt like it, your treasury would get very low. So does God's treasury. If your cook made no provision for your meals and served them only when she happened to think of it, you would soon starve. That is what the people do who depend on careless givers for the bread of life.—J. E. Kaufman in "The Church Visitor."

—Grace Mennonite Church, Lansdale, Pa.—On Pentecost twelve young people were baptized and received into the church.—One of the reasons why the Eastern District Conference proved to be such a blessing was because of the prayers that ascended up. Why should not the people at home pray for the coming General Conference, even if it is held far off in Canada.—The Ladies' Aid Society contributed $60 toward the church building debt and the Married People's Class $50.

—Bluffton College had its graduation exercises last week. C. L. Anspach, president of Ashland College, delivered the commencement address, upon the subject, Privileges and Responsibilities, and President A. S. Rosenberger preached the baccalaureate sermon on the theme, The Mind of Christ. On "Bluffton Day," June 13, there were class reunions, Senior Class Day exercises, and the coronation of Bluffton's queen, Miss Emma Detweiler; a concert by the College orchestra, and the rendition of the Thespian play, "Garden of the Moons."

—Rev. A. R. Keiser of the Salem Church, Dalton, Ohio, honored.—A newspaper clipping brings the information that a largely attended farewell service for the departing minister Rev. A. R. Keiser and family was held Sunday evening, June 12, at the church. A sumptuous picnic supper was served at 6:30 p.m., followed by a rich program. It opened with a congregational "hymn sing" which the church indulges in and greatly enjoys on some Sunday evenings. Following this was devotion led by Hiram Sommer, then the main address of the evening by Bro. D. W. Bixler of Bluffton, a former resident of the community, and another address by Rev. William Stauffer, pastor of the neighbor church at Sugar Creek, Ohio. As a token of good will and appreciation of their services, Ivan Badertscher then presented to the Keisers, on behalf of the church, a floor lamp and a study lamp. Rev. Keiser expressed his gratitude for this and the loyalty with which the members had supported his work.—Following are some of the results of Rev. Keiser's endeavors during the nearly 15 years of service in the church as stated in the paper: Seventy children were consecrated; 48 couples married, none of whose bonds were dissolved by courts; 65 funeral sermons preached; 100 admitted to the church through baptism and many others by letter; hundreds of sermons delivered; midweek inspirational services conducted; special study and training classes successfully carried out; the church building remodeled, etc.

—Lately too Dry now too Wet.—In Kansas and Oklahoma, the homes of many Mennonites, the dry weather of the past few years has now given place to much rainy weather. Rains measuring two to three inches are rather frequent, and the ground is so soft that the farmers cannot get into the fields to harvest their over-ripe wheat. It is a bit like some one has said, Kansas (Oklahoma) is like a good milk cow that gives a bucket full of milk and then kicks it over. It is comforting, however, to remember that God is behind nature and he knows what is best for us.

CHRISTIANS HAVE CAUSE TO SING.—Singing and making melody in your hearts to the Lord."—Eph. 5:19. If anybody has reason or an urge to sing, it is the Christian. His life should be a song-filled life. God's word all through its pages invites, encourages, exhorts people to sing. The children of Israel sang much. They were a musical people, their music reaching its golden age in the time of King David. We are told that the angels and the saints surrounding the throne of God continually sing praises and hallelujahs to Him who has redeemed us. Christianity has produced the greatest, most genuine oratorios, which will continue to grip the hearts of men in all times to come, and which give us a foretaste of the music of heaven. A songless Christian is almost an impossibility. A real child of God is happy and feels impelled, one way or another, to give expression to his feelings. Unconsciously he practices to take his place in the great oratorios in heaven, some day. His heart finds its echo in sentiments like these, "O sing unto the Lord a new song; for he has done marvelous things," Psalm 98.1.—"O come let us sing unto the Lord: let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation. Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms." In the following we have a picture of the part that music played in the "sanctuary" in the time of David: "Praise God in his sanctuary—in the firmament of his power—for his mighty acts—according to his excellent greatness. Praise him with trumpets—with psaltry and harp—with timbrel and dance—with stringed instruments and organs. Praise him upon the loud cymbals, upon the high sounding cymbals. Let everything that has breath praise the Lord."—Psalm 150:1-6.—T.

God's Woman

Blessed one of God's Creation,
Noblest word of Christian Nations;
Highest emblem of the ages,
Sweetest carol of the sages;
So ideal—yet so human:
This describes God's type of woman.

Ever willing to bestow
Help and love where'er she goes,
Building character everywhere
Dropping love-bits here and there.
Gentle, helping, trustful, good—
Virtues of true womanhood.

That she brought sin is very true,
But, she brought the SAVIOUR too! ! !
Blessed, highest privilege, this.
Wondrous thought none can dismiss.
Though she is so very human,
We esteem GOD'S TYPE OF WOMAN.

—Gracelyn Polstra Augsburger

Friendship

Friendship—what a blessed word—
Of which we have so often heard;
It to a higher plane does lift
When we possess this wondrous gift.

Friendship—how broad, how real,
Its very meaning we can feel.
It gives courage, hope, and cheer:
And wipes away the bitter tear.

Friendship—what does it show?
That we have friends who love us so
By gifts and help they do bestow.
Help us their love and sacrifice to know.

Friendship—what value and worth
To all mankind on earth
Of which we can give and also receive
And banish much of sorrow and grief.

—Elizabeth Lingenfelder

To Our Subscribers in Arrears

DEAR FELLOW CHRISTIANS:

We have a report from our business manager to the effect that the subscriptions in arrear on THE MENNONITE, on June 1, amount to $1176.00, almost double the amount of the arrears a year ago. In spite of occasional reminders that the subscription has expired and that it is time to pay up, a good many of our subscribers make no response. They always have the privilege to drop the business office, the Mennonite Book Concern at Berne, Ind., a card with request to stop the paper, or simply to decline to receive it from the carrier or postoffice. Some think that we should stop sending the paper when the subscription expires or when there is no response to a notice to renew it. Many secular papers, perhaps the majority, do that. But it is a little different with a church paper which the Conference wishes to go into every Mennonite home, because it is needed there. And many of our brethren would seriously resent such treatment by our business office. So, unless there comes a definite stop notice, we continue sending the paper, in the faith that our Christian subscribers will pay up in due time, that they will not fail us.

The situation with THE MENNONITE at present is as follows: It has about 2175 subscribers who have either paid or of whom we have reason to believe that they still want the paper. The great majority of this number have nobly paid the paper until January 1939 in advance and have received, as a token of gratitude by the publishers, the 64 page Yearbook. A good many others are credited to January 1938, fewer to a later month of this year. They deserve our sincere thanks.

To all others this S.O.S. is seriously addressed. There are 247 subscribers whose label reads Jan. 1937, or in a few cases a later month in 1937, meaning that their paper is paid only to that date. The price of the paper for renewals, i.e. to old subscribers, is $1.50 or 12½ cents a month. So, when the paper is marked Jan. 1937, it is 17 months, i.e. 17 times 12½ cents or $2.12 in arrear. If this group would exercise Christian charity to pay up and in advance to Jan. 1939, at $3.00 each, the sum would amount to $741.00.

There are 32 subscribers whose label reads Jan. 1936 (in a few cases a later month). On June 1, 1938 they are 29 months or 29 times 12½ cents or $3.62 in arrears. If they would graciously pay ahead to Jan. 1939 at $4.50 (3 times $1.50) the sum would amount to 32 times $4.50 or $144.00.

Thirty-two subscribers are behind since Jan. 1935, just 41 months on June 1, 1938, i.e. 41 times 12½ cents, or $5.12. Paying ahead to Jan. 1937 they would help our business in the amount of 32 times $6.00 or $192.00.

Nineteen subscribers have not paid since Jan. 1934 or thereabouts. On June 1, 1938 they owe 53 times 12½ cents or $6.62. Advancing their payments to Jan. 1939, they would contribute 19 times 7.50 or $142.50. Adding all the above sums we have a total of $1219.50, more than enough to offset the shortage reported by the office, and THE MENNONITE—das Unglueckskind—child of misfortune—since its birth fifty years ago would be out of the red.

Will you, dear readers, not kindly examine the label on your paper, and make us happy by paying your paper at least up to date, so that we can report better things about this paper at the coming conference. You can easily figure the amount in arrear. Count the number of months from date given on label to June 1, 1938, and take that many times 12½ cents.

May we not hope to hear from most of you by July 1 next? Kindly consider paying for your church papers as part of your mission work. For as the missionaries do their work among the heathen and unsaved, so do the papers their bit in teaching the readers of the home land. And kindly remember that a Christian cannot afford to take the church paper for two, three, of four years, and then stop it without paying for it.—The Editor.

"Have ye not read that which was spoken unto you by God." Matt. 22:31.—The Bible is a truly wonderful book. Though a library of 66 books, written by different men at different times, there is admirable unity throughout, for they all center on One Person, our Savior Jesus Christ. The finger prints of God are noticeable on every page of the book. No man would have written the Bible, if he could; no man could have written the Bible, if he would. The riches and mysteries of this book are inexhaustible. It will take eternity to reveal and expound them.

"The Bible is the only Book
On which no human eye can look
And grasp its mysteries;
No matter what you see, there's more,
A boundless and unfathomed store,
Of deep profoundities."

HOME MISSIONS

CHURCH IN SARDIS, BRITISH COLUMBIA

Built in 1931 for $500. Membership 89. Seating capacity 250. The first church and organization of our Conference. The congregation is poor and though still unpainted the church is already too small.

ALBERTA COMMUNITY CHURCH, PORTLAND, OREGON

A. J. Neuenschwander

A few days ago, Rev. S. S. Baumgartner, 3425 S. E. Grant Street, member of the Home Mission Board, in cooperation with Rev. Edmund Miller, pastor, 5520 N. E. 22nd Avenue, made final arrangements for the purchase of the building that has been rented all these years as our Mission. The church is located at 5138 N. E. 23rd Avenue, and is in a fine residential section of the city. Not many years ago the City School Board erected a large school building not far from our church.

The building is a frame structure, 43 x 26 feet, and is located on a lot that has a fine elevation for a basement, and the lot is also large enough to permit enlargement in the future when the need arises. At the present time there is room for about 100 persons.

At the present time the building is heated by a stove and a small room takes off some more space. It is the plan of the congregation to put a basement under the building and put a furnace in the basement as well as make possible the holding of classes in some of the rooms. Other improvements are to be made costing about $250.00 and the group expects to take care of this alone by gifts and volunteer labor. Additional room is needed in view of the growing Sunday school. So far the attendance has been up to sixty-six.

The congregation has enjoyed a fine growth since the Millers are on the field. On Easter Sunday, two more were baptized and received into the fellowship, and five children were consecrated unto the Lord. Forty-seven took part in the observance of Holy Communion.

Earlier workers in this field deserve credit for careful and prayerful sowing of the good seed of the Gospel. Much personal work was done. There has been a time of growth underneath and not seen by men, but the Lord who giveth the increase be praised for the present visible growth. We trust that in years to come, this church might grow and be an effective testimony for the Lord in Portland.

We as a Board earnestly solicit your intercessory prayers for this Home Mission Church as well as other fields in our care.

"Prayer moves the hand which moves the world."
